> And, with those changes will come creeps.

Sounds pretty judgemental, Kim. Don't let KE8HH see that!

I think people's behavior can be greatly influenced by their environment. The approval or disapproval of others is part of that environment.
>
> > The FCC philosophy of testing is really all about solving demonstrated > > troubles. The old tests were full of stuff about how to radiate a clean > signal > > and keep it in the bands because that was what hams had the most trouble > doing
> > back then.
> >
> > I have some old License Manuals, and the study guides for a General class > > license contain all sorts of stuff about harmonic filters, crystal > tolerances, > > frequency meter use, where the band edges were, etc. But not a word on > > antennas!
> >
> > >> >If a "construction" project of some sort were to be brought into the > testing
> > >> >arena, it at least proves that the ham is aware of FCC specifications, > > >> >rules, regulations, and guidelines.
> > >>
> > >> How?
> > >

> > >Because the pass/fail score would be based on if the transmitting is > within > > >regulatory constraints; if the test provides for the building of an > antenna > > >that will transmit cleanly between a couple of bands--then the design > would > > >have to based on things like will a tuner be used, will it be a > long-wire, > > >inverted, etc. Not only would the project have to be built, it would > have > > >to be explained why it would work.
> >
> > And the pass-fail would be a subjective decision by the VEs. Plus all of > the > > other problems listed above.
>
> I still think that's OK.

The FCC doesn't, though. That's the problem.

> I remember testing up in Gainesville, TX, before > the restructuring was over. I tried for my CW test for General class > license. Now, mind you--I'd not studied a bit. What my intention was was > just to see if I "happened" to pass the CW by guessing the answers. The VE > walked up to me with a piece of paper and pencil and I told him I wouldn't > be needing it. He insisted that I must submit that piece of paper--with > notation--or they would not pass me, even if I passed the CW test questions.
> I had tested one other time in the same manner (think it was in Greenville, > TX--but not sure), and those VEs said no such thing. How subjective is > that?

The procedure changed, that's all. The VEs are now required by FCC rules to provide and retain all test papers.

The procedure is totally objective because everyone has the same test opportunities and there is no judgement on the part of the VEs. Essay or practical questions would require judgement on their part.
>
> > What would you say to the prospective ham who says he intends to buy a > > manufactured antenna and follow the directions? Or to only operate one > band?
> > Why does that ham have to demonstrate antenna knowledge if he never > intends to > > be in the scenario you describe?
>
> Well, actually I agree. While I concede to those who feel there must be > something in addition to written testing; my ultimate belief is that all > that is needed is written--and HARD written at that (essay questions would > be a good start to a debate).

Essays are about the most practical of the ideas we've discussed.
>

> > The arguments against code testing all apply to your proposal.
> >
> > > Or, have the FCC exam present on paper a > > >scenario with an embedded problem and the test is a full disclosure of > what > > >to do to resolve the problem.
> > >
> > Essay questions. That was done back before 1951. In fact, before 1940 or > so the > > written exam was all essays. A typical question might be something like:
> > "Explain what precautions should be taken to reduce harmonic radiation > from an > > AM voice amateur radio transmitter using a plate-modulated Class C final > > amplifier. Draw schematic diagrams where applicable". A correct answer > would > > fill a couple of blue book pages. And that was just ONE question. A > written > > test could easily take a few hours. The grading time alone caused the FCC > to go > > to multiple choice - first partially, then totally.
>
> Now, if (and I assure I wouldn't) I were to expend the thought it would > take to answer such a question and get my license under the scenario you > describe above, I would be very proud of my license.

Which is why many of us feel the way we do about are licenses.
Although my tests were multiple-choice, my preparation for those tests was more than adequate for me to pass equivalent essay questions.

> > >> >While it is not required that I build > > >> >anything once I am a ham--a successful building project that meets > > >> >specifications of the FCC will assure the FCC--and should assure > > >> >hams--that the new licensee at least knows something about the R&R.
> > >>
> > >> Maybe - but the simple tests you propose don't do that.
> > >
> > >Heh heh. Maybe that should be clue number one to you.
> >
> > Clue of what?
>
> That the tests should NOT be simple.

Ah - understood now.

The end result of your method of thinking is to have a series of license classes, with progressively tougher tests, linked to more operating privileges. But that sort of thing is becoming electropolitically incorrect.
>
> > >I can guarantee you > > >that you are far more "into" the hobby than I am.

> >
> > So? I've been at this game for almost 35 years.

We are about the same age but have somewhat different experiences.....
> >
> > > While I am not saying > > >you are like this, many believe people like me should not be in the > hobby.
> >
> > Anyone can have an opinion.
> >
> > >People like me don't see the above as "simple tests" :).
> >
> > Which is a triple whammy on them.
> >
> > 1) They don't prove that the person being tested really knows the stuff
> > 2) They are not objective measures of things hams need to know
> > 3) Those being tested see them as difficult.
>
> Kind of as I see it today.

Trick is to get the FCC to see it. They think the current tests and test methods are adequate.

(old stuff removed)

> > >> --
> > >>
> > >> How about this idea:
> > >>
> > >> Divide the bands into three segments: CW, digital, analog voice.
> Separate > > >> licenses for each mode - if a prospective ham wants access to the parts > of
> the > > >> bands used for certain modes, they have to pass tests on just those > modes.
> All
> > >> hams have to pass a basic test on safety and general regs.
> > >>
> > >
> > >Hmmmm, I like it.
> > >
> > It's an idea for the future.
> >
> > 73 de Jim, N2EY

> I like the Jim/N2EY here in this discussion.

The online persona is in constant development.

> I used to feel quite trapped > by you when you'd ask me a question, I'd answer it and you would chew it all > to pieces (I think knowing full well that was the answer I was going to > have--you just wanted me to say it before you chewed it all up) :).

Just shining the light of logic....;-)
>
> I didn't answer any of the post on my philosophical stuff, because here is > not the place to even try to discuss such things.

We oughta try anyway, just to stir things up. Or use e-mail.

> Those kinds of > conversations, to me, are much better in person.

Agreed, but I doubt we will be in the same neighborhood anytime soon.
Besides, these ARE philosophical discussions - the philosophy of amateur radio license testing.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1280. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 17:48:35 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9te4o0$128$1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 24178

Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message news:3BFA8065.9030205@att.net...
> Hey Jim...
>
> Where can I get my lobomotomy, so I can join in the 'festivities' too...
;-)

Is that an operation where a wolf is surgically removed from someone? ;-)

1281. Re: "one step closer...."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 17:52:29 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9te4ve$12s$1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 24177

KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
news:Hd7K7.756$m%.185681@monger.newsread.com...
> Have ya seen the custom-screen-printed pocket protectors that are now the > rage with the socially inept-anal-retentive ham???

I wasn't looking for one. Guess they caught your eye though.

1282. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 18:49:58 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9te8ib02n7c@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24179

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120114855.25459.00002515@nso-ch.aol.com...
> In article <3BF89F7F.DADCCC95@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
writes:
> Yawn! I don't recall ever stating that Kim's callsign is doing > quantifiable "damage" to the ARS, only that the potential for > such damage certainly exists -- as pointed out by no less an > authority than Riley Hollingsworth. Do you disagree with Mr.
> Hollingsworth's statement that Kim's choice of a callsign has > the potential to take the ARS "...one step closer to extinction?"
>

Potential is a rather broad and ambiguous term. Gun-control advocates use it quite often to further their cause. (I.E. "A gun in the house has the pontential of killing someone.") It's interesting that you use a tactic of Liberals to justify your opinions.

1283. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 18:55:38 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9te8t002ns1@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24180

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120114856.25459.00002517@nso-ch.aol.com...
> In article <3BF8A9FD.B2AC2598@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
writes:
> Cecil:
>
> I have nothing against coffee and conversation. However, If I were > married, my XYL would not be having either with another man without > me being with them, unless he were her brother or father. One reason > why I'm not married is because I've yet to meet a woman who seems > to be able to grasp this simple concept.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

How about if he was gay?

1284. XMAS present for that special 75M and 20M goofball !

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 19:32:02 UTC
From: souptonutz <copperpans3@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <ScyK7.701$5X4.80261@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 24181
Cross-posted to:
alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

Hey you XYL's out there! Are you sick and tired of your OM who can't get away from lookin at dirty pics on the internet or talking trash dirty with "the boys"on the Net on that stinking ham radio ??

Here IS your answer !
It's 100% Guaranteed or your money back!

http://free.freespeech.org/shockingtruth/

Note: Click the word "Merchandise" on the link above when U get there....

1285. Re: Reply to -> Twistedhed@webtv.net or Moparholic@hotmail.com care of the CB news group

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 19:54:47 UTC
From: SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com
Message-ID: <d9f7b76c.0111201154.3478baf2@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24182
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net> wrote in message news:<9tdld1nmj1@news.bignet.net>...
> <Moparholic@hotmailnospam.com> wrote in message
> news:20011119182026.306$HX@newsreader.com...
> > Ramble on !
>
> The phone company records don't lie. Next time you shouldn't get drunk, to > avoid those black outs, when pulling your BS so that you can remember what > happen the next day Mopar.
>
>
> --
> Leland C. Scott
> KC8LD0

aw geez....is somebody phone phucking leland???? that is a cotton picken shame.....tell me richard mccollum , does this sound like real radio?????

1286. Re: Reply to -> Twistedhed@webtv.net or Moparholic@hotmail.com care of the CB news group

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 20:05:44 UTC
From: SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com
Message-ID: <d9f7b76c.0111201205.10866626@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24183
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Leland C. Scott" <abuse@cotse.net> wrote in message news:<1XeK7.28$q46.2311@typhoon.mw.mediaone.net>...
> <Moparholic@hotmailnospam.com> wrote in message
> news:20011119154545.217$Tg@newsreader.com...
>
> > Aftrall, you have forged people yourself.
>
> You would be suprised to find out that I don't. And since I don't in > over 2 years on this group NOBODY has ever PROVED I have done so, even > you can't prove it. Several others on this group have had their accounts > canned and no longer post through their orignal ISP, however I do.
> That's becasue anyone silly enough to send a complaint to my ISP gets > the complaint canned becasue they have the posting logs and know for a > fact what everyone on this group can only guess about, incorrectly that > is.
>
> However on the other hand you seem to like making late night phones > calls until you discovered the calls you made got traced back to you.
> The phone company will and does prosecute people for that crap Mopar.
>
> Given that bit of B.S. Mopar I would not put it passed you to take the > same route like Twisted, and several others, by posting forged messages > in various news groups. You can't intelligently debate the issues can > you? And you don't have the guts to post your real name here either. You > and Twisted look good together taking turns sitting on the same clutch > of eggs.
>
>
> --
> Leland C. Scott
> KC8LD0
>
> ARRL Member
> NCI Member

leland,...the phone company will not do shit about that crap. as soon as they find out the facts on the situation they will laugh your ass out of the co....good buddy.....so take if from someone who knows....having been a witness to countless vendettas spawned on the cb radio over the last twenty five years....sir.....i think the best thing for you to do is leave your phone off the hook or change your number. leland, you sir are a agitator who walks a fine line between legality and illegality and for this crap that you do, you get your just rewards........your whining about these phone calls, falls, i am sorry to say, on deaf ears........

1287. Re: FCC hires private investigators

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 20:13:44 UTC
From: SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com
Message-ID: <d9f7b76c.0111201213.6c3ff656@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24184
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Leland C. Scott" <abuse@cotse.net> wrote in message
news:<ykeK7.19$q46.1396@typhoon.mw.mediaone.net>...
> "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
> news:cuvyxnansvbet.gn218rc.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
> > Either your acquaintance is falsehooding you or you are doing it to > us.
> >
> > Which is it?
>
> Neither one Phil. Seems like there is a CBer, who goes by the Handle of > "Twistedhed", on the "rec.radio.cb" news group. He made some comments > about freebanding etc., and I suggested that he contact you since you > had in fact worked for the FCC doing some enforcement activity, and > could give him the straight deal right from somebody who has done it.
> Needless to say he wiggled every which way he could to avoid the issue > that he does not have to courage to contact you to ask some questions.
> In fact he's mad as heck about be branded a chicken on the group for not > contacting you. So he spends hours forging messages from me (there are > several on this group alone right now), or several others, as a means to > get even, and hopefully to discredit the "framed" individual with > obvious crazy comments in the messages. However it seems like he can't > even get his facts straight for something as simple as the location of > the Detroit FCC field office.
>
> --
> Leland C. Scott
> KC8LDO
>
> ARRL Member
> NCI Member

leland will you please quit cross posting to the rec.radio.cb and rec.radio.amateur.policy newsgroups....???? i am quite sure these fine people on rec.radio.amateur.policy do not want to listen to your incessant whining about any cber running over 4 watts
pep.......leland....please give it a rest.......

1288. Re: WOW! - That's all I can say

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 20:35:04 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <82A0028CA83184AE.BD7E1CBFDA4C1F41.8C3514A332FFCDC0@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24185

On 19 Nov 2001 13:38:17 GMT, k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ) wrote:

> What I don't like "hearing" is some Anonymous Troll who pops in and lays an >egg like that one, Rick. It's the knee jerk reaction to something that HE >didn't agree with, and then he makes a sweeping statement that would "condem" >all of Amateur Radio because of what transpires here.

Actually, I don't think he _was_ a troll. If you read his message exactly as it was written, it sounds a lot more like someone who was honestly expressing his views. Whether any of us agrees with those views or not, of course, is personal opinion--but I doubt he had any intention of "trolling" with his post.

> By the way, I think it was Jim Rosenthal who did the math and figured that >the "population" or RRAP (at least the regulars) represented about 0.017% of >the Amateur community...hardly representitive, now is it?

The same could probably be said of many groups with respect to Usenet representation (although I have no idea how Jim could possibly get an accurate figure as to the number of _readers_ rrap has--only the number of posters from which any projection is purely an estimate), yet such groups can be inordinately powerful in influencing opinion.

Unlike the amateur bands, it doesn't take any investment at all in new equipment for someone with an interest in amateur radio to subscribe to this group. Most people, logically, prefer to know a bit about a hobby before investing a considerable sum of money in it (yes, I know, you can set up a station very inexpensively--but that assumes you know what to buy, and where to buy it, which many prospective hams don't), and reading Usenet newsgroups where people who are part of that hobby discuss it is a _very_ logical and obvious way to explore it with no investment. Needless to say, the impression a potential ham would get from this group--or from rram--isn't exactly one that would encourage him or her to start studying for a license--these groups are often less respectful and more argumentative than rec.radio.cb!

> How I represent myself on the air and in person is far different from this >forum. I am just following the leader here.

A lot of us are different on the air than we are on the Usenet. Hopefully, all of us can at least consider the obvious fact that potential hams ARE reading what we write here, and try to give them an impression that at least some of the time we can be rational and communicate w/o flames (after all, ham radio IS a hobby based on communications!).

> And his "points" could have been made without his own flaming. He got >what he deserved.

Perhaps--but many of the threads in rrap DO inspire a "heated entry" as you well know.

73 de KE8HH, Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1289. Re: WOW! - That's all I can say

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 20:36:56 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B8F65B14C5D7EC97.DC7A12C3D4D6C9BA.DEB0668D195F51E0@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24186

On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 02:55:02 GMT, "Richard McCollum"
<rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote:

>Oooh, emotion. Rick the two of us together are neither old enough or insane >enough for 75 meters let alone the 3900+ cesspool.

Oh, I don't know.

I certainly FEEL old enough lately and there's plenty of people in this NG that would be more than happy to argue that I'm definitely insane enough for it! :-)

73 de KE8HH, Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1290. Re: WOW! - That's all I can say

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 20:38:50 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <8CDB3479DCC3138C.4195E60F928C35DE.D97C0BB66CB446EC@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24187

On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 00:09:33 -0500, Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote:

>Ignore this newsgroup. It's mostly arguements and flames >over Kim's call and Mores Code.

Or the mores of the code fans! ;-)

73 de KE8HH, Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1291. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 20:39:15 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFABF73.30F1EE80@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24188

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:

>> CAM wrote:
> >>Here's your argument applied to you, Larry. If you cannot > >>prove that you are not a rapist, then that you are one is > >>self-apparent. Don't you ever learn?
>
> I can't prove that I'm not a rapist ...

And, for the same reason, Kim cannot prove that her choice of callsign is not damaging the ARS. The onus of proof is upon you. Hop on that onus and tell us how it feels.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
------== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1292. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 20:47:34 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFAC166.1DFF5C3B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24189

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> Yawn! I don't recall ever stating that Kim's callsign is doing > quantifiable "damage" to the ARS, only that the potential for > such damage certainly exists -- as pointed out by no less an > authority than Riley Hollingsworth. Do you disagree with Mr.
> Hollingsworth's statement that Kim's choice of a callsign has
> the potential to take the ARS "...one step closer to extinction?"

Yes, I do, Larry. Kim's callsign obviously has a negligible effect on the ARS. Riley is not omniscient. However, I suspect that if we sent your hate-filled postings to Riley, he would say you are a magnitude better at bringing the ARS to extinction than is Kim.

> Asked and answered. Can't you come up with anything original?

As a certified teacher, I was taught to repeat the lesson until the student has learned it. You apparently haven't learned it yet.
You continue to demand that people prove negative premises. When are you going to learn that is impossible (except in exclusive binary logic conditions which this isn't).
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
------== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1293. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 20:57:34 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFAC3BE.843F1AA4@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24190

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > You'd think Davey would get the hint.
> >
> > "Getting the hint" requires a functioning input system.
> > Dave is all output. :-) I had to tell him a dozen > > times about his typo before it finally soaked in.
>
> You mean sort like the way I had to repost what your said about morse > testing and Affirmative Action in order to shut up your silly denials?

There you go lying again, Dave. I only denied comparting the issues and if you check the past postings you will see that is a fact. You accused me of comparting the issues and I denied it. You continued to insist that I was comparting the issues and therefore showed yourself to be lying about it. I NEVER comparted the issues.

I have always freely admitted that I compared Affirmative Action to Morse code testing and will continue to do so. You haven't shut me up about that. Both Affirmative Action and Morse code testing are attempts at social engineering. Things similar to the same thing are similar to each other. Therefore, Affirmative Action and Morse code are similar. You are similar to a snake because you share about 75% of your DNA with a snake.

What is more interesting are your numerous lies about not introducing the word "comparting" which proves that you just don't pay attention.
But that was already obvious to the most casual observer.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1294. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 20:58:48 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFAC408.F44BA285@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24192

Dave Heil wrote:
> If you want to participate, Kim, you may have to learn a few words of > the local idiom. If I use a term and you don't know what it means, you > might want to find out what it means.

You mean like "comparting"? You apparently used a word for which you were ignorant of the meaning.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1295. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 20:59:38 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <95F72CB7D9A054F5.05DA764AF9184C92.10E3D5B136FB0074@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24191

On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 21:03:36 GMT, JJ <radiobuf@mailcity.net> wrote:

>There is nothing 'evil' or illegal about the call sign, just show >a lack of class and taste...the trailer park mentality.

I'm sure the hams who live in mobile homes and read this group love the wonderful welcome they keep receiving from people such as yourself.

Why is there an automatic assumption that "trailer park" is synonymous with "trash?" Is it just that some people feel that because they paid $100K+ for their homes anyone who didn't is trash--or do the stereotypes seem so irresistible that you just can't help slamming people who live in mobiles as your inferiors?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1296. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 21:03:03 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFAC507.CFB58E88@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24194

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> I, too, have a long way to go before I could be considered a "good"
> Christian. However, my life is still in Christ's hands -- He is my > Savior. I have faith, not "religion."

Right now, Larry, you are going to hell because you don't possess enough waking hours to ask forgiveness for all your sins. My advice would be to cut back on your sinning to a level that can be forgiven with less than 24 hours of prayer.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1297. Re: Reply to -> Twistedhed@webtv.net or Moparholic@hotmail.com care of the CB news group

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 21:03:11 UTC
From: fgillil@tincan.org
Message-ID: <e182e02.0111201303.161b1eb7@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24193
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net> wrote in message news:<9tdld1nmj1@news.bignet.net>...
> <Moparholic@hotmailnospam.com> wrote in message
> news:20011119182026.306$HX@newsreader.com...
> > Ramble on !
>
> The phone company records don't lie. Next time you shouldn't get drunk, to > avoid those black outs, when pulling your BS so that you can remember what > happen the next day Mopar.
>
>
> --
> Leland C. Scott
> KC8LD0

He's still trying to compensate for his cowardice when I called him on his bullshit a few months ago. He hides behind a radio and a ng, and now he's trying to hide behind a telephone. Don't be suprised if he hides behind the US mail, too -- he isn't enough of a man to dish out his shit to your face. Unfortunately, sharkie defends his cowardly acts. They are cut from the same mold, no doubt.

1298. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 21:06:12 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <1C9A2D4FBD09866F.9213F3B427841B90.91ABC6E07C96665B@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24195

On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 21:36:25 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>Oh, stop! You're bringing visions to mind...yes, there they are; all >tangled up...gulp. :)

You've got your LEG and your EAR tangled up?

Can I watch?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1299. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 21:08:28 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3BFAC64C.90810103@uci.edu>
Source record: 24200

CAM wrote:
> Both Affirmative Action and Morse code testing are > attempts at social engineering.

Well, one of them is. The other one is a vestige from an earlier time in radio.

1300. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 21:10:42 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <AC86BAC717C9639C.6E69131D3620798D.44B77E6EA54B4265@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24196

On 20 Nov 2001 04:13:18 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Naw.... they'll be glad to issue you W8ANUS though

Gee, Dick, I'll be sure to let them know you told me that when I apply!

Gosh! The ONLY 1x4 vanity call in the US! And Dick Carroll, who makes it very clear that HE is an expert on amateur radio, told me
I could get one!

I'll bet his knowledge of how Kim's call sign is "damaging the ARS" is almost as accurate as his knowledge of the vanity signs available!

Hmmmmmm . . .

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1301. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 21:11:09 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFAC6ED.81982D52@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24197

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> I have nothing against coffee and conversation. However, If I were > married, my XYL would not be having either with another man without > me being with them, unless he were her brother or father.

And exactly how would you enforce that rule? Oh yeah, I forgot.
You have that crystal ball that makes you omniscient. How about step-brother? How about first cousin? How about fifth cousin?
It's easy to see how you have driven yourself crazy.

It's more than obvious that you don't trust women, Larry.
Lasting relationships are based on trust. Therefore, do the females of the world a favor and remain a bachelor.

> One reason
> why I'm not married is because I've yet to meet a woman who seems > to be able to grasp this simple concept.

There are no female slaves left in the US, Larry. That's why you don't meet any females who meet your specs.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
------== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1302. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 21:12:31 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <D45E1BD8C3F0892B.ABCFB2A940B7342F.BF850FAA26831A65@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24198

On 20 Nov 2001 16:48:57 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I guess Junior knows this from personal experience!

How could I, old man? I'm not your therapist or your keeper so I haven't read your psychiatric record.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1303. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 21:17:47 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFAC87B.EF327464@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24199

Rick Adams wrote:
> How could I, old man? I'm not your therapist or your keeper so
> I haven't read your psychiatric record.

If you do, Rick, be sure to set aside an entire weekend. :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
------== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1304. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 21:27:20 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <22714020968DF113.D317E10C11D1A847.1F86216ACB998408@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24301

On 20 Nov 2001 16:48:55 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Yawn! I don't recall ever stating that Kim's callsign is doing >quantifiable "damage" to the ARS, only that the potential for >such damage certainly exists -- as pointed out by no less an >authority than Riley Hollingsworth.

Potential, Larry?

That's like saying I shouldn't go to work tonight because driving to campus has the _potential_ of causing the last member of an endangered species of frog to swallow its tongue in fear of my car and suffocate. Should I stay home and apply for welfare so I won't risk causing the extinction of a species?

Many things have the "potential" to "bring ham radio closer to extinction." Improvements in communications capabilities on the Internet (i.e., video conferencing, etc.) could do so. New attitudes toward radio as a hobby could do so. A new personal radio service that met more needs than vhf does now could do so. New, restrictive, legislation supposedly aimed at countering terrorism could do so. Even a climatic change that influenced propagation adversely could do so.
Why single out something as inconsequential as Kim's call sign? Are you really so bored--or crochety--that you can't simply mind your own business about an innocuous call sign that you personally don't care for?

> Do you disagree with Mr.
>Hollingsworth's statement that Kim's choice of a callsign has >the potential to take the ARS "...one step closer to extinction?"

I do.

Riley Hollingsworth is an authority on FCC regulatory enforcement. He is NOT an authority on trend analysis, nor is he a psychic who can predict the result of an apparently very minor event.
His _personal_ opinion, while worthwhile, carries absolutely no more value or weight than that of any other licensed amateur.

There are a great many things that are likely to contribute to a decline in the ARS--including the racism, hate speech, rudeness, and
"cb-like" obscenities and arguments (which, of course, is a stereotype that doesn't apply to the majority of cb users). ALL of these, and other similar behaviors, have a real potential to harm amateur radio.
Until Hollingsworth starts eliminating THOSE problems (and telling us to "self-police" isn't eliminating them), he has a lot more to concern himself with than Kim's call sign.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1305. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 21:28:31 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFACAFF.F0C1DF31@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24302

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Both Affirmative Action and Morse code testing are > > attempts at social engineering.
>
> Well, one of them is. The other one is a vestige from an earlier time > in radio.

Morse code testing has always been an attempt at social engineering.
I cannot think of any governmental requirement that is not an attempt at social engineering. Why would there be a governmental requirement not aimed at social engineering. What would be the purpose?

Morse code testing has simply evolved with time from being necessary social engineering to unnecessary social engineering to illogical social engineering.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
------== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1306. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 21:39:13 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3BFACD81.483A1A2C@uci.edu>
Source record: 24303

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Both Affirmative Action and Morse code testing are > > > attempts at social engineering.
> >
> > Well, one of them is. The other one is a vestige from an earlier time > > in radio.
>
> Morse code testing has always been an attempt at social engineering.

I guess maybe it's social engineering in the same way a PAP smear is social engineering.
```

1307. Re: FCC hires private investigators

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 21:51:21 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3BFAD059.BDA2315F@uci.edu>
Source record: 24304

SD SpecialDelivery Jones wrote:
> leland will you please quit cross posting to the rec.radio.cb and > rec.radio.amateur.policy newsgroups....???? i am quite sure these > fine people on rec.radio.amateur.policy do not want to listen to your > incessant whining about any cber running over 4 watts
> pep.......leland....please give it a rest.......

Yes Leland, please make up your mind whether you're a ham or a CBer, and then post to the appropriate group. thanks

1308. Re: Reply to -> Twistedhed@webtv.net or Moparholic@hotmail.com care of the CB news group

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 22:03:20 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9tejkbeqm1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 24305
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Landshark" <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net> wrote in message news:MxuK7.10$PR1.6375466@newssvr21.news.prodigy.com...
> You know Leland, I always thought you > were just trolling here for jollies,

I am serious with most of my comments.

> but I see > that this is real serious stuff to you LOL.

> The phone company traced the call? you > found out it was Mopar?

The phone company maintains the records until either I tell them to go ahead and prosecute the person(s) responsible or decide to drop it.

> The phone Co. > will only ask you if you know someone > at this #, they can not give you the name > of the person who has that # it's against > the law.

It's very coincidental that the phone calls occurred within 1 to 2 minutes after I made my posts to Mopar in the middle of a rather long thread. Also very strange that after I posted a message to Mopar that the last call, the previous minute ago, was traced it, the calls, stopped right away. Also remember this all took place around 2:00 to 2:30 AM in the morning too, so I don't expect too many people to be up reading off topic material in a long thread where the replies are directed to Mopar, who at the time was extremly mad about my WTC vs. Part 95 tag line. His anger got the better of him and now all he wants to do is drop it, which I will be willing to do so long as he admits he was behind it. Twisted by the way doesn't have the balls to admit to anything including the many forged posts he placed on the group and else where. He's been caught in so many lies it isn't even funny any more.

>But don't tell me, you know > someone there too, FBI, FCC, CIA, > NSA, ASPCA boy you have all the

Let me set you straight about the FBI deal. I don't know anybody who works for the FBI. What I did say is I had a friend who was a "Federal Investigator", which could be anyone working for the federal government whose job involves any kind of investigative duties. I VERY deliberately did not mention which agency he works for. The FBI BS started with Twisted once again doing his thing by spreading lies, and I am frankly shocked by how many stupid people there is on this group who realy believe him when it's been shown time and again where he gets caught in his own lies. I though the people on this group where smarter than that, looks like I'm wrong on that point.

Of course there is the point about all the so-called forged messages I made to the group. Why after 2 years there is still no convincing proof? Also why would I continue to post messages using my real name when I could so easly adopt a fake name, and hotmail account, to make my posts from. I certinaly would not have to put up with the likes of Twisted, Mopar and his late night phones calls, nor the rash of forged messages in other groups as well. I know very well how to do it, but I made a moral decision not to do so, unlike some of the cowards on this group who are posting the bogus messages. All the claims I posted forged messages come fom those who have run out of logic to debate the issues. I never needed to hide behind fake names to make my point and I never will.

--

__
73 de,

Leland C. Scott
KC8LD0

ARRL member
NCI member

"You ask what Morse Code is good for? I'll tell you. Morse Code is used exclusively by Electronics Based life forms to communicate amongst themselves using advanced Organic Digital Signal Processors, running state of the art Artificial Intelligence Software, to perform the highly complex transmit encryption, receive decryption and error correction functions."

1309. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 22:03:48 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <66D3DE0AF2133AE2.D8100472804462D8.F134E4F115AE3C28@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24306

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 05:09:06 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>It would appear that you've never heard of Tugboat Annie either.

Of course I've heard of Tugboat Annie--I just referred to her in the message you responded to, remember?

>More of your classiness?

Nope--I don't have a cesspool, sorry.

>I'd think that someone with your academic credentials would realize that >a child's thought processes are not fully formed. Kids often do stupid >things or things that are wrong. Parents who let their children make >all their own decisions are simply shirking their responsibility toward >the child and society. Nice cheap shot about my parents. My dad was a >succesfuly newsman who became an Episcopal priest.

Try to remember your own posts. You were the one who brought your parents into it and make a slur that Kim _didn't_ have as good of upbringing, not me.

I _do_ recognize that parents shape the values and beliefs of their children (which is where most--but not all--bigotry comes from,
of course), my disagreement is with your assumption that good parents==protective parents who would not have let you be exposed to a hobby with call signs such as Kim's. It isn't the restrictive parent who is universally viewed by the social sciences as being the best parent--it is the one who allows their children to experience the world and provides support not regimentation.

>> > I'm also pretty certain that, had he heard some of the >> >present goings on in the 75m band, he'd not have permitted my >> >involvement at all.

Here's a perfect example of that. Certainly, 75m is offensive, but someone who has demonstrated the maturity to earn a ham ticket with a high enough class to permit operations on 75m should also be mature enough to understand that the kind of behavior he or she hears there is patently offensive to any rational person. Certainly the parent of a youth listening to the garbage should discuss the content with the child--just as the parent of a child watching a violent movie should discuss THAT content with him or her. But to prohibit him or her from exposure doesn't help the child to mature, it only stiffles his or her sense of exploration and prevents them from learning about views that are very different from those of his/her parents.

In an ideal ARS the racist garbage on 3950 wouldn't exist. But this isn't an ideal world, and not only does the racism exist but the jamming and other immature responses to it exist as well (realistically, if everyone ignored them completely, the Liberty Net group would rather quickly shrink in both size and influence). They are a part of ham radio--not a good part--but a part. So long as they DO exist, hams are going to encounter them--and the wise parent will insure that when his or her children do so they have a solid understanding of what is _wrong_ with racism and why the claims of racists are easily proven to be false. That way the child learns not only to oppose racism, but to discern between fact and opinion as well.

>I'm sure that your kids are super, Rick. What a role model you are.

As it happens, I have one son who turned 18 two weeks ago. He was home schooled and started college at 14 at a community college (he'll receive his AA degree--with a 3.92 GPA--this spring and start his Junior year at a University in the Fall). Last year he was one of Parade Magazine's 52 top newspaper carriers in the USA and won a trip to Europe for his efforts. In addition, he donates a great deal of his time to designing web pages for non-profit community agencies that help the homeless and battered women, and is very publicly opposed to racism, sexism, and laws that restrict the rights of individuals. He has no interest in drugs at all (not a guess-a fact) and he doesn't care for alcohol.

Yup. I think my wife and I did ok there--don't you?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1310. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 22:07:34 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <F45EA58841072B45.DE307347948B4136.52FE3C732D8E2891@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24307

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 05:02:22 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Rick, You've just demonstrated your own lack of class.

Well, since everyone who disagrees with you demonstrates a "lack of class" according to you, at least I'm in good company.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1311. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 22:13:18 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3BFAD57E.E5D28FB6@uci.edu>
Source record: 24308

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> I have nothing against coffee and conversation. However, If I were > married, my XYL would not be having either with another man without > me being with them, unless he were her brother or father. One reason > why I'm not married is because I've yet to meet a woman who seems > to be able to grasp this simple concept.

Nor are you likely to. What they would likely "grasp" is that you're unable to distinguish between having coffee and having sex.

1312. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 22:22:30 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <6E7CB5206C407DAC.6C69CB529CE5FFDE.6C76144B85563A98@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24309

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 04:59:25 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>...and if you don't wish to be compared to a left leaning 60's,
>everything-is-okay kind of guy, quit talking the talk.

Except for the fact that I'm a libertarian instead of left leaning and my "everything-is-okay" has a rider that states "if it involves only consenting adults," I'll be more than glad to accept that description.

>I don't depend upon you for validation. In fact, I rather think that if >a guy like you thinks I'm an idiot, I must be doing something right.

Practice makes perfect!

>We all make judgements in forming opinions, Rick. Being an open-minded >individual does not necessarily mean that one accepts everything as >being good or acceptable. Yet I feel that if I don't agree with your >views, you'd think me close-minded. Is it your belief that someone who >hears your ideas and rejects them after hearing them is close-minded?

Not at all. I don't even marginally claim to be infallible--MANY open minded people disagree with my views or ideas and I've had quite a few interesting--and positive--discussions with such individuals. AND, more than once, they have convinced me to change my own views as a result of the information they provided.

Being closed minded doesn't mean someone disagrees--it means they are unwilling to look at an issue from any perspective but their own. Example: There is nothing wrong with someone viewing Kim's call sign as personally offensive to them, based on their personal moral values. But to accuse her of lacking class or threatening amateur radio, then ignoring the statements of others that they simply don't perceive it in the same manner--arguing in fact that if we don't agree with their assessment, we have no class either--CLEARLY demonstrates that their minds are closed. An open minded person is willing to acknowledge that others can disagree with his or her views and values yet still be just as sincere and honest as themselves. When that view is taken, disagreements take the form of debates or discussions, not flame wars and accusations. When, however, a closed minded "if you disagree with me you have to be wrong" attitude (synonymous with "My mind is made up--don't confuse me with the facts.") prevails, the result is inevitably the type of flames that are part of this thread.

>Do your views on Christianity represent open-mindedness or >close-mindedness?

Don't confuse my views on Christianity with my views of Christians, they aren't the same. While I don't happen to believe in the tenets of the Christian religion, it _does_ offer many rather strongly positive philosophical principles. Unfortunately, as Christianity is _practiced_ the only thing that comes through is "selective oppression." Oppression because modern Christians seek to restrict behavior their religion teaches is "immoral" instead of permitting people freedom of choice, and selective because there are just as many injunctions in the bible against behaviors that virtually ALL Christians practice (i.e., eating pork and shellfish, masturbation, etc.) as there are against the ones they arbitrarily choose to oppress.

I have a great deal of respect for the sincerely religious person--whether that person is a Christian, a Buddhist, or a Muslim. What I have no respect for, whatever, is the person who demands that OTHERS live by the rules of his or her religion, a very different matter.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1313. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 22:27:51 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <1FD61FC61CC50007.99C166CFE67B7EE0.79082E1366505E99@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24310

On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 15:41:16 -0800, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
wrote:

>The funny thing is Rick, the same would probably be true of most of the >folks here - believe it or not. If we had met on the air, or at a club >meeting, we'd probably get along just fine. We all share the same >interest after all. The internet does funny things to people. We don't >seem to behave in as socially-acceptable a manner here as we would in >person, or on the air. True?

Absolutely true, Jim.

In person we can see the immediate effect of our statements--and can modify our conversation to correct erroneous impressions. Here the best we have are emoticons to show emotional response, and we lack the nuances of conversation possible in person, or even on the air where you can at least HEAR the other person's vocal inflections.

On the Usenet there is less opportunity for people to get to know the "whole person," and impressions are often formed on the basis of one or two posts on specific topics. That simply doesn't permit a reader to have an overall picture of the person they are responding to, and as a result they view the person in far more black & white terms (moral/immoral, racist/non-prejudiced, high-class/low-class, etc.) than they would ever do in person. I do it, you do it, we all do it to a greater or lesser degree--and it makes it inevitable that the social rules for polite conversation will break down when that happens.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1314. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 22:34:56 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3BFADA90.BADB2400@uci.edu>
Source record: 24311

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 15:41:16 -0800, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
> wrote:
>
> >The funny thing is Rick, the same would probably be true of most of the > >folks here - believe it or not. If we had met on the air, or at a club > >meeting, we'd probably get along just fine. We all share the same > >interest after all. The internet does funny things to people. We don't > >seem to behave in as socially-acceptable a manner here as we would in > >person, or on the air. True?
>
> Absolutely true, Jim.
>
> In person we can see the immediate effect of our > statements--and can modify our conversation to correct erroneous > impressions. Here the best we have are emoticons to show emotional > response, and we lack the nuances of conversation possible in person, > or even on the air where you can at least HEAR the other person's > vocal inflections.
>
> On the Usenet there is less opportunity for people to get to > know the "whole person," and impressions are often formed on the basis > of one or two posts on specific topics. That simply doesn't permit a > reader to have an overall picture of the person they are responding > to, and as a result they view the person in far more black & white > terms (moral/immoral, racist/non-prejudiced, high-class/low-class, > etc.) than they would ever do in person. I do it, you do it, we all do > it to a greater or lesser degree--and it makes it inevitable that the > social rules for polite conversation will break down when that > happens.
>
> Rick

That's part of it. I think you overlooked the biggest part though.

1315. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 23:12:16 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFAE352.8BE02194@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24312

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > You'd think Davey would get the hint.
> > >
> > > "Getting the hint" requires a functioning input system.
> > > Dave is all output. :-) I had to tell him a dozen > > > times about his typo before it finally soaked in.
> >
> > You mean sort like the way I had to repost what your said about morse > > testing and Affirmative Action in order to shut up your silly denials?
>
> There you go lying again, Dave. I only denied comparting the issues > and if you check the past postings you will see that is a fact. You > accused me of comparting the issues and I denied it. You continued > to insist that I was comparting the issues and therefore showed > yourself to be lying about it. I NEVER comparted the issues.

Your denials predated my typo by a substantial margin.

> I have always freely admitted that I compared Affirmative Action to > Morse code testing and will continue to do so. You haven't shut me > up about that. Both Affirmative Action and Morse code testing are > attempts at social engineering. Things similar to the same thing > are similar to each other. Therefore, Affirmative Action and Morse > code are similar. You are similar to a snake because you share > about 75% of your DNA with a snake.

What you neglected to state was that morse testing and Affirmative Action are social engineering 180 degrees out of phase. According to your current view, the Halocaust and Affirmative Action are similar.
They were both attempts at social engineering.

> What is more interesting are your numerous lies about not introducing > the word "comparting" which proves that you just don't pay attention.
> But that was already obvious to the most casual observer.

This is simply another example of your game playing with words and you had to use a typo to make your case. That is also obvious to any observer.

Dave K8MN

1316. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 23:13:25 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFAE399.D231CFA8@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24313

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > If you want to participate, Kim, you may have to learn a few words of > > the local idiom. If I use a term and you don't know what it means, you > > might want to find out what it means.
>
> You mean like "comparting"? You apparently used a word for which
> you were ignorant of the meaning.

You know better and that makes your continuation of the lie all the worse.

Dave K8MN

1317. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 23:15:25 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFAE410.222FC6E@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24314

CAM wrote:
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > I, too, have a long way to go before I could be considered a "good"
> > Christian. However, my life is still in Christ's hands -- He is my > > Savior. I have faith, not "religion."
>
> Right now, Larry, you are going to hell because you don't possess > enough waking hours to ask forgiveness for all your sins. My advice > would be to cut back on your sinning to a level that can be forgiven > with less than 24 hours of prayer.

I wouldn't sweat it too much, Larry. You are now getting religious advice from a man who says he prays to his inner self. As we have long konwn, nothing he says here can be taken seriously.

Dave K8MN

1318. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 23:22:04 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9teogi015e4@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24316

"Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
news:3BFAD57E.E5D28FB6@uci.edu...
>
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > I have nothing against coffee and conversation. However, If I were > > married, my XYL would not be having either with another man without > > me being with them, unless he were her brother or father. One reason > > why I'm not married is because I've yet to meet a woman who seems > > to be able to grasp this simple concept.
>
> Nor are you likely to. What they would likely "grasp" is that you're
> unable to distinguish between having coffee and having sex.

When I was in college, a group of us would go out to eat after a night class. A young lady in our group would always meet her husband at whatever restaurant we went to. He seemed nice enough. However, one night he didn't meet us. His wife wanted to make sure she sat beside only women at whatever table we were at. She said that the reason she did this was that her husband often spied on her when she was out by herself. Sounds like something Larry would do if he were married.

1319. Re: FCC hires private investigators

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 23:38:09 UTC
From: Leland KC8LD0 <Leland_member@newsguy.com>
Message-ID: <9teph10u1h@drn.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24317

Leland KC8LDO
>
>"Leland C. Scott" <abuse@cotse.net> wrote in message
>news:<ykeK7.19$q46.1396@typhoon.mw.mediaone.net>...
>> "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
>> news:cuvyxnansvbet.gn218rc.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
>> > Either your acquaintance is falsehooding you or you are doing it to >> us.
>> >
>> > Which is it?
>>
>> Neither one Phil. Seems like there is a CBer, who goes by the Handle of >> "Twistedhed", on the "rec.radio.cb" news group. He made some comments >> about freebanding etc., and I suggested that he contact you since you >> had in fact worked for the FCC doing some enforcement activity, and >> could give him the straight deal right from somebody who has done it.
>> Needless to say he wiggled every which way he could to avoid the issue >> that he does not have to courage to contact you to ask some questions.
>> In fact he's mad as heck about be branded a chicken on the group for not >> contacting you. So he spends hours forging messages from me (there are >> several on this group alone right now), or several others, as a means to >> get even, and hopefully to discredit the "framed" individual with >> obvious crazy comments in the messages. However it seems like he can't >> even get his facts straight for something as simple as the location of >> the Detroit FCC field office.
>>
>> --
>> Leland C. Scott
>> KC8LDO
>>
>> ARRL Member
>> NCI Member
>
>leland will you please quit cross posting to the rec.radio.cb and >rec.radio.amateur.policy newsgroups....???? i am quite sure these >fine people on rec.radio.amateur.policy do not want to listen to your >incessant whining about any cber running over 4 watts
>pep.......leland....please give it a rest.......
>
I'm simply trying to show my fellow amateur operators what I have to put up with in rec.radio.cb. ;-))

"You ask w

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LDO

1320. Re: Reply to -> Twistedhed@webtv.net or Moparholic@hotmail.com care of the CB news group

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-20 23:38:31 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <Twistedhed@wettv.net> Message-ID: <XPBK7.170$rU3.6664@typhoon.mw.mediaone.net>
Source record: 24315
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"SD SpecialDelivery Jones" <SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com> wrote in message >

>leland,...the phone company will not do shit about that crap.

That all depends on the frequency and time of the calls.

> as soon as they find out the facts on the situation

They realy don't have much choice in the matter.

> think the best > thing for you to do is leave your phone off the hook or change your > number.

I have an answering machine which I use to screen all my calls. I have never answered the phone until I know who it is. I would just assume to let the telmarketers waste their time for two or three minutes talking to my mcahine tha takes me all of 2 seconds to hit the delete button later.

>leland, you sir are a agitator

Being an "agitator" depends on your point of view. You are either for sane operation where people go by the rules so that all may enjoy the benefits that come of it, or you have the spectrum thieves who will take over whatever frequency seems to be unoccupied, which of course means the authorized user no longer has use of the spectrum whenever they choose to use it, the spectrum thief is using it. Same goes with amplifier use on 11m.

>who walks a fine line between legality and illegality

So if I did something illegal then jump right in here and point it out. In the past 2 years nobody else could find anything, and some have tried real hard too. LOL

--

--
--

73's de,

Leland C. Scott
KC8LD0

ARRL member
NCI member

"You ask what Morse Code is good for? I'll tell you. Morse Code is used exclusively by Electronics Based life forms to communicate amongst themselves using advanced Organic

Digital Signal Processors, running state of the art Artificial Intelligence Software, to perform the highly complex transmit encryption, receive decryption and error correction functions."

1321. Re: XMAS present for that special 75M and 20M goofball !

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:05:26 UTC
From: radiosigs <radiosigs@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9ter5bssr1@slb3.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 24318
Cross-posted to:
alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

If you are ticked off by this spam nonsense on your newsgroups, please do what I did. Send the entire message, including headers, to abuse@uu.net and lodge complaints. Don't buy this having posted through YAHOO stuff. It was NOT!
Doc,AF2Y

"souptonutz" <copperpans3@yahoo.com> wrote in message news:ScyK7.701$5X4.80261@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net...
> Hey you XYL's out there! Are you sick and tired of your OM who can't get > away from lookin at dirty pics on the internet or talking trash dirty > with "the boys"on the Net on that stinking ham radio ??
>
> Here IS your answer !
> It's 100% Guaranteed or your money back!
>
> http://free.freespeech.org/shockingtruth/
>
> Note: Click the word "Merchandise" on the link above when U get there....
>
>

1322. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:12:01 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn45okn.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24319

On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 23:57:43 -0500, Robert Casey wrote:

>I once worked a ham who was a pilot in a 747 >operating air moble. Do they use the wings like
>a dipole? :-)

If he was piloting a 747 at the time I sure hope that it was a privately-owned aircraft, not an air carrier, if there are any 747s in private ownership. I do know a retired broadcast station owner who owns a 727 which he pilots himself, notwithstanding the requirement to have at least two qualified pilots in the cockpit.

I'll let the pilots here quote the FARs about making non-essential communications while on an air carrier flight.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1323. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:12:04 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn458km.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24321

On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 21:14:40 -0600, Kim-W5TIT wrote:

>Heck, one time when the FCC was talking about having a law that any tower >over a certain number of feet would have to be painted red and white,

Just for the record, there always has been such a requirement. It's now in the FAA regs, enforced by the FCC under Part 17 of FCC Rules.

Fortunately, the vast majority of amateur radio towers fall under provisions of the regs that exempt them from marking (painting) and lighting.

>one of >the gang on '88 keyed up and said if he painted anything on his tower it >would be a great big FU. I about drove off the road on that one.

Rest assured, though, that if the tower does require marking and lighting and the tower owner refuses, the FCC will come after said owner with five-figure monetary penalties and court orders to either mark/light it or it will be torn down at the owners' expense as a hazard to air navigation.

That's one area that the FCC does not play pussycat about.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1324. Re: Special for Radio Kops

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:12:14 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn4664o.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24320

On 20 Nov 2001 13:03:39 GMT, N2EY wrote:

>The setup pictured is from QST for January, 1956. The transmitter on >the left is a homebrew setup built by W6TZZ. Runs a 6AQ5 VFO feeding a >5763 multiplier with a pair of 6146s in the final. Really nice job,

Be still, my beating heart. Every young ham's desire then ... even us Techs who did not have HF privileges.

>The builder was in the 11th grade at the time,

When I was in the 11th grade (not too many years before that) I should've been chasing girls instead of DX.

Oh well.....

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1325. Re: XMAS present for that special 75M and 20M goofball !

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:15:51 UTC
From: bpnjensen@yahoo.com Message-ID: <37af7e1c.0111201615.68a782fa@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24322
Cross-posted to:
alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

"souptonutz" <copperpans3@yahoo.com> wrote in message news:<ScyK7.701$5X4.80261@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net>...
> Hey you XYL's out there! Are you sick and tired of your OM who can't get > away from lookin at dirty pics on the internet or talking trash dirty > with "the boys"on the Net on that stinking ham radio ??
>
> Here IS your answer !
> It's 100% Guaranteed or your money back!
>
> http://free.freespeech.org/shockingtruth/
>
> Note: Click the word "Merchandise" on the link above when U get there....

The merchandise is wonderfully twisted - but look at the articles too - what a hoot!

Bruce Jensen

1326. Re: XMAS present for that special 75M and 20M goofball !

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:20:35 UTC
From: "Scott (Unit-69)" <upplus@hotSPAMmail.com>
Message-ID: <3BFAF340.32F6494E@hotSPAMmail.com>
Source record: 24323
Cross-posted to:
alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

radiosigs wrote:
>
> If you are ticked off by this spam nonsense on your newsgroups, please do > what I did. Send the entire message, including headers, to abuse@uu.net and > lodge complaints. Don't buy this having posted through YAHOO stuff. It was
> NOT!

I thought it was funny. Click on http://www.fu-fme.com/for another well thought out website.

1327. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:23:07 UTC
From: BH <radioguyx@texxas.net>
Message-ID: <3BFA3BAC.4FDD5F31@texxas.net>
Source record: 24324

I used to talk on a regular basis to a Delta airline pilot (yes he was a licensed ham) who lived near me. He flew between SF and Hawaii and after takeoff from Honolulu he would get on 15 meters and we would have a nice contact while he was out over the Pacific.
Phil Kane wrote:

>
> On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 23:57:43 -0500, Robert Casey wrote:
>
> >I once worked a ham who was a pilot in a 747 > >operating air moble. Do they use the wings like
> >a dipole? :-)
>
> If he was piloting a 747 at the time I sure hope that it was a > privately-owned aircraft, not an air carrier, if there are any 747s > in private ownership. I do know a retired broadcast station owner > who owns a 727 which he pilots himself, notwithstanding the > requirement to have at least two qualified pilots in the cockpit.
>
> I'll let the pilots here quote the FARs about making non-essential > communications while on an air carrier flight.
>
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1328. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:32:36 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFAF624.C0AE19E3@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24325

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Morse code testing has always been an attempt at social engineering.
>
> I guess maybe it's social engineering in the same way a PAP smear is
> social engineering.

Nope, it's social engineering in the same way a driver's license is social engineering. We are talking about government requirements not elective procedures.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1329. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:45:33 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFAF92D.E64BF0D7@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24326

Dave Heil wrote:
> Your denials predated my typo by a substantial margin.

Your typo occurred on Nov. 17 at 00:43 GMT. I dare you to produce a posting of mine before that time where I denied comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code testing. I continue to compare Affirmative Action and Morse code testing to this very day. I have never stopped comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code testing. I do believe you are still lying. What I denied was comparting (your word) Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.

> What you neglected to state was that morse testing and Affirmative > Action are social engineering 180 degrees out of phase.

That's just your opinion and doesn't necessarily bear any resemblance to the real truth. Morse testing and Affirmative Action are both attempts to get citizens to do things that they may not want to do.
In that way, they are entirely similar and in phase.

> This is simply another example of your game playing with words and you > had to use a typo to make your case.

What case? In front of God and all the readers here, you used the word "comparting" and then lied about using it for days and days.
How can you bring yourself to lie about something that is in plain view for everyone to see?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1330. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:51:28 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFAFA90.123888B5@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24327

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > If you want to participate, Kim, you may have to learn a few words of > > > the local idiom. If I use a term and you don't know what it means, you > > > might want to find out what it means.
> >
> > You mean like "comparting"? You apparently used a word for which > > you were ignorant of the meaning.
>
> You know better and that makes your continuation of the lie all the > worse.

You're the one who's lying, Dave, and here's the proof yet once again.
********************************************************************************
Message-ID: <3BF5B180.79E0FAAD@earthlink.net>
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Newsgroups: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Subject: Re: Radio Policy
Date: Sat, 17 Nov 2001 00:43:24 GMT

> You do not, nor have you ever, lived in a place called Small Southern > Town, USA. I do not recognize your elevation of Cecil Moore to the > status of expert on the South or on Affirmative Action. In addition, > I'm calling you on this diversion from your original erroneous comment
> comparting Affirmative Action and morse testing.
> ^^^^^^^^^^
********************************************************************************
You introduced the word "comparting" and then lied about doing so for days and days. How you can deny your documented archived postings is unbelievable.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----
```

1331. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:55:28 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFAFB80.9B86D9AE@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24328

Rick Adams wrote:
> I have a great deal of respect for the sincerely religious > person--whether that person is a Christian, a Buddhist, or a Muslim.
> What I have no respect for, whatever, is the person who demands that > OTHERS live by the rules of his or her religion, a very different > matter.

Like Dave and Larry's Dept. of Vice and Virtue? :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1332. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:57:04 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFAFBE0.B23EEEF1@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24329

Dave Heil wrote:
> I wouldn't sweat it too much, Larry. You are now getting religious > advice from a man who says he prays to his inner self. As we have long > konwn, nothing he says here can be taken seriously.

Then why do you take my postings about "comparting" so seriously?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1333. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 00:58:41 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFAFC41.FA9EC72E@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24330

Krell wrote:
> When I was in college, a group of us would go out to eat after a night > class. A young lady in our group would always meet her husband at whatever > restaurant we went to. He seemed nice enough. However, one night he didn't > meet us. His wife wanted to make sure she sat beside only women at whatever > table we were at. She said that the reason she did this was that her husband > often spied on her when she was out by herself. Sounds like something Larry > would do if he were married.

That lady is Larry's ex-wife. :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1334. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 01:03:45 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011120200345.22754.00000629@nso-cs.aol.com>
Source record: 24331

In article <3BFA68CC.D5C6CA3A@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>>
>> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>> >Did you hear the FCC is unhappy with Victoria's Secret for >> >their recent fashion show on TV?
>>
>> Maybe they're mad because they weren't invited.
>>
>> >What's the world coming >> >to when the most beautiful thing in the whole world >> >causes objections?
>>
>> They found a way to televise love on that show?
>
>The thing I am talking about is not an abstraction, Jim.

Beauty is an abstraction. Therefore, for a thing to be beautiful, abstraction must be involved.

>It's the real thing (converted to electrons/photons).

You mean Heidi Klum?

--

FCC received about 50 emails complaining about that show. Perhaps supportive emails should be sent.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1335. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 01:29:11 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFB0362.D0090F68@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24332

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 04:59:25 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >...and if you don't wish to be compared to a left leaning 60's, > >everything-is-okay kind of guy, quit talking the talk.
>
> Except for the fact that I'm a libertarian instead of left > leaning and my "everything-is-okay" has a rider that states "if it > involves only consenting adults," I'll be more than glad to accept > that description.

Ahhh, a libertarian. I've discarded that view as completely unworkable.
So if your wife chooses to start sleeping with another man and he consents, it is fine with you? Do you have any say? Do you see any immorality in the act? After all, what consenting adults do...

> >I don't depend upon you for validation. In fact, I rather think that if > >a guy like you thinks I'm an idiot, I must be doing something right.
>
> Practice makes perfect!

As I said above...

> >We all make judgements in forming opinions, Rick. Being an open-minded > >individual does not necessarily mean that one accepts everything as > >being good or acceptable. Yet I feel that if I don't agree with your > >views, you'd think me close-minded. Is it your belief that someone who > >hears your ideas and rejects them after hearing them is close-minded?
>
> Not at all. I don't even marginally claim to be > infallible--MANY open minded people disagree with my views or ideas > and I've had quite a few interesting--and positive--discussions with > such individuals. AND, more than once, they have convinced me to > change my own views as a result of the information they provided.
>
> Being closed minded doesn't mean someone disagrees--it means > they are unwilling to look at an issue from any perspective but their > own.

But if someone looks at both sides of an issue and rejects the other's view after examining it, is it your view that the person is close-minded?

> Example: There is nothing wrong with someone viewing Kim's call > sign as personally offensive to them, based on their personal moral > values. But to accuse her of lacking class or threatening amateur > radio, then ignoring the statements of others that they simply don't > perceive it in the same manner--arguing in fact that if we don't agree > with their assessment, we have no class either--CLEARLY demonstrates > that their minds are closed.

That's simply a judgement one arrives at after examing the issue. I've looked at the issue of Kim's call and I've come to believe that her actions lack decorum. That is my sincer and honest view.

An open minded person is willing to > acknowledge that others can disagree with his or her views and values
> yet still be just as sincere and honest as themselves. When that view > is taken, disagreements take the form of debates or discussions, not > flame wars and accusations. When, however, a closed minded "if you > disagree with me you have to be wrong" attitude (synonymous with "My > mind is made up--don't confuse me with the facts.") prevails, the > result is inevitably the type of flames that are part of this thread.

It would be interesting if your "no wrong, no right" world existed. How about: "I have the facts. I have examined them and believe your actions to not be in the best interests of amateur radio or even of your own human dignity."?

> >Do your views on Christianity represent open-mindedness or > >close-mindedness?
>
> Don't confuse my views on Christianity with my views of > Christians, they aren't the same. While I don't happen to believe in > the tenets of the Christian religion, it _does_ offer many rather > strongly positive philosophical principles. Unfortunately, as > Christianity is _practiced_ the only thing that comes through is
> "selective oppression."

That's an extremely subjective and close minded statement, Rick. It is obvious that you do not know how all people practice Christianity and you are apparently ignorant of denominational differences. I've never been oppressed by my Church.

> Oppression because modern Christians seek to > restrict behavior their religion teaches is "immoral" instead of > permitting people freedom of choice, and selective because there are > just as many injunctions in the bible against behaviors that virtually > ALL Christians practice (i.e., eating pork and shellfish, > masturbation, etc.) as there are against the ones they arbitrarily > choose to oppress.

I don't recall one of the sayings of Jesus being that anything consenting adults do is fine. In fact, I don't recall any religion which has anything like that as one of its tenets.

> I have a great deal of respect for the sincerely religious > person--whether that person is a Christian, a Buddhist, or a Muslim.
> What I have no respect for, whatever, is the person who demands that > OTHERS live by the rules of his or her religion, a very different > matter.

Lack of taste and decorum are dictated more by society than by religion. We live in a nation of laws and regulation. Those laws and regulations not only protect your rights but protect me from you. By and large, you are free to practice whatever you like within the confines of your home or place of worship. That doesn't always hold true in public venues. The airwaves are a public venue.

We not only have freedoms which come to us by birth as citizens of the U.S., we have the responsibilities which go with that citizenship. I don't think Kim is being a responsible citizen.

Dave K8MN

1336. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 01:30:12 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFB03A4.761B49DC@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24333

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 05:02:22 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Rick, You've just demonstrated your own lack of class.
>
> Well, since everyone who disagrees with you demonstrates a
> "lack of class" according to you, at least I'm in good company.

Let's see. There's Kim and...uh....there's you. How is that everyone who diagrees with me?

Dave K8MN

1337. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 01:48:32 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn4enyw.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24334

On 21 Nov 2001 01:03:45 GMT, N2EY wrote:

> >Did you hear the FCC is unhappy with Victoria's Secret for > >their recent fashion show on TV?

>FCC received about 50 emails complaining about that show. Perhaps >supportive emails should be sent.

When is the re-run scheduled? Sure beats old "Law and Order".

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1338. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 01:48:34 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn4esyx.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24335

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 00:23:07 GMT, BH wrote:

>I used to talk on a regular basis to a Delta airline pilot (yes he >was a licensed ham) who lived near me. He flew between SF and >Hawaii and after takeoff from Honolulu he would get on 15 meters
>and we would have a nice contact while he was out over the >Pacific.

Did the company know that he was doing that?

Did the company's LAWYERS know that he was doing that?

Section 97.11 of the FCC Rules puts some very specific restrictions on operation from an aircraft.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1339. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 01:51:29 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFB089B.F3465139@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24336

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 05:09:06 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >It would appear that you've never heard of Tugboat Annie either.

Not in any way that would have identified the character. It just didn't seem like you understood who the literary Tugboat Annie is.

> Of course I've heard of Tugboat Annie--I just referred to her > in the message you responded to, remember?
>
> >More of your classiness?
>
> Nope--I don't have a cesspool, sorry.

I'm sorry. Maybe you can save your money and purchase one.

> >I'd think that someone with your academic credentials would realize that > >a child's thought processes are not fully formed. Kids often do stupid > >things or things that are wrong. Parents who let their children make > >all their own decisions are simply shirking their responsibility toward > >the child and society. Nice cheap shot about my parents. My dad was a > >succesfuly newsman who became an Episcopal priest.
>
> Try to remember your own posts. You were the one who brought > your parents into it and make a slur that Kim _didn't_ have as good of > upbringing, not me.

That isn't what I said at all. I believe that responsible parents monitor and control what their as yet immature offspring do. While Kim's deliberately suggestive callsign isn't at the top of the heap, it contributes to the decline.

> I _do_ recognize that parents shape the values and beliefs of > their children (which is where most--but not all--bigotry comes from,
> of course), my disagreement is with your assumption that good > parents==protective parents who would not have let you be exposed to a > hobby with call signs such as Kim's. It isn't the restrictive parent > who is universally viewed by the social sciences as being the best > parent--it is the one who allows their children to experience the > world and provides support not regimentation.

It isn't the social sciences who determine what makes a good parent,
Rick.

> >> > I'm also pretty certain that, had he heard some of the > >> >present goings on in the 75m band, he'd not have permitted my > >> >involvement at all.
>
> Here's a perfect example of that. Certainly, 75m is offensive, > but someone who has demonstrated the maturity to earn a ham ticket > with a high enough class to permit operations on 75m should also be > mature enough to understand that the kind of behavior he or she hears > there is patently offensive to any rational person. Certainly the > parent of a youth listening to the garbage should discuss the content > with the child--just as the parent of a child watching a violent movie > should discuss THAT content with him or her. But to prohibit him or > her from exposure doesn't help the child to mature, it only stiffles > his or her sense of exploration and prevents them from learning about > views that are very different from those of his/her parents.

I wish I could agree with your touchy-feely scenario. My parents might say, "We dont' use that kind of vulgar language" Of course, 75m wasn't the sewer in my days as a beginner in amateur radio that it is now. Keep in mind that no one is required to obtain a license to listen to 75m or 2m. Even Novices in my day listened to the action on phone on all of the bands.

As to violent movies, there simply weren't as many. The ones which existed had such cheesy special effects that they were transparent. There were some films my parents drew the line at. I'm curious to know if you've simply ignored today's motion picture ratings and allowed your kids to view whatever they wanted to see.

> In an ideal ARS the racist garbage on 3950 wouldn't exist. But > this isn't an ideal world, and not only does the racism exist but the > jamming and other immature responses to it exist as well > (realistically, if everyone ignored them completely, the Liberty Net > group would rather quickly shrink in both size and influence). They > are a part of ham radio--not a good part--but a part. So long as they > DO exist, hams are going to encounter them--and the wise parent will > insure that when his or her children do so they have a solid > understanding of what is _wrong_ with racism and why the claims of > racists are easily proven to be false. That way the child learns not > only to oppose racism, but to discern between fact and opinion as > well.

I'm in agreement with your statement. I do my part in ignoring the Liberty Net and much of the rest of the crud on 75.

> >I'm sure that your kids are super, Rick. What a role model you are.
>
> As it happens, I have one son who turned 18 two weeks ago. He > was home schooled and started college at 14 at a community college > (he'll receive his AA degree--with a 3.92 GPA--this spring and start > his Junior year at a University in the Fall). Last year he was one of > Parade Magazine's 52 top newspaper carriers in the USA and won a trip > to Europe for his efforts. In addition, he donates a great deal of his > time to designing web pages for non-profit community agencies that > help the homeless and battered women, and is very publicly opposed to > racism, sexism, and laws that restrict the rights of individuals. He > has no interest in drugs at all (not a guess-a fact) and he doesn't > care for alcohol.

>
> Yup. I think my wife and I did ok there--don't you?

I'd say that he has. Be careful not to take too much of the credit for yourselves.

Dave K8MN

1340. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 01:58:19 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFB0A38.856776BF@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24337

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > Your denials predated my typo by a substantial margin.
>
> Your typo occurred on Nov. 17 at 00:43 GMT. I dare you to produce > a posting of mine before that time where I denied comparing > Affirmative Action and Morse code testing. I continue to compare > Affirmative Action and Morse code testing to this very day. I > have never stopped comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code > testing. I do believe you are still lying. What I denied was > comparting (your word) Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.
>
> > What you neglected to state was that morse testing and Affirmative > > Action are social engineering 180 degrees out of phase.
>
> That's just your opinion and doesn't necessarily bear any resemblance > to the real truth. Morse testing and Affirmative Action are both > attempts to get citizens to do things that they may not want to do.
> In that way, they are entirely similar and in phase.
>
> > This is simply another example of your game playing with words and you > > had to use a typo to make your case.
>
> What case? In front of God and all the readers here, you used the > word "comparting" and then lied about using it for days and days.
> How can you bring yourself to lie about something that is in > plain view for everyone to see?

I guess in the same way that you can continue to post this drivel about me telling a lie when it is quite clear that is was a typo. I guess in the same way that you continue to play the word game even now.
I'd say there is some truth to the old saw about there being more horse's asses than horses in Texas.

Dave K8MN

1341. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:01:15 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFB0AE8.156635BF@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24338

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > If you want to participate, Kim, you may have to learn a few words of > > > > the local idiom. If I use a term and you don't know what it means, you > > > > might want to find out what it means.
> > >
> > > You mean like "comparting"? You apparently used a word for which > > > you were ignorant of the meaning.
> >
> > You know better and that makes your continuation of the lie all the > > worse.
>
> You're the one who's lying, Dave, and here's the proof yet once again.
> **
> Message-ID: <3BF5B180.79E0FAAD@earthlink.net>
> From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> Newsgroups: rec.radio.amateur.policy
> Subject: Re: Radio Policy
> Date: Sat, 17 Nov 2001 00:43:24 GMT
>
> > You do not, nor have you ever, lived in a place called Small Southern > > Town, USA. I do not recognize your elevation of Cecil Moore to the > > status of expert on the South or on Affirmative Action. In addition, > > I'm calling you on this diversion from your original erroneous comment
> > comparting Affirmative Action and morse testing.
> > ^^^^^^^^^^
> **
> You introduced the word "comparting" and then lied about doing so for > days and days. How you can deny your documented archived postings is > unbelievable.

...and you introduced the "Big Lie" technique. How long is "days and days", Cecil? How long will you ignore the fact that my earlier and later posts on the matter say "compare" or "comparing"? You are not only a liar, but you stand on the rooftops and proclaim it.

Dave K8MN

1342. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:02:30 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFB0B33.5A077533@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24339

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > I wouldn't sweat it too much, Larry. You are now getting religious > > advice from a man who says he prays to his inner self. As we have long > > konwn, nothing he says here can be taken seriously.
>
> Then why do you take my postings about "comparting" so seriously?

I don't take them seriously, Cecil. Nothing you say here can be taken seriously. It is simply a refill from your endless supply of BS.

Dave K8MN

1343. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:05:03 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFB0BCC.2AB2D321@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24340

Phil Kane wrote:
>
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 00:23:07 GMT, BH wrote:
>
> >I used to talk on a regular basis to a Delta airline pilot (yes he > >was a licensed ham) who lived near me. He flew between SF and > >Hawaii and after takeoff from Honolulu he would get on 15 meters
> >and we would have a nice contact while he was out over the > >Pacific.
>
> Did the company know that he was doing that?
>
> Did the company's LAWYERS know that he was doing that?
>
> Section 97.11 of the FCC Rules puts some very specific
> restrictions on operation from an aircraft.

I haven't heard much of it going on in recent years, Phil. In the past,
I'd run into guys from Delta or United operating on 20m fairly often.
There was also an SAS pilot with an SM0 call who was quite active.

Dave K8MN

1344. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:31:18 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb1283_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24341

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFA830E.F540F9A@earthlink.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > You'd think Davey would get the hint. When one keeps throwing insults
that > > no one understands because they're not at others' level, well... Kinda has > > the same affect as using the English language in a group of people that > > speak nothing but Spanish.
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
>
> If you want to participate, Kim, you may have to learn a few words of > the local idiom. If I use a term and you don't know what it means, you > might want to find out what it means. It isn't my lack of knowledge > which is the problem.
>

Uh, Dave. I would find it interesting, at best, for me to undertake learning from you in any way constructive... Oh, and I'm not sure what you mean by if I want to participate...I don't think I do...

Kim W5TIT

> Dave K8MN
>
> > "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> > news:3BF9F60B.A7300972@IEEE.org...
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > It would appear that you've never heard of Tugboat Annie either.
> > >
> > > Is she any kin to Poke Salad Annie?
> > > --
> > > cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
> > >
> > >
> > > -----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
> > > http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
> > > Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
> > > -----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1345. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:32:16 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb12bd_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24342

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFA8245.DEC86321@earthlink.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Process management is my chief responsibility at work, Dave. I would > > shudder to think that I become so "adult" that I act like people such as > > you. Now, for you it may work. For me, it would not. I bet that between > > the two of us, I make up for your lack of willingness to step outside
the > > box.
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
>
> It is certainly odd that one who so often makes incorrect character and > background judgements about people is employed in a field where she > needs skill in using logical thought. Of course, being employed in a > field and being any good at it don't automatically go hand in hand.
>
> Dave K8MN
>

You'd know, right? You have the lead on that example.

Kim W5TIT

> > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > news:3BF9E7F4.DCD2A7E7@earthlink.net...
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Oh? A preppie, then, eh. My dad realizes that I am now an adult
and > > that I > > > > make my own decisions.
> > > >
> > > > Kim W5TIT
> > >
> > > You really don't have a clue, do you, Kim? A preppie? My age group > > > didn't qualify me. I too am an adult and make my own decisions. Some > > > of us mature at a faster rate than others. Maybe your decision making > > > processes will improve as you mature.
> > >
> > > Dave K8MN
> > >
> > > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message

> > > > news:3BF92766.46B8BF0D@earthlink.net...
> > > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > > >
> > > > > > Maybe you're new enough to this newsgroup, Rick...Davey here was > > pretty > > > > > born > > > > > > with a silver spoon in his mouth. He's never known real life...
> > > > > >
> > > > > > Kim W5TIT
> > > > > >
> > > > > You couldn't be more off the beam than you are with this post, > > Tugboat.
> > > > > Some of us rise above our beginnings. It helps to have parents who > > are > > > > > loving and involved in our upbringing and who provide guidance during > > > > > our formative years. My dad, for instance would never have permitted
> > me
> > > > > to choose a suggestive callsign back in the days when I first entered > > > > > amateur radio. I'm also pretty certain that, had he heard some of
the > > > > > present goings on in the 75m band, he'd not have permitted my > > > > > involvement at all.
> > > > >
> > > > > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > > > > news:3BF89E3B.9A310597@earthlink.net...
> > > > > > > Rick Adams wrote:
> > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 02:30:20 GMT, "Richard McCollum"
> > > > > > > > <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote:
> > > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > >You mean Jaysus don't you? We make judgements every day.
By
> > some > > > > > > > > >definitions a gentleman is he who ignores the trivial but is a > > cast > > > > > > iron SOB > > > > > > > > >about things that matter. Kim's call sign is one of those > > > > > juvenile,
> > > > > > > > tee hee
> > > > > > > > >giggle things most of us outgrew years ago but they are so > > common
> > > > > it is > > > > > > > like > > > > > > > > >stepping on ants so I leave it alone. Making judgements is one > > > > thing,

> > > > > > being > > > > > > > > > >judgmental is quite another. Rick is so open-minded the wind > > > > whistles
> > > > > > thru
> > > > > > > > > >and his only judgement is on those he perceives as being > > > > judgemental.
> > > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > > With the exception of the fact that I _also_ oppose any > > > > > > > > > behavior that directly harms the person or property of a > > > > > > > > > non-consenting individual, I agree completely. I _am_ > > open-minded
> > > > and > > > > > > > > > willing to look at everything with an open mind instead of > > judging > > > > > > > > > others because I don't, personally, choose to indulge in the > > same > > > > > > > > > behaviors they themselves prefer.
> > > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > > You're a hoot, Rick. You've made a Hitler comparison and called > > me
> > > > > and > > > > > > > > > idiot. So much for your open mind and not making judgements.
> > > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > > > On the other hand, I don't happen to view > > open-mindedness as > > > > > a > > > > > > > > > > flaw as you appear to view it. To me, it is the CLOSED-minded
> > person
> > > > > > > > > > who demonstrates a serious character flaw.
> > > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > > Damn! Another judgement.
> > > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > > Dave K8MN

1346. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:34:39 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb134b_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24343

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120114853.25459.00002512@nso-ch.aol.com...
> In article <3bf88b4d_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >
> >Oh good grief, Larry. Haven't you ever wondered why you can't keep a woman > >around? You are so prudential.
>
> Kim:
>
> Actually, I insure with Nationwide.
>
> >My husband sits not 5' away from me, in our > >office, together.
>
> He has my eternal sympathy.
>

After 14 years of love, we still hold hands, Larry. What's your excuse?

> >I occasionally read posts to him; he is well aware that I > >would meet Rick, any other man, any other woman, or a whole host of people,
> >at a Starbucks or otherwise.
>
> Well, fortunately, the woman in my life doesn't have to worry about me
doing > anything like that!
>

WHY would she worry? Exactly what do you have in mind when you're outside her sights? Can't you behave like an adult without her constantly nagging at you to do so?

> >I don't "ask" my husband for permission to do anything, Larry. We don't > >treat each other as children. Apparently, you like your women brainless
and > >they like men who run their lives.
>
> Now, see here! Comrade Natasha doesn't run my life. Now, if you'll excuse me,
> I have to go and get her a bowl of Borscht.
>

> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Uh huh...yeah, bondage is about your speed. It'd be the only way to keep someone around you.

Kim W5TIT

1347. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:36:03 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb139f_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24344

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120114854.25459.00002514@nso-ch.aol.com...
> In article <3BF89DBA.E1FFF364@earthlink.net>, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> writes:
>
> >
> >Dontcha know? Rick doesn't care for those who make judgements!
> >
> >Dave K8MN
>
> Dave:
>
> Yup. He's a university professor, and, as such, has a professional > mandate to comply with the edicts of liberal, politically-correct mind > control at all times. People who make judgements are independent > thinkers -- and, as such, are a threat to the creation of the One World > Order.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

So, you're saying your degrees are had from the teachings of liberal, politically-correct mind control freaks? Maybe if you'd taken the time to get a quality education, you would have been able to apply it...

Kim W5TIT

1348. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:37:19 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb13eb$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24345

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120114855.25459.00002515@nso-ch.aol.com...
> In article <3BF89F7F.DADCCC95@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
writes:
>
> >
> >For shame, Larry, petitio principii is not allowed.
> >You are the one making the assertion. The onus is upon you > >to prove your assertion. If you cannot offer any proof, we > >will be forced to conclude that you are full of it. Exactly > >what damage is being done to the ARS by Kim's callsign?
>
> Cecil:
>
> Yawn! I don't recall ever stating that Kim's callsign is doing > quantifiable "damage" to the ARS, only that the potential for > such damage certainly exists -- as pointed out by no less an > authority than Riley Hollingsworth. Do you disagree with Mr.
> Hollingsworth's statement that Kim's choice of a callsign has > the potential to take the ARS "...one step closer to extinction?"
>

I can't tell if that's penis envy or just plain envy.

> >Here's your argument applied to you, Larry. If you cannot > >prove that you are not a rapist, then that you are one is > >self-apparent. Don't you ever learn?
>
> Asked and answered. Can't you come up with anything original?
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Kim W5TIT

1349. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:39:29 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb146e_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24346

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120114856.25459.00002517@nso-ch.aol.com...
> In article <3BF8A9FD.B2AC2598@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
writes:
>
> >
> >Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> >> BTW -- I wonder how Kim's OM would feel about > >> hearing that his XYL would want to meet another man at Starbucks for > >> a day-long session of "philosophical discussion?" I know one for damn > >> sure -- if I were married, my XYL wouldn't have to worry about me ever > >> doing that with another woman -- unless she was there as well!
> >
> >Larry, you are undoubtedly a throwback to Neanderthal days. You're > >not married because no woman likes to be hit over the head with a > >club. Exactly what is wrong with coffee and conversation?
>
> Cecil:
>
> I have nothing against coffee and conversation. However, If I were > married, my XYL would not be having either with another man without > me being with them, unless he were her brother or father. One reason > why I'm not married is because I've yet to meet a woman who seems > to be able to grasp this simple concept.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Earth to Larry: you never got promoted because it was someone else's fault;
you never got noticed by the boss because it was someone else's fault; blab blab blab. Now, you never got married because it is someone else's fault.
See a pattern here?

Kim W5TIT

1350. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:41:03 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb14cc_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24347

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120114857.25459.00002519@nso-ch.aol.com...
> In article
<C8D4623C8997F9A1.84DB8FE90DC3AB53.7F805C1D34A75AC3@lp.airnews.net>, > Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>
> >
> > For someone who CLAIMS not to want anyone to create a bad > >image of hams, you certainly delight in demonstrating that some hams > >are offensive, racist, bigoted, and sexist. You may not have "TIT" in > >your call sign--but you have ASSHOLE written all over your face > >instead.
>
> Ouch! I really was "rolling on the floor, laughing my head off" after > reading that! Banged my noggin' on my computer's mini-tower on the > way back up! All I can say, Rick, is that if you want to do some > moonlighting after a hard day filling young, impressionable skulls full > of liberal mush, check out one of the local comedy clubs!
>
> BTW -- I can just see Kim now --- swooning over your picture (you > have exchanged photos by now, I assume!). In order to avoid revolting > my own self, I won't bother trying to describe her response any further > than that! Just one word of advice, however. She's married, and > she's from Texas -- and that means her OM is probably packing heat!
> Since you're a double Post Hole Digger, I hope I can count on you > not to do anything stupid!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
>

Yeah, Rick. It's university profs, such as yourself, that are the reason Larry's never been able to do a darned thing with his "education." ;)

Kim W5TIT

1351. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:48:48 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb16a2_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24348

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message news:95F72CB7D9A054F5.05DA764AF9184C92.10E3D5B136FB0074@lp.airnews.net...
> On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 21:03:36 GMT, JJ <radiobuf@mailcity.net> wrote:
>
> >There is nothing 'evil' or illegal about the call sign, just show
> >a lack of class and taste...the trailer park mentality.
>
> I'm sure the hams who live in mobile homes and read this group
> love the wonderful welcome they keep receiving from people such as > yourself.
>
> Why is there an automatic assumption that "trailer park" is > synonymous with "trash?" Is it just that some people feel that because > they paid $100K+ for their homes anyone who didn't is trash--or do the > stereotypes seem so irresistible that you just can't help slamming > people who live in mobiles as your inferiors?
>
> Rick
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

Have you priced a manufactured home lately, Rick?! That's the beauty of those folks who still use an antiquated term. Most recent home I looked at, double-wide, think it was a Palm Harbor or Redman, but not sure I remember--$93,000!!!!!! For those who seek value in life by the cost of ownership, that'll about put anyone in a mobile on a much higher value level than, say, most people in standard neighborhoods...LOL, plus most people with manufactured homes (trailers as they used to be called) have lots of property to go with them.

Kim W5TIT

1352. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:49:33 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb16e2_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24349

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:1C9A2D4FBD09866F.9213F3B427841B90.91ABC6E07C96665B@lp.airnews.net...
> On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 21:36:25 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Oh, stop! You're bringing visions to mind...yes, there they are; all > >tangled up...gulp. :)
>
> You've got your LEG and your EAR tangled up?
>
> Can I watch?
>
> Rick
>
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

What was that? I can't hear you...

Kim W5TIT

1353. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:52:25 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb1775$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24350

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFAC87B.EF327464@IEEE.org...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> > How could I, old man? I'm not your therapist or your keeper so > > I haven't read your psychiatric record.
>
> If you do, Rick, be sure to set aside an entire weekend. :-)
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
>
>

With lots of beer to numb the pain, and loads of Ex-lax for...well, the cleansing you'll need from being so full...

Kim W5TIT

1354. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:58:18 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb18d8_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24356

OH GAWD!!!! Jim Kelley---touche! What a laugh!!!

Kim W5TIT

"Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
news:3BFAD57E.E5D28FB6@uci.edu...
>
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > I have nothing against coffee and conversation. However, If I were > > married, my XYL would not be having either with another man without > > me being with them, unless he were her brother or father. One reason > > why I'm not married is because I've yet to meet a woman who seems > > to be able to grasp this simple concept.
>
> Nor are you likely to. What they would likely "grasp" is that you're
> unable to distinguish between having coffee and having sex.

1355. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:59:24 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120215924.27773.00002959@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24353

In article <3bf9d18f$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>Steve!!! Dammit...hush. Larry's brought the subject up again--nearly right >on time for the holidays, and I am wondering how long he'll run with it this >time. I've added the aspect of mathematics to the mix and he's having a >difficult time coming up with an effective dodge. I told him to prove that >my callsign is a detriment to the ARS, since the numbers indicate he's >wrong; membership's up.
>
>So, quiet....shhhhhhh ;)

Kim:

As stated previously, I never claimed that your call sign has done any quantifiable damage to the ARS. It is more likely to affect prospective hams in ones and twos -- perhaps discouraging another future Edison to take up some other hobby. The potential harm of your callsign will never be reflected in the numbers of licesnees, only in the negative image it projects to those who never bother to become licensed. Therefore, we'll never know just how many steps closer to extinction you've taken us. If the number of U.S.
hams doubles in the next five years, that doesn't eliminate the negative impact of your callsign on the positive, family-oriented image of the ARS.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1356. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:59:25 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120215925.27773.00002960@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24351

In article <3bf9d2c4_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>Aw, Lar's just jealous...last time I saw his photo (which happened to show >him from a bit higher than waist up...he had lots of cute little rolls >himself.

Kim:

I'm 181.6 cm. tall, and weigh 80.9 kg. bone dry and in my birthday attire.
If you'd like to see a full-length photo of me taken a few years ago (when I was about 1.5 kg. heavier), I'll send it to you or anyone who provides
a servicable e-mail address.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1357. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:59:26 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120215926.27773.00002961@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24354

In article <07672E5C83F60245.4FDD35AA942157C0.7C6DC31DF9D8A911@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

> Gee Larry, don't you ever wash that mind?
>
> You mean you honestly can't sit down with a woman and have an >intelligent--and EQUAL conversation with her w/o sex being part of the >interactions?

Rick:

Of course I can. Fully half the people I work with are women, and within the confines of the workplace, I have many interesting conversations with them. However, these are not exclusive, one-on-one meetings at Starbucks or anywhere else. That would not be appropriate behavior, since most of these women are married, and I am engaged in an exclusive, monogamous relationship with a woman myself. Such meetings are inherently inappropriate unless the mates of both parties are physically present and mutually involved. I don't believe that the kind of loyalty and commitment to such a relationship has any room in it for "friendly" intimate meetings such as that. If one has such commitment, then he or she must not take any action which would even give the appearance of an outside relationship.

>How sad. Personally, MANY of my friends are women--just >as many of my wife's friends are men--and neither of us has the >slightest reason to distrust the other. That you don't trust your wife >alone with another male--and that you assume any married woman who >WOULD meet a man for coffee w/o her husband must have poor character >says a world about your personal integrity.

Again, I am not married, but if I were, my wife would have no reason to have suspicions about my behavior, because there would not be any action on my part to arouse them. This is the true meaning of loyalty to a spouse, or one's partner in a mutually exclusive relationship.

>After all, if you wouldn't >meet a woman for conversation alone either you have no respect for >women and don't believe you can have an intellectual friendship with >one or you can't be trusted out of your wife's sight and both of you >know it. Either way, it is YOUR character--not Kim's--that was just >demonstrated to be deficient.

I would not meet a married woman for a private, "intellectual" conversation because I would not want my own wife or partner to have any reason to question my loyalty to her. She can trust me because that trust is demonstrated in practical, tangible action.

> I don't "have the hots" for Kim, Larry. If I wanted to get >laid outside my marriage I wouldn't have to chase a monogamous married >woman in over 1000 miles from me Texas to do so. From what I've seen >of her, I happen to like Kim as a person, and respect her integrity >and intelligence--three very good reasons to correspond with someone, >none of which have the slightest thing to do with sex.

That comment was simply an observation based on your willingness to support Kim's unsupportable position with regard to her selection of a callsign. Since I have no respect for Kim on that basis, I choose to ridicule your defense of her in that manner. In view of the fact that you state that you are a committed family man, I apologize for any offense taken.

> Sorry, Larry, but maybe you can't be trusted out of your >spouse's sight--that doesn't surprise me at all--but that doesn't mean >that Kim can't or that her husband wouldn't trust HER to enjoy a >conversation with a man when it involved an area not of interest to >him as well.

Such "trust" doesn't need to be tested within the context of a committed relationship.

> You really stretch to find something "immoral" about Kim (and >about me, for that matter), don't you Larry? Could that be because you >know what an ass you're making out of yourself about her call sign and >you're just hoping to find some justification for your offensive and >sexist attitude toward her?

Quite the contrary. It is Kim's offensive and sexist behavior to which I object. Her callsign has the effect of sexualizing her identity as a radio amateur, in a manner which is unsuitable to the family-oriented nature of the ARS. Kim's lack of good taste and personal judgment is the issue of this thread -- not her morality. However, it is not difficult to make a connection between the two, and any such confusion is Kim's responsibility.

Kim has had the potential negative effect of her callsign explained to her by Riley Hollingsworth. She knows what action to take to rectify the situation. If she chooses not to, then this thread will continue. If she chooses to change her callsign to one which no longer creates such controversy, she will be praised for that action, and this thread will cease. It is her choice, and no one can force that choice upon her. She gets the credit -- or the criticism -- for whatever she chooses to do.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1358. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:59:28 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120215928.27773.00002962@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24355

In article <8C979F353A79AC62.BFA4DCF99807BDF1.3AFAE9CBC75FAC40@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

> Free speech is the cornerstone of our society. Without it we >are in a pure dictatorship, regardless of how benevolent that dictator >might be. But free speech, by necessity, carries with it the risk of >offense. This is something that as Americans we simply have to accept >as a cost of BEING Americans. As I pointed out in an earlier message >to this thread, it's the same as two children playing with their toys;
>if one of those children wants the right to play with his/her toys >without being limited by the other, that child must tolerate the same >behavior as well. If we value the exercise of our own free speech, we >must permit others to exercise their own--and before Larry or Dick >claims I don't allow them to exercise theirs, that's inaccurate--I DO >support their right to speak out. I simply reserve the right to point >out the flaws or bias in their statements as I chose.

Rick:

I don't believe anyone in this newsgroup, with the possible exception of Kim, disagrees with the above. I don't think the FCC should limit the issuance of callsigns which could, as in Kim's case, spell out words which could be construed as having a sexual innuendo, and thus being in bad taste. I believe it is totally the responsibility of the ham who requests such a call sign to live with the outcome of their actions. It just so happens that Kim is now, in this thread, getting her just deserts, as a result of her inappropriate choice.

I'm sure Kim would like nothing better than to "shut me up," as it were, but that will never happen. I created this thread, and it will be a recurring, if not permanent, feature of this newsgroup. For years, we've had the concept of the "family-oriented" nature of the ARS touted as one of it's most attractive features. I happen to strongly agree with this, and believe that Mr. Riley Hollingsworth has done all of us who value the positive, family-oriented image of the ARS
a great service when he stated that Kim's callsign had the potential to bring it "…one step closer to extinction." Kim's choice to flaunt
a vulgar and demeaning callsign does not make her a champion for free-speech "rights." It only makes her a spectacle of poor judgement.

> Welcome to ham radio, Sean. We're not usually as obnoxious on >the air as we are in this group--although a few are (mostly on 75m).
>Unlike the discussions here, most of what you'll find on the air is >pretty "vanilla" in nature instead of controversial.

On the contrary, there are many controversial discussions to be found on-the-air. The chaos common to the HF phone bands is not the only on-the-air activity available to radio amateurs. The CW and digital bands are full of interesting, stimulating conversations. Since Restructuring has virtually eliminated any effort involved in gaining access to the HF bands, I would think that the digital modes would gain greater popularity and higher utilization. Let's hope that this is so.

This newsgroup exists for the express purpose of discussing "controversial" topics related to amateur-radio policymaking. It is the specific, intended home of the debate on code testing as a licensing requirement. If you have personal objections as to the nature of the colloquy inherent to this newsgroup, I suggest that there are many other newsgroups which may serve your needs better than this one can.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1359. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 02:59:29 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120215929.27773.00002963@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24352

In article <3BFA6BEA.3948122F@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Rick Adams wrote:
>> Gee Larry, don't you ever wash that mind?
>
>In the years he's been on this newsgroup, he's been >consistently obsessive/compulsive about sex.

Cecil:

For exactly the same number of years, you've been attempting to assign the behavioral attributes you possess to others -- obviously to divert attention from your own obsessive/compulsive proclivities.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1360. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:12:03 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb1c20_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24357

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message news:3BFB089B.F3465139@earthlink.net...
>
> > As it happens, I have one son who turned 18 two weeks ago. He > > was home schooled and started college at 14 at a community college > > (he'll receive his AA degree--with a 3.92 GPA--this spring and start > > his Junior year at a University in the Fall). Last year he was one of > > Parade Magazine's 52 top newspaper carriers in the USA and won a trip > > to Europe for his efforts. In addition, he donates a great deal of his > > time to designing web pages for non-profit community agencies that > > help the homeless and battered women, and is very publicly opposed to > > racism, sexism, and laws that restrict the rights of individuals. He > > has no interest in drugs at all (not a guess-a fact) and he doesn't > > care for alcohol.
> >
> > Yup. I think my wife and I did ok there--don't you?
>
> I'd say that he has. Be careful not to take too much of the credit for > yourselves.
>
> Dave K8MN

First Davey wishes to make an observation of one's character built upon the way they were raised, then wants to depart from that observation and cautions against close association with credit for raising a kid well.

You are a contrast in design, Dave.

Kim W5TIT

1361. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:19:01 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb1db7_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24358

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120215924.27773.00002959@nso-fo.aol.com...
> In article <3bf9d18f$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >Steve!!! Dammit...hush. Larry's brought the subject up again--nearly right > >on time for the holidays, and I am wondering how long he'll run with it this > >time. I've added the aspect of mathematics to the mix and he's having a > >difficult time coming up with an effective dodge. I told him to prove that > >my callsign is a detriment to the ARS, since the numbers indicate he's > >wrong; membership's up.
> >
> >So, quiet....shhhhhhh ;)
>
> Kim:
>
> As stated previously, I never claimed that your call sign has done > any quantifiable damage to the ARS. It is more likely to affect > prospective hams in ones and twos -- perhaps discouraging another > future Edison to take up some other hobby. The potential harm of > your callsign will never be reflected in the numbers of licesnees, only > in the negative image it projects to those who never bother to > become licensed. Therefore, we'll never know just how many > steps closer to extinction you've taken us. If the number of U.S.
> hams doubles in the next five years, that doesn't eliminate the > negative impact of your callsign on the positive, family-oriented > image of the ARS.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
>

Oh, Larry. Don't get too lost in your delusion, OK? Ham radio, from the perspective of "those who never bother to become licensed", is about as invisible as air. Most non-licensees, save families, are even aware of ham radio. Most people are far more aware of CB than ham radio.

But, I forgot that you have that habit of blaming everyone else but yourself for your failures. If you'd like to make me your patsy because you can't change your deplorable behavior and quit chasing people from the hobby just by opening your mouth or setting finger to keyboard--then I am happy to be at your service.

Kim W5TIT

1362. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:23:18 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb1eb2_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24359

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120215926.27773.00002961@nso-fo.aol.com...
>
>
> Again, I am not married, but if I were, my wife would have no reason > to have suspicions about my behavior, because there would not be > any action on my part to arouse them. This is the true meaning of > loyalty to a spouse, or one's partner in a mutually exclusive > relationship.
>

I'd much rather have such faith in my husband, as I do, that he can go anywhere, in the company of anyone, and I think nothing of it. Same from him to me. Our commitment to each other as man and woman, to each other as best friends, and to each other as trusted companions, is there regardless of where one or the other is.

Maybe someday you'll get that lucky, Larry.

Kim W5TIT

1363. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:28:47 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb1ffc_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24360

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120215928.27773.00002962@nso-fo.aol.com...
> In article > Rick:
>
> It just so happens that Kim is now, in this thread, getting > her just deserts, as a result of her inappropriate choice.
>

I l-o-v-e it when Larry thinks he giving me desert...LOL I love it when he thinks he's actually bothering me.

> I'm sure Kim would like nothing better than to "shut me up," as it > were, but that will never happen.

Heavens, no!! You're quite the hoot, Larry. I had no idea there were even men like you around any more.

> I created this thread, and it will be > a recurring, if not permanent, feature of this newsgroup.

Did you?

> For years,
> we've had the concept of the "family-oriented" nature of the ARS > touted as one of it's most attractive features. I happen to strongly > agree with this, and believe that Mr. Riley Hollingsworth has done
> all of us who value the positive, family-oriented image of the ARS
> a great service when he stated that Kim's callsign had the potential > to bring it ".one step closer to extinction." Kim's choice to flaunt
> a vulgar and demeaning callsign does not make her a champion > for free-speech "rights." It only makes her a spectacle of poor > judgement.
>

Yep, I think that answers my earlier question in another post. Yep, penis envy is what ya got, there, Larry.

> This newsgroup exists for the express purpose of discussing
> "controversial" topics related to amateur-radio policymaking. It > is the specific, intended home of the debate on code testing as > a licensing requirement. If you have personal objections as to > the nature of the colloquy inherent to this newsgroup, I suggest > that there are many other newsgroups which may serve your > needs better than this one can.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

>

W5TIT - Kim (callsign first for your enjoyment, Larry)

1364. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:42:06 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFB228E.7684A824@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24361

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> As stated previously, I never claimed that your call sign has done > any quantifiable damage to the ARS. ... Therefore, we'll never know > just how many steps closer to extinction you've taken us.

In other words, you have declared Kim innocent until proven guilty.
Have you forgotten what country you're in Larry?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1365. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:43:18 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tf7sk016e7@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24382

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFB0362.D0090F68@earthlink.net...
> Ahhh, a libertarian. I've discarded that view as completely unworkable.
> So if your wife chooses to start sleeping with another man and he > consents, it is fine with you? Do you have any say? Do you see any > immorality in the act? After all, what consenting adults do...

No. I should hope so. Yes.
...none of which is the government's damn business. That's how Libertarians
think

1366. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:43:49 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120224349.27773.00002965@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24366

In article <9te8t002ns1@enews1.newsguy.com>, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
writes:

>> Cecil:
>>
>> I have nothing against coffee and conversation. However, If I were >> married, my XYL would not be having either with another man without >> me being with them, unless he were her brother or father. One reason >> why I'm not married is because I've yet to meet a woman who seems >> to be able to grasp this simple concept.
>>
>> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
>How about if he was gay?

Krell:

Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior. I do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women; therefore, I would not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.
To do so would be just as much a challenge to my trust as if he were a normal, heterosexual male.

People who truly love and respect each other do not impose such challenges to the trust their loved ones have in them. It's as simple as that.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1367. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:43:50 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120224350.27773.00002966@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24365

In article <3BFAC507.CFB58E88@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> I, too, have a long way to go before I could be considered a "good"
>> Christian. However, my life is still in Christ's hands -- He is my >> Savior. I have faith, not "religion."
>
>Right now, Larry, you are going to hell because you don't possess >enough waking hours to ask forgiveness for all your sins. My advice >would be to cut back on your sinning to a level that can be forgiven >with less than 24 hours of prayer.

Well, you've got one thing right, Cecil -- I'm endlessly asking for forgiveness of my sins. I am also praying for those who don't see the need to ask forgiveness. That's as much as I can do, save for trying not to be a sinner.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1368. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:43:51 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120224351.27773.00002969@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24362

In article <cuvyxnansvbet.gn4enyw.pminews@or.news.verio.net>, "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> writes:

>
> When is the re-run scheduled? Sure beats old "Law and Order".

Objection, Your Honor! I like the old "Law and Order" re-runs -- especially since I've not seen many of them from when they were
"All-New Episodes" in prime time!

73 de Larry, K3LT

1369. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:43:51 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120224351.27773.00002968@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24363

In article <3BFAE410.222FC6E@earthlink.net>, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
writes:

>> Right now, Larry, you are going to hell because you don't possess >> enough waking hours to ask forgiveness for all your sins. My advice >> would be to cut back on your sinning to a level that can be forgiven >> with less than 24 hours of prayer.
>
>I wouldn't sweat it too much, Larry. You are now getting religious >advice from a man who says he prays to his inner self. As we have long >konwn, nothing he says here can be taken seriously.

No sweat, Dave. One reason why I know I'm not going to Hell is because I've never told anyone else that they're going to!

73 de Larry, K3LT

1370. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:43:51 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120224351.27773.00002967@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24367

In article <22714020968DF113.D317E10C11D1A847.1F86216ACB998408@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
> There are a great many things that are likely to contribute to >a decline in the ARS--including the racism, hate speech, rudeness, and
>"cb-like" obscenities and arguments (which, of course, is a stereotype >that doesn't apply to the majority of cb users). ALL of these, and >other similar behaviors, have a real potential to harm amateur radio.
>Until Hollingsworth starts eliminating THOSE problems (and telling us >to "self-police" isn't eliminating them), he has a lot more to concern >himself with than Kim's call sign.
>
> Rick

I don't disagree with any of the above, Rick, but Mr. Hollingsworth did take the time to respond to Kim with the words which now title this thread. Moreover, I certainly believe him to be a much better authority to judge what could possibly take the ARS "...one step closer to extinction" than anyone in this newsgroup, myself included. However, as your mileage obviously varies, all I can say is I'm glad we have the freedom to disagree, and to express that disagreement in a public forum without fear of censorship!

73 de Larry, K3LT

1371. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:43:52 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120224352.27773.00002970@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24368

In article <3bfb139f_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>> Yup. He's a university professor, and, as such, has a professional >> mandate to comply with the edicts of liberal, politically-correct mind >> control at all times. People who make judgements are independent >> thinkers -- and, as such, are a threat to the creation of the One World >> Order.
>>
>> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>>
>
>So, you're saying your degrees are had from the teachings of liberal, >politically-correct mind control freaks? Maybe if you'd taken the time to >get a quality education, you would have been able to apply it...
>
>Kim W5TIT

Kim:

I spent the best years of my adult life defending your First Amendment right to make a fool of yourself. I got my B.S. after I retired from the USAF, mainly because I wanted it for myself. I love my job, it pays well, and has full State benefits, and lets me do something that really helps people less fortunate than myself. I'd have to take a 10 kilobuck per year pay cut to take an entry-level job in the career field in which I have my degree, but I am now being strongly lobbied by one of my old professors to get my M.S. and do some part-time teaching as adjunct faculty. Maybe, someday, but for now I am working my way out of the economic impact of 3 years of going to school and working a low-paying job while doing so. So, before you attempt to chide me for not being able to apply my degree to my professional life, please explain all the truck drivers out there with Masters and Doctorate degrees! Some people do what they want to do in spite of their education -- even when they actually have one!

What is your educational level -- and what do you do for a living?

(Anyone want to take any bets as to whether we'll get an answer?)

73 de Larry, K3LT

1372. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:43:53 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120224353.27773.00002971@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24364

In article <3bfb146e_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>Earth to Larry: you never got promoted because it was someone else's fault;
>you never got noticed by the boss because it was someone else's fault; blab
>blab blab. Now, you never got married because it is someone else's fault.
>See a pattern here?
>
>Kim W5TIT

Earth to Kim:

Where did you get the idea that I "never got promoted?" I got promoted at a rate which was way above average for my career field. I opted for early retirement as a Master Sergeant in spite of a virtually guaranteed promotion to Senior Master Sergeant. I think you'd best avoid topics you know nothing about.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1373. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:44:37 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <C1F3BA4A8C3D04CC.E0937DD15328380A.00D5A875679723B2@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24369

On 20 Nov 2001 16:48:57 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Ouch! I really was "rolling on the floor, laughing my head off" after >reading that!

If a flame can't be funny, why post it? ;-)

> Banged my noggin' on my computer's mini-tower on the >way back up!

That's it, Larry. Take it out on your computer!

>All I can say, Rick, is that if you want to do some >moonlighting after a hard day filling young, impressionable skulls full >of liberal mush, check out one of the local comedy clubs!

Libertarian, Larry, not liberal--please!

And most of the heads I'm teaching THIS term could use some filling with philosophical thought--I'm teaching CJ Psychology courses to Police Academy grads who are joining various police departments. If I can influence THAT kind of rigid group-think, converting you and Dick to devout no-coders should be a breeze!

I don't need the comedy club though, I get plenty of time to do a stand up routine when I lecture--and I have a captive audience to boot!

>BTW -- I can just see Kim now --- swooning over your picture (you >have exchanged photos by now, I assume!).

Larry, anyone who would "swoon" over MY picture needs therapy!

I invariably describe myself totally honestly--as being at least a handsome as a great American statesman (Abraham Lincoln, unfortunately).

And, no, we haven't "exchanged pictures." We haven't even exchanged QSL cards (although, after all the discussion about her card, I _would_ like to add Kim's card to my collection to add a touch of "spice" :-).

> In order to avoid revolting
>my own self, I won't bother trying to describe her response any further >than that!

Hysterical laughter revolts you?

Why?

> Just one word of advice, however. She's married, and >she's from Texas -- and that means her OM is probably packing heat!

So?

I'm married myself (for 21 years), is that supposed to mean I can't have female friends? Why not?

You might want to consider just how sexist such assumptions sound, Larry. This is the 21st Century--not the 19th. The assumption that the only reason a man would be friendly to a woman is for sex is both very demeaning to women (and to men) and completely inaccurate.

As it happens, I have a number of very good friends who are women. By your standards, that should mean I have a harem. While the concept may be flattering to me, I'll have to pass--I'm just too old to handle more than two or three women at a time and that would exceed my limit. Heck, if I tried that I'd have to borrow some Viagra from you just to make it through the first couple weeks!

>Since you're a double Post Hole Digger, I hope I can count on you >not to do anything stupid!

Yup! Not that a graduate degree makes a person any less stupid than everyone else--but it DOES tend to provide a better vocabulary to use in debates! :-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1374. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:46:03 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <079866FFCA9AB185.2A94343A7D802CA1.E99F87C35EA92373@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24370

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 05:11:37 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>> I've got you, Larry, and Dick on the defensive, don't I?
>
>Is that your overinflated view of your power?

Curiosity or self-defense?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1375. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:46:47 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFB23A7.FD7757E7@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24372

Dave Heil wrote:
> I guess in the same way that you can continue to post this drivel about > me telling a lie when it is quite clear that is was a typo.

It was a typo but then you lied for days about making the typo. If you had just admitted the typo I wouldn't have had the pleasure of showing you up as a liar AND a fool. You not only misinterpret what I write, you misinterpret what you write.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1376. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:47:45 UTC
From: BH <radioguyx@texxas.net>
Message-ID: <3BFA6B90.FD38CEB9@texxas.net>
Source record: 24371

Phil Kane wrote:
>
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 00:23:07 GMT, BH wrote:
>
> >I used to talk on a regular basis to a Delta airline pilot (yes he > >was a licensed ham) who lived near me. He flew between SF and > >Hawaii and after takeoff from Honolulu he would get on 15 meters
> >and we would have a nice contact while he was out over the > >Pacific.
>
> Did the company know that he was doing that?
>
> Did the company's LAWYERS know that he was doing that?
>
> Section 97.11 of the FCC Rules puts some very specific
> restrictions on operation from an aircraft.

Have no idea but we had some nice contacts which relieved some boredom on his part. Do you know if the aircraft being out of US airspace makes any difference as far as the FCC is concerned. AS far as any company rules, I would assume they would apply anytime

BH

1377. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:50:14 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <81556E28351A1A56.42166A57A58FAD72.308E90AEA500DABC@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24373

On 20 Nov 2001 16:48:54 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>That's where you'd be wrong. I was in Safeway the other day, and there >was a bottle of Tobasco sauce on a shelf, several inches over my head!
>Somehow, I managed to "get it." In reality, I get lots of things that are >over my head.

Larry!

You're demonstrating a sense of humor!

Shame on you--you're destroying all our images of you!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1378. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:52:32 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011120225232.27773.00002972@nso-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 24374

In article <3bfb1c20_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>First Davey wishes to make an observation of one's character built upon the >way they were raised, then wants to depart from that observation and >cautions against close association with credit for raising a kid well.
>
>You are a contrast in design, Dave.
>
>Kim W5TIT

That's funny, Kim. I, and most other people, would call Dave an example of a fine, upstanding citizen -- and his son is proof thereof, in addition to being one in his own right. I don't know what you mean by a "contrast in design," and I have strong doubts that you do, either.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1379. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:54:12 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFB2564.9899CF5C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24375

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > > If you want to participate, Kim, you may have to learn a few words of > > > > > the local idiom. If I use a term and you don't know what it means, you > > > > > might want to find out what it means.
> > > >
> > > > You mean like "comparting"? You apparently used a word for which > > > > you were ignorant of the meaning.
> > >
> > > You know better and that makes your continuation of the lie all the > > > worse.
> >
> > You're the one who's lying, Dave, and here's the proof yet once again.
> > ************************************************************************
> > Message-ID: <3BF5B180.79E0FAAD@earthlink.net>
> > From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> > Newsgroups: rec.radio.amateur.policy
> > Subject: Re: Radio Policy
> > Date: Sat, 17 Nov 2001 00:43:24 GMT
> >
> > > You do not, nor have you ever, lived in a place called Small Southern > > > Town, USA. I do not recognize your elevation of Cecil Moore to the > > > status of expert on the South or on Affirmative Action. In addition, > > > I'm calling you on this diversion from your original erroneous comment
> > > comparting Affirmative Action and morse testing.
> > > ^^^^^^^^^^
> > ************************************************************************
> > You introduced the word "comparting" and then lied about doing so for > > days and days. How you can deny your documented archived postings is > > unbelievable.
>
> ...and you introduced the "Big Lie" technique. How long is "days and > days", Cecil?

Four days now, Dave. I've been keeping track to see exactly when you are going to show a hint of integrity and issue an apology.
```

> How long will you ignore the fact that my earlier and > later posts on the matter say "compare" or "comparing"?

I'm not ignoring that fact. I compared Affirmative Action and Morse code testing. I haven't stopped comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code testing. I will continue to compare Affirmative Action and Morse code testing. I have NEVER denied comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.

I denied comparting Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.
I will continue to deny comparting Affirmative Action and Morse code testing. It was a lie when you first posted it and it continues to be a lie for all to see.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1380. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:56:14 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <6C55D1F9CA0D9BDE.D7CDCCB30AE46DE6.E6F60A264A937861@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24376

On 20 Nov 2001 16:48:54 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Yup. He's a university professor, and, as such, has a professional >mandate to comply with the edicts of liberal, politically-correct mind >control at all times. People who make judgements are independent >thinkers -- and, as such, are a threat to the creation of the One World >Order.

Oh Brother. Here come the "One World'ers!"

Seen any black helicopters lately, Larry? Maybe some UN troops taking over your neighborhood?

Sorry, Larry, but I'm neither a liberal nor politically correct. On the contrary, I'm an outspoken critic of PC double speak on both our campus and the Internet. I simply don't judge people based on their race, their religion, their sex, or their sexual orientation.
To me that isn't being PC, it's demonstrating intelligence and a willingness to accept people at face value.

I'm still not sure why on earth you would equate being judgmental as being an independent thinker. The independent thinker takes each situation as an individual event, not as a "proof" that a stereotype is true--and the independent thinker is intelligent enough to recognize that simply because he or she believes something does NOT mean that others are wrong for not believing it--only that they are different in their perspective.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1381. Re: The difference between Morse Code and other tested topics

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 03:56:51 UTC
From: Larry Klose <lklose@net-link.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb2634$0$35618$bbae4d71@news.net-link.net>
Source record: 24377

"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
news:IMiK7.176702$3d2.7616743@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> Sure as hell looks like some sort of mind game to me.

Why you so upset, it is just a public debate of radio amateur (regulatory) policy.

Larry

1382. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 04:00:06 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <99590C2BB72352E9.215B94F29C04A2D8.F5DF0AF167458A57@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24378

On 20 Nov 2001 16:48:56 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I have nothing against coffee and conversation. However, If I were >married, my XYL would not be having either with another man without >me being with them, unless he were her brother or father. One reason >why I'm not married is because I've yet to meet a woman who seems >to be able to grasp this simple concept.

If you want to find a woman who agrees with THAT concept, you'll need a time machine that will take you back at least 100 years!

Larry, wake up! All that such an attitude tells your partner is that you don't trust her. Is that a message you would really want to send to a woman you claimed to care about? This is the 21st Century--today women aren't the property of their spouses, they are their partners!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1383. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 04:00:43 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFB26EB.BA0A80CF@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24380

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Then why do you take my postings about "comparting" so seriously?
>
> I don't take them seriously, Cecil.

So how many replies have you posted regarding "comparting"?
I've been leading you down the primrose path for four days now.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1384. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 04:01:40 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <85731B0E5E217B66.0F23E6FE85718F1C.57669B07DFC1D87F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24379

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 13:55:38 -0500, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
wrote:

>How about if he was gay?

Then Larry would be even MORE determined that his spouse not meet him--he'd be convinced that if she spoke to a homosexual man she'd catch AIDS from the conversation and infect him!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1385. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 04:04:29 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFB27CD.3948D8E3@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24381

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> For exactly the same number of years, you've been attempting to > assign the behavioral attributes you possess to others -- obviously
> to divert attention from your own obsessive/compulsive proclivities.

No diversion necessary, Larry. I'm bipolar with obsessive/compulsive traits. That's how I can so easily recognize them in others.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1386. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 04:09:11 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFB28E7.73A6CE1B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24383

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> Fully half the people I work with are women, and > within the confines of the workplace, I have many interesting > conversations with them. However, these are not exclusive, one-on-> one meetings at Starbucks or anywhere else. That would not be > appropriate behavior, since most of these women are married, and > I am engaged in an exclusive, monogamous relationship with a > woman myself. Such meetings are inherently inappropriate unless > the mates of both parties are physically present and mutually > involved.

Larry, I'm convinced you are pulling our legs. If not, you are farther gone than I thought. One of your think-alikes hits Afghani women with a stick because she shows her face in public.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1387. Re: WOW! - That's all I can say

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 04:19:20 UTC
From: kelly@dvol.com
Message-ID: <d22b54c3.0111202019.5dbad10c@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24384

k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ) wrote in message news:<20011118191207.08696.00000568@mb-cs.aol.com>...

> Now run along like a nice troll and eat some prunes...maybe it will clear > up that retention problem you seem to be suffering.
>
>
Hey Teebie Sweetums I just done the prostrate Roto-Rooter thing, lemmee tellya abt the joys of "retention" . . OK so I'm a tad oversensitive, fhut the wuck.
>
>
I can recoomend a great urologist who can fix this idiot's brain.
>
>
Dit.
>
>
> Steve, K4YZ
>
>
w3rv

1388. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 04:19:50 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFB2B66.FC277BED@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24385

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote:
> > Ahhh, a libertarian. I've discarded that view as completely unworkable.
> > So if your wife chooses to start sleeping with another man and he > > consents, it is fine with you? Do you have any say? Do you see any > > immorality in the act? After all, what consenting adults do...
>
> No. I should hope so. Yes.
> ...none of which is the government's damn business. That's how Libertarians
> think

Adultery is indeed none of the government's damn business.
No enlightened state has laws against adultery.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1389. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 04:22:33 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFB2C09.714F5A2@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24386

Rick Adams wrote:
> As it happens, I have a number of very good friends who are > women. By your standards, that should mean I have a harem.

What it means is that Larry cannot look at a female without thinking about sex - any female except his sister or mother.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1390. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 04:24:40 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFB2C88.9FC1C774@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24387

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> Well, you've got one thing right, Cecil -- I'm endlessly asking for > forgiveness of my sins. I am also praying for those who don't see > the need to ask forgiveness. That's as much as I can do, save for > trying not to be a sinner.

From your postings, I would say your attempt at not sinning is pretty feeble.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1391. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 04:28:01 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFB2D51.2379D5B0@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24388

Rick Adams wrote:
> Seen any black helicopters lately, Larry? Maybe some UN troops > taking over your neighborhood?

Something was interfering with CNN on my TV. I called the cable company and they said it was the AWACs. Does that count?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1392. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 04:29:25 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFB2DA5.67728B4F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24389

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior. I > do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women; therefore, I would
> not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.

Would you allow your wife to have lunch with a lesbian?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1393. Re: The difference between Morse Code and other tested topics

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 04:39:59 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <zeGK7.178116$3d2.7751338@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24390

"Larry Klose" <lklose@net-link.net> wrote in message news:3bfb2634$0$35618$bbae4d71@news.net-link.net...
>
> "Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
> news:IMiK7.176702$3d2.7616743@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> > Sure as hell looks like some sort of mind game to me.
>
> Why you so upset, it is just a public debate of radio amateur (regulatory) > policy.
>
> Larry
>

Upset is not the word, weary and bored stiff come closer. This horse has been ridden into the ground.

Some yoyo gets his codeless Tech and for whatever reason decides he will never take a simple-minded code test. OK, fine. Certainly his right. He then procedes to become a member of everything, goes to Dayton and visits HP Maxim's grave, becomes the resident genius on everything from the regs to 160 meter gray line propagation with special emphasis on emergency ops. We then get to hear about digital everything. At some point, anyone who ever passed a code test becomes fair game for assorted potshots. The mode is attacked by someone who has never run it and things degenerate from there.

There is also an ethical issue. I really do not enjoy being asked to enable basically silly behavior. What you are suggesting, a debate on regulatory policy, is right up there with the late nite bull sessions I once got into to avoid facing my homework. And at bottom that is the issue and will be until 2003 or whenever -- I want to debate, I don't want to learn code. Ok, fine, take it to the chaplain; he is paid to listen. I won't help you in your juvenile behavior.

And what in the world would we debate? I am not about to justify code testing because it really cannot be justified in 2001 and never could be at anything over 12. But it is the law at the moment so there are exactly two choices, study code or wait, neither of which require my participation. What makes me so blessed important? You want me to recognize you as my equal? When pink pigs fly. Do you seriously need my approval? Not bloody likely.

From my point of view I see a cat in need of a scratching post. Lacking one to give the cat I am not about to volunteer my left leg. Lost a lot of cats that way.

Dick N&#65533;BK

1394. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 05:23:58 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <2EEE83A720255921.470F75856E758565.24B18CF6647676A9@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24391

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 20:49:33 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>What was that? I can't hear you...

Sure you can--you're just pulling my LEG.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1395. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 05:30:53 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <4440E418D7E4271C.5A1F63EFDB72CCAC.CED57F94847B28BE@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24392

On 21 Nov 2001 03:43:51 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I don't disagree with any of the above, Rick, but Mr. Hollingsworth >did take the time to respond to Kim with the words which now >title this thread. Moreover, I certainly believe him to be a much >better authority to judge what could possibly take the ARS "...one >step closer to extinction" than anyone in this newsgroup, myself >included. However, as your mileage obviously varies, all I can say >is I'm glad we have the freedom to disagree, and to express that >disagreement in a public forum without fear of censorship!

This is scary, Larry. I happen to agree with you (although I don't necessarily share your view as to Hollingsworth's accuracy in his predictions, but that's a personal difference not an issue based one). Either you're mellowing out or the argument is beginning to lose its fun for you and you're not posting for effect for a change.

Or, of course, I've been working too hard and it's beginning to cloud my judgement . . . ;-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1396. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 05:32:45 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <2C417BA006FB358B.64865A660512ACC7.E7EC661B8180E44F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24393

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 20:37:19 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>I can't tell if that's penis envy or just plain envy.

Kim, if talking about your call sign causes Larry to experience penis envy, he's a LOT more confused than any of us realize! :-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1397. Re: Reply to -> Twistedhed@webtv.net or Moparholic@hotmail.com care of the CB news group

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 05:56:12 UTC
From: SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com
Message-ID: <d9f7b76c.0111202156.70423a34@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24394
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Leland C. Scott" <Twistedhed@wettv.net> wrote in message news:<XPBK7.170$rU3.6664@typhoon.mw.mediaone.net>...
> "SD SpecialDelivery Jones" <SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com> wrote > in message >
>
> >leland,...the phone company will not do shit about that crap.
>
> That all depends on the frequency and time of the calls.
>
> > as soon as they find out the facts on the situation
>
> They realy don't have much choice in the matter.
>
> > think the best > > thing for you to do is leave your phone off the hook or change your > > number.
>
> I have an answering machine which I use to screen all my calls. I have > never answered the phone until I know who it is. I would just assume to > let the telmarketers waste their time for two or three minutes talking > to my mcahine tha takes me all of 2 seconds to hit the delete button > later.
>
> >leland, you sir are a agitator
>
> Being an "agitator" depends on your point of view. You are either for > sane operation where people go by the rules so that all may enjoy the > benefits that come of it, or you have the spectrum thieves who will take > over whatever frequency seems to be unoccupied, which of course means > the authorized user no longer has use of the spectrum whenever they > choose to use it, the spectrum thief is using it. Same goes with > amplifier use on 11m.
>
> >who walks a fine line between legality and illegality
>
> So if I did something illegal then jump right in here and point it out.
> In the past 2 years nobody else could find anything, and some have tried > real hard too. LOL
>
>
> --
>

>
>
> 73's de,
>
> Leland C. Scott
> KC8LD0
>
> ARRL member
> NCI member
>
> "You ask what Morse Code is good for? I'll tell you. Morse > Code is used exclusively by Electronics Based life forms to > communicate amongst themselves using advanced Organic > Digital Signal Processors, running state of the art Artificial > Intelligence Software, to perform the highly complex > transmit encryption, receive decryption and error correction > functions."

so let me get this straight......you have no intention,... as you put it, to quit doing what you are doing.........is that correct???????

1398. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 06:10:41 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <C69184E54F155A8B.3CF85435036D2954.A9EA953BEA288A9B@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24395

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 01:51:29 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Not in any way that would have identified the character. It just didn't >seem like you understood who the literary Tugboat Annie is.

Sure I do--I'm approaching "Fuddy-Duddy-hood" fairly quickly.
But the juxtaposition of "Annie" with both Tugboat and Little Annie Fannie was simply too obvious (in the light of the thread topic--Kim's "TIT") to miss!

>I'm sorry. Maybe you can save your money and purchase one.

Nah! Plenty of them on the Usenet if I want one--or I can record one on 3950 any Saturday.

>That isn't what I said at all. I believe that responsible parents >monitor and control what their as yet immature offspring do. While >Kim's deliberately suggestive callsign isn't at the top of the heap, it >contributes to the decline.

But it likewise implies that a "responsible" parent would take offense at her call sign, something that is purely a matter of opinion. I feel myself to be a "responsible" parent, and I can guarantee that if Kim's call sign was the worst thing my son was ever exposed to I'd be rather happy!

>It isn't the social sciences who determine what makes a good parent,
>Rick.

No, it is the end result that determines that. Social sciences can, however, provide research that demonstrates the kinds of parental behavior that most frequently result in positive development and the ones that result in negative development.

>I wish I could agree with your touchy-feely scenario. My parents might >say, "We dont' use that kind of vulgar language" Of course, 75m wasn't >the sewer in my days as a beginner in amateur radio that it is now.
>Keep in mind that no one is required to obtain a license to listen to >75m or 2m. Even Novices in my day listened to the action on phone on >all of the bands.

True. But I will still argue that the best parent isn't the one who forbids their children to listen to offensive speech--it's the one who permits it but insures that he or she takes the time to discuss the content with the child and help the child to understand why the speech IS offensive instead.

>As to violent movies, there simply weren't as many. The ones which >existed had such cheesy special effects that they were transparent.

True.

The problem with violence in movies (and television, of course) came when the violence stopped being the "bang-you're-dead" variety and became very realistic. Simply put, it inures a person to actual violence and makes it seem less horrifying or unacceptable than it actually is.

>There were some films my parents drew the line at. I'm curious to know >if you've simply ignored today's motion picture ratings and allowed your >kids to view whatever they wanted to see.

Within reason, yes. While my child was pre-pubescent we set some limits--and insisted that some of the movies he wanted to see were viewed with one of us, not alone. After he became a teen, of course, we stopped setting any content limits at all--frankly, if a parent hasn't instilled a set of values by the age of 12, that parent has already failed anyway and if he or she HAS instilled the values, a movie isn't going to change them.

>I'm in agreement with your statement. I do my part in ignoring the >Liberty Net and much of the rest of the crud on 75.

The people who jam it, etc., are just egging the participants on and creating enough noise that they attract others who would otherwise never have heard the Liberty Net in the first place.

If a group of narrow-minded people want to discuss topics that demonstrate their nature clearly I feel we should let them do just that--listening to bigotry is the best possible way to develop a real distaste for it.

>I'd say that he has. Be careful not to take too much of the credit for >yourselves.

I don't take any credit for his accomplishments at all (with the exception of his writing skills, which I've spent a lot of time helping him develop). He worked for every reward he achieved.

On the other hand, I _do_ take credit for having provided the kind of home in which his abilities could development--through trying to be a good parent. NONE of us is perfect--we all make mistakes raising kids, all we can do is minimize the negatives and learn from our mistakes--and I _do_ believe we were successful in doing that.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1399. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 06:13:24 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <915E2FEC9C5E6F28.0AE14CE32F6B05BF.FEB59C4C36B03815@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24396

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 01:30:12 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>>
>> On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 05:02:22 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
>> wrote:
>>
>> >Rick, You've just demonstrated your own lack of class.
>>
>> Well, since everyone who disagrees with you demonstrates a
>> "lack of class" according to you, at least I'm in good company.
>
>Let's see. There's Kim and...uh....there's you. How is that everyone >who diagrees with me?
>

Ok. Then _some_ of the people who disagree with you are arbitrarily identified by you as demonstrating a "lack of class" and presumably the substantial number of others who do so are not so identified.

Better?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1400. Re: WOW! - That's all I can say

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 06:33:56 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011121013356.09510.00000863@mb-fy.aol.com>
Source record: 24397

>Subject: Re: WOW! - That's all I can say
>From: kelly@dvol.com (Brian Kelly)
>Date: 11/20/2001 10:19 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <d22b54c3.0111202019.5dbad10c@posting.google.com>

>I can recoomend a great urologist who can fix this idiot's brain.

I think a proctologist would be more appropriate...! ! !

73

Steve

1401. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 07:25:45 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <1C904F71B898FB29.F21DCEFA4F655B2B.9DA225EE776C8AE4@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24398

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 01:29:11 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Ahhh, a libertarian. I've discarded that view as completely unworkable.

Please bear in mind that I said "libertarian," (small "l"), not "Libertarian," (large "L"). While I feel the Libertarian party has some very good points--particularly concerning personal freedom--I tend to break from them when it comes to basic support for social programs such as medical assistance for the poor or elderly, unemployment benefits, etc. On the other hand, libertarianism (small
"l") addresses only the issues of freedom and responsibility (which,
by necessity, comes with freedom), not political issues of government support for social needs. John Stuart Mill, for example, was a perfect example of a libertarian thinker, as were John Locke and Thomas Jefferson.

>So if your wife chooses to start sleeping with another man and he >consents, it is fine with you?

Of course it is. I married her, I didn't purchase her at auction!

Look at it this way: If you care about someone, you want them to be happy and to enjoy their lives, right? Well if it would give her pleasure to sleep with someone else, I would certainly not be demonstrating very much love for her if I refused her that pleasure--or failed to trust her to keep her marriage separate from her recreation.

>Do you have any say?

The only things I have the right to expect, if she chooses to sleep with someone outside the home is that she will take steps to insure that her actions don't harm anyone. She is perfectly free to have sex with such an individual, for example, but she has an absolute obligation to insure she doesn't bring an STD home as a result. In the same vein, I have the right to expect her to hold up her end of our marital partnership by doing her share of the work at home (she doesn't work outside the home, so she accepts responsibility for a larger share of the work at home than I do) and I have the right to expect that she will not allow her recreational activities to interfere with our relationship. Beyond that, any decisions would, by any logic, be her's to make not mine.

> Do you see any immorality in the act?

Under conditions where both partners are aware of the activities? None what-so-ever. Why should engaging in an activity that gives (and results in) pleasure and involves no one who doesn't consent to participate be "immoral?"

If one partner is acting in that manner behind the back of the other then the situation is very different. In that case, clearly, he or she is breaking their word to their partner and thus knowingly harming their relationship. That, clearly, is immoral behavior.

Note that I define morality on the basis of harm to others.
Since I'm not a Christian, I'm not "locked" into a mindset that defines sexual activities as immoral actions. Instead, I see sex as an expression of love, of joy, or of shear happiness in life. NONE of that is--or can be demonstrated to be--immoral in any reasonable use of the word.

> After all, what consenting adults do...

We agree.

>> Being closed minded doesn't mean someone disagrees--it means >> they are unwilling to look at an issue from any perspective but their >> own.
>
>But if someone looks at both sides of an issue and rejects the other's >view after examining it, is it your view that the person is >close-minded?

Only if they refuse to listen to new evidence that may change their view in the future, or if they insist that their view is the ONLY correct one instead of simply viewing it as the correct one for THEM.

>> Example: There is nothing wrong with someone viewing Kim's call >> sign as personally offensive to them, based on their personal moral >> values. But to accuse her of lacking class or threatening amateur >> radio, then ignoring the statements of others that they simply don't >> perceive it in the same manner--arguing in fact that if we don't agree >> with their assessment, we have no class either--CLEARLY demonstrates >> that their minds are closed.
>
>That's simply a judgement one arrives at after examing the issue. I've >looked at the issue of Kim's call and I've come to believe that her >actions lack decorum. That is my sincer and honest view.

And you have a right to it.

What neither you nor anyone else has a right to do, however, is to ridicule or attack Kim about her sign. To tell someone that he or she lacks class because in your opinion they have done something you find inappropriate--but which is NOT a clear violation of society's rules (and since Kim's sign is LEGAL, clearly it isn't a violation) is clearly stepping across a line between your rights to your opinion and her rights to be free of insult and ridicule. It's one thing to simply state that you don't care for her vanity call personally--that's simply expressing your opinion and, if she is interested in knowing why, a conversation may develop--particularly if it is informational instead of confrontational in nature. But it's another thing altogether to tell her that because you, personally, disapprove of her call it proves that she lacks class or decorum. That isn't communications, it's an attack.

>It would be interesting if your "no wrong, no right" world existed.
>How about: "I have the facts. I have examined them and believe your >actions to not be in the best interests of amateur radio or even of your >own human dignity."?

So long as you are willing to stop at the point where the person you are addressing states that they disagree with your assessment, fine. You are certainly well within your rights to state your opinions--the key is in identifying them AS your opinions instead of treating them as though they were absolute statements of universal truth--which seems to be the common response to her call here among those who oppose it.

>> Don't confuse my views on Christianity with my views of >> Christians, they aren't the same. While I don't happen to believe in >> the tenets of the Christian religion, it _does_ offer many rather >> strongly positive philosophical principles. Unfortunately, as >> Christianity is _practiced_ the only thing that comes through is >> "selective oppression."
>
>That's an extremely subjective and close minded statement, Rick. It is >obvious that you do not know how all people practice Christianity and >you are apparently ignorant of denominational differences. I've never >been oppressed by my Church.

But I'm not claiming that adherents are oppressed--I'm claiming that non-believers are, a very different concept.

If you can honestly state that you don't believe Christianity as it is commonly practiced today (and yes I know there are those who DON'T practice it in that manner--but they are a small minority) doesn't oppress the rights or freedoms of non-believers, I'll be more than happy to support my claim with as much evidence as you would like to see. Even the simplest examples should demonstrate that concept. For example, "Blue Laws" prohibit conducting some/all business on Sunday and are based directly on the biblical concept of a "day of rest" but result in oppressing both Jews and Muslims who are required by their religions not to work on Friday night through Saturday and by the laws enacted by Christians not to work on Sunday--thus creating an unfair competitive environment for them when compared to Christian businessmen; other examples include prohibition of adultery [a matter of personal choice], homosexual activities [illegal in 37 states], masturbation [a FELONY in several states, btw], and bigamy [which oppresses both Muslims--who by their religion may have up to four wives if they can support them].

You may not personally feel that you have been oppressed by Christianity--but the lack of freedom of choice demonstrated by the laws I listed above HAS effectively limited your freedom to choose, and thus has oppressed you as well, even if you would not have made the choices it forbids.

>I don't recall one of the sayings of Jesus being that anything >consenting adults do is fine. In fact, I don't recall any religion >which has anything like that as one of its tenets.

So?

If anything, that's a clear demonstration of precisely the kind of thinking I'm addressing. You assume that because Jesus didn't say anything about consenting adults that not all consensual behavior is acceptable. But why should what Jesus said or didn't say have the slightest influence on anyone who doesn't practice Christianity? I don't happen to view Jesus, assuming he existed in the first place, as anything but a wandering rabbi trying to teach a philosophy of self-denial and non-violence. Perhaps some good principles, but even that assumes they were quoted accurately--unlikely given the time that passed between the year of his reported death and the time the gospels were written down, but theoretically possible. Whether he did or did not say something is, however, irrelevant for anyone other than those who follow the religion personally. It is reasonable, therefore, to judge the morality of acts performed by those who adhere to the same set of values you adhere to on the basis of biblical injunction--it is NOT reasonable to judge--or legislate--the morality or legality of acts performed by others on that basis.

>Lack of taste and decorum are dictated more by society than by religion.

Lack of taste can mean anything from a lack of appreciation for a fine wine or a Beluga Caviar or well-made sushi to wearing a long dress with lavender stripes on a pea green background mixed with pink polka-dots. Clearly, these are totally matters of personal taste, not issues of relevance to others. You may not care for the fact that I wear a diamond in my ear lobe; someone else may not care for the fact that I wear a suit and tie the majority of the time. Neither of you would have any objective basis for a conclusion that I lacked taste--only that my taste disagreed with your own.

In Kim's case, some people find that her choice of call signs is not something they find in the best of taste personally. That's fine. There are others of us--seemingly the majority--who either don't have any feelings one way or the other or who see that choice as NOT representing poor taste, it's all a matter of perspective.

As far as the role of religion in the controversy. Can you honestly say that there is ANY possible reason for feeling the use of

"TIT" in a call sign is in poor taste beyond the religious views on sex? In many religions (i.e., Tantric Buddhism, etc.) the human body is NOT seen as immoral, and thus her call would be no more likely to be accused of representing poor taste than it would if she had chosen, for example, "W5ARM" instead. THAT is an example of how religion dictates taste to society.

>We live in a nation of laws and regulation. Those laws and regulations >not only protect your rights but protect me from you.

And that is the precise point at which they should stop.

> By and large, you >are free to practice whatever you like within the confines of your home >or place of worship.

On the contrary--even the few examples I cited earlier make it clear that this is not the case.

> That doesn't always hold true in public venues.

Within reason, I agree. However, before agreeing to that it's necessary to agree on the meaning of "public venue." To me, it is perfectly reasonable to restrict behavior which is patently offensive to the majority of people when it is conducted in a place where others are forced to either see it or avoid a location they wish to visit. On the other hand, many people see "Public" as any setting not enclosed by the walls of a private home (and even there see it as public if more than the residents are present). Obviously, if you are engaging in consensual activities in a setting where only those who agree to those behaviors (whether it is an indoor setting or an outdoor one is irrelevant) are present it should be none of society's business what-so-ever. Unfortunately, that is not the case in the United States.

>The airwaves are a public venue.

And one clearly regulated by the government who do NOT view Kim's actions as being a violation. Since the governing body does not do so, it's completely inappropriate for anyone else to take her to task for them.

>We not only have freedoms which come to us by birth as citizens of the >U.S., we have the responsibilities which go with that citizenship. I >don't think Kim is being a responsible citizen.

Which, of course, is the point with which many of us disagree. And considering the FCC itself does not officially define her acts as inappropriate, clearly there is no standard by which to judge them as anything but a matter of personal choice.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1402. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 07:27:36 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <6665D6D7EAEF91E9.B17C8600CDB04E33.7C9C09D1B88BA031@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24399

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 22:43:18 -0500, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
wrote:

>> Ahhh, a libertarian. I've discarded that view as completely unworkable.
>> So if your wife chooses to start sleeping with another man and he >> consents, it is fine with you? Do you have any say? Do you see any >> immorality in the act? After all, what consenting adults do...
>
>No. I should hope so. Yes.
>...none of which is the government's damn business. That's how Libertarians
>think

I'm not sure which parts of the question you are answering with the "No. I should hope so. Yes" but if you are saying that as a libertarian I should have no objection to such an action, I agree with you completely.

I don't.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1403. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 07:29:40 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3AC9AEC1A9C8F266.8C85F60B83DD568B.C11346D4F45DF714@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24400

On 21 Nov 2001 02:59:25 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I'm 181.6 cm. tall, and weigh 80.9 kg. bone dry and in my birthday attire.
>If you'd like to see a full-length photo of me taken a few years ago
>(when I was about 1.5 kg. heavier), I'll send it to you or anyone who provides >a servicable e-mail address.

I'd like to see it, Larry. I always like to know what the people I debate with look like.

My "real world" email address is adamsr@voyager.net

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1404. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 11:43:24 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tg3ul02bvb@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24501

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120224349.27773.00002965@nso-fo.aol.com...
> In article <9te8t002ns1@enews1.newsguy.com>, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
> writes:
> Krell:
>
> Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior. I > do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women; therefore, I would
> not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.
> To do so would be just as much a challenge to my trust as if he > were a normal, heterosexual male.
>
> People who truly love and respect each other do not impose such > challenges to the trust their loved ones have in them. It's as simple > as that.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

If you consider having coffee a challenge to your trust, your more paranoid than I thought.

1405. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 12:07:59 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb99ae_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24502

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120224349.27773.00002965@nso-fo.aol.com...
> In article <9te8t002ns1@enews1.newsguy.com>, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
> writes:
>
> >> Cecil:
> >>
> >> I have nothing against coffee and conversation. However, If I were > >> married, my XYL would not be having either with another man without > >> me being with them, unless he were her brother or father. One reason > >> why I'm not married is because I've yet to meet a woman who seems > >> to be able to grasp this simple concept.
> >>
> >> 73 de Larry, K3LT
> >
> >How about if he was gay?
>
> Krell:
>
> Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior. I > do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women; therefore, I would
> not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.
> To do so would be just as much a challenge to my trust as if he > were a normal, heterosexual male.
>
> People who truly love and respect each other do not impose such > challenges to the trust their loved ones have in them. It's as simple > as that.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Who said anything about private, Larry? Each and every time I have ever had dinner, coffee, etc., with friends, my husband is cordially invited. Sometimes he joins us, sometimes he doesn't. Sometimes I am with one male friend, sometimes I am with a bunch of male friends. Most of the time, these impromptu get-togethers are created on the spur of the moment over the air on ham radio. Do you forget the hobby we are in here? Most hams are males. Would you have women stay out of the hobby? Would have women refrain from the hobby for fear that they'd be invited to join a bunch of folks for meeting and greeting? Oh, I get it...the woman can be in the hobby as long as she never agrees to meet most of the people she talks to; or as long as her husband is willing to go with her most of the time. You do envision an oppressive society, don't you. My my.

Let me give you a clue: you'll never have anyone worth having if you're forever afraid that you can't trust them. If you cannot respect someone enough to be involved in a mutually trusting relationship, then you deserve no respect yourself.

Kim W5TIT

1406. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 12:10:20 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb9a40_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24503

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120224351.27773.00002967@nso-fo.aol.com...
> In article
<22714020968DF113.D317E10C11D1A847.1F86216ACB998408@lp.airnews.net>,
> Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>
> >
> > There are a great many things that are likely to contribute to > >a decline in the ARS--including the racism, hate speech, rudeness, and
> >"cb-like" obscenities and arguments (which, of course, is a stereotype > >that doesn't apply to the majority of cb users). ALL of these, and > >other similar behaviors, have a real potential to harm amateur radio.
> >Until Hollingsworth starts eliminating THOSE problems (and telling us > >to "self-police" isn't eliminating them), he has a lot more to concern > >himself with than Kim's call sign.
> >
> > Rick
>
> I don't disagree with any of the above, Rick, but Mr. Hollingsworth > did take the time to respond to Kim with the words which now > title this thread. Moreover, I certainly believe him to be a much > better authority to judge what could possibly take the ARS "...one > step closer to extinction" than anyone in this newsgroup, myself > included. However, as your mileage obviously varies, all I can say > is I'm glad we have the freedom to disagree, and to express that > disagreement in a public forum without fear of censorship!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Larry, you're such a fake. Riley Hollingsworth said exactly what I had thought he would say in response to my question to him. Moreover, if Riley Hollingsworth had said anything but what he did, then you'd be declaring that he's no authority and was of questionable character....LOL

You're such a pussy.

Kim W5TIT

1407. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 12:22:11 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb9d03_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24504

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120224352.27773.00002970@nso-fo.aol.com...
> In article <3bfb139f_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >> Yup. He's a university professor, and, as such, has a professional > >> mandate to comply with the edicts of liberal, politically-correct mind > >> control at all times. People who make judgements are independent > >> thinkers -- and, as such, are a threat to the creation of the One World > >> Order.
> >>
> >> 73 de Larry, K3LT
> >>
> >
> >So, you're saying your degrees are had from the teachings of liberal, > >politically-correct mind control freaks? Maybe if you'd taken the time to > >get a quality education, you would have been able to apply it...
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Kim:
>
> I spent the best years of my adult life defending your First Amendment > right to make a fool of yourself.
>

With soldiers like you, who needs enemies, Larry? I'd say your closer to having defended my First Amendment rights so that you could claim mutually exclusive rights to feeling superior yourself. That is not defending, Larry.

>
> I got my B.S. after I retired from the > USAF, mainly because I wanted it for myself. I love my job, it pays > well, and has full State benefits, and lets me do something that really > helps people less fortunate than myself. I'd have to take a 10 kilobuck > per year pay cut to take an entry-level job in the career field in which > I have my degree, but I am now being strongly lobbied by one of my > old professors to get my M.S. and do some part-time teaching as > adjunct faculty.

So, you're going to be assaulting yourself with even more liberal, politically-correct mind control freaks at some university or college somewhere?

>
> Maybe, someday, but for now I am working my way > out of the economic impact of 3 years of going to school and working > a low-paying job while doing so.
>

Well, at least you are not blaming it on someone else.

>
> So, before you attempt to chide me
> for not being able to apply my degree to my professional life, please > explain all the truck drivers out there with Masters and Doctorate > degrees! Some people do what they want to do in spite of their > education -- even when they actually have one!
>

The observation here, Larry, has absolutely nothing to do with truck drivers. It has everything to do with the fact that you claim someone who teaches at a university is a liberal, politically-correct mind control freak. Now, I'll step out on a limb and make the next guess that because you think so little of people who teach at our universities and colleges, then surely you match that with the fact that the people who learn from them are of little value also. However, if I am wrong, certainly correct me.

>
> What is your educational level -- and what do you do for a living?
>
> (Anyone want to take any bets as to whether we'll get an answer?)
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

We're not discussing my educational level, or yours, Larry. Except for the fact that you must believe you were educated by a liberal, politically-correct mind control freak. Your words, not mine. If you had made better choices about where you were educated you may have been able to apply it. Simple. Although, I am not sure that someone who was educated by a liberal, politically-correct mind control freak will get it.

Perhaps you could give us an example of where you think a respectable person should get educated.

Kim W5TIT

1408. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 12:23:55 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfb9d69$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24505

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120224353.27773.00002971@nso-fo.aol.com...
> In article <3bfb146e_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >
> >Earth to Larry: you never got promoted because it was someone else's fault;
> >you never got noticed by the boss because it was someone else's fault;
blab > >blab blab. Now, you never got married because it is someone else's fault.
> >See a pattern here?
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Earth to Kim:
>
> Where did you get the idea that I "never got promoted?" I got promoted > at a rate which was way above average for my career field. I opted for > early retirement as a Master Sergeant in spite of a virtually guaranteed > promotion to Senior Master Sergeant. I think you'd best avoid topics > you know nothing about.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

I could have sworn I saw whinings from you about how your peers have never accepted you and, you're right...I think you did say you got promoted.
However, I believe that your posts along those lines have always been laments about generally not having been "accepted."

Kim W5TIT

1409. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 12:38:22 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfba134_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24506

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:C1F3BA4A8C3D04CC.E0937DD15328380A.00D5A875679723B2@lp.airnews.net...
> On 20 Nov 2001 16:48:57 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
> wrote:
>
> >Ouch! I really was "rolling on the floor, laughing my head off" after > >reading that!
>
> If a flame can't be funny, why post it? ;-)
>
> > Banged my noggin' on my computer's mini-tower on the > >way back up!
>
> That's it, Larry. Take it out on your computer!
>
> >All I can say, Rick, is that if you want to do some > >moonlighting after a hard day filling young, impressionable skulls full > >of liberal mush, check out one of the local comedy clubs!
>

Larry apparently self-hates his education as much as everything else. What a pity. No wonder he whines about having low-paying jobs.

>
> Libertarian, Larry, not liberal--please!
>
> And most of the heads I'm teaching THIS term could use some > filling with philosophical thought--I'm teaching CJ Psychology courses > to Police Academy grads who are joining various police departments. If > I can influence THAT kind of rigid group-think, converting you and > Dick to devout no-coders should be a breeze!
>
> I don't need the comedy club though, I get plenty of time to > do a stand up routine when I lecture--and I have a captive audience to > boot!
>
> >BTW -- I can just see Kim now --- swooning over your picture (you > >have exchanged photos by now, I assume!).
>
> Larry, anyone who would "swoon" over MY picture needs therapy!
>

Oh good grief...I don't think I've ever "swooned." Among my friends, women and men, it is well known that I don't have an "eye" on men for their bodies. I have never been like that. Now, have a man walk up and start talking intellectually and he's got my attention. I've known many very good looking men in my life and, just as with women, nearly every time there's good looks there's quite a nasty personality to go with them.

> I invariably describe myself totally honestly--as being at > least a handsome as a great American statesman (Abraham Lincoln, > unfortunately).
>
> And, no, we haven't "exchanged pictures." We haven't even > exchanged QSL cards (although, after all the discussion about her > card, I _would_ like to add Kim's card to my collection to add a touch > of "spice" :-).
>

What discussin of my QSL card? I've never done one yet...LOL. I've designed plenty but never have completed mine. Which, by the way, will have a wolf theme. ;)

> > In order to avoid revolting
> >my own self, I won't bother trying to describe her response any further > >than that!
>
> Hysterical laughter revolts you?
>
> Why?
>

No, no, no, Rick. What revolts Larry is the image of himself with hysterical laughter. Er, well, what revolts Larry is the image of himself.

> > Just one word of advice, however. She's married, and > >she's from Texas -- and that means her OM is probably packing heat!
>
> So?
>
> I'm married myself (for 21 years), is that supposed to mean I > can't have female friends? Why not?
>
> You might want to consider just how sexist such assumptions > sound, Larry. This is the 21st Century--not the 19th. The assumption > that the only reason a man would be friendly to a woman is for sex is > both very demeaning to women (and to men) and completely inaccurate.
>
> As it happens, I have a number of very good friends who are > women. By your standards, that should mean I have a harem. While the > concept may be flattering to me, I'll have to pass--I'm just too old > to handle more than two or three women at a time and that would exceed > my limit. Heck, if I tried that I'd have to borrow some Viagra from > you just to make it through the first couple weeks!

>
> >Since you're a double Post Hole Digger, I hope I can count on you > >not to do anything stupid!
>
> Yup! Not that a graduate degree makes a person any less stupid > than everyone else--but it DOES tend to provide a better vocabulary to > use in debates! :-)
>
> Rick
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

Any time Larry starts feeling pretty silly over the issue of a callsign, as he usually does begin around this time (closer to Christmas actually), he begins attacking the people who seem to pick sides...his idea being that they have picked "me" rather than that they are on the side of freedom of choice, etc.

Larry gets very jealous over me. In fact, he gets just as jealous as if we were in a real relationship--which is never going to happen and that makes him even more desperate.

So, sigh, you'll have to make the choice, Rick. Keep defending the rights of others and having Larry translate that to your never-ending love and desire for me--putting up with jealous fits of rage from him now and then, or...well, the alternative is just unspeakable... ;) But the part where Larry has his jealous fits of rage are a lot, lot more fun. (Besides, you ought to see my husband act Larry out). LOL

Kim W5TIT

1410. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 12:40:05 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfba135_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24507

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFB23A7.FD7757E7@IEEE.org...
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > I guess in the same way that you can continue to post this drivel about > > me telling a lie when it is quite clear that is was a typo.
>
> It was a typo but then you lied for days about making the typo. If > you had just admitted the typo I wouldn't have had the pleasure > of showing you up as a liar AND a fool. You not only misinterpret > what I write, you misinterpret what you write.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
>
>

Absolutely! I'd write more just to make Larry happy (he gets so mad when I only do one-liners)...but I think you said it, Cecil...

Kim W5TIT

1411. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 12:42:30 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfba1d5_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24508

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011120225232.27773.00002972@nso-fo.aol.com...
> In article <3bfb1c20_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >First Davey wishes to make an observation of one's character built upon
the > >way they were raised, then wants to depart from that observation and > >cautions against close association with credit for raising a kid well.
> >
> >You are a contrast in design, Dave.
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> That's funny, Kim. I, and most other people, would call Dave an > example of a fine, upstanding citizen -- and his son is proof thereof, > in addition to being one in his own right. I don't know what you > mean by a "contrast in design," and I have strong doubts that you > do, either.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Aw, isn't that cute? Larry with an affliction for a man. Have you guys traded pictures yet, Larry? Oh, and just a few in the closet with you, Larry, don't make up a "most." There is no "most" when it comes to you.

Dave is a much finer example of a gentleman than yourself.

Kim W5TIT

1412. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 12:45:49 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfba292_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24510

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFB2C09.714F5A2@IEEE.org...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> > As it happens, I have a number of very good friends who are > > women. By your standards, that should mean I have a harem.
>
> What it means is that Larry cannot look at a female without > thinking about sex - any female except his sister or mother.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
>
>

Are you SURE about that? :>

Kim W5TIT

1413. Re: Reply to -> Twistedhed@webtv.net or Moparholic@hotmail.com care of the CB news group

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 12:49:35 UTC
From: PipeDreams <pipedreams@hotmail.comspam> Message-ID: <20011121074954.137$CZ@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 24509
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"SD SpecialDelivery Jones" <SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com> wrote in message
> so let me get this straight......you have no intention,... >as you put it, to quit doing what you are doing.........is >that correct???????

What do you care if he quits what he is doin or not. Are you going to stop acting like a jackass PinHead? are you going to stop posting as Anthrax and other make belive names?

1414. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 14:27:33 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <307F6917B92349A1.4754E7A5255F03C5.A16266A34D0A12E0@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24511

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 01:48:34 GMT, "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
wrote:

> Section 97.11 of the FCC Rules puts some very specific > restrictions on operation from an aircraft.

Which part?

(a): if he was PIC, it's fairly safe to assume he had his own permission.
(b): pretty much the same thing we're required to make sure of on the ground.
(c): where are the applicable FAR's?

Flying a 747 from leveling off at cruise altitude to preparing to land is not exactly a thrill ride. Most pilots would call any communications essential to staying awake.

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

1415. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 14:40:20 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFBBCD4.CCE42DE1@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24512

Rick Adams wrote:
> But I will still argue that the best parent isn't the > one who forbids their children to listen to offensive speech--it's the > one who permits it but insures that he or she takes the time to > discuss the content with the child and help the child to understand > why the speech IS offensive instead.

In general, IMO, parents who believe that knowledge is evil are bad parents.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1416. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 14:51:18 UTC
From: uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org
Message-ID: <ff37aa44.0111210651.1d3fdf60@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24513

yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT) wrote in message
news:<20011120215928.27773.00002962@nso-fo.aol.com>...
> In article <8C979F353A79AC62.BFA4DCF99807BDF1.3AFAE9CBC75FAC40@lp.airnews.net>,
> Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>
> > Free speech is the cornerstone of our society. Without it we > >are in a pure dictatorship, regardless of how benevolent that dictator > >might be. But free speech, by necessity, carries with it the risk of > >offense.
>
> I don't believe anyone in this newsgroup, with the possible exception > of Kim, disagrees with the above. I don't think the FCC should limit
> the issuance of callsigns which could, as in Kim's case, spell out > words which could be construed as having a sexual innuendo, and > thus being in bad taste.

Larry, if this were true, then you wouldn't be arguing so much against her call sign. You have said repeatedly that you believe the callsign is offensive, you have said repeatedly that you believe it should be changed to something that is not offensive. If you really believed what you wrote in the above paragraph, you would not be arguing that it should be changed. You wouldn't be saying that this thread would be a permanent fixture in the newsgroup. You'ld simply note that you find it offensive and you'ld ignore it from then on.

Anyone who argues that her callsign should change is arguing that some callsigns should never be issued.

(And didn't you say in an earlier message that you had complained to the FCC that the callsign was offensive and ask that it be taken from her? I'm not sure on this, but it seems I read that you had done
this.)

> I believe it is totally the responsibility of the > ham who requests such a call sign to live with the outcome of their > actions. It just so happens that Kim is now, in this thread, getting > her just deserts, as a result of her inappropriate choice.

If you believe that the FCC should not limit callsigns, why are you trying to censor them afterwords? By what right?

Here's what it boils down to. Either you support the FCC and their issuance of callsigns, or you don't. If you support it, I don't see that you have any right to complain that a callsign you feel is offensive has been issued. If you don't support it, then Kim shouldn't be your target, the FCC should. It's silly to argue with Kim. If she changes her call, someone else will grab it or someone else will take a call you find offensive. Arguing with Kim is like treating a symptom, not the cause.

Until the root cause has been fixed, the symptoms will keep appearing.
And in this case, it seems you feel the root cause is the FCC issuing callsigns you feel are offensive.

> I'm sure Kim would like nothing better than to "shut me up," as it > were, but that will never happen. I created this thread, and it will be > a recurring, if not permanent, feature of this newsgroup. For years, > we've had the concept of the "family-oriented" nature of the ARS > touted as one of it's most attractive features. I happen to strongly > agree with this, and believe that Mr. Riley Hollingsworth has done > all of us who value the positive, family-oriented image of the ARS
> a great service when he stated that Kim's callsign had the potential > to bring it "?one step closer to extinction." Kim's choice to flaunt
> a vulgar and demeaning callsign does not make her a champion > for free-speech "rights." It only makes her a spectacle of poor > judgement.

Poor judgement or not, it is her right. If you don't like it, then work to change the system. If you don't believe the system needs changing, then stop arguing about it.

> This newsgroup exists for the express purpose of discussing
> "controversial" topics related to amateur-radio policymaking. It > is the specific, intended home of the debate on code testing as > a licensing requirement. If you have personal objections as to > the nature of the colloquy inherent to this newsgroup, I suggest > that there are many other newsgroups which may serve your > needs better than this one can.

I don't have any problem with debate. I thrive on written debate.

But it seems to me you're wasting a lot of bandwidth trying to prove that Kim's callsign is demeaning, insulting, and offensive.

Let's say I agree with you. Let's say that you finally convince everyone, including Kim, that she should change her callsign.
Let's say she does.

And the day after, the FCC issues the call sign N0CNT.

Are you going to spend another few months arguing with that person?
And when that person changes his call sign and the FCC issues K1llU?

Every single person who reads this group could agree with you, and it still wouldn't matter. The FCC will continue to issue calls you find offensive, and the problem you see will still exist.

As I said above, you're fighting the wrong fight.

Sean.

1417. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 15:59:11 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9tgimvalt1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 24514

CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFAF624.C0AE19E3@IEEE.org...
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Morse code testing has always been an attempt at social engineering.
> >
> > I guess maybe it's social engineering in the same way a PAP smear is > > social engineering.
>
> Nope, it's social engineering in the same way a driver's license
> is social engineering. We are talking about government requirements
> not elective procedures.

You're wrong. Obtaining an amateur radio license is an elective procedure.
You're forgetting the conditional statment 'if'. If one wants to determine the presence of cervical cancer, one must take a PAP test. So if a testing requirment is social engineering (which it is not), then PAP testing is social engineering - irrespective of who sets the 'requirments'. Where does it say that only governments may engineer a society?

1418. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 16:09:54 UTC
From: "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <mlQK7.199452$W8.7485753@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24515

Phil Kane asks (about the Victoria's Secret "fashion show"):

> > When is the re-run scheduled? Sure beats old "Law and Order".

Larry Roll K3LT sez:

> Objection, Your Honor! I like the old "Law and Order" re-runs -- > especially since I've not seen many of them from when they were
> "All-New Episodes" in prime time!

You'll notice they always had a real babe as Assistant DA.
I always thought Jill Hennesey was the best one. Just when my eyes were glazing over she would appear on-screen for a classy 'eye candy' fix.

--
Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
Glendale, Arizona

1419. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 16:18:36 UTC
From: "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <wtQK7.199461$W8.7486424@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24516

Kim-W5TIT posted:

> Have you priced a manufactured home lately, Rick?! That's the beauty of > those folks who still use an antiquated term. Most recent home I looked at, > double-wide, think it was a Palm Harbor or Redman, but not sure I > remember--$93,000!!!!!!! For those who seek value in life by the cost of > ownership, that'll about put anyone in a mobile on a much higher value level > than, say, most people in standard neighborhoods...LOL, plus most people > with manufactured homes (trailers as they used to be called) have lots of > property to go with them.

Yeah, no kidding! I'll trade my urban ranch-style sitting cheek-by-jowl to neighbors with light dimmers, computer monitors, susceptible telephones, TV's and boom boxes for a nice little used Palm Harbor sitting on 5 acres with buried power and telephone lines and no CC&R's.

--
Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
Glendale, Arizona

1420. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 16:20:12 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9tgjvj$bb6$1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 24517

Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net> wrote in message
news:3bfb18d8_1@newsa.ev1.net...
> OH GAWD!!!! Jim Kelley---touche! What a laugh!!!
>
> Kim W5TIT

Well, it's not all that funny really. It's sad. I've known couples like that, and it's never a happy situation. It's about respect for, and confidence and trust in another person, and a relationship. A relationship without that respect is precarious and weak Strength and confidence are much more alluring traits in a person, I think.

> "Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
> news:3BFAD57E.E5D28FB6@uci.edu...
> > Nor are you likely to. What they would likely "grasp" is that you're > > unable to distinguish between having coffee and having sex.
>
>

1421. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 16:44:44 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <0SQK7.120117$WW.7607709@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24518

"Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:mlQK7.199452$W8.7485753@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
>
>
> You'll notice they always had a real babe as Assistant DA.
> I always thought Jill Hennesey was the best one. Just > when my eyes were glazing over she would appear on-screen
> for a classy 'eye candy' fix.
>
>
> --
> Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net

Jill was indeed a fine-looking woman although almost too delicate. As one led thru puberty by Dame Diana Rigg as M-Appeal I sure has hell know what you mean tho.

Dick NBK

1422. Re: Reply to -> Twistedhed@webtv.net or Moparholic@hotmail.com care of the CB news group

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 17:21:05 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9tgnf1$o98$1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 24519
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"SD SpecialDelivery Jones" <SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com> wrote in message news:d9f7b76c.0111202156.70423a34@posting.google.com... > so let me get this straight......you have no intention,... as you put > it, to quit doing what you are doing.........is that correct???????

That's correct. I'll post my views whenever I feel like it, the same as anyone else in this group is free to do.

As far as the bogus posting, porn etc. goes you'll have to take that up with the responsible party. I don't have any control over that nonsense and never did. That's why nobody has ever proved I did any of it because I never did.
Twisted, Mopar and Tim are the exception because the last two, Mopar and Tim, don't have half a brain between them because they eat up Twisted's BS without question. So when you consider that Twisted is the group's punch clown with his crazy talk of a "jock strap" collection on his wall and talking to "saucer men" you have to wonder where he gets his information.

==========
Subject: More Twistedhed's Blathering
Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb
Author: twistedhed@webtv.net (Twistedhed)
Date: 2001-03-26 17:20:06 PST

in 3741-3A87F5A4-23@storefull-122.iap.bryant.webtv.net
twistedhed@webtv.net wrote:
>nice forgery Dougie but the headers don't lie.
>Undoubtedly you don't understand how the Usenet >works so I will explain it to you, my anonymous >acolyte
>what do you know of my life? The jockstrap you sent >in the mail is a trophy of your docile worship of >me and it hangs proudly above my mantle
>I will never cease pirate CB activity as long as it irks
>you or someone like you. However, as a consolation >and to ease your suffering, I will stay within the >confines of the freeband for now. The saucer men tell >me I have a good signal in the pile
==========

He's a real fruit cake, and anybody dumb enough to believe what he says gets what they have coming from the rest of the group.

--
--

73 de,

Leland C. Scott
KC8LD0

ARRL member
NCI member

"You ask what Morse Code is good for? I'll tell you. Morse Code is used exclusively by Electronics Based life forms to communicate amongst themselves using advanced Organic Digital Signal Processors, running state of the art Artificial Intelligence Software, to perform the highly complex transmit encryption, receive decryption and error correction functions."

1423. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 17:30:39 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <F89C3480A193D08D.3EA2BF8FE5E3FB92.60CE20EF0373D95C@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24524

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 20:41:03 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>Yeah, Rick. It's university profs, such as yourself, that are the reason
>Larry's never been able to do a darned thing with his "education." ;)

Flunked him in too many classes, huh?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1424. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 17:30:41 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9FE7B434F8596741.FEB42A26218804C6.3261551286675824@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24523

On 21 Nov 2001 03:43:52 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>(Anyone want to take any bets as to whether we'll get an answer?)

You're on.

The loser has to treat the winner with complete respect in this newsgroup for one month. Fair enough?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1425. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 17:30:42 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <D6C6FEF3588AAE15.BC7485051CF556AD.6959BE995B3CE0DB@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24521

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 14:13:18 -0800, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
wrote:

>
>
>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> I have nothing against coffee and conversation. However, If I were >> married, my XYL would not be having either with another man without >> me being with them, unless he were her brother or father. One reason >> why I'm not married is because I've yet to meet a woman who seems >> to be able to grasp this simple concept.
>
>Nor are you likely to. What they would likely "grasp" is that you're >unable to distinguish between having coffee and having sex.

YUCK!

Remind me NEVER to have coffee with Larry!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1426. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 17:30:42 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <6F6BF0096D551420.515C9FC4AA5DE7A9.CC032105E711CAB9@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24522

On 21 Nov 2001 03:43:49 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior.

No, Larry, Homosexuality is a lifestyle that is NOT considered
"deviant." The definition of deviant behavior is made by sociology and by psychology--and BOTH consider homosexuality normal.

> I >do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women;

Of course not. They are male.

> therefore, I would
>not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.

Don't even trust "your woman" with a gay man, huh?

I'm sure the women you know appreciate knowing how much you trust them!

>To do so would be just as much a challenge to my trust as if he >were a normal, heterosexual male.

Then perhaps you should learn to challenge your trust--otherwise it isn't trust in the first place, it's control.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1427. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 17:30:43 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <1862B0C813CE1051.AF5F8432240A8BBF.FC32725346072779@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24520

On 21 Nov 2001 02:59:29 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>For exactly the same number of years, you've been attempting to >assign the behavioral attributes you possess to others -- obviously >to divert attention from your own obsessive/compulsive proclivities.

Er, Larry.

Nothing Cecil has said in this newsgroup would even remotely
lead to a diagnosis of obsessive/compulsive--and I _am_ a diagnostician!

Go take some more psychology classes--intro to psychology just isn't enough to qualify you to make a diagnosis--or even to understand the nature of a disorder.

I wouldn't attempt to design a complex electronic circuit--I don't have the training as an engineer and would only make an idiot out of myself if I tried (a simple one sure, but not a complex one).
You do the same when you try to "diagnose" members of this NG. I'm sure you could accurately recognize a raving paranoid schizophrenic, but don't try for anything more subtle, you don't have the education for it.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1428. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 17:37:17 UTC
From: "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <hDRK7.120186$WW.7611419@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24525

Kim-W5TIT posted:

> What discussin of my QSL card? I've never done one yet...LOL.
> I've designed plenty but never have completed mine. Which, by > the way, will have a wolf theme. ;)

You know what leaped into my mind when I read this -- that statue of Romulus and Remus being suckled by a she-wolf. They're right, Kim, your callsign is damaging my psyche. ;-)

--
Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
Glendale, Arizona

1429. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 18:29:41 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <BA1FE2DC83A1AA09.23E959E667F4E60F.B764FB6885B66F29@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24526

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 22:29:25 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior. I >> do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women; therefore, I would >> not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.
>
>Would you allow your wife to have lunch with a lesbian?

Wouldn't that depend on where she was eating?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1430. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 18:43:09 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFBF5BD.9FA67680@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24527

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:

> > Jim Kelley wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > > Morse code testing has always been an attempt at social engineering.
> > >
> > > I guess maybe it's social engineering in the same way a PAP smear is > > > social engineering.
> >
> > Nope, it's social engineering in the same way a driver's license
> > is social engineering. We are talking about government requirements > > not elective procedures.
>
> You're wrong. Obtaining an amateur radio license is an elective procedure.

Not for licensed ham radio operators it isn't. Licensed ham radio operators have no choice except to meet the governmental requirements. Licensed driver's have no choice except to meet the governmental requirements. Licensed pilots have no choice except to meet the governmental requirements. Those minimum requirements for a license are social engineering by the government.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1431. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:08:29 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFBFBAD.96498FBA@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24528

"Jim Bromley, K7JEB" wrote:
>
> Kim-W5TIT posted:
> > What discussin of my QSL card? I've never done one yet...LOL.
> > I've designed plenty but never have completed mine. Which, by > > the way, will have a wolf theme. ;)
>
> You know what leaped into my mind when I read this -- > that statue of Romulus and Remus being suckled by > a she-wolf. They're right, Kim, your callsign is > damaging my psyche. ;-)

The effects of Kim's callsign are making my sides hurt.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
------== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1432. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:11:55 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFBFC7B.7DB27758@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24529

```
Rick Adams wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
>
> >Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> >> Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior. I > >> do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women; therefore, I would > >> not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.
> > >
> > >Would you allow your wife to have lunch with a lesbian?
> >
> > Wouldn't that depend on where she was eating?

Hmmmmmm, is that a double meaning? I'm wondering if Larry doesn't see "gay" men as the equivalent of women, does he see lesbian women as the equivalent of men, or not?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----
```

1433. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:17:01 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFBFDAD.BD39D754@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24531

Rick Adams wrote:
> No, Larry, Homosexuality is a lifestyle that is NOT considered
> "deviant." The definition of deviant behavior is made by sociology and > by psychology--and BOTH consider homosexuality normal.

As a matter of fact, the only mental illness involving homosexuality listed in my DSM-III is a homosexual trying too hard to act like a heterosexual. :-) 302.00 Ego-dystonic Homosexuality

> Don't even trust "your woman" with a gay man, huh?

Talk about low self-esteem.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1434. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:18:12 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <07CAA049537B5649.57E2F3E780E752A1.B48402A196885899@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24530

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 06:41:21 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>What a concept! Larry washing his mind. The mind is a terrible thing to >waste, especially when there's little of it left!

To quote what has to be one of Larry's favorite political leaders, Dan Qayle: "What a terrible thing it is to have lost one's mind; or never to have had one at all."

>Uh, 'scuse me for the observation, Rick. But, er, do you think Larry could >have an intelligent conversation at all--with or without sex? (I'll leave >EQUAL out in the interest of possibilities)

Sure.

Ask him to discuss electronic theory, propagation, or cw techniques and the conversation, while limited, will be as intelligent as any other.

Just don't ask him to discuss rights, freedom of choice, minorities, gay rights, or women's issues.

>I have a feeling Larry is friendship challenged.

Naw. He has friends. Look at Dick.

Oops. That line gives Larry entirely too much to play with,
doesn't it?

>Ummm, a woman probably wouldn't meet Larry alone, for conversation or >otherwise. I sure know I wouldn't. I might toss a couple 'o cents into his >cup as I walked by, but that would be about it.

Cheapskate!

At least give him enough for a bottle of Thunderbird!

>Yeah. Uh. Since Larry doesn't have a wife... And, since Larry can't have >an intellectual anything... And, I'm not so sure about trust. The one >thing you can trust about Larry is his consistency--not physically though >that also--but personality-wise.

In a way I feel sorry for Larry. This is honestly not meant as a joke or put-down, but he's essentially a 1940s man who can't come to grips with the cultural norms of the 21st Century. In Larry's mind, women are weaker than men and must be protected and guided through life by a man. For a married woman to meet a man alone for conversation would, to Larry, cheapen her and thus reduce her husband's own image and self respect. It's a view best left to the past, and one that no matter how well intentioned has the net result of treating women as inferiors and oppressing them in society, but it's one that _can_ be sincerely held by very conservative men in our society who have too many internal conflicts to permit them to view women as their equals (just as most of them can't view African-Americans, Muslims, Gays, Asians, or Hispanics as their equals either). In Larry's case the fact that you are obviously an independent woman, and one whose views and decisions he can't affect, has made him place a disproportionate emphasis on his reaction to your call sign and to assume that the call is offensive to everyone instead of just to him. He has two choices: hold fast to his view that you are "low class" and have no moral values or face the fact that his stereotypes of women are wrong and that you are proof of that fact (if a woman can successfully make independent decisions, voice her opinion, engage in "risque" humor, and refuse to recognize his moral authority his stereotype _can't_ be accurate and he knows can't deal with that). Don't expect him to change those views, it would be easier to convince him to change his sexual orientation (wouldn't THAT be a gas--Larry talking about his new boyfriend--a cw nut, of course--in rrap!).

>First lesson after I met my traditional Southern Gentleman. He thought it >was natural and normal for a man to "direct" a woman's life, etc. Two/three >weeks after we got to knowing each other, he told me I was "not going out >with any of my girlfriends." I put my little shakey finger up Shall we guess which finger? ;-) >and centered >to him that the kind of behavior (insecurity) that he just displayed would >not be something I agreed with nor would accept. It took about a year of >dialogue and reasoning, but he realized that my concept of >jealousy--insecurity at its ugliest--is both unjustifiable and unreasonable >to me.

Jealousy is one of the most damaging emotions a human being can experience. While some try to justify it as "caring" for a person, all it really boils down to is a child's playground cry of "It's MINE and you can't touch it!).

>In a strong, healthy relationship (friendship, love, or >marriage--any of them), implicit trust is what I demand and what I offer.
>If my implicit trust in a man or a friend is violated--shame on my bad >judgement, not theirs. That's the way I see it. When implicit trust is >attained, anything else that makes relationship successful is there.

For the most part I agree--although it does (as you know) take more than trust alone to make a marriage. You also need mutual respect, friendship, and communications.

>Well, I think Larry needs stimulation for any kind of stretch...*DID I SAY
>THAT*?

They sell that kind of stimulation in a little blue pill . . .
;-)

>Naw. I think Larry actually believes he is avenging the "evilness" in this >world and sees me as one of those evils.

I don't know if he sees himself as actually avenging evilness--but he certainly does see himself as having a responsibility to protect the public (or at least the ARS) from what he considers "undesirable" behavior.

> When someone is as judgmental and >condemning as he is, it is often (IMHO) due to quite a lack of personal >dignity in their own life.

Very true. The technical term is "Scapegoating."

> If you'll read his many posts on having been >rejected for promotions, etc., even when he was in the military--in the >face of the perfectness with which he served but went unrecognized--you'll >capture a lot of Larry's grasp to be of value to someone--anyone in his >life. What he doesn't realize and probably never will is that once he >realizes that he is of perfect value to himself, or that he needs to change >values to achieve it, then he no longer needs anyone else's approval, or >honor.

We agree here as well. Once a person "accepts" him or her-self completely, it becomes pretty irrelevant to them whether or not others do so as well. Larry needs to sit back and laugh at himself once in a while--If you can't laugh at yourself you either don't like yourself very much or you don't get the joke!

>PS--By the way, Larry (I think) claims to have a degree in Human Relations.
>That just goes to show that book sense often has nothing to do with common >sense or applicability. Larry would epitomize the 'evil HR Director'.

Fortunately, HR is a business degree, not a psychological one.
I'd hate to think that a trained psychologist--even one with only a bachelors in the field--could misinterpret human behavior as badly as he does.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1435. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:20:42 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFBFE8A.C81BE8BA@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24532

Rick Adams wrote:
> Nothing Cecil has said in this newsgroup would even remotely
> lead to a diagnosis of obsessive/compulsive--and I _am_ a > diagnostician!

Long-time readers of this newsgroup have witnessed me obsessing over Morse code testing. :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1436. Re: The difference between Morse Code and other tested topics

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:26:42 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3BFBFFF2.B8CC9F05@uci.edu>
Source record: 24535

CAM wrote:
>
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > > > > So the code test is considered equal in importance to everything else > > > > > > in amateur radio combined?
> > >
> > > > > Thought you gave up on that dead horse last year...
> > >
> > > > I'll never give up my questioning nature, Dave.

> > The Morse code is not equal in importance to everything else in nature > > combined.

> Nobody said it was, Jim.

Nobody said that anybody said it was either. I was simply stating a truism that I see as being roughly equivalent to the one you gave. They are equally profound, (i.e., not very).

1437. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:35:58 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC01E9.9868BB77@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24533

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFA830E.F540F9A@earthlink.net...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > You'd think Davey would get the hint. When one keeps throwing insults
> that > > > no one understands because they're not at others' level, well... Kinda
> has
> > > the same affect as using the English language in a group of people that > > > speak nothing but Spanish.
> > >
> > > Kim W5TIT
> >
> > If you want to participate, Kim, you may have to learn a few words of > > the local idiom. If I use a term and you don't know what it means, you > > might want to find out what it means. It isn't my lack of knowledge > > which is the problem.
> >
>
> Uh, Dave. I would find it interesting, at best, for me to undertake > learning from you in any way constructive... Oh, and I'm not sure what you > mean by if I want to participate...I don't think I do...
>
> Kim W5TIT

I'm sure that you would find it interesting, Kim. My time is, however, extremely limited. If you don't care to participate, what keeps you participating?

Dave K8MN
> > Dave K8MN
> >
> > > "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> > > news:3BF9F60B.A7300972@IEEE.org...
> > > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > > It would appear that you've never heard of Tugboat Annie either.
> > > >
> > > > Is she any kin to Poke Salad Annie?
> > > > --
> > > > cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
> > >
> > >
> > > -----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----

> > > > http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
> > > > Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
> > > > -----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1438. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:37:10 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3BFC0266.E1A5E8DF@uci.edu>
Source record: 24538

Rick Adams wrote:
> Nothing Cecil has said in this newsgroup would even remotely
> lead to a diagnosis of obsessive/compulsive--and I _am_ a > diagnostician!

Doh!

;-)

1439. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:39:50 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC02CF.C40752AA@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24534

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFA8245.DEC86321@earthlink.net...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > Process management is my chief responsibility at work, Dave. I would > > > shudder to think that I become so "adult" that I act like people such as > > > you. Now, for you it may work. For me, it would not. I bet that > between > > > the two of us, I make up for your lack of willingness to step outside
> the > > > box.
> > >
> > > Kim W5TIT
> >
> > It is certainly odd that one who so often makes incorrect character and > > background judgements about people is employed in a field where she > > needs skill in using logical thought. Of course, being employed in a > > field and being any good at it don't automatically go hand in hand.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
> >
>
> You'd know, right? You have the lead on that example.
>
> Kim W5TIT

Uh, Kim? I'm not employed at all. I'm retired. I marinate steaks, pilot a lawn tractor and put up large antennae at altitude. I work the pileups, participate in the local ARES net, rag chew any time I feel like it and take part in numerous radio contests. poof There goes your supposed point.

Dave K8MN

> > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > news:3BF9E7F4.DCD2A7E7@earthlink.net...
> > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > Oh? A preppie, then, eh. My dad realizes that I am now an adult
> and > > > that I > > > > > make my own decisions.
> > > > >

> > > > > Kim W5TIT
> > > >
> > > > You really don't have a clue, do you, Kim? A preppie? My age group > > > > didn't qualify me. I too am an adult and make my own decisions. Some > > > > of us mature at a faster rate than others. Maybe your decision making > > > > processes will improve as you mature.
> > > >
> > > > Dave K8MN
> > > >
> > > > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > > > news:3BF92766.46B8BF0D@earthlink.net...
> > > > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > > Maybe you're new enough to this newsgroup, Rick...Davey here was > > > pretty
> > > > > born
> > > > > > > with a silver spoon in his mouth. He's never known real life...
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > > Kim W5TIT
> > > > > >
> > > > > > You couldn't be more off the beam than you are with this post, > > > Tugboat.
> > > > > > Some of us rise above our beginnings. It helps to have parents > who
> > > are > > > > > > loving and involved in our upbringing and who provide guidance
> during > > > > > > our formative years. My dad, for instance would never have > permitted
> > > me
> > > > > > to choose a suggestive callsign back in the days when I first > entered > > > > > > amateur radio. I'm also pretty certain that, had he heard some of
> the > > > > > > present goings on in the 75m band, he'd not have permitted my > > > > > > involvement at all.
> > > > > >
> > > > > > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > > > > > news:3BF89E3B.9A310597@earthlink.net...
> > > > > > > > Rick Adams wrote:
> > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > > On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 02:30:20 GMT, "Richard McCollum"
> > > > > > > > > <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote:
> > > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > > >You mean Jaysus don't you? We make judgements every day.
> By
> > > some > > > > > > > > > >definitions a gentleman is he who ignores the trivial but > is a > > > cast

> > > > > > > iron SOB
> > > > > > > > > >about things that matter. Kim's call sign is one of those > > > > > juvenile,
> > > > > > > tee hee
> > > > > > > > > > >giggle things most of us outgrew years ago but they are so > > > common
> > > > > it is > > > > > > > like > > > > > > > > > > > >stepping on ants so I leave it alone. Making judgements is > one > > > > > thing,
> > > > > > > being > > > > > > > > > > > >judgmental is quite another. Rick is so open-minded the > wind
> > > > > whistles
> > > > > > > thru
> > > > > > > > > > > >and his only judgement is on those he perceives as being > > > > > judgemental.
> > > > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > > > With the exception of the fact that I _also_ oppose > any > > > > > > > > > behavior that directly harms the person or property of a > > > > > > > > > non-consenting individual, I agree completely. I _am_ > > > open-minded
> > > > > and
> > > > > > > > > willing to look at everything with an open mind instead of > > > judging > > > > > > > > > others because I don't, personally, choose to indulge in the > > > same
> > > > > > > > > behaviors they themselves prefer.
> > > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > > You're a hoot, Rick. You've made a Hitler comparison and > called > > > me
> > > > > and > > > > > > > > > idiot. So much for your open mind and not making judgements.
> > > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > > On the other hand, I don't happen to view
> > > open-mindedness as
> > > > > a > > > > > > > > > flaw as you appear to view it. To me, it is the > CLOSED-minded
> > > person
> > > > > > > > > who demonstrates a serious character flaw.
> > > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > Damn! Another judgement.
> > > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > Dave K8MN

1440. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:41:00 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <4C6C0154672C62F4.94A893BAF5DB9B8B.914EF3B218CE63F8@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24536

On 21 Nov 2001 02:59:26 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Of course I can. Fully half the people I work with are women, and >within the confines of the workplace, I have many interesting >conversations with them. However, these are not exclusive, one-on->one meetings at Starbucks or anywhere else. That would not be >appropriate behavior, since most of these women are married, and >I am engaged in an exclusive, monogamous relationship with a >woman myself.

But what does one have to do with the other?

A meeting over coffee is just that--a meeting over coffee.
Whether a person is married or single, committed or uncommitted, or for that matter whether that person is gay or straight is completely irrelevant. If the question was whether it is appropriate to meet a married person for _sex_ behind their spouse's back, I could understand your perspective. But to meet someone publicly and talk about topics that have nothing to do with sex or a relationship? What on earth is wrong with that?

>Such meetings are inherently inappropriate unless >the mates of both parties are physically present and mutually >involved.

Nonsense. That implies that marriage is a form of mutual ownership!

If you can trust your partner not to violate the agreements you made concerning fidelity (whether those agreements are to adhere to monogamy or to have an open marriage, is totally irrelevant), why on earth would you object to that partner carrying on a conversation with someone on a topic not of interest to you? I could see a problem if you were constantly excluded from your spouse's social life--unless, of course, you have an equally active social life in an area (i.e., ham radio) that doesn't interest your spouse--but that's a question of exclusion not one of free association.

> I don't believe that the kind of loyalty and commitment >to such a relationship has any room in it for "friendly" intimate >meetings such as that.

Then you don't believe that a relationship can survive without the sacrifice of personal freedom and openness.

Larry, a relationship that permits each partner to express his or her interests and recognizes that each has the right to make his/her own decisions is the one that will survive and grow--not the relationship in which the partners are restricted.

> If one has such commitment, then he or >she must not take any action which would even give the appearance >of an outside relationship.

Why?

That's meant as a serious question, not a throw-away. Why shouldn't they perform actions that would give an appearance of an outside relationship? Either one exists or one does not. If it does (and, so long as both partners agree to it, I see nothing wrong with that either), then pretending it doesn't is dishonest and pointless.
If it does not, why on earth should the appearance matter? Do you base your life on what others may think about you--or do you base it on what you, personally, know to be true?

If someone wants to assume that you are having an affair when all you are doing is, for example, Elmering a woman who is interested in ham radio, why should that trouble you? It's THEIR character flaw that makes them see your actions as something they are not, why let that prevent you from acting in a manner you find positive?

>Again, I am not married, but if I were, my wife would have no reason >to have suspicions about my behavior, because there would not be >any action on my part to arouse them. This is the true meaning of >loyalty to a spouse, or one's partner in a mutually exclusive >relationship.

No, Larry, the true meaning of loyalty is honesty and trust.
It has nothing to do with having outside friendships--or sexual encounters, for that matter, if both spouses agree. It has everything to do with knowing that your partner will NOT do anything to hurt you knowingly, and that he or she will respect any agreements you have made together.

Loyalty isn't preventing things from occurring that could inspire suspicion---it's knowing that you partner deserves your unconditional trust--and giving it to them!

>I would not meet a married woman for a private, "intellectual"
>conversation because I would not want my own wife or partner to >have any reason to question my loyalty to her. She can trust me >because that trust is demonstrated in practical, tangible action.

Is that it, Larry. Or is it that you wouldn't do so because it would mean your wife could do so as well and you wouldn't be comfortable with that?

Learn to trust others, Larry. It's a much more healthy way to live.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1441. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:46:22 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC0456.7C5F392@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24537

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFB089B.F3465139@earthlink.net...
> >
> > > As it happens, I have one son who turned 18 two weeks ago. He > > > was home schooled and started college at 14 at a community college > > > (he'll receive his AA degree--with a 3.92 GPA--this spring and start > > > his Junior year at a University in the Fall). Last year he was one of > > > Parade Magazine's 52 top newspaper carriers in the USA and won a trip > > > to Europe for his efforts. In addition, he donates a great deal of his > > > time to designing web pages for non-profit community agencies that > > > help the homeless and battered women, and is very publicly opposed to > > > racism, sexism, and laws that restrict the rights of individuals. He > > > has no interest in drugs at all (not a guess-a fact) and he doesn't > > > care for alcohol.
> > >
> > > Yup. I think my wife and I did ok there--don't you?
> >
> > I'd say that he has. Be careful not to take too much of the credit for > > yourselves.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> First Davey wishes to make an observation of one's character built upon the > way they were raised, then wants to depart from that observation and > cautions against close association with credit for raising a kid well.
>
> You are a contrast in design, Dave.
>
> Kim W5TIT

Whaddya want, Kim. He has described a pretty good kid. We don't yet know whether Rick is responsible for that or whether the kid made good despite his father's views on life. Maybe the kid is a rebel...

Dave K8MN

1442. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:53:33 UTC
From: Jim Weir <jim@rst-engr.com>
Message-ID: <gg1ovtskkgi2eetunrhqpdf2l586mpuaba@4ax.com>
Source record: 24539

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
shared these priceless pearls of wisdom:

-
->
-> I'll let the pilots here quote the FARs about making non-essential
-> communications while on an air carrier flight.

No restrictions on the aircraft commander or PIC that I'm aware of.

Jim
Jim Weir, VP Eng. RST Eng. WX6RST
A&P, CFI, and other good alphabet soup

1443. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 19:58:52 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC0743.9647694F@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24540

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 05:11:37 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >> I've got you, Larry, and Dick on the defensive, don't I?
> > >
> > >Is that your overinflated view of your power?
>
> Curiosity or self-defense?
>
> Rick

I'm just curious, Rick, but I note that you didn't respond. Do you see yourself as Sir Lancelot coming to the rescue or as some "I've got them in my power!" type wizard? I'm trying to imagine us attempting to close the breach before another sweeping onslaught from your mighty keyboard.

Dave K8MN

1444. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 20:01:00 UTC
From: Jim Weir <jim@rst-engr.com>
Message-ID: <ik1ovtgof9etiveklua0tjhv1n3qc244m1@4ax.com>
Source record: 24541

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
shared these priceless pearls of wisdom:

->
-> Did the company know that he was doing that?

Probably not. So what?

->
-> Did the company's LAWYERS know that he was doing that?

Probably not. So what?

->
-> Section 97.11 of the FCC Rules puts some very specific
-> restrictions on operation from an aircraft.

You been into the holiday giggle water a little early there, Kane? 47CFR 97.11 provides two short paragraphs about applying for license to Gettysburg.

On the other hand, in several dozen places in the FAR we find the reference that the PILOT IN COMMAND has the ultimate authority for the operation of the aircraft. No regulation I'm aware of prohibits the PIC from operating air mobile if (s)he wishes.

Company rules are another matter, but having seen my fair share of them, I've never run across a prohibition against operating air mobile.

Jim
Jim Weir, VP Eng. RST Eng. WX6RST
A&P, CFI, and other good alphabet soup

1445. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 20:02:58 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC0838.800F6696@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24542

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > I guess in the same way that you can continue to post this drivel about > > me telling a lie when it is quite clear that is was a typo.
>
> It was a typo but then you lied for days about making the typo. If > you had just admitted the typo I wouldn't have had the pleasure > of showing you up as a liar AND a fool. You not only misinterpret > what I write, you misinterpret what you write.

Gee, that'd be another lie on your part, wouldn't it, Cecil? To my knowledge, you've never had the opportunity to show up anyone here. Your word games are simply another opportunity for me to point out that nothing you write here can be taken seriously. In this case, that would include your original comparison and the ridiculous charade you are carrying on in the aftermath.

Dave K8MN

1446. More government "profiling"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 20:07:19 UTC
From: K0HB <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
Message-ID: <Ow0dWgscBHA.1196@cpimsnntpa03>
Source record: 24544

Glacier
In response to press coverage of recent anthrax incidents, the powder cocaine lobby has released a statement condemning what they call the media's "profiling" of all white powders.

"The media is using the very few actual incidents where white powder was found to be Anthrax in order to boost their ratings at a time when it's Americans who really need a boost," says Scott Sniffley of the PCL. "Everyone from Alan Greenspan to the club kids agree that this country is jonesing for a stimulus package now more than ever," he said.

Echoing the calls from Washington to stand up to terror with their wallets, an industry spokesman declared; "Unlike the fear mongerers in the media, we in the cocaine importer community will not let the terrorists win. Along with Mayor Guliani, and President Bush, we are saying to America; 'Go about your normal business and get this economy back on its feet, make those drug purchases - whether it's cocaine, heroin, or even crystal meth." "Look, this is about the whole powder drug economy - not just coke," sniffed Sniffley.

1447. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 20:07:20 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC093A.CF3ACA5A@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24543

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > >
> > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > > > If you want to participate, Kim, you may have to learn a few words of > > > > > > the local idiom. If I use a term and you don't know what it means, you > > > > > > might want to find out what it means.
> > > > >
> > > > > You mean like "comparting"? You apparently used a word for which > > > > > you were ignorant of the meaning.
> > > >
> > > > You know better and that makes your continuation of the lie all the
> > > > worse.
> > >
> > > You're the one who's lying, Dave, and here's the proof yet once again.
> > > ****************************************************************************
> > > Message-ID: <3BF5B180.79E0FAAD@earthlink.net>
> > > From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> > > Newsgroups: rec.radio.amateur.policy
> > > Subject: Re: Radio Policy
> > > Date: Sat, 17 Nov 2001 00:43:24 GMT
> > >
> > > > You do not, nor have you ever, lived in a place called Small Southern > > > > Town, USA. I do not recognize your elevation of Cecil Moore to the > > > > status of expert on the South or on Affirmative Action. In addition, > > > > I'm calling you on this diversion from your original erroneous comment
> > > > comparting Affirmative Action and morse testing.
> > > > ^^^^^^^^^^
> > > ****************************************************************************
> > > You introduced the word "comparting" and then lied about doing so for > > > days and days. How you can deny your documented archived postings is > > > unbelievable.
> >
> > ...and you introduced the "Big Lie" technique. How long is "days and > > days", Cecil?
>
> Four days now, Dave. I've been keeping track to see exactly when > you are going to show a hint of integrity and issue an apology.
```

...about the time you win your section in the ARRL DX CW 'test. Do you have any idea how long I expect that to take?

> > How long will you ignore the fact that my earlier and > > later posts on the matter say "compare" or "comparing"?
>
> I'm not ignoring that fact. I compared Affirmative Action > and Morse code testing. I haven't stopped comparing Affirmative > Action and Morse code testing. I will continue to compare > Affirmative Action and Morse code testing. I have NEVER > denied comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.

You most assuredly are ignoring the fact. That's what makes this latest cartoon such a hoot.

> I denied comparting Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.
> I will continue to deny comparting Affirmative Action and Morse > code testing. It was a lie when you first posted it and it > continues to be a lie for all to see.

Yep, continue to deny that (save for a typo) of which you were never accused. I suppose you have to pass that idle time some way.
Sure wish I could take you seriously.

Dave K8MN

1448. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 20:09:18 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC09B2.8183B342@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24545

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Then why do you take my postings about "comparting" so seriously?
> >
> > I don't take them seriously, Cecil.
>
> So how many replies have you posted regarding "comparting"?
> I've been leading you down the primrose path for four days now.

Oh? Do you fancy yourself a leader these days? Of course I'd have to take you seriously to believe that.

Dave K8MN

1449. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 20:12:51 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC0A87.125ABD1E@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24546

CAM wrote:
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > For exactly the same number of years, you've been attempting to > > assign the behavioral attributes you possess to others -- obviously > > to divert attention from your own obsessive/compulsive proclivities.
>
> No diversion necessary, Larry. I'm bipolar with obsessive/compulsive > traits. That's how I can so easily recognize them in others.

Larry, he is a 300,000 foot tall bipolar, obsessive/compulsive alien who can dunk basketballs and who has babies in the back of the bus. Perhaps this is a man who, in some aspects, should be taken seriously!

Dave K8MN

1450. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 20:16:18 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC0B54.6886703A@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24547

CAM wrote:
>
> Krell wrote:
> >
> > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote:
> > > Ahhh, a libertarian. I've discarded that view as completely unworkable.
> > > So if your wife chooses to start sleeping with another man and he > > > consents, it is fine with you? Do you have any say? Do you see any > > > immorality in the act? After all, what consenting adults do...
> >
> > No. I should hope so. Yes.
> > ...none of which is the government's damn business. That's how Libertarians > > think
>
> Adultery is indeed none of the government's damn business.
> No enlightened state has laws against adultery.

I get it! Another Cecil joke! He knew all along we weren't discussing whether or not it was the government's business. He was wise to the fact that it was morality and Rick's view of anything goes between consenting adults. You're such a card, Cecil (or should we call your cEcIlLy?)

Dave K8MN

1451. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 20:25:01 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC0D5C.6A3B771B@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24548

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 01:30:12 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Rick Adams wrote:
> >>
> >> On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 05:02:22 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> >> wrote:
> >>
> >> >Rick, You've just demonstrated your own lack of class.
> >>
> >> Well, since everyone who disagrees with you demonstrates a
> >> "lack of class" according to you, at least I'm in good company.
> >>
> >Let's see. There's Kim and...uh....there's you. How is that everyone > >who diagrees with me?
> >>
>
> Ok. Then _some_ of the people who disagree with you are > arbitrarily identified by you as demonstrating a "lack of class" and > presumably the substantial number of others who do so are not so > identified.
>
> Better?
>
> Rick

Yeah, it is better but you still don't quite have it down. Try leaving out the word "arbitrarily" since I didn't come to my conclusion arbitrarily. Then try leaving out everything after "lack of class" since I didn't make that statement--you did. Now I think you have my view.

Dave K8MN

1452. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 21:13:51 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn5qs13.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24549

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 03:47:45 GMT, BH wrote:

>> Section 97.11 of the FCC Rules puts some very specific >> restrictions on operation from an aircraft.
>
>Have no idea but we had some nice contacts which relieved some >boredom on his part.

Don't let the company's lawyers hear that....if he's the pilot on duty, boredom is not an option.

>Do you know if the aircraft being out of US >airspace makes any difference as far as the FCC is concerned.

A US-registered aircraft in international airspace is fully subject to FCC regulations.

>AS >far as any company rules, I would assume they would apply anytime

Yup.....

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1453. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 21:13:56 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn5r3x4.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24550

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 08:27:33 -0600, Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH wrote:

>(a): if he was PIC, it's fairly safe to assume he had his own >permission.

Company rules most probably require that upper management approves of such before he as the PIC can grant that permission even to himself.

>(b): pretty much the same thing we're required to make sure of on the >ground.

But WAS he using the installed aircraft HF radio and antenna for hamming?

>(c): where are the applicable FAR's?

See the FAA for those.

>Flying a 747 from leveling off at cruise altitude to preparing to land >is not exactly a thrill ride. Most pilots would call any >communications essential to staying awake.

Don't ever tell the company lawyers that one is anything but alert and attending to duties of control and monitoring of aircraft performance at all times.

Such is the stuff of eight-figure negligence settlements.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1454. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 21:14:09 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn5rri6.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24452

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 16:18:36 GMT, Jim Bromley, K7JEB wrote:

>Yeah, no kidding! I'll trade my urban ranch-style sitting >cheek-by-jowl to neighbors with light dimmers, computer >monitors, susceptible telephones, TV's and boom boxes for >a nice little used Palm Harbor sitting on 5 acres with >buried power and telephone lines and no CC&R's.

Palm Harbor homes are made just down the freeway from here, and they do look gorgeous.

My wife and I have discussed such a move, and this is not the right time for us to make it, though.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

From a Clearing in the Silicon Forest
Beaverton (Washington County) Oregon

1455. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 21:14:12 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn5x4u8.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24451

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 16:09:54 GMT, Jim Bromley, K7JEB wrote:

>Phil Kane asks (about the Victoria's Secret "fashion show"):
>
>> > When is the re-run scheduled? Sure beats old "Law and Order".
>
>Larry Roll K3LT sez:
>
>> Objection, Your Honor! I like the old "Law and Order" re-runs -- >> especially since I've not seen many of them from when they were
>> "All-New Episodes" in prime time!

I always watch the 1 pm local time rerun on A&E when I am home for lunch. Ditto the 8 pm TNT rerun when nothing better is at hand.
By now I've seen most of the episodes several times.

>You'll notice they always had a real babe as Assistant DA.

Not always - the first one was a black male "Paul Robinette" (Richard Brooks).

I've seen at least one episode that took place before "Adam Schiff" (Steven Hill) was the DA.

And there was one episode when Jerry Orbach, who plays "Lennie Briscoe", played defense attorney "Frank Lehrman". My wife and I concocted a scenario wherein "Lennie Briscoe" is really the half-brother of "Frank Lehrman".

>I always thought Jill Hennesey was the best one. Just >when my eyes were glazing over she would appear on-screen
>for a classy 'eye candy' fix.

She sure does a fine job on "Crossing Jordan". Note, however, that the writer(s) seem to work some inquiry by a male character to the color of her underwear into every episode of that program.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1456. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 21:15:01 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC1907.21F4DBFA@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24453

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 01:29:11 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Ahhh, a libertarian. I've discarded that view as completely unworkable.
>
> Please bear in mind that I said "libertarian," (small "l"), > not "Libertarian," (large "L"). While I feel the Libertarian party has > some very good points--particularly concerning personal freedom--I > tend to break from them when it comes to basic support for social > programs such as medical assistance for the poor or elderly, > unemployment benefits, etc. On the other hand, libertarianism (small
> "l") addresses only the issues of freedom and responsibility (which,
> by necessity, comes with freedom), not political issues of government > support for social needs. John Stuart Mill, for example, was a perfect > example of a libertarian thinker, as were John Locke and Thomas > Jefferson.

I've discarded both upper and lower case libertarianism. I would take issue that my great-great-great-great-great Uncle Thomas was a libertarian.

> >So if your wife chooses to start sleeping with another man and he > >consents, it is fine with you?
>
> Of course it is. I married her, I didn't purchase her at > auction!

No you didn't. I assume you made some vows.

> Look at it this way: If you care about someone, you want them > to be happy and to enjoy their lives, right? Well if it would give her > pleasure to sleep with someone else, I would certainly not be > demonstrating very much love for her if I refused her that > pleasure--or failed to trust her to keep her marriage separate from > her recreation.

Bully for you.

> >Do you have any say?
>
> The only things I have the right to expect, if she chooses to > sleep with someone outside the home is that she will take steps to > insure that her actions don't harm anyone. She is perfectly free to > have sex with such an individual, for example, but she has an absolute > obligation to insure she doesn't bring an STD home as a result. In the > same vein, I have the right to expect her to hold up her end of our > marital partnership by doing her share of the work at home (she > doesn't work outside the home, so she accepts responsibility for a > larger share of the work at home than I do) and I have the right to > expect that she will not allow her recreational activities to > interfere with our relationship. Beyond that, any decisions would, by > any logic, be her's to make not mine.

Again, bully for you!

> > Do you see any immorality in the act?
>
> Under conditions where both partners are aware of the > activities? None what-so-ever. Why should engaging in an activity that > gives (and results in) pleasure and involves no one who doesn't > consent to participate be "immoral?"

> If one partner is acting in that manner behind the back of the > other then the situation is very different. In that case, clearly, he > or she is breaking their word to their partner and thus knowingly > harming their relationship. That, clearly, is immoral behavior.

But you said that anything consenting adults do is okay. You mean if your wife is a consenting adult and other man is a consenting adult and they choose to sleep together without informing you, that isn't okay?

> Note that I define morality on the basis of harm to others.
> Since I'm not a Christian, I'm not "locked" into a mindset that > defines sexual activities as immoral actions. Instead, I see sex as an > expression of love, of joy, or of shear happiness in life. NONE of > that is--or can be demonstrated to be--immoral in any reasonable use > of the word.

Well, it certainly lends new meaning to phrases such as "going out into the world and spreading love". I'd say that there's a large group of Theologians would would strongly disagree with your last sentence.

> > After all, what consenting adults do...
>
> We agree.

No we don't.

> >> Being closed minded doesn't mean someone disagrees--it means > >> they are unwilling to look at an issue from any perspective but their > >> own.
> >
> >But if someone looks at both sides of an issue and rejects the other's > >view after examining it, is it your view that the person is > >close-minded?
>
> Only if they refuse to listen to new evidence that may change

> their view in the future, or if they insist that their view is the > ONLY correct one instead of simply viewing it as the correct one for > THEM.

In that case, I've never met anyone who is close-minded. I've met some pretty bull-headed folks though.

> >> Example: There is nothing wrong with someone viewing Kim's call > >> sign as personally offensive to them, based on their personal moral > >> values. But to accuse her of lacking class or threatening amateur > >> radio, then ignoring the statements of others that they simply don't > >> perceive it in the same manner--arguing in fact that if we don't agree > >> with their assessment, we have no class either--CLEARLY demonstrates > >> that their minds are closed.
> >
> >That's simply a judgement one arrives at after examing the issue. I've > >looked at the issue of Kim's call and I've come to believe that her > >actions lack decorum. That is my sincer and honest view.
>
> And you have a right to it.

That's sort of like a net MC prounouncing "Good Contact" after someone has worked a DX station on the net frequency. I don't need the validation.

> What neither you nor anyone else has a right to do, however, > is to ridicule or attack Kim about her sign. To tell someone that he > or she lacks class because in your opinion they have done something > you find inappropriate--but which is NOT a clear violation of > society's rules (and since Kim's sign is LEGAL, clearly it isn't a > violation) is clearly stepping across a line between your rights to > your opinion and her rights to be free of insult and ridicule. It's > one thing to simply state that you don't care for her vanity call > personally--that's simply expressing your opinion and, if she is > interested in knowing why, a conversation may develop--particularly if > it is informational instead of confrontational in nature. But it's > another thing altogether to tell her that because you, personally, > disapprove of her call it proves that she lacks class or decorum. That > isn't communications, it's an attack.

I've certainly communicated my opinion. For you to tell me that I don't have a right to communicate it is ridiculous. You aren't the final arbiter. If folks had a right to be free of insult and ridicule, Letterman and Leo would be out of work. Please show me where I can find these new rights spelled out.

> >It would be interesting if your "no wrong, no right" world existed.
> >How about: "I have the facts. I have examined them and believe your > >actions to not be in the best interests of amateur radio or even of your > >own human dignity."?
>
> So long as you are willing to stop at the point where the > person you are addressing states that they disagree with your > assessment, fine. You are certainly well within your rights to state > your opinions--the key is in identifying them AS your opinions instead > of treating them as though they were absolute statements of universal > truth--which seems to be the common response to her call here among > those who oppose it.

What else is to found on this newsgroup except opinion?

> >> Don't confuse my views on Christianity with my views of > >> Christians, they aren't the same. While I don't happen to believe in > >> the tenets of the Christian religion, it _does_ offer many rather > >> strongly positive philosophical principles. Unfortunately, as > >> Christianity is _practiced_ the only thing that comes through is > >> "selective oppression."
> >
> >That's an extremely subjective and close minded statement, Rick. It is > >obvious that you do not know how all people practice Christianity and > >you are apparently ignorant of denominational differences. I've never > >been oppressed by my Church.
>
> But I'm not claiming that adherents are oppressed--I'm > claiming that non-believers are, a very different concept.

It is still obvious that you do not know how all people practice Christianity and you are apparently ignorant of denominational differences.

> If you can honestly state that you don't believe Christianity
> as it is commonly practiced today (and yes I know there are those who > DON'T practice it in that manner--but they are a small minority)

That's just so much subjective crap.

> doesn't oppress the rights or freedoms of non-believers, I'll be more > than happy to support my claim with as much evidence as you would like > to see. Even the simplest examples should demonstrate that concept.
> For example, "Blue Laws" prohibit conducting some/all business on > Sunday and are based directly on the biblical concept of a "day of > rest" but result in oppressing both Jews and Muslims who are required > by their religions not to work on Friday night through Saturday and by > the laws enacted by Christians not to work on Sunday--thus creating an > unfair competitive environment for them when compared to Christian > businessmen; other examples include prohibition of adultery [a matter > of personal choice], homosexual activities [illegal in 37 states], > masturbation [a FELONY in several states, btw], and bigamy [which > oppresses both Muslims--who by their religion may have up to four > wives if they can support them].

While you are coming up with the proof, better dredge some up on how many of our laws are put into effect by the Church. I'm fairly sure that our state legislature is responsible for laws being passed hereabouts.

> You may not personally feel that you have been oppressed by > Christianity--but the lack of freedom of choice demonstrated by the > laws I listed above HAS effectively limited your freedom to choose, > and thus has oppressed you as well, even if you would not have made > the choices it forbids.

So it is now your intent to tell me my freedom has been limited? Tell me, Rick. Have you ever lived anywhere else--I mean outside the U.S.? Ever lived in a country with a state church? Ever lived in a third world country. I could show you limited freedom and various states of oppression. You now live in the place which offer more freedom than any place on the earth.

> >I don't recall one of the sayings of Jesus being that anything > >consenting adults do is fine. In fact, I don't recall any religion > >which has anything like that as one of its tenets.
>
> So?

So where does your expertise in these matters come from. I gather it doesn't come from Buddhism.

> If anything, that's a clear demonstration of precisely the > kind of thinking I'm addressing. You assume that because Jesus didn't > say anything about consenting adults that not all consensual behavior > is acceptable. But why should what Jesus said or didn't say have the > slightest influence on anyone who doesn't practice Christianity?

Jesus didn't know he was a Christian. He was a Jew and thought of himself as such. He didn't say that he came to save Jews or Romans or Christians. He came to save the world. That's pretty all-inclusive.

> I > don't happen to view Jesus, assuming he existed in the first place, as > anything but a wandering rabbi trying to teach a philosophy of > self-denial and non-violence. Perhaps some good principles, but even > that assumes they were quoted accurately--unlikely given the time that > passed between the year of his reported death and the time the gospels > were written down, but theoretically possible. Whether he did or did > not say something is, however, irrelevant for anyone other than those > who follow the religion personally. It is reasonable, therefore, to > judge the morality of acts performed by those who adhere to the same > set of values you adhere to on the basis of biblical injunction--it is > NOT reasonable to judge--or legislate--the morality or legality of > acts performed by others on that basis.
>
> >Lack of taste and decorum are dictated more by society than by religion.
>
> Lack of taste can mean anything from a lack of appreciation > for a fine wine or a Beluga Caviar or well-made sushi to wearing a > long dress with lavender stripes on a pea green background mixed with > pink polka-dots.

Is that what you assumed when I said Kim's action exhibited a lack of taste?

Clearly, these are totally matters of personal taste, > not issues of relevance to others. You may not care for the fact that > I wear a diamond in my ear lobe; someone else may not care for the > fact that I wear a suit and tie the majority of the time. Neither of > you would have any objective basis for a conclusion that I lacked > taste--only that my taste disagreed with your own.

I really don't care one way or the other about your suit or your diamond. Just seems like the waste of a perfectly good diamond.

> In Kim's case, some people find that her choice of call signs > is not something they find in the best of taste personally. That's > fine. There are others of us--seemingly the majority--who either don't > have any feelings one way or the other or who see that choice as NOT > representing poor taste, it's all a matter of perspective.

You keep adding these little "unprovens" to your statements. Why insert
"seemingly the majority" when you have no inkling that this is the case?
As to perspective: It is MY PERSPECTIVE that Kim exhibits a lack of good taste and decorum.*
(*Legal note: The above not binding on those who are not aware that they have bad taste and a lack of decorum. This view extends only to the callsign issue but is subject to change should Kim care to reveal other information about herself.)

> As far as the role of religion in the controversy. Can you > honestly say that there is ANY possible reason for feeling the use of > "TIT" in a call sign is in poor taste beyond the religious views on > sex? In many religions (i.e., Tantric Buddhism, etc.) the human body > is NOT seen as immoral, and thus her call would be no more likely to > be accused of representing poor taste than it would if she had chosen, > for example, "W5ARM" instead. THAT is an example of how religion > dictates taste to society.

As distasteful as you may find it, Rick; in a republic, the majority sets the rules. If the majority is mostly Christian, you'll find yourself in a land where a lot of the laws are based in the Judeo-Christian Ethic. I don't see any way around that except to sit around rooting for one of the religious minorities to outnumber American Christians. Apparently you don't see the constitutional protections for the minorities as doing quite enough. Maybe you could launch a movement. The trouble with movements is: drumming up followers can be a real struggle.

> >We live in a nation of laws and regulation. Those laws and regulations > >not only protect your rights but protect me from you.
>

> And that is the precise point at which they should stop.

See my point in the paragraph above.

> > By and large, you > >are free to practice whatever you like within the confines of your home > >or place of worship.
>
> On the contrary--even the few examples I cited earlier make it > clear that this is not the case.

If nobody is prosecuted for the things you trot out, I fail to see the problem. Most folks don't participate in most of your examples anyway. What freedom are you personally being denied?

> > That doesn't always hold true in public venues.
>
> Within reason, I agree. However, before agreeing to that it's > necessary to agree on the meaning of "public venue." To me, it is > perfectly reasonable to restrict behavior which is patently offensive > to the majority of people when it is conducted in a place where others > are forced to either see it or avoid a location they wish to visit. On > the other hand, many people see "Public" as any setting not enclosed > by the walls of a private home (and even there see it as public if > more than the residents are present). Obviously, if you are engaging > in consensual activities in a setting where only those who agree to > those behaviors (whether it is an indoor setting or an outdoor one is > irrelevant) are present it should be none of society's business > what-so-ever. Unfortunately, that is not the case in the United > States.

Put a fence around Max Yazgur's farm and have at it.

> >The airwaves are a public venue.
>
> And one clearly regulated by the government who do NOT view > Kim's actions as being a violation. Since the governing body does not > do so, it's completely inappropriate for anyone else to take her to > task for them.

For decades, the commission has not issued such calls sequentially. Most States do not permit similar things on vanity license plates (I don't really know of ANY which permit it--this is simply protection from the Cecils of this world). The issue has not been brought to a court of law. We really don't know about the legality at this time.

> >We not only have freedoms which come to us by birth as citizens of the > >U.S., we have the responsibilities which go with that citizenship. I > >don't think Kim is being a responsible citizen.
>
> Which, of course, is the point with which many of us disagree.
> And considering the FCC itself does not officially define her acts as > inappropriate, clearly there is no standard by which to judge them as > anything but a matter of personal choice.

As pointed out, the legality of the issue has not been decided. As things stand, her choice is simply tacky.

Dave K8MN

1457. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 21:18:42 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC19EC.645BCA61@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24454

Kim-W5TIT wrote:

> You're such a pussy.
>
> Kim W5TIT

It would be unkind of me to make any statements regarding Kim's lack of class or tackiness.

Dave K8MN

1458. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 21:50:26 UTC
From: K0HB <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
Message-ID: <uqpr9ZtcBHA.1732@cpimsnntpa04>
Source record: 24455

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote:

> Until Hollingsworth starts eliminating THOSE problems (and telling us > to "self-police" isn't eliminating them), he has a lot more to concern > himself with than Kim's call sign.

Riley didn't "concern himself" -- his opinion was solicited.

Like most of us, he thinks her vanity call sign is legal and trashy.

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB
--
Reality doesn't care what you believe.

1459. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 22:16:58 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0111211416.67d43f22@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24456

Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:<95D117631083AE03.0B5DE3947118C352.5F8C2CC703B840D9@lp.airnews.net>...
> On 19 Nov 2001 13:03:47 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
> >Callsigns like Kim's make the ARS a little less G-rated. Many prospective hams > >and the parents of prospective hams will have a less-positive impression of ham > >radio after encountering such callsigns. It would be better for the ARS if hams > >did not pick such vanity calls because they are inappropriate for the ARS.
>
> Jim, have you listened on 75m recently--or on a 2m repeater in
> the average city?

I listen to 75 meters occasionally. I use 2 meters here in the Philadelphia area. There are a few troublemakers on both bands, which is one of the reasons I operate almost all CW. For some reason,
"filth, bigotry, racism, hate speech, and deliberate jamming activities" are practically unknown on CW.

>
> If you're concerned with the image the parents of prospective > hams will have, consider the filth, bigotry, racism, hate speech, and > deliberate jamming activities you COMMONLY hear in those bands.

I don't hear any such thing COMMONLY on 2 meters in this area. Your mileage may vary.

We have had a few "bananas" here on 2 meters, but only a few. The 2 meter amateur community here is mostly made up of folks who don't tolerate such behavior. Any "filth, bigotry, racism, hate speech, and deliberate jamming activities" and the control op shuts down the repeater. If that's not effective, the offender soon finds that nobody answers his/her calls.
>
> If you, Larry, and others want to clean up ham radio, the > place to start is with the Liberty Net and other racist groups, not > with the mildly risque call Kim selected.

That's NOT the issue, Rick.

The question is whether calls like Kim's are appropriate for ham radio, and whether they are in the best interest of the ARS. I say they are not, and so does Riley.
>
> Talk to the average parent of a child old enough (and mature > enough) to become a ham. Ask him or her if it would trouble them to > know that a woman has the call sign W5TIT.

The "average parents" I know would say that such callsigns are not a good advertisement for ham radio.

btw, at what age do you think a child is old enough to become a ham? I got my license at age 13, and that was nowhere near a record back then. Do you think there should be an age limit for a license?

> Then ask them if it would > trouble them to know that a group of hams meat on 75m on Saturday > nights to discuss issues of interest to them as white power advocates.

Nice try at diversion, but BOTH things are bad advertisements for ham radio. Of course the second (Liberty Net) is far worse than the first (Kim's call).

> Perhaps elderly bigots like Larry who grew up in environments where > racism was acceptable but sex wasn't would say the call sign was a > problem

Interesting that you describe Larry that way.

>--but most modern parents would rather quickly tell you that > the call wasn't a problem--but that they would NEVER expose their > children to that kind of bigotry and hate.

I'm a "modern parent", and I disagree with that statement. The call is a problem and the bigotry and hate are problems. Of course the bigotry and hate are far worse problems, but that's obvious.
>
> We don't live in the 1940s anymore.

So? Must we accept any and all callsigns as "modern"?

>Today "TIT" is a common > word on prime time TV, and no one is offended in the slightest.

Nope. That word is NOT common on broadcast TV at all. And people ARE offended.

> Hate > and bigotry, such as Larry and Dick often display in this group, on > the other hand, very definitely DO offend today's society.

They don't seem to offend the folks on the Liberty net.

But it sounds as if societal acceptance, or "community standards", is your measure of what should be on the air.
>
> >It should be noted that not only did Kim pick out that callsign, but she > >recommended similar callsigns to others as vanity calls.
>
> Ok, I'll tell you what. To "offset" Kim's call, I'll get my > own vanity call (I've been thinking of getting one anyway) that will > compensate for the "TIT" in hers.

Doesn't work that way, Rick.
>
> How would W8GOD be? No one could ever claim THAT call had an > offensive sexual connotation to it--and it IS available.

Some folks might be offended. Not me, but some folks. However, it doesn;t make up for other calls.
>
> Besides, that way when people call me by my suffix (as someone > claimed people would call Kim), they certainly won't be offending > anyone else by calling "Hey, God, what about . . ."

Nobody would call you that...;-)
>
> Of course, I'll have to avoid being on the air Sundays or > everyone will be calling me, but . . .
>
> >It is perfectly clear from reading Kim's posts that she chose that callsign for > >its attention and giggle factors, and doesn't see the harm in it.
>
> Probably because there ISN'T any harm in it!

Sure there's harm in it. Not much, but some. You don't see it, and she doesn't see it, but other hams do. Just a matter of opinion. Is it wrong for me to have such electro-politically incorrect opinions? I've got lots of them.
>
> > The only way
> >she would give it up is if the FCC revoked it.
>
> Would you give up YOUR call if people here demanded you do so?

If they could show how my call could give people a bad impression of ham radio, I would think about it. Might even do it if "community standards" showed it was not a good choice for the image of the ARS.

But my call was not chosen for its attention-getting and giggle-factor components. It's not even a real vanity call - it was sequentially issued in 1977.

By the way, both W5KIM and W5MKW (Kim's initials) are unassigned. But Kim doesn't want a call like that. Her choice, of course. I don't think Kim is an evil person just because she chose that callsign. But I don't think it's harmless, either.
>
> > That's probably not gonna > >happen, because the FCC doesn't forbid such callsigns, and Kim doesn't change > >her mind very often.
>
> Sounds to me as though the people here feel the call sign is a > lot more harmful than the FCC does.

Is that wrong? Must our opinions agree with those of the govt.? Do you think that if something is legal, it is therefore OK to do, no matter what?

> Of course, what would they know, they just regulate the radio spectrum.

Uh-huh. This is the same FCC that, until recently, required a 20 wpm code test for all amateur privileges unless a relevant permanent medical disability could be documented. Were they right or wrong in requiring that test until April 14, 2000?
>
> >So the operative question is: Which is the lesser of two evils - callsigns like > >Kim's, or having the FCC enact and enforce a list of forbidden ARS callsigns?
>
> How about a third choice: Learn to tolerate that which offends
> you personally but doesn't hurt others and concentrate on stopping > behaviors that do?

You avoided the queston, but I'll answer it. The greater evil is having a list of forbidden callsigns enforced by the FCC.

The folks who run the "Liberty net" might say that you and I should learn to tolerate THEIR behavior because it doesn't hurt anyone.
They'd cite "free speech" and some such.
>
> Call signs like Kim's hurt no one.

They hurt the image of the ARS. Which means they hurt hams who want the best for the ARS' future.

> If the FCC enacts a list of > forbidden call signs all they are doing is capitulating to the > pressure of a religion that teaches it's followers that the human body > is evil and sinful and cannot be mentioned in public.

Nope. Religion has nothing to do with it. And please note that I have NOT called for the FCC to ban calls like Kim's.

> If they're going > to make such terms forbidden, then by all means calls that end in
> "LEG," "ARM," "TOE," "EAR," or "EYE" have to go as well. After all, > the FCC has no right legally to restrict anything based on religious > values, so the only legal basis for forbidding calls such as Kim's > would be to restrict anything that had to do with the body at all.

Nice try but no cookie.

Consider this: When Mayor Giuliani took office in NYC several years back, one of the things he did was aggressively pursue "quality of life" or "community standards" issues. Like not tolerating graffiti, trash, aggressive panhandling, etc. He also went after bigger crime, but the "little things" got resources too. Some said he should concentrate only on the big stuff like murders and not bother the three card monte operators and gypsy cab drivers, etc.

But a funny thing happened: the rate of ALL crime began to drop in the city, and New Yorkers began to feel better about their town.

There's a lesson in that for ham radio.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1460. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 22:36:35 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3BFC2C73.2375778@uci.edu>
Source record: 24460

CAM wrote:
> > You're wrong. Obtaining an amateur radio license is an elective procedure.

> Not for licensed ham radio operators it isn't.

That's a silly thing to say, Cecil. Amateur radio operators already have a license. Obviously they've already elected to obtain one.
Sheesh.

1461. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 22:37:55 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3BFC2CC3.FD5A3E5@uci.edu>
Source record: 24461

CAM wrote:
> You're the one who's lying, Dave, and here's the proof yet once again.

You boys settle down and quit fighting!

1462. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 22:45:30 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFC2E8A.4F8C813B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24459

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Four days now, Dave. I've been keeping track to see exactly when > > you are going to show a hint of integrity and issue an apology.
>
> ...about the time you win your section in the ARRL DX CW 'test. Do you > have any idea how long I expect that to take?

I personally find contesting to be a juvenile-like waste of time.
I also find your attempts at diversion amusing.

> > I have NEVER
> > denied comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.
>
> You most assuredly are ignoring the fact.

Since you have produced absolutely no proof, everyone can assume you are still lying about it. Where's the beef, Dave?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1463. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 22:48:42 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3BFC2F4A.EF3E67F5@uci.edu>
Source record: 24457

CAM wrote:
> I personally find contesting to be a juvenile-like waste of time.
> I also find your attempts at diversion amusing.

Isn't it also true that you find _your_ attempts at diversion amusing?
:-)

1464. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 22:49:32 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFC2F7C.69E864CB@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24462

Dave Heil wrote:
> You're such a card, Cecil (or should we call your cEcIlLy?)

Cecilia will do. I'm a lesbian.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1465. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 23:00:05 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3BFC31F5.D3D72437@uci.edu>
Source record: 24458

Phil Kane wrote:
>
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 16:18:36 GMT, Jim Bromley, K7JEB wrote:
>
> >Yeah, no kidding! I'll trade my urban ranch-style sitting > >cheek-by-jowl to neighbors with light dimmers, computer > >monitors, susceptible telephones, TV's and boom boxes for > >a nice little used Palm Harbor sitting on 5 acres with > >buried power and telephone lines and no CC&R's.
>
> Palm Harbor homes are made just down the freeway from here, and they > do look gorgeous.
>
> My wife and I have discussed such a move, and this is not the right > time for us to make it, though.
>
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

Don't get one. Tornados always seem to head straight for them! ;-)

1466. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-21 23:07:41 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFC33BD.CE43678D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24482

Dave Heil wrote:
> But you said that anything consenting adults do is okay. You mean if > your wife is a consenting adult and other man is a consenting adult and > they choose to sleep together without informing you, that isn't okay?

By OK, I'm assuming he means that it is none of the government's business just as Kim's choice of callsign is none of the government's business.

> As distasteful as you may find it, Rick; in a republic, the majority > sets the rules.

Nope, that's a democracy. In a republic the elected representatives set the rules or follow the rules set forth in The Constitution.
Inalienable rights are protected from the tyranny of the majority in a democracy. Do you think if a majority of voters voted for Bush to drink hemlock that he would do it?

> For decades, the commission has not issued such calls sequentially.
> Most States do not permit similar things on vanity license plates (I > don't really know of ANY which permit it--this is simply protection from > the Cecils of this world). The issue has not been brought to a court of > law. We really don't know about the legality at this time.

Whatever happened to the concept of innocent until proven guilty?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1467. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 00:08:12 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFC41EC.2A86F5D5@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24483

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > > Then why do you take my postings about "comparting" so seriously?
> > >
> > > I don't take them seriously, Cecil.
> >
> > So how many replies have you posted regarding "comparting"?
> > I've been leading you down the primrose path for four days now.
>
> Oh? Do you fancy yourself a leader these days?

Oh, not for everything. Only for the primrose path. Can't be everywhere at once, you know.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1468. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 00:11:42 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFC42BE.3045B63F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24484

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Krell wrote:
> > >
> > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote:
> > > > Ahhh, a libertarian. I've discarded that view as completely unworkable.
> > > > So if your wife chooses to start sleeping with another man and he > > > > consents, it is fine with you? Do you have any say? Do you see any > > > > immorality in the act? After all, what consenting adults do...
> > >
> > > No. I should hope so. Yes.
> > > ...none of which is the government's damn business. That's how Libertarians > > > think
> >
> > Adultery is indeed none of the government's damn business.
> > No enlightened state has laws against adultery.
>
> I get it! Another Cecil joke! He knew all along we weren't discussing > whether or not it was the government's business.

On the contrary, when someone says something is OK, he/she usually means that it's none of the government's business. It is obviously someone's business, just not the government's. I've know couples with open marriages where adultery was not only OK but anticipated with gusto.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1469. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 00:25:33 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <1CXK7.222$9d.80640@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24487

Oh no!! You found me Roger! I thought I could hide here!! (Just kidding)
It is kinda funny that we live so damned close and making a contact through this medium. Feel free to participate in this newsgroup more often.
Overall there is a great bunch of people who you can get to know through messages here. There are a few WACKO'S but overall it is a great bunch of people. It is nice, within a few exceptions, to be able to debate a large variety of topics and actually have a decent debate.

For the rest of the group, I also have known Roger K8RI for years and he is the closest person that I know that I could call my Elmer. Between him and John WB8RCR I have learned more than I normally ever would.

Thanks again for all your help there Roger!

Ryan KC8PMX

> Hey! What do you want to know about him? Ryan lives about a mile and a half > from me and I've known him since he was a teenager.
>
> He even helped me a couple of times, pulling on the rope to get the new > tower and antennas up.
>
> Now as to satisfaction, enjoyment, and conversation...I could probably get
a > couple hours of satisfaction out of telling stories about him.... What I > don't know for sure I can always make up!
>
> Course, I'd have to add that I know few people whose first 6-meter contact > was Alaska.
> Take a bow Ryan!
>
> --
> Roger Halstead (K8RI)
> WWW.RogerHalstead.com
> N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S# CD-2)
>
>

1470. Re: "one step closer...."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 00:25:35 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <3CXK7.223$9d.80640@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24486

Seen them at few hamfests..... along with the multiple buttonage etc.

Ryan

"Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
news:9te4ve$12s$1@news.service.uci.edu...
>
> KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
> news:Hd7K7.756$m%.185681@monger.newsread.com...
> > Have ya seen the custom-screen-printed pocket protectors that are now
the > > rage with the socially inept-anal-retentive ham???
>
> I wasn't looking for one. Guess they caught your eye though.
>
>

1471. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 01:23:38 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <5ECA7CFB6A00554E.2EA5E5D6A4E55FF5.10A436E11BA0E6B8@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24489

On 21 Nov 2001 02:59:28 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I don't believe anyone in this newsgroup, with the possible exception >of Kim, disagrees with the above. I don't think the FCC should limit
>the issuance of callsigns which could, as in Kim's case, spell out >words which could be construed as having a sexual innuendo, and >thus being in bad taste. I believe it is totally the responsibility of the >ham who requests such a call sign to live with the outcome of their >actions.

Then by the same logic, there is no legitimate reason to harass or criticize that ham for exercising his or her freedom of choice. If a call sign is legal, it is up to the holder to decide if it is offensive--it's not up to others to force him/her to change that call sign. That's just replacing government censorship with private censorship and is just as unreasonable.

>It just so happens that Kim is now, in this thread, getting >her just deserts, as a result of her inappropriate choice.

No, Larry, she isn't.

If other hams find her call sign offensive, then they are certainly free to decide not to talk to her on the air--or on the Usenet for that matter. And if a sufficient number of hams acted in that manner--by their OWN choice--it would only make sense for Kim to change her sign if she wanted to communicate with those individuals.
THAT would be a fair and reasonable response to her sign--and one that leaves her with freedom of choice (of course, I doubt that very many hams would BE offended by her sign or elect not to talk with her because of it--but it's possible I'm wrong, in which case the response would be one she would have to accept responsibility for personally--as she would).

On the other hand, insisting on continuing a thread on the topic of her call sign for the sole purpose of harassing her, attempting to force her to change her sign, or "punishing" her choice of signs is a very different matter. All you are trying to do is force someone to do something YOU, not the FCC, feel is appropriate for the ARS. That's a deliberate attempt to oppress her speech, Larry, and it's offensive to any rational person.

Larry, you mention serving in the military. So did I. Not as long as you, admittedly (I lost a lung in Vietnam toward the end of my second tour of duty there and received a medical discharge), but long enough to feel I contributed to my nation. And what I was defending (if you consider a non-combatant--I was a corpsman with a recon Marine unit in SE Asia, not a "shooter"--as "defending" our country) wasn't the politicians or the economic interests, it was the very freedoms I'm arguing for here. My Navy Cross may not have been for standing up for free speech--but I would be far prouder of it if it were for that than for what I _did_ earn it for. To me, the ONLY area in which our nation is "superior" (a term I hate, btw) to some other nations in is in our respect for and protection of freedoms. And when you--as a veteran--attack Kim for exercising that freedom, you essentially rub that service--and our Constitution--in the dirt. You may not mean to do that (I _do_ believe you view yourself as a patriot), but the effect is the same regardless.

>I'm sure Kim would like nothing better than to "shut me up," as it >were, but that will never happen. I created this thread, and it will be >a recurring, if not permanent, feature of this newsgroup.

Ok--then it's only fair that someone else create one that targets others in this newsgroup as well. I plan to start a new thread in a few minutes titled "Bigotry in the ARS" that will focus on hams who claim to represent the best of American amateurs, but who make it clear that they believe in or practice discrimination on the basis of race, religion, sex, or sexual orientation--which, of course, is a very UN-American behavior. The thread won't be specifically aimed at you, Dick, or any other individual (well, maybe the 3950 crowd :-), but I will be VERY surprised if you and some of the others who are riding Kim about her call sign aren't singled out in that thread for special attention by many participants in the NG.

> For years,
>we've had the concept of the "family-oriented" nature of the ARS >touted as one of it's most attractive features.

Larry, the term "Family oriented" wasn't even in use until Ronald Reagan was President and it became a trendy political slogan to beat the left over the head with. The LAST thing I would do is to tie the ARS to anything Reagan and his supporters (particularly Jerry Falwell, the bigoted, self-righteous, hypocrite who coined the phrase "Family Oriented") used to boost their political ratings.

I could care less if you--or anyone else--view amateur radio as "family oriented" or not--family orientation simply means that you don't regard it as reasonable for activities that are too mature for children to participate in them to occur. To me, that's FAR too limiting a definition for amateur radio. When is the last time you saw an experimental station set up and run by a child? When was the last time you saw a family ham group on a dx-pedition? For that matter, when was the last time you saw a child participate in MARS, RACES, a traffic net, or ARES? How many young children are permitted to serve as VEs, ECs, or net control on a traffic net? If the service is "Family oriented," (as Hollingsworth claims) by necessity ALL those should be immediately eliminated or children should be permitted to assume equal roles with adults who hold the same class of license.

Isn't it better to view the ARS as it is--a hobby with room for MANY different groups and interests? Some of us are interested only in communications (I admit it--when not chasing dx with an inferior station I'm a rag chewer <blush>), others are interested in electronics or communications experimentation, still others are interested in public service, traffic handling or social contacts. Some areas are suited to family use--some are not. If Kim wanted to participate exclusively in youth groups I would _personally_ question her choice of calls (not because I feel kids shouldn't be exposed to free information about human sexuality but because anyone who would choose a "risque" call sign deliberately to use with children would elicit question as to their motives). But the fact of the matter is, Kim DIDN'T obtain her call to participate in youth groups--she did so to communicate with adults, and there's a great difference between the two.

> I happen to strongly >agree with this, and believe that Mr. Riley Hollingsworth has done >all of us who value the positive, family-oriented image of the ARS
>a great service when he stated that Kim's callsign had the potential >to bring it "ï¿½one step closer to extinction."

He'd do us a heck of a lot MORE good if he'd start really enforcing the regs and leave the psychic predictions to Jeannie Dixon and Nostradamus. So far as I can see, 75m & 2m aren't exactly shining examples of good radio practice and create a LOT worse image of ham radio than ten thousand "racy" call signs could ever cause--and so far as I can tell, Hollingsworth's response that THAT is to tell us to be self policing!

> Kim's choice to flaunt
>a vulgar and demeaning callsign does not make her a champion >for free-speech "rights." It only makes her a spectacle of poor >judgement.

But the concept of "vulgar" and "demeaning" implies that she _recognizes_ her sign as fitting those definitions. I don't. Cecil doesn't. A lot of other hams don't. And there's absolutely no reason for anyone to think that Kim does.

What you are doing, Larry, is expecting Kim to share your personal values--and that from ANY perspective isn't reasonable. Kim (and I, and others) see absolutely nothing offensive about her call. Yet you are insisting that she is demonstrating poor judgement by using it and that it is vulgar and demeaning.

Be totally honest (and not sarcastic), Larry. Which would offend you _personally_ more--Kim using W5TIT or me obtaining W8GOD? Why?

>On the contrary, there are many controversial discussions to be >found on-the-air. The chaos common to the HF phone bands is not >the only on-the-air activity available to radio amateurs. The CW >and digital bands are full of interesting, stimulating conversations.

Bingo Larry.

You made one of my points without meaning to. There ARE many varying activities on the air--some are "family oriented" but other's aren't. Perhaps (only perhaps, bear in mind, since I don't believe in sheltering children from reality) Kim's call wouldn't be appropriate for participation in, as an example, a cub scout net--but to the best of my knowledge she has no interest in _participating_ in that type of activities. Instead, she communicates with other adults on the air, and in that setting her call is totally acceptable and, in fact, a nice break from the norm.

Imagine being on a dx'pedition with hundreds of hams calling you for a contact (sounds good to me--but then again, I'm a dx 'er :), and having someone with "TIT," someone with "HH," and someone with "LT" as their suffix call you. Can you guess which call would be easier to recall and respond to?

Hmmmm . . .

I think I _will_ apply for W8GOD--considering I work qrp mobile by preference (try getting through a pile-up with THAT combination), it might help. :-)

>Since Restructuring has virtually eliminated any effort involved in >gaining access to the HF bands, I would think that the digital >modes would gain greater popularity and higher utilization. Let's >hope that this is so.

Then why argue in favor of cw?

As it happens, I _do_ work cw some of the time--anyone who enjoys dxing has to do that. But I vastly prefer voice or other digital modes instead. The increase in popularity is definitely a positive from my perspective. What that has to do with Kim's call, however, I have no idea. To the best of my knowledge she prefers voice--but even if she works digital modes I doubt SERIOUSLY that she sends a "graphic" image of her call sign (if she does I'll bet she's popular on SSTV on 20m!) :-)

>This newsgroup exists for the express purpose of discussing
>"controversial" topics related to amateur-radio policymaking. It >is the specific, intended home of the debate on code testing as >a licensing requirement. If you have personal objections as to >the nature of the colloquy inherent to this newsgroup, I suggest >that there are many other newsgroups which may serve your >needs better than this one can.

I have no objection at all. I just feel that beating a dead horse is unproductive. The newsgroup exists to discuss amateur radio policy--not just code and Kim's call sign. The elimination of the code requirement is a done deal--right now it's 5WPM and after next year it will probably go away altogether. My feelings in that area are irrelevant--I use cw, I can easily send with my paddles at 30+ (more than most hams can copy anyway) and I use a computer to receive & decode cw (I only have 15% hearing--with no high-range at all--thanks to Vietnam and I can't hear the breaks between elements at greater than 15 WPM or so--I "lucked out" on my 20 WPM exam), and I enjoy cw on occasion. But it's the FCC, not me, who will make that decision, and I don't personally believe that others should be required to learn a mode they may not enjoy anyway.

With respect to Kim's call sign, the same holds true. While I personally don't have a problem with her sign--and see nothing whatever offensive about it (actually, I like it--it's a refreshing change to talk to someone whose call is easy to remember [names and calls are NOT my strong point] and I don't see it as at all inappropriate), the fact remains that carrying on an extended debate about it is unproductive. Kim is NOT going to change her call because a few people here tell her to do so. Thus the conversation, like the code/no code debate, is an exercise in futility and serves only to alienate potential hams who read this newsgroup and waste bandwidth.

Larry, you've probably noticed that in this message--and other recent ones--I'm not putting you down, flaming you, or treating you like an idiot. There's a simple reason. While a "recreational" online flame war is fun, and doesn't hurt anyone, at the same time I'd like to be able to communicate with you w/o the assumption that I'm trying to insult you. Despite our differences, and there are many, I respect your experience in ham radio and your commitment to the ARS. I simply disagree with your views on what is best for the service and see no reason for you to attack others who feel the same. Perhaps communicating on a mutually-respectful basis can eliminate the attacks and create an environment where real communications can take place (ham radio IS about communications, after all) and the matter can be resolved. Of course, I'm perfectly willing to "play" if people prefer a flame war (and I'm pretty good at it, too! :-), but it's nice once in a while to simply communicate instead.

Frankly, I'd like to see this thread go away. Not because it isn't an interesting place to "play" (it is) but because of the poor impression of ham radio it's giving to prospective hams who read the thread. Kim isn't going to change her call--heck, I'd have no respect for her if she DID do so because others told her to (if she does so because SHE doesn't care for it anymore, that's different--I don't happen to care for KE8HH very much either--although it DOES represent a "pre-change" Advanced class call, which a new one wouldn't)! But if Kim isn't going to change her call--and if many (most?) of us see nothing wrong with it anyway, continuing the thread as you threaten to do becomes just a petty way of attacking and ridiculing a person who,

from all indications, simply doesn't deserve that kind of treatment.

Give some thought to it, Larry, it isn't helping the ARS, it's only creating more poor images--and the Liberty Net is very capable of doing THAT without any help from us.

Incidently, if you're going to Dayton this year the coffee is on me--and my wife (KB8AGW, btw, if it matters) won't even mind my meeting you w/o her if she's at one of the Cincinnati museums at the time! :-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1472. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 01:26:52 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <54CDB62CFD335DD9.7C2C58E2A74A9546.EED2F98A45744C6C@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24490

On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 22:28:01 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>> Seen any black helicopters lately, Larry? Maybe some UN troops >> taking over your neighborhood?
>
>Something was interfering with CNN on my TV. I called the >cable company and they said it was the AWACs. Does that count?

Cecil, if you're getting interference from AWAC flights, you better complain to the government rather quickly. AWAC radar is capable of putting out 5 MEGAWatts of power--enough to guarantee "unique" looking, multi-headed babies in THAT frequency band!

Even Navy and Air Force pilots are careful about being exposed to that kind of radiation from an AWACs flight or an E2 Sentry!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1473. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 01:29:08 UTC
From: K0HB <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
Message-ID: <O$xL6VvcBHA.1212@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 24491

What the hell has this to do with Larry?

The owner of the call K3LD is Dianne.

What is it that K3LD lacks, in your opinion?

With all kind regards,

de Hans, K0HB

"Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> wrote in message
news:3be48a54_2@newsa.ev1.net...
> Let's put it this way: the lacking is nothing that a person with the gender > name of Dianne would be carrying around. Then again, Larry doesn't carry > much of one around either (at least not from what I can tell).
>
> Nighty night.
>
> Kim W5TIT
>
>
> "Hans Brakob" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message > news:a88a634ee9063c28c93f35aff160ea22.15732@mygate.mailgate.org...
> >
> > "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> wrote:
> >
> > > Yeah, something like maybe K3LD. (The L=Lacking).
> > >
> > > Kim W5TIT
> >
> > And what is that Dianne is lacking (in your humble opinion)?
> >
> > (���) 73, de Hans, K0HB
> >
> >
>
>
>

1474. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 01:29:40 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfc56b7_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24493

"Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
news:9tgjvj$bb6$1@news.service.uci.edu...
>
> Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net> wrote in message
> news:3bfb18d8_1@newsa.ev1.net...
> > OH GAWD!!!! Jim Kelley---touche! What a laugh!!!
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
>
> Well, it's not all that funny really. It's sad. I've known couples like > that, and it's never a happy situation. It's about respect for, and > confidence and trust in another person, and a relationship. A relationship > without that respect is precarious and weak Strength and confidence are > much more alluring traits in a person, I think.
>

Well, you're right. And it is sad... I hadn't taken the time to read the "context" of the message. (But I did giggle most of the way to the office).
Say, I just saw a couple while I was in the grocery store with my husband last night. This poor guy had drooping shoulders and rocked back and forth as he walked. No kidding--his wife kept telling him exactly where to stand, when to move, and what to get her off the shelves! My husband looked at me,
I looked at him, and shook our heads.

Kim W5TIT

> > "Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
> > news:3BFAD57E.E5D28FB6@uci.edu...
> > > Nor are you likely to. What they would likely "grasp" is that you're > > > unable to distinguish between having coffee and having sex.
> >
> >
>
>

1475. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 01:34:05 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfc590a_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24495

ho ho ho ho....oh no....LOL

Hmmm, maybe I better get to work on that QSL card and put all these rumors to rest...er, sleep, er...

Kim W5TIT

"Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:hDRK7.120186$WW.7611419@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
>
> Kim-W5TIT posted:
>
> > What discussin of my QSL card? I've never done one yet...LOL.
> > I've designed plenty but never have completed mine. Which, by > > the way, will have a wolf theme. ;)
>
> You know what leaped into my mind when I read this -- > that statue of Romulus and Remus being suckled by > a she-wolf. They're right, Kim, your callsign is > damaging my psyche. ;-)
>
> --
> Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
> Glendale, Arizona
>
>
>

1476. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 01:35:13 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <49269F46403F14E9.0728CD9E71AF3668.88EA2DC3382F414E@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24492

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 06:38:22 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>Oh good grief...I don't think I've ever "swooned." Among my friends, women >and men, it is well known that I don't have an "eye" on men for their >bodies. I have never been like that. Now, have a man walk up and start >talking intellectually and he's got my attention. I've known many very good >looking men in my life and, just as with women, nearly every time there's >good looks there's quite a nasty personality to go with them.

Why is it the women attracted to intellectual men are thousands of mile away and the ones attracted to macho redneck types are local?

Talk about living in the wrong area . . . ;-)

>What discussin of my QSL card? I've never done one yet...LOL. I've >designed plenty but never have completed mine. Which, by the way, will have >a wolf theme. ;)

Typo, Kim. I meant your call, not your card.

If you _do_ need a card designed, btw, let me know--graphics design and art are a side interest of mine (a profitable one!!!) and I'd be more than glad to design one. Actually, I like the idea someone suggested of Romulus & Remus nursing from a wolf--particularly if you eliminate Romulus--it just seems to fit your call! :-)

No charge for creating it--but I want a card if you print
them!

>No, no, no, Rick. What revolts Larry is the image of himself with >hysterical laughter. Er, well, what revolts Larry is the image of himself.

He hasn't sent me that pic yet (God, I hope it's not a nude!!!!!) so I can't respond to that one! ;-)

>Any time Larry starts feeling pretty silly over the issue of a callsign, as >he usually does begin around this time (closer to Christmas actually), he >begins attacking the people who seem to pick sides...his idea being that >they have picked "me" rather than that they are on the side of freedom of >choice, etc.

Christmas?

Do you have any idea how he--and the other conservatives in the group--would respond if I change my call to W8GOD around Christmas?

Hehehehehe . . .

>Larry gets very jealous over me. In fact, he gets just as jealous as if we >were in a real relationship--which is never going to happen and that makes >him even more desperate.

Blow him a kiss and tell him good night!

>So, sigh, you'll have to make the choice, Rick. Keep defending the rights >of others and having Larry translate that to your never-ending love and >desire for me--putting up with jealous fits of rage from him now and then, >or...well, the alternative is just unspeakable... ;) But the part where >Larry has his jealous fits of rage are a lot, lot more fun. (Besides, you >ought to see my husband act Larry out). LOL

Kim, it's too bad you're monogamously married--can you imagine the fun we could have with Larry & Dick in this group if you weren't?
;-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1477. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 01:41:28 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfc59aa_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24496

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFBFBAD.96498FBA@IEEE.org...
> "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" wrote:
> >
> > Kim-W5TIT posted:
> > > What discussin of my QSL card? I've never done one yet...LOL.
> > > I've designed plenty but never have completed mine. Which, by > > > the way, will have a wolf theme. ;)
> >
> > You know what leaped into my mind when I read this -- > > that statue of Romulus and Remus being suckled by > > a she-wolf. They're right, Kim, your callsign is > > damaging my psyche. ;-)
>
> The effects of Kim's callsign are making my sides hurt.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
>
>

Mmmmm, trying to hold this back but cannot which sides? :o

Kim W5TIT

1478. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 01:42:01 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <60C246D7C6064ACE.230ACDAFCE7A8DB9.E361368284D5F1AA@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24494

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 21:14:09 GMT, "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
wrote:

> My wife and I have discussed such a move, and this is not the right > time for us to make it, though.

Talk about an opposite move--my wife and I are considering going full time as RVers next year when I retire from teaching (at 57 YEA!!!!)--which should be interesting considering we have 6000+ books, 4000+CDs and six computer systems! :-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1479. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 01:49:13 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfc5a3d_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24497

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message news:07CAA049537B5649.57E2F3E780E752A1.B48402A196885899@lp.airnews.net...
> On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 06:41:21 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
> wrote:
>
> >I have a feeling Larry is friendship challenged.
>
> Naw. He has friends. Look at Dick.
>
> Oops. That line gives Larry entirely too much to play with,
> doesn't it?
>

Ummmm, yeah. See Jane run!

Kim W5TIT

1480. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 01:52:28 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfc5aee_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24498

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFC01E9.9868BB77@earthlink.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > news:3BFA830E.F540F9A@earthlink.net...
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > >
> > > > You'd think Davey would get the hint. When one keeps throwing insults
> > that > > > > no one understands because they're not at others' level, well...
Kinda
> > has > > > > the same affect as using the English language in a group of people
that > > > > speak nothing but Spanish.
> > > >
> > > > Kim W5TIT
> > >
> > > If you want to participate, Kim, you may have to learn a few words of > > > the local idiom. If I use a term and you don't know what it means,
you > > > might want to find out what it means. It isn't my lack of knowledge > > > which is the problem.
> > >
> >
> > Uh, Dave. I would find it interesting, at best, for me to undertake > > learning from you in any way constructive... Oh, and I'm not sure what
you > > mean by if I want to participate...I don't think I do...
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
>
> I'm sure that you would find it interesting, Kim. My time is, however, > extremely limited. If you don't care to participate, what keeps you > participating?
>
> Dave K8MN

Well, that's quite simple, Dave. I am so surprised you have to ask. I keep participating because I love to amuse the simply amused! No challenge, easy work, gets my stress out from the day's activities and, in some cases, allows me to enjoy some real interesting go 'rounds.

Kim W5TI and a T

1481. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 01:56:58 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfc5c3b_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24499

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFC02CF.C40752AA@earthlink.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > news:3BFA8245.DEC86321@earthlink.net...
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Process management is my chief responsibility at work, Dave. I would > > > > shudder to think that I become so "adult" that I act like people such as > > > > you. Now, for you it may work. For me, it would not. I bet that > > between > > > > the two of us, I make up for your lack of willingness to step outside
> > the > > > > box.
> > > >
> > > > Kim W5TIT
> > >
> > > It is certainly odd that one who so often makes incorrect character
and > > > background judgements about people is employed in a field where she > > > needs skill in using logical thought. Of course, being employed in a > > > field and being any good at it don't automatically go hand in hand.
> > >
> > > Dave K8MN
> > >
> >
> > You'd know, right? You have the lead on that example.
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
>
> Uh, Kim? I'm not employed at all. I'm retired. I marinate steaks, > pilot a lawn tractor and put up large antennae at altitude.

Well, at least you can get something large up at high altitude--even if it is outdoors.

> I work the
> pileups, participate in the local ARES net, rag chew any time I feel > like it and take part in numerous radio contests. poof There goes > your supposed point.
>

> Dave K8MN
>

'Smatta, Dave? Didn't like what I had to say? Is the above an attempt to excite me, or did you need to remind yourself of something?

Kim W5TIT

1482. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 02:12:30 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9thmuh0j5s@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24402

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFC19EC.645BCA61@earthlink.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> > You're such a pussy.
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
>
> It would be unkind of me to make any statements regarding Kim's lack of > class or tackiness.
>
> Dave K8MN

It looks to me like you just did.

1483. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 02:19:21 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9thn970k43@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24403

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFC2F7C.69E864CB@IEEE.org...
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > You're such a card, Cecil (or should we call your cEcIlLy?)
>
> Cecilia will do. I'm a lesbian.

Hey! If you're a young, shapely, attractive, fem, and are attracted to such,
I'd like to watch some time. (But NOT if you're a stocky, overweight, gravel-voiced, butch dyke.)

1484. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 02:19:43 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfc6196_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24500

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
news:cuvyxnansvbet.gn5rri6.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 16:18:36 GMT, Jim Bromley, K7JEB wrote:
>
> >Yeah, no kidding! I'll trade my urban ranch-style sitting > >cheek-by-jowl to neighbors with light dimmers, computer > >monitors, susceptible telephones, TV's and boom boxes for > >a nice little used Palm Harbor sitting on 5 acres with > >buried power and telephone lines and no CC&R's.
>
> Palm Harbor homes are made just down the freeway from here, and they > do look gorgeous.
>
> My wife and I have discussed such a move, and this is not the right > time for us to make it, though.
>
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
>
> From a Clearing in the Silicon Forest
> Beaverton (Washington County) Oregon
>
>

It used to be that "mobile" or, manufactured homes (trailers) were really made like toothpicks...I lived in one when I was 19 and first married. Now, my husband and I live on 5 acres, 3 wooded, surrounded by pasture land with no neighbors on either side or back and the closest from the front is about 150 yards away. We are, give or take, 27-30 miles away from downtown Dallas and when we first moved out here, we were pretty much it. (Now, there's more homes). It's dark, I can see the stars and meteor showers nearly any night there's no cloud deck, and I get to hear nature's wonderful coyote song nearly every night.

The home I have now is a Remington, nearly 10 years old. I've remodeled some parts of it, will remodel the rest of it, and this year we'll put up new canvas awnings all 'round, and add shutters to the windows (although they won't be wood). It was priced in the 30's when we bought it at a year old, has three bedrooms, two full baths, much larger kitchen than I'd like and even a darned large living room.

I mention all that detail because a few years ago my husband and I, and two friends (another couple), rented a Jaguar convertible and took a run up to a new development in far NW Plano, TX. There was open house homes that weekend, and these homes priced in the 1/2 Million area. Needless to say the first 3-4 we looked at, I was mightily impressed and found myself on the long side of yearning just a little for a home like it. Then, for whatever reason, I happened to walk up to the paneling in the family room of one of these homes. I tapped on the wood--which turned out not to be wood!!! Closer inspection revealed a high-grade vinyl coating over some kind of paper material (had a gray compressed look to it). Then, I investigated nearly all of the building materials in these homes. You can guess what I encountered.

Now, not saying I wouldn't build a home just like it if I had the money. But only just like it in design. For, my home...my trailer, is made of better materials than any I saw in those homes that day. I could not believe it! My home, if and whenever I build one here, will be of solid real materials, or I won't have one. I used to think that the only real difference between my home and "those" homes was protection from tornadoes. HA! Not likely.

Kim W5TIT

1485. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 02:25:58 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfc62ce_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24401

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFC19EC.645BCA61@earthlink.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> > You're such a pussy.
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
>
> It would be unkind of me to make any statements regarding Kim's lack of
> class or tackiness.
>
> Dave K8MN

Dave, you are unkind...very, very unkind.

Kim W5TIT

1486. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 03:03:49 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <CA2FD982177B45E6.9FB5FD7F5F805E9A.D3F919013E2C67C3@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24404

On 21 Nov 2001 14:16:58 -0800, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>> Jim, have you listened on 75m recently--or on a 2m repeater in
>> the average city?
>
>I listen to 75 meters occasionally. I use 2 meters here in the >Philadelphia area. There are a few troublemakers on both bands, which >is one of the reasons I operate almost all CW. For some reason,
>"filth, bigotry, racism, hate speech, and deliberate jamming >activities" are practically unknown on CW.

True--but if that isn't the mode you prefer (it isn't in my case except for some dx because of my hearing), then you're stuck with either a "keyboard" oriented mode, sstv, or voice.

I can use a keyboard on the Internet FAR more effectively (and more quickly--I have a T1 connection) than on the air so that mode doesn't have a lot to attract me. SSTV is one of the modes I use most, but it's limited in scope. Voice, otoh, allows conversation on a variety of subjects, the opportunity to work in various modes (I prefer qrp ssb personally), and the chance to talk to people worldwide. Unfortunately, there _are_ a number of "losers" on the hf voice segments that reduce the pleasure the mode offers.

>I don't hear any such thing COMMONLY on 2 meters in this area. Your >mileage may vary.

Where I live I don't either (relatively small community). But I've visited a number of metro areas where I very quickly learned that if I didn't want to listen to "cb" at its worst, I had to switch to 70cm instead of 2m on the mobile.

>We have had a few "bananas" here on 2 meters, but only a few. The 2 >meter amateur community here is mostly made up of folks who don't >tolerate such behavior. Any "filth, bigotry, racism, hate speech, and >deliberate jamming activities" and the control op shuts down the >repeater. If that's not effective, the offender soon finds that nobody >answers his/her calls.

Sounds good--unfortunately that isn't the norm in the US.

>> If you, Larry, and others want to clean up ham radio, the >> place to start is with the Liberty Net and other racist groups, not >> with the mildly risque call Kim selected.
>
>That's NOT the issue, Rick.
>

>The question is whether calls like Kim's are appropriate for ham >radio, and whether they are in the best interest of the ARS. I say >they are not, and so does Riley.

No he doesn't. If he did, it would be an FCC regulation. He says in his OPINION it could contribute to negative effects on the ARS. Sorry, Jim. But Hollingsworth's opinions on topics other than FCC regulations are no more valid than anyone elses. Personally, I don't see her call as offensive or as contributing to any problems in ham radio--if anything I see the current discussion as being FAR more negative from the perspective of potential new hams than her call could ever be.

>The "average parents" I know would say that such callsigns are not a >good advertisement for ham radio.

Call signs aren't an advertisement in the first place. They are station identifications in fact, and personal identifications in reality. Kim's call is neither good nor bad for ham radio--it simply identifies her as a licensed amateur.

>btw, at what age do you think a child is old enough to become a ham? I >got my license at age 13, and that was nowhere near a record back >then. Do you think there should be an age limit for a license?

Nope. If a child is old enough to UNDERSTAND ham regulations and electronics theory, s/he is old enough to obtain a license. What I think is "too young" is the child who is pushed through the licensing process by a parent who feels that he or she will profit from the hobby so he or she must become a ham.

But on the other hand, anyone who is old enough to understand both the principles of radio communications and the underlying concepts of the FCC regs (and if they DON'T understand those subjects, they SHOULDN'T have a license--child or adult) is also old enough to deal with the world as it really is instead of as we want it to be. A child that can understand radio propagation is plenty old enough to understand the mild humor present in Kim's call sign.

>> Then ask them if it would >> trouble them to know that a group of hams meat on 75m on Saturday >> nights to discuss issues of interest to them as white power advocates.
>
>Nice try at diversion, but BOTH things are bad advertisements for ham >radio. Of course the second (Liberty Net) is far worse than the first >(Kim's call).

Yet no one has bothered to start a "life long" thread about
THAT problem here as Larry has stated the thread about Kim's sign to be!

Why not?

>> Perhaps elderly bigots like Larry who grew up in environments where >> racism was acceptable but sex wasn't would say the call sign was a >> problem
>
>Interesting that you describe Larry that way.

Based on his posts, it's the impression I have of him. If it's wrong, I'm more than willing to apologize for it--but not unless I see some evidence that it IS wrong.

I've seen Larry put down minorities in this group, if that was out-of-context then I'm not aware of it. Personally, I see Larry as a dedicated ham who is probably much more advanced technically than I am in most areas of ham radio, and who is devoted to the ARS--but who is very old fashioned, ultra-conservative, prejudiced, and judge mental.
If those impressions are wrong, I haven't seen any evidence of it.

>I'm a "modern parent", and I disagree with that statement. The call is >a problem and the bigotry and hate are problems. Of course the bigotry >and hate are far worse problems, but that's obvious.

Ok--that's one parent who sees a problem with the call sign.
I'm, likewise, a parent and I don't see one. Any other parents in the group willing to contribute their feelings as well (not that it makes any difference--the call IS legal and it IS Kim's call, so it's not a question of any of us deciding if it should be used or not).

>> We don't live in the 1940s anymore.
>
>So? Must we accept any and all callsigns as "modern"?

No--but we DO have to accept the fact that social standards change. It's perfectly "ok" to use the word "Tit" on prime time network tv--which most kids are exposed to daily. If it's ok in THAT part of the radio spectrum, why not in ours as well?

>Nope. That word is NOT common on broadcast TV at all. And people ARE >offended.

Since I don't watch network tv (Enterprise excepted, I'm a trekie at heart) I can't speak from experience. But I _did_ take the time to ask several friends who ARE network watchers--and ALL stated they heard the word with regularity on prime time tv. I can only go by the word of others there.

As far as offense goes--I honestly don't understand what is offensive about it. Either it's a simple call sign (in which case it CAN'T be offensive) or it's a reference to a part of the normal human body. Does it offend you if the word "leg" or "arm" is used around children? If not, why should "Tit" (or any popular term, for that matter) offend you?

I get very tired of people who claim that sex and the human body are "evil" or "sinful" or that frank discussion of these topics needs to be hidden from children. All that implies is that sex is evil. What a load of garbage. Sex is--and should be--an expression of caring, if not of love, and is as natural a part of life as breathing or eating. I would no more want to hide that from children than I would want to hide the existence of oceans or snow! Yet, if sex and the body are normal and healthy, what on earth justification exists for being offended by Kim's call sign?

>They don't seem to offend the folks on the Liberty net.

No--minorities offend them. On the other hand, they don't share the same values most of us hold.

>But it sounds as if societal acceptance, or "community standards", is >your measure of what should be on the air.

Nope--that's the standard set by the people who oppose Kim's call sign. I don't believe limits SHOULD exist on the content of communications (limits on commercial use of amateur bands or the use of ham radio to solicit interactions with children excluded, obviously). If a person communicates in a way that offends others he or she should be subject to peer pressure (in the form of not communicating with him or her, not by attacking him or her publicly) but that's the limit. If there is any principle I support completely it's that of freedom of speech. It isn't the role of the FCC to insure that the airways are "safe" for children--it's up to their parents to insure that they understand what they're being exposed to.

>Doesn't work that way, Rick.

Neither does flaming her for exercising her freedom of choice in this newsgroup!

>Some folks might be offended. Not me, but some folks. However, it >doesn;t make up for other calls.

But I'll bet it would get through a pile up with most dx stations! :-)

>Nobody would call you that...;-)

What makes you think they don't do so now? ;-)

>Sure there's harm in it. Not much, but some. You don't see it, and she >doesn't see it, but other hams do. Just a matter of opinion. Is it >wrong for me to have such electro-politically incorrect opinions? I've >got lots of them.

What's wrong with it--OR with your non-pc opinions? Just as she has a right to choose her sign, you have a right to be non-pc.

>> Would you give up YOUR call if people here demanded you do so?
>
>If they could show how my call could give people a bad impression of >ham radio, I would think about it. Might even do it if "community >standards" showed it was not a good choice for the image of the ARS.

Why?

Simply because other people don't care for it is no legitimate reason for changing a call you like. It isn't their business, it's yours. And if a call can contribute to the "collapse" of the ARS, then it has so many problems that it DESERVES to collapse.

I was kidding about getting W8GOD (which, btw, IS available)--but the more I follow this thread, the more I'm becoming convinced that a controversial call would be a good choice--it might contrast with the overly conservative nature of the ARS and encourage potential hams who share my belief in free speech to join our hobby. I'm just not sure if I should apply for W8GOD, W8LSD, or W8POT--all of which would undoubtedly create more controversy then Kim's call. Any suggestions?

>But my call was not chosen for its attention-getting and giggle-factor >components. It's not even a real vanity call - it was sequentially >issued in 1977.

As is mine (my third call--issued in 1985 as I recalll--the first two being N7AVF and KA6POP). Of course, the phonetics you use for it (and if you use standard phonetics you are--as you well know--in the minority) can make a difference. For instance, mine can be presented as:

Kilo Echo Eight Hotel Hotel

Kindly Eat Eight Hairy Hamburgers

King Edward Eight Harried Housewives

etc.

Some of those are very reasonable, some "silly," but innocuous, and some a bit more "risque" than Kim's sign ever thought of being.

>By the way, both W5KIM and W5MKW (Kim's initials) are unassigned. But >Kim doesn't want a call like that. Her choice, of course. I don't >think Kim is an evil person just because she chose that callsign. But >I don't think it's harmless, either.

W8RAA is unassigned as well--yet despite the fact that it includes my initials (RAA), I don't particularly want the call. In my case--as in Kim's--it's a matter of personal preference.

And while you don't see it as harmless, you DO have to agree that is a personal opinion, something not necessarily binding on Kim or anyone else.

>> Sounds to me as though the people here feel the call sign is a >> lot more harmful than the FCC does.
>
>Is that wrong? Must our opinions agree with those of the govt.? Do you >think that if something is legal, it is therefore OK to do, no matter >what?

Nope. But I DO think that if something is legal, and someone chooses to do it, it's totally inappropriate to slam them in public for their choice or to create a never-ending thread designed to make them change their behavior (or, in this case, their call sign), don't you?

>Uh-huh. This is the same FCC that, until recently, required a 20 wpm >code test for all amateur privileges unless a relevant permanent >medical disability could be documented. Were they right or wrong in >requiring that test until April 14, 2000?

I have no problem with it--I passed my 20WPM in March of 2000, despite having an 85% hearing loss.

On the other hand, I ALSO don't have any problem with the elimination of that requirement. The FCC invited comments on the issues and because it really didn't make that much difference to me, I chose not to submit one. As a result, I tacitly accepted the ruling they made.

>> How about a third choice: Learn to tolerate that which offends
>> you personally but doesn't hurt others and concentrate on stopping >> behaviors that do?
>
>You avoided the queston, but I'll answer it. The greater evil is >having a list of forbidden callsigns enforced by the FCC.

No, the greatest evil is censorship. Whether that censorship comes from FCC actions or from the pressure of a minority of licensed amateurs is irrelevant.

>The folks who run the "Liberty net" might say that you and I should >learn to tolerate THEIR behavior because it doesn't hurt anyone.
>They'd cite "free speech" and some such.

I DO tolerate their behavior.

In fact, if the jammers would stop interrupting the band, I'd be perfectly willing to DEBATE their views on the air. They might not like my views (I happen to be adamantly opposed to ANY form of prejudice or discrimination), but if their arguments were stronger than my own they would be completely free to present them and win the debate.

Free speech is an absolute. I don't have to like or respect what a person is saying to support his or her right to say it. All I have to do is look to see if that speech is designed to cause direct harm to others (i.e., a speech calling for the killing of Blacks, etc.), and if not I support their right to be heard.

>> Call signs like Kim's hurt no one.
>
>They hurt the image of the ARS. Which means they hurt hams who want >the best for the ARS' future.

Be realistic. This IS the 21st Century. Unless you want the ARS to appear to be a dinosaur in our society you have to come into the modern era--and in the modern era a call sign like Kim's is NOT something that would damage the image of anything.

>> If the FCC enacts a list of >> forbidden call signs all they are doing is capitulating to the >> pressure of a religion that teaches it's followers that the human body >> is evil and sinful and cannot be mentioned in public.
>
>Nope. Religion has nothing to do with it. And please note that I have
>NOT called for the FCC to ban calls like Kim's.

Really?

In that case, provide ANY rational basis for prohibition of any form of sexual content at all. It doesn't defame, slander, or otherwise harm non-consenting individuals. It doesn't call for violence or prejudice against any group. It simply refers to natural human body parts or functions. ONLY religious prejudice makes frank sexual terms and discussion into anything "offensive" and THAT should be restricted to religion, not to government policy.

>Consider this: When Mayor Giuliani took office in NYC several years >back, one of the things he did was aggressively pursue "quality of >life" or "community standards" issues. Like not tolerating graffiti, >trash, aggressive panhandling, etc. He also went after bigger crime, >but the "little things" got resources too. Some said he should >concentrate only on the big stuff like murders and not bother the >three card monte operators and gypsy cab drivers, etc.

Let's look at each of those:

1. Graffiti: Legitimate opposition; graffiti defaces private property, thus harming the person or property of a nonconsenting individual.

2. Trash. Creates a health hazard for non-consenting individuals. Of course, trash removal is a function of government, not individual action.

3. Aggressive panhandling. Depends on your definition of aggressive. If that refers to those who demand you give them money and are threatening in nature, I agree--it violates the rights of a person to be free of intimidation. IF you mean ANY panhandling, it's little more than an attempt to "legislate" homelessness out of the community. Example: In San Francisco there's an organization called "Food Not Bombs" who collect food donations and use church kitchens to cook hot meals to serve the homeless and hungry. The city has decided to prosecute those individuals for not having a restaurant health permit for their kitchens (despite the fact that the churches are NOT required to have one) and regularly arrests the volunteers who dispense the food to the hungry. THAT is far more "evil" than any form of panhandling could ever be--and it's proof that simply because a governmental agency finds something wrong doesn't make it a fact.

4. Gypsy cab drivers, three card monte, etc. are ALL either forms of fraud (3 card monte) or attempts to avoid legitimate licensure requirements (as is freebanding). Those are legitimate concerns.

>But a funny thing happened: the rate of ALL crime began to drop in the >city, and New Yorkers began to feel better about their town.

Really?

That's great for New York--but it has nothing to do with Kim's call sign.

>There's a lesson in that for ham radio.

Sure--prosecute those who violate the rules and concentrate on cleaning up the airways. But that has nothing to do with her call and everything to do with the jamming, illegal operations, and other legal violations occurring daily on the air.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1487. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 03:30:29 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <A83F3995F409C23B.F919EFCAA70A87D5.93B741F57283B1EF@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24405

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 21:50:26 -0000, "K0HB" <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
wrote:

>Riley didn't "concern himself" -- his opinion was solicited.
>
>Like most of us, he thinks her vanity call sign is legal and trashy.

No, Hans, like SOME hams--not "most of us."

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1488. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 03:36:23 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <8E33D3FF7142B725.0C53954CEE8CFF78.C851EC672075B414@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24406

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 20:25:01 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Yeah, it is better but you still don't quite have it down. Try leaving >out the word "arbitrarily" since I didn't come to my conclusion >arbitrarily. Then try leaving out everything after "lack of class" >since I didn't make that statement--you did. Now I think you have my >view.

Ok--since you state your decision wasn't arbitrary, I'm sure you won't have any problem providing a scientifically FACTUAL basis for your statement. Don't use "popular moral values" that has no bearing and IS arbitrary. Use provable facts.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1489. Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 03:39:21 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn6ech0.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24407

Jim Weir wrote:

-> Section 97.11 of the FCC Rules puts some very specific
-> restrictions on operation from an aircraft.

> You been into the holiday giggle water a little early there, Kane?
> 47CFR 97.11 provides two short paragraphs about applying for license > to Gettysburg.

For the record:

Sec. 97.11 Stations aboard ships or aircraft.

(a) The installation and operation of an amateur station on a ship or aircraft must be approved by the master of the ship or pilot in command of the aircraft.

(b) The station must be separate from and independent of all other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft, except a common antenna may be shared with a voluntary ship radio installation. The station's transmissions must not cause interference to any other apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft.

(c) The station must not constitute a hazard to the safety of life or property. For a station aboard an aircraft, the apparatus shall not be operated while the aircraft is operating under Instrument Flight Rules, as defined by the FAA, unless the station has been found to comply with all applicable FAA Rules.

47 C.F.R. 97.11 [P&F] as of October 30, 2001

Revision history shows that the above section number and wording was effective since at least September 1, 1989 when Part 97 was revised in its entirety and the stuff in subsection (c) concerning IFR operation was added.

The advantage of having a Rules Service that costs $3000 a year is that one gets up-to-date Rules as well as the revision history, digest, and case citations all in one place.

Note the first sentence of subsection (b). Wanna bet that they weren't using a separate antenna and transceiver? And who is going to find that the amateur station equipment complies with all applicable FAA rules for radio equipment, especially certification, which as you know are far more stringent than FCC rules for same?

The "absolute authority" of the PIC is really limited to what the company lawyers say it is....if the PIC wants to retain his/her job.

However, I do bow to your experience in the industry.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1490. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 04:15:49 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@QWEST.NET>
Message-ID: <VZ_K7.33844$xS6.58628@www.newsranger.com>
Source record: 24408

Jim Weir asks:

> You been into the holiday giggle water a little early there, Kane?
> 47CFR 97.11 provides two short paragraphs about applying for license > to Gettysburg.

Jim,

My copy, admittedly over a year old, has some pretty restrictive language about shipboard and airborne installations at 97.11. Maybe changed in a later revisions, but I doubt it.

73, de Hans, K0HB
--

Reality does not care what you believe. -K0HB

1491. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 04:33:08 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <35453A6CBE0B3796.D487F79D3540B96C.517BBBD0DE7EDF7E@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24409

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 21:15:01 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>I've discarded both upper and lower case libertarianism. I would take >issue that my great-great-great-great-great Uncle Thomas was a >libertarian.

"Life, Liberty, and property" John Locke

"Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" Thomas Jefferson.

Read some of Jefferson's writings--he was not only a staunch libertarian (in the sense of Locke and Mill), he was a deist, not a Christian.

>No you didn't. I assume you made some vows.

Yup.

To respect, honor, and care for. Our vows were NOT taken in a Christian ceremony and did NOT include "cleave only unto . . ." or
"obey."

>> Look at it this way: If you care about someone, you want them >> to be happy and to enjoy their lives, right? Well if it would give her >> pleasure to sleep with someone else, I would certainly not be >> demonstrating very much love for her if I refused her that >> pleasure--or failed to trust her to keep her marriage separate from >> her recreation.
>
>Bully for you.

Just doing my job as a (hopefully) good husband! ;-)

>> The only things I have the right to expect, if she chooses to >> sleep with someone outside the home is that she will take steps to >> insure that her actions don't harm anyone. She is perfectly free to >> have sex with such an individual, for example, but she has an absolute >> obligation to insure she doesn't bring an STD home as a result. In the >> same vein, I have the right to expect her to hold up her end of our >> marital partnership by doing her share of the work at home (she >> doesn't work outside the home, so she accepts responsibility for a >> larger share of the work at home than I do) and I have the right to >> expect that she will not allow her recreational activities to >> interfere with our relationship. Beyond that, any decisions would, by >> any logic, be her's to make not mine.

>
>Again, bully for you!

Gee, I didn't think you'd agree so willingly. Common sense got through the religious programming, huh?

>> If one partner is acting in that manner behind the back of the >> other then the situation is very different. In that case, clearly, he >> or she is breaking their word to their partner and thus knowingly >> harming their relationship. That, clearly, is immoral behavior.
>
>But you said that anything consenting adults do is okay. You mean if >your wife is a consenting adult and other man is a consenting adult and >they choose to sleep together without informing you, that isn't okay?

No, I said that anything consenting adults do that does not harm the person or property of other non-consenting individuals is ok.
Clearly, by violating agreements with someone, you harm them.

As it happens, I _wouldn't_ be bothered if my wife decided to have sex with someone w/o informing me ("sleep together" is pretty inaccurate in this discussion, isn't it?)--on the other hand, it WOULD disturb me that she didn't feel comfortable telling me about it and would indicate that we needed to work on our communications.

>> Note that I define morality on the basis of harm to others.
>> Since I'm not a Christian, I'm not "locked" into a mindset that >> defines sexual activities as immoral actions. Instead, I see sex as an >> expression of love, of joy, or of shear happiness in life. NONE of >> that is--or can be demonstrated to be--immoral in any reasonable use >> of the word.
>
>Well, it certainly lends new meaning to phrases such as "going out into >the world and spreading love". I'd say that there's a large group of >Theologians would would strongly disagree with your last sentence.

Sure--but they would be basing their disagreement on religion
(you DID say theologians, right?). So what? If I'm not part of that religion why should I care at all what the opinions of it's proponents are with respect to my private behavior?

Personally, I sincerely believe that if we spent less time telling our kids lies about sex and protecting them from reality, and more time telling our kids about racism and violence and teaching them to be "color-blind" we'd have a LOT better world than if we followed the guidelines of ANY religion's theologians.

>I've certainly communicated my opinion. For you to tell me that I don't >have a right to communicate it is ridiculous. You aren't the final >arbiter. If folks had a right to be free of insult and ridicule, >Letterman and Leo would be out of work. Please show me where I can find >these new rights spelled out.

I didn't say you don't have a right to communicate. I stated that no one has a right to ridicule or attack Kim for her choice. If you can't state your opinion without attacking or ridiculing someone,
then I DO feel your communications are inappropriate.

>> So long as you are willing to stop at the point where the >> person you are addressing states that they disagree with your >> assessment, fine. You are certainly well within your rights to state >> your opinions--the key is in identifying them AS your opinions instead >> of treating them as though they were absolute statements of universal >> truth--which seems to be the common response to her call here among >> those who oppose it.
>
>What else is to found on this newsgroup except opinion?

Ridicule, hate posts, insults, put-down, . . .

Shall I continue?

>It is still obvious that you do not know how all people practice >Christianity and you are apparently ignorant of denominational >differences.

Ok, name a single denomination that takes a public position that the actions of non-members of their religion are NOT subject to their "rules" or censure.

Demonstrate that a single Christian denomination believes in freedom of religion--including freedom to live by the MORAL STANDARDS of a different religion--is appropriate and teaches its adherents that Christian morality and belief does NOT apply to non-Christians, and I'll apologize for my statement.

Of course you can't do that--ALL Christian groups teach that Christianity is the only "right" religion and that Christian moral values are the "right" values for everyone--but that's the reason I find most Christian groups so offensive.

>> If you can honestly state that you don't believe Christianity
>> as it is commonly practiced today (and yes I know there are those who >> DON'T practice it in that manner--but they are a small minority)
>
>That's just so much subjective crap.

I see you didn't claim that you honestly don't believe it,
however.

>> doesn't oppress the rights or freedoms of non-believers, I'll be more >> than happy to support my claim with as much evidence as you would like >> to see. Even the simplest examples should demonstrate that concept.
>> For example, "Blue Laws" prohibit conducting some/all business on >> Sunday and are based directly on the biblical concept of a "day of >> rest" but result in oppressing both Jews and Muslims who are required >> by their religions not to work on Friday night through Saturday and by >> the laws enacted by Christians not to work on Sunday--thus creating an >> unfair competitive environment for them when compared to Christian >> businessmen; other examples include prohibition of adultery [a matter >> of personal choice], homosexual activities [illegal in 37 states], >> masturbation [a FELONY in several states, btw], and bigamy [which >> oppresses both Muslims--who by their religion may have up to four >> wives if they can support them].

>
>While you are coming up with the proof, better dredge some up on how >many of our laws are put into effect by the Church. I'm fairly sure >that our state legislature is responsible for laws being passed >hereabouts.

Fact: There isn't an elected official in this country that could win re-election if s/he didn't support the desires of the Christian Churches in his/her district.

Fact: There is absolutely NO basis for morals or "blue" laws except for the prejudice Christianity demonstrates toward those who don't share their repressive views on these subjects.

Fact: Local churches in every area, despite a claim that they support a separation of church and state (probably only to the extent that they get away without paying taxes like everyone else, but ...), present political issues to their parishioners (i.e., abortion, gay rights and gay adoption, bans on prostitution, adult businesses and other sexually related activities, etc.) as subjects that a "good Christian" MUST take a stand on. Thus they deliberately attempt to influence law in those areas--and are usually successful.

Want proof? Consider the case of the church in Seattle
Washington that was challenged in court as to its tax exempt status due to its political activities. The minister--with approval of his church board--circulated petitions opposing gay rights laws during church services in a manner that many of his parishioners felt compelled them to sign the petition or "stand out" in their peer group. The minister stated that anyone who wouldn't oppose gay rights
"wasn't a good Christian."

Sorry, but from this perspective, the Christian church has FAR too much voice in government.

>So it is now your intent to tell me my freedom has been limited? Tell >me, Rick. Have you ever lived anywhere else--I mean outside the U.S.?

Yup.

In the Netherlands. Which is a MUCH freer nation than the USA.

>Ever lived in a country with a state church? Ever lived in a third >world country. I could show you limited freedom and various states of >oppression. You now live in the place which offer more freedom than any >place on the earth.

Bull.

Learn something about the world from a political perspective before you make jingoistic statements like that one. There are SEVERAL nations (The Netherlands, Denmark, Finland, New Zealand, etc.) that are CLEARLY freer than the US. We _used_ to have more freedom than any other nation (The Netherlands excepted), but not since the religious right managed to become part of our political system and influence the creation and implementation of repressive laws--and not since we started seeing our rights taken away by phoney "save us from terrorists" bills that do nothing but restrict legitimate citizens.

>> >I don't recall one of the sayings of Jesus being that anything >> >consenting adults do is fine. In fact, I don't recall any religion >> >which has anything like that as one of its tenets.
>>
>> So?
>
>So where does your expertise in these matters come from. I gather it >doesn't come from Buddhism.

My expertise on which matters?

Human behavior? From PhDs in Psychology and Sociology and an MA in Political Science.

Religion: Years of study. I've read, and seriously considered, at least 19 versions of the Christian bible, several versions of the Koran, the Buddhist Sutras, the Upanishads, and the religious works of several other major and minor religions. I'm not a minister--but I would argue that I have at least as much knowledge of the root beliefs of Christianity and Buddhism as most ministers you're likely to encounter.

If you're referring to another area of "expertise" you'll have to be more specific.

>Jesus didn't know he was a Christian. He was a Jew and thought of >himself as such. He didn't say that he came to save Jews or Romans or >Christians. He came to save the world. That's pretty all-inclusive.

Only if you believe in his divinity!

HITLER said he came to build a better world, too. Does that mean I have to accept HIS values?

And don't tell me there's no comparison between the two--followers of Jesus have killed FAR more innocent people in his name than followers of Hitler did in his own.

>> >Lack of taste and decorum are dictated more by society than by religion.

I'll buy that.

Of course, in our society, attacking someone for their exercise of free choice, or putting down women, minorities, or any other group are ALL considered to demonstrate lack of good taste and low class values, so I guess it's you, Dick, and the others who are attacking Kim who are defined that way here--not her.

>> Lack of taste can mean anything from a lack of appreciation >> for a fine wine or a Beluga Caviar or well-made sushi to wearing a >> long dress with lavender stripes on a pea green background mixed with >> pink polka-dots.
>
>Is that what you assumed when I said Kim's action exhibited a lack of >taste?

No, I just assumed you were putting her down because of you were "Programmed" by your family or religion to oppose her values, actually.

>I really don't care one way or the other about your suit or your >diamond. Just seems like the waste of a perfectly good diamond.

Where would you SUGGEST that I wear a 3/4 carat diamond?

Never mind--I can guess the answer.

>> In Kim's case, some people find that her choice of call signs >> is not something they find in the best of taste personally. That's >> fine. There are others of us--seemingly the majority--who either don't >> have any feelings one way or the other or who see that choice as NOT >> representing poor taste, it's all a matter of perspective.
>
>You keep adding these little "unprovens" to your statements. Why insert
>"seemingly the majority" when you have no inkling that this is the case?
>As to perspective: It is MY PERSPECTIVE that Kim exhibits a lack of
>good taste and decorum.*
> (*Legal note: The above not binding on those who are not aware >that they have bad taste and a lack of decorum. This view extends >only to the callsign issue but is subject to change should Kim care
>to reveal other information about herself.)

Translation: If people don't agree with your narrow-minded view, they have no taste either, right?

Grow up!

>As distasteful as you may find it, Rick; in a republic, the majority >sets the rules. If the majority is mostly Christian, you'll find >yourself in a land where a lot of the laws are based in the >Judeo-Christian Ethic. I don't see any way around that except to sit >around rooting for one of the religious minorities to outnumber American >Christians. Apparently you don't see the constitutional protections for >the minorities as doing quite enough. Maybe you could launch a >movement. The trouble with movements is: drumming up followers can be a >real struggle.

And the trouble with majority rule is that it can lead to tyranny of the majority--or do you consider the oppressive segregation laws that existed in the South until the sixties to be reasonable because the "majority" wanted them?

>If nobody is prosecuted for the things you trot out, I fail to see the >problem. Most folks don't participate in most of your examples anyway.
>What freedom are you personally being denied?

Really?

In Georgia a man is serving 10 years in prison for having consensual oral sex with his wife--a neighbor look in through the closed blinds of his bedroom (from HIS yard) and called the police who arrested him.

In Texas possession of 7 or more dildoes carries a longer prison term than molesting a five year old child--and THAT law was passed less than 10 years ago.

In Arkansas there are five men serving time for consensual sexual interactions with other men in private settings--and nationwide more than 40 individuals are doing so as well.

In Michigan, three clubs (all private and located in places not accessible to children) were raided and the patrons arrested because they were swing clubs and the members went there to engage in recreational sex.

Also in Michigan (in Wayne County, to be exact) a man can have his vehicle--even if it belongs to his firm or his spouse--seized and sold at auction if he picks up a prostitute with that car.

Shall I continue? Or are those enough examples of ways in which freedom IS being denied based on religious beliefs (or do you have another reason why laws against consensual sex between adults should be prosecuted?).

>> Within reason, I agree. However, before agreeing to that it's >> necessary to agree on the meaning of "public venue." To me, it is >> perfectly reasonable to restrict behavior which is patently offensive
>> to the majority of people when it is conducted in a place where others >> are forced to either see it or avoid a location they wish to visit. On >> the other hand, many people see "Public" as any setting not enclosed >> by the walls of a private home (and even there see it as public if >> more than the residents are present). Obviously, if you are engaging >> in consensual activities in a setting where only those who agree to >> those behaviors (whether it is an indoor setting or an outdoor one is >> irrelevant) are present it should be none of society's business >> what-so-ever. Unfortunately, that is not the case in the United >> States.
>
>Put a fence around Max Yazgur's farm and have at it.

If I did, I'd be arrested under state morals laws. So much for freedom of choice.

>> And one clearly regulated by the government who do NOT view >> Kim's actions as being a violation. Since the governing body does not >> do so, it's completely inappropriate for anyone else to take her to >> task for them.
>
>For decades, the commission has not issued such calls sequentially.
>Most States do not permit similar things on vanity license plates (I >don't really know of ANY which permit it--this is simply protection from >the Cecils of this world). The issue has not been brought to a court of >law. We really don't know about the legality at this time.

No, it's protection for the Churches. If sexual terms were accepted as normal the absurd repression of sexuality in our society would begin to erode and the churches might lose some of their temporal power.

>As pointed out, the legality of the issue has not been decided. As >things stand, her choice is simply tacky.

By your opinion--not by that of others.

Do you REALLY believe that your opinion is more valuable than that of others--or is that just wishful thinking?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1492. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 04:36:09 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3AC19E426393B8AD.7408388105D5C711.48CC7D2EA41EB4DF@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24410

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 17:07:41 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>By OK, I'm assuming he means that it is none of the government's >business just as Kim's choice of callsign is none of the government's >business.

Actually, I meant it literally, Cecil. If my wife wants to sleep with someone else I have no problem with that at all. I trust and respect her and see no reason at all to restrict her pleasures simply to pamper my own ego.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1493. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 04:37:32 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <DDEBAAE99122FD72.B4AAB2B48A026138.44070D0435DB9D78@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24411

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 19:58:52 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>>
>> On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 05:11:37 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
>> wrote:
>>
>> >> I've got you, Larry, and Dick on the defensive, don't I?
>> >
>> >Is that your overinflated view of your power?
>>
>> Curiosity or self-defense?
>>
>> Rick
>
>I'm just curious, Rick, but I note that you didn't respond. Do you see >yourself as Sir Lancelot coming to the rescue or as some "I've got them >in my power!" type wizard? I'm trying to imagine us attempting to close >the breach before another sweeping onslaught from your mighty keyboard.

Respond to what, Dave?

That's my message you're posting.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1494. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 04:39:59 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <AE9758A0B8506A75.CEE0CA19757DE1C9.34D8F81402EBF576@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24412

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 13:11:55 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>>
>> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
>>
>> >Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> >> Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior. I >> >> do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women; therefore, I would >> >> not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.
>> >
>> >Would you allow your wife to have lunch with a lesbian?
>>
>> Wouldn't that depend on where she was eating?
>
>Hmmmmmm, is that a double meaning? I'm wondering if Larry doesn't >see "gay" men as the equivalent of women, does he see lesbian >women as the equivalent of men, or not?

Double meaning? Who, ME?

Actually, it doesn't matter if Larry sees lesbians as the equivalent of men--but I know a few lesbians who would DEFINITELY respond if he didn't see them as the EQUAL of men! ;-)

Rick
--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1495. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 04:44:13 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <E9360C0CAEEDB504.02705D084E06537A.D2512CAC1717006D@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24413

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 13:20:42 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>> Nothing Cecil has said in this newsgroup would even remotely
>> lead to a diagnosis of obsessive/compulsive--and I _am_ a >> diagnostician!
>
>Long-time readers of this newsgroup have witnessed me obsessing
>over Morse code testing. :-)

I am a long term reader Cecil, I just dropped out for a year or so so my eyes would stop ringing. :-)

Seriously, your attitudes toward code don't represent o/c disorder--they represent commitment to your position. If you were an oc, you'd probably be so busy washing your hands after reading one of Dave's or Larry's posts that you couldn't type!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1496. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 04:45:28 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <EB6BF09DB999EE85.5D0E0CD7F18E7568.6246A25F10AF3953@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24414

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 11:37:10 -0800, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>> Nothing Cecil has said in this newsgroup would even remotely
>> lead to a diagnosis of obsessive/compulsive--and I _am_ a >> diagnostician!
>
>Doh!

I still stick by that statement. If Cecil is an obsessive/compulsive it does NOT show in his postings--the only way I have of knowing his personality or behavior.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1497. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 04:55:12 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <496A4CD322641FAB.EB8E4EBC76936A17.FEF715637A8F270B@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24415

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 19:49:13 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>Ummmm, yeah. See Jane run!

Shame on you Kim.

You're not living up to the image Larry, Dave, & Dick want you to have.

It's see DICK run!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1498. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 04:58:18 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFC85EA.EF21D991@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24416

Rick Adams wrote:
> Seriously, your attitudes toward code don't represent o/c > disorder--they represent commitment to your position. If you were an > oc, you'd probably be so busy washing your hands after reading one of > Dave's or Larry's posts that you couldn't type!

I solved that problem, Rick. I type in latex gloves. :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1499. Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 05:00:53 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <028833ADEBA69BBE.882EF94BB22E4E92.71A4EF907909FB94@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24417

A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be prevalent among may ham radio operators. This kind of attitude (exemplified by the Liberty Net on 75m and by many of the comments made in this NG) seems degrading to hams in general.

There have been threads in the past that addressed specific racist problems, but so far as I know (and I'm far from an expert on the news group) no thread has been created to discuss the concept in general terms, and to examine the effect that kind of attitude have on
the ARS.

From a strictly personal perspective, I firmly believe that racism, sexism, ageism, and religious prejudice have no place in our hobby--and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--but that's purely a personal view, not a hard-and-fast fact.

Comments?

Rick
--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1500. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 05:28:52 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC8D00.F49A0FBC@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24418

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Four days now, Dave. I've been keeping track to see exactly when > > > you are going to show a hint of integrity and issue an apology.
> >
> > ...about the time you win your section in the ARRL DX CW 'test. Do you > > have any idea how long I expect that to take?
>
> I personally find contesting to be a juvenile-like waste of time.
> I also find your attempts at diversion amusing.

I personally find trying to discuss anything with you to be a juvenile-like waste of time. There was no diversion. You asked when you could expect to see an apology. I've given you a pretty good idea of when that will take place.

> > > I have NEVER
> > > denied comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.
> >
> > You most assuredly are ignoring the fact.
>
> Since you have produced absolutely no proof, everyone can assume > you are still lying about it. Where's the beef, Dave?

Beef:
#1 posted by me on Nov. 5:
Your attempt at an explanation coupling Affirmative Action and morse testing fails as miserably as your past morse-testing-equates-to-racism crap.

#2 posted by me on Nov. 6:
Good luck with this latest attempt to equate Morse testing with some social injustice.

#3 posted by me on Nov. 7:
It doesn't really matter since your use of the Affirmative Action label in comparing it to Morse testing was incorrect. You had it backwards.
This latest tangent is simply a Cecilian diversion.

#4 posted by me on Nov. 8:
By the way, are you ever going to get around to admitting that your statement comparing Morse testing and Affirmative Action was 180 degrees out of phase?

Those are all examples where I use words like "comparing", "equate" and "coupling". You'd have to be a fool to believe that my one typo was representative of my view on the matter. Are you a fool?

Dave K8MN

1501. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 05:34:47 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC8E76.1246EF81@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24463

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > But you said that anything consenting adults do is okay. You mean if > > your wife is a consenting adult and other man is a consenting adult and > > they choose to sleep together without informing you, that isn't okay?
>
> By OK, I'm assuming he means that it is none of the government's > business just as Kim's choice of callsign is none of the government's > business.

I'm not assuming that at all. We're talking about morality, Cecil, not government intrustion. Try to stay on track.

> > As distasteful as you may find it, Rick; in a republic, the majority > > sets the rules.
>
> Nope, that's a democracy. In a republic the elected representatives > set the rules or follow the rules set forth in The Constitution.
> Inalienable rights are protected from the tyranny of the majority in > a democracy. Do you think if a majority of voters voted for Bush to > drink hemlock that he would do it?

And you, living in...what is it--Small Town, USA? don't believe that those elected official follow the desires of the voters?

> > For decades, the commission has not issued such calls sequentially.
> > Most States do not permit similar things on vanity license plates (I > > don't really know of ANY which permit it--this is simply protection from > > the Cecils of this world). The issue has not been brought to a court of > > law. We really don't know about the legality at this time.
>
> Whatever happened to the concept of innocent until proven guilty?

Whatever happened to "It has not been tested in court". There is no legal charge. You can ask Phil about the legal question. I'm tired of dancing the Texas Two Step with you.

Dave K8MN

1502. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 05:35:47 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC8EB2.5B1F27B@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24464

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > >
> > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > > Then why do you take my postings about "comparting" so seriously?
> > > >
> > > > I don't take them seriously, Cecil.
> > >
> > > So how many replies have you posted regarding "comparting"?
> > > I've been leading you down the primrose path for four days now.
> >
> > Oh? Do you fancy yourself a leader these days?
>
> Oh, not for everything. Only for the primrose path. Can't be > everywhere at once, you know.

You must have that as a euphemism for the trip to the privy.

Dave K8MN
```

1503. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 05:39:46 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC8FA1.8DCD9D85@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24465

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Krell wrote:
> > > >
> > > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote:
> > > > > Ahhh, a libertarian. I've discarded that view as completely unworkable.
> > > > > So if your wife chooses to start sleeping with another man and he > > > > > consents, it is fine with you? Do you have any say? Do you see any > > > > > immorality in the act? After all, what consenting adults do...
> > > >
> > > > No. I should hope so. Yes.
> > > > ...none of which is the government's damn business. That's how Libertarians > > > > think
> > >
> > > Adultery is indeed none of the government's damn business.
> > > No enlightened state has laws against adultery.
> >
> > I get it! Another Cecil joke! He knew all along we weren't discussing > > whether or not it was the government's business.
>
> On the contrary, when someone says something is OK, he/she usually > means that it's none of the government's business. It is obviously > someone's business, just not the government's. I've know couples > with open marriages where adultery was not only OK but anticipated > with gusto.

I don't believe that's what someone means when he asks if something is OK. When I ask for a milkshake and the waitress says, "OK". I do not assume that she means it is none of the government's business. Quit trying to mold this thing to suit your agenda. We're talking about society's view. As to your last sentence: You've gotta find a new group of friends.

Dave K8MN

1504. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 05:44:56 UTC
From: Emmersom Bigguns <n8ie@woh.rr.com>
Message-ID: <sh0L7.40939$z55.5781598@typhoon.neo.rr.com>
Source record: 24466

Rick,
I think you need to get out more often, or at least stay away from here and Liberty Net. Neither represent the "average" ham radio operator or the ARS in general.

I read the messages here for a good laugh, sometimes it is very entertaining indeed. In fact be thankful that these people occupy a very small part of the spectrum and pretty much stay there.
Even the ARS needs a place to keep our socially retarded citizens.

EB

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message news:028833ADEBA69BBE.882EF94BB22E4E92.71A4EF907909FB94@lp.airnews.net...
> A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be > prevalent among may ham radio operators. This kind of attitude > (exemplified by the Liberty Net on 75m and by many of the comments > made in this NG) seems degrading to hams in general.
>
> There have been threads in the past that addressed specific > racist problems, but so far as I know (and I'm far from an expert on > the news group) no thread has been created to discuss the concept in > general terms, and to examine the effect that kind of attitude have on
> the ARS.
>
> From a strictly personal perspective, I firmly believe that > racism, sexism, ageism, and religious prejudice have no place in our > hobby--and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage
> our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--but > that's purely a personal view, not a hard-and-fast fact.
>
> Comments?
>
> Rick
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1505. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 05:45:10 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC90E3.C31B98D0@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24468

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFC01E9.9868BB77@earthlink.net...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > news:3BFA830E.F540F9A@earthlink.net...
> > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > You'd think Davey would get the hint. When one keeps throwing > insults
> > > that > > > > > no one understands because they're not at others' level, well...
> Kinda
> > > has > > > > > the same affect as using the English language in a group of people
> that
> > > > > speak nothing but Spanish.
> > > > >
> > > > > Kim W5TIT
> > > >
> > > > If you want to participate, Kim, you may have to learn a few words of > > > > the local idiom. If I use a term and you don't know what it means,
> you > > > > might want to find out what it means. It isn't my lack of knowledge > > > > which is the problem.
> > > >
> > >
> > > Uh, Dave. I would find it interesting, at best, for me to undertake > > > learning from you in any way constructive... Oh, and I'm not sure what
> you > > > mean by if I want to participate...I don't think I do...
> > >
> > > Kim W5TIT
> >
> > I'm sure that you would find it interesting, Kim. My time is, however, > > extremely limited. If you don't care to participate, what keeps you > > participating?
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> Well, that's quite simple, Dave. I am so surprised you have to ask. I keep > participating because I love to amuse the simply amused! No challenge, easy > work, gets my stress out from the day's activities and, in some cases, > allows me to enjoy some real interesting go 'rounds.

>
> Kim W5TI and a T

Just who is it that you believe yourself to be amusing? There'd be Cecil and Rick and...hmmmm yourself.

Dave K8MN

1506. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 05:48:09 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC9196.87D48D3E@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24467

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFC02CF.C40752AA@earthlink.net...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > news:3BFA8245.DEC86321@earthlink.net...
> > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > Process management is my chief responsibility at work, Dave. I > would > > > > > shudder to think that I become so "adult" that I act like people
> such as > > > > > you. Now, for you it may work. For me, it would not. I bet that > > > between > > > > > the two of us, I make up for your lack of willingness to step > outside
> > > the > > > > > box.
> > > > >
> > > > > Kim W5TIT
> > > >
> > > > It is certainly odd that one who so often makes incorrect character
> and > > > > background judgements about people is employed in a field where she > > > > needs skill in using logical thought. Of course, being employed in a > > > > field and being any good at it don't automatically go hand in hand.
> > > >
> > > > Dave K8MN
> > > >
> > >
> > > You'd know, right? You have the lead on that example.
> > >
> > > Kim W5TIT
> >
> > Uh, Kim? I'm not employed at all. I'm retired. I marinate steaks, > > pilot a lawn tractor and put up large antennae at altitude.
>
> Well, at least you can get something large up at high altitude--even if it > is outdoors.
>
> > I work the > > pileups, participate in the local ARES net, rag chew any time I feel > > like it and take part in numerous radio contests. poof There goes > > your supposed point.

> >
> > Dave K8MN
> >
>
> 'Smatta, Dave? Didn't like what I had to say? Is the above an attempt to > excite me, or did you need to remind yourself of something?
>
> Kim W5TIT

You tried to make a point that I had the lead. I'm not even in the game. It has nothing to do with not liking what you had to say. That was only incorrect. I have no desire to excite you. Please point out the kinds of things which excite you and I'll try to avoid them. The last part is a real puzzler. I can't figure out what you were trying to convey there.

Dave K8MN

1507. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 05:48:39 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC91B5.814FC4D4@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24469

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFC19EC.645BCA61@earthlink.net...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > > You're such a pussy.
> > >
> > > Kim W5TIT
> >
> > It would be unkind of me to make any statements regarding Kim's lack of
> > class or tackiness.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> It looks to me like you just did.

Darn it. Caught again.

Dave K8MN

1508. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 05:52:40 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC92A7.7116F58E@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24470

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 20:25:01 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Yeah, it is better but you still don't quite have it down. Try leaving > >out the word "arbitrarily" since I didn't come to my conclusion > >arbitrarily. Then try leaving out everything after "lack of class" > >since I didn't make that statement--you did. Now I think you have my > >view.
>
> Ok--since you state your decision wasn't arbitrary, I'm sure > you won't have any problem providing a scientifically FACTUAL basis > for your statement. Don't use "popular moral values" that has no > bearing and IS arbitrary. Use provable facts.

No thanks.

Dave K8MN

1509. Re: XMAS present for that special 75M and 20M goofball !

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 06:35:54 UTC
From: noemailedreplysplz@verizon.net Message-ID: <9ti6ca$22rrr$4@ID-21921.news.dfncis.de>
Source record: 24471
Cross-posted to:
alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

quoting:
>If you are ticked off by this spam nonsense on your newsgroups, please do >what I did. Send the entire message, including headers, to abuse@uu.net and >lodge complaints. Don't buy this having posted through YAHOO stuff. It was >NOT!
>Doc,AF2Y

send to abuse@earthlink.net first. abuse@uu.net is the upstream for earthlink. Only use upstreams if the ISP won't do anything to the spammer.

1510. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 06:41:18 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ti6me$4s3$0@208.207.71.173>
Source record: 24472

CAM wrote:
>
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
>
> > > Jim Kelley wrote:
> > > >
> > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > > Morse code testing has always been an attempt at social engineering.
> > > >
> > > > I guess maybe it's social engineering in the same way a PAP smear is > > > > social engineering.
> > >
> > > Nope, it's social engineering in the same way a driver's license
> > > is social engineering. We are talking about government requirements > > > not elective procedures.
> >
> > You're wrong. Obtaining an amateur radio license is an elective procedure.
>
> Not for licensed ham radio operators it isn't. Licensed ham radio operators > have no choice except to meet the governmental requirements. Licensed driver's > have no choice except to meet the governmental requirements. Licensed pilots > have no choice except to meet the governmental requirements. Those minimum > requirements for a license are social engineering by the government.

All that drivalous pap is nothing more than verbal engineeering.

1511. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 06:42:49 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ti6p9$4s3$1@208.207.71.173>
Source record: 24473

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > Your denials predated my typo by a substantial margin.
> >
> > Your typo occurred on Nov. 17 at 00:43 GMT. I dare you to produce > > a posting of mine before that time where I denied comparing > > Affirmative Action and Morse code testing. I continue to compare > > Affirmative Action and Morse code testing to this very day. I > > have never stopped comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code > > testing. I do believe you are still lying. What I denied was > > comparting (your word) Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.
> >
> > > What you neglected to state was that morse testing and Affirmative > > > Action are social engineering 180 degrees out of phase.
> >
> > That's just your opinion and doesn't necessarily bear any resemblance > > to the real truth. Morse testing and Affirmative Action are both > > attempts to get citizens to do things that they may not want to do.
> > In that way, they are entirely similar and in phase.
> >
> > > This is simply another example of your game playing with words and you > > > had to use a typo to make your case.
> >
> > What case? In front of God and all the readers here, you used the > > word "comparting" and then lied about using it for days and days.
> > How can you bring yourself to lie about something that is in > > plain view for everyone to see?
>
> I guess in the same way that you can continue to post this drivel about > me telling a lie when it is quite clear that is was a typo. I guess in > the same way that you continue to play the word game even now.
> I'd say there is some truth to the old saw about there being more > horse's asses than horses in Texas.

We certainly know that there's at least one more!

1512. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 06:46:57 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC9F29.554E571C@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24475

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 21:15:01 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >I've discarded both upper and lower case libertarianism. I would take > >issue that my great-great-great-great-great Uncle Thomas was a > >libertarian.
>
> "Life, Liberty, and property" John Locke
>
> "Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" Thomas > Jefferson.
>
> Read some of Jefferson's writings--he was not only a staunch > libertarian (in the sense of Locke and Mill), he was a deist, not a > Christian.

He was the equivalent of an old school republican. I knew he was a deist. The man, after all, had his faults.

> >No you didn't. I assume you made some vows.
>
> Yup.
>
> To respect, honor, and care for. Our vows were NOT taken in a > Christian ceremony and did NOT include "cleave only unto . . ." or
> "obey."

It's a lot easier if you can make up your own rules.

> >> Look at it this way: If you care about someone, you want them > >> to be happy and to enjoy their lives, right? Well if it would give her > >> pleasure to sleep with someone else, I would certainly not be > >> demonstrating very much love for her if I refused her that > >> pleasure--or failed to trust her to keep her marriage separate from > >> her recreation.
> >
> >Bully for you.
>
> Just doing my job as a (hopefully) good husband! ;-)

I submit that going along with such would make you a man who lets somebody else do his job as a good husband.

> >> The only things I have the right to expect, if she chooses to > >> sleep with someone outside the home is that she will take steps to > >> insure that her actions don't harm anyone. She is perfectly free to > >> have sex with such an individual, for example, but she has an absolute > >> obligation to insure she doesn't bring an STD home as a result. In the > >> same vein, I have the right to expect her to hold up her end of our > >> marital partnership by doing her share of the work at home (she > >> doesn't work outside the home, so she accepts responsibility for a > >> larger share of the work at home than I do) and I have the right to > >> expect that she will not allow her recreational activities to > >> interfere with our relationship. Beyond that, any decisions would, by > >> any logic, be her's to make not mine.
> >
> >Again, bully for you!
>
> Gee, I didn't think you'd agree so willingly. Common sense got > through the religious programming, huh?

My tongue was firmly planted in cheek.

> >> If one partner is acting in that manner behind the back of the > >> other then the situation is very different. In that case, clearly, he > >> or she is breaking their word to their partner and thus knowingly > >> harming their relationship. That, clearly, is immoral behavior.
> >
> >But you said that anything consenting adults do is okay. You mean if > >your wife is a consenting adult and other man is a consenting adult and > >they choose to sleep together without informing you, that isn't okay?
>
> No, I said that anything consenting adults do that does not > harm the person or property of other non-consenting individuals is ok.
> Clearly, by violating agreements with someone, you harm them.

What agreements. You didn't vow to each cleave only unto...
She wouldn't be harming your person, only your psyche.

> As it happens, I _wouldn't_ be bothered if my wife decided to > have sex with someone w/o informing me ("sleep together" is pretty > inaccurate in this discussion, isn't it?)--on the other hand, it WOULD > disturb me that she didn't feel comfortable telling me about it and > would indicate that we needed to work on our communications.

I'd think that'd be a considerable understatement.

> >> Note that I define morality on the basis of harm to others.
> >> Since I'm not a Christian, I'm not "locked" into a mindset that > >> defines sexual activities as immoral actions. Instead, I see sex as an > >> expression of love, of joy, or of shear happiness in life. NONE of > >> that is--or can be demonstrated to be--immoral in any reasonable use > >> of the word.
> >
> >Well, it certainly lends new meaning to phrases such as "going out into > >the world and spreading love". I'd say that there's a large group of > >Theologians would would strongly disagree with your last sentence.

>
> Sure--but they would be basing their disagreement on religion > (you DID say theologians, right?). So what? If I'm not part of that > religion why should I care at all what the opinions of it's proponents > are with respect to my private behavior?

That's right. You've pretty much indicated that you make the rules for yourself. Society and religion be damned.

> Personally, I sincerely believe that if we spent less time > telling our kids lies about sex and protecting them from reality, and > more time telling our kids about racism and violence and teaching them > to be "color-blind" we'd have a LOT better world than if we followed > the guidelines of ANY religion's theologians.

It would seem that teaching a kid to be color blind would be an attempt to protect him from reality. Color is apparent. I disagree with your last sentence.

> >I've certainly communicated my opinion. For you to tell me that I don't > >have a right to communicate it is ridiculous. You aren't the final > >arbiter. If folks had a right to be free of insult and ridicule, > >Letterman and Leo would be out of work. Please show me where I can find > >these new rights spelled out.
>
> I didn't say you don't have a right to communicate. I stated > that no one has a right to ridicule or attack Kim for her choice. If > you can't state your opinion without attacking or ridiculing someone,
> then I DO feel your communications are inappropriate.

> >> So long as you are willing to stop at the point where the > >> person you are addressing states that they disagree with your > >> assessment, fine. You are certainly well within your rights to state > >> your opinions--the key is in identifying them AS your opinions instead > >> of treating them as though they were absolute statements of universal > >> truth--which seems to be the common response to her call here among > >> those who oppose it.
> >
> >What else is to found on this newsgroup except opinion?
>
> Ridicule, hate posts, insults, put-down, . . .
>
> Shall I continue?
>
> >It is still obvious that you do not know how all people practice > >Christianity and you are apparently ignorant of denominational > >differences.
>
> Ok, name a single denomination that takes a public position > that the actions of non-members of their religion are NOT subject to > their "rules" or censure.

The Episcopal Church.

> Demonstrate that a single Christian denomination believes in > freedom of religion--including freedom to live by the MORAL STANDARDS
> of a different religion--is appropriate and teaches its adherents that > Christian morality and belief does NOT apply to non-Christians, and > I'll apologize for my statement.

I offer the Episcopal Church. I can speak for no other.

> Of course you can't do that--ALL Christian groups teach that > Christianity is the only "right" religion and that Christian moral > values are the "right" values for everyone--but that's the reason I > find most Christian groups so offensive.

I find a number of your ideas on morals and religion pretty offensive too, Rick.

> >> If you can honestly state that you don't believe Christianity
> >> as it is commonly practiced today (and yes I know there are those who > >> DON'T practice it in that manner--but they are a small minority)
> >
> >That's just so much subjective crap.
>
> I see you didn't claim that you honestly don't believe it,
> however.

I don't believe that only a small minority of Christians practice their religion properly? You can bet that I don't accept that. That's according to you, the final arbiter on Christianity.

> >> doesn't oppress the rights or freedoms of non-believers, I'll be more > >> than happy to support my claim with as much evidence as you would like > >> to see. Even the simplest examples should demonstrate that concept.
> >> For example, "Blue Laws" prohibit conducting some/all business on > >> Sunday and are based directly on the biblical concept of a "day of > >> rest" but result in oppressing both Jews and Muslims who are required > >> by their religions not to work on Friday night through Saturday and by > >> the laws enacted by Christians not to work on Sunday--thus creating an > >> unfair competitive environment for them when compared to Christian > >> businessmen; other examples include prohibition of adultery [a matter > >> of personal choice], homosexual activities [illegal in 37 states], > >> masturbation [a FELONY in several states, btw], and bigamy [which > >> oppresses both Muslims--who by their religion may have up to four > >> wives if they can support them].
> >
> >While you are coming up with the proof, better dredge some up on how > >many of our laws are put into effect by the Church. I'm fairly sure > >that our state legislature is responsible for laws being passed > >hereabouts.
>
> Fact: There isn't an elected official in this country that > could win re-election if s/he didn't support the desires of the > Christian Churches in his/her district.

Subjective and unproven. I'd bet you could find exceptions to your statement in certain areas of New York City or San Francisco alone.

> Fact: There is absolutely NO basis for morals or "blue" laws
> except for the prejudice Christianity demonstrates toward those who > don't share their repressive views on these subjects.
>
> Fact: Local churches in every area, despite a claim that they > support a separation of church and state (probably only to the extent > that they get away without paying taxes like everyone else, but ...),
> present political issues to their parishioners (i.e., abortion, gay > rights and gay adoption, bans on prostitution, adult businesses and > other sexually related activities, etc.) as subjects that a "good > Christian" MUST take a stand on. Thus they deliberately attempt to > influence law in those areas--and are usually successful.

I think they'd find much agreement on most items from your list from a group of secular citizens with no church ties at all.

> Want proof? Consider the case of the church in Seattle
> Washington that was challenged in court as to its tax exempt status > due to its political activities. The minister--with approval of his > church board--circulated petitions opposing gay rights laws during > church services in a manner that many of his parishioners felt > compelled them to sign the petition or "stand out" in their peer > group. The minister stated that anyone who wouldn't oppose gay rights
> "wasn't a good Christian."

I suppose that is some proof...an instance.

> Sorry, but from this perspective, the Christian church has FAR > too much voice in government.

Start you campaign to do something about it. Let me know how it works out. Really.

> >So it is now your intent to tell me my freedom has been limited? Tell > >me, Rick. Have you ever lived anywhere else--I mean outside the U.S.?
>
> Yup.
>
> In the Netherlands. Which is a MUCH freer nation than the USA.

Really. The Netherlands is awash in social problems and programs. The tax rate is outrageous.

> >Ever lived in a country with a state church? Ever lived in a third > >world country. I could show you limited freedom and various states of > >oppression. You now live in the place which offer more freedom than any > >place on the earth.
>

> Bull.
>
> Learn something about the world from a political perspective
> before you make jingoistic statements like that one.

What do you think I did for a living, Rick?

> There are SEVERAL > nations (The Netherlands, Denmark, Finland, New Zealand, etc.) that > are CLEARLY freer than the US.

Interesting that you mention Finland. I spent two years in Finland during one assignment and three years there in the mid-90s. My wife is a Finn. Finns have to import all oil and gas. They pay 40% of their income in taxes. Overtime work is taxed at 50%. Gasoline sells for about $5 per gallon. Finland has some of the strictest alcohol and drug laws in the world. It is pretty much a homogenous society so people of color are not normally treated with great kindness. The cheapest car one can buy--a Russian Lada--sells for about $20,000 and my Dodge Neon is a $44,000 car in Finland. Prostitution is banned and that is strictly enforced (especially in light of the recent waves of Russian women who arrived since the breakup of the Soviet Union.
Tell me all about it.

> We _used_ to have more freedom than any > other nation (The Netherlands excepted), but not since the religious > right managed to become part of our political system and influence the > creation and implementation of repressive laws--and not since we > started seeing our rights taken away by phoney "save us from > terrorists" bills that do nothing but restrict legitimate citizens.

Please save me from this leftist rhetoric...

> >> >I don't recall one of the sayings of Jesus being that anything > >> >consenting adults do is fine. In fact, I don't recall any religion > >> >which has anything like that as one of its tenets.
> >>
> >> So?
> >
> >So where does your expertise in these matters come from. I gather it > >doesn't come from Buddhism.
>
> My expertise on which matters?

The "Everything-is-Okay" matters. Did you fabricate it because you decided you didn't like the rules society made for you?
>
> Human behavior? From PhDs in Psychology and Sociology and an > MA in Political Science.
>
> Religion: Years of study. I've read, and seriously considered, > at least 19 versions of the Christian bible, several versions of the

> Koran, the Buddhist Sutras, the Upanishads, and the religious works of > several other major and minor religions. I'm not a minister--but I > would argue that I have at least as much knowledge of the root beliefs
> of Christianity and Buddhism as most ministers you're likely to > encounter.

Not unless you've gone through several years in seminary and a number of years of continuing education. I'll bet that hat of yours is a tight fit.

> If you're referring to another area of "expertise" you'll have > to be more specific.
>
> >Jesus didn't know he was a Christian. He was a Jew and thought of > >himself as such. He didn't say that he came to save Jews or Romans or > >Christians. He came to save the world. That's pretty all-inclusive.
>
> Only if you believe in his divinity!

I do.

> HITLER said he came to build a better world, too. Does that > mean I have to accept HIS values?

I'll feel free to discard this as absurd.

> And don't tell me there's no comparison between the > two--followers of Jesus have killed FAR more innocent people in his > name than followers of Hitler did in his own.

I think I'll toss this one too.

> >> >Lack of taste and decorum are dictated more by society than by religion.
>
> I'll buy that.
>
> Of course, in our society, attacking someone for their > exercise of free choice, or putting down women, minorities, or any > other group are ALL considered to demonstrate lack of good taste and > low class values, so I guess it's you, Dick, and the others who are > attacking Kim who are defined that way here--not her.

There are good choices and there are bad choices. Having a free choice and using it wisely are two completely different things.

> >> Lack of taste can mean anything from a lack of appreciation > >> for a fine wine or a Beluga Caviar or well-made sushi to wearing a > >> long dress with lavender stripes on a pea green background mixed with > >> pink polka-dots.
> >
> >Is that what you assumed when I said Kim's action exhibited a lack of > >taste?
>

> No, I just assumed you were putting her down because of you > were "Programmed" by your family or religion to oppose her values,
> actually.

You mean like I assume that you are views are poisoned by your instense dislike of Christianity?

> >I really don't care one way or the other about your suit or your > >diamond. Just seems like the waste of a perfectly good diamond.
>
> Where would you SUGGEST that I wear a 3/4 carat diamond?

> Never mind--I can guess the answer.

You could give it to you wife.

> >> In Kim's case, some people find that her choice of call signs > >> is not something they find in the best of taste personally. That's > >> fine. There are others of us--seemingly the majority--who either don't > >> have any feelings one way or the other or who see that choice as NOT > >> representing poor taste, it's all a matter of perspective.
> >
> >You keep adding these little "unprovens" to your statements. Why insert
> >"seemingly the majority" when you have no inkling that this is the case?
> >As to perspective: It is MY PERSPECTIVE that Kim exhibits a lack of > >good taste and decorum.*
> > (*Legal note: The above not binding on those who are not aware > >that they have bad taste and a lack of decorum. This view extends > >only to the callsign issue but is subject to change should Kim care
> >to reveal other information about herself.)
>
> Translation: If people don't agree with your narrow-minded > view, they have no taste either, right?
>
> Grow up!

I guess you told me!

I'll give you a free clue. My statement needs no translation. Accept it as my viewpoint.

> >As distasteful as you may find it, Rick; in a republic, the majority > >sets the rules. If the majority is mostly Christian, you'll find > >yourself in a land where a lot of the laws are based in the > >Judeo-Christian Ethic. I don't see any way around that except to sit > >around rooting for one of the religious minorities to outnumber American > >Christians. Apparently you don't see the constitutional protections for > >the minorities as doing quite enough. Maybe you could launch a > >movement. The trouble with movements is: drumming up followers can be a > >real struggle.
>
> And the trouble with majority rule is that it can lead to > tyranny of the majority--or do you consider the oppressive segregation

> laws that existed in the South until the sixties to be reasonable > because the "majority" wanted them?

Remember the part where I mentioned Constitutional protections of the minority. Did I sound like I agreed with segregation? Do I believe the people in the South are or were a majority of the nation?

> >If nobody is prosecuted for the things you trot out, I fail to see the > >problem. Most folks don't participate in most of your examples anyway.
> >What freedom are you personally being denied?
>
> Really?
>
> In Georgia a man is serving 10 years in prison for having > consensual oral sex with his wife--a neighbor look in through the > closed blinds of his bedroom (from HIS yard) and called the police who > arrested him.

That is the stuff of urban myth. This tale has now been going around for decades. Name the man. Name the town. Provide a date.
Besides, I asked about YOUR freedom.

> In Texas possession of 7 or more dildoes carries a longer > prison term than molesting a five year old child--and THAT law was > passed less than 10 years ago.

Urban myth.

> In Arkansas there are five men serving time for consensual > sexual interactions with other men in private settings--and nationwide > more than 40 individuals are doing so as well.

I don't know the particulars. Do you know anything based in fact?

> In Michigan, three clubs (all private and located in places > not accessible to children) were raided and the patrons arrested > because they were swing clubs and the members went there to engage in > recreational sex.

Another one which you trotted out previously. How did this effect you?
Is this one of the freedoms you desire?

> Also in Michigan (in Wayne County, to be exact) a man can have > his vehicle--even if it belongs to his firm or his spouse--seized and > sold at auction if he picks up a prostitute with that car.

Has it cut down on women prostituting themselves? Are you going to tell me that prostitution is a victimless crime?

> Shall I continue? Or are those enough examples of ways in > which freedom IS being denied based on religious beliefs (or do you > have another reason why laws against consensual sex between adults
> should be prosecuted?).

You needn't continue. I'd rather discuss the matter with someone who has a concept of right and wrong.

> >> Within reason, I agree. However, before agreeing to that it's > >> necessary to agree on the meaning of "public venue." To me, it is > >> perfectly reasonable to restrict behavior which is patently offensive
> >> to the majority of people when it is conducted in a place where others > >> are forced to either see it or avoid a location they wish to visit. On > >> the other hand, many people see "Public" as any setting not enclosed > >> by the walls of a private home (and even there see it as public if > >> more than the residents are present). Obviously, if you are engaging > >> in consensual activities in a setting where only those who agree to > >> those behaviors (whether it is an indoor setting or an outdoor one is > >> irrelevant) are present it should be none of society's business > >> what-so-ever. Unfortunately, that is not the case in the United > >> States.
> >
> >Put a fence around Max Yazgur's farm and have at it.
>
> If I did, I'd be arrested under state morals laws. So much for > freedom of choice.

I've noted that a large number of your perceived "freedoms" revolve around sex. I can see where your rights have been trampled right into the mattress.

> >> And one clearly regulated by the government who do NOT view > >> Kim's actions as being a violation. Since the governing body does not > >> do so, it's completely inappropriate for anyone else to take her to > >> task for them.
> >
> >For decades, the commission has not issued such calls sequentially.
> >Most States do not permit similar things on vanity license plates (I > >don't really know of ANY which permit it--this is simply protection from > >the Cecils of this world). The issue has not been brought to a court of > >law. We really don't know about the legality at this time.
>
> No, it's protection for the Churches. If sexual terms were > accepted as normal the absurd repression of sexuality in our society > would begin to erode and the churches might lose some of their > temporal power.

Yeah, but they're not accepted as normal. I don't need the stuff invading my home through TV (I'm with N2EY, I don't accept it). Again,
I note your fixation on sexual freedom.

> >As pointed out, the legality of the issue has not been decided. As > >things stand, her choice is simply tacky.
>
> By your opinion--not by that of others.

Others have made that same opinion known.

> Do you REALLY believe that your opinion is more valuable than > that of others--or is that just wishful thinking?

I didn't present it on a scale of 1 to 10. I just presented it as mine.

Dave K8MN

1513. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 06:47:07 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFC9F67.6BF736C3@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24476

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 21:15:01 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >I've discarded both upper and lower case libertarianism. I would take > >issue that my great-great-great-great-great Uncle Thomas was a > >libertarian.
>
> "Life, Liberty, and property" John Locke
>
> "Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" Thomas > Jefferson.
>
> Read some of Jefferson's writings--he was not only a staunch > libertarian (in the sense of Locke and Mill), he was a deist, not a > Christian.

He was the equivalent of an old school republican. I knew he was a deist. The man, after all, had his faults.

> >No you didn't. I assume you made some vows.
>
> Yup.
>
> To respect, honor, and care for. Our vows were NOT taken in a > Christian ceremony and did NOT include "cleave only unto . . ." or
> "obey."

It's a lot easier if you can make up your own rules.

> >> Look at it this way: If you care about someone, you want them > >> to be happy and to enjoy their lives, right? Well if it would give her > >> pleasure to sleep with someone else, I would certainly not be > >> demonstrating very much love for her if I refused her that > >> pleasure--or failed to trust her to keep her marriage separate from > >> her recreation.
> >
> >Bully for you.
>
> Just doing my job as a (hopefully) good husband! ;-)

I submit that going along with such would make you a man who lets somebody else do his job as a good husband.

> >> The only things I have the right to expect, if she chooses to > >> sleep with someone outside the home is that she will take steps to > >> insure that her actions don't harm anyone. She is perfectly free to > >> have sex with such an individual, for example, but she has an absolute > >> obligation to insure she doesn't bring an STD home as a result. In the > >> same vein, I have the right to expect her to hold up her end of our > >> marital partnership by doing her share of the work at home (she > >> doesn't work outside the home, so she accepts responsibility for a > >> larger share of the work at home than I do) and I have the right to > >> expect that she will not allow her recreational activities to > >> interfere with our relationship. Beyond that, any decisions would, by > >> any logic, be her's to make not mine.
> >
> >Again, bully for you!
>
> Gee, I didn't think you'd agree so willingly. Common sense got > through the religious programming, huh?

My tongue was firmly planted in cheek.

> >> If one partner is acting in that manner behind the back of the > >> other then the situation is very different. In that case, clearly, he > >> or she is breaking their word to their partner and thus knowingly > >> harming their relationship. That, clearly, is immoral behavior.
> >
> >But you said that anything consenting adults do is okay. You mean if > >your wife is a consenting adult and other man is a consenting adult and > >they choose to sleep together without informing you, that isn't okay?
>
> No, I said that anything consenting adults do that does not > harm the person or property of other non-consenting individuals is ok.
> Clearly, by violating agreements with someone, you harm them.

What agreements. You didn't vow to each cleave only unto...
She wouldn't be harming your person, only your psyche.

> As it happens, I _wouldn't_ be bothered if my wife decided to > have sex with someone w/o informing me ("sleep together" is pretty > inaccurate in this discussion, isn't it?)--on the other hand, it WOULD > disturb me that she didn't feel comfortable telling me about it and > would indicate that we needed to work on our communications.

I'd think that'd be a considerable understatement.

> >> Note that I define morality on the basis of harm to others.
> >> Since I'm not a Christian, I'm not "locked" into a mindset that > >> defines sexual activities as immoral actions. Instead, I see sex as an > >> expression of love, of joy, or of shear happiness in life. NONE of > >> that is--or can be demonstrated to be--immoral in any reasonable use > >> of the word.
> >
> >Well, it certainly lends new meaning to phrases such as "going out into > >the world and spreading love". I'd say that there's a large group of > >Theologians would would strongly disagree with your last sentence.

>
> Sure--but they would be basing their disagreement on religion > (you DID say theologians, right?). So what? If I'm not part of that > religion why should I care at all what the opinions of it's proponents > are with respect to my private behavior?

That's right. You've pretty much indicated that you make the rules for yourself. Society and religion be damned.

> Personally, I sincerely believe that if we spent less time > telling our kids lies about sex and protecting them from reality, and > more time telling our kids about racism and violence and teaching them > to be "color-blind" we'd have a LOT better world than if we followed > the guidelines of ANY religion's theologians.

It would seem that teaching a kid to be color blind would be an attempt to protect him from reality. Color is apparent. I disagree with your last sentence.

> >I've certainly communicated my opinion. For you to tell me that I don't > >have a right to communicate it is ridiculous. You aren't the final > >arbiter. If folks had a right to be free of insult and ridicule, > >Letterman and Leo would be out of work. Please show me where I can find > >these new rights spelled out.
>
> I didn't say you don't have a right to communicate. I stated > that no one has a right to ridicule or attack Kim for her choice. If > you can't state your opinion without attacking or ridiculing someone,
> then I DO feel your communications are inappropriate.

> >> So long as you are willing to stop at the point where the > >> person you are addressing states that they disagree with your > >> assessment, fine. You are certainly well within your rights to state > >> your opinions--the key is in identifying them AS your opinions instead > >> of treating them as though they were absolute statements of universal > >> truth--which seems to be the common response to her call here among > >> those who oppose it.
> >
> >What else is to found on this newsgroup except opinion?
>
> Ridicule, hate posts, insults, put-down, . . .
>
> Shall I continue?
>
> >It is still obvious that you do not know how all people practice > >Christianity and you are apparently ignorant of denominational > >differences.
>
> Ok, name a single denomination that takes a public position > that the actions of non-members of their religion are NOT subject to > their "rules" or censure.

The Episcopal Church.

> Demonstrate that a single Christian denomination believes in > freedom of religion--including freedom to live by the MORAL STANDARDS
> of a different religion--is appropriate and teaches its adherents that > Christian morality and belief does NOT apply to non-Christians, and > I'll apologize for my statement.

I offer the Episcopal Church. I can speak for no other.

> Of course you can't do that--ALL Christian groups teach that > Christianity is the only "right" religion and that Christian moral > values are the "right" values for everyone--but that's the reason I > find most Christian groups so offensive.

I find a number of your ideas on morals and religion pretty offensive
too, Rick.

> >> If you can honestly state that you don't believe Christianity
> >> as it is commonly practiced today (and yes I know there are those who > >> DON'T practice it in that manner--but they are a small minority)
> >
> >That's just so much subjective crap.
>
> I see you didn't claim that you honestly don't believe it,
> however.

I don't believe that only a small minority of Christians practice their religion properly? You can bet that I don't accept that. That's according to you, the final arbiter on Christianity.

> >> doesn't oppress the rights or freedoms of non-believers, I'll be more > >> than happy to support my claim with as much evidence as you would like > >> to see. Even the simplest examples should demonstrate that concept.
> >> For example, "Blue Laws" prohibit conducting some/all business on > >> Sunday and are based directly on the biblical concept of a "day of > >> rest" but result in oppressing both Jews and Muslims who are required > >> by their religions not to work on Friday night through Saturday and by > >> the laws enacted by Christians not to work on Sunday--thus creating an > >> unfair competitive environment for them when compared to Christian > >> businessmen; other examples include prohibition of adultery [a matter > >> of personal choice], homosexual activities [illegal in 37 states], > >> masturbation [a FELONY in several states, btw], and bigamy [which > >> oppresses both Muslims--who by their religion may have up to four > >> wives if they can support them].
> >
> >While you are coming up with the proof, better dredge some up on how > >many of our laws are put into effect by the Church. I'm fairly sure > >that our state legislature is responsible for laws being passed > >hereabouts.
>
> Fact: There isn't an elected official in this country that > could win re-election if s/he didn't support the desires of the > Christian Churches in his/her district.

Subjective and unproven. I'd bet you could find exceptions to your statement in certain areas of New York City or San Francisco alone.

> Fact: There is absolutely NO basis for morals or "blue" laws
> except for the prejudice Christianity demonstrates toward those who > don't share their repressive views on these subjects.
>
> Fact: Local churches in every area, despite a claim that they > support a separation of church and state (probably only to the extent > that they get away without paying taxes like everyone else, but ...),
> present political issues to their parishioners (i.e., abortion, gay > rights and gay adoption, bans on prostitution, adult businesses and > other sexually related activities, etc.) as subjects that a "good > Christian" MUST take a stand on. Thus they deliberately attempt to > influence law in those areas--and are usually successful.

I think they'd find much agreement on most items from your list from a group of secular citizens with no church ties at all.

> Want proof? Consider the case of the church in Seattle
> Washington that was challenged in court as to its tax exempt status > due to its political activities. The minister--with approval of his > church board--circulated petitions opposing gay rights laws during > church services in a manner that many of his parishioners felt > compelled them to sign the petition or "stand out" in their peer > group. The minister stated that anyone who wouldn't oppose gay rights
> "wasn't a good Christian."

I suppose that is some proof...an instance.

> Sorry, but from this perspective, the Christian church has FAR > too much voice in government.

Start you campaign to do something about it. Let me know how it works out. Really.

> >So it is now your intent to tell me my freedom has been limited? Tell > >me, Rick. Have you ever lived anywhere else--I mean outside the U.S.?
>
> Yup.
>
> In the Netherlands. Which is a MUCH freer nation than the USA.

Really. The Netherlands is awash in social problems and programs. The
tax rate is outrageous.

> >Ever lived in a country with a state church? Ever lived in a third > >world country. I could show you limited freedom and various states of > >oppression. You now live in the place which offer more freedom than any > >place on the earth.
>

> Bull.
>
> Learn something about the world from a political perspective
> before you make jingoistic statements like that one.

What do you think I did for a living, Rick?

> There are SEVERAL > nations (The Netherlands, Denmark, Finland, New Zealand, etc.) that > are CLEARLY freer than the US.

Interesting that you mention Finland. I spent two years in Finland during one assignment and three years there in the mid-90s. My wife is a Finn. Finns have to import all oil and gas. They pay 40% of their income in taxes. Overtime work is taxed at 50%. Gasoline sells for about $5 per gallon. Finland has some of the strictest alcohol and drug laws in the world. It is pretty much a homogenous society so people of color are not normally treated with great kindness. The cheapest car
one can buy--a Russian Lada--sells for about $20,000 and my Dodge Neon is a $44,000 car in Finland. Prostitution is banned and that is strictly enforced (especially in light of the recent waves of Russian women who arrived since the breakup of the Soviet Union.
Tell me all about it.

> We _used_ to have more freedom than any > other nation (The Netherlands excepted), but not since the religious > right managed to become part of our political system and influence the > creation and implementation of repressive laws--and not since we > started seeing our rights taken away by phoney "save us from > terrorists" bills that do nothing but restrict legitimate citizens.

Please save me from this leftist rhetoric...

> >> >I don't recall one of the sayings of Jesus being that anything > >> >consenting adults do is fine. In fact, I don't recall any religion > >> >which has anything like that as one of its tenets.
> >>
> >> So?
> >
> >So where does your expertise in these matters come from. I gather it > >doesn't come from Buddhism.
>
> My expertise on which matters?

The "Everything-is-Okay" matters. Did you fabricate it because you decided you didn't like the rules society made for you?
>
> Human behavior? From PhDs in Psychology and Sociology and an > MA in Political Science.
>
> Religion: Years of study. I've read, and seriously considered, > at least 19 versions of the Christian bible, several versions of the

> Koran, the Buddhist Sutras, the Upanishads, and the religious works of > several other major and minor religions. I'm not a minister--but I > would argue that I have at least as much knowledge of the root beliefs
> of Christianity and Buddhism as most ministers you're likely to > encounter.

Not unless you've gone through several years in seminary and a number of years of continuing education. I'll bet that hat of yours is a tight fit.

> If you're referring to another area of "expertise" you'll have > to be more specific.
>
> >Jesus didn't know he was a Christian. He was a Jew and thought of > >himself as such. He didn't say that he came to save Jews or Romans or > >Christians. He came to save the world. That's pretty all-inclusive.
>
> Only if you believe in his divinity!

I do.

> HITLER said he came to build a better world, too. Does that > mean I have to accept HIS values?

I'll feel free to discard this as absurd.

> And don't tell me there's no comparison between the > two--followers of Jesus have killed FAR more innocent people in his > name than followers of Hitler did in his own.

I think I'll toss this one too.

> >> >Lack of taste and decorum are dictated more by society than by religion.
>
> I'll buy that.
>
> Of course, in our society, attacking someone for their > exercise of free choice, or putting down women, minorities, or any > other group are ALL considered to demonstrate lack of good taste and > low class values, so I guess it's you, Dick, and the others who are > attacking Kim who are defined that way here--not her.

There are good choices and there are bad choices. Having a free choice and using it wisely are two completely different things.

> >> Lack of taste can mean anything from a lack of appreciation > >> for a fine wine or a Beluga Caviar or well-made sushi to wearing a > >> long dress with lavender stripes on a pea green background mixed with > >> pink polka-dots.
> >
> >Is that what you assumed when I said Kim's action exhibited a lack of > >taste?
>

> No, I just assumed you were putting her down because of you > were "Programmed" by your family or religion to oppose her values,
> actually.

You mean like I assume that you are views are poisoned by your instense
dislike of Christianity?

> >I really don't care one way or the other about your suit or your > >diamond. Just seems like the waste of a perfectly good diamond.
>
> Where would you SUGGEST that I wear a 3/4 carat diamond?

> Never mind--I can guess the answer.

You could give it to you wife.

> >> In Kim's case, some people find that her choice of call signs > >> is not something they find in the best of taste personally. That's > >> fine. There are others of us--seemingly the majority--who either don't > >> have any feelings one way or the other or who see that choice as NOT > >> representing poor taste, it's all a matter of perspective.
> >
> >You keep adding these little "unprovens" to your statements. Why insert
> >"seemingly the majority" when you have no inkling that this is the case?
> >As to perspective: It is MY PERSPECTIVE that Kim exhibits a lack of > >good taste and decorum.*
> > (*Legal note: The above not binding on those who are not aware > >that they have bad taste and a lack of decorum. This view extends > >only to the callsign issue but is subject to change should Kim care
> >to reveal other information about herself.)
>
> Translation: If people don't agree with your narrow-minded > view, they have no taste either, right?
>
> Grow up!

I guess you told me!

I'll give you a free clue. My statement needs no translation. Accept it as my viewpoint.

> >As distasteful as you may find it, Rick; in a republic, the majority > >sets the rules. If the majority is mostly Christian, you'll find > >yourself in a land where a lot of the laws are based in the > >Judeo-Christian Ethic. I don't see any way around that except to sit > >around rooting for one of the religious minorities to outnumber American > >Christians. Apparently you don't see the constitutional protections for > >the minorities as doing quite enough. Maybe you could launch a > >movement. The trouble with movements is: drumming up followers can be a > >real struggle.
>
> And the trouble with majority rule is that it can lead to > tyranny of the majority--or do you consider the oppressive segregation

> laws that existed in the South until the sixties to be reasonable > because the "majority" wanted them?

Remember the part where I mentioned Constitutional protections of the minority. Did I sound like I agreed with segregation? Do I believe the people in the South are or were a majority of the nation?

> >If nobody is prosecuted for the things you trot out, I fail to see the > >problem. Most folks don't participate in most of your examples anyway.
> >What freedom are you personally being denied?
>
> Really?
>
> In Georgia a man is serving 10 years in prison for having > consensual oral sex with his wife--a neighbor look in through the > closed blinds of his bedroom (from HIS yard) and called the police who > arrested him.

That is the stuff of urban myth. This tale has now been going around for decades. Name the man. Name the town. Provide a date.
Besides, I asked about YOUR freedom.

> In Texas possession of 7 or more dildoes carries a longer > prison term than molesting a five year old child--and THAT law was > passed less than 10 years ago.

Urban myth.

> In Arkansas there are five men serving time for consensual > sexual interactions with other men in private settings--and nationwide > more than 40 individuals are doing so as well.

I don't know the particulars. Do you know anything based in fact?

> In Michigan, three clubs (all private and located in places > not accessible to children) were raided and the patrons arrested > because they were swing clubs and the members went there to engage in > recreational sex.

Another one which you trotted out previously. How did this effect you?
Is this one of the freedoms you desire?

> Also in Michigan (in Wayne County, to be exact) a man can have > his vehicle--even if it belongs to his firm or his spouse--seized and > sold at auction if he picks up a prostitute with that car.

Has it cut down on women prostituting themselves? Are you going to tell me that prostitution is a victimless crime?

> Shall I continue? Or are those enough examples of ways in > which freedom IS being denied based on religious beliefs (or do you > have another reason why laws against consensual sex between adults
> should be prosecuted?).

You needn't continue. I'd rather discuss the matter with someone who has a concept of right and wrong.

> >> Within reason, I agree. However, before agreeing to that it's > >> necessary to agree on the meaning of "public venue." To me, it is > >> perfectly reasonable to restrict behavior which is patently offensive
> >> to the majority of people when it is conducted in a place where others > >> are forced to either see it or avoid a location they wish to visit. On > >> the other hand, many people see "Public" as any setting not enclosed > >> by the walls of a private home (and even there see it as public if > >> more than the residents are present). Obviously, if you are engaging > >> in consensual activities in a setting where only those who agree to > >> those behaviors (whether it is an indoor setting or an outdoor one is > >> irrelevant) are present it should be none of society's business > >> what-so-ever. Unfortunately, that is not the case in the United > >> States.
> >
> >Put a fence around Max Yazgur's farm and have at it.
>
> If I did, I'd be arrested under state morals laws. So much for > freedom of choice.

I've noted that a large number of your perceived "freedoms" revolve around sex. I can see where your rights have been trampled right into the mattress.

> >> And one clearly regulated by the government who do NOT view > >> Kim's actions as being a violation. Since the governing body does not > >> do so, it's completely inappropriate for anyone else to take her to > >> task for them.
> >
> >For decades, the commission has not issued such calls sequentially.
> >Most States do not permit similar things on vanity license plates (I > >don't really know of ANY which permit it--this is simply protection from > >the Cecils of this world). The issue has not been brought to a court of > >law. We really don't know about the legality at this time.
>
> No, it's protection for the Churches. If sexual terms were > accepted as normal the absurd repression of sexuality in our society > would begin to erode and the churches might lose some of their > temporal power.

Yeah, but they're not accepted as normal. I don't need the stuff invading my home through TV (I'm with N2EY, I don't accept it). Again,
I note your fixation on sexual freedom.

> >As pointed out, the legality of the issue has not been decided. As > >things stand, her choice is simply tacky.
>
> By your opinion--not by that of others.

Others have made that same opinion known.

> Do you REALLY believe that your opinion is more valuable than > that of others--or is that just wishful thinking?

I didn't present it on a scale of 1 to 10. I just presented it as mine.

Dave K8MN

1514. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 06:49:50 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFCA00D.65B7AF0C@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24477

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 19:58:52 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Rick Adams wrote:
> >>
> >> On Tue, 20 Nov 2001 05:11:37 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> >> wrote:
> >>
> >> >> I've got you, Larry, and Dick on the defensive, don't I?
> >> >
> >> >Is that your overinflated view of your power?
> >>
> >> Curiosity or self-defense?
> >>
> >> Rick
> >
> >I'm just curious, Rick, but I note that you didn't respond. Do you see > >yourself as Sir Lancelot coming to the rescue or as some "I've got them > >in my power!" type wizard? I'm trying to imagine us attempting to close > >the breach before another sweeping onslaught from your mighty keyboard.
>
> Respond to what, Dave?
>
> That's my message you're posting.
>
Try to follow along, now. The question, which appears above (quoted attributes are mine) reads: Is that your overinflated view of your power?

Dave K8MN

1515. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 06:55:32 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ti7h4$4s3$2@208.207.71.173>
Source record: 24481

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be > prevalent among may ham radio operators. This kind of attitude > (exemplified by the Liberty Net on 75m and by many of the comments > made in this NG) seems degrading to hams in general.
>
> There have been threads in the past that addressed specific > racist problems, but so far as I know (and I'm far from an expert on > the news group) no thread has been created to discuss the concept in > general terms, and to examine the effect that kind of attitude have on
> the ARS.
>
> From a strictly personal perspective, I firmly believe that > racism, sexism, ageism, and religious prejudice have no place in our > hobby--and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage
> our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--but > that's purely a personal view, not a hard-and-fast fact.
>
> Comments?
>

Yeah. Basicaly, you're a friggin' idiot.

1516. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 08:12:06 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tic0mmcm0@208.206.142.89>
Source record: 24474

Richard Plourde wrote:
>

> If anyone, or ANY institution, takes the position that they're the final arbiter > of the absolute truth (of what's good or evil) they're, happily, contributing to > their own extinction.
>

How wonderfully obtuse of you!

I'll go out on a limb here and state categorically as the absolute truth that the events of September 11 were evil in spite of their religous basis. I guess that makes me a bigot and whatever other foul adjective you PC idiots want to make it.

1517. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 08:16:29 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tic8tmcm1@208.206.142.89>
Source record: 24478

```
Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFC19EC.645BCA61@earthlink.net...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > > You're such a pussy.
> > >
> > > Kim W5TIT
> >
> > It would be unkind of me to make any statements regarding Kim's lack of
> > class or tackiness.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> Dave, you are unkind...very, very unkind.

But accurate.
```

1518. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 08:17:07 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tica3mcm2@208.206.142.89>
Source record: 24479

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 21:50:26 -0000, "K0HB" <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
> wrote:
>
> >Riley didn't "concern himself" -- his opinion was solicited.
> >
> >Like most of us, he thinks her vanity call sign is legal and trashy.
>
> No, Hans, like SOME hams--not "most of us."
>

NO, Rick, like MOST of us.

1519. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 08:18:18 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ticcamcm3@208.206.142.89>
Source record: 24480

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> news:20011120114855.25459.00002515@nso-ch.aol.com...
> > In article <3BF89F7F.DADCCC95@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
> writes:
> >
> > >
> > > >For shame, Larry, petitio principii is not allowed.
> > > >You are the one making the assertion. The onus is upon you > > > >to prove your assertion. If you cannot offer any proof, we > > > >will be forced to conclude that you are full of it. Exactly > > > >what damage is being done to the ARS by Kim's callsign?
> > >
> > > Cecil:
> > >
> > > Yawn! I don't recall ever stating that Kim's callsign is doing > > > quantifiable "damage" to the ARS, only that the potential for > > > such damage certainly exists -- as pointed out by no less an > > > authority than Riley Hollingsworth. Do you disagree with Mr.
> > > Hollingsworth's statement that Kim's choice of a callsign has > > > the potential to take the ARS "...one step closer to extinction?"
> > >
>
> I can't tell if that's penis envy or just plain envy.

Oh, now its more than just TIT, huh?

1520. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 08:44:32 UTC
From: DJ <kb5ylg@attglobal.net>
Message-ID: <3bfcbd93_3@news1.prserv.net>
Source record: 24485

Keep in mind the ages span. Some of the folks were raised in an era where bigotry was not only accepted, but encouraged. Others of us weren't.

David KB5YLG

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message news:028833ADEBA69BBE.882EF94BB22E4E92.71A4EF907909FB94@lp.airnews.net...
> A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be > prevalent among may ham radio operators. This kind of attitude > (exemplified by the Liberty Net on 75m and by many of the comments > made in this NG) seems degrading to hams in general.
>
> There have been threads in the past that addressed specific > racist problems, but so far as I know (and I'm far from an expert on > the news group) no thread has been created to discuss the concept in > general terms, and to examine the effect that kind of attitude have on
> the ARS.
>
> From a strictly personal perspective, I firmly believe that > racism, sexism, ageism, and religious prejudice have no place in our > hobby--and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage
> our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--but > that's purely a personal view, not a hard-and-fast fact.
>
> Comments?
>
> Rick
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1521. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 08:55:26 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tiehu$si5$0@208.206.142.89>
Source record: 24488

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > > For exactly the same number of years, you've been attempting to > > > assign the behavioral attributes you possess to others -- obviously > > > to divert attention from your own obsessive/compulsive proclivities.
> >
> > No diversion necessary, Larry. I'm bipolar with obsessive/compulsive > > traits. That's how I can so easily recognize them in others.
>
> Larry, he is a 300,000 foot tall bipolar, obsessive/compulsive alien who > can dunk basketballs and who has babies in the back of the bus. Perhaps > this is a man who, in some aspects, should be taken seriously!

But----he claimed that he is a woman in a man's body!

1522. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 11:38:20 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tio1b02g8n@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24419

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFC8FA1.8DCD9D85@earthlink.net...
> I don't believe that's what someone means when he asks if something is > OK. When I ask for a milkshake and the waitress says, "OK". I do not > assume that she means it is none of the government's business. Quit > trying to mold this thing to suit your agenda. We're talking about > society's view. As to your last sentence: You've gotta find a new > group of friends.
>
> Dave K8MN

Society's view and the government's view sometimes are the same. This has to do with individual choices that are none of the business of either.

1523. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 12:15:11 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <j%5L7.200501$W8.7583899@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24420

"DJ" <kb5ylg@attglobal.net> wrote in message news:3bfcbd93_3@news1.prserv.net...
> Keep in mind the ages span. Some of the folks were raised in an era where > bigotry was not only accepted, but encouraged. Others of us weren't.
>
> David KB5YLG
>

And some of us were part of what changed it and some stood on the sidelines and cheered.

Now go home and define another 'ism' for the cheerleaders to boo and hiss.

1524. Happy Thanksgiving Everybody!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 12:33:41 UTC
From: kc2hmn@cs.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011122073341.11110.00000939@mb-bd.news.cs.com>
Source record: 24421

Thank you all on this NG for all the laughs, discussions, (& sometimes arguments) and an overall good time. Wishing you all and your families a warm and happy Thanksgiving.

73 de Bert
KC2HMN

1525. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 13:20:07 UTC
From: Tommy <tommyl@zloxz.net> Message-ID: <9titunalv0@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 24422

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> sweating profusely over his dog-eared copy of FCC rules and babbling something about how he can't find that exact rule, spewed out the following drivel:

For the record:

Sec. 97.11 Stations aboard ships or aircraft.

(a) The installation and operation of an amateur station on a ship.....<BUREAUCRATIC PSYCHO_BABBLE snipped>

Get a grip Kane! and maybe get a life too. I use my HT all the time on airplanes. Nobody gives a shit. They think it's a Dictaphone for business notes.

Tommy

1526. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 13:22:52 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfcfb4a_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24424

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFC90E3.C31B98D0@earthlink.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > news:3BFC01E9.9868BB77@earthlink.net...
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > >
> > > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > > news:3BFA830E.F540F9A@earthlink.net...
> > > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > > >
> > > > > > You'd think Davey would get the hint. When one keeps throwing > > insults
> > > > > that > > > > > > no one understands because they're not at others' level, well...
> > Kinda
> > > > > has > > > > > > the same affect as using the English language in a group of people
> > that
> > > > > > speak nothing but Spanish.
> > > > > >
> > > > > > Kim W5TIT
> > > > > >
> > > > > If you want to participate, Kim, you may have to learn a few words
of > > > > > the local idiom. If I use a term and you don't know what it means,
> > you > > > > > might want to find out what it means. It isn't my lack of knowledge
> > > > > which is the problem.
> > > > >
> > > >
> > > > Uh, Dave. I would find it interesting, at best, for me to undertake > > > > learning from you in any way constructive... Oh, and I'm not sure what
> > you
> > > > mean by if I want to participate...I don't think I do...
> > > >
> > > > Kim W5TIT
> > >
> > > I'm sure that you would find it interesting, Kim. My time is,

however,
> > > extremely limited. If you don't care to participate, what keeps you > > > participating?
> > >
> > > Dave K8MN
> >
> > Well, that's quite simple, Dave. I am so surprised you have to ask. I keep > > participating because I love to amuse the simply amused! No challenge, easy
> > work, gets my stress out from the day's activities and, in some cases, > > allows me to enjoy some real interesting go 'rounds.
> >
> > Kim W5TI and a T
>
> Just who is it that you believe yourself to be amusing? There'd be > Cecil and Rick and...hmmmm yourself.
>
> Dave K8MN

Well. In my opinion you should include yourself in the list you began. Of course I am amused. I certainly don't participate in this newsgroup for an education, or money, or...whatever else other than amusement.

Maybe I am assuming too much. Maybe the real question is: why do you participate, if not for amusement?

Kim W5TIT

1527. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 13:25:24 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfcfbdd_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24426

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFC9196.87D48D3E@earthlink.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > news:3BFC02CF.C40752AA@earthlink.net...
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > >
> > > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > > news:3BFA8245.DEC86321@earthlink.net...
> > > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > > >
> > > > > > Process management is my chief responsibility at work, Dave. I > > would > > > > > > shudder to think that I become so "adult" that I act like people
> > such as > > > > > > you. Now, for you it may work. For me, it would not. I bet
that
> > > > between > > > > > > the two of us, I make up for your lack of willingness to step > > outside
> > > > the
> > > > > > box.
> > > > > >
> > > > > > Kim W5TIT
> > > > >
> > > > > It is certainly odd that one who so often makes incorrect character
> > and > > > > > background judgements about people is employed in a field where she > > > > > needs skill in using logical thought. Of course, being employed in a > > > > > field and being any good at it don't automatically go hand in hand.
> > > > >
> > > > > Dave K8MN
> > > > >
> > > >
> > > > You'd know, right? You have the lead on that example.
> > > >
> > > > Kim W5TIT
> > >
> > > Uh, Kim? I'm not employed at all. I'm retired. I marinate steaks, > > > pilot a lawn tractor and put up large antennae at altitude.

> >
> > Well, at least you can get something large up at high altitude--even if it
> > is outdoors.
> >
> > > I work the > > > pileups, participate in the local ARES net, rag chew any time I feel > > > like it and take part in numerous radio contests. poof There goes > > > your supposed point.
> > >
> > > Dave K8MN
> > >
> >
> > 'Smatta, Dave? Didn't like what I had to say? Is the above an attempt
to > > excite me, or did you need to remind yourself of something?
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
>
> You tried to make a point that I had the lead. I'm not even in the > game. It has nothing to do with not liking what you had to say. That > was only incorrect. I have no desire to excite you. Please point out > the kinds of things which excite you and I'll try to avoid them. The > last part is a real puzzler. I can't figure out what you were trying to > convey there.
>
> Dave K8MN

You're getting way too easy, Dave. Let's see...OH, OK, the absolute greatest excitement I get in this newsgroup are posts from you! I can't wait to get up every morning and run to my computer, logon, download and see that name "Dave Heil!" But, I beg you, please don't avoid posting to the newsgroup just because I get so excited over it!

Kim W5TIT

1528. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 13:26:18 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfcfc12_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24425

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFC92A7.7116F58E@earthlink.net...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 20:25:01 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> > wrote:
> >
> > >Yeah, it is better but you still don't quite have it down. Try leaving > > >out the word "arbitrarily" since I didn't come to my conclusion > > >arbitrarily. Then try leaving out everything after "lack of class" > > >since I didn't make that statement--you did. Now I think you have my > > >view.
> >
> > Ok--since you state your decision wasn't arbitrary, I'm sure > > you won't have any problem providing a scientifically FACTUAL basis > > for your statement. Don't use "popular moral values" that has no > > bearing and IS arbitrary. Use provable facts.
>
> No thanks.
>
> Dave K8MN

Ding dong....

Kim W5TIT

1529. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 13:30:58 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfcfd2b_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24423

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFC9F29.554E571C@earthlink.net...
> Rick Adams wrote:
>
> > >
> > >Bully for you.
> >
> > Just doing my job as a (hopefully) good husband! ;-)
>
> I submit that going along with such would make you a man who lets > somebody else do his job as a good husband.
>

HIS JOB AS A GOOD HUSBAND**?!?!?!?!?!

Ya know what, Dave? Even with as much as you grate against my nerves, I never would have figured for you to be thinking like that...

Good grief, you've led a protected life.

Kim W5TIT

1530. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:20:14 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfd08b8_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24427

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFC9F29.554E571C@earthlink.net...
>
> That's right. You've pretty much indicated that you make the rules for > yourself. Society and religion be damned.
>

Dave, no one is that pure. Are you saying that there is no part of life that you live without some kind of book of rules to go by? Either you don't think for yourself or you choose decisions every day--even that depart somewhat from society and/or religion. It is human nature to do so.

The greatest religious interpretations that are even in the Bible today, are there from interpretation of events that happened and "lessons" that were to be learned from them. There's been disagreement in many aspects of religious thought even before Jesus, Mohmmed, Buddha, any of our spiritual leaders were around.

What society are you talking about in terms of rules? Goodness, there's many societies. Unless you have some provincial thought that a certain religion is the one; and that a certain subset of a grander society is the one, then you surely depart and choose from the offerings of society what makes the most sense to you--FOR YOU--and to the way you wish to live.

The humanity of what Rick observes and says he believes is that there is absolutely nothing wrong with the way in which you believe--and he would even accommodate you in any way he could without infringement upon his belief system. As would I. I would even go so far as to yield to you, say, if you were so abhorred by others' differences that you just couldn't accept them.

I keep seeing these terms related to being "judgemental." I don't know if I would use the word judgemental. When you, or Dick Carroll, or Larry, or whomever else, enters into an argument with mudslinging--as though if it were legal you'd start swinging or worse--it is that that I find so very apalling. I don't react to the way you believe about CW testing, callsign choices, politics, religion, etc. ... at least I hope I don't. What I do react to is the personal slams on character because of the way someone believes. Next thing you know, the debate--or comments--are more about the way someone believes than what the topic started out to be.

We all live in a world filled with many people, living many different ways of life, and having many different ways of thought. Two examples I can think of by what I am talking about in my last paragraph would be that of some jungle person somewhere. There are cultures that will pick up live insects, even at the larval stage, and just pop them in their mouth like it's some kind of delicacy. "Some kind of delicacy" is the differentiating statement in that last sentence and indicates that I find their behavior--from MY perspective--at least questionable. I do. But, do I find the people themselves, or their culture questionable? Absolutely not, and it would be my character I'd keep in check in my approach to them. Were I to have the opportunity to interface with these people, it is not my task to rescue them from themselves. Nature would have it that we never encountered each other, at least that is what I believe.

Another example, extreme as it is, is the way in which some cultures treat women. I am a woman myself--and an extremely (to a fault, probably) independent one at that--so I have a REAL BIG problem with any kind of male decision making to be followed by a woman (interestingly enough, feminism is a total turn-off to me--but that's another conversation). However, I don't feel that it is my right at all to change that society/culture who treats women like that--even if it means that women and girls are physically harmed, as I hear some societies are like. I would refrain from any kind of participation in their society, both out of fear and because I would choose to ignore them. Again, it is not my task to rescue them from themselves.

In terms of society, religion, and politics and having to live in a big world, I believe that, in both circumstances above, it is well within respectable for a world government to refrain from being involved in the societies mentioned above. A simple "we will not participate in your way of life and will not support nor choose to attempt change your way of life in any way" would be fine with me. What I find objectionable is when a world government says "not only do we find what you do in your society, awful, but we are going to cause change however we can." I don't think it is up to the world governments to change societies. Is it up to the world governments to recognize each other and try to work together? Absolutely. If there's a "kid on the block" who doesn't want to play the way the rest--all the rest, or a huge majority--have determined is safest and best for all, and if that kid on the block keeps interfering, then I move toward being pretty aggressive with convincing them that it is in their best interest to play in their own yard.

Can you guess what the contrast is in the two examples? I feel that if I am going to believe as I do, my beliefs must cut across all examples--including those I am most abhorred by (in fact, especially by those I am most abhorred by). But, in no case, do I feel that the people--the participants themselves--are inferior to me, or that they should be rescued from their thoughts. I am not in their society/culture, other than as an independent observer. And, since I choose not to become a part of their society or culture, then I also choose not to be affected personally enough to try to change them to my way of thinking. For that reason, I personally find the idea of missionaries distasteful.

So, people make rules for themselves every day. I know very few people--can't think of any actually--that subscribe to every tenet of the religion they participate in. In fact, in most cases, people approach many of their religions' rules with disdain. I, personally, don't see a thing wrong with that. The "agreement" a person makes is with God--in my opinion--not with a minister, priest, or parishioners of a church. I'd find it pretty scary if Christians started actually living as the Bible teaches...in every aspect. We must adapt the teachings of religion to the conditions in which we live at the time, and hope that God finds favor with how we do so. In fact, in my opinion, that is the greatest test of life.

I'll close this yawn for you with the added statement that if you are a Christian, there is no lesson in the Bible that I know of, that teaches it is OK for you to have those hateful feelings you have toward other people--so you make that judgement every day to depart from what behavior you should demonstrate by being a Christian. I would say your behavior expressed to Rick is yet another example of "society and religion be damned"--the very thing you chide Rick for. And, PS, it doesn't matter that Rick "made you do it."

Kim W5TIT

1531. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:29:00 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD0BAC.542B2B52@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24428

Dave Heil wrote:
> I personally find trying to discuss anything with you to be a > juvenile-like waste of time.

Is that why you do so much of it? It reminds you of contesting?

> > > > I have NEVER
> > > > denied comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.
> > > >
> > > You most assuredly are ignoring the fact.
> > >
> > Since you have produced absolutely no proof, everyone can assume > > you are still lying about it. Where's the beef, Dave?
> >
> Beef:
> #1 posted by me on Nov. 5:
> Your attempt at an explanation coupling Affirmative Action and morse > testing fails as miserably as your past morse-testing-equates-to-racism > crap.

That's just your opinion and I don't see any denial on my part.
You are still lying. You cannot find any of my postings where
I denied comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.
If you could, you would post them. Yours is the most feeble-minded approach to an argument that I have ever seen.

> #2 posted by me on Nov. 6:
> Good luck with this latest attempt to equate Morse testing with some > social injustice.

I still don't see any denial on my part. You are still lying.
Don't you see how silly it is to accuse me of something based on your posting?

> #3 posted by me on Nov. 7:
> It doesn't really matter since your use of the Affirmative Action label > in comparing it to Morse testing was incorrect. You had it backwards.
> This latest tangent is simply a Cecilian diversion.

Again that's just your opinion. I still don't see any denial on my part.
You are still lying.

> #4 posted by me on Nov. 8:
> By the way, are you ever going to get around to admitting that your > statement comparing Morse testing and Affirmative Action was 180 degrees > out of phase?

I still don't see any denial on my part that I compared Affirmative Action to Morse code testing. I did and I continue to do so. You are still lying.

> Those are all examples where I use words like "comparing", "equate" and > "coupling". You'd have to be a fool to believe that my one typo was > representative of my view on the matter. Are you a fool?

No, but you obviously are. You cannot prove anything about what I said by quoting your own postings. What a dumb $hit doofus. Where are my postings where I denied comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code testing????????? I have never denied such. I did it and I will continue to compare Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.

You are remembering where I denied comparting Affirmative Action and Morse code testing. Your attempts to cover up your typo are comical.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1532. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:30:23 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD0BFF.11262F0C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24429

Dick Carroll wrote:
> But----he claimed that he is a woman in a man's body!

But it's OK, I'm a lesbian.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1533. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:32:04 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfd0b7d_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24431

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFC9F67.6BF736C3@earthlink.net...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> > >So it is now your intent to tell me my freedom has been limited? Tell > > >me, Rick. Have you ever lived anywhere else--I mean outside the U.S.?
> >
> > Yup.
> >
> > In the Netherlands. Which is a MUCH freer nation than the USA.
>
> Really. The Netherlands is awash in social problems and programs. The > tax rate is outrageous.
>

A) You simply asked Rick to provide an example of having lived outside the United States in the context of speaking about freedom. He provided you with a country that he says has MUCH more freedom than the US. I don't see that you dispute his claim to that affect. Instead, you:

B) Comment about the social problems and tax rate--ignoring that you asked for an example of having lived outside the United States in the context of freedom.

Your comments that the Netherlands is awash in social problems and programs and that the tax rate if outrageous, is what? Is it your observation that because of those things, the Netherlands is not freer than the United States? It's a given that with freedoms comes problems such as you mention. Are they freer than the United States, or not, Dave?

Kim W5TIT

1534. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:33:24 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD0CB4.A75282D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24430

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> > Use provable facts.
>
> No thanks.

OK, then I guess we will just have to acknowledge your wild-a$$ unproven speculations.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1535. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:35:20 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD0D28.2E31CA2F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24432

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 21:50:26 -0000, "K0HB" <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
> > wrote:
> >
> > >Riley didn't "concern himself" -- his opinion was solicited.
> > >
> > >Like most of us, he thinks her vanity call sign is legal and trashy.
> >
> > No, Hans, like SOME hams--not "most of us."
>
> NO, Rick, like MOST of us.

Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1536. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:35:37 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfd0c51_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24433

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3BFC9F67.6BF736C3@earthlink.net...
> Rick Adams wrote:
>
> > >Ever lived in a country with a state church? Ever lived in a third > > >world country. I could show you limited freedom and various states of > > >oppression. You now live in the place which offer more freedom than any > > >place on the earth.
> >
> > Bull.
> >
> > Learn something about the world from a political perspective > > before you make jingoistic statements like that one.
>
> What do you think I did for a living, Rick?
>

Wasn't it you who just made the observation the other day that just because someone is in a certain job is no indicator that they do it well? I'd say your tolerance as an representative of our government in foreign lands was minimal at best--given what I see of your personality on this newsgroup. I would guess that you "visited" but never chose to really live the land. Wrapping yourself up in the protection of politics is not learning a thing about the people and conditions of a land.

Kim W5TIT

1537. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:41:44 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfd0df5_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24434

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tic0mmcm0@208.206.142.89...
>
>
> Richard Plourde wrote:
> >
>
> > If anyone, or ANY institution, takes the position that they're the final arbiter > > of the absolute truth (of what's good or evil) they're, happily, contributing to > > their own extinction.
> >
>
> How wonderfully obtuse of you!
>
> I'll go out on a limb here and state categorically as the absolute > truth that the events of September 11 were evil in spite of their > religous basis. I guess that makes me a bigot and whatever other foul > adjective you PC idiots want to make it.

Yes, the acts of Sept 11 were evil, Dick. And so is your notion that every Muslim is now in the boat with the terrorists that did the evil. I personally wish all of you evil people would get off the Earth and go have it out somewhere else.

Kim W5TIT

1538. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:42:53 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfd0e19_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24435

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tic8tmcm1@208.206.142.89...
>
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > news:3BFC19EC.645BCA61@earthlink.net...
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > > You're such a pussy.
> > > >
> > > > Kim W5TIT
> > >
> > > It would be unkind of me to make any statements regarding Kim's lack
of
> > > class or tackiness.
> > >
> > > Dave K8MN
> > >
> > Dave, you are unkind...very, very unkind.
>
>
> But accurate.

This, from a man who reads a book about a religion that takes years and lifetimes to understand, and thinks he knows all about it.

Kim W5TIT

1539. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:44:38 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfd0e99_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24436

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tica3mcm2@208.206.142.89...
>
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 21:50:26 -0000, "K0HB" <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
> > wrote:
> >
> > >Riley didn't "concern himself" -- his opinion was solicited.
> > >
> > >Like most of us, he thinks her vanity call sign is legal and trashy.
> >
> > No, Hans, like SOME hams--not "most of us."
> >
>
>
> NO, Rick, like MOST of us.

You must be the "silent majority" because the majority of people I encounter over my callsign have no problem with it at all. And, a "silent majority" is either a) a secret society, or b) useless.

Kim W5TIT

1540. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:46:59 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfd0f14_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24438

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9ticcamcm3@208.206.142.89...
>
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> > news:20011120114855.25459.00002515@nso-ch.aol.com...
> > > In article <3BF89F7F.DADCCC95@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
> > writes:
> > >
> > > >
> > > > >For shame, Larry, petitio principii is not allowed.
> > > > >You are the one making the assertion. The onus is upon you > > > > >to prove your assertion. If you cannot offer any proof, we > > > > >will be forced to conclude that you are full of it. Exactly > > > > >what damage is being done to the ARS by Kim's callsign?
> > > >
> > > > Cecil:
> > > >
> > > > Yawn! I don't recall ever stating that Kim's callsign is doing > > > > quantifiable "damage" to the ARS, only that the potential for > > > > such damage certainly exists -- as pointed out by no less an > > > > authority than Riley Hollingsworth. Do you disagree with Mr.
> > > > Hollingsworth's statement that Kim's choice of a callsign has > > > > the potential to take the ARS "...one step closer to extinction?"
> > > >
> > >
> > > I can't tell if that's penis envy or just plain envy.
> >
> >
> > Oh, now its more than just TIT, huh?

Sorry, you'll have to explain that one, Dick. I can't get down far enough to your level to grasp what it is you think you clearly expressed there.

Kim W5TIT

1541. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:49:00 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD105C.4686E798@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24437

Dave Heil wrote:
> I don't believe that only a small minority of Christians practice their > religion properly? You can bet that I don't accept that.

That's easy to prove, Dave. I'll bet the majority of Christians eat pork. I'll bet you eat pork in direct defiance of God's will.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1542. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:51:32 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD10F4.90E4E1E6@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24439

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> Your comments that the Netherlands is awash in social problems and programs > and that the tax rate if outrageous, is what? Is it your observation that > because of those things, the Netherlands is not freer than the United > States? It's a given that with freedoms comes problems such as you mention.
> Are they freer than the United States, or not, Dave?

I think it was Jefferson who said he would rather deal with the problems of having too much freedom than deal with the problems of having too little freedom. I agree with Jefferson. With freedom comes responsibility.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1543. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 14:51:45 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfd1086_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24440

"Tommy" <tommyl@zloxz.net> wrote in message news:9titunalv0@dosa.alt.net...
>
> "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> sweating profusely over > his dog-eared copy of FCC rules and babbling something > about how he can't find that exact rule, spewed out the > following drivel:
>
> For the record:
>
> Sec. 97.11 Stations aboard ships or aircraft.
>
> (a) The installation and operation of an amateur station on a > ship.....<BUREAUCRATIC PSYCHO_BABBLE snipped>
>
>
> Get a grip Kane! and maybe get a life too. I use > my HT all the time on airplanes. Nobody gives a shit. They > think it's a Dictaphone for business notes.
>
> Tommy
>

I don't know what the laws are on the use of radio on airplanes. However,
I do know that just because you "get away with it" doesn't negate the laws.
I don't imagine that the people on board the planes with the terrorists were aware that box knives would kill so many people, either.

Kim W5TIT

1544. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 15:01:03 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfd1248_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24442

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFD0D28.2E31CA2F@IEEE.org...
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > Rick Adams wrote:
> > >
> > > On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 21:50:26 -0000, "K0HB" <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
> > > wrote:
> > >
> > > >Riley didn't "concern himself" -- his opinion was solicited.
> > > >
> > > >Like most of us, he thinks her vanity call sign is legal and trashy.
> > >
> > > No, Hans, like SOME hams--not "most of us."
> >
> > NO, Rick, like MOST of us.
>
> Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:

Larry
Dick Carroll
Richard McCollum
Hans (I am not sure though)
Dave Heil

Who else? I got to five.

For the record, ONE ham outside this newsgroup has ever expressed dissatisfaction with my callsign. He is now the North Texas Section Manager, but he waited until we were in a disagreement to tell me of his views. So, in my opinion, he was just mad at me. Although, it was dissatisfaction, nevertheless.

For the record, and I'll prove it if everyone would like, get me in a pileup and/or contesting, and I'll rack up QSL cards. Give me time to create a card, though. I've gotten in to all kinds of DXpeditions that I said I'd send a card to, shame on me. And, all of them have been on 10M. I am about to install my 10M mobile back into my vehicle.

Kim W5TIT

1545. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 15:03:37 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD13C9.AFA68DA9@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24441

Dave Heil wrote:

Dave, my spell checker keeps wanting to change your name to "Heel".
Do you think that would be appropriate?

> CAM wrote:
> > By OK, I'm assuming he means that it is none of the government's > > business just as Kim's choice of callsign is none of the government's > > business.
>
> I'm not assuming that at all. We're talking about morality, Cecil, not > government intrustion. Try to stay on track.

We cannot discuss morality without discussing government's attempt to control morality. I couldn't care less whether you think something is immoral or not. I'm forced to care about what the government thinks is immoral enough to have a law against it. For instance, oral sex between husband and wife is illegal in Louisiana. Is that the kind of morality you support? Do you think that should be a federal law?

> And you, living in...what is it--Small Town, USA? don't believe that > those elected official follow the desires of the voters?

Sometimes they do and sometimes they don't. The point is that they are NOT required to follow the desires of the voters. We do NOT live in a democracy. We live in a representative republic. Many of the Southern senators went against the desires of the voters and voted for the civil rights act.

> I'm tired of dancing the Texas Two Step with you.

That's because you shouldn't attempt to lead when you're dancing with a 6'3" 205 lb pardner. :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1546. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 15:06:13 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD1465.F19DD58@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24443

Dick Carroll wrote:
> All that drivalous pap is nothing more than verbal engineeering.

You possess extra class license privileges, Dick. As such, you had no choice except to meet the governmental requirements for an extra class licensee. Why is that so hard to comprehend?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1547. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 15:13:48 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD162C.DBE6DCEE@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24444

Rick Adams wrote:
> From a strictly personal perspective, I firmly believe that > racism, sexism, ageism, and religious prejudice have no place in our > hobby--and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage
> our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--but > that's purely a personal view, not a hard-and-fast fact.
>
> Comments?

That seems to be self-evident to me, Rick. Maybe we can do a survey.

1. Is racism detrimental to the ARS? _______

2. Is sexism detrimental to the ARS? _______

3. Is ageism detrimental to the ARS? _______

4. Is religious prejudice detrimental to the ARS? ______
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1548. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 15:15:36 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD1698.C95AFF70@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24445

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> > From a strictly personal perspective, I firmly believe that > > racism, sexism, ageism, and religious prejudice have no place in our > > hobby--and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage
> > our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--but > > that's purely a personal view, not a hard-and-fast fact.
> >
> > Comments?
>
> Yeah. Basicaly, you're a friggin' idiot.

Is that from a racist, sexist, ageist, or religious prejudice basis?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1549. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 15:18:25 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD1741.DC743E19@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24446

DJ wrote:
> Keep in mind the ages span. Some of the folks were raised in an era where > bigotry was not only accepted, but encouraged. Others of us weren't.

I was raised in a segregated, racist environment. Rational people are not susceptible to such programming. If bigotry doesn't make sense (and it doesn't) then discard it.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1550. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 15:20:50 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD17D2.2AE06AB9@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24447

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> This, from a man who reads a book about a religion that takes years and > lifetimes to understand, and thinks he knows all about it.

Actually, all he did was tear off the covers. :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1551. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 15:24:09 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFD1899.977E651F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24448

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> > Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
>
> Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
>
> Larry
> Dick Carroll
> Richard McCollum
> Hans (I am not sure though)
> Dave Heil
>
> Who else? I got to five.

If I had said five, someone would have come up with one more. Say Kim, are you going to have your picture on your QSL card?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1552. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 15:54:28 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <Uc9L7.200629$W8.7598117@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24449

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFD1899.977E651F@IEEE.org...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Larry
> > Dick Carroll
> > Richard McCollum
> > Hans (I am not sure though)
> > Dave Heil
> >

Hey, I made the list!!! Makes my day.

1553. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 16:47:45 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfd2cce_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24450

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFD1899.977E651F@IEEE.org...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> > > Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
> >
> > Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
> >
> > Larry
> > Dick Carroll
> > Richard McCollum
> > Hans (I am not sure though)
> > Dave Heil
> >
> > Who else? I got to five.
>
> If I had said five, someone would have come up with one more. Say > Kim, are you going to have your picture on your QSL card?
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

Well, that's OK if there's five, or however many. I just can't think of anyone else...OH YEAH, N2EY, that thinks my callsign is detrimental to the ARS. Jim makes six.

No picture of me on my QSL card. I've got all the graphics...it's going to be a gorgeous head shot of a wolf (though it may have to go to just an ear and eye of the wolf...I am not sure yet), with the graphic large enough to have a reflection of the State of Texas in it. Yeah, I know, there's no wolves (is there) in Texas. BUT, there is coyotes. They just don't make as pretty a picture!

I got the tape!!!! Yesterday, and listened to it last night and this morning. THANKS!!! Have you ever heard of Red Peters? I'll record the only CD I've got by him onto tape for you!

Kim W5TIT with turkey roasting in the oven! Yum yum.

1554. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 16:48:43 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfd2d00_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24551

"Richard McCollum" <rmcollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:Uc9L7.200629$W8.7598117@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
>
> "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> news:3BFD1899.977E651F@IEEE.org...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > Larry
> > > Dick Carroll
> > > Richard McCollum
> > > Hans (I am not sure though)
> > > Dave Heil
> > >
>
> Hey, I made the list!!! Makes my day.
>
>

Well, I didn't wrongly place you there, did I Dick M.? If I did, just let me know.

Kim W5TIT

1555. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 17:31:20 UTC
From: K0HB <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
Message-ID: <ufNm1t3cBHA.1892@cpimsnntpa04>
Source record: 24553

GlacierThe opinion of Rick Adams seems to be......

>A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be >prevalent among may ham radio operators.

The Armenian judges gave this a 9.8 on the Olympic Troll-O-Meter, but they were over-ruled by the umpires in instant replay, who award it a 1.3.

The Armenian judges lodged a formal protest!

It was sufficiently trollish, of course, but way too obvious. It was poorly written, poorly executed, and was so incredibly lame as to lack the true drawing power of a really masterful troll. Maybe as high as a 1.6 for the intense lameness of the premise, but a 9.8? Never! The Armenian judges tear their hair out, throw their balalaikas down in dismay, and perform the traditional Armenian Dismay Chant! They demand a recount!

73, de Hans, K0HB
--

Hans' Second Law of Thermodenial:

"In any closed mind the amount of ignorance remains constant or increases."

1556. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 17:31:27 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <PDaL7.179627$3d2.7914104@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24552

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFD1741.DC743E19@IEEE.org...
> DJ wrote:
> > Keep in mind the ages span. Some of the folks were raised in an era where > > bigotry was not only accepted, but encouraged. Others of us weren't.
>
> I was raised in a segregated, racist environment. Rational people > are not susceptible to such programming. If bigotry doesn't make > sense (and it doesn't) then discard it.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

You don't even have to be touchy-feely, just Economic Man.

In about 4 years I will be taking Social Security, contributed to by about 3.5 workers declining to somewhere about 2 when they throw dirt in my face. One will be Joe, one Willie, one Juan, and we get to share Wun Hung Lo. If Josephine, Willamina, Juanita, or Tu Hung Lo want in the act, the more the merrier. If during my lifetime I did anything to limit their economic potential I would have been a complete idiot.

A country that competes with a major portion of its population artificially retarded is not going to do well. This is a fact well-known in Islamic states BTW. With all due admiration for Rosa Parks, the Birmingham thing ended when Bethlehem Steel told the union either the plant or the segregated seniority list had just come to an end. Incidentally, MLK should have shared his glory with Andy Young and another one who just died and whose name I do not remember. After King sent in the third goon to disturb things, dealing with King or Young (and to MLKs credit he really did not care which) did not seem like such a bad idea after all. I have played the goon role in my business career more than once cause I do it so well. The usual player of Young's role (hearing confessions and absolving sinners basically) was generally done by a guy who was in fact a Deacon. The third man is the remote thinker who becomes the guy holding off the Home Office gnomes, accepting promises for improvement which largely materialize. But it does not work unless deep in his heart, the victim knows both the question and solution.
Ghandi played this role to perfection as well; he was a lawyer remember. So again, if I expect my pension fund to stay solvent, artificial restraints on people are stupeeeed.

Much like the pilots escorted by the Tuskegee Airmen thought, he can be green with six heads so long as he can keep the Luftwaffe off my case. And that, to me, is the issue: competence not self-esteem. If David's point is that the warm center of the herd moves along with the herd, OK; the herd simply finds itself something else to be stupid about.

Back in my middle-school coaching days I consulted a psychoshrink for whom I had some respect (coming to bridge tournaments on his Yamaha and paying the fee in $2 bills may have had something to do with it) about how to deal with 12-13 year-olds and not leave permanent damage. He told me that other than a good beating that life will pass out anyway without any help from me a 13-year old lacked only two things from adulthood: the development of an identity separate from the herd and the sense that long-term goals require short-term sacrifice. Without the latter he will be a really crummy daddy. Other than that, lay it out straight.

So when I encounter someone who tells me the opinion of the herd means doodley or is not willing to make the economic risk-reward decisions adults make every day, he is going to get it laid out straight. Simple as that.

FWIW I was an undergraduate Econ major

Dick NBK

1557. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 17:41:31 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfd37f3_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24554

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:028833ADEBA69BBE.882EF94BB22E4E92.71A4EF907909FB94@lp.airnews.net...
> A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be > prevalent among may ham radio operators. This kind of attitude > (exemplified by the Liberty Net on 75m and by many of the comments > made in this NG) seems degrading to hams in general.
>

The societal disgrace of the above traits don't just manifest through the participants on HF or here in this newsgroup. With respect to the amteur radio community, and here in Dallas, the above traits can be heard nearly every day on one of the most popular 2M repeaters in this area.

In fact, were it not for many of the discussions on that repeater having overtones of bigotry, racsim, and sexism, conversation would pretty much be limited to the perfunctory greetings, weather, and traffic!

A good example of this is that back during the election, daily discussions took place that left many peoples' mouths gaped open in disbelief of what they were hearing. The conversations swung from humorous jabs at Democrats, to all out disgusting sentiments being expressed for the leftist thugs. Yet, during the events of 9-11, people were admonished whenever discussions came up about the incident itself, or about terrorism in general, for fear of spreading "rumor, innuendo, and mistruth."!!!!!!

>
> There have been threads in the past that addressed specific > racist problems, but so far as I know (and I'm far from an expert on > the news group) no thread has been created to discuss the concept in > general terms, and to examine the effect that kind of attitude have on
> the ARS.
>

I have explained to most (not the Board or Upper Management, of course) people at my company, Managers as well as co-workers, about my callsign and the debate it usually inspires. There's never been a negative reaction from anyone, either with the callsign, or my reasons for getting it. However, I was restricted from having my 2M radio on during any time other than weather nets with one group I worked with. I think it's quite evident that the conversation heard on the repeater would have violated work ethics and, in some cases, discrimination laws that companies must abide by, and must demand the same from their employees. That the discussion on amateur radio was racey enough to have it banned in the office, gave enough argument to the fact that it could not be called a "family hobby" if that happened. I could not defend it.

> From a strictly personal perspective, I firmly believe that > racism, sexism, ageism, and religious prejudice have no place in our > hobby--and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage
> our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--but > that's purely a personal view, not a hard-and-fast fact.
>
> Comments?
>
> Rick
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

I think discussions of tolerance, politics, religion, etc., all have a place in our hobby. Some of the best and proudest conversations I have ever heard and taken part in are those that people disagreed with each others' positions, but always maintained a level of friendship and respect with each other. Many hams I know whom I affectionately call "hawks" are folks who I hold respect for. I don't agree with their political viewpoints at all...but I do agree with their serious consideration, diligence to respecting someone for thinking differently, and even--in some cases--recognizing that they think the way they do because "they always have." Yes, some have even modified their thoughts based on a real encounter with someone they would have originally thought was "just not worthy."

Amateur radio is the mixing ground for people who believe in expressing their opinion. Why would anyone be in a hobby of communication if they fear expressing themselves? Nearly as much as I disagree with someone expressing racism, bigotry, sexism on the air, I equally disagree with the person who would quash such discussion. I just don't agree with censorship in any manner.

Is it bad for amateur radio? I think anyone who doesn't take the time to realize that there are good and bad amateur radio operators--just as there generally is good and bad people, is focusing more on the negative than the good things that happen in amateur radio. I don't think a well-rounded individual is going to surmise that amateur radio must harbor mostly one or the other kinds of people. More, I think a well-rounded individual would realize that amateur radio is like anything else: a little bit of everything, and will decide to get involved with the good things.

Kim W5TIT

1558. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 18:15:07 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3BFD41A1.1040601@att.net>
Source record: 24555

>>>"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:

>>>>Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
>>>Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:

>>>Larry
>>>Dick Carroll
>>>Richard McCollum
>>>Hans (I am not sure though)
>>>Dave Heil

>>>Who else? I got to five.

>>If I had said five, someone would have come up with one more. Say
>>Kim, are you going to have your picture on your QSL card?

Kim-W5TIT wrote:

> Well, that's OK if there's five, or however many. I just can't think of > anyone else...OH YEAH, N2EY, that thinks my callsign is detrimental to the > ARS. Jim makes six.

No Kim...

The list is ignorant bigoted hams...

NE2Y doesn't belong there.

I think Hans clearly doesn't belong there either.

Rich...

1559. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 18:38:10 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn7k2h2.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24556

"Tommy" <tommyl@zloxz.net> wrote in message news:9titunalv0@dosa.alt.net...

> I use my HT all the time on airplanes. Nobody gives a shit. They > think it's a Dictaphone for business notes.

And when they catch you doing that and confiscate your HT (they can) and kick you off the flight (they can) and file a complaint with the FCC for the violation (they can) and the FCC hits you with a penalty and/or revokes your license (they can) what valid defense will you offer?

"I didn't know" doesn't wash because you are 'sposed to know.

Protect yourself by complying with the regs or lead a life of "undetcted crime". Your choice.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1560. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 20:05:00 UTC
From: Anon <Anon@yeqwbaq.net>
Message-ID: <9tjlm2edm0@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 24557

Here's some good advice for your Phil, which You are probably too arrogant to accept. Get off your sanctimonious high-horse and join the human race. Your arrogant holier-than-thou posts are a standing joke, here and on ham radio. Chill out.
You are not a government official anymore, despite your claims to having a direct Bat Line to your old buddies at the commission.
None of that crap means nothing to anyone, here or anywhere else. Riley Hollingsworth has accomplished more in a few years with his honey and diplomacy approach than you and your type with the 1000 lb. sledge hammer approach could hope to have ever accomplished in your entire career. You do nothing but piss people off. Hollingsworth gets results. You oughtta learn something from the man. You impress nobody here with your connections or your vast knowledge, save a handful of your brown nosers. Go spend some time with your grandkids or take your old lady out to a nice dinner and show. It might improve your spiteful attitude, but I doubt it. Post a joke, smile, get a life and laugh. It might help erase those deep scowl lines on your face.

Jack in Dallas

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message >
> "I didn't know" doesn't wash because you are 'sposed to know.
>
> Protect yourself by complying with the regs or lead a life of > "undetcted crime". Your choice.
>
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
>
>

1561. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 21:03:59 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011122160359.23334.00000783@nso-da.aol.com>
Source record: 24558

In article <3BFD0BFF.11262F0C@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Dick Carroll wrote:
>> But----he claimed that he is a woman in a man's body!
>
>But it's OK, I'm a lesbian.

There's a song by Loudon Wainwright III called "I Wish I Were A Lesbian".

73 de Jim, N2EY

1562. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 21:04:00 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011122160400.23334.00000784@nso-da.aol.com>
Source record: 24559

In article <3bfd2cce_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
>news:3BFD1899.977E651F@IEEE.org...
>> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>> >
>> > "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
>> > > Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
>> >
>> > Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
>> >
>> > Larry
>> > Dick Carroll
>> > Richard McCollum
>> > Hans (I am not sure though)
>> > Dave Heil
>> >
>> > Who else? I got to five.
>>
>> If I had said five, someone would have come up with one more. Say >> Kim, are you going to have your picture on your QSL card?
>> --
>> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
>
>Well, that's OK if there's five, or however many. I just can't think of >anyone else...OH YEAH, N2EY, that thinks my callsign is detrimental to the >ARS. Jim makes six.

Hmm - my opinion that a callsign is inappropriate makes me an "ignorant bigoted ham"? Sounds pretty judgemental.

Guess my electropolitical incorrectness rubs some folks the wrong way. Too bad.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1563. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 21:23:44 UTC
From: Martin <mdwade@mobiletelZ.com>
Message-ID: <3BFD6CE0.4F40@mobiletelZ.com>
Source record: 24560

Anon wrote:
>
> Here's some good advice for your Phil, which You are > probably too arrogant to accept. Get off your sanctimonious > high-horse and join the human race. Your arrogant holier-than-> thou posts are a standing joke, here and on ham radio. Chill out.
> You are not a government official anymore, despite your claims > to having a direct Bat Line to your old buddies at the commission.
> None of that crap means nothing to anyone, here or anywhere > else. Riley Hollingsworth has accomplished more in a few years > with his honey and diplomacy approach than you and your type > with the 1000 lb. sledge hammer approach could hope to have > ever accomplished in your entire career. You do nothing but > piss people off. Hollingsworth gets results. You oughtta learn > something from the man. You impress nobody here with your > connections or your vast knowledge, save a handful of your > brown nosers. Go spend some time with your grandkids or > take your old lady out to a nice dinner and show. It might improve > your spiteful attitude, but I doubt it. Post a joke, smile, get a > life and laugh. It might help erase those deep scowl lines on your > face.
>
> Jack in Dallas
>
> "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message >
> > "I didn't know" doesn't wash because you are 'sposed to know.
> > >
> > > Protect yourself by complying with the regs or lead a life of > > > "undetcted crime". Your choice.
> > >
> > > --
> > > 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
> > >

Anon Jack,
I'll take Phil's advice and guidance any day, he does know his stuff.
Tha Armenian Judges have ruled you as 9.8 on the Tollo-meter. Phil on the other hand is telling it just as it is. As a frequent flyer, I keep my radio activities under wraps since laymen (lay persons) who don't know didly about Amateur Radio might get suspicious after 9-11 and I don't need the hassle. BTW, where did you say you got your law degree at? Oh, thats right, you don't have any credentials.

Putting out the Troll-Be-Gone Spray and Asbestos shields.

A Real Amateur
Martin N5PZJ

1564. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 22:47:51 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <13735FF8F0FB77DB.B13723622B7E3D02.47DEB5FEABD8E62C@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24561

On 22 Nov 2001 08:17:07 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> NO, Rick, like MOST of us.

Really?

Show me the results of the survey that was conducted to allow you to make THAT statement?

What, no survey?

Are you claiming to be a psychic, Dick (what a horrible image:
A psychic Dick!), or are you just assuming that everyone is as old fashioned, humorless, and out-of-touch with the world as you are?

Until you provide proof to the contrary (and your opinion is NOT proof, Dick, just opinion), I'll assume that (as usual) you are wrong about this and it is only a minority (gee--Dick as a minority--how fitting!) who feel that way.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1565. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 22:48:22 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3BFD81AC.9080302@att.net>
Source record: 24562

> Richard Plourde wrote:

>>If anyone, or ANY institution, takes the position that they're >> the final arbiter of the absolute truth (of what's good or evil) >>they're, happily, contributing to their own extinction.

Dick Carroll wrote:

> How wonderfully obtuse of you!

Yes, Carroll, if you mean insentitive you're right. I feel that extreme intolerrance of Intolerant Extremism is justified (providing the targets are accurately defined). That, Carroll, is were you've failed. So, in your blind rage, you've set yourself up as a target. You don't come out of this on higher ground than the radical extremists themselves.

> I'll go out on a limb here and state categorically as the absolute > truth that the events of September 11 were evil in spite of their > religous basis.

True...

> I guess that makes me a bigot and whatever other foul > adjective you PC idiots want to make it.

There you go again... picking the wrong targets again... try not to come out of this looking like a schlemiel... ;-)

Rich

1566. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 22:51:27 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <F98B7A285F09D466.1919CA6473C3BD2A.FE70EB4321553DA9@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24563

On 22 Nov 2001 08:18:18 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Oh, now its more than just TIT, huh?

Whatever you say, Dick

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1567. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 22:56:22 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B6B34780C4EE3350.E39F460A88FC7D9C.2BE0189CB3B9B66A@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24564

On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 05:52:40 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>>
>> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 20:25:01 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
>> wrote:
>>
>> >Yeah, it is better but you still don't quite have it down. Try leaving >> >out the word "arbitrarily" since I didn't come to my conclusion >> >arbitrarily. Then try leaving out everything after "lack of class" >> >since I didn't make that statement--you did. Now I think you have my >> >view.
>>
>> Ok--since you state your decision wasn't arbitrary, I'm sure >> you won't have any problem providing a scientifically FACTUAL basis >> for your statement. Don't use "popular moral values" that has no >> bearing and IS arbitrary. Use provable facts.
>
>No thanks.

In other words, your statement WAS arbitrary. That's what I assumed in the first place. Thanks for confirming it.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1568. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 22:59:14 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <CEFDB2A8BA0E9815.FD35E6D8F606B708.AAFF1A2EEB245613@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24565

On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 05:39:46 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

> As to your last sentence: You've gotta find a new
>group of friends.

Why--because his current group are too open minded for you or because they violate your precious little narrow-minded values and you can't accept anyone else having a different set of moral values that are just as valid as your own?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1569. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-22 23:52:39 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <bdgL7.201088$W8.7624253@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24566

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011122160400.23334.00000784@nso-da.aol.com...
> In article <3bfd2cce_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> >news:3BFD1899.977E651F@IEEE.org...
> >> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >> >
> >> > "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> >> > > Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
> >> >
> >> > Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
> >> >
> >> > Larry
> >> > Dick Carroll
> >> > Richard McCollum
> >> > Hans (I am not sure though)
> >> > Dave Heil
> >> >
> >> > Who else? I got to five.
> >>
> >> If I had said five, someone would have come up with one more. Say > >> Kim, are you going to have your picture on your QSL card?
> >> --
> >> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
> >
> >Well, that's OK if there's five, or however many. I just can't think of > >anyone else...OH YEAH, N2EY, that thinks my callsign is detrimental to
the > >ARS. Jim makes six.
>
> Hmm - my opinion that a callsign is inappropriate makes me an "ignorant bigoted
> ham"? Sounds pretty judgemental.
>
> Guess my electropolitical incorrectness rubs some folks the wrong way. Too bad.
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>
>

When you of all people make a bigot list, there is some real question about both the definition and definer.

One of the great stories of WW2 had to do with rubber stamps. In the early days, people being sent to Gibraltar had their orders and files stamped TOGIB. Later when there was no good reason to send people south but Normandy was close, the stamps were re-done which led to people asking each other if they were cleared for the info by asking, "Are you a BIGOT?"

If I am not nice to Techs nipping at my heels and killfile people who cannot connect two coherent sentences so I am a bigot. Whatever cools your tootsies.

Dick N�BK

1570. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 00:24:45 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011122192445.07314.00001398@mb-cr.aol.com>
Source record: 24567

>Subject: Re: Airtmobile Hams
>From: "Anon" Anon@yeqwbaq.net
>Date: 11/22/2001 2:05 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <9tjlm2edm0@pita.alt.net>

>Here's some good advice for your Phil, which You are >probably too arrogant to accept.

No, he's not, you Anonymous Coward.

>Hollingsworth gets results.

Yes he does...And hopefully he'll nail the idiot who is violating SEVERAL federal laws...Laws that were written to save other people's lives, but you and that jerk don't care...

>Jack in Dallas

You mena "jack-off" in Dallas, don't you? Anonymous creep.

Steve Robeson, K4YZ

1571. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 00:36:20 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <A32AADE10D540E33.EDADCCB7BF9C2D79.F5E034F7DA0BDECD@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24568

On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 06:46:57 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>> To respect, honor, and care for. Our vows were NOT taken in a >> Christian ceremony and did NOT include "cleave only unto . . ." or >> "obey."
>
>It's a lot easier if you can make up your own rules.

I didn't have to. Since we weren't married in a Christian ceremony, there was no reason to use the Christian form of a wedding ceremony.

Incidently, many Christian churches DO permit the people who are marrying to create their own ceremonies--ask any Episcopal minister.

"Cleave only unto . . ." and "obey" are simply regulations placed by religion, and effectively treat the couple as objects to be possessed and controlled. I happen to view my wife as a person, not a thing, and see no reason why she should be subject to vows which restrict her freedom or require her obedience.

>I submit that going along with such would make you a man who lets >somebody else do his job as a good husband.

You mean someone else is supporting my wife's and son's needs economically, intellectually, and emotionally? Someone is taking care of her when she's sick, cheering her up when she's down, helping her with her tasks, providing her emotional support and encouragement, standing up for her if she's threatened or attacked, helping her with her research, and taking her shopping (among other things)?

Who?

Or are you referring to sex as the "job of a good husband." If so, I have to ask: What on earth makes you think of sex as a "job" in the first place?

>My tongue was firmly planted in cheek.

Actually, your foot was firmly planted in your mouth.

>What agreements. You didn't vow to each cleave only unto...
>She wouldn't be harming your person, only your psyche.

True. But the lack of trust that would be implicit in that behavior WOULD clearly indicate that a problem existed that needed to be addressed.

>> As it happens, I _wouldn't_ be bothered if my wife decided to >> have sex with someone w/o informing me ("sleep together" is pretty >> inaccurate in this discussion, isn't it?)--on the other hand, it WOULD >> disturb me that she didn't feel comfortable telling me about it and >> would indicate that we needed to work on our communications.
>
>I'd think that'd be a considerable understatement.

Not really. It seems to fit the concept rather accurately,
actually.

>> Sure--but they would be basing their disagreement on religion
>> (you DID say theologians, right?). So what? If I'm not part of that >> religion why should I care at all what the opinions of it's proponents >> are with respect to my private behavior?
>
>That's right. You've pretty much indicated that you make the rules for >yourself. Society and religion be damned.

What does society OR religion have to do with my private behavior? It would be idiotic for me to adhere to the values of a religion I didn't believe in simply because other people do so in my community--if everyone in your neighborhood believed their homes were on fire would you start spraying water in your living room even though you saw no flames or smoke? As far as "society" goes, try to remember that society is simply an accumulation of individuals. Thus there is no possible reason to assume that "society" has any more valid basis for its rules than any individual who is a part of it.

So long as my actions don't harm others, it really isn't the concern of anyone but myself--just because YOUR religion opposes a given behavior doesn't justify banning it--only avoiding it yourself.

>> Personally, I sincerely believe that if we spent less time >> telling our kids lies about sex and protecting them from reality, and >> more time telling our kids about racism and violence and teaching them >> to be "color-blind" we'd have a LOT better world than if we followed >> the guidelines of ANY religion's theologians.
>
>It would seem that teaching a kid to be color blind would be an attempt >to protect him from reality. Color is apparent. I disagree with your >last sentence.

Color IS apparent. It is also irrelevant. Teaching a child to be color blind, as you know, is simply teaching him or her that the color of a person's skin has absolutely no relationship to that person's personality, behavior, intelligence, or capabilities. If you insist that color should not be ignored then it could be added that the color of someone's skin DOES indicate the clothing colors that will look best on them and the degree of protection from burning they should look for in a sun block. Fair enough?

>> Ok, name a single denomination that takes a public position >> that the actions of non-members of their religion are NOT subject to >> their "rules" or censure.
>
>The Episcopal Church.

Really?

Are you stating that the official position of the Episcopal church is that if you are not a Christian it is perfectly acceptable for you to perform acts that would be considered sins if you were a Christian? Are you arguing that the Episcopal church does not attempt to convert non-Christians to their beliefs--and that they do not see other religious beliefs as being "wrong" or inferior to Christianity?

>> Demonstrate that a single Christian denomination believes in >> freedom of religion--including freedom to live by the MORAL STANDARDS
>> of a different religion--is appropriate and teaches its adherents that >> Christian morality and belief does NOT apply to non-Christians, and >> I'll apologize for my statement.
>
>I offer the Episcopal Church. I can speak for no other.

Are you claiming to be an Episcopal? If not, how is it that you can speak for the Episcopal church? And if so, and your statement above is true, then justify ANY of your comments about the morality of my views or Kim's call sign. Since by your own statement, the Episcopal church teaches that Christian morality and belief does NOT apply to non-Christians how can you justify trying to apply those moral values to me? Are you lying about the Episcopal church, or are you simply a very poor Episcopal who doesn't live by the teachings of his own church--but who insists others do so (in other words, are you a liar or a hypocrite--your own statements don't leave room for a third alternative)?

>I find a number of your ideas on morals and religion pretty offensive
>too, Rick.

On what basis?

You, yourself, state that the valid grounds for finding something immoral are religion and society. You then state that your religion does NOT believe it has the right to judge the morals of non-adherants which only leaves society. After eliminating the moral views of society that are based on religion (to stick with your own religious principles), there ARE no moral values left that address either sex or religion. Thus neither religion nor society are the root of your views of my morals. But, since you, yourself, state that it is inappropriate for someone to live by their own moral values in opposition to those of religion and society, clearly you can't be basing your views on your personal morals either.

Gee, Dave, I guess that means you don't really HAVE any views on my moral values or views on religion at all--you just thought you did. And, of course, since one of my moral views is that there is nothing wrong with a call sign like Kim's, and since you don't have any views on my moral values, you obviously don't have any views on that topic either.

I guess you've just been attacking her (and me) to see yourself in print since you don't have any values to base the attacks on.

Sounds like a troll to me!

>I don't believe that only a small minority of Christians practice their >religion properly? You can bet that I don't accept that. That's >according to you, the final arbiter on Christianity.

Ok--find TEN Christians that practice the religion precisely
the way it is intended to be practiced--in other words precisely as the bible instructs them to practice it and I'll retract that statement.

That, of course, includes ALL the instructions in the Old Testament as well as the principles given in the New Testament.

>> Fact: There isn't an elected official in this country that >> could win re-election if s/he didn't support the desires of the >> Christian Churches in his/her district.
>
>Subjective and unproven. I'd bet you could find exceptions to your >statement in certain areas of New York City or San Francisco alone.

Let me get this straight. You are claiming I am making an unproven statement and basing your statement on the _assumption_ that you could find an exception in certain areas?

Turn that around, Dave. If you want to accuse me of making an unproven statement, then prove it's wrong.

>> Fact: Local churches in every area, despite a claim that they >> support a separation of church and state (probably only to the extent >> that they get away without paying taxes like everyone else, but ...),
>> present political issues to their parishioners (i.e., abortion, gay >> rights and gay adoption, bans on prostitution, adult businesses and >> other sexually related activities, etc.) as subjects that a "good >> Christian" MUST take a stand on. Thus they deliberately attempt to >> influence law in those areas--and are usually successful.
>
>I think they'd find much agreement on most items from your list from a >group of secular citizens with no church ties at all.

Based on what source of morality?

With the exception of the Judeo-Christian religions, there IS no basis for opposition to any of those behaviors or lifestyles. Only with the entry of religious morality is sex (in any form except rape) considered in any way inappropriate. Again you are basing your claim that I'm wrong on what you "think" would be the position of others. Sorry, Dave, but unless you have research evidence that demonstrates non-Christian (and non-religious) members of our society oppose such things as limitations on gay rights, consensual sexual behavior between adults, etc., you don't have anything but pure guesswork to base your claim on--a VERY flimsy grounds for claiming someone else is incorrect.

>I suppose that is some proof...an instance.

Would you care for a few dozen more? I can easily provide them--including court citations.

>Really. The Netherlands is awash in social problems and programs. The
>tax rate is outrageous.

You didn't state that the US had a better tax rate than other nations (it doesn't, try Monaco or Saudi Arabia)--you stated that it had more freedom. High taxes have nothing to do with that.

As far as social problems go, we have VASTLY more in the US than in any Western European nation with the possible exception of the relatively recently reunited Germany. Again, that has nothing to do with freedom--the subject of your claim.

>> Learn something about the world from a political perspective
>> before you make jingoistic statements like that one.
>
>What do you think I did for a living, Rick?

I wouldn't have the vaguest idea--but based on your statements about other nations you did NOT teach political science.

>Interesting that you mention Finland. I spent two years in Finland >during one assignment and three years there in the mid-90s. My wife is >a Finn. Finns have to import all oil and gas. They pay 40% of their >income in taxes. Overtime work is taxed at 50%. Gasoline sells for >about $5 per gallon. Finland has some of the strictest alcohol and drug >laws in the world. It is pretty much a homogenous society so people of >color are not normally treated with great kindness. The cheapest car
>one can buy--a Russian Lada--sells for about $20,000 and my Dodge Neon >is a $44,000 car in Finland. Prostitution is banned and that is >strictly enforced (especially in light of the recent waves of Russian >women who arrived since the breakup of the Soviet Union.
>Tell me all about it.

Again, you use economic issues to defend your claim that other nations are less free than the US. Sorry, Dave, but that's a straw dog. Talk about restrictions on RIGHTS--not about the cost of gasoline.

>Please save me from this leftist rhetoric...

Translation: Yea, I know, but I won't admit it.

>> My expertise on which matters?
>
>The "Everything-is-Okay" matters. Did you fabricate it because you >decided you didn't like the rules society made for you?

I didn't say EVERYTHING is ok--I stated that the ONLY legitimate grounds for restricting any individual's actions are if those actions will harm the person or property of a non-consenting individual. That isn't "everything is ok," it's "nothing that does no harm is the business of society" a very different statement.

>> Religion: Years of study. I've read, and seriously considered, >> at least 19 versions of the Christian bible, several versions of the >> Koran, the Buddhist Sutras, the Upanishads, and the religious works of >> several other major and minor religions. I'm not a minister--but I >> would argue that I have at least as much knowledge of the root beliefs
>> of Christianity and Buddhism as most ministers you're likely to >> encounter.
>
>Not unless you've gone through several years in seminary and a number of >years of continuing education. I'll bet that hat of yours is a tight >fit.

In other words unless I've gone through a seminary and continuing education I have no right to comment on a religion?

Ok--fair enough. Since you haven't gone through several years of graduate education in linguistics, you have no right to comment on Kim's call sign, which is an expression of language.

>> Only if you believe in his divinity!
>
>I do.

While I don't. Thus you are bound to follow the teachings of the bible while I am not.

>> HITLER said he came to build a better world, too. Does that >> mean I have to accept HIS values?
>
>I'll feel free to discard this as absurd.

Why?

Because it's true or because you can't think of a valid reason why the two SHOULDN'T be compared?

>> And don't tell me there's no comparison between the >> two--followers of Jesus have killed FAR more innocent people in his >> name than followers of Hitler did in his own.
>

>I think I'll toss this one too.

It's amazing how you can ignore the areas you can't respond to yet expect others to believe you simply don't care to respond.

It's stupid.

But amazing.

>> Of course, in our society, attacking someone for their >> exercise of free choice, or putting down women, minorities, or any >> other group are ALL considered to demonstrate lack of good taste and >> low class values, so I guess it's you, Dick, and the others who are >> attacking Kim who are defined that way here--not her.
>
>There are good choices and there are bad choices. Having a free choice >and using it wisely are two completely different things.

Yup.

You have the free choice to attack Kim and look like a jerk or not attack her and eliminate that perception.

You made your choice to look like a jerk.

Congratulations! You achieved your goal.

>> No, I just assumed you were putting her down because of you >> were "Programmed" by your family or religion to oppose her values, >> actually.
>
>You mean like I assume that you are views are poisoned by your instense
>dislike of Christianity?

Assume all you want. It isn't a dislike for Christianity--it's an intense distaste for ANY group that limits freedom and rights on the basis of their personal beliefs. I don't care if it's Christianity, the Nazi party, or the "Dick, Dave, and Larry Self-love Association," if a group chooses to try to impose its values on those who are not members of that group they deserve nothing but contempt.

>> Where would you SUGGEST that I wear a 3/4 carat diamond?
>
> > Never mind--I can guess the answer.
>
>You could give it to you wife.

As it happens, she has its mate.

I decided to upgrade the diamonds in her engagement ring as a twentieth anniversary gift (the original ones were pretty poor quality--but all I could afford at the time). To replace the center stone I bought a pair of 3/4 carat diamond earrings, had one of the stones set in her ring along with new side diamonds, and I wear the other earring myself. She likes the significance that resulted.

>> Translation: If people don't agree with your narrow-minded >> view, they have no taste either, right?
>>
>> Grow up!
>
>I guess you told me!

I thought I did. Hmmmm. Yup, I must have--you responded to it.

>I'll give you a free clue. My statement needs no translation. Accept >it as my viewpoint.

Ok. So you're narrow-minded. I can live with that.

>Remember the part where I mentioned Constitutional protections of the >minority. Did I sound like I agreed with segregation? Do I believe the >people in the South are or were a majority of the nation?

They were--and are--a majority in their states--where such laws were enacted.

And your statement wasn't that the majority should rule except when Constitutional issues are concerned--it was that the majority should rule, period.

I'll be happy to accept the alternative version, however. Of course, since the Constitution explicitly supports freedom of speech, by necessity Kim's use of W5TIT is protected, and thus the majority that you claim oppose it--yourself included--have no legitimacy in doing so by your own statement.

>> In Georgia a man is serving 10 years in prison for having >> consensual oral sex with his wife--a neighbor look in through the >> closed blinds of his bedroom (from HIS yard) and called the police who >> arrested him.
>
>That is the stuff of urban myth. This tale has now been going around >for decades. Name the man. Name the town. Provide a date.
>Besides, I asked about YOUR freedom.

The conviction was in the Summer of 1996 (I don't know the date, but I'll be glad to copy down the court citation at my office on Monday and post it here then). As I recall the man's name was Matthews and the town involved was Macon, GA.

My freedom?

Whether the limitations on rights affect me directly is irrelevant--the key isn't whether or not my personal freedom is restricted--it's whether anyone's is. Unlike yourself, I don't base my values on what will profit me directly--I'm interested in rights in general.

>> In Texas possession of 7 or more dildoes carries a longer >> prison term than molesting a five year old child--and THAT law was >> passed less than 10 years ago.
>
>Urban myth.

Statement of fact. Try doing your own research before you make such claims.

>I don't know the particulars. Do you know anything based in fact?

Yes--but to the best of my knowledge this isn't an academic forum where case citations are necessary in conversation. I'll be happy to provide them if you'll agree to do the same for all of the claims you've made yourself.

I maintain a rather substantial file of court decisions and verified news reports at my office and, assuming I start seeing citations for all your own statements here I'll make it a point to note down the cites for you on Monday. Otherwise, if you don't feel like troubling yourself to post your own sources, then use the Internet and verify them yourself!

>> In Michigan, three clubs (all private and located in places >> not accessible to children) were raided and the patrons arrested >> because they were swing clubs and the members went there to engage in >> recreational sex.
>
>Another one which you trotted out previously. How did this effect you?
>Is this one of the freedoms you desire?

Does it have to affect me directly to be a problem?

By your standards, since I'm white I shouldn't care if blacks are oppressed; since I'm male I shouldn't care if women are treated equally; since I'm heterosexual I shouldn't care if gays are deprived of their rights; since I'm of Western European descent I shouldn't care if asians, middle easterners, and Eastern Europeans are discriminated against; since I'm 56 I shouldn't care if children are repressed; since I'm . . .

Sorry, Dave, but unlike yourself I happen to care about the rights of others, too.

You'll note that first you denied that any of these types of influences existed then, when I demonstrated that they did, you changed your line to "yes--but how does it affect you" instead. Give it up--you are NOT going to twist the original points to suit your own image.

>> Also in Michigan (in Wayne County, to be exact) a man can have >> his vehicle--even if it belongs to his firm or his spouse--seized and >> sold at auction if he picks up a prostitute with that car.
>

>Has it cut down on women prostituting themselves? Are you going to tell >me that prostitution is a victimless crime?

No and yes, respectively.

No it has not cut down on prostitution--people just park first and approach them on foot. It HAS caused an increase in muggings however, since these customers are on foot and by necessity have cash on them.

Is prostitution a victimless crime? Absolutely. Identify a victim of the crime---is it the woman who voluntarily provides a service for a fee, or is it the man who pays a fee for a service? To me that sounds like a fair exchange with no victim. And don't claim that "society" is harmed by it--a transaction between two adults is none of society's business in the first place and thus CAN'T harm
them.

>You needn't continue. I'd rather discuss the matter with someone who >has a concept of right and wrong.

I do.

I'm right.

You're wrong.

See?

>> If I did, I'd be arrested under state morals laws. So much for >> freedom of choice.
>
>I've noted that a large number of your perceived "freedoms" revolve >around sex. I can see where your rights have been trampled right into >the mattress.

They involve sex because the topic of discussion is morality not personal freedom in general. And the legislation of morality is one of the WORST forms of oppression the State is capable of performing.

For someone who doesn't want to discus sexual morality--you certainly choose to do so when you attack Kim for her choice of a call sign!

>Yeah, but they're not accepted as normal. I don't need the stuff >invading my home through TV (I'm with N2EY, I don't accept it). Again,
>I note your fixation on sexual freedom.

And yours on avoiding issues. Nice try.

>> By your opinion--not by that of others.
>
>Others have made that same opinion known.

A few--not the "majority" that's being claimed.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1572. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 00:50:40 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <C9381295F1678F94.5B995EFD6531059B.13C0998D143FFB17@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24569

On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 06:49:50 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Try to follow along, now. The question, which appears above (quoted >attributes are mine) reads: Is that your overinflated view of your >power?

Interesting phrasing to the question. Presumably you won't settle for anything other than a "Yes" or a "No" either of which you can use as "proof" that I either admit to having an overinflated view of my power or I don't believe I have the power to put you on the defensive. Ok, I'll play your game:

Yes, it is my overinflated view of my power that I have the ability to put you on the defensive.

Now it's MY turn to ask you a yes or no question (no changing the question--you won't let me do so):

Have you stopped abusing children yet?

Remember, Dave. Yes or no only. Anything else is just being defensive . . .

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1573. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 00:58:10 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <637C0A0CDBA72D2F.1888254C50684EF0.A8658D4A1E430D89@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24570

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 22:58:18 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>I solved that problem, Rick. I type in latex gloves. :-)

Must be really inconvenient to read what you've typed. What do you do, turn them inside out?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1574. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 00:59:15 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <A2376A44D125911A.1FDD5339F3EB8927.48BBAB0760BBDA03@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24571

On 22 Nov 2001 06:55:32 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Yeah. Basicaly, you're a friggin' idiot.

Well, there's on vote for bigotry versus it's opposition.

Next.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1575. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 00:59:42 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <BCFCCB8F4F987CAD.E12ADC0FF3E67F94.5971A542D1339398@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24572

On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 09:15:36 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Is that from a racist, sexist, ageist, or religious prejudice basis?

He missed his meds today.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1576. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 01:04:04 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <09EA13F66C62389A.89758D0353CA7C71.42FAE1B911F6D089@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24573

On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 17:31:20 -0000, "K0HB" <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
wrote:

>GlacierThe opinion of Rick Adams seems to be......
>
>>A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be >>prevalent among may ham radio operators.
>
>
>The Armenian judges gave this a 9.8 on the Olympic Troll-O-Meter, but >they were over-ruled by the umpires in instant replay, who award it a >1.3.
>
>The Armenian judges lodged a formal protest!
>
>It was sufficiently trollish, of course, but way too obvious.
>It was poorly written, poorly executed, and was so incredibly >lame as to lack the true drawing power of a really masterful >troll. Maybe as high as a 1.6 for the intense lameness of the >premise, but a 9.8? Never! The Armenian judges tear their >hair out, throw their balalaikas down in dismay, and perform >the traditional Armenian Dismay Chant! They demand a recount!

Sorry, Hans, but it fails the critical "troll test."

The author is both identifiable and an active participant in the newsgroup where it appeared.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1577. For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 02:03:19 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <H7iL7.203791$W8.7635260@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24574
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

According to the Economist for Nov 10-16 two profs have been running a three-year study of E-Bay auctions (via a bot) with the following results:

1. Items sold on a weekend sell for about 2% more.

2. Pictures were worth 5.7% in 1999. This year, it is11.3%

3. Having a decent rep is worth 6.8% and growing as experience is gained. Hey, guys win Nobel Prizes for discovering that you can get better prices from people who trust you and don't build in a margin for getting the green weenie.

4. They are testing software to detect shill bids. You probably will never hear about it on E-Bay but what better place to sell it when the time comes, with a picture on a weekend of course. Should be fun.

Dick

1578. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 02:25:28 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tkc1802akr@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24577

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFD1698.C95AFF70@IEEE.org...
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > Rick Adams wrote:
> > > From a strictly personal perspective, I firmly believe that > > > racism, sexism, ageism, and religious prejudice have no place in our > > > hobby--and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage
> > > our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--but > > > that's purely a personal view, not a hard-and-fast fact.
> > >
> > > Comments?
> >
> > Yeah. Basicaly, you're a friggin' idiot.
>
> Is that from a racist, sexist, ageist, or religious prejudice basis?

Maybe it's an idiotist basis.

1579. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 02:26:37 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tkc2a02ap3@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24578

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:BCFCCB8F4F987CAD.E12ADC0FF3E67F94.5971A542D1339398@lp.airnews.net...
> On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 09:15:36 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
> wrote:
>
> >Is that from a racist, sexist, ageist, or religious prejudice basis?
>
> He missed his meds today.
>
> Rick

Yes, the liquor stores are usually closed on Thanksgiving.

1580. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 02:37:10 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tkcm302bjs@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24579

"Anon" <Anon@yeqwbaq.net> wrote in message news:9tjlm2edm0@pita.alt.net...
> Here's some good advice for your Phil, which You are > probably too arrogant to accept. Get off your sanctimonious > high-horse and join the human race. Your arrogant holier-than-> thou posts are a standing joke, here and on ham radio. Chill out.
> You are not a government official anymore, despite your claims > to having a direct Bat Line to your old buddies at the commission.
> None of that crap means nothing to anyone, here or anywhere > else. Riley Hollingsworth has accomplished more in a few years > with his honey and diplomacy approach than you and your type > with the 1000 lb. sledge hammer approach could hope to have

I thought Riley used a pretty big sledge hammer on some of the hams who dominated 14.313 and 3.8945. Nothing "honey and diplomacy" about. The hammer fell. They're gone. End of story.

1581. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 02:40:04 UTC
From: BH <radioguyx@texxas.net>
Message-ID: <3BFCFEAD.9EC1147@texxas.net>
Source record: 24575

Phil Kane wrote:

>
> Don't let the company's lawyers hear that....if he's the pilot on > duty, boredom is not an option.

I have several neighbors who are airline pilots, they all say that between take offs and landings, the time is very boring, the plane is on auto pilot and not much to do.

1582. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 02:45:49 UTC
From: BH <radioguyx@texxas.net>
Message-ID: <3BFD0005.46E8BF33@texxas.net>
Source record: 24576

I can see this for installing non-type accepted amateur gear, but do not see how this applies for using the installed aircraft comms that can operate on the ham bands.

Phil Kane wrote:

>
> For the record:
>
> Sec. 97.11 Stations aboard ships or aircraft.
>
> (a) The installation and operation of an amateur station on a > ship or aircraft must be approved by the master of the ship or > pilot in command of the aircraft.
>
> (b) The station must be separate from and independent of all > other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft, except > a common antenna may be shared with a voluntary ship radio > installation. The station's transmissions must not cause > interference to any other apparatus installed on the ship or > aircraft.
>
> (c) The station must not constitute a hazard to the safety of > life or property. For a station aboard an aircraft, the > apparatus shall not be operated while the aircraft is operating > under Instrument Flight Rules, as defined by the FAA, unless the > station has been found to comply with all applicable FAA Rules.
>
> 47 C.F.R. 97.11 [P&F] as of October 30, 2001
>
>

1583. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 02:53:23 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tkdkh02crs@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24583

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFD105C.4686E798@IEEE.org...
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > I don't believe that only a small minority of Christians practice their > > religion properly? You can bet that I don't accept that.
>
> That's easy to prove, Dave. I'll bet the majority of Christians > eat pork. I'll bet you eat pork in direct defiance of God's will.

Wasn't there a prophet that negated kosher laws for Christians? I seem to remember that Isaiah, Daniel, or some other prophet had a dream in which god told him to eat what was before him. It was a feast of snakes, frogs, pigs, lizards and everything that was "unclean." God told the guy, "If I say it's OK, then it's OK."

1584. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 03:12:12 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tkeqc$1uo$0@208.206.142.82>
Source record: 24580

```
Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > news:9tic8t$mcm$1@208.206.142.89...
> >
> >
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > news:3BFC19EC.645BCA61@earthlink.net...
> > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > You're such a pussy.
> > > > >
> > > > > Kim W5TIT
> > > > >
> > > > It would be unkind of me to make any statements regarding Kim's lack
> of
> > > > class or tackiness.
> > > > >
> > > > Dave K8MN
> > > >
> > > Dave, you are unkind...very, very unkind.
> > >
> > >
> > But accurate.
>
> This, from a man who reads a book about a religion that takes years and
> lifetimes to understand, and thinks he knows all about it.

Don't have a need to "know all about it", just enough.
```

1585. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 03:17:32 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tkf4c$1uo$1@208.206.142.82>
Source record: 24581

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > All that drivalous pap is nothing more than verbal engineeering.
>
> You possess extra class license privileges, Dick. As such, you had > no choice except to meet the governmental requirements for an extra > class licensee. Why is that so hard to comprehend?

I CHOSE to take those tests. No one forced me to drive the 260 one way miles to the FCC district office to do that.
What part of that is so difficult for you to comprehend.

1586. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 03:21:00 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <391170249A242EA0.DE70F89E0D1A28ED.D03B54EAEF0210BD@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24582
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 02:03:19 GMT, "Richard McCollum"
<rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote:

>According to the Economist for Nov 10-16 two profs have been running a >three-year study of E-Bay auctions (via a bot) with the following results:
>
>1. Items sold on a weekend sell for about 2% more.
>
>2. Pictures were worth 5.7% in 1999. This year, it is11.3%
>
>3. Having a decent rep is worth 6.8% and growing as experience is gained.
>Hey, guys win Nobel Prizes for discovering that you can get better prices >from people who trust you and don't build in a margin for getting the green >weenie.
>
>4. They are testing software to detect shill bids. You probably will never >hear about it on E-Bay but what better place to sell it when the time comes,
>with a picture on a weekend of course. Should be fun.

Sounds good to me. I have an auction running there now for a Panasonic AG455U camcorder that ends on a Sunday and has a picture with it--so I should do ok on it! :-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1587. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 03:44:15 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <jCjL7.206760$W8.7643144@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24584
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Richard, when they sell a Hallicrafters S-20R for close to $200.00, that's
it. I do not do E-bay anymore.

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim

"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
news:H7iL7.203791$W8.7635260@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> According to the Economist for Nov 10-16 two profs have been running a > three-year study of E-Bay auctions (via a bot) with the following results:
>
> 1. Items sold on a weekend sell for about 2% more.
>
> 2. Pictures were worth 5.7% in 1999. This year, it is11.3%
>
> 3. Having a decent rep is worth 6.8% and growing as experience is gained.
> Hey, guys win Nobel Prizes for discovering that you can get better prices > from people who trust you and don't build in a margin for getting the green
> weenie.
>
> 4. They are testing software to detect shill bids. You probably will never > hear about it on E-Bay but what better place to sell it when the time comes,
> with a picture on a weekend of course. Should be fun.
>
> Dick
>
>

1588. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 03:56:32 UTC
From: Your Friend Bill <"Remove The NO In The Reply Address"@coqui.net> Message-ID: <3BFDC8F0.4F7FDFCD@coqui.net>
Source record: 24585
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy

JAMES HAMPTON wrote:
>
> Richard, when they sell a Hallicrafters S-20R for close to $200.00, that's > it. I do not do E-bay anymore.
>
> 73 from Rochester, NY
> Jim

According to hampedia, the top price realized on ebay for an S20-R is $405.00 !!! Average has been 146.88 and lowest was 50.00.
I would like to have seen that $405 one.

-Bill

1589. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:10:22 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFDCC2E.90561225@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24586

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > This, from a man who reads a book about a religion that takes years and > > lifetimes to understand, and thinks he knows all about it.
>
> Don't have a need to "know all about it", just enough.

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1590. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:16:27 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFDCD9B.E0F65F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24587

Krell wrote:
> Wasn't there a prophet that negated kosher laws for Christians? I seem to > remember that Isaiah, Daniel, or some other prophet had a dream in which god > told him to eat what was before him. It was a feast of snakes, frogs, pigs, > lizards and everything that was "unclean." God told the guy, "If I say it's > OK, then it's OK."

I don't recall that prophet. Since Yahweh, Jehovah, and Allah are all the same God, why don't the Jews and Muslims eat pork? Did Jesus eat pork?
I doubt it very seriously. He didn't want to risk trichinosis.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1591. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:20:14 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFDCE7E.5B7F1147@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24588

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > All that drivalous pap is nothing more than verbal engineeering.
> >
> > You possess extra class license privileges, Dick. As such, you had > > no choice except to meet the governmental requirements for an extra > > class licensee. Why is that so hard to comprehend?
>
> I CHOSE to take those tests. No one forced me to drive the 260 one way > miles to the FCC district office to do that.
> What part of that is so difficult for you to comprehend.

If you had chosen not to take the tests then you wouldn't be licensed.
Therefore you were forced to take the tests in order to obtain a ham radio license. Cheating is the only other way to get one.
You were forced to take those tests because you had no other choice except to cheat on your way to obtaining a ham license.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1592. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:22:16 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDCEF5.7C0CDF34@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24589

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFC8FA1.8DCD9D85@earthlink.net...
> > I don't believe that's what someone means when he asks if something is > > OK. When I ask for a milkshake and the waitress says, "OK". I do not > > assume that she means it is none of the government's business. Quit > > trying to mold this thing to suit your agenda. We're talking about > > society's view. As to your last sentence: You've gotta find a new > > group of friends.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> Society's view and the government's view sometimes are the same. This has to > do with individual choices that are none of the business of either.

Rick already spoke to the fact that he was not discussing government.
Any valid points?

Dave K8MN

1593. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:24:59 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDCF98.493E019C@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24590

```
Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFC90E3.C31B98D0@earthlink.net...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > news:3BFC01E9.9868BB77@earthlink.net...
> > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > > > news:3BFA830E.F540F9A@earthlink.net...
> > > > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > > You'd think Davey would get the hint. When one keeps throwing > > > insults
> > > > > > that > > > > > > > no one understands because they're not at others' level, well...
> > > Kinda
> > > > > > has > > > > > > > the same affect as using the English language in a group of > people
> > > that
> > > > > > > speak nothing but Spanish.
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > > Kim W5TIT
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > If you want to participate, Kim, you may have to learn a few words
> of > > > > > > the local idiom. If I use a term and you don't know what it > means,
> > > you > > > > > > might want to find out what it means. It isn't my lack of > knowledge
> > > > > > which is the problem.
> > > > > >
> > > > >
> > > > > Uh, Dave. I would find it interesting, at best, for me to undertake > > > > > learning from you in any way constructive... Oh, and I'm not sure > what
> > > you
> > > > > mean by if I want to participate...I don't think I do...
> > > > >
> > > > > Kim W5TIT
```

> > > >
> > > > I'm sure that you would find it interesting, Kim. My time is,
> however,
> > > > extremely limited. If you don't care to participate, what keeps you > > > > participating?
> > > >
> > > > Dave K8MN
> > >
> > > Well, that's quite simple, Dave. I am so surprised you have to ask. I > keep > > > participating because I love to amuse the simply amused! No challenge, > easy
> > > work, gets my stress out from the day's activities and, in some cases, > > > allows me to enjoy some real interesting go 'rounds.
> > >
> > > Kim W5TI and a T
> >
> > Just who is it that you believe yourself to be amusing? There'd be > > Cecil and Rick and...hmmmm yourself.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> Well. In my opinion you should include yourself in the list you began. Of > course I am amused. I certainly don't participate in this newsgroup for an > education, or money, or...whatever else other than amusement.
>
> Maybe I am assuming too much. Maybe the real question is: why do you > participate, if not for amusement?

To help balance the views, Kim. We wouldn't want things to lean too far to the left.

Dave K8MN

1594. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:29:11 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDD094.2149CFA5@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24591

```
Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFC9196.87D48D3E@earthlink.net...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > news:3BFC02CF.C40752AA@earthlink.net...
> > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > > > news:3BFA8245.DEC86321@earthlink.net...
> > > > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > > Process management is my chief responsibility at work, Dave. I > > > would > > > > > > > shudder to think that I become so "adult" that I act like people
> > > such as > > > > > > > you. Now, for you it may work. For me, it would not. I bet
> that
> > > > > between > > > > > > > the two of us, I make up for your lack of willingness to step > > > outside
> > > > > > the
> > > > > > > box.
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > > Kim W5TIT
> > > > > >
> > > > > > It is certainly odd that one who so often makes incorrect
> character
> > > and > > > > > > background judgements about people is employed in a field where > she > > > > > > needs skill in using logical thought. Of course, being employed > in a > > > > > > field and being any good at it don't automatically go hand in > hand.
> > > > > >
> > > > > > Dave K8MN
> > > > > >
> > > > >
> > > > > You'd know, right? You have the lead on that example.
> > > > >
> > > > > Kim W5TIT
```

> > > >
> > > > Uh, Kim? I'm not employed at all. I'm retired. I marinate steaks, > > > > pilot a lawn tractor and put up large antennae at altitude.
> > > >
> > > Well, at least you can get something large up at high altitude--even if > it
> > > is outdoors.
> > > >
> > > > I work the > > > > pileups, participate in the local ARES net, rag chew any time I feel > > > > like it and take part in numerous radio contests. poof There goes > > > > your supposed point.
> > > >
> > > > Dave K8MN
> > > >
> > > >
> > > 'Smatta, Dave? Didn't like what I had to say? Is the above an attempt
> to > > > excite me, or did you need to remind yourself of something?
> > > >
> > > Kim W5TIT
> >
> > You tried to make a point that I had the lead. I'm not even in the > > game. It has nothing to do with not liking what you had to say. That > > was only incorrect. I have no desire to excite you. Please point out > > the kinds of things which excite you and I'll try to avoid them. The > > last part is a real puzzler. I can't figure out what you were trying to > > convey there.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> You're getting way too easy, Dave. Let's see...OH, OK, the absolute > greatest excitement I get in this newsgroup are posts from you! I can't > wait to get up every morning and run to my computer, logon, download and see > that name "Dave Heil!" But, I beg you, please don't avoid posting to the > newsgroup just because I get so excited over it!

Pretty sophomoric stuff, Kim. You'll have to come up with better diversions. I wasn't in the last game and I'm not playing this one.

Dave K8MN

1595. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:30:42 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <ShkL7.180623$3d2.7954510@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24592
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Sheesh! I had an S-20R as a kid. The thing was as wide as a barn and had almost total insensitivity above 15 meters. Tuning above 10 MHz (like for SSB) was accomplished by moving my hand closer or farther to the stupid receiver. Lousy radio.

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim

"Your Friend Bill" <"Remove The NO In The Reply Address"@coqui.net> wrote in message news:3BFDC8F0.4F7FDFCD@coqui.net...
> JAMES HAMPTON wrote:
> >
> > Richard, when they sell a Hallicrafters S-20R for close to $200.00, that's > > it. I do not do E-bay anymore.
> >
> > 73 from Rochester, NY
> > Jim
>
> According to hampedia, the top price realized on ebay for an S20-R is > $405.00 !!! Average has been 146.88 and lowest was 50.00.
> I would like to have seen that $405 one.
>
> -Bill
>

1596. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:31:28 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDD11D.D15E47BF@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24593

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFC9F29.554E571C@earthlink.net...
> > Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > > >
> > > >Bully for you.
> > >
> > > Just doing my job as a (hopefully) good husband! ;-)
> >
> > I submit that going along with such would make you a man who lets > > somebody else do his job as a good husband.
> >
>
> HIS JOB AS A GOOD HUSBAND**?!?!?!?!?!
>
> Ya know what, Dave? Even with as much as you grate against my nerves, I > never would have figured for you to be thinking like that...
>
> Good grief, you've led a protected life.
>
> Kim W5TIT

I submit that after reading your response, it is clear that you have no idea how I'm thinking.

Dave K8MN

1597. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:40:06 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDD324.9B19C85E@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24594

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > I personally find trying to discuss anything with you to be a > > juvenile-like waste of time.
>
> Is that why you do so much of it? It reminds you of contesting?
>
> > > > > I have NEVER
> > > > > denied comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.
> > > >
> > > > You most assuredly are ignoring the fact.
> > >
> > > Since you have produced absolutely no proof, everyone can assume > > > you are still lying about it. Where's the beef, Dave?
> >
> > Beef:
> > #1 posted by me on Nov. 5:
> > Your attempt at an explanation coupling Affirmative Action and morse > > testing fails as miserably as your past morse-testing-equates-to-racism > > crap.
>
> That's just your opinion and I don't see any denial on my part.
> You are still lying. You cannot find any of my postings where
> I denied comparing Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.
> If you could, you would post them. Yours is the most feeble-> minded approach to an argument that I have ever seen.
>
> > #2 posted by me on Nov. 6:
> > Good luck with this latest attempt to equate Morse testing with some > > social injustice.
>
> I still don't see any denial on my part. You are still lying.
> Don't you see how silly it is to accuse me of something based > on your posting?
>
> > #3 posted by me on Nov. 7:
> > It doesn't really matter since your use of the Affirmative Action label
> > in comparing it to Morse testing was incorrect. You had it backwards.
> > This latest tangent is simply a Cecilian diversion.
>
> Again that's just your opinion. I still don't see any denial on my part.
> You are still lying.
>

> > #4 posted by me on Nov. 8:
> > By the way, are you ever going to get around to admitting that your > > statement comparing Morse testing and Affirmative Action was 180 degrees > > out of phase?
>
> I still don't see any denial on my part that I compared Affirmative > Action to Morse code testing. I did and I continue to do so. You > are still lying.
>
> > Those are all examples where I use words like "comparing", "equate" and
> > "coupling". You'd have to be a fool to believe that my one typo was > > representative of my view on the matter. Are you a fool?
>
> No, but you obviously are. You cannot prove anything about what I > said by quoting your own postings. What a dumb $hit doofus. Where > are my postings where I denied comparing Affirmative Action and > Morse code testing????????? I have never denied such. I did it and > I will continue to compare Affirmative Action and Morse code testing.
>
> You are remembering where I denied comparting Affirmative Action and > Morse code testing. Your attempts to cover up your typo are comical.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

You continued to act as if I had posted a deliberate lie due to my typo.
It has been pointed out to you numerous times. Now I have included my early postings as proof of my intent. You choose only to play word games. Have fun.

Dave K8MN

1598. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:44:53 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDD442.1AB373CA@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24595

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFC9F67.6BF736C3@earthlink.net...
> > Rick Adams wrote:
> > > >So it is now your intent to tell me my freedom has been limited? Tell > > > >me, Rick. Have you ever lived anywhere else--I mean outside the U.S.?
> > >
> > > Yup.
> > >
> > > In the Netherlands. Which is a MUCH freer nation than the USA.
> >
> > Really. The Netherlands is awash in social problems and programs. The > > tax rate is outrageous.
> >
>
> A) You simply asked Rick to provide an example of having lived outside the > United States in the context of speaking about freedom. He provided you > with a country that he says has MUCH more freedom than the US. I don't see > that you dispute his claim to that affect.

If it wasn't clear to you: The Netherlands has less freedom than the U.S.

Instead, you:
>
> B) Comment about the social problems and tax rate--ignoring that you asked > for an example of having lived outside the United States in the context of > freedom.

It would be an interesting rant if true. What did you think I was talking about--lack of variety in cheeses?

> Your comments that the Netherlands is awash in social problems and programs > and that the tax rate if outrageous, is what? Is it your observation that > because of those things, the Netherlands is not freer than the United > States? It's a given that with freedoms comes problems such as you mention.

That is one of my observations. It is nice that you caught on after all.

> Are they freer than the United States, or not, Dave?

No.

> Kim W5TIT

Dave K8MN

1599. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:46:34 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDD4A7.1524B3EA@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24596

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > Rick Adams wrote:
> > > Use provable facts.
> >
> > No thanks.
>
> OK, then I guess we will just have to acknowledge your
> wild-a$$ unproven speculations.

You have a mouse in your pocket? Are you, in addition to your other manifestations, now Rick as well?

I explained myself and don't owe Rick a detailed explanation.

Dave K8MN

1600. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:51:20 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDD5C5.82118CF8@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24597

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3BFC9F67.6BF736C3@earthlink.net...
> > Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > > >Ever lived in a country with a state church? Ever lived in a third > > > >world country. I could show you limited freedom and various states of > > > >oppression. You now live in the place which offer more freedom than > any > > > >place on the earth.
> > >
> > > Bull.
> > >
> > > Learn something about the world from a political perspective > > > before you make jingoistic statements like that one.
> >
> > What do you think I did for a living, Rick?
> >
>
> Wasn't it you who just made the observation the other day that just because > someone is in a certain job is no indicator that they do it well? I'd say > your tolerance as an representative of our government in foreign lands was > minimal at best--given what I see of your personality on this newsgroup.

Have you ever not made a comment about something of which you are totally ignorant, Kim? You have absolutely no knowledge of what I did over the course of fifteen years abroad over the course of six different postings. From observation of your personality, I'd guess not.

I > would guess that you "visited" but never chose to really live the land.
> Wrapping yourself up in the protection of politics is not learning a thing > about the people and conditions of a land.

That makes you 0 for 2 in this posting. Next batter!

Dave K8MN

1601. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 04:53:30 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDD647.D973DD1A@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24598

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > I don't believe that only a small minority of Christians practice their > > religion properly? You can bet that I don't accept that.
>
> That's easy to prove, Dave. I'll bet the majority of Christians > eat pork. I'll bet you eat pork in direct defiance of God's will.

It'll be a hoot watching you try to prove this one, Cecil. Good luck!

Dave K8MN

1602. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 05:00:19 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDD7E0.72CB43B5@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24599

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
>
> Dave, my spell checker keeps wanting to change your name to "Heel".
> Do you think that would be appropriate?

I don't care.

> > CAM wrote:
> > > By OK, I'm assuming he means that it is none of the government's > > > business just as Kim's choice of callsign is none of the government's > > > business.
> >
> > I'm not assuming that at all. We're talking about morality, Cecil, not > > government intrustion. Try to stay on track.
>
> We cannot discuss morality without discussing government's attempt to > control morality. I couldn't care less whether you think something is > immoral or not. I'm forced to care about what the government thinks > is immoral enough to have a law against it. For instance, oral sex > between husband and wife is illegal in Louisiana. Is that the kind > of morality you support? Do you think that should be a federal law?

I don't agree with your initial statement. I don't live in Louisiana.
It seems that if the citizens want to make that the law in their state, those opposed can a) break the law in a defiant act of civil disobedience, b) move to another state or c) attempt to change the law if they can garner enough support.

> > And you, living in...what is it--Small Town, USA? don't believe that > > those elected official follow the desires of the voters?
>
> Sometimes they do and sometimes they don't. The point is that they > are NOT required to follow the desires of the voters. We do NOT > live in a democracy. We live in a representative republic. Many > of the Southern senators went against the desires of the voters > and voted for the civil rights act.

You mean that they defied some of their voters. I don't have any information that declares that all living in the South were against the Civil Rights Act. Your fellow Texan and our President wasn't against it.

> > I'm tired of dancing the Texas Two Step with you.
>

> That's because you shouldn't attempt to lead when you're dancing
> with a 6'3" 205 lb pardner. :-)

At 6' 3 1/2 and 240, I say you don't have a vote girlie man. :)

Dave K8MN

1603. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 05:02:26 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDD860.4AD7B867@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24600

```
Richard McCollum wrote:
>
> "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> news:3BFD1899.977E651F@IEEE.org...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > Larry
> > > Dick Carroll
> > > Richard McCollum
> > > Hans (I am not sure though)
> > > Dave Heil
> > >
>
> Hey, I made the list!!! Makes my day.

Ditto.

Dave K8MN
```

1604. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 05:06:11 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011123000611.24612.00000797@nso-cr.aol.com>
Source record: 24601

In article <CA2FD982177B45E6.9FB5FD7F5F805E9A.D3F919013E2C67C3@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 21 Nov 2001 14:16:58 -0800, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
>>> Jim, have you listened on 75m recently--or on a 2m repeater in
>>> the average city?
>>
>>I listen to 75 meters occasionally. I use 2 meters here in the >>Philadelphia area. There are a few troublemakers on both bands, which >>is one of the reasons I operate almost all CW. For some reason,
>>"filth, bigotry, racism, hate speech, and deliberate jamming >>activities" are practically unknown on CW.
>
> True--but if that isn't the mode you prefer (it isn't in my >case except for some dx because of my hearing), then you're stuck with >either a "keyboard" oriented mode, sstv, or voice.

Yup. My point is that the troublemakers seem to use voice much more than any other mode. The problems of 3950 and some repeaters are unknown on CW.
>
> I can use a keyboard on the Internet FAR more effectively (and >more quickly--I have a T1 connection) than on the air so that mode >doesn't have a lot to attract me.

If all someone wants to do is communicate, and doesn't care whether it is by radio or not, there are lots of options. I can email a friend in Australia far easier than I can work him on any ham band, using any mode.

>SSTV is one of the modes I use most,
>but it's limited in scope.

I remember looking at SSTV pictures 25+ years ago using a converted Dumont 'scope. Neat but too few stations on the air, and the resolution and gray scale were kinda limited. Much better today but still not that popular.

>Voice, otoh, allows conversation on a >variety of subjects, the opportunity to work in various modes (I >prefer qrp ssb personally), and the chance to talk to people >worldwide.

Same as CW.

> Unfortunately, there _are_ a number of "losers" on the hf >voice segments that reduce the pleasure the mode offers.

The operative question is, what can be done about them?
>
>>I don't hear any such thing COMMONLY on 2 meters in this area. Your >>mileage may vary.
>
> Where I live I don't either (relatively small community). But >I've visited a number of metro areas where I very quickly learned that >if I didn't want to listen to "cb" at its worst, I had to switch to >70cm instead of 2m on the mobile.

Does that mean 2 meters is that bad in an average American city?
>
>>We have had a few "bananas" here on 2 meters, but only a few. The 2 >>meter amateur community here is mostly made up of folks who don't >>tolerate such behavior. Any "filth, bigotry, racism, hate speech, and >>deliberate jamming activities" and the control op shuts down the >>repeater. If that's not effective, the offender soon finds that nobody >>answers his/her calls.
>
> Sounds good--unfortunately that isn't the norm in the US.

How do you know? Have you visited that many metro areas?
>
>>> If you, Larry, and others want to clean up ham radio, the >>> place to start is with the Liberty Net and other racist groups, not >>> with the mildly risque call Kim selected.
>>
>>That's NOT the issue, Rick.
>>
>>The question is whether calls like Kim's are appropriate for ham >>radio, and whether they are in the best interest of the ARS. I say >>they are not, and so does Riley.
>
> No he doesn't.

Yes, he does. That's the meaning of "one step closer to extinction".

>If he did, it would be an FCC regulation.

Nope. Riley doesn't make the rules. Sure, he might have some influence, but he doesn't have the power to simply make up rules prohibiting things that are not in the best interest of the ARS.

>He >says in his OPINION it could contribute to negative effects on the >ARS.

Look up the exact quote. He's pretty clear. And I agree with him.

> Sorry, Jim. But Hollingsworth's opinions on topics other than FCC >regulations are no more valid than anyone elses

I disagree. He's an active ham with access to lots of information about the ARS and the forces affecting it. Doesn't mean he is always "right". But the idea that everyone's opinions are equally valid regardless of other factors is simply not true.

> Personally, I don't >see her call as offensive or as contributing to any problems in ham >radio-

Personally, I do. Doesn't mean Kim is a bad person.

>-if anything I see the current discussion as being FAR more >negative from the perspective of potential new hams than her call >could ever be.

You are saying that talking about the effects of a thing is worse than the thing itself. Sounds like you want me to shut up about this whole subject. Interesting.
>
>>The "average parents" I know would say that such callsigns are not a >>good advertisement for ham radio.
>
> Call signs aren't an advertisement in the first place.

Yes, they are. Particularly vanity calls, which are specifically chosen for various reasons.

> They
>are station identifications in fact, and personal identifications in >reality.

So why not W5KIM or W5MKW?

> Kim's call is neither good nor bad for ham radio--it simply >identifies her as a licensed amateur.

If that were true, any similar call would do the same job.
>
>>btw, at what age do you think a child is old enough to become a ham? I >>got my license at age 13, and that was nowhere near a record back >>then. Do you think there should be an age limit for a license?
>
> Nope.

I agree.

>If a child is old enough to UNDERSTAND ham regulations >and electronics theory, s/he is old enough to obtain a license.

The tests do not determine whether a person understands those subjects. All a person has to do is correctly answer enough questions to pass the 35 question Tech written test. That has been done by four year old children. And at least one eight year old has earned an Extra license - under the OLD rules that required 20 wpm code and five separate written tests.

>What I >think is "too young" is the child who is pushed through the licensing >process by a parent who feels that he or she will profit from the >hobby so he or she must become a ham.

Agreed. Nobody should be pushed into it. But many young children are interested on their own.

In my case, as soon as I knew what ham radio was, I wanted to be part of it.
That was about age 9 or 10.
>
> But on the other hand, anyone who is old enough to understand
>both the principles of radio communications and the underlying >concepts of the FCC regs (and if they DON'T understand those subjects, >they SHOULDN'T have a license--child or adult) is also old enough to >deal with the world as it really is instead of as we want it to be.
>A
>child that can understand radio propagation is plenty old enough to >understand the mild humor present in Kim's call sign.
>
This is erroneous in many different ways, but I will mention only a few:

- the tests do not test for understanding, just basic knowledge
- being able to understand radio principles and regs is no guarantee of readiness for a completely "adult" environment
- the amateur bands are not the exclusive property of licensed amateurs only.
Others have every right to listen in, because the radio spectrum is public property.

>>> Then ask them if it would >>> trouble them to know that a group of hams meat on 75m on Saturday >>> nights to discuss issues of interest to them as white power advocates.
>>
>>Nice try at diversion, but BOTH things are bad advertisements for ham >>radio. Of course the second (Liberty Net) is far worse than the first >>(Kim's call).
>
> Yet no one has bothered to start a "life long" thread about
>THAT problem here as Larry has stated the thread about Kim's sign to >be!

Incorrect. The Liberty Net has been the subject of many threads here and elsewhere. It has also been the subject of FCC enforcement action.

> Why not?

See above.
>
>>> Perhaps elderly bigots like Larry who grew up in environments where >>> racism was acceptable but sex wasn't would say the call sign was a >>> problem
>>
>>Interesting that you describe Larry that way.

>
> Based on his posts, it's the impression I have of him. If it's >wrong, I'm more than willing to apologize for it--but not unless I see >some evidence that it IS wrong.

How old is elderly?

>>I'm a "modern parent", and I disagree with that statement. The call is >>a problem and the bigotry and hate are problems. Of course the bigotry >>and hate are far worse problems, but that's obvious.
>
> Ok--that's one parent who sees a problem with the call sign.
>I'm, likewise, a parent and I don't see one. Any other parents in the >group willing to contribute their feelings as well

You might look at the list of those described elsewhere as "ignorant bigots"...

>(not that it makes >any difference--the call IS legal and it IS Kim's call, so it's not a >question of any of us deciding if it should be used or not).

All I'm doing is expressing an opinion on the subject. Sounds like you think that anything legal is automatically acceptable, and those who disagree have no right to a different opinion. Correct me if I'm mistaken.
>
>>> We don't live in the 1940s anymore.
>>
>>So? Must we accept any and all callsigns as "modern"?
>
> No--but we DO have to accept the fact that social standards >change.

They do not always change for the better. I do not "have to accept" social standards that I see as being detrimental to society. No one in a free society does.

>It's perfectly "ok" to use the word "Tit" on prime time >network tv--which most kids are exposed to daily.

It is? Not on any network I've seen, unless the word refers to a small bird.

>If it's ok in THAT >part of the radio spectrum, why not in ours as well?

It's not OK, from what I know of broadcast TV. I've never heard that word used there
>
>>Nope. That word is NOT common on broadcast TV at all. And people ARE >>offended.
>
> Since I don't watch network tv (Enterprise excepted, I'm a >trekie at heart) I can't speak from experience. But I _did_ take the >time to ask several friends who ARE network watchers--and ALL stated >they heard the word with regularity on prime time tv. I can only go by >the word of others there.

I think they are either mistaken or pulling your leg. Cite some actual uses of the word on broadcast network TV (not cable).

And there is a BIG difference between broadcasting and ham radio. The standards are very different.

Broadcasting is done according to preannounced schedules. The content of programs is published widely, so viewing/listening decisions made ahead of time. Objectionable shows can be avoided without having to watch them or listen to them.

But ham stations do not follow a program schedule, and do not announce the content of their transmissions ahead of time. So it incumbent upon them to avoid objectionable content as much as possible.

> As far as offense goes--I honestly don't understand what is >offensive about it. Either it's a simple call sign (in which case it >CAN'T be offensive) or it's a reference to a part of the normal human >body. Does it offend you if the word "leg" or "arm" is used around >children? If not, why should "Tit" (or any popular term, for that >matter) offend you?

It's inappropriate in the amateur radio setting.
>
> I get very tired of people who claim that sex and the human >body are "evil" or "sinful" or that frank discussion of these topics >needs to be hidden from children. All that implies is that sex is >evil. What a load of garbage. Sex is--and should be--an expression of >caring, if not of love, and is as natural a part of life as breathing >or eating. I would no more want to hide that from children than I >would want to hide the existence of oceans or snow! Yet, if sex and >the body are normal and healthy, what on earth justification exists >for being offended by Kim's call sign?

I have not said they are "evil" or "sinful". Just inappropriate. Is nudity appropriate in all situations?
>
>>They don't seem to offend the folks on the Liberty net.
>
> No--minorities offend them. On the other hand, they don't >share the same values most of us hold.
>
>>But it sounds as if societal acceptance, or "community standards", is >>your measure of what should be on the air.
>
> Nope--that's the standard set by the people who oppose Kim's
>call sign.

Then what IS the criteria?

> I don't believe limits SHOULD exist on the content of >communications (limits on commercial use of amateur bands or the use >of ham radio to solicit interactions with children excluded, >obviously).

Why "obviously"? Why should those subjects be banned but not others?

> If a person communicates in a way that offends others he >or she should be subject to peer pressure (in the form of not >communicating with him or her, not by attacking him or her publicly) >but that's the limit.

That means you want to censor me. You're saying I should simply not comment on an inappropriate callsign. Nor should anyone comment negatively on the Liberty Net. After all, a negative comment could be perceived as "attacking".

For the record, please show where I have "attacked" Kim for her choice of callsign. My posts are all there in google.

>If there is any principle I support completely >it's that of freedom of speech.

What about responsibility?

>It isn't the role of the FCC to insure >that the airways are "safe" for children--it's up to their parents to >insure that they understand what they're being exposed to.

Just the opposite. The radio spectrum is public property. The ham bands exist for the use of all who can pass the tests, not just "adults".
>
>>Doesn't work that way, Rick.
>
> Neither does flaming her for exercising her freedom of choice >in this newsgroup!

Have I done that? Please produce the posts where I have done so.

>>Sure there's harm in it. Not much, but some. You don't see it, and she >>doesn't see it, but other hams do. Just a matter of opinion. Is it >>wrong for me to have such electro-politically incorrect opinions? I've >>got lots of them.
>
> What's wrong with it--OR with your non-pc opinions? Just as >she has a right to choose her sign, you have a right to be non-pc.
>
The term is "electro-politically correct".

All rights carry responsibilities. The freedom to choose one's call carries with it the responibility to do so wisely.

>>> Would you give up YOUR call if people here demanded you do so?
>>
>>If they could show how my call could give people a bad impression of >>ham radio, I would think about it. Might even do it if "community >>standards" showed it was not a good choice for the image of the ARS.

>
> Why?

Because I don't want my callsign to have a negative effect on the ARS. But nobody finds N2EY to be objectionable. It has no subtext.
>
> Simply because other people don't care for it is no legitimate >reason for changing a call you like. It isn't their business, it's >yours.

Sorry, that's not true. The ARS is a community. Community standards matter.

> And if a call can contribute to the "collapse" of the ARS, then >it has so many problems that it DESERVES to collapse.
>
Just the opposite.

> I was kidding about getting W8GOD (which, btw, IS >available)--but the more I follow this thread, the more I'm becoming >convinced that a controversial call would be a good choice--it might >contrast with the overly conservative nature of the ARS and encourage >potential hams who share my belief in free speech to join our hobby.
>I'm just not sure if I should apply for W8GOD, W8LSD, or W8POT--all of >which would undoubtedly create more controversy then Kim's call. Any >suggestions?

I don't find the ARS to be conservative at all.
>
>>But my call was not chosen for its attention-getting and giggle-factor >>components. It's not even a real vanity call - it was sequentially >>issued in 1977.
>
> As is mine (my third call--issued in 1985 as I recalll--the >first two being N7AVF and KA6POP).

WN3IYC in 1967, WA3IYC in 1968. I've been around ham radio a long time. But I'm not "elderly".

>Of course, the phonetics you use >for it (and if you use standard phonetics you are--as you well >know--in the minority) can make a difference.

I use the standard "November Two Echo Yankee" when the situation arises. What survey supports your claim that I'm in the minority?

> For instance, mine can >be presented as:
>
> Kilo Echo Eight Hotel Hotel
>
> Kindly Eat Eight Hairy Hamburgers
>

> King Edward Eight Harried Housewives
>
> etc.
>
> Some of those are very reasonable, some "silly," but >innocuous, and some a bit more "risque" than Kim's sign ever thought >of being.

Why not just use the first one? It's clear, concise, and does the job.
>
>>By the way, both W5KIM and W5MKW (Kim's initials) are unassigned. But >>Kim doesn't want a call like that. Her choice, of course. I don't >>think Kim is an evil person just because she chose that callsign. But >>I don't think it's harmless, either.
>
> W8RAA is unassigned as well--yet despite the fact that it >includes my initials (RAA), I don't particularly want the call. In my >case--as in Kim's--it's a matter of personal preference.

No giggle factor.
>
> And while you don't see it as harmless, you DO have to agree >that is a personal opinion, something not necessarily binding on Kim >or anyone else.

Never said it was anything other than an opinion. Is it wrong to have and express an opinion on this subject?
>
>>> Sounds to me as though the people here feel the call sign is a >>> lot more harmful than the FCC does.
>>
>>Is that wrong? Must our opinions agree with those of the govt.? Do you >>think that if something is legal, it is therefore OK to do, no matter >>what?
>
> Nope. But I DO think that if something is legal, and someone >chooses to do it, it's totally inappropriate to slam them in public >for their choice or to create a never-ending thread designed to make >them change their behavior (or, in this case, their call sign), don't
>you?

Please show where I have "slammed" anyone in public. And Kim is trying to keep this thread going till March - I'm just helping out.

>>Uh-huh. This is the same FCC that, until recently, required a 20 wpm >>code test for all amateur privileges unless a relevant permanent >>medical disability could be documented. Were they right or wrong in >>requiring that test until April 14, 2000?
>
> I have no problem with it--I passed my 20WPM in March of 2000, >despite having an 85% hearing loss.

Ya missed the point. The rules changed because people expressed opinions that the status quo needed to change. FCC actually took the minority opinion and made it the rules.
>
> On the other hand, I ALSO don't have any problem with the >elimination of that requirement. The FCC invited comments on the >issues and because it really didn't make that much difference to me, I >chose not to submit one. As a result, I tacitly accepted the ruling >they made.

Those who had a strong opinion on the subject expressed it.
>
>>> How about a third choice: Learn to tolerate that which offends
>>> you personally but doesn't hurt others and concentrate on stopping >>> behaviors that do?
>>
>>You avoided the queston, but I'll answer it. The greater evil is >>having a list of forbidden callsigns enforced by the FCC.
>
> No, the greatest evil is censorship.

Then why do you want to censor me?

>Whether that censorship >comes from FCC actions or from the pressure of a minority of licensed >amateurs is irrelevant.
>
The code test changed because of the pressure of a minority of those who expressed an opinion to the FCC.

>>The folks who run the "Liberty net" might say that you and I should >>learn to tolerate THEIR behavior because it doesn't hurt anyone.
>>They'd cite "free speech" and some such.
>
> I DO tolerate their behavior.
>
> In fact, if the jammers would stop interrupting the band, I'd >be perfectly willing to DEBATE their views on the air. They might not >like my views (I happen to be adamantly opposed to ANY form of >prejudice or discrimination), but if their arguments were stronger >than my own they would be completely free to present them and win the >debate.

That presumes their purpose is debate. I don't think it is.
>
> Free speech is an absolute. I don't have to like or respect >what a person is saying to support his or her right to say it. All I >have to do is look to see if that speech is designed to cause direct >harm to others (i.e., a speech calling for the killing of Blacks, >etc.), and if not I support their right to be heard.

But YOU are the judge of whether speech is designed to cause harm to others. Do you extend that same freedom to judge to others?

>
>>> Call signs like Kim's hurt no one.
>>
>>They hurt the image of the ARS. Which means they hurt hams who want >>the best for the ARS' future.
>
> Be realistic.

I am. I'm an engineer - we have to be realistic or really bad things happen.

> This IS the 21st Century.

Doesn't mean I have to accept stuff just because it's "new".

> Unless you want the >ARS to appear to be a dinosaur in our society you have to come into >the modern era--and in the modern era a call sign like Kim's is NOT >something that would damage the image of anything.

You are demanding that YOUR standards of what is appropriate be accepted by all. Doesn't work on me.
>
>>> If the FCC enacts a list of >>> forbidden call signs all they are doing is capitulating to the >>> pressure of a religion that teaches it's followers that the human body >>> is evil and sinful and cannot be mentioned in public.
>>
>>Nope. Religion has nothing to do with it. And please note that I have >>NOT called for the FCC to ban calls like Kim's.
>
> Really?

Yes, really.
>
> In that case, provide ANY rational basis for prohibition of >any form of sexual content at all. It doesn't defame, slander, or >otherwise harm non-consenting individuals. It doesn't call for >violence or prejudice against any group. It simply refers to natural >human body parts or functions.

All I've said is that it's inappropriate in the amateur radio setting.

Here's an analogy: Is it appropriate for me to comment on the "natural human body parts or functions" of my coworkers? If not, why not?

>ONLY religious prejudice makes frank >sexual terms and discussion into anything "offensive" and THAT should >be restricted to religion, not to government policy.
>
Not true at all. While some religions are "hung up" on the whole subject, it is really a matter of societal standards of behavior. In my case. religion has nothing to do with my opinion that some callsigns are inappropriate.

>>Consider this: When Mayor Giuliani took office in NYC several years >>back, one of the things he did was aggressively pursue "quality of >>life" or "community standards" issues. Like not tolerating graffiti, >>trash, aggressive panhandling, etc. He also went after bigger crime, >>but the "little things" got resources too. Some said he should >>concentrate only on the big stuff like murders and not bother the >>three card monte operators and gypsy cab drivers, etc.
>
> Let's look at each of those:
>
> 1. Graffiti: Legitimate opposition; graffiti defaces private >property, thus harming the person or property of a nonconsenting >individual.

Some people said it was "street art" and was protected speech.
>
> 2. Trash. Creates a health hazard for non-consenting >individuals. Of course, trash removal is a function of government, not >individual action.

The problem was that some people put their trash out too early, or in unapproved places.
>
> 3. Aggressive panhandling. Depends on your definition of >aggressive. If that refers to those who demand you give them money and >are threatening in nature, I agree--it violates the rights of a person >to be free of intimidation.

Who defines intimidation?

>IF you mean ANY panhandling, it's little >more than an attempt to "legislate" homelessness out of the community.
>Example: In San Francisco there's an organization called "Food Not >Bombs" who collect food donations and use church kitchens to cook hot >meals to serve the homeless and hungry. The city has decided to >prosecute those individuals for not having a restaurant health permit >for their kitchens (despite the fact that the churches are NOT >required to have one) and regularly arrests the volunteers who >dispense the food to the hungry. THAT is far more "evil" than any form >of panhandling could ever be--and it's proof that simply because a >governmental agency finds something wrong doesn't make it a fact.

More evil than ANY form of panhandling? I disagree.
>
> 4. Gypsy cab drivers, three card monte, etc. are ALL either >forms of fraud (3 card monte) or attempts to avoid legitimate >licensure requirements (as is freebanding). Those are legitimate >concerns.

Everyone knows the 3 card monte is a fixed game and that the gypsy cabs are unlicensed. Who are they harming?
>
>>But a funny thing happened: the rate of ALL crime began to drop in the >>city, and New Yorkers began to feel better about their town.

>
> Really?
>
Really.

> That's great for New York--but it has nothing to do with Kim's
>call sign.

>>There's a lesson in that for ham radio.
>
> Sure--prosecute those who violate the rules and concentrate on >cleaning up the airways. But that has nothing to do with her call and >everything to do with the jamming, illegal operations, and other legal >violations occurring daily on the air.

You missed the point. By concentrating on the little things as well as the big ones, life in NYC changed dramatically for the better. That's the lesson.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1605. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 05:09:01 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDD9EA.713EF932@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24602

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 05:52:40 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Rick Adams wrote:
> >>
> >> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 20:25:01 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> >> wrote:
> >>
> >> >Yeah, it is better but you still don't quite have it down. Try leaving > >> >out the word "arbitrarily" since I didn't come to my conclusion > >> >arbitrarily. Then try leaving out everything after "lack of class" > >> >since I didn't make that statement--you did. Now I think you have my > >> >view.
> >>
> >> Ok--since you state your decision wasn't arbitrary, I'm sure > >> you won't have any problem providing a scientifically FACTUAL basis > >> for your statement. Don't use "popular moral values" that has no > >> bearing and IS arbitrary. Use provable facts.
> >
> >No thanks.
>
> In other words, your statement WAS arbitrary. That's what I > assumed in the first place. Thanks for confirming it.

I didn't confirm it and I didn't use other words. What I did was decline to provide you a detailed explanation of how I arrived at my decision. Did I miss the part where such is mandatory?

Dave K8MN

1606. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 05:12:51 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDDAD0.4E91E2AE@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24603

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 05:39:46 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> > As to your last sentence: You've gotta find a new > >group of friends.
>
> Why--because his current group are too open minded for you or > because they violate your precious little narrow-minded values and you > can't accept anyone else having a different set of moral values that > are just as valid as your own?

Being open-minded and believing that there is no right and wrong are two different issues. My views aren't little though they are precious. To my knowledge you aren't in charge of deciding that they are narrow-minded. They are MY views however.

Dave K8MN

1607. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 05:14:48 UTC
From: sky444nospam@mint.net
Message-ID: <3bfddb55.343790303@news.mint.net>
Source record: 24604
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

what is a "shill bid" ??

On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 02:03:19 GMT, "Richard McCollum"
<rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote:

>According to the Economist for Nov 10-16 two profs have been running a >three-year study of E-Bay auctions (via a bot) with the following results:
>
>1. Items sold on a weekend sell for about 2% more.
>
>2. Pictures were worth 5.7% in 1999. This year, it is11.3%
>
>3. Having a decent rep is worth 6.8% and growing as experience is gained.
>Hey, guys win Nobel Prizes for discovering that you can get better prices >from people who trust you and don't build in a margin for getting the green >weenie.
>
>4. They are testing software to detect shill bids. You probably will never >hear about it on E-Bay but what better place to sell it when the time comes, >with a picture on a weekend of course. Should be fun.
>
>Dick
>
>

1608. Re: FCC hires private investigators - this is good!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 05:20:00 UTC
From: KE4JCD - Bob <ke4jcd@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <40lL7.125866$zK1.33100962@typhoon.tampabay.rr.com>
Source record: 24605
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

I have to say, I was once in CB radio for many years, and the stories about what the FCC is doing are getting better all the time. If you like to know what the FCC is doing, just witch when they show up at your door because your running an AMP, or out of band radio, then you'll find out for sure.. :)

I still hear that the FCC rides in white van's too, but the truth is that the FCC drives unmarked cars with a small device to track you down. You'll never know till they knock on your door... We call it fox hunting, just ask a HAM. I have tracked down many CBers who have been, as you all call it, bleeding on the 10 meter ham bands...

No private investigators needed... :)

Bob - KE4JCD
http://www.ke4jcd.org

"Leland C. Scott" <abuse@cotse.net> wrote in message
news:ykeK7.19$q46.1396@typhoon.mw.mediaone.net...

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
news:cuvyxnansvbet.gn218rc.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
> Either your acquaintance is falsehooding you or you are doing it to us.
>
> Which is it?

Neither one Phil. Seems like there is a CBer, who goes by the Handle of "Twistedhed", on the "rec.radio.cb" news group. He made some comments about freebanding etc., and I suggested that he contact you since you had in fact worked for the FCC doing some enforcement activity, and could give him the straight deal right from somebody who has done it. Needless to say he wiggled every which way he could to avoid the issue that he does not have to courage to contact you to ask some questions. In fact he's mad as heck about be branded a chicken on the group for not contacting you. So he spends hours forging messages from me (there are several on this group alone right now), or several others, as a means to get even, and hopefully to discredit the "framed" individual with obvious crazy comments in the messages. However it seems like he can't even get his facts straight for something as simple as the location of the Detroit FCC field office.

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LDO

ARRL Member
NCI Member

--
"I care about truth not for truth's sake but for my own."

Samuel Butler

1609. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 06:03:30 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfde74c_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24606

Ah, true, and thanks for the correction! Take McCollum off, Hans off. I was thinking it was people who generally disagree with my callsign.

Kim W5TIT

"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message news:3BFD41A1.1040601@att.net...
> >>>"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
>
> >>>>Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
> >>>Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
>
> >>>Larry
> >>>Dick Carroll
> >>>Richard McCollum
> >>>Hans (I am not sure though)
> >>>Dave Heil
>
> >>>Who else? I got to five.
>
> >>If I had said five, someone would have come up with one more. Say > >>Kim, are you going to have your picture on your QSL card?
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> > Well, that's OK if there's five, or however many. I just can't think
of > > anyone else...OH YEAH, N2EY, that thinks my callsign is detrimental to
the > > ARS. Jim makes six.
>
> No Kim...
>
> The list is ignorant bigoted hams...
>
> NE2Y doesn't belong there.
>
> I think Hans clearly doesn't belong there either.
>
> Rich...
>

1610. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 06:06:29 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfde819_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24609

Sorry, Jim! No, your opinion that a callsign is inappropriate does not make you ignorant or bigoted. It was my mistake for not realizing the "criteria."

Kim W5TIT

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011122160400.23334.00000784@nso-da.aol.com...
> In article <3bfd2cce_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> >news:3BFD1899.977E651F@IEEE.org...
> >> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >> >
> >> > "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> >> > > Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
> >> >
> >> > Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
> >> >
> >> > Larry
> >> > Dick Carroll
> >> > Richard McCollum
> >> > Hans (I am not sure though)
> >> > Dave Heil
> >> >
> >> > Who else? I got to five.
> >>
> >> If I had said five, someone would have come up with one more. Say > >> Kim, are you going to have your picture on your QSL card?
> >> --
> >> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
> >
> >Well, that's OK if there's five, or however many. I just can't think of > >anyone else...OH YEAH, N2EY, that thinks my callsign is detrimental to
the > >ARS. Jim makes six.
>
> Hmm - my opinion that a callsign is inappropriate makes me an "ignorant
bigoted
> ham"? Sounds pretty judgemental.
>
> Guess my electropolitical incorrectness rubs some folks the wrong way. Too bad.
>

> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>
>

1611. Re: FCC hires private investigators

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 06:09:23 UTC
From: voobner@yahoo.com
Message-ID: <fbc7a2.0111222209.4f464e5@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24607
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

vhfradiobuff@aol.comspamsux (VHFRadioBuff) wrote:
>I have little faith in the FCC. I contacted them with an intereference >complaint. My grandparents are getting horrible interference from their >next door neighbor, a ham.

What's his callsign? Have they (or you) tried explaining the problem to him? What's his response?

>It comes through everything - the phone, the stereo, the TV...

What does it sound like? Is it AM or is it SSB?

>they said they would only investigate if I had evidence of illegal >operation.

Who did you contact at the FCC?

-Aaron-

1612. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 06:09:51 UTC
From: CW <clinton.magers@home.com>
Message-ID: <PKIL7.61961$XJ4.35919151@news1.sttln1.wa.home.com>
Source record: 24608
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Ex army?
--
CW
KC7NOD
Web Page http://www.kc7nod.20m.com

"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
news:H7iL7.203791$W8.7635260@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net... > don't build in a margin for getting the green
> weenie.
>
>>
>

1613. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 06:12:07 UTC
From: CW <clinton.magers@home.com>
Message-ID: <XMIL7.61972$XJ4.35922459@news1.sttln1.wa.home.com>
Source record: 24610
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Bidding on your own item (or having someone else do it) to drive up the price.
"Skyhawk" <sky444nospam@mint.net> wrote in message
news:3bfddb55.343790303@news.mint.net...
> what is a "shill bid" ??
>
> On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 02:03:19 GMT, "Richard McCollum" > <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote:
>
> >According to the Economist for Nov 10-16 two profs have been running a > >three-year study of E-Bay auctions (via a bot) with the following results:
> >
> >1. Items sold on a weekend sell for about 2% more.
> >
> >2. Pictures were worth 5.7% in 1999. This year, it is11.3%
> >
> >3. Having a decent rep is worth 6.8% and growing as experience is gained.
> >Hey, guys win Nobel Prizes for discovering that you can get better prices > >from people who trust you and don't build in a margin for getting the green
> >weenie.
> >
> >4. They are testing software to detect shill bids. You probably will never > >hear about it on E-Bay but what better place to sell it when the time comes,
> >with a picture on a weekend of course. Should be fun.
> >
> >Dick
> >
> >
>

1614. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 06:12:13 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfde94f_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24611

Sigh It was a matter of my not paying attention to the criteria, Dick. I apologize to you. You nor Jim fit the bill for being ignorant or bigoted.

Kim W5TIT

"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:bdgL7.201088$W8.7624253@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
>
> "N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
> news:20011122160400.23334.00000784@nso-da.aol.com...
> > In article <3bfd2cce_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
> writes:
> >
> > >"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> > >news:3BFD1899.977E651F@IEEE.org...
> > >> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >> >
> > >> > "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> > >> > > Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams????????????
> > >> >
> > >> > Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
> > >> >
> > >> > Larry
> > >> > Dick Carroll
> > >> > Richard McCollum
> > >> > Hans (I am not sure though)
> > >> > Dave Heil
> > >> >
> > >> > Who else? I got to five.
> > >>
> > >> If I had said five, someone would have come up with one more. Say > > >> Kim, are you going to have your picture on your QSL card?
> > >> --
> > >> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
> > >
> > >Well, that's OK if there's five, or however many. I just can't think
of > > >anyone else...OH YEAH, N2EY, that thinks my callsign is detrimental to
> the > > >ARS. Jim makes six.
> >
> > Hmm - my opinion that a callsign is inappropriate makes me an "ignorant
> bigoted

> > ham"? Sounds pretty judgemental.
> >
> > Guess my electropolitical incorrectness rubs some folks the wrong way. Too > bad.
> >
> > 73 de Jim, N2EY
> >
> >
>
> When you of all people make a bigot list, there is some real question about > both the definition and definer.
>
> One of the great stories of WW2 had to do with rubber stamps. In the early > days, people being sent to Gibraltar had their orders and files stamped > TOGIB. Later when there was no good reason to send people south but > Normandy was close, the stamps were re-done which led to people asking each > other if they were cleared for the info by asking, "Are you a BIGOT?"
>
> If I am not nice to Techs nipping at my heels and killfile people who cannot > connect two coherent sentences so I am a bigot. Whatever cools your > tootsies.
>
> Dick N&#65533;BK
>
>

1615. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 06:24:29 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfdec29_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24612

```
"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tkeqc$1uo$0@208.206.142.82...
>
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > > news:9tic8t$mcm$1@208.206.142.89...
> > >
> > >
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > >
> > > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > > news:3BFC19EC.645BCA61@earthlink.net...
> > > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > > >
> > > > > > You're such a pussy.
> > > > > >
> > > > > > Kim W5TIT
> > > > > >
> > > > > It would be unkind of me to make any statements regarding Kim's lack
> > of
> > > > > class or tackiness.
> > > > > >
> > > > > Dave K8MN
> > > > >
> > > > Dave, you are unkind...very, very unkind.
> > > >
> > > >
> > > But accurate.
> > >
> > This, from a man who reads a book about a religion that takes years and > > lifetimes to understand, and thinks he knows all about it.
>
>
> Don't have a need to "know all about it", just enough.

Oh, don't worry Dick. I have no intention of confusing you with facts.

Kim W5TIT
```

1616. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 06:29:29 UTC
From: Bob - KE4JCD <ke4jcd@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <d1mL7.126096$zK1.33205545@typhoon.tampabay.rr.com>
Source record: 24613

I VOTE NO! It's a BAD IDEA! So was dropping the speed to 5 wpm... CBers with their nice habbits will come in droves. But then again, from what I been hearing on my HF Radio, it's starting to sound more and more like it each day.....

Robert Hartung
http://www.ke4jcd.org

1617. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 06:41:38 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tkr32$8nb$0@208.206.142.82>
Source record: 24614

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > This, from a man who reads a book about a religion that takes years and > > > lifetimes to understand, and thinks he knows all about it.
> >
> > Don't have a need to "know all about it", just enough.
>
> A little knowledge is a dangerous thing.

That's a good reason for acquiring more than a little.
But ass-u-me, as Kim does, that far too little is more than enough is
the mark of a fool.

1618. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 06:44:34 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tkr8i$8nb$1@208.206.142.82>
Source record: 24615

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > > All that drivalous pap is nothing more than verbal engineeering.
> > >
> > > You possess extra class license privileges, Dick. As such, you had > > > no choice except to meet the governmental requirements for an extra > > > class licensee. Why is that so hard to comprehend?
> >
> > I CHOSE to take those tests. No one forced me to drive the 260 one way > > miles to the FCC district office to do that.
> > What part of that is so difficult for you to comprehend.
>
> If you had chosen not to take the tests then you wouldn't be licensed.
> Therefore you were forced to take the tests in order to obtain a > ham radio license. Cheating is the only other way to get one.
> You were forced to take those tests because you had no other > choice except to cheat on your way to obtaining a ham license.

I will not get into another idiotic round of this with you Sir Senseless, so you can carry on as you please. The fact remains I had total freedom of choice. Under such circumstances only a total fool would continue to insist that I or anyone else was forced.

1619. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 06:46:28 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tkrc4$8nb$2@208.206.142.82>
Source record: 24616

Dave Heil wrote:
>
>
> You continued to act as if I had posted a deliberate lie due to my typo.
> It has been pointed out to you numerous times. Now I have included my > early postings as proof of my intent. You choose only to play word > games. Have fun.

Careful, Dave, you're playing right into his dictionary again. The one that says if it is a mistake it's a lie even if you don't know it nor intend it.

1620. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 07:16:34 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDF792.2A78325@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24617

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 06:46:57 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >> To respect, honor, and care for. Our vows were NOT taken in a > >> Christian ceremony and did NOT include "cleave only unto . . ." or > >> "obey."
> > >
> > >It's a lot easier if you can make up your own rules.
>
> I didn't have to. Since we weren't married in a Christian > ceremony, there was no reason to use the Christian form of a wedding > ceremony.
>
> Incidently, many Christian churches DO permit the people who > are marrying to create their own ceremonies--ask any Episcopal > minister.

I asked the one who sat at my Thanksgiving dinner table. He says you're incorrect as regards the Episcopal Church. The Church also has the say on what music is permissable or not.

> "Cleave only unto . . ." and "obey" are simply regulations > placed by religion, and effectively treat the couple as objects to be > possessed and controlled. I happen to view my wife as a person, not a > thing, and see no reason why she should be subject to vows which > restrict her freedom or require her obedience.

Yeah, I have the idea what your views are. I don't agree with 'em.

> >I submit that going along with such would make you a man who lets > >somebody else do his job as a good husband.
>
> You mean someone else is supporting my wife's and son's needs > economically, intellectually, and emotionally? Someone is taking care > of her when she's sick, cheering her up when she's down, helping her > with her tasks, providing her emotional support and encouragement, > standing up for her if she's threatened or attacked, helping her with > her research, and taking her shopping (among other things)?
>
> Who?

Let's see...Her dad could support her economically or she could do it herself. Her best friend could support her intellectual needs. Her sister could be her emotional support. A guard dog could ward off attacks and she could either drive or take the bus shopping.

> Or are you referring to sex as the "job of a good husband." If > so, I have to ask: What on earth makes you think of sex as a "job" in > the first place?

You used the word. Was is a euphemism?

> >My tongue was firmly planted in cheek.
>
> Actually, your foot was firmly planted in your mouth.

Actually, the meaning is lost since you snipped the portion of your statment to which I responded.

> >What agreements. You didn't vow to each cleave only unto...
> >She wouldn't be harming your person, only your psyche.
>
> True. But the lack of trust that would be implicit in that > behavior WOULD clearly indicate that a problem existed that needed to > be addressed.

To say the very least!

> >> As it happens, I _wouldn't_ be bothered if my wife decided to > >> have sex with someone w/o informing me ("sleep together" is pretty > >> inaccurate in this discussion, isn't it?)--on the other hand, it WOULD > >> disturb me that she didn't feel comfortable telling me about it and > >> would indicate that we needed to work on our communications.
> >
> >I'd think that'd be a considerable understatement.
>
> Not really. It seems to fit the concept rather accurately, > actually.

I think you'd have problems whether you were informed beforehand or found out later.

> >> Sure--but they would be basing their disagreement on religion > >> (you DID say theologians, right?). So what? If I'm not part of that > >> religion why should I care at all what the opinions of it's proponents > >> are with respect to my private behavior?
> >
> >That's right. You've pretty much indicated that you make the rules for > >yourself. Society and religion be damned.
>
> What does society OR religion have to do with my private > behavior?

I don't believe that any of us is formed without influence from society or religion. I don't believe that any individual brought up in a vacuum would have a clue about right or wrong. I don't know that any such individual exists.

>It would be idiotic for me to adhere to the values of a > religion I didn't believe in simply because other people do so in my > community--if everyone in your neighborhood believed their homes were > on fire would you start spraying water in your living room even though > you saw no flames or smoke? As far as "society" goes, try to remember > that society is simply an accumulation of individuals. Thus there is > no possible reason to assume that "society" has any more valid basis > for its rules than any individual who is a part of it.

That's poppycock. All individuals don't possess the same amount of gray matter and it only stands to reason that a society--your accumulation of individuals--will have a sum total of experience and intellect greater than any one individual can ever hope to have.

> So long as my actions don't harm others, it really isn't the > concern of anyone but myself--just because YOUR religion opposes a > given behavior doesn't justify banning it--only avoiding it yourself.

But society has always determinded which of your activities harm others. You don't have the final say.

> >> Personally, I sincerely believe that if we spent less time > >> telling our kids lies about sex and protecting them from reality, and > >> more time telling our kids about racism and violence and teaching them > >> to be "color-blind" we'd have a LOT better world than if we followed > >> the guidelines of ANY religion's theologians.
> >
> >It would seem that teaching a kid to be color blind would be an attempt > >to protect him from reality. Color is apparent. I disagree with your > >last sentence.
>
> Color IS apparent. It is also irrelevant. Teaching a child to > be color blind, as you know, is simply teaching him or her that the > color of a person's skin has absolutely no relationship to that > person's personality, behavior, intelligence, or capabilities. If you > insist that color should not be ignored then it could be added that > the color of someone's skin DOES indicate the clothing colors that > will look best on them and the degree of protection from burning they > should look for in a sun block. Fair enough?

Then don't use cliches like "color blind" when you mean to say that skin color is irrelevant. That should also be fair enough.

> >> Ok, name a single denomination that takes a public position > >> that the actions of non-members of their religion are NOT subject to > >> their "rules" or censure.
> >
> >The Episcopal Church.
>
> Really?
>
> Are you stating that the official position of the Episcopal > church is that if you are not a Christian it is perfectly acceptable

> for you to perform acts that would be considered sins if you were a > Christian?

Perfectly acceptable? I wouldn't include the adjective. Let's just say "acceptable".

> Are you arguing that the Episcopal church does not attempt > to convert non-Christians to their beliefs--and that they do not see > other religious beliefs as being "wrong" or inferior to Christianity?

Convert? Sure the Church attempts to convert others in order to spread the word of the gospels. Does the Church preach that those with different religious beliefs are wrong or inferior? No.

> >> Demonstrate that a single Christian denomination believes in > >> freedom of religion--including freedom to live by the MORAL STANDARDS
> >> of a different religion--is appropriate and teaches its adherents that > >> Christian morality and belief does NOT apply to non-Christians, and > >> I'll apologize for my statement.
> >
> >I offer the Episcopal Church. I can speak for no other.
>
> Are you claiming to be an Episcopal?

No, I'm claiming to be an Episcopalian.

> If not, how is it that > you can speak for the Episcopal church? And if so, and your statement > above is true, then justify ANY of your comments about the morality of > my views or Kim's call sign.

I believe that Kim is ignorant of the impropriety of her choice. Now, am I speaking from my religious or societal perspective?

> Since by your own statement, the > Episcopal church teaches that Christian morality and belief does NOT > apply to non-Christians how can you justify trying to apply those > moral values to me?

Are you asking me to attempt your conversion or are you asking whether I am speaking from a religious or from a societal perspective?

> Are you lying about the Episcopal church, or are > you simply a very poor Episcopal

There isn't a person who is an Episcopal. There are Episcopalians.
Why would I lie to you about being an Episcopalian? Am I perfect Episcopalian or Christian? Not at all.

> who doesn't live by the teachings of > his own church--but who insists others do so (in other words, are you > a liar or a hypocrite--your own statements don't leave room for a > third alternative)?

There are people who are totally ignorant of God's word. I've already told you that the Church attempts "conversions" if you like that word.
The Church does not require one to be silent when it comes to right and wrong. Being a Christian does not require one to clam up and not express one's views. Besides, I'm not a theologian so you'll have to consult one if you want the real skinny.

> >I find a number of your ideas on morals and religion pretty offensive > >too, Rick.
>
> On what basis?

Perception after reading and digesting your views.

> You, yourself, state that the valid grounds for finding > something immoral are religion and society. You then state that your > religion does NOT believe it has the right to judge the morals of > non-adherants which only leaves society. After eliminating the moral > views of society that are based on religion (to stick with your own > religious principles), there ARE no moral values left that address > either sex or religion. Thus neither religion nor society are the root > of your views of my morals. But, since you, yourself, state that it is > inappropriate for someone to live by their own moral values in > opposition to those of religion and society, clearly you can't be > basing your views on your personal morals either.

Who gets to judge which views of society are based in religion, Rick?
Is it you? Do you deny that some of your recent statements regarding Christianity would be offensive of any Christian? Society could find fault with your sexual views on public health or nuisance issues.

> Gee, Dave, I guess that means you don't really HAVE any views > on my moral values or views on religion at all--you just thought you > did. And, of course, since one of my moral views is that there is > nothing wrong with a call sign like Kim's, and since you don't have > any views on my moral values, you obviously don't have any views on > that topic either.

That's so much babbling, Rick. You just thought you had a point.

> I guess you've just been attacking her (and me) to see > yourself in print since you don't have any values to base the attacks > on.
>
> Sounds like a troll to me!

> >I don't believe that only a small minority of Christians practice their > >religion properly? You can bet that I don't accept that. That's > >according to you, the final arbiter on Christianity.
>
> Ok--find TEN Christians that practice the religion precisely
> the way it is intended to be practiced--in other words precisely as > the bible instructs them to practice it and I'll retract that > statement.

Any what, precisely is supposed to be my motivation for doing so?
You'll want to contact a church group in order to conduct your own research.

> That, of course, includes ALL the instructions in the Old > Testament as well as the principles given in the New Testament.
>
> >> Fact: There isn't an elected official in this country that > >> could win re-election if s/he didn't support the desires of the > >> Christian Churches in his/her district.
> >
> >Subjective and unproven. I'd bet you could find exceptions to your > >statement in certain areas of New York City or San Francisco alone.
>
> Let me get this straight. You are claiming I am making an > unproven statement and basing your statement on the _assumption_ that > you could find an exception in certain areas?

You made a sweeping and unsubstantiated claim. I did not base my statement on any assumption. I offered an anecdotal aside.

> Turn that around, Dave. If you want to accuse me of making an > unproven statement, then prove it's wrong.

Prove a negative? Good luck with that one.

> >> Fact: Local churches in every area, despite a claim that they > >> support a separation of church and state (probably only to the extent > >> that they get away without paying taxes like everyone else, but ...),
> >> present political issues to their parishioners (i.e., abortion, gay > >> rights and gay adoption, bans on prostitution, adult businesses and > >> other sexually related activities, etc.) as subjects that a "good > >> Christian" MUST take a stand on. Thus they deliberately attempt to > >> influence law in those areas--and are usually successful.
> >
> >I think they'd find much agreement on most items from your list from a > >group of secular citizens with no church ties at all.
>
> Based on what source of morality?
>
> With the exception of the Judeo-Christian religions, there IS > no basis for opposition to any of those behaviors or lifestyles. Only > with the entry of religious morality is sex (in any form except rape) > considered in any way inappropriate. Again you are basing your claim > that I'm wrong on what you "think" would be the position of others.
> Sorry, Dave, but unless you have research evidence that demonstrates > non-Christian (and non-religious) members of our society oppose such > things as limitations on gay rights, consensual sexual behavior > between adults, etc., you don't have anything but pure guesswork to > base your claim on--a VERY flimsy grounds for claiming someone else is > incorrect.

What part of an "I think" statement don't you understand? You don't offer any proof that your statement is correct. You'd have us believe that societies not based in the Judeo-Christian ethic have no sexual taboos.

> >I suppose that is some proof...an instance.
>
> Would you care for a few dozen more? I can easily provide > them--including court citations.

...but you didn't.

> >Really. The Netherlands is awash in social problems and programs. The > >tax rate is outrageous.
>
> You didn't state that the US had a better tax rate than other > nations (it doesn't, try Monaco or Saudi Arabia)--you stated that it > had more freedom. High taxes have nothing to do with that.

Certainly they do. Would you like to enjoy the freedoms offered by Saudi Arabia? Your sexual ideas would certainly be a hit there.

> As far as social problems go, we have VASTLY more in the US > than in any Western European nation with the possible exception of the > relatively recently reunited Germany. Again, that has nothing to do > with freedom--the subject of your claim.

Social problems indicate turmoil and instability and that has plenty to do with freedom. I disagree with your assessment that we have "VASTLY" or even any more social problems than in any Western European nation.

> >> Learn something about the world from a political perspective
> >> before you make jingoistic statements like that one.
> >
> >What do you think I did for a living, Rick?
>
> I wouldn't have the vaguest idea--but based on your statements > about other nations you did NOT teach political science.

I retired from the Foreign Service a year ago.

A gifted journalist once told me that you don't go to journalism classes to learn journalism. You go to journalism classes to learn to teach journalism.

> >Interesting that you mention Finland. I spent two years in Finland > >during one assignment and three years there in the mid-90s. My wife is > >a Finn. Finns have to import all oil and gas. They pay 40% of their > >income in taxes. Overtime work is taxed at 50%. Gasoline sells for > >about $5 per gallon. Finland has some of the strictest alcohol and drug > >laws in the world. It is pretty much a homogenous society so people of > >color are not normally treated with great kindness. The cheapest car
> >one can buy--a Russian Lada--sells for about $20,000 and my Dodge Neon > >is a $44,000 car in Finland. Prostitution is banned and that is > >strictly enforced (especially in light of the recent waves of Russian > >women who arrived since the breakup of the Soviet Union.

> >Tell me all about it.
>
> Again, you use economic issues to defend your claim that other > nations are less free than the US. Sorry, Dave, but that's a straw > dog. Talk about restrictions on RIGHTS--not about the cost of > gasoline.

Economic issues have a great deal to do with what we are free to do. You'll surely note that I addressed racial problems (the 2,000 Somalis who entered Finland in 1994 have not received the red carpet treatment) and restrictive laws on the purchase and consumption of alcohol sold by the state alcohol monopoly.

If you don't have money for a car or to purchase gasoline for it, you have a restriction on your freedom. If you can't afford the nearly $1,000 for a washing machine, you have a restriction on your freedom. If you can afford to buy an expensive Salora TV but can't afford the mandatory yearly government TV viewing license, you have a restriction on your freedom. If you don't have enough money to buy decent meals because your pay is taxed to death, tough. As OH2KMF told me after asking about some aspect of American life, "Well, in Finland we have lots of nice trees and rocks".

Maybe you'd like to add the typical "dark line" of Blacks, Middle Easterners and even Italians waiting to be questioned by authorities after arriving on a ferry from Stockholm or Tallinn.

There are all sorts of niftly little regulations like the one which states that you can't bring your drink to a table because you bought it at the bar. Perhaps you'll delight in the law which bases traffic fines not on the offense but on your personal income. How'd you like to receive a $700 speeding ticket? Would it restrict your freedom?

In the end, ask yourself why there are lots more folks from foreign countries coming to the U.S. each year than Americans who move abroad.

> >Please save me from this leftist rhetoric...
>
> Translation: Yea, I know, but I won't admit it.

Correction to translation: Please save me from this leftist rhetoric...

> >> My expertise on which matters?
> >
> >The "Everything-is-Okay" matters. Did you fabricate it because you > >decided you didn't like the rules society made for you?
>
> I didn't say EVERYTHING is ok--I stated that the ONLY > legitimate grounds for restricting any individual's actions are if > those actions will harm the person or property of a non-consenting

> individual. That isn't "everything is ok," it's "nothing that does no > harm is the business of society" a very different statement.

Who gets to make the decision on what harms society?

> >> Religion: Years of study. I've read, and seriously considered, > >> at least 19 versions of the Christian bible, several versions of the > >> Koran, the Buddhist Sutras, the Upanishads, and the religious works of > >> several other major and minor religions. I'm not a minister--but I > >> would argue that I have at least as much knowledge of the root beliefs
> >> of Christianity and Buddhism as most ministers you're likely to > >> encounter.
> >
> >Not unless you've gone through several years in seminary and a number of > >years of continuing education. I'll bet that hat of yours is a tight > >fit.
>
> In other words unless I've gone through a seminary and > continuing education I have no right to comment on a religion?

Not at all what I stated. Unless you've gone through seminary and years of continuing education, you assuredly do not know more about the root beliefs of Christianity as an ordained minister.

> Ok--fair enough. Since you haven't gone through several years > of graduate education in linguistics, you have no right to comment on > Kim's call sign, which is an expression of language.

Not fair enough. I never made the silly claim like yours.

> >> Only if you believe in his divinity!
> >
> >I do.
>
> While I don't. Thus you are bound to follow the teachings of > the bible while I am not.
>
> >> HITLER said he came to build a better world, too. Does that > >> mean I have to accept HIS values?
> >
> >I'll feel free to discard this as absurd.
>
> Why?

Try: Because it is absurd on its face.

> Because it's true or because you can't think of a valid reason > why the two SHOULDN'T be compared?
>
> >> And don't tell me there's no comparison between the > >> two--followers of Jesus have killed FAR more innocent people in his > >> name than followers of Hitler did in his own.
> >

> >I think I'll toss this one too.
>
> It's amazing how you can ignore the areas you can't respond to > yet expect others to believe you simply don't care to respond.
>
> It's stupid.
>
> But amazing.

When you begin the comparisons of the teachings of Jesus to Hitler, I quit. When you begin to compare Christianity to Nazism, I quit.

> >> Of course, in our society, attacking someone for their > >> exercise of free choice, or putting down women, minorities, or any > >> other group are ALL considered to demonstrate lack of good taste and > >> low class values, so I guess it's you, Dick, and the others who are > >> attacking Kim who are defined that way here--not her.
> >
> >There are good choices and there are bad choices. Having a free choice > >and using it wisely are two completely different things.
>
> Yup.
>
> You have the free choice to attack Kim and look like a jerk or > not attack her and eliminate that perception.
>
> You made your choice to look like a jerk.
>
> Congratulations! You achieved your goal.

Kim made a deliberate choice at a TITillating callsign. She exercised poor judgement. I'd say that the guy typing his fingers to the bone in order to defend someone's poor judgement is the jerk.

> >> No, I just assumed you were putting her down because of you > >> were "Programmed" by your family or religion to oppose her values, > >> actually.
> >
> >You mean like I assume that you are views are poisoned by your instense > >dislike of Christianity?
>
> Assume all you want. It isn't a dislike for Christianity--it's > an intense distaste for ANY group that limits freedom and rights on > the basis of their personal beliefs. I don't care if it's > Christianity, the Nazi party, or the "Dick, Dave, and Larry Self-love > Association," if a group chooses to try to impose its values on those > who are not members of that group they deserve nothing but contempt.

We're done now Rick.

> >> Where would you SUGGEST that I wear a 3/4 carat diamond?
> >

> > > Never mind--I can guess the answer.
> > >
> >You could give it to you wife.
> >
> As it happens, she has its mate.
> >
> I decided to upgrade the diamonds in her engagement ring as a > twentieth anniversary gift (the original ones were pretty poor > quality--but all I could afford at the time). To replace the center > stone I bought a pair of 3/4 carat diamond earrings, had one of the > stones set in her ring along with new side diamonds, and I wear the > other earring myself. She likes the significance that resulted.
> >
> >> Translation: If people don't agree with your narrow-minded > >> view, they have no taste either, right?
> >>
> >> Grow up!
> > >
> >I guess you told me!
> >
> I thought I did. Hmmmm. Yup, I must have--you responded to it.
> >
> >I'll give you a free clue. My statement needs no translation. Accept > >it as my viewpoint.
> >
> Ok. So you're narrow-minded. I can live with that.

What a narrow-minded thing to say. I'm surprised you can live with yourself after making it.

> >Remember the part where I mentioned Constitutional protections of the > >minority. Did I sound like I agreed with segregation? Do I believe the > >people in the South are or were a majority of the nation?
> >
> They were--and are--a majority in their states--where such > laws were enacted.

And we have your statement as proof.

> And your statement wasn't that the majority should rule except > when Constitutional issues are concerned--it was that the majority > should rule, period.
> >
> I'll be happy to accept the alternative version, however. Of > course, since the Constitution explicitly supports freedom of speech, > by necessity Kim's use of W5TIT is protected, and thus the majority > that you claim oppose it--yourself included--have no legitimacy in > doing so by your own statement.

I know and must assume that you know that even freedom of speech has its limits.

> >> In Georgia a man is serving 10 years in prison for having > >> consensual oral sex with his wife--a neighbor look in through the > >> closed blinds of his bedroom (from HIS yard) and called the police who > >> arrested him.
> >
> >That is the stuff of urban myth. This tale has now been going around > >for decades. Name the man. Name the town. Provide a date.
> >Besides, I asked about YOUR freedom.
>
> The conviction was in the Summer of 1996 (I don't know the > date, but I'll be glad to copy down the court citation at my office on > Monday and post it here then). As I recall the man's name was Matthews > and the town involved was Macon, GA.

Man, this guy has been convicted in the '70s, '80s, and the '90s. You'd think he'd learn.

> My freedom?
>
> Whether the limitations on rights affect me directly is > irrelevant--the key isn't whether or not my personal freedom is > restricted--it's whether anyone's is. Unlike yourself, I don't base my > values on what will profit me directly--I'm interested in rights in > general.

Funny. I could swear I asked about your freedom.

> >> In Texas possession of 7 or more dildoes carries a longer > >> prison term than molesting a five year old child--and THAT law was > >> passed less than 10 years ago.
> >
> >Urban myth.
>
> Statement of fact. Try doing your own research before you make > such claims.
>
> >I don't know the particulars. Do you know anything based in fact?
>
> Yes--but to the best of my knowledge this isn't an academic > forum where case citations are necessary in conversation. I'll be > happy to provide them if you'll agree to do the same for all of the > claims you've made yourself.

I'll be happy to use your own tactics. You either can't or (and this is one you've used several times) you are lying.

> I maintain a rather substantial file of court decisions and > verified news reports at my office and, assuming I start seeing > citations for all your own statements here I'll make it a point to > note down the cites for you on Monday. Otherwise, if you don't feel > like troubling yourself to post your own sources, then use the > Internet and verify them yourself!
>

> >> In Michigan, three clubs (all private and located in places > >> not accessible to children) were raided and the patrons arrested > >> because they were swing clubs and the members went there to engage in > >> recreational sex.
> >
> >Another one which you trotted out previously. How did this effect you?
> >Is this one of the freedoms you desire?
>
> Does it have to affect me directly to be a problem?

Again, you were asked about your freedom.

> By your standards, since I'm white I shouldn't care if blacks > are oppressed; since I'm male I shouldn't care if women are treated > equally; since I'm heterosexual I shouldn't care if gays are deprived > of their rights; since I'm of Western European descent I shouldn't > care if asians, middle easterners, and Eastern Europeans are > discriminated against; since I'm 56 I shouldn't care if children are > repressed; since I'm . . .
>
> Sorry, Dave, but unlike yourself I happen to care about the > rights of others, too.

Wrap yourself in the mantle of indignity, Rick. No one made any statement accusing you of not caring for the rights of others.

> You'll note that first you denied that any of these types of > influences existed then, when I demonstrated that they did, you > changed your line to "yes--but how does it affect you" instead. Give > it up--you are NOT going to twist the original points to suit your own > image.

Give it up yourself. There is no indication that anything you trotted out is prosecuted frequently. I asked you what limitations you have had imposed on your freedom. I note that you came up with none. If you'd like to paint yourself as some kind of advocate for advancing the freedom of others in this country which you indicate is oppressive, go for it. Don't expect me to be standing with pom-poms cheering you on.

> >> Also in Michigan (in Wayne County, to be exact) a man can have > >> his vehicle--even if it belongs to his firm or his spouse--seized and > >> sold at auction if he picks up a prostitute with that car.
> >
> >Has it cut down on women prostituting themselves? Are you going to tell > >me that prostitution is a victimless crime?
>
> No and yes, respectively.
>
> No it has not cut down on prostitution--people just park first > and approach them on foot. It HAS caused an increase in muggings > however, since these customers are on foot and by necessity have cash > on them.

>
> Is prostitution a victimless crime? Absolutely. Identify a > victim of the crime---is it the woman who voluntarily provides a > service for a fee, or is it the man who pays a fee for a service? To > me that sounds like a fair exchange with no victim. And don't claim > that "society" is harmed by it--a transaction between two adults is > none of society's business in the first place and thus CAN'T harm
> them.

You'd think that a New Age guy like yourself would welcome a reduction in things which degrade women. If you can't accept that one, I'll raise the public health issue and the potential for crime which YOU brought up.

> >You needn't continue. I'd rather discuss the matter with someone who > >has a concept of right and wrong.
>
> I do.
>
> I'm right.
>
> You're wrong.
>
> See?

No, I don't.

> >> If I did, I'd be arrested under state morals laws. So much for > >> freedom of choice.
> >
> >I've noted that a large number of your perceived "freedoms" revolve > >around sex. I can see where your rights have been trampled right into > >the mattress.
>
> They involve sex because the topic of discussion is morality > not personal freedom in general. And the legislation of morality is > one of the WORST forms of oppression the State is capable of > performing.
>

Damn! I thought the topic was Kim's lack of class in choosing her vanity call.

> For someone who doesn't want to discus sexual morality--you > certainly choose to do so when you attack Kim for her choice of a call > sign!

I'm willing to be fair. I'd feel the same way if a man chose a tacky callsign!

> >Yeah, but they're not accepted as normal. I don't need the stuff > >invading my home through TV (I'm with N2EY, I don't accept it). Again,
> >I note your fixation on sexual freedom.

>
> And yours on avoiding issues. Nice try.
>
Just observation of a recurring theme.

> >> By your opinion--not by that of others.
> >
> >Others have made that same opinion known.
>
> A few--not the "majority" that's being claimed.

I could have sworn that I said, "Others have made that same opinion known".

Dave K8MN

1621. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 07:22:17 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDF91C.D51BBD58@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24618

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 06:49:50 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Try to follow along, now. The question, which appears above (quoted > >attributes are mine) reads: Is that your overinflated view of your > >power?
>
> Interesting phrasing to the question. Presumably you won't > settle for anything other than a "Yes" or a "No" either of which you > can use as "proof" that I either admit to having an overinflated view > of my power or I don't believe I have the power to put you on the > defensive. Ok, I'll play your game:
>
> Yes, it is my overinflated view of my power that I have the > ability to put you on the defensive.
>
> Now it's MY turn to ask you a yes or no question (no changing > the question--you won't let me do so):
>
> Have you stopped abusing children yet?
>
> Remember, Dave. Yes or no only. Anything else is just being > defensive . . .

This one is incredibly easy. I noted only that you did not respond to my question after you indicated some confusion on your part. I did not indicate that I considered that a "yes" or "no" answer was the only acceptable response. So you presumed incorrectly.

To see it handled proplerly, witness my response to your question:

You silly goose, I've never abused a child in my life.

By the way, I don't feel as if I'm on the defensive. Better work on those powers.

Dave K8MN

1622. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 10:26:44 UTC
From: stewartx@sccoast.net
Message-ID: <6be98d7d.0111230226.3a575917@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24619

> N2EY@AOL.COM (N2EY) wrote...
>
> (snip) Some people say that Jesus > knew that some of those who wanted > to stone the woman had sinned with > her. (They had used her services, > so to speak, and were covering up > their own sin by killing the only > witness). He showed them that He > knew what their real motives > were. (snip)

That is interesting. It certainly adds another dimension to the story, doesn't it? I don't remember anything like that, but, after all these years, I don't really remember much beyond the basic stories themselves.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1623. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 10:47:44 UTC
From: stewartx@sccoast.net
Message-ID: <6be98d7d.0111230247.64baed17@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24620

"Larry Roll, K3LT" wrote...
>
> Yeah, and when that happens, how much > do you wanna bet that white teachers > (and any other white person seeking > professional employment) are suddenly > going to find the rules changed to > keep them from being considered a > legitimate "minority" for AA purposes?

Somehow, I just have a feeling you're absolutely right about that, Larry.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1624. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 10:50:27 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <TRpL7.193798$3d2.7980288@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24621
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

To quote the Economist," ... shilling, when a seller covertly places so-called 'shill bids' with the aim of driving up the sale price." When selling Dr. Schott's snake oil the huckster would plant one of his own in the crowd to buy the first bottle -- a person known in the trade as a shill.

"Skyhawk" <sky444nospam@mint.net> wrote in message
news:3bfddb55.343790303@news.mint.net...
> what is a "shill bid" ??
>
> On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 02:03:19 GMT, "Richard McCollum" > <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote:
>
> >According to the Economist for Nov 10-16 two profs have been running a > >three-year study of E-Bay auctions (via a bot) with the following results:
> >
> >1. Items sold on a weekend sell for about 2% more.
> >
> >2. Pictures were worth 5.7% in 1999. This year, it is11.3%
> >
> >3. Having a decent rep is worth 6.8% and growing as experience is gained.
> >Hey, guys win Nobel Prizes for discovering that you can get better prices > >from people who trust you and don't build in a margin for getting the green
> >weenie.
> >
> >4. They are testing software to detect shill bids. You probably will never > >hear about it on E-Bay but what better place to sell it when the time comes,
> >with a picture on a weekend of course. Should be fun.
> >
> >Dick
> >
> >
>

1625. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 10:51:49 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <9TpL7.193800$3d2.7980423@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24622
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Noop, kids in my neighborhood knew about green weenies long before we met Sam.

"CW" <clinton.magers@home.com> wrote in message news:PKlL7.61961$XJ4.35919151@news1.sttln1.wa.home.com...
> Ex army?
> --
> CW
> KC7NOD
> Web Page http://www.kc7nod.20m.com
>
> "Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
> news:H7iL7.203791$W8.7635260@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net... > > don't build in a margin for getting the green
> > weenie.
> >
> >>
> >
>
>

1626. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 11:09:59 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011123060959.03411.00000792@nso-cb.aol.com>
Source record: 24623

In article <3bfde819_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>Sorry, Jim!

No problem, Kim

>No, your opinion that a callsign is inappropriate does not >make you ignorant or bigoted. It was my mistake for not realizing the
>"criteria."

No biggie, just a mistake. If I had a buck for every one I've made....

73 de Jim, N2EY

1627. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 11:22:30 UTC
From: stewartx@sccoast.net
Message-ID: <6be98d7d.0111230322.5dd13266@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24624

CAM wrote...
>
> (snip) Unfortunately, teeth had to > be put into the law to force that > to happen and we are still paying > the price for racism.

Why are "we" paying the price for racism? I didn't do anything. I was a little child when blacks rode in the back of a bus or drank from separate water fountains. Certainly my dirt poor parents didn't benefit from racism, which means I didn't either. Since I can remember (going back almost 40 years), every black has went to the same schools I went to, rode in the same bus seats I rode in, and drank from the same water fountains. So, again, why must "we" pay a price when they've had everything I've had (and perhaps more thanks to AA) and I've had nothing more than them.

Perhaps more importantly, when do "we" get to share the benefits this country promised (equality, etc)? I'm in my late 40's, and affirmative action has been in place, in one form or another, for most of my adult life. Will it end before I die? Will it end before my children die? How many generations have to go by before the yoke of affirmative action is lifted from the shoulders of "whites?"

And, years from now, do you really think any of these minority groups are going to step forward to help the many "white" families who been negatively impacted by decades of affirmative action? For that matter, once minorities are no longer a minority, do you really think they'll ever end affirmative action?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1628. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 11:39:13 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <BzqL7.193822$3d2.7981725@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24625

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011123060959.03411.00000792@nso-cb.aol.com...
> In article <3bfde819_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >Sorry, Jim!
>
> No problem, Kim
>
> >No, your opinion that a callsign is inappropriate does not > >make you ignorant or bigoted. It was my mistake for not realizing the > >"criteria."
>
> No biggie, just a mistake. If I had a buck for every one I've made....
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>
>

That's not a mistake, Jim, its a gaffe.

1629. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 13:07:27 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011123080727.03411.00000794@nso-cb.aol.com>
Source record: 24626

In article <028833ADEBA69BBE.882EF94BB22E4E92.71A4EF907909FB94@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be >prevalent among may ham radio operators.

I don't agree, Rick. There are a few hams with those views, but most of the hams I've known are none of the above. Of course, a lot depends on how the terms are defined, and YMMV.

>This kind of attitude
>(exemplified by the Liberty Net on 75m and by many of the comments
>made in this NG) seems degrading to hams in general.

I'd say "They are bad for the image of the ARS."
>
> There have been threads in the past that addressed specific >racist problems, but so far as I know (and I'm far from an expert on >the news group) no thread has been created to discuss the concept in >general terms, and to examine the effect that kind of attitude have on
>the ARS.

allrighty then...
>
> From a strictly personal perspective, I firmly believe that >racism, sexism, ageism, and religious prejudice have no place in our >hobby--and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage
>our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--but >that's purely a personal view, not a hard-and-fast fact.

First thing ya gotta do is define what ya mean by racism, sexism, ageism, and religious prejudice. For example, is it racist to call people who are disturbing the peace "water buffaloes"? Is it sexist for me to say "Heidi Klum is gorgeous?" Is it ageist when someone calls me a "dinosaur" because I use CW on the air? Is it religious prejudice when Christianity is described as THE cause of sexual hangups in Western civilization?
>
> Comments?

Sounds good to me but ya gotta define the terms first. One person's -ism is another's free speech.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1630. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 13:27:30 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE4EC2.86C231CC@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24627

Dave Heil wrote:
> You continued to act as if I had posted a deliberate lie due to my typo.

That is a lie. I never said anything about your lie being deliberate.
Your typo was an inadvertent lie and I pulled your leg about it.

From Webster's: "lie - an untrue or inaccurate statement that may or may not be believed true by the speaker" A typo is an inaccurate statement especially if the typo spells a perfectly good English word.

But you still cannot prove anything I said by only quoting what you said. I have never before seen such a ridiculous approach to an argument.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1631. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 13:31:56 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE4FCC.8A9901B7@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24628

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > You continued to act as if I had posted a deliberate lie due to my typo.
> > It has been pointed out to you numerous times. Now I have included my > > early postings as proof of my intent. You choose only to play word > > games. Have fun.
>
> Careful, Dave, you're playing right into his dictionary again. The one > that says if it is a mistake it's a lie even if you don't know it nor > intend it.

That dictionary is "Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary", Dick.
How many copies of New Collegiate Dictionaries do you reckon are out there? That you refuse to accept dictionaries of the English language is your problem, Dick, not mine. Without dictionaries as references, communications is handicapped if not impossible.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1632. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 13:34:17 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE5059.FB796C9D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24629

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > >
> > > Rick Adams wrote:
> > > > Use provable facts.
> > >
> > > No thanks.
> >
> > OK, then I guess we will just have to acknowledge your > > wild-a$$ unproven speculations.
>
> You have a mouse in your pocket? Are you, in addition to your other > manifestations, now Rick as well?

It is traditional for a ham to say "we" when referring to himself.
If you had any knowledge of ham radio, you would already know that.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1633. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 13:35:12 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE5090.E761E105@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24630

Dave Heil wrote:
> I didn't confirm it and I didn't use other words. What I did was > decline to provide you a detailed explanation of how I arrived at my > decision. Did I miss the part where such is mandatory?

It is mandatory only if you want to be believed.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1634. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 13:36:53 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE50F5.F2AD069A@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24631

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > >
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > This, from a man who reads a book about a religion that takes years and > > > > lifetimes to understand, and thinks he knows all about it.
> > >
> > > Don't have a need to "know all about it", just enough.
> >
> > A little knowledge is a dangerous thing.
>
> That's a good reason for acquiring more than a little.
> But ass-u-me, as Kim does, that far too little is more than enough is
> the mark of a fool.

Too bad your knowledge doesn't extend to the English language.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1635. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 13:44:02 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE52A2.BC9AED37@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24632

Dave Heil wrote:
> To help balance the views, Kim. We wouldn't want things to lean too far
> to the left.

Leaning in the direction of freedom is definitely not leaning to either the left or the right. The liberal left is generally for social freedom and against economic freedom. The conservative right is generally for economic freedom and against social freedom.
Note that both are anti-freedom is certain areas. Libertarians are for both social and economic freedom, i.e. freedom in general.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1636. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 13:44:56 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE52D8.9C45AD3D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24633

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > I don't believe that only a small minority of Christians practice their > > > religion properly? You can bet that I don't accept that.
> >
> > That's easy to prove, Dave. I'll bet the majority of Christians > > eat pork. I'll bet you eat pork in direct defiance of God's will.
>
> It'll be a hoot watching you try to prove this one, Cecil.

Well, let's start with you, Dave. Do you eat pork?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1637. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 13:52:34 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE54A2.886BA45F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24634

Dave Heil wrote:
> Convert? Sure the Church attempts to convert others in order to spread > the word of the gospels. Does the Church preach that those with > different religious beliefs are wrong or inferior? No.

Don't know about your church but Southern Baptist churches certainly preach that "those with different religious beliefs are wrong or inferior". I hear it almost every Sunday. Did you know that Buddha, a good man who died 300 years before Christ was born, went straight to hell?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1638. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 13:54:52 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE552C.F5D51146@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24635

Dave Heil wrote:
> If it wasn't clear to you: The Netherlands has less freedom than the
> U.S.

The Netherlands have more social freedom than the U.S. Libertarians want more social freedom AND more economic freedom, i.e. more freedom in general.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1639. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 13:59:44 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE5650.704E147@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24636

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > We cannot discuss morality without discussing government's attempt to > > control morality.
>
> I don't agree with your initial statement.

So you would just put the blinders on when it comes to the government's attempt to control morality? Why am I not surprised?

> I don't have any > information that declares that all living in the South were against the > Civil Rights Act. Your fellow Texan and our President wasn't against > it.

I didn't say "all" and you just proved my point. Lyndon Johnson went against the wishes of the majority of Texans.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1640. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 14:07:18 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE5816.F5A1FFA5@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24637

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > If you had chosen not to take the tests then you wouldn't be licensed.
> > Therefore you were forced to take the tests in order to obtain a > > ham radio license. Cheating is the only other way to get one.
> > You were forced to take those tests because you had no other > > choice except to cheat on your way to obtaining a ham license.
>
> I will not get into another idiotic round of this with you Sir > Senseless, so you can carry on as you please. The fact remains I had > total freedom of choice. Under such circumstances only a total fool > would continue to insist that I or anyone else was forced.

You only had total freedom of choice not to become a ham. Assuming you didn't cheat, that leaves you only one way to obtain a ham license.
One way is not a choice, Dick, it's an absolute requirement. You had absolutely no freedom of choice in getting a ham license. You had to meet the requirements just like all the rest of us. Your choices were limited to a single choice, and a single choice is not a "choice"
at all.

If you obtain a ham license, here are your choices.
1. meet the requirements
2. cheat

There was NO other choice in getting a ham license besides cheating.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1641. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 14:09:31 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE589B.210B81EB@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24638

Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
> I VOTE NO! It's a BAD IDEA! So was dropping the speed to 5 wpm... CBers with > their nice habbits will come in droves.

It's been a year and a half so why hasn't it happened yet?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1642. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 14:31:02 UTC
From: Wong Foo Takeout <chuggachu444@aol.com>
Message-ID: <G4tL7.72$Kc2.6572@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 24639
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy

I sold a mint condition Halicrafters S-120 on E-Bay some time ago for $155.00 (+ shipping)

I found the S-120 at a local yard sale for $20.00 - a month earlier.

I was happy to have made a modest profit via the deal, and the seller was happy to get it for his collection. He even sent me a Certified Bank Check via next day mail.

I don't know about you, but I very much like E-Bay! :) :) :)

"Your Friend Bill" <"Remove The NO In The Reply Address"@coqui.net> wrote in message news:3BFDC8F0.4F7FDFCD@coqui.net...
> JAMES HAMPTON wrote:
> >
> > Richard, when they sell a Hallicrafters S-20R for close to $200.00, that's > > it. I do not do E-bay anymore.
> >
> > 73 from Rochester, NY
> > Jim
>
> According to hampedia, the top price realized on ebay for an S20-R is > $405.00 !!! Average has been 146.88 and lowest was 50.00.
> I would like to have seen that $405 one.
>
> -Bill
>
>

1643. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 14:38:36 UTC
From: Wong Foo Takeout <chuggachu444@aol.com>
Message-ID: <MbtL7.80$Kc2.9814@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 24640
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:TRpL7.193798$3d2.7980288@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...

> To quote the Economist," ... shilling, when a seller covertly places > so-called 'shill bids' with the aim of driving up the sale price." When > selling Dr. Schott's snake oil the huckster would plant one of his own in > the crowd to buy the first bottle -- a person known in the trade as a shill.

There is a VERY SIMPLE way to not be taken in via a "shill bid".

1) KNOW the item you want. Do your research. No excuse for this unless your lazy in which case you deserve to be sheared like a sheep.

2) KNOW the maximum price you are willing to pay --> IN ADVANCE !

3) If your maximum price is exceeded - POLITELY WALK AWAY.

4) REMEMBER ---> "There is usually another one someplace else you just have not located it yet".

Follow these 4 rules, and you'll never get taken.

1644. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 14:43:39 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfe6140_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24641

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tkr32$8nb$0@208.206.142.82...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > >
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > This, from a man who reads a book about a religion that takes years
and > > > > lifetimes to understand, and thinks he knows all about it.
> > >
> > > Don't have a need to "know all about it", just enough.
> >
> > A little knowledge is a dangerous thing.
>
>
> That's a good reason for acquiring more than a little.
> But ass-u-me, as Kim does, that far too little is more than enough is
> the mark of a fool.

Have you lived the life of a Muslim, yet? Have you been to a Moslem, yet?
Is Jesus mentioned anywhere the Muslim religion? Have you read more than one book? Have you listened to more than one or two folks about the religion?

Yeah, thought so.

Kim W5TIT

1645. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 15:17:22 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011123101722.20950.00000690@nso-cu.aol.com>
Source record: 24642

In article <cuvyxnansvbet.gn4enyw.pminews@or.news.verio.net>, "Phil Kane"
<Phil.Kane@no.spam> writes:

>On 21 Nov 2001 01:03:45 GMT, N2EY wrote:
>
>> >Did you hear the FCC is unhappy with Victoria's Secret for >> >their recent fashion show on TV?
>
>>FCC received about 50 emails complaining about that show. Perhaps >>supportive emails should be sent.
>
> When is the re-run scheduled? Sure beats old "Law and Order".
>
I don't know, Phil. The producers were talking about making it an annual thing, but the protests may make them think twice.

"Who Wants To Be A Millionaire" had supermodels on all this week. Their winnings went to charities.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1646. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 15:17:22 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011123101722.20950.00000689@nso-cu.aol.com>
Source record: 24644

In article <3BFDC8F0.4F7FDFCD@coqui.net>, Your Friend Bill <"Remove The NO In The Reply Address"@coqui.net> writes:

>AMES HAMPTON wrote:
>>
>> Richard, when they sell a Hallicrafters S-20R for close to $200.00, that's >> it. I do not do E-bay anymore.
>>
>> 73 from Rochester, NY
>> Jim
>
>According to hampedia, the top price realized on ebay for an S20-R is >$405.00 !!! Average has been 146.88 and lowest was 50.00.
>I would like to have seen that $405 one.
>
There was a really nice SX-88 that went for over $600, an Eddystone 898 DIAL (just the dial, NIB) that went for $280, and various ARC-5 sets going for over $300. But for me, the champ was the minty still-in-the-box unbuilt-since-1956 Heathkit AT-1. Those things sold for $29.95 back then, and were really not very good transmitters. The final price was $5100. That's not a typo - fifty one hundred dollars.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1647. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 15:17:23 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011123101723.20950.00000691@nso-cu.aol.com>
Source record: 24643

In article <BzqL7.193822$3d2.7981725@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:

>"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
>news:20011123060959.03411.00000792@nso-cb.aol.com...
>> In article <3bfde819_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
>writes:
>>
>> >Sorry, Jim!
>>
>> No problem, Kim
>>
>> >No, your opinion that a callsign is inappropriate does not >> >make you ignorant or bigoted. It was my mistake for not realizing the >> >"criteria."
>>
>> No biggie, just a mistake. If I had a buck for every one I've made....
>>
>> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>>
>>
>
>That's not a mistake, Jim, its a gaffe.
>
To quote a famous modern philosopher:

"DOH!!!"

73 de Jim, N2EY

1648. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 15:45:34 UTC
From: WW - KB9TMP <kb9tmp@my-deja.com>
Message-ID: <9tlqtt$q02$1@dagobah.blueriver.net>
Source record: 24646
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
news:H7iL7.203791$W8.7635260@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> According to the Economist for Nov 10-16 two profs have been running a > three-year study of E-Bay auctions (via a bot) with the following results:
>
> 1. Items sold on a weekend sell for about 2% more.

Makes sense, more people on the weekend to bid just like a traditional auction.

>
> 2. Pictures were worth 5.7% in 1999. This year, it is11.3%
>

Ever heard the saying about buying a "Pig In A Poke" ?
It may just be a Hoosier saying, so I can't expect you foreigners (non-Hoosiers) to understand. :)

> 3. Having a decent rep is worth 6.8% and growing as experience is gained.

Sure means a lot to me, that's the thing I look at next after reading about what the sale item is and the sale info. Needless to say "shades" and negative feedback mean a lot in this "caveat emptor" world.

> Hey, guys win Nobel Prizes for discovering that you can get better prices > from people who trust you and don't build in a margin for getting the green
> weenie.

I used to work in a new car dealership as a mechanic. After you have been around a few car salespeople you come to learn all about the dreaded "Green Weenie", normally the used car buyer gets it!
And the poor service people get left holding the bag to fulfill the promises made by the salesperson. ae "This car gets at least 75 miles to the gallon and NEVER breaks down!" On second thought maybe it's the service dept that gets the "GW" :0

>
> 4. They are testing software to detect shill bids. You probably will never > hear about it on E-Bay but what better place to sell it when the time comes, > with a picture on a weekend of course. Should be fun.
>
> Dick
>
>

--

'73' From KB9TMP

"there is no rule against being stupid"
-Riley Hollingsworth, K4ZDH

Sent via the LATE Deja.com
A.K.A. Google Groups
http://groups.google.com

1649. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 15:47:03 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tlqv802e79@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24647
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Skyhawk" <sky444nospam@mint.net> wrote in message
news:3bfddb55.343790303@news.mint.net...

> what is a "shill bid" ??

It's a bid that's made in an effort to run the price up. It's made by someone on behalf of the seller, who has no intention of buying the item. It's been done for years at regular auctions, but it's not as prevalent as it has been. In online auctions, a seller would probably have a second e-mail address through an ISP that he doesn't care about getting booted from.

1650. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 16:01:44 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3BFE72C3.90299DAF@sccoast.net>
Source record: 24645

CAM wrote:
>
> Don't know about your church but > Southern Baptist churches certainly > preach that "those with different > religious beliefs are wrong or > inferior". I hear it almost every > Sunday. Did you know that Buddha, a > good man who died 300 years before > Christ was born, went straight to > hell?

For someone who claims to hear "it" every Sunday, you demonstrate a clear lack of understanding when it comes to Christian, or even pure Southern Baptist, thinking, Cecil. Since a person can only go to hell if he does not believe in a vaguely defined god, Christ's birth had little to do with Buddha's fate (God predates Jesus - the prophetic son of...). In other words, Buddha may or may not have went to hell, but Christ had nothing to do with it.

Remember, Christianity is just another set of beliefs when it comes to God, just like Judaism, Islam, and so forth, are. Christians simply believe in the teachings of Jesus Christ when it comes to God, as opposed to the beliefs of other religions when it comes to God.

Jesus Christ's teachings can be found in the New Testament of the Bible. Jesus described those teachings as a "new covenant" with God. In other words, where there is a conflict with the Old Testament, Jesus Christ's teachings in the New Testament are to supersede that found in the Old Testament. Those conflicts (including the violence against other groups you mentioned in a previous message) remain in the Old Testament simply to provide a history of what existed before Christ's teachings.

Christ, in his teachings, commonly describes ALL men and women as the children of God, including those of other religions. So, while they may be misguided souls (in the eyes of Christians), they are not to be perceived as inferior. However, certainly some Christians, including Southern Baptist, may present that attitude. But that is not the teachings of Jesus Christ, or the beliefs of true Christians. This is all core Christian philosophy, Cecil.

One who hears "it" every Sunday should know all of this.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1651. Re: For E-Bay users

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 16:25:22 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tlt7202moq@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24650
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"WW - KB9TMP" <kb9tmp@my-deja.com> wrote in message news:9tlqtt$q02$1@dagobah.blueriver.net...

> Ever heard the saying about buying a "Pig In A Poke" ?
> It may just be a Hoosier saying, so I can't expect you > foreigners (non-Hoosiers) to understand. :)

Hey! That's a Pennsylvania saying!

1652. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 16:26:18 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bfe7950_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24648

It isn't just Cecil that is hearing these things. I hear it in nearly every theological discussion, bible discussion, religious discussion I am near or a part of. I hear it "nearly" each time I have ever been in a church. I hear nearly every time the witnesses show up on my doorstep. I heard it last night at the table with my fundamentalist brother- and sister-in-law.

I agree with you, Dwight, that it was not the teaching of Jesus Christ or the attitude of true Christians. However, when I stated last night, to the same brother-in-law, that Jesus never judged and condemned people to Hell, he stated that I was wrong--that the Bible is replete with Jesus speaking of people who would burn in places, etc. (he used specific passages from the Bible, but I cannot recall them). I don't know if he (a minister himself--of a Southern Baptist church) is MIS-interpreting some things or if the things he said are really there.

I do know that I don't think I ever saw something like that. It's really difficult to "argue" a belief system, because what someone believes is very personal, in my opinion, and very subject to their perspective on so many things (social, political, metaphysical, etc.) But, suffice it to say that I have heard the same things Cecil says he's heard; yet, I choose to ignore those kinds of sentiment. Like I said last night (and my brother-in-law nearly fell out of his chair): we all worship the same god, we just have different ways of doing it. I don't care how you get to "Heaven" just that you try to get there. It's in the "trying" that makes all good things happen.

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3BFE72C3.90299DAF@sccoast.net...
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Don't know about your church but > > Southern Baptist churches certainly > > preach that "those with different > > religious beliefs are wrong or > > inferior". I hear it almost every > > Sunday. Did you know that Buddha, a > > good man who died 300 years before > > Christ was born, went straight to > > hell?
> >
> > For someone who claims to hear "it" every Sunday, you > > demonstrate a clear lack of understanding when it comes to > Christian, or even pure Southern Baptist, thinking, Cecil.

> Since a person can only go to hell if he does not believe in > a vaguely defined god, Christ's birth had little to do with > Buddha's fate (God predates Jesus - the prophetic son > of...). In other words, Buddha may or may not have went to > hell, but Christ had nothing to do with it.
>
> Remember, Christianity is just another set of beliefs when > it comes to God, just like Judaism, Islam, and so forth, > are. Christians simply believe in the teachings of Jesus > Christ when it comes to God, as opposed to the beliefs of > other religions when it comes to God.
>
> Jesus Christ's teachings can be found in the New Testament > of the Bible. Jesus described those teachings as a "new > covenant" with God. In other words, where there is a > conflict with the Old Testament, Jesus Christ's teachings in > the New Testament are to supersede that found in the Old > Testament. Those conflicts (including the violence against > other groups you mentioned in a previous message) remain in > the Old Testament simply to provide a history of what > existed before Christ's teachings.
>
> Christ, in his teachings, commonly describes ALL men and > women as the children of God, including those of other > religions. So, while they may be misguided souls (in the > eyes of Christians), they are not to be perceived as > inferior. However, certainly some Christians, including > Southern Baptist, may present that attitude. But that is not > the teachings of Jesus Christ, or the beliefs of true > Christians. This is all core Christian philosophy, Cecil.
> One who hears "it" every Sunday should know all of this.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1653. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 16:34:22 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tlto202nk5@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24651

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFDCD9B.E0F65F@IEEE.org...
> I don't recall that prophet. Since Yahweh, Jehovah, and Allah are all the > same God, why don't the Jews and Muslims eat pork? Did Jesus eat pork?
> I doubt it very seriously. He didn't want to risk trichinosis.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

All I know is that if I go to the Second Avenue Deli and it's on the menu, then it's kosher enough for me.

1654. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 16:38:14 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFE7B76.7D760EAA@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24649

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> Since a person can only go to hell if he does not believe in > a vaguely defined god, Christ's birth had little to do with > Buddha's fate (God predates Jesus - the prophetic son > of...). In other words, Buddha may or may not have gone to > hell, but Christ had nothing to do with it.

I see you are not up on Southern Baptist doctrine, Dwight. Jesus was with God from the beginning. When God said, "Let us make man in our image", he was talking to Jesus and the Holy Spirit. Anyone who didn't believe in Jesus/Jehovah from the beginning is going to hell. Haven't you ever heard of The Trinity? What's the matter with you, anyway?
--
cheers, CAM, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
------== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1655. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 17:51:05 UTC
From: JR <radiobuf@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3BFDD428.2A4FBB5D@mailcity.net>
Source record: 24652

Then you should be about the least dangerous person around. ;>)

CAM wrote:

> A little knowledge is a dangerous thing.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1656. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 17:57:15 UTC
From: K0HB <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <b3442bfec47c724ba9a179cf116e2257.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 24653

Rick Adams says:

> Sorry, Hans, but it fails the critical "troll test."
>
> The author is both identifiable and an active participant in
>the newsgroup where it appeared.

Trolling is trolling. You don't get excused just because we know who you are.

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

--
Posted from 1cust222.tnt2.minneapolis3.mn.da.uu.net [63.20.215.222]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

1657. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 18:14:34 UTC
From: Jim Weir <jim@rst-engr.com>
Message-ID: <3f4tvtcl8s7jfufdv3d6ndmlnio529rg43@4ax.com>
Source record: 24654

"Anon" <Anon@yeqwbaq.net>
shared these priceless pearls of wisdom:

You impress nobody here with your ->connections or your vast knowledge,

In my humble opinion, the knowledge is more like half-vast.

Jim

Jim Weir, VP Eng. RST Eng. WX6RST
A&P, CFI, and other good alphabet soup

1658. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 19:13:57 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011123141357.03411.00000805@nso-cb.aol.com>
Source record: 24655

In article <3BFE5059.FB796C9D@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>It is traditional for a ham to say "we" when referring to himself.

Only in some circles.

>If you had any knowledge of ham radio, you would already know that.

Do you know where that practice comes from? How about the folks who laugh by saying "hi hi"?

73 de Jim, N2EY

1659. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 19:13:57 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011123141357.03411.00000804@nso-cb.aol.com>
Source record: 24656

In article <3BFE54A2.886BA45F@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Don't know about your church but Southern Baptist churches certainly >preach that "those with different religious beliefs are wrong or >inferior". I hear it almost every Sunday. Did you know that Buddha, >a good man who died 300 years before Christ was born, went straight >to hell?

If that is what you believe, Cecil, what's the problem? If it's not what you believe, why do you go there?

73 de Jim, N2EY

1660. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 19:13:58 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011123141358.03411.00000806@nso-cb.aol.com>
Source record: 24657

In article <3bfe7950_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>It isn't just Cecil that is hearing these things. I hear it in nearly every >theological discussion, bible discussion, religious discussion I am near or >a part of. I hear it "nearly" each time I have ever been in a church. I >hear nearly every time the witnesses show up on my doorstep. I heard it >last night at the table with my fundamentalist brother- and sister-in-law.

You mean how "other" religions are "wrong"? That's part of the boilerplate - if a church says other religions aren't "wrong", there's no reason for that church to exist.

If you mean "evil", then I know of some religious organizations that doesn't categorize others as "evil", just "mistaken".
>
>I agree with you, Dwight, that it was not the teaching of Jesus Christ or >the attitude of true Christians.

Agreed.

> However, when I stated last night, to the >same brother-in-law, that Jesus never judged and condemned people to Hell, >he stated that I was wrong--that the Bible is replete with Jesus speaking of >people who would burn in places, etc. (he used specific passages from the >Bible, but I cannot recall them). I don't know if he (a minister >himself--of a Southern Baptist church) is MIS-interpreting some things or if >the things he said are really there.

The things I remember JC saying were that IF such-and-such a person did so-and-so and did not repent, that person would not go to heaven. He did not do the condemning, the person's actions did.

Best explanation I ever heard of this was that Jesus was actually a scientist. His job here was to explain how the "moral universe" works. For example, a chemist explains that if you mix Chemical A with Chemical B you'll get Chemical C, a big noise, and energetic disassembly of anything near the mixing site. Jesus explains that if you do Action A with Attitude B you'll get Results C in your moral life.
>
>I do know that I don't think I ever saw something like that.

The only time I recall that He got angry was when he chased the moneychangers out of the temple.

>It's really >difficult to "argue" a belief system, because what someone believes is very >personal, in my opinion, and very subject to their perspective on so many >things (social, political, metaphysical, etc.) But, suffice it to say that >I have heard the same things Cecil says he's heard; yet, I choose to ignore >those kinds of sentiment. Like I said last night (and my brother-in-law >nearly fell out of his chair): we all worship the same god, we just have >different ways of doing it.

His definition of God may be very different from yours, though.

>I don't care how you get to "Heaven" just that >you try to get there. It's in the "trying" that makes all good things >happen.
>
Also lots of bad things. I think the Sept 11 hijackers thought they were trying to get to heaven. At least some of the Taliban probably believe that what they are doing, and what they did as rulers, is/was God's will.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1661. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 19:23:08 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn9g200.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24658

On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 02:45:49 GMT, BH wrote:

>I can see this for installing non-type accepted amateur gear, but >do not see how this applies for using the installed aircraft comms >that can operate on the ham bands.
>
That is covered by:

Sec. 97.11 Stations aboard ships or aircraft.

(b) The station must be separate from and independent of all other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft, except a common antenna may be shared with a voluntary ship radio installation......

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1662. Re: FCC hires private investigators

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 19:23:08 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn9g5p1.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24659

On 22 Nov 2001 22:09:23 -0800, Aaron H. Voobner wrote:

>>they said they would only investigate if I had evidence of illegal >>operation.
>
>Who did you contact at the FCC?

The above has been FCC policy for many years. It does not make any difference whom one contacts at the FCC.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1663. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 19:23:12 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn9gnf2.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24660

On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 02:40:04 GMT, BH wrote:

>> Don't let the company's lawyers hear that....if he's the pilot on >> duty, boredom is not an option.
>
>I have several neighbors who are airline pilots, they all say that >between take offs and landings, the time is very boring, the plane >is on auto pilot and not much to do.

My pilot friends tell me the same thing. But for legal (i.e. CYA) purposes, one better not ever give the company lawyers (or FAA investigators if it ever comes to that point) any idea that they are on duty and in command of the aircraft with anything but full alertness and attention to duty or that they are doing anything but required and official duties during that time.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1664. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 19:53:53 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gn9iul4.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24661

On 23 Nov 2001 19:13:58 GMT, N2EY wrote:

>You mean how "other" religions are "wrong"? That's part of the >boilerplate - if a church says other religions aren't "wrong", there's >no reason for that church to exist.

Jewish theology teaches that ours is not the "one and only" "right"
faith and therefore all others are "wrong".

It teaches that moral living is the "right" way, no matter which faith one adheres to in doing it.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1665. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 20:20:29 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFEAF8D.909C0CEE@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24662

"Jim Bromley, K7JEB" wrote:
> OK, OK, I just had to find that image and do it.
> My apologies for posting a binary attachment.

Talk about bad taste. :-)
--
cheers, CAM, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1666. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 20:22:45 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFEB015.CAC7B028@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24663

JR wrote:

> CAM wrote:
> > A little knowledge is a dangerous thing.

> Then you should be about the least dangerous person around. ;>)

Well, thank you JR. I didn't know you cared.
--
cheers, CAM, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1667. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 20:26:29 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFEB0F5.B4F5DF1F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24665

N2EY wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> >It is traditional for a ham to say "we" when referring to himself.
>
> Only in some circles.
>
> >If you had any knowledge of ham radio, you would already know that.
>
> Do you know where that practice comes from? How about the folks who laugh by > saying "hi hi"?

Actually, I don't. I suppose it comes from not being able to see everybody over the radio. And some of my best friends say "hi hi".
I suppose it is to keep the microphone dry.
--
cheers, CAM, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1668. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 20:29:03 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFEB18F.A9976DE3@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24664

N2EY wrote:
> If that is what you believe, Cecil, what's the problem?

That's not what I believe.

> If it's not what you believe, why do you go there?

For God's sake, I'm lead bass in the choir.
--
cheers, CAM, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

1669. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 21:00:31 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tmdb8016di@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24666

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011123141357.03411.00000805@nso-cb.aol.com...
> Do you know where that practice comes from? How about the folks who laugh
by > saying "hi hi"?

Hearing someone say "hi hi" instead of actually laughing makes me believe that their own jokes are so stupid, that they themselves can't even laugh at them.

1670. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 21:54:27 UTC
From: JR <radiobuf@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3BFE0D33.BCBF73E6@mailcity.net>
Source record: 24667

.... (hi hi) is how you express laughter in code, for some weird reason some hams use it on phone as well. Why not just laugh?

N2EY wrote:
.
>
> Do you know where that practice comes from? How about the folks who laugh by > saying "hi hi"?
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY

1671. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 22:03:53 UTC
From: BH <radioguyx@texxas.net>
Message-ID: <3BFE0F66.76192ABC@texxas.net>
Source record: 24668

What about on board US Navy ships? I have talked to and run phone patches for Navy personal using the ships communications that had the capability of operating on the ham bands. Even talked to one radio operator in Hawaii as they were sitting on the tarmac in a Navy sea plane, he was using the regular comms. Talked to him about 15 minutes then he had to QRT as they were getting ready for take off.

Phil Kane wrote:
>
> On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 02:45:49 GMT, BH wrote:
>
> >I can see this for installing non-type accepted amateur gear, but > >do not see how this applies for using the installed aircraft comms > >that can operate on the ham bands.
> >
> That is covered by:
>
> Sec. 97.11 Stations aboard ships or aircraft.
>
> (b) The station must be separate from and independent of all
> other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft, except
> a common antenna may be shared with a voluntary ship radio > installation......
>
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1672. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 22:16:34 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011123171634.09533.00001139@mb-fy.aol.com>
Source record: 24669

>Subject: Re: Airmobile Hams
>From: BH radioguyx@texxas.net
>Date: 11/23/2001 4:03 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3BFE0F66.76192ABC@texxas.net>

>What about on board US Navy ships?

Navy?! Hell...FORGET about the FCC! You do ANYTHING on THAT vessel without the CO's consent...ESPECIALLY something that can hazard the vessel, and some Part 97 infractions are your LAST worry!

Most Navy warships are built in such a way as to minimize RF hazards to the crew AND to minimize the likelyhood that RF will give away the ships location, type, etc. You operate a radio on board that ship that hasn't had the ship's Comminications Officer's blessing and you might be the recipient of an all expenses paid trip to Kansas, ToTo!

Sheeesh!

1673. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-23 23:28:51 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tmm1f0v02@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24670

"JR" <radiobuf@mailcity.net> wrote in message news:3BFE0D33.BCBF73E6@mailcity.net...
> .... (hi hi) is how you express laughter in code, for > some weird reason some hams use it on phone as well. Why not just > laugh?

Because they think that cute=funny. It's like that stupid "Dude, you're gettin' a Dell" commercial, or the Gateway commercials with the guy talking to his pet cow. People who do such things are saying, "Look at me! I'm being funny!" You can only get away with this if you're wearing red and white makeup, baggy clothes that clash, and performing in front of people whose age has not yet reached double digits. The replacement DJ in "Good Morning, Vietnam!" is a perfect example of this type of thinking.

1674. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 01:03:57 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011123200357.03527.00000386@nso-mj.aol.com>
Source record: 24671

In article <3BFEB0F5.B4F5DF1F@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>>
>> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>> >It is traditional for a ham to say "we" when referring to himself.
>>
>> Only in some circles.
>>
>> >If you had any knowledge of ham radio, you would already know that.
>>
>> Do you know where that practice comes from? How about the folks who laugh
>by >> saying "hi hi"?
>
>Actually, I don't. I suppose it comes from not being able to see >everybody over the radio.

My information is that the "we" referred to "me and the rig". Dates back to when most 'phone rigs were homebrew and represented a serious investment of time, money and expertise.

> And some of my best friends say "hi hi".
>I suppose it is to keep the microphone dry.

Some of my best friends do the same. I used to think that it was an affectation derived from 'phone guys trying to sound like they use CW so much they can't stop using the abbreviations. (In this same line are the use of "kay" instead of "over" and Q signals on voice for absolutely everything, even when regular words are shorter and clearer). An alternate explanation is that, due to the simplex nature of most 'phone operation, when Op A tells Op B a joke, Op B's laughter isn't heard by Op A. So either Op B can try to fake a laugh on the next transmission, or Op B uses the "hi hi" as a standardized laugh.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1675. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 01:42:06 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tmtte$st9$0@208.207.71.169>
Source record: 24672

CAM wrote:
>
> Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
> > I VOTE NO! It's a BAD IDEA! So was dropping the speed to 5 wpm... CBers with > > their nice habbits will come in droves.
>
> It's been a year and a half so why hasn't it happened yet?

They've been coming in droves for some time now....the droves will just get larger.

1676. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 01:47:56 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tmu8c$st9$1@208.207.71.169>
Source record: 24673

N2EY wrote:
>
> In article <028833ADEBA69BBE.882EF94BB22E4E92.71A4EF907909FB94@lp.airnews.net>,
> Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>
> >A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be > >prevalent among may ham radio operators.
>
> I don't agree, Rick. There are a few hams with those views, but most of the > hams I've known are none of the above. Of course, a lot depends on how the > terms are defined, and YMMV.
>
> >This kind of attitude
> >(exemplified by the Liberty Net on 75m and by many of the comments > >made in this NG) seems degrading to hams in general.
>
> I'd say "They are bad for the image of the ARS."
> >
> > There have been threads in the past that addressed specific > >racist problems, but so far as I know (and I'm far from an expert on > >the news group) no thread has been created to discuss the concept in > >general terms, and to examine the effect that kind of attitude have on
> >the ARS.
>
> allrighty then...
> >
> > From a strictly personal perspective, I firmly believe that > >racism, sexism, ageism, and religious prejudice have no place in our > >hobby--and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage
> >our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--but > >that's purely a personal view, not a hard-and-fast fact.
>
> First thing ya gotta do is define what ya mean by racism, sexism, ageism, and > religious prejudice. For example, is it racist to call people who are > disturbing the peace "water buffaloes"? Is it sexist for me to say "Heidi Klum > is gorgeous?" Is it ageist when someone calls me a "dinosaur" because I use CW > on the air? Is it religious prejudice when Christianity is described as THE > cause of sexual hangups in Western civilization?
> >
> > Comments?
>
> Sounds good to me but ya gotta define the terms first. One person's -ism is > another's free speech.

Rick won't be happy unless he can write all the rules for everyone else whilst maintaining his charade of "free love and everything else for all, etc"....

1677. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 01:53:09 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tmui5$st9$2@208.207.71.169>
Source record: 24674

```
Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > news:9tkr32$8nb$0@208.206.142.82...
> >
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > > This, from a man who reads a book about a religion that takes years
> and > > > > > lifetimes to understand, and thinks he knows all about it.
> > > >
> > > > Don't have a need to "know all about it", just enough.
> > >
> > > A little knowledge is a dangerous thing.
> >
> >
> > That's a good reason for acquiring more than a little.
> > But ass-u-me, as Kim does, that far too little is more than enough is
> > the mark of a fool.
>
> Have you lived the life of a Muslim, yet? Have you been to a Moslem, yet?
> Is Jesus mentioned anywhere the Muslim religion? Have you read more than > one book? Have you listened to more than one or two folks about the > religion?
>
> Yeah, thought so.

You didn't think at all. It would only reasonable that any female would run for her life from Islam, for obvious reasons. So you love it.
Figures.
```

1678. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 01:55:09 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tmult$st9$3@208.207.71.169>
Source record: 24675

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Sigh It was a matter of my not paying attention

If brains were dollars you still couldn't pay attention.

1679. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 02:03:22 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tmv5a$41s$0@208.207.71.169>
Source record: 24676

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 05:39:46 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> > As to your last sentence: You've gotta find a new > >group of friends.
>
> Why--because his current group are too open minded for you or > because they violate your precious little narrow-minded values and you > can't accept anyone else having a different set of moral values that > are just as valid as your own?
>
> Rick
>
>

Dick McCullom is right on - Rick is so openminded the wind blows through.
As for Kim, she reminds me of a sign I saw on a local truck stop that said "Topless Waitresses - Nothing Above the Neck".

1680. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 02:20:24 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3BFF04D2.5020300@att.net>
Source record: 24677

Dick Carroll wrote:

> It would only reasonable that any female would > run for her life from Islam, for obvious reasons.

There you go again, Carroll, throwing the baby out with the bath water...

You insist on being eternaly wrong, painting with those, very , very broad strokes of your's...

You're getting dangerously close to becoming a laughing stock here with your zealous attempt at being the 'top schlemiel'...

Rich

1681. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 02:59:15 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tn2e3dpm0@208.207.71.146>
Source record: 24678

CAM wrote:
>
> N2EY wrote:
> > If that is what you believe, Cecil, what's the problem?
>
> That's not what I believe.
>
> > If it's not what you believe, why do you go there?
>
> For God's sake, I'm lead bass in the choir.

See? he's gotten himself trapped in an intolerable situation and can't figure out how to extricate himself.

1682. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 03:09:35 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tn31ffrh0@208.207.71.146>
Source record: 24679

Steve Robeson K4YZ wrote:
>
> >Subject: Re: Airmobile Hams
> >From: BH radioguyx@texxas.net
> >Date: 11/23/2001 4:03 PM Central Standard Time
> >Message-id: <3BFE0F66.76192ABC@texxas.net>
>
> >What about on board US Navy ships?
>
> Navy?! Hell...FORGET about the FCC! You do ANYTHING on THAT vessel > without the CO's consent...ESPECIALLY something that can hazard the vessel, and > some Part 97 infractions are your LAST worry!
>

Not only that, the FCC has nothong to do with what the military does.
That authority comes from elsewhere.

1683. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 03:11:17 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFF0FD5.4D891AA1@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24680

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > N2EY wrote:
> > > If that is what you believe, Cecil, what's the problem?
> >
> > That's not what I believe.
> >
> > > If it's not what you believe, why do you go there?
> >
> > For God's sake, I'm lead bass in the choir.
>
> See? he's gotten himself trapped in an intolerable situation and can't > figure out how to extricate himself.

Singing in the church choir is one of my few joys in this hick town. But my specialty is "The Rodeo Song".
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1684. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 03:16:37 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFF1115.6B74EE08@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24682

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Rick won't be happy unless he can write all the rules for everyone else > whilst maintaining his charade of "free love and everything else for > all, etc"....

I (and probably Rick) don't want to "write all the rules for everyone else".
We want everyone to have the freedom to adopt his/her own rules as long as there are no victims of force or threat of force. You, OTOH, would like to limit the freedom of others and force them to obey your emotional whims.
Why do you want to stick your ugly nose in other people's business? What is wrong with live and let live?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1685. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 03:16:58 UTC
From: BH <radioguyx@texxas.net>
Message-ID: <3BFE58CB.75DDFE8C@texxas.net>
Source record: 24681

Like the cbers referring to s-meter readings as pounds. "You're puttin 20 pounds on me, you got a roger on that?"

Krell wrote:
>
> Because they think that cute=funny. It's like that stupid "Dude, you're > gettin' a Dell" commercial, or the Gateway commercials with the guy talking > to his pet cow. People who do such things are saying, "Look at me! I'm being > funny!" You can only get away with this if you're wearing red and white > makeup, baggy clothes that clash, and performing in front of people whose > age has not yet reached double digits.

Or their IQ.

1686. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 03:20:25 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFF11F9.65BA4E2C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24683

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
> > > I VOTE NO! It's a BAD IDEA! So was dropping the speed to 5 wpm... CBers with > > > their nice habbits will come in droves.
> > >
> > It's been a year and a half so why hasn't it happened yet?
>
> They've been coming in droves for some time now....the droves will just
> get larger.

Droves????? The ham population is virtually unchanged. Most of what has happened is tech+'s upgrading to general and generals/advanced upgrading to extra. Exactly where are those "droves", Dick? (FYI, the sky is not hard and cannot fall.)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1687. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 04:01:11 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tn627$ok5$0@208.206.142.74>
Source record: 24684

CAM wrote:
>
> Why do you want to stick your ugly nose in other people's business?

Why do you want to stick your business in other people's nose?

1688. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 04:07:30 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tn6e2$q30$0@208.206.142.74>
Source record: 24685

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 02:49:17 GMT, Nonya Bidniz <no_email@all.gov>
> wrote:
>
> >Not at all fair to the kid who is then going to walk into a > >neighborhood populated entirely by minority members and very possibly > >get his butt kicked in, wallet stolen, car trashed, etc. because > >nobody bothered to tell him the truth.
>
> Except that the truth happens to be that the danger of violent > crime is inversely proportional to the income level of the > neighborhood. It doesn't matter if the residents are black, white, > yellow, red, or green for that matter--if they are poor there will be > a high crime rate, if they aren't there won't.

You can blow smoke out your posterior until it's too sore to sit on,
but you can't change the fact that any kid soon learns that most of the crime comes from and within the ghetto, and guess what the ghetto is mostly populated with? All the touchy-feely BS you can spread like peanut butter won't change a thing.
And it's only racist if you make it to be. Basically it's fact.
Facts are what kids are very good at determining. BS is what you are very good at spreading.

1689. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 04:11:11 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tn6kv$q30$1@208.206.142.74>
Source record: 24686

```
Richard Plourde wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> > It would only reasonable that any female would > > run for her life from Islam, for obvious reasons.
>
> There you go again, Carroll, throwing the baby out with the bath water...
>
> You insist on being eternaly wrong, painting with those, very , very broad > strokes of your's...
>
> You're getting dangerously close to becoming a laughing stock here with your > zealous attempt at being the 'top schlemiel'...
>

I'm a realist. You're an idiot.
```

1690. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 05:03:37 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011124000337.02880.00000824@nso-fl.aol.com>
Source record: 24687

In article <cuvyxnansvbet.gn9iul4.pminews@or.news.verio.net>, "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> writes:

>On 23 Nov 2001 19:13:58 GMT, N2EY wrote:
>
>>You mean how "other" religions are "wrong"? That's part of the >>boilerplate - if a church says other religions aren't "wrong", there's >>no reason for that church to exist.
>
> Jewish theology teaches that ours is not the "one and only" "right"
> faith and therefore all others are "wrong".

I did not know that, Phil. I stand corrected on the above.

So at least one major religion does not say all other religions are "wrong".

> It teaches that moral living is the "right" way, no matter which > faith one adheres to in doing it.

Sounds like the right approach to me.

Thanks!

73 de Jim, N2EY

1691. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 05:09:32 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFF2B8C.D842E9A5@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24688

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Why do you want to stick your ugly nose in other people's business?
>
> Why do you want to stick your business in other people's nose?

I don't, Dick. I won't bother them and I don't want them to bother me. What is wrong with live and let live? I don't want to control what you do in the privacy of your home.
Why do you want to control what I do in the privacy of mine?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1692. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 05:28:25 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <83E1B30ECFA43199.266EB1DFC5451CA8.0C2CF1C3608070DD@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24689

On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 05:09:01 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>I didn't confirm it and I didn't use other words. What I did was >decline to provide you a detailed explanation of how I arrived at my >decision. Did I miss the part where such is mandatory?

It isn't mandatory for scientists trying to write for a Journal, either.

We laugh at them, too.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1693. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 05:29:49 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3BFF3137.2090301@att.net>
Source record: 24690

Dick Carroll wrote:

>
> Richard Plourde wrote:
>
>>Dick Carroll wrote:
>>
>> > It would only reasonable that any female would >> > run for her life from Islam, for obvious reasons.
>>
>>There you go again, Carroll, throwing the baby out with the bath water...
>>
>>You insist on being eternaly wrong, painting with those, very , very broad >>strokes of your's...
>>
>>You're getting dangerously close to becoming a laughing stock here with your >>zealous attempt at being the 'top schlemiel'...
>>
>>
>
> I'm a realist. You're an idiot.
>

Well, well, well... what have we here? Carroll's attempt at repartee'????

You are soooooo predictable... you're becoming a charicature of yourself.

Have another dozen doughnuts and case of beer you'll feel better in the morning... ;-)

Rich

1694. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 05:35:36 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <A7F92F77BFA5D008.C76100A3D3400BF6.372F3EC973EF3B33@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24691

On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 05:12:51 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Being open-minded and believing that there is no right and wrong are two >different issues.

The problem is, Dave, that you don't base your concepts of right and wrong on harm to others, you base them on your PERSONAL values, not values arrived at through logic.

You have every right to define right and wrong in your personal life--but there ARE no "absolute" values for right and wrong, thus you're values are only applicapable to you and others who share your values.

Why is that so difficult to understand? If my actions harm you, it is clear (by recourse to logic) that a "wrong" has occurred.
If my actions do NOT harm you, what possible grounds can exist to claim that my actions are "wrong," unless they are defined in that manner by my OWN moral values? It can't be your values, you aren't involved in the action and thus aren't in a position to judge its "rightness." It can't be society's values, for the same reason. That leaves ONLY myself and others involved in the action. And if we don't find it wrong, by any logic it ISN'T wrong.

> My views aren't little though they are precious. To >my knowledge you aren't in charge of deciding that they are >narrow-minded. They are MY views however.

Just as I'm not "in charge" of deciding that your views are narrow-minded, you are not "in charge" of deciding that Kim's (or mine for that matter) are "immoral" or "tasteless."

Think about it.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1695. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 05:39:25 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <887B94DC0A930298.B2CBC2526C5F8194.34139715CCB3AA35@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24692

On Thu, 22 Nov 2001 21:53:23 -0500, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
wrote:

>Wasn't there a prophet that negated kosher laws for Christians? I seem to >remember that Isaiah, Daniel, or some other prophet had a dream in which god >told him to eat what was before him. It was a feast of snakes, frogs, pigs, >lizards and everything that was "unclean." God told the guy, "If I say it's >OK, then it's OK."

Hey, Krell,

I just had a dream in which God told me to have all the Christians in the NG send me all their money and ham gear. He said that if he says it's ok, then it's ok.

I'm waiting . . .

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1696. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 05:45:14 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <BD92C95E73DBA155.73F555FC34F2ECC2.7DFFDE47E648EA2F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24693

On 24 Nov 2001 04:07:30 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> You can blow smoke out your posterior until it's too sore to sit on,
>but you can't change the fact that any kid soon learns that most of the >crime comes from and within the ghetto, and guess what the ghetto is >mostly populated with?

Poor people, you idiot. Why do you think they CALL it a ghetto?

Remember the Warsaw Ghetto? The Ghetto in Bucharest? The Polish Ghetto in Chicago?

>All the touchy-feely BS you can spread like
>peanut butter won't change a thing.

No it won't. You're a bigot and nothing even approaching the truth is likely to get through that racist barrier.

> And it's only racist if you make it to be.

No, Dick. It's racist if you make untrue statements about a group, stereotype a group, or otherwise single that group out as your inferiors.

> Basically it's fact.

Basically, it's bigoted nonsense that would make Archie Bunker cringe.

> Facts are what kids are very good at determining. BS is what you are >very good at spreading.

And hatred, racism, and bigotry are your forte. So what?
SOMEONE has to clean up after cretins like yourself and insure that the children you pollute in your homes have a chance to learn the truth once you get your claws out of them and they reach college.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1697. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 05:51:39 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFF3555.6FBDC943@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24694

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > You continued to act as if I had posted a deliberate lie due to my typo.
>
> That is a lie. I never said anything about your lie being deliberate.
> Your typo was an inadvertent lie and I pulled your leg about it.

An inadvertant lie? You're a scream, Cecil. Yessir, that's a real knee-slapper.

> From Webster's: "lie - an untrue or inaccurate statement that may or > may not be believed true by the speaker" A typo is an inaccurate > statement especially if the typo spells a perfectly good English > word.
>
> But you still cannot prove anything I said by only quoting what > you said. I have never before seen such a ridiculous approach to > an argument.

Sure you have, Cecil. You've penned many of 'em.

Dave K8MN

1698. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 05:52:05 UTC
From: Hans Brakob <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <74351f51ce66c5eb65293fe2012446f8.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 24695

"Kim-W5TIT" wrote:

> > Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
>
> Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
>
> Larry
> Dick Carroll
> Richard McCollum
> Hans (I'm not sure though)
> Dave Heil

Kim,

I've never called you ignorant, bigoted, or any other defamatory or denigrating personal characteristic. To my knowledge I have never met you or had any opportunity to know you. Therefor, I wouldn't have the audacity to label you as such.

I am of the sincere opinion, however, that you have chosen a trashy vanity callsign. Expressing that opinion reflects on your choice, not on your character.

Your decision to label me (or any of the other four on your list, for that matter) as an "ignorant bigoted ham" based on having civilly expressed my opinion, speaks volumes about your personal integrity, however.

Hans, K0HB

--
Posted from mplsapanas11poolc127.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.21.127]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

1699. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 05:56:18 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFF366A.810DC598@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24696

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > To help balance the views, Kim. We wouldn't want things to lean too far > > to the left.
>
> Leaning in the direction of freedom is definitely not leaning to > either the left or the right. The liberal left is generally for > social freedom and against economic freedom.

I was addressing the liberal left.

>The conservative right
> is generally for economic freedom and against social freedom.
> Note that both are anti-freedom is certain areas. Libertarians > are for both social and economic freedom, i.e. freedom in general.

I addressed the liberal left from the conservative right. I didn't address the libertarian at all.

Dave K8MN

1700. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 05:57:04 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFF3698.B0428B68@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24697

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > I don't believe that only a small minority of Christians practice their > > > > religion properly? You can bet that I don't accept that.
> > >
> > > That's easy to prove, Dave. I'll bet the majority of Christians > > > eat pork. I'll bet you eat pork in direct defiance of God's will.
> >
> > It'll be a hoot watching you try to prove this one, Cecil.
>
> Well, let's start with you, Dave. Do you eat pork?

Oh, did you think I was going to assist you? Try and find out.

Dave K8MN

1701. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 06:00:10 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFF3751.1ABBE134@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24698

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > Convert? Sure the Church attempts to convert others in order to spread > > the word of the gospels. Does the Church preach that those with > > different religious beliefs are wrong or inferior? No.
>
> Don't know about your church but Southern Baptist churches certainly > preach that "those with different religious beliefs are wrong or > inferior".

Try to read the posts and you'll find the answer. I'm not a Southern Baptist.

> I hear it almost every Sunday. Did you know that Buddha, > a good man who died 300 years before Christ was born, went straight > to hell?

No I didn't and neither do any of the Southern Baptists. It is my understanding that Jesus died for the redemtion of the sins of all men.
That goes for those before and after him. It looks as if Buddha is covered.

Dave K8MN

1702. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 06:02:16 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFF37CD.A5CC3532@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24699

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > We cannot discuss morality without discussing government's attempt to > > > control morality.
> > >
> > I don't agree with your initial statement.
>
> So you would just put the blinders on when it comes to the government's > attempt to control morality? Why am I not surprised?
>
> > I don't have any > > information that declares that all living in the South were against the > > Civil Rights Act. Your fellow Texan and our President wasn't against > > it.
>
> I didn't say "all" and you just proved my point. Lyndon Johnson went > against the wishes of the majority of Texans.

Please point us to a document which provides a percentage of southerners opposed to passage of the Civil Rights Act.

Dave K8MN

1703. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 06:21:27 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3BFF3C43.9A4B4C9A@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24700

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 05:12:51 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Being open-minded and believing that there is no right and wrong are two > >different issues.
>
> The problem is, Dave, that you don't base your concepts of > right and wrong on harm to others, you base them on your PERSONAL > values, not values arrived at through logic.

> You have every right to define right and wrong in your > personal life--but there ARE no "absolute" values for right and wrong, > thus you're values are only applicapable to you and others who share > your values.

Yeah, and it must really chafe a liberal, free love sort of guy like you. It would seem that the society agrees that the limits stop short of being where you'd like them to be.

> Why is that so difficult to understand? If my actions harm > you, it is clear (by recourse to logic) that a "wrong" has occurred.
> If my actions do NOT harm you, what possible grounds can exist to > claim that my actions are "wrong," unless they are defined in that > manner by my OWN moral values? It can't be your values, you aren't > involved in the action and thus aren't in a position to judge its > "rightness." It can't be society's values, for the same reason. That > leaves ONLY myself and others involved in the action. And if we don't > find it wrong, by any logic it ISN'T wrong.

Sure it can be societal values, Rick. We live under societal values even if we are not religious people at all. Society decides when harm is done. You don't have the opportunity to decide that for yourself.

> > My views aren't little though they are precious. To > >my knowledge you aren't in charge of deciding that they are > >narrow-minded. They are MY views however.
>
> Just as I'm not "in charge" of deciding that your views are > narrow-minded, you are not "in charge" of deciding that Kim's (or mine > for that matter) are "immoral" or "tasteless."
>
> Think about it.
>
> Rick

I've done so and have said that my views are just that--my views. How many times do I need to make that statement? I thought Kim's choice tacky and still retain that view.

Dave K8MN

1704. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 06:35:37 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3BD8E2F66DBA72F6.A3286F6FEDD873F8.5EE3C9A58F439A8F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24751

On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 07:16:34 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>I asked the one who sat at my Thanksgiving dinner table. He says you're >incorrect as regards the Episcopal Church. The Church also has the say >on what music is permissable or not.

I'll digitize and send you a video clip (from HBO, btw) of an Episcopal priest conducting a marriage ceremony (using the Episcopal rituals for all but the exchange of vows) in Washington D.C., in 1993 for approximately 5,000 gay and lesbian couples who he invited to recite their own vows to each other then pronounced married. They may not be married under law, but they ARE married under church law (ask your Priest)--and the priest who did so is still ordained and serving as pastor of his church.

Let me know where to send the clip.

>Yeah, I have the idea what your views are. I don't agree with 'em.

I doubt seriously that you do, Dave. Simply because someone doesn't try to control the life or choices of his/her partner does NOT mean that he or she doesn't have a good--or monogamous--relationship, only that they respect their spouse and respect their spouse's rights and freedom of choice.

>> You mean someone else is supporting my wife's and son's needs >> economically, intellectually, and emotionally? Someone is taking care >> of her when she's sick, cheering her up when she's down, helping her >> with her tasks, providing her emotional support and encouragement, >> standing up for her if she's threatened or attacked, helping her with >> her research, and taking her shopping (among other things)?
>>
>> Who?
>
>Let's see...Her dad could support her economically or she could do it >herself. Her best friend could support her intellectual needs. Her >sister could be her emotional support. A guard dog could ward off >attacks and she could either drive or take the bus shopping.

Her Dad lives on Social Security.

I'm her best friend.

She doesn't have a sister.

We have cats not dogs.

There are no busses where we live (her choice of location, btw), we're 30 miles from the nearest small city.

She doesn't drive.

Note, incidently, that I asked who IS doing certain things and you reply with who "could" do so if they chose (and existed).

Try sticking to a thread if you participate in it. You're beginning to sound like Larry & Dick.

>> Or are you referring to sex as the "job of a good husband." If >> so, I have to ask: What on earth makes you think of sex as a "job" in >> the first place?
>
>You used the word. Was is a euphemism?

Go back to the original quote and re-read it.
>
>> >My tongue was firmly planted in cheek.
>>
>> Actually, your foot was firmly planted in your mouth.
>
>Actually, the meaning is lost since you snipped the portion of your >statment to which I responded.

So put it back. You STILL ended up with your foot in your mouth.

>I think you'd have problems whether you were informed beforehand or >found out later.

Why?

>> What does society OR religion have to do with my private >> behavior?
>
>I don't believe that any of us is formed without influence from society >or religion. I don't believe that any individual brought up in a vacuum >would have a clue about right or wrong. I don't know that any such >individual exists.

But right or wrong are _relative_ not absolutes.

Example:

Is sexual intercourse right or wrong?

It shouldn't matter who the people involved are if it's an absolute value--either it's "Right" or it's "Wrong."

But, of course, it ISN'T an absolute.

Is it right?

For a loving married couple, we would BOTH say yes.

If the woman is forced to do so, we would BOTH say no.

If the man and woman aren't married to each other, however, we run into a problem--because depending on the circumstances we probably WON'T agree in all cases.

Does that make your values right and mine wrong? Or mine right and your's wrong? Or does it simply mean that we don't share the SAME values in some areas and probably do in others.

It isn't how you are brought up that determines what is right and wrong--how you are brought up determines only what YOU believe to be right and wrong. But belief does NOT make for fact.

>>It would be idiotic for me to adhere to the values of a >> religion I didn't believe in simply because other people do so in my >> community--if everyone in your neighborhood believed their homes were >> on fire would you start spraying water in your living room even though >> you saw no flames or smoke? As far as "society" goes, try to remember >> that society is simply an accumulation of individuals. Thus there is >> no possible reason to assume that "society" has any more valid basis >> for its rules than any individual who is a part of it.
>
>That's poppycock. All individuals don't possess the same amount of gray >matter and it only stands to reason that a society--your accumulation of >individuals--will have a sum total of experience and intellect greater >than any one individual can ever hope to have.

Really?

It could _just_ as logically be argued that we should have a dictatorship, since a dictator who was brilliant wouldn't have his intellect "Dulled" by the many lower intellect members of the society and could therefore be counted on to make the right decisions more often than would be the case if the population were to do so.

If the population of a nation invariably have a greater amount of experience and a higher intellect--they explain the following:

The election of the Nazis to power in Germany.

The makeup of our current congress and presidency.

Bigotry.

War.

Domestic Violence.

Hate crimes.

The Civil War.

The Vietnam War.

The popularity of the Home Shopping Network, the fact that the number ONE selling paper in the US is the Weekly World News, tobacco smoking, or the Drug War.

Go for it, Dave. If society is so smart, why do these problems exist or these absurd choices of leaders occur?

>> So long as my actions don't harm others, it really isn't the >> concern of anyone but myself--just because YOUR religion opposes a >> given behavior doesn't justify banning it--only avoiding it yourself.
>
>But society has always determinded which of your activities harm >others. You don't have the final say.

Really?

So if society determines that drinking alcohol, smoking cigarettes, using ham radio, and watching movies with a rating greater than "PG" harm others, you will immediately stop doing them?

It isn't up to society to arbitrarily decide which of my activates harm others--it's up to society to PROVE that those actions harm others before prohibiting them. And when it comes to morals laws, it's pretty hard for them to do that.

>> Color IS apparent. It is also irrelevant. Teaching a child to >> be color blind, as you know, is simply teaching him or her that the >> color of a person's skin has absolutely no relationship to that >> person's personality, behavior, intelligence, or capabilities. If you >> insist that color should not be ignored then it could be added that >> the color of someone's skin DOES indicate the clothing colors that >> will look best on them and the degree of protection from burning they >> should look for in a sun block. Fair enough?
>
>Then don't use cliches like "color blind" when you mean to say that skin >color is irrelevant. That should also be fair enough.

Ok, but be sure not to sign any of your messages "73," since it's a cliche. Just say "goodbye" instead from now on.

>> Are you arguing that the Episcopal church does not attempt >> to convert non-Christians to their beliefs--and that they do not see >> other religious beliefs as being "wrong" or inferior to Christianity?
>
>Convert? Sure the Church attempts to convert others in order to spread >the word of the gospels. Does the Church preach that those with >different religious beliefs are wrong or inferior? No.

Then perhaps you can explain to me how they manage to "convert" people from their current religion, while simultaneously telling them that their current religion is as good as Christianity?

>> you can speak for the Episcopal church? And if so, and your statement >> above is true, then justify ANY of your comments about the morality of >> my views or Kim's call sign.

>
>I believe that Kim is ignorant of the impropriety of her choice. Now, >am I speaking from my religious or societal perspective?

Are you stating that her call is or is not immoral?

If it is not, then there is no possible impropriety involved.
It is no more relevant that her call is W5TIT than it would be if it were W5ITT.

If, otoh, it IS immoral (thus justifying the accusation of impropriety) then you are either basing that view on a religious definition of morality or on none at all (in which case, by definition, her sign CAN'T be immoral). No non-religious (and not all religious--outside of Christianity at least) philosophy defines natural human sexuality or the human body as "immoral." Only religions reserve that right.

Again, are you stating that her call is immoral (and thus admitting that you ARE speaking from a religious perspective) or are you stating that it is NOT immoral (and therefore not improper)?

>Who gets to judge which views of society are based in religion, Rick?
>Is it you? Do you deny that some of your recent statements regarding >Christianity would be offensive of any Christian? Society could find >fault with your sexual views on public health or nuisance issues.

Really?

Show me a single quote from any post I've made that would justify a definition of fault from a strictly secular perspective.

>> Ok--find TEN Christians that practice the religion precisely
>> the way it is intended to be practiced--in other words precisely as >> the bible instructs them to practice it and I'll retract that >> statement.
>
>Any what, precisely is supposed to be my motivation for doing so?
>You'll want to contact a church group in order to conduct your own >research.

Translation: You know that it's completely impossible for you to do so, so you choose to pretend there's no reason for you to try.

>> Turn that around, Dave. If you want to accuse me of making an >> unproven statement, then prove it's wrong.
>
>Prove a negative? Good luck with that one.

That isn't proving a negative when you are dealing with stated facts. All you have to do is demonstrate that the facts are in error--and provide more evidence than your statement that they are.

We do that DAILY in research, Dave. Once a hypothesis is formed, it is the focus of research to attempt to disprove the hypothesis and only if it can't be disproved do we state it appears to be supported within a given range of probability.

You can't disprove a negative ACCUSATION--which is why Kim hasn't already disproved the accusations that her call sign is "tasteless." But you CAN disprove a negative STATEMENT.

>> >I think they'd find much agreement on most items from your list from a >> >group of secular citizens with no church ties at all.
>>
>> Based on what source of morality?
>>
>> With the exception of the Judeo-Christian religions, there IS >> no basis for opposition to any of those behaviors or lifestyles. Only >> with the entry of religious morality is sex (in any form except rape) >> considered in any way inappropriate. Again you are basing your claim >> that I'm wrong on what you "think" would be the position of others.
>> Sorry, Dave, but unless you have research evidence that demonstrates >> non-Christian (and non-religious) members of our society oppose such >> things as limitations on gay rights, consensual sexual behavior >> between adults, etc., you don't have anything but pure guesswork to >> base your claim on--a VERY flimsy grounds for claiming someone else is >> incorrect.
>
>What part of an "I think" statement don't you understand? You don't >offer any proof that your statement is correct. You'd have us believe >that societies not based in the Judeo-Christian ethic have no sexual >taboos.

And, as usual, you are avoiding the specific question and trying to pretend that I asked something different than I did.

>> Would you care for a few dozen more? I can easily provide >> them--including court citations.
>
>...but you didn't.

You didn't ask for them.

>> You didn't state that the US had a better tax rate than other >> nations (it doesn't, try Monaco or Saudi Arabia)--you stated that it >> had more freedom. High taxes have nothing to do with that.
>
>Certainly they do. Would you like to enjoy the freedoms offered by Saudi >Arabia? Your sexual ideas would certainly be a hit there.

Er, Dave.

My reference was to the tax rate in Saudi Arabia, not to freedom. Read more carefully.

>> As far as social problems go, we have VASTLY more in the US >> than in any Western European nation with the possible exception of the >> relatively recently reunited Germany. Again, that has nothing to do >> with freedom--the subject of your claim.
>
>Social problems indicate turmoil and instability and that has plenty to >do with freedom. I disagree with your assessment that we have "VASTLY"
>or even any more social problems than in any Western European nation.

Take a look at the current crime statistics, rate of infant mortality in our cities, percentage of our citizens incarcerated, rate of teen pregnancy, cost of our drug war, AIDS infection rate, rape rate, domestic violence rate, or the ranking of our schools, to name just a few at random.

Now tell me again we don't have VASTLY more social problems than Western European nations.

>> I wouldn't have the vaguest idea--but based on your statements >> about other nations you did NOT teach political science.
>
>I retired from the Foreign Service a year ago.

Is that supposed to make you an expert on politics?

If you served in foreign posts, it's too bad you didn't take
the opportunity to absorb more of their cultures.

>A gifted journalist once told me that you don't go to journalism classes >to learn journalism. You go to journalism classes to learn to teach >journalism.

Yup.

I don't go to psychology, sociology, or political science classes to LEARN those subjects, either.

Your point being?

>In the end, ask yourself why there are lots more folks from foreign >countries coming to the U.S. each year than Americans who move abroad.

On the basis of years of education--there AREN'T.

For the first time in American history, in the last decade,
the EMMIGRATION rate for individuals with a Bachelors degree or better has exceeded the IMMIGRATION rate for individuals with that level of education. In other words, we're exporting our best minds.

Ask yourself why.

> Correction to translation: Please save me from this leftist >rhetoric...

For someone who claims to know something about political issues, you certainly don't seem to know the difference between a leftist and a libertarian.

>> I didn't say EVERYTHING is ok--I stated that the ONLY >> legitimate grounds for restricting any individual's actions are if >> those actions will harm the person or property of a non-consenting >> individual. That isn't "everything is ok," it's "nothing that does no >> harm is the business of society" a very different statement.
>
>Who gets to make the decision on what harms society?

The people involved in the activity. If society isn't involved, it CAN'T be harmed!

>> In other words unless I've gone through a seminary and >> continuing education I have no right to comment on a religion?
>
>Not at all what I stated. Unless you've gone through seminary and years >of continuing education, you assuredly do not know more about the root >beliefs of Christianity as an ordained minister.
>
>> Ok--fair enough. Since you haven't gone through several years >> of graduate education in linguistics, you have no right to comment on >> Kim's call sign, which is an expression of language.
>
>Not fair enough. I never made the silly claim like yours.

Hmmmmmmmmmmm . . .

>When you begin the comparisons of the teachings of Jesus to Hitler, I >quit. When you begin to compare Christianity to Nazism, I quit.

Why?

Can't you refute my comparisons?

>We're done now Rick.

Ok.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1705. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 07:19:44 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bff4aab$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24753

Man, I must be making some sense to you! Thanks!

Kim W5TIT

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tmult$st9$3@208.207.71.169...
>
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Sigh It was a matter of my not paying attention
>
>
> If brains were dollars you still couldn't pay attention.

1706. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 07:19:55 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <Twistedhed@wedtv.net> Message-ID: <vSHL7.8082$rU3.67219@typhoon.mw.mediaone.net>
Source record: 24752

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:028833ADEBA69BBE.882EF94BB22E4E92.71A4EF907909FB94@lp.airnews.net...
> A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be > prevalent among may ham radio operators. This kind of attitude > (exemplified by the Liberty Net on 75m and by many of the comments
> made in this NG) seems degrading to hams in general.

Riley Hollingsworth was the guest speaker at the Fort Wayne IN. Hamfest last weekend. It was a standing room only crowd as he played a tape of the Liberty Net for the assembled Hams to hear. He also mentioned he has a sizable collection of tapes of that group. His comments centered around the idea that neither he, nor the FCC can do much if anything about the on-air fights over who was on the frequency first, etc. In fact he is of the opinion that the conduct of the Hams recorded on that tape will do more to ruin Ham Radio more than anything else. His logic proceeded from the idea that the news media, and general public's, impression comes directly from monitoring our on-air conduct. As he pointed out the media is in the business of selling a product, entertainment. They don't care how many times the ARS provides valuable communications services during times of need, like in N.Y. on 9/11, but it takes only one story about the antics of a group like the Liberty Net to get the public fired up about how Hams are using, more like miss using in their eyes, billions of dollars of spectrum. He said it is up to us, the average Ham to put some pressure on the likes of the Liberty Net to clean up their act. He considers that a part of the self policing action of the ARS.

What I also found startling was his comment about who he has the most trouble with on the bands. In his words many of the complaints are about the on-air conduct of Extra and Advanced Class Hams who think "...they have a license to drive people crazy." Even more amazing was his comment that contrary to popular opinion he has had little to no trouble with the Tech Class. In fact he commented that what he does hear is most Tech Class license holders are very eager to comply with the rules, and will modify their operating practices normally without further contact. Further was his personal on-air experience where he doesn't notice much change in the operations of the ARS considering the large change, due to restructuring, that took place about a year ago, i.e. the bands have not gone to the dogs (not his words, but general idea). He considers that a very positive point.

I'm sure somebody will take exception to the comments above, and their comments should be direct to Mr. Hollingsworth. If there were any others on the group, who attented his talk, they can also testifiy as to his general comments.

--

--

--

73's de,

Leland C. Scott
KC8LDO

ARRL member
NCI member

"You ask what Morse Code is good for? I'll tell you. Morse Code is used exclusively by Electronics Based life forms to communicate amongst themselves using advanced Organic Digital Signal Processors, running state of the art Artificial Intelligence Software, to perform the highly complex transmit encryption, receive decryption and error correction functions."

1707. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 07:22:37 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bff4b58_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24754

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tn627$ok5$0@208.206.142.74...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Why do you want to stick your ugly nose in other people's business?
>
>
>
>
> Why do you want to stick your business in other people's nose?

'Dya read that in one 'o dem dar intelligent books ya been lookin' at lately?

Kim W5TIT

1708. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 07:26:43 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bff4c4f_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24755

"Hans Brakob" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
news:74351f51ce66c5eb65293fe2012446f8.15732@mygate.mailgate.org...
> "Kim-W5TIT" wrote:
>
> > > Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
> >
> > Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
> >
> > Larry
> > Dick Carroll
> > Richard McCollum
> > Hans (I'm not sure though)
> > Dave Heil
>
> Kim,
>
> I've never called you ignorant, bigoted, or any other defamatory or > denigrating personal characteristic. To my knowledge I have never met > you or had any opportunity to know you. Therefor, I wouldn't have the > audacity to label you as such.
>
> I am of the sincere opinion, however, that you have chosen a trashy > vanity callsign. Expressing that opinion reflects on your choice, > not on your character.
>
> Your decision to label me (or any of the other four on your list, for > that matter) as an "ignorant bigoted ham" based on having civilly > expressed my opinion, speaks volumes about your personal integrity, > however.
>
> Hans, K0HB
>
>

The approach, with you, wasn't from the angle of my callsign. It was from other stuff I've seen posted from you.

Kim W5TIT

1709. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 09:05:49 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <NpJL7.219944$W8.7783397@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24756

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tn2e3dpm0@208.207.71.146...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > N2EY wrote:
> > > If that is what you believe, Cecil, what's the problem?
> >
> > That's not what I believe.
> >
> > > If it's not what you believe, why do you go there?
> >
> > For God's sake, I'm lead bass in the choir.
>
>
> See? he's gotten himself trapped in an intolerable situation and can't
> figure out how to extricate himself.

Not at all, Dick. Like 90% of church members, he doesn't believe a word of it but enjoys the socialization; he just admits it. The relationship between the pastor and the choir is a rocky one anyway; both want control.

Many years ago, the Roman Church figured it out: the 6AM mass was for people who work for a living, 8 AM is for families where the kids are out of bed anyway, 10 AM is the high mass for the poobahs and the choir, and noon is for those too hung over to make it earlier. Same pattern in Protestant groups. All it means is that 11 AM, no one in the place believes a word of it.

Born Klutz

1710. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 09:28:27 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <%KJL7.434$9d.140537@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24757

Larry..... for once I will agree with you..... Also NYPD Blue and Homicide also. I also have alot of catching up to do. Fortunately my job allows me to watch (more like listen than anything) and I just tape the stuff and watch it at work.

Ryan

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message news:20011120224351.27773.00002969@nso-fo.aol.com...
> In article <cuvyxnansvbet.gn4enyw.pminews@or.news.verio.net>, "Phil Kane"
> <Phil.Kane@no.spam> writes:
>
> >
> > When is the re-run scheduled? Sure beats old "Law and Order".
>
> Objection, Your Honor! I like the old "Law and Order" re-runs -- > especially since I've not seen many of them from when they were
> "All-New Episodes" in prime time!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

1711. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 09:28:28 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <0LJL7.435$9d.140537@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24759

Sounds like a storage unit is in order!

Ryan

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:60C246D7C6064ACE.230ACDAFCE7A8DB9.E361368284D5F1AA@lp.airnews.net...
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 21:14:09 GMT, "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
> wrote:
>
> > My wife and I have discussed such a move, and this is not the right > > time for us to make it, though.
>
> Talk about an opposite move--my wife and I are considering
> going full time as RVers next year when I retire from teaching (at 57 > YEA!!!!)--which should be interesting considering we have 6000+ books, > 4000+CDs and six computer systems! :-)
>
> Rick
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1712. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 09:28:29 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <1LJL7.436$9d.140537@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24758

Cecil..... you lied to me!! You said a while back you were a Thespian!!
(spellcheck got it wrong eh?)

Just kiddin'

Ryan

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFD0BFF.11262F0C@IEEE.org...
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > But----he claimed that he is a woman in a man's body!
>
> But it's OK, I'm a lesbian.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1713. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 09:28:30 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <2LJL7.437$9d.140537@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24760

> Double meaning? Who, ME?
>
> Actually, it doesn't matter if Larry sees lesbians as the > equivalent of men--but I know a few lesbians who would DEFINITELY > respond if he didn't see them as the EQUAL of men! ;-)

Yeah..... me too..... have seen them at Harley Davidson shops and truck stops! And a voice deeper and more gravely than mine! Got knocked on my ass though when I said one time to one of them "Excuse me sir!"

Ryan

>
> Rick
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH

1714. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 09:28:31 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <3LJL7.438$9d.140537@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24761

Just had an interesting thought there Kim..... what if we had a bunch of people generate message traffic TO YOU (with your call obviously). Can you imagine what people might do within the NTS??? Definitely prove or disprove the alleged comments made here. Just a though I had.

Ryan KC8PMX

>
> You must be the "silent majority" because the majority of people I encounter > over my callsign have no problem with it at all. And, a "silent majority" > is either a) a secret society, or b) useless.
>
> Kim W5TIT
>
>

1715. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 09:46:15 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <H%JL7.219954$W8.7785036@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24762

"KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
news:1LJL7.436$9d.140537@newshog.newsread.com...
> Cecil..... you lied to me!! You said a while back you were a Thespian!!
> (spellcheck got it wrong eh?)
>
> Just kiddin'
>
> Ryan
>

And in his youth, he openly matriculated.

1716. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 13:04:00 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011124080400.03411.00000825@nso-cb.aol.com>
Source record: 24763

In article <A7F92F77BFA5D008.C76100A3D3400BF6.372F3EC973EF3B33@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 05:12:51 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
>wrote:
>
>>Being open-minded and believing that there is no right and wrong are two >>different issues.
>
> The problem is, Dave, that you don't base your concepts of >right and wrong on harm to others, you base them on your PERSONAL >values, not values arrived at through logic.

You do exactly the same thing, Rick.
>
> You have every right to define right and wrong in your >personal life--but there ARE no "absolute" values for right and wrong, >thus you're values are only applicapable to you and others who share >your values.

How do you KNOW there are no absolute values for right and wrong? Besides, making that statement is an absolute!
>
> Why is that so difficult to understand? If my actions harm >you, it is clear (by recourse to logic) that a "wrong" has occurred.

Yup. But who gets to decide whether "harm" has occurred? The person who did the action? The person who is supposedly harmed? Some neutral third party?
What criteria determines "harm"? That is all "personal value" stuff.

>If my actions do NOT harm you, what possible grounds can exist to >claim that my actions are "wrong," unless they are defined in that >manner by my OWN moral values?

There's no claim at all - that's obvious. But again the question is: who gets to decide whether harm has occurred?

>It can't be your values, you aren't >involved in the action and thus aren't in a position to judge its >"rightness."

Does this mean that the "victim" has no say about whether harm has occurred?

> It can't be society's values, for the same reason. That >leaves ONLY myself and others involved in the action.

So only the persons committing an action get to decide whether harm has occurred? I don't think you mean that!

>And if we don't >find it wrong, by any logic it ISN'T wrong.
>
>> My views aren't little though they are precious. To >>my knowledge you aren't in charge of deciding that they are >>narrow-minded. They are MY views however.
>
> Just as I'm not "in charge" of deciding that your views are >narrow-minded, you are not "in charge" of deciding that Kim's (or mine
>for that matter) are "immoral" or "tasteless."

Who gets to decide if a particular callsign causes harm or not?
>
> Think about it.
>
You're avoiding the central questions, Rick: Who decides whether harm has occurred? Who decides whether the harm is great enough to require some sort of action to remedy the situation?

Here's an example: Suppose A lets his property become a real mess. Grass isn't cut, paint is peeling, junk in the yard, etc. Nothing that is a clear health or safety hazard but the place looks awful. B, who lives right next door, wants to sell his house and move away because B doesn't like living next to such a dump. But B cannot find a buyer because of the condition of A's place. Has A harmed B? Who gets to decide? If the decision is yes, how much harm has occurred and what is the remedy?

Suppose B finds a buyer (C) who agrees to buy B's house but at a price far below fair market value because of the condition of A's place. Is A responsible for B's loss? Can C try to get A to fix up the property?

Who decides? Whose values of "harm" should be used? Think about it.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1717. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 14:28:52 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3bffadc1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24764

Hello, Ryan. Well, I know you submitted with tongue-in-cheek, because I've always stated (and it's true) that my callsign is no distraction to responsibly-minded individuals on the air.

I have participated in NTS; have served as net control on NTS nets; have participated in public service events; have served as net control in public service events; have been the voice of training for Hunt County ARES nets and, a couple years back, nets for a group we named TRADES; and the list goes on. My callsign has been no problem--in fact never even been mentioned after the fact--on any kind of net. I am sure that those who disagree with it just leave the matter alone and disregard it, and those who do find humor or whatever, in it, know that nets are not the time.

In fact, responsibly-minded people see it as nothing more than a callsign, and one that has a great deal of "conversational value" off the air, for those eyeball get-togethers!

Believe me, the comments made here are made here only. :)

Kim W5TIT

"KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
news:3LJL7.438$9d.140537@newshog.newsread.com...
> Just had an interesting thought there Kim..... what if we had a bunch of > people generate message traffic TO YOU (with your call obviously). Can
you > imagine what people might do within the NTS??? Definitely prove or disprove
> the alleged comments made here. Just a though I had.
>
> Ryan KC8PMX
>
> >
> > You must be the "silent majority" because the majority of people I
> encounter
> > over my callsign have no problem with it at all. And, a "silent majority"
> > is either a) a secret society, or b) useless.
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
> >
> >
>
>

1718. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 14:42:37 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tobku0ru2@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24767

"Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> wrote in message
news:3bff4b58_1@newsa.ev1.net...
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> news:9tn627$ok5$0@208.206.142.74...
> > Why do you want to stick your business in other people's nose?
>
> 'Dya read that in one 'o dem dar intelligent books ya been lookin' at > lately?
>
> Kim W5TIT

Probably one that has ads for Charles Atlas and x-ray glasses.

1719. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 14:51:24 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9toc370t2t@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24768

"Leland C. Scott" <Twistedhed@wedtv.net> wrote in message news:vSHL7.8082$rU3.67219@typhoon.mw.mediaone.net...

>What I also found startling was his comment about who he has the most trouble with on the bands. >In his words many of the complaints are about the on-air conduct of Extra and Advanced Class >Hams who think "...they have a license to drive people crazy." Even more amazing was his >comment that contrary to popular opinion he has had little to no trouble with the Tech Class. In >fact he commented that what he does hear is most Tech Class license holders are very eager to >comply with the rules, and will modify their operating practices normally without further contact. >Further was his personal on-air experience where he doesn't notice much change in the >operations .of the ARS considering the large change, due to restructuring, that took place about a >year ago, i.e. the bands have not gone to the dogs (not his words, but general idea). He considers >that a very positive point.
>
>I'm sure somebody will take exception to the comments above, and their comments should be >direct to Mr. Hollingsworth. If there were any others on the group, who attented his talk, they can >also testifiy as to his general comments.
>
>
>--
>__
>__
>
>73's de,
>
>Leland C. Scott
>KC8LDO

Interesting comments. It's also interesting to note that these Extra and Advanced hams passed the 13 and 20 WPM code tests.

1720. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 15:00:44 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFFB61C.2E4E3A6B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24765

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > You continued to act as if I had posted a deliberate lie due to my typo.
> >
> > That is a lie. I never said anything about your lie being deliberate.
> > Your typo was an inadvertent lie and I pulled your leg about it.
>
> An inadvertant lie? You're a scream, Cecil. Yessir, that's a real > knee-slapper.

If you disagree with the following definition, take it up with the publishers of Webster's dictionaries.

> > From Webster's: "lie - an untrue or inaccurate statement that may or > > may not be believed true by the speaker" A typo is an inaccurate > > statement especially if the typo spells a perfectly good English > > word.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1721. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 15:02:25 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFFB681.E7BA300A@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24766

```
Richard McCollum wrote:
>
> "KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
> news:1LJL7.436$9d.140537@newshog.newsread.com...
> > Cecil..... you lied to me!! You said a while back you were a Thespian!!
> > (spellcheck got it wrong eh?)
> >
> > Just kiddin' Ryan
>
> And in his youth, he openly matriculated.

But I wore latex gloves.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1722. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 15:22:31 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3bffb955.1943218@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 24769

On 23 Nov 2001 22:16:34 GMT, k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ) wrote:

>>From: BH radioguyx@texxas.net
>>What about on board US Navy ships?
>
> Navy?! Hell...FORGET about the FCC! You do ANYTHING on THAT vessel >without the CO's consent...ESPECIALLY something that can hazard the vessel, and >some Part 97 infractions are your LAST worry!

Having spent almost 4 years on a Navy destroyer, the coments above are pretty much on target. Bottom line, the ham operation on board is ONLY via the permission of the captain.

> Most Navy warships are built in such a way as to minimize RF hazards to >the crew AND to minimize the likelyhood that RF will give away the ships >location, type, etc. You operate a radio on board that ship that hasn't had >the ship's Comminications Officer's blessing and you might be the recipient of >an all expenses paid trip to Kansas, ToTo!

Well maybe a Captain's mast anyway unless you do it more than once. The reality is that any such ham operation would be for the benefit of the crew (phone patch, etc.) and would only happen with permission. The real problem would be how to set-up a ham station onbaord without permission. The ham could use the military equipment...BUT that clearly couldn't happen without permssion from the Comm officer.

As to RF hazards...they are minimal in comparison to the pulsed power of the radar units on board.

Cheers and hope everyone is enjoying a long Thnaksgiving weekend.
Bill K2UNK

1723. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 15:22:38 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFFBB3E.4C045790@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24770

N2EY wrote:
> Yup. But who gets to decide whether "harm" has occurred? The person who did > the action? The person who is supposedly harmed? Some neutral third party?
> What criteria determines "harm"? That is all "personal value" stuff.

That's easy, Jim. The definition of actual harm should require the use of force or threat of force. The imagined harm over Kim's callsign is not harm at all. If I told you I experienced harm because of your choice of callsigns, would you change it for me? Of course not!

> Who gets to decide if a particular callsign causes harm or not?

"Sticks and stones may break my bones but callsigns can never hurt me."
Anyone who allows callsigns unaccompanied by force or threat of force to hurt them are cooperating in their own pain. The "harm" is self imposed. Callsigns can cause no harm without the cooperation of the "victim"(s). Think about it. Finding harm in Kim's callsign is like finding dirty sex in ink blots.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1724. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 15:31:18 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFFBD46.AB610EE8@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24771

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> In fact, responsibly-minded people see it as nothing more than a callsign, > and one that has a great deal of "conversational value" off the air, for > those eyeball get-togethers!

Rational people know when to be serious and when to have fun. Too bad there is not an abundance of rational people on this newsgroup. If someone cannot perform his function due to worry about your callsign, that is his choice that he makes using his own free will.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1725. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 15:36:54 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFFBE96.597C32AB@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24772

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Leaning in the direction of freedom is definitely not leaning to > > either the left or the right. The liberal left is generally for > > social freedom and against economic freedom.
>
> I was addressing the liberal left.

From an equally invalid position called the conservative right.
If you are against freedom, it doesn't really matter what you call yourself. The liberal left and conservative right could unite into a political party called the Anti-Freedom League.

> >The conservative right
> > is generally for economic freedom and against social freedom.
> > Note that both are anti-freedom is certain areas. Libertarians > > are for both social and economic freedom, i.e. freedom in general.
>
> I addressed the liberal left from the conservative right.

That's what I was pointing out, Dave. You are against social freedom, i.e. you are anti-freedom just like the liberal left. You really need to do something about those beams in your eyes.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1726. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 15:40:30 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFFBF6E.240A3398@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24773

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > Well, let's start with you, Dave. Do you eat pork?
>
> Oh, did you think I was going to assist you? Try and find out.

Now I don't have to - you just told me.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1727. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 15:44:52 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFFC074.3B86A6E5@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24774

Richard McCollum wrote:
> Not at all, Dick. Like 90% of church members, he doesn't believe a word of > it but enjoys the socialization; he just admits it.

There's a fringe benefit. It's absolutely amazing what a deep male bass voice does to some of those single (horny) choir ladies.
While I'm saying, "Thank you, God", they are probably praying for forgiveness.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1728. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 15:48:23 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFFC147.1C45C832@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24775

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > Convert? Sure the Church attempts to convert others in order to spread > > > the word of the gospels. Does the Church preach that those with > > > different religious beliefs are wrong or inferior? No.
> >
> > Don't know about your church but Southern Baptist churches certainly > > preach that "those with different religious beliefs are wrong or > > inferior".
>
> Try to read the posts and you'll find the answer. I'm not a Southern > Baptist.

Ah, but you said "the Church" above. You didn't specify any denomination.

> > I hear it almost every Sunday. Did you know that Buddha, > > a good man who died 300 years before Christ was born, went straight > > to hell?
>
> No I didn't and neither do any of the Southern Baptists. It is my > understanding that Jesus died for the redemtion of the sins of all men.
> That goes for those before and after him. It looks as if Buddha is > covered.

Guess you had better take it up with Reverend Witcher, our Southern Baptist preacher. Want his phone number?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1729. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 15:55:30 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFFC2F2.EE9369EA@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24776

Rick Adams wrote:
> If you served in foreign posts, it's too bad you didn't take
> the opportunity to absorb more of their cultures.

Actually, a book was written about guys like Dave,
"The Ugly American".
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1730. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 16:00:27 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFFC41B.A9365D6D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24777

Dave Heil wrote:
> Please point us to a document which provides a percentage of southerners > opposed to passage of the Civil Rights Act.

Please point us to a document which provides a percentage of southerns favoring the passage of the Civil Rights Act. I live and travel in the South, Dave. Things are slowly changing for the better but in the 1960's, when I was a traveling salesman,
I had to be quiet about my support for the Civil Rights Act or else risk loss of sales and bodily injury.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1731. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 16:04:14 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3BFFC4FE.91C7411F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24778

"Leland C. Scott" wrote:
> What I also found startling was his comment about who he has the most > trouble with on the bands. In his words many of the complaints are > about the on-air conduct of Extra and Advanced Class Hams who think
> "...they have a license to drive people crazy."

Hmmmmmm, just like on rec.radio.amateur.policy
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1732. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 16:37:51 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <z1QL7.195218$3d2.8116514@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24779

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFFC41B.A9365D6D@IEEE.org...
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > Please point us to a document which provides a percentage of southerners > > opposed to passage of the Civil Rights Act.
>
> Please point us to a document which provides a percentage of > southerns favoring the passage of the Civil Rights Act. I > live and travel in the South, Dave. Things are slowly changing > for the better but in the 1960's, when I was a traveling salesman,
> I had to be quiet about my support for the Civil Rights Act or > else risk loss of sales and bodily injury.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

The passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act was one of Lyndon Johnson's all time great 'convincing' efforts. A cartoon of the era pictured two rather obviously Southern senators meeting on the Capitol steps with their left arms twisted in a knot. One says, "See you met Lyndon, too."

1733. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 16:42:32 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <Y5QL7.195234$3d2.8116681@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24780

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFFC074.3B86A6E5@IEEE.org...
> Richard McCollum wrote:
> > Not at all, Dick. Like 90% of church members, he doesn't believe a word
of
> > it but enjoys the socialization; he just admits it.
>
> There's a fringe benefit. It's absolutely amazing what a deep male > bass voice does to some of those single (horny) choir ladies.
> While I'm saying, "Thank you, God", they are probably praying > for forgiveness.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

Then there is the story of the choir that decided to stop for coffee after a rehersal. One of two men going out with a dozen choir ladies asked what he was going to tell people surrounded by all of the females.

No problem, said one of the ladies, just tell 'em you're cutting back.

1734. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 17:18:43 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tokmt018gn@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24782

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tmtte$st9$0@208.207.71.169...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
> > > I VOTE NO! It's a BAD IDEA! So was dropping the speed to 5 wpm...
CBers with
> > > their nice habbits will come in droves.
> >
> > It's been a year and a half so why hasn't it happened yet?
>
>
> They've been coming in droves for some time now....the droves will just
> get larger.

Must be a regional phenomemon. I haven't seen such "droves" in my area.

1735. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 17:24:53 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tol2g019a0@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24784

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:887B94DC0A930298.B2CBC2526C5F8194.34139715CCB3AA35@lp.airnews.net...
> Hey, Krell,
>
> I just had a dream in which God told me to have all the > Christians in the NG send me all their money and ham gear. He said > that if he says it's ok, then it's ok.
>
> I'm waiting . . .
>
> Rick

I'm sure you're going to hold your breath over it.

1736. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 17:27:47 UTC
From: Roger Halstead <rdhalste@tm.net>
Message-ID: <nMQL7.450$9d.156312@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24781

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:A8D5AF48DB2CB029.401E51F3CF761E40.775151BAE787A06E@lp.airnews.net...
> On Sun, 18 Nov 2001 22:59:44 -0500, Dwight Stewart > <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:
>
> > Actually, you're applying those passages wrong, Cecil. You're > >ignoring the bible passages about knowing sin, knowing the sinner, and > >separating from that. The difference is between action and thought.
> >Obviously, the christian has to know what sin is if he is to avoid it > >(a judgment). Likewise, the christian has to judge whether another > >person is sinning if he is to avoid participating in that person's sin > >(another judgment). However, that doesn't mean the christian condemns > >that person by actions (you passage above). Instead, he is to seek out > >that person and help the person to understand the consequences of > >those actions. The first step in that is making the person aware of > >his own sin.
>
> But doesn't this simply state that the Christian religion is > necessarily _better_ than the beliefs of the person seen (by the > Christian, not necessarily by him/her-self) as "sinning?"
>
In General EACH religion teaches it is the only way.

With Christianity, (in general) each sect teaches that it is the only way and even the other Christian sects are wrong. These are areas where the Bible may not be quoted as each sect not only has it's own interpetation, but customs. So, in general just being Christain is not enough, you have to belong to the proper sect. I'd try to name them all, but I'm certain I'd miss a few.

As each teaches it is the only way, they by default they are teaching that their's is the superior way.

Now that's within a single religion. Add in all the other religions that teach theirs is the only way a tremendous amount of friction is created.
One only has to look at the very bloody Crusades to see what is done in the name of religion that is not actually part of a religion.

It only takes a tiny bit of history to find that the Crusades were not the glorious thing we were taught in Sunday School. <:-))

Those practicing Christianity, like many other religions have at times shown little reluctance to resort to violence to eliminate the oposition.

Almost every religion has it's extremests, or radical groups, who pervert the teachings of the basic religion, will listen to no one, and seek to destroy any thing different than their beliefs.

--
Roger Halstead (K8RI)
WWW.RogerHalstead.com
N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S# CD-2)

> Perhaps a Christian "judges" on this basis theoretically > (although we ALL know that most people who are > judgemental--particularly those such as Dick & Larry in this NG aren't > basing their judgements on the standards you list above), but that's > irrelevant in the long run. The fact remains that by the very act of > _assuming_ the person is committing a "sin" and needs to be made aware > of that fact, they are in fact judging the person as not being as > "enlightened" as themselves, and therefore automatically assume that > simply because their religion teaches them something is a "sin" or > "evil," that is the end of the matter and no debate as to the accuracy > of that claim is necessary or desirable.
>
> > The popular story of the woman being stoned for prostitution is a > >good example of this concept. Jesus stopped the stoning and told those > >in the mob to let the person without sin cast the first stone (a > >variation of your "Judge not, that ye be not judged"). In other words, > >he stopped the ACTION of the mob. However, after the mob went away, he > >turned to the woman and told her to go and sin no more. He could not > >have said that without making a judgment that she had indeed sinned.
>
> From his perspective (assuming you believe in him in the first > place, of course)--but that does NOT make his judgement any more or > less valid than her own. From a Christian perspective, prostitution is > "evil." But not all religions share that belief--nor is it necessary > for someone to be religious at all to hold a valid set of morals he or > she lives by.
>
> Bear in mind, also, the even if the entire story you refer to > above (including the divinity of Jesus) were true it _still_ would not > have contradicted the concept that a Christian should not judge > others. He states in that story that "he who is without sin" should > cast the first stone--in other words, that only those who have not > themselves "sinned" have the right to judge the sins of others. But > that would simply mean that he was the ONLY one qualified to do so, > since the bible states that he is the only one "without sin!"
>
> > So, as you can see, you can judge whether a person is sinning (in > >fact, it is almost impossible not to). But the key is what you do > >about it - the actions. The passages you quote above refer to actions, > >not to thoughts or simple statements.
>
> But, of course, it still ends in the same result--the > Christian ends up judging people based on his or her personal beliefs > not on any unbiased or impartial basis. Simply because the Christian > bible states something is wrong does not make it so--except to the > person who BELIEVES in that faith, who should--if he or she sincerely > believes in Christianity, restrict his or her judgement and actions to > others who subscribe to that religion as well.

>
> > By the way, please don't ask me for the bible passages - it has been > >a very long time since I've had anything to do with religion.
>
> I've read it recently--and I've _never_ been a Christian. I > just don't feel it's rational for me to argue against principles of a > religion unless I know what they believe in the first place (even > though, since most Christians haven't read the bible, _they_ don't > know what they believe in anyway).
>
> Rick--KE8HH
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1737. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 17:27:56 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tol87019n1@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24785

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
news:9tn6e2$q30$0@208.206.142.74...
> > Except that the truth happens to be that the danger of violent > > crime is inversely proportional to the income level of the > > neighborhood. It doesn't matter if the residents are black, white, > > yellow, red, or green for that matter--if they are poor there will be > > a high crime rate, if they aren't there won't.
>
>
>
> You can blow smoke out your posterior until it's too sore to sit on,
> but you can't change the fact that any kid soon learns that most of the > crime comes from and within the ghetto, and guess what the ghetto is > mostly populated with? All the touchy-feely BS you can spread like > peanut butter won't change a thing.
> And it's only racist if you make it to be. Basically it's fact.
> Facts are what kids are very good at determining. BS is what you are > very good at spreading.

Perhaps, then, you can enlighten us as to why the crime rate is so high in such an area.

1738. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 17:36:05 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tolnh01ak8@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24788

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:3BD8E2F66DBA72F6.A3286F6FEDD873F8.5EE3C9A58F439A8F@lp.airnews.net...
> On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 07:16:34 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
> I'll digitize and send you a video clip (from HBO, btw) of an > Episcopal priest conducting a marriage ceremony (using the Episcopal > rituals for all but the exchange of vows) in Washington D.C., in 1993 > for approximately 5,000 gay and lesbian couples who he invited to > recite their own vows to each other then pronounced married. They may > not be married under law, but they ARE married under church law (ask > your Priest)--and the priest who did so is still ordained and serving > as pastor of his church.

No surprise here. The Episcopal church has long recognized same-sex marriages. Bishop Spong even went so far as to say that the Apostle Paul may have been homosexual. He wrote about this in his book "Rescuing the Bible from Fundamentalism."

1739. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 17:41:00 UTC
From: Roger Halstead <rdhalste@tm.net>
Message-ID: <MYQL7.452$9d.156736@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24783

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
news:cuvyxnansvbet.gn45okn.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
> On Mon, 19 Nov 2001 23:57:43 -0500, Robert Casey wrote:
>
> >I once worked a ham who was a pilot in a 747 > >operating air moble. Do they use the wings like
> >a dipole? :-)
>
> If he was piloting a 747 at the time I sure hope that it was a > privately-owned aircraft, not an air carrier, if there are any 747s > in private ownership. I do know a retired broadcast station owner > who owns a 727 which he pilots himself, notwithstanding the > requirement to have at least two qualified pilots in the cockpit.
>
> I'll let the pilots here quote the FARs about making non-essential > communications while on an air carrier flight.

The "non essential" applies to the aviation frequencies and in particular on ATC frequencies..

However, I've been on the air-to-air frequency and shot the ..er...breeze with a few airliners before. One called me from 35,000 between Cleveland and Boston (much closer to Boston) while a third joined in from up near the Maine border. This is all on 5 watt AM radios too. Me? I was climbing through 6,000 over Michigan

It wasn't an aircarrier, but I have a QSL from a FB-111 who was headed to an air refueling. We talked for near 10 minutes on 15 meters. His antenna was in the dorsal fin. THAT was a while back. <:-))

--
Roger Halstead (K8RI)
WWW.RogerHalstead.com
N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S# CD-2).
>
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
>
>

1740. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 17:44:09 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tom6k01bkd@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24789

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tn6kv$q30$1@208.206.142.74...
>
>
> Richard Plourde wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > > It would only reasonable that any female would > > > run for her life from Islam, for obvious reasons.
> >
> > There you go again, Carroll, throwing the baby out with the bath water...
> >
> > You insist on being eternaly wrong, painting with those, very , very broad > > strokes of your's...
> >
> > You're getting dangerously close to becoming a laughing stock here with your > > zealous attempt at being the 'top schlemiel'...
> >
>
> I'm a realist. You're an idiot.

Most people on this group present their arguments in a logical fashion. All you can do is post statist views with absolutely nothing to back them up other than your own opinion.

1741. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 17:52:57 UTC
From: Roger Halstead <rdhalste@tm.net>
Message-ID: <Z7RL7.456$9d.157461@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24786

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
news:cuvyxnansvbet.gn9gnf2.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
> On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 02:40:04 GMT, BH wrote:
>
> >> Don't let the company's lawyers hear that....if he's the pilot on > >> duty, boredom is not an option.
> >
> >I have several neighbors who are airline pilots, they all say that > >between take offs and landings, the time is very boring, the plane > >is on auto pilot and not much to do.
>
> My pilot friends tell me the same thing. But for legal (i.e. CYA) > purposes, one better not ever give the company lawyers (or FAA > investigators if it ever comes to that point) any idea that they are > on duty and in command of the aircraft with anything but full > alertness and attention to duty or that they are doing anything but > required and official duties during that time.

In the modern airliner, the main danger is boredom. Nearly every thing is automatic and reguardless of what some companies may say it is a well known problem. The longer the flight the bigger the problem.
A large part of the flights are just monitoring instruments and talking with ATC. When out on the transoceanic routes there is little radio traffic as well. (compared to over the US).

These problems are the subject of many safety seminars and studies.
They are also one of the reasons that so much simulator time is required in recurrency training.

As far as flying the FCC has little to say except that we do not send false signals, nor create interferrence. The FAA OTOH has a lot to say about the use of not just radios and cell phones, but electronic devices as well.
However, it really says the pilot is in charge and responsible. Less than 10 years ago, I had a Captain let me use my 2-meter HT to call my wife to meet me at the airport. (from about 200 miles out)

She was leaving the driveway with 15 miles to the airport when I called.
She was pulling in the parking lot the as we were touching down.
>

--
Roger Halstead (K8RI)
WWW.RogerHalstead.com
N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S#1 CD-2)
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

>
>

1742. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 17:59:33 UTC
From: Roger Halstead <rdhalste@tm.net>
Message-ID: <9eRL7.469$9d.157703@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24787

"Jim Weir" <jim@rst-engr.com> wrote in message news:gg1ovtskkgi2eetunrhqpdf2l586mpuaba@4ax.com...
> "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
> shared these priceless pearls of wisdom:
>
> -
> ->
> -> I'll let the pilots here quote the FARs about making non-essential
> -> communications while on an air carrier flight.
>
> No restrictions on the aircraft commander or PIC that I'm aware of.

As I mentioned earlier, I had one give me permission to call my wife on the 2-meter HT when we were about 200 miles out. Albeit that was something like 10 years ago.

When "I'm flying" I often clip the 144/440 HT to the copilot/passenger side door strap with the rubber duck stuck up into the window and use a headset inside my ANRs. I hear a lot of , "Man, we sure must be having a band opening!" <:-)) Course, I'm flying a 200 MPH 4 seater instead of an airliner too.
--
Roger Halstead (K8RI)
WWW.RogerHalstead.com
N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S# CD-2)
>
> Jim
> Jim Weir, VP Eng. RST Eng. WX6RST
> A&P, CFI, and other good alphabet soup

1743. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 18:42:02 UTC
From: Roger Halstead <rdhalste@tm.net>
Message-ID: <_RRL7.497$9d.159530@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24790

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
news:cuvyxnansvbet.gn6ech0.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
Jim Weir wrote:

-> Section 97.11 of the FCC Rules puts some very specific
-> restrictions on operation from an aircraft.

> You been into the holiday giggle water a little early there, Kane?
> 47CFR 97.11 provides two short paragraphs about applying for license
> to Gettysburg.

For the record:

For the Record this isn't really what it seems:

Sec. 97.11 Stations aboard ships or aircraft.

(a) The installation and operation of an amateur station on a ship or aircraft must be approved by the master of the ship or pilot in command of the aircraft.

The key words are installation and approved.
Anything not permanently bolted in is not an installation.
Any thing used requires the consent of the PIC.

(b) The station must be separate from and independent of all other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft, except
a common antenna may be shared with a voluntary ship radio installation. The station's transmissions must not cause interference to any other apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft.

If you do install a ham rig it must have it's own hookup seperate of the breakers that power the onboard radio equipment. Said installation must not cause any interferrence.

(c) The station must not constitute a hazard to the safety of life or property. For a station aboard an aircraft, the apparatus shall not be operated while the aircraft is operating under Instrument Flight Rules, as defined by the FAA, unless the station has been found to comply with all applicable FAA Rules.

The station must be installed in such a manner that it does not create a fire hazard...IE, has the proper wiring and size breaker.

The next sentence is one of those that says you can't while saying you can.
IOW, You can't use such an installation when operating IFR UNLESS the station has been properly installed and creates no interferrence.

47 C.F.R. 97.11 [P&F] as of October 30, 2001

Revision history shows that the above section number and wording was effective since at least September 1, 1989 when Part 97 was revised in its entirety and the stuff in subsection (c) concerning IFR operation was added.

The advantage of having a Rules Service that costs $3000 a year is that one gets up-to-date Rules as well as the revision history, digest, and case citations all in one place.

Note the first sentence of subsection (b). Wanna bet that they weren't using a separate antenna and transceiver? And who is going to find that the amateur station equipment complies with all applicable FAA rules for radio equipment, especially certification, which as you know are far more stringent than FCC rules for same?

It just ain't that complicated.
Even if they have a rig velcro'd to the glare shield, it's not considered 'installed"
It only has to meet the normal certification. The type certification pertains to FCC commercial/aviation (Jim Weir, help me on this one), not an FAA certification. FAA certification applies to the repair stations, but the FCC is in charge of "type" certification.

If they make a few trips and with a little testing here and there, the rig does not bother the instruments in the airplane, it should be OK.

For
The "absolute authority" of the PIC is really limited to what the company lawyers say it is....if the PIC wants to retain his/her job.

In most cases if you don't ask...
In the past and with only a few exceptions the authority has been left with the PIC. It hasn't been that many years ago where it was possible for a passenger to get permission to use an HT, but that has become nearly impossible as the rules require that the radio be checked out in the particular airplane, but it has been done. At least one story was published about doing that, but I don't remember which magazine and only that it was within the last 15 years. The article went through what the individual ham had to do to get permission and the testing with the operation being somewhat anticlimatic.

Prior to Sept 11th the main thing that kept the passenger from operating an HT was that checking the HT out in the particular plane. It was just too much bother (time and expense) so it was difficult to get permission.

--
Roger Halstead (K8RI)
WWW.RogerHalstead.com
N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S# CD-2)

> However, I do bow to your experience in the industry.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1744. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 19:06:55 UTC
From: Roger Halstead <rdhalste@tm.net>
Message-ID: <jdSL7.510$9d.160637@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24791

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
news:cuvyxnansvbet.gn9g200.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
> On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 02:45:49 GMT, BH wrote:
>
> >I can see this for installing non-type accepted amateur gear, but > >do not see how this applies for using the installed aircraft comms > >that can operate on the ham bands.
> >
> That is covered by:
>
> Sec. 97.11 Stations aboard ships or aircraft.
>
> (b) The station must be separate from and independent of all
> other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft, except
> a common antenna may be shared with a voluntary ship radio > installation......
>
No it's not!

"IF" the aircraft radios are such that they can also cover the ham bands and the oerator has the license they may be used on the ham bands.

IF a Ham station is installed THEN that station must be kept seperate.

The above says nothing about using the aircfraft system radios on ham bands
if they go there and there are systems that do. Those would be systems such as the HF rigs that are required for transoceanic flights. More than likely for the big elaborate systems there are tohse that cover the VHF and UHF bands as well, but those are not radios most of us could afford.

I've seen more than one light plane that had a Kenwood, or Icom to use on HF for those transoceanic flights and the FAA was quite willing to accept them.

--
Roger Halstead (K8RI)
WWW.RogerHalstead.com
N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S# CD-2)
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
>
>

1745. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 21:03:59 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011124160359.20950.00000696@nso-cu.aol.com>
Source record: 24792

In article <3BFFBB3E.4C045790@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>> Yup. But who gets to decide whether "harm" has occurred? The person who >did
>> the action? The person who is supposedly harmed? Some neutral third party?
>> What criteria determines "harm"? That is all "personal value" stuff.
>
>That's easy, Jim. The definition of actual harm should require the >use of force or threat of force.

That's a sufficient condition but not a necessary one. And you've stretched the definition of "force" to include things like theft by stealth.

It's interesting that you avoid the example I gave about the neighbor with the run-down property. Are you saying that no is harmed in such a case?

How about if A goes around telling lies about B? Suppose B is in the business of manufacturing antennas, and A says he has bought B-brand antennas and they all turned out to be unreliable. (In fact A has no experience with B-brand antennas at all). If B loses sales because of A's lies, would you say that B was not harmed by A?

>The imagined harm over Kim's callsign
>is not harm at all.

Based on your personal values.

>If I told you I experienced harm because of your >choice of callsigns, would you change it for me?

If you could show how that harm occurred, I might consider it.

>Of course not!
>
Don't be so sure, Cecil. Of course first you have to convince me that some harm has occurred, and that changing my callsign would end the harm. Good luck.

>> Who gets to decide if a particular callsign causes harm or not?
>
>"Sticks and stones may break my bones but callsigns can never hurt me."

Doesn't answer the question.

>Anyone who allows callsigns unaccompanied by force or threat of force >to hurt them are cooperating in their own pain. The "harm" is self >imposed. Callsigns can cause no harm without the cooperation of the >"victim"(s). Think about it.

I have. I'm simply asking questions.

>Finding harm in Kim's callsign is like >finding dirty sex in ink blots.

Nope. The inkblots are random patterns. Kim's call was not chosen at random.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1746. Contest idea, work all your own suffix

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 21:24:42 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C00101A.EC216778@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 24793

Be the first to work your suffix in all American prefixes!
Of course if you have a call like Kim's, that's gonna take a while. :-)

1747. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 21:41:41 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C001415.3B26C976@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 24794

>
> >>I don't hear any such thing COMMONLY on 2 meters in this area. Your > >>mileage may vary.
> >
> > Where I live I don't either (relatively small community). But > >I've visited a number of metro areas where I very quickly learned that > >if I didn't want to listen to "cb" at its worst, I had to switch to > >70cm instead of 2m on the mobile.
>
> Does that mean 2 meters is that bad in an average American city?

Everyone on 146.79 in NNJ is well behaved. And it's an open machine.

1748. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 21:44:22 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <16F1018A2DC9223E.34C5DCBC81EA6813.FB4EE02F14C8E766@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24795

On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 04:44:53 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>If it wasn't clear to you: The Netherlands has less freedom than the
>U.S.

Would you care to tell us in what AREAS you have greater personal freedom in the United States than in the Netherlands?

Since your statement not only goes against experience, but goes against the recently released UN study of freedom in member nations (which listed the Netherlands as the freest nation on earth, followed by Denmark, etc.), it would seem that you need to offer more than a simply statement of opinion to support your claim.

>> B) Comment about the social problems and tax rate--ignoring that you asked >> for an example of having lived outside the United States in the context of >> freedom.
>
>It would be an interesting rant if true. What did you think I was >talking about--lack of variety in cheeses?

No, economics and social problems. Neither of those addresses the specific topic of freedom.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1749. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 21:45:40 UTC
From: Bob - KE4JCD <ke4jcd@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <8yUL7.113107$Yb.28227333@typhoon.tampabay.rr.com>
Source record: 24796

As you said "I haven't seen such "droves" in my area." Well the CODE TEST hasn't been dropped yet. People I talk to all say much of the same thing, The CODE is stopping them and when its gone so will HAM RADIO! CBers will come in droves and as I have on my website, BAD HABITS!

One page on my site deals with what Amateur radio is slowly becoming, the new children's band... I came to be free of such trash, but that's life. When it dose, I'll just find something ells to do. I don't use it much now, I love the internet to much and it may replace HAM for me and my wife. I use a nextell to talk around town. No Jammers, like on some of my local repeaters...

Here something sweet for your ears...
http://www.hartungpress.com/hamradio/crummyhams.htm
--

Bob - KE4JCD

KE4JCD Ham Radio Web Site.
http://www.ke4jcd.org

Hartung Press, is a Non-Profit Online Public Affairs Magazine.
http://www.hartungpress.com

Support Anti-Spam Legislation.
Join the fight http://www.cauce.org/

"Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9tokmt018gn@enews3.newsguy.com...
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > news:9tmtte$st9$0@208.207.71.169...
> > >
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
> > > > > I VOTE NO! It's a BAD IDEA! So was dropping the speed to 5 wpm...
> > CBers with
> > > > > > their nice habbits will come in droves.
> > > > >
> > > > It's been a year and a half so why hasn't it happened yet?
> > >
> > >
> > > They've been coming in droves for some time now....the droves will just

> > get larger.
>
> Must be a regional phenomemon. I haven't seen such "droves" in my area.
>
>
>

1750. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 22:50:16 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9598F1FAEAF3CEAA.1E1CB1ECEF5BBD15.25A160AD88E7F86E@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24797

On 24 Nov 2001 13:04:00 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>You do exactly the same thing, Rick.

Of course I do--everyone does. That's the entire point.

If I base my concepts of right and wrong on my own moral values, you base yours on your values, Dave does, etc.--so long as we can agree that harm to nonconsenting individuals is considered wrong by all of us, then there is no conflict involved. I may behave in a manner I find moral, you may behave in one you find moral, and neither of us will in any way affect the other.

What is so difficult for people to accept about that simple concept?

>How do you KNOW there are no absolute values for right and wrong? Besides,
>making that statement is an absolute!

But not an absolute value of right and wrong. I never said there were no absolutes in life!

How do I know there are no absolute values for right or wrong? A couple ways:

1. There has never been universal agreement among ALL sane and intelligent people (I'll leave the mentally ill and intellectually challenged out of the definition, since their perceptions would by necessity inaccurately influence their decisions) as to ANY universals that were right and wrong. If absolutes existed, there would necessarily be agreement as to their existence. Yet for ANY "right" or "wrong" you can list, I can identify at least one (or more) culture that feels the opposite.

2. There is no commonly accepted source for such absolutes to have been decided. Some people believe right and wrong are defined by a "god," others by culture, still others by the individual. Unless one, invariant, and demonstrably infallible source of such absolutes can be shown to exist (not on a basis of belief--as in a diety--but in a scientifically verifiable sense), no such absolutes can be reasonably be considered TO exist.

Why is it so difficult for people to accept that concepts of right and wrong are relative, instead of absolute? We don't live in a static, unchanging, world--we live in a dynamic, evolving, one. What is "right" today may well be "wrong" tomorrow. Some examples:

1. I would hope we all agree that killing another adult human being who does not wish to die and did not commit a capital crime is "wrong." But if that is the case, doesn't that make war (in which conscripts and civilians are routinely killed--as is happening now in Afghanistan) wrong and those who wage war evil by definition? If not, then killing is NOT an absolute "wrong." If so, then everyone in this group who ever served in uniform (as I did as well) was "wrong" as his/her role could have reasonably been expected to result in the killing of others.

2. In most early cultures (including the Egyptian and Roman cultures), prostitution was considered an act of spirituality--many temples had prostitutes who contributed their fees to the temple itself. Today, the churches define prostitution as "wrong" and immoral. Which is it? Depends a LOT on your perspective--and thus the concept of an "absolute" wrong doesn't apply here either.

Many examples could be used just as easily. The important fact is, there are NO universals concerning right and wrong (the closest is an almost--but not complete--taboo on incest throughout cultures, but of course each culture defines what incest IS in a different manner; what an American would consider incest may not be considered such in, for example, Borneo, and what a Sudanese would consider incest wouldn't be considered incest here in the USA). But lacking universals, we likewise lack absolutes.

The closest we can come to an absolute value is to limit our "Universals" to a statement that any act which harms the person or property of a non-consenting (and, in the case of criminal punishment or war, inappropriately targeted) individual is "wrong" from any reasonable perspective. Thus, if I commit murder, rape, theft, or expose myself to children at a bus stop for that matter, it can clearly be seen that harm HAS been inflicted directly on non-consenting individuals, and thus by any reasonable definition the act was "wrong."

On the other hand, if instead of acting in the manner above, I choose to attend a nude beach, smoke a joint, or attend a swing party for that matter, it is equally clear that no non-consenting person is in any way involved in the action, and thus no harm has occurred. Given such a circumstance, the ONLY valid judge of whether or not my action was "wrong" is myself--and that decision can only be based on my personal interpretation of morality, not on one being imposed on me by others.

Why is that concept so difficult for people to understand and accept? It allows EVERYONE the right to engage in any activity that does not harm others, and forbids anyone from engaging in any activity that DOES harm others. Sounds pretty logical to me.

>> Why is that so difficult to understand? If my actions harm >>you, it is clear (by recourse to logic) that a "wrong" has occurred.
>

>Yup. But who gets to decide whether "harm" has occurred? The person who did >the action? The person who is supposedly harmed? Some neutral third party?
>What criteria determines "harm"? That is all "personal value" stuff.

You mean moral values are NOT "personal" but the definition of
"harm" is?

That's absurd!

It's pretty easy to tell if someone has been harmed. All that's necessary is to learn if they were directly involved in the activity concerned, and if so if they gave their informed consent for the activity TO occur. If--and only if--they were involved and did not consent to the activity can we define the experience as having harmed
them.

For example, if I choose to attend a nude beach, it clearly cannot cause you harm. If you are not at that beach, you _can_ not be harmed in any manner by my attendance and if you ARE at the nude beach, you have given an implied consent for others to be nude in your presence--if you are offended by seeing nude people yet choose to go to a nude beach, you really don't have any grounds for complaint if people ignore your claim to be offended.

On the other hand, if instead of a clearly designated nude beach, I choose to wander through your yard nude, then you DO have a legitimate grounds to claim harm. Because I will have invaded your privacy and reduced your enjoyment of your yard, by necessity my action harmed you and you have valid grounds for a complaint.

Is that really so difficult to understand? It simply states the same thing as the old cliche: "Your right to swing your arm ends at the tip of my nose."

>There's no claim at all - that's obvious. But again the question is: who gets >to decide whether harm has occurred?

Use the criteria above to determine harm. Anyone could then recognize whether it occurred or not.

>>It can't be your values, you aren't >>involved in the action and thus aren't in a position to judge its >>"rightness."
>
>Does this mean that the "victim" has no say about whether harm has occurred?

No--it means that the non-victim (the person who is not involved in the action--as stated above) has no voice in the matter.

>> It can't be society's values, for the same reason. That >>leaves ONLY myself and others involved in the action.
>
>So only the persons committing an action get to decide whether harm has >occurred? I don't think you mean that!

I don't think I _said_ that either!

I said that only the persons INVOLVED in an action have a voice, not that only the persons PERFORMING an action do. If, for example, I hold you up at gun point, we are BOTH involved in the action. But if I place a bet on a horse race, unless you are present and a part of the action, you are NOT involved, and therefore have no voice in deciding whether my action (in which you can't legitimately identify a victim who was harmed) was right or wrong in any absolute sense.

>> Just as I'm not "in charge" of deciding that your views are >>narrow-minded, you are not "in charge" of deciding that Kim's (or mine >>for that matter) are "immoral" or "tasteless."
>
>Who gets to decide if a particular callsign causes harm or not?

The FCC. They set the standards for issuing call signs.

>You're avoiding the central questions, Rick: Who decides whether harm has >occurred? Who decides whether the harm is great enough to require some sort of >action to remedy the situation?

Answered above.

>Here's an example: Suppose A lets his property become a real mess. Grass isn't >cut, paint is peeling, junk in the yard, etc. Nothing that is a clear health or >safety hazard but the place looks awful. B, who lives right next door, wants to >sell his house and move away because B doesn't like living next to such a dump.
>But B cannot find a buyer because of the condition of A's place. Has A harmed >B? Who gets to decide? If the decision is yes, how much harm has occurred and >what is the remedy?

It is clear that A has harmed B. Through his direct and deliberate violation of reasonably expected standards in a residential community he has caused B to suffer an economic loss. B, in any such circumstances, could sell his house--however he would be forced to accept a price below that which he would have realized had the neighboring home not reduced his property value. Thus, the amount of the loss (the harm suffered by B) is the amount of reduction in price between a fair market value, given expected neighborhood values, and the actual realized offering price. The remedy, obviously, is a legal action against A compelling him to either repair his property and thus restore B's property values or to compensate B for the difference in selling prices resulting from his actions. As far as who gets to decide, in such a case, clearly the decision would be made by a judge.

BTW, consider this. Obviously, you view A as having harmed B
(a view I agree with), and felt that way when you wrote this example.
Let's change it a bit. Suppose instead of failing to maintain his property, A is a ham radio operator who chooses to put up an antenna farm that, because it distracts from the visual appearance of the neighborhood, results in the same difficulty in selling for B. Is the situation the same or different? Why?

>Suppose B finds a buyer (C) who agrees to buy B's house but at a price far >below fair market value because of the condition of A's place. Is A responsible >for B's loss? Can C try to get A to fix up the property?

The answer to the first part is above. With respect to the second part, C has NO legitimate grounds to demand that A fix up the property (although he is certainly free to ask him to do so and to try to convince him that it would benefit him as well). C purchased the property at a price consistent with being next door to a property in the condition of A's--thus he is NOT harmed by A's actions in any way (assuming A doesn't allow his property to deteriorate even further, thus reducing C's property value further, and placing him in the same position B was in originally). Sounds simple to me, and requires no recourse to any "absolute" values.

>Who decides? Whose values of "harm" should be used? Think about it.

I have--read over my examples and try to do the same yourself.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1751. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 22:51:55 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C00248B.3BB7DFE4@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24798

N2EY wrote:
> It's interesting that you avoid the example I gave about the neighbor with the > run-down property. Are you saying that no is harmed in such a case?

I only read one screen per posting. Cuts down on the length of my reply.
If there were no zoning laws or CCRs or contracts then the guy is SOL.

> How about if A goes around telling lies about B? Suppose B is in the business > of manufacturing antennas, and A says he has bought B-brand antennas and they > all turned out to be unreliable.

If B can show damages, he is protected by law. If he can show damages, by definition, a type of force was used against him. Damages don't have to be physical but they do have to be real. All the "damages" to the ARS from Kim's callsign are strictly imagined. There is NO damage in reality.

> >If I told you I experienced harm because of your > >choice of callsigns, would you change it for me?
>
> If you could show how that harm occurred, I might consider it.

I can't sleep trying to make up dirty phonetics for your callsign.

> >Finding harm in Kim's callsign is like > >finding dirty sex in ink blots.
>
> Nope. The inkblots are random patterns. Kim's call was not chosen at random.

What if someone chooses a callsign that means "tit" in Swahili? Would you consider it obscene? It is a callsign. It is not a dirty word. People who think it is dirty are using their free will to choose to think it is dirty. They are free to do so but shouldn't be rewarded for their choice of dirty thoughts. I think dirty thoughts in choir on Sunday because the lady in front of me smells so good. Should she be chastised because of the perfume she chooses to wear?

There's not a whole lot of difference in, "Her choice of callsign causes me to want to chastise her", and, "Her choice of attire causes me to want to rape her."

Reminds me of the C A Jones California vanity license plates.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1752. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 22:58:53 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C00262D.8C18FF0D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24799

Krell wrote:
> No surprise here. The Episcopal church has long recognized same-sex > marriages. Bishop Spong even went so far as to say that the Apostle Paul may > have been homosexual. He wrote about this in his book "Rescuing the Bible > from Fundamentalism."

Many believe that the "thorn" in Paul's side was homosexuality.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1753. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 23:01:19 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0026BF.87473DAF@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24800

Richard McCollum wrote:
> The passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act was one of Lyndon Johnson's all > time great 'convincing' efforts. A cartoon of the era pictured two rather > obviously Southern senators meeting on the Capitol steps with their left > arms twisted in a knot. One says, "See you met Lyndon, too."

I suspect that Lyndon Johnson was more interested in a legacy than he was in civil rights.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1754. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 23:06:29 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0027F5.207F7979@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24701

Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
> One page on my site deals with what Amateur radio is slowly becoming, the > new children's band...

I thought all the children (mentally) were on this newsgroup.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1755. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-24 23:17:35 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <jUVL7.127737$WW.7954741@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24702

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C0026BF.87473DAF@IEEE.org...
> Richard McCollum wrote:
> > The passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act was one of Lyndon Johnson's all > > time great 'convincing' efforts. A cartoon of the era pictured two rather > > obviously Southern senators meeting on the Capitol steps with their left > > arms twisted in a knot. One says, "See you met Lyndon, too."
>
> I suspect that Lyndon Johnson was more interested in a legacy than
> he was in civil rights.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

Lot of evidence for that POV

1756. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 00:13:24 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C00379A.10AC3378@sccoast.net>
Source record: 24703

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> It isn't just Cecil that is hearing > these things. I hear it in nearly every > theological discussion, bible discussion, > religious discussion I am near or a part > of. I hear it "nearly" each time I have > ever been in a church. I hear nearly > every time the witnesses show up on my > doorstep. I heard it last night at the > table with my fundamentalist brother-> and sister-in-law.

You've repeatedly heard that people of other religions are inferior? Like I said, many christians do believe those of other religions are wrong, evil, going to hell, or whatever, but I've heard very few describe them as inferior. And, again, like I said before, the concept that the members of other religions are wrong, etc, is certainly not unique to christians (most religions think that of other religions).

> I agree with you, Dwight, that it was > not the teaching of Jesus Christ or > the attitude of true Christians. However,
> when I stated last night, to the same > brother-in-law, that Jesus never judged
> and condemned people to Hell, he stated > that I was wrong--that the Bible is > replete with Jesus speaking of people > who would burn in places, etc. (snip)

First of all, since this topic has attracted others into the discussion, let me add again that I'm certainly no expert on christian theology. I'm simply offering my opinion based on what I learned years ago. Anyway, having said that, I do think it is important to make one thing clear here - in a religious context, a christian cannot condemn a person to hell. A christian can state an opinion that a person is going to hell because of the person's behavior, attitude, or whatever, but that goes no further than an opinion. Only God has the power to condemn a person to his/her eventual spiritual fate. Likewise, Jesus does not condemn a person to hell - he simply stated the terms under which a person would be condemned. Again, only God reserves the power of ultimate judgment.

> (snip) Like I said last night (and my > brother-in-law nearly fell out of his > chair): we all worship the same god, we > just have different ways of doing it. I > don't care how you get to "Heaven" just > that you try to get there. It's in the > "trying" that makes all good things
> happen.

Well, while living a "good" life is certainly a worthwhile goal, many religions would argue that something more is required (an acceptance of God, avoidance of sin, reparations for past sins, etc). But, to avoid giving a "sermon," I'll let it drop with that.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1757. Re: Contest idea, work all your own suffix

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 00:39:50 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011124193950.09887.00001790@mb-da.aol.com>
Source record: 24704

>Subject: Contest idea, work all your own suffix
>From: Robert Casey wa2ise@ix.netcom.com
>Date: 11/24/2001 3:24 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C00101A.EC216778@ix.netcom.com>

>
>Be the first to work your suffix in all American prefixes!
>Of course if you have a call like Kim's, that's gonna
>take a while.

Great idea!

When I was KC8M, I worked/QSL'd the zero, six and three, and worked but never got a card from four and five.

So far I have about 10 "YZ" cards.

73

Steve, K4YZ

1758. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 01:36:22 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gnbqwc0.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24706

On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 22:03:53 GMT, BH wrote:

>What about on board US Navy ships? I have talked to and run phone >patches for Navy personal using the ships communications that had >the capability of operating on the ham bands. Even talked to one >radio operator in Hawaii as they were sitting on the tarmac in a >Navy sea plane, he was using the regular comms. Talked to him >about 15 minutes then he had to QRT as they were getting ready for >take off.

Was this on MARS?

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1759. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 01:36:24 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gnbrvd1.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24705

On Sat, 24 Nov 2001 19:06:55 GMT, Roger Halstead wrote:

>> (b) The station must be separate from and independent of all >> other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft, except >> a common antenna may be shared with a voluntary ship radio >> installation......
>>
>No it's not!
>
>"IF" the aircraft radios are such that they can also cover the ham bands and
>the oerator has the license they may be used on the ham bands.

What is the legal basis for your conclusion?

" ... separate from and independent of all other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft" seems like pretty clear language.

>IF a Ham station is installed THEN that station must be kept seperate.

Any transmitting apparatus used by a licensed amateur radio operator for transmissions on the amateur radio bands becomes a "ham station"
for regulatory purposes.

Please cite the FCC reg or case law that you claim says otherwise.

>The above says nothing about using the aircfraft system radios on ham bands
>if they go there and there are systems that do.

It covers it very plainly: " ... separate from and independent of all other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft".

What part of the quoted reg do you not understand?

--

73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

Principal Attorney (retired)
Communications Law Center

1760. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 01:36:39 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gnbt0g2.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24707

On Sat, 24 Nov 2001 18:42:02 GMT, Roger Halstead wrote:

> The "absolute authority" of the PIC is really limited to what the > company lawyers say it is....if the PIC wants to retain his/her job.
>
>In most cases if you don't ask...

The issue isn't what one can get away with - the issue is how one protects one's rear end to avoid being charged with the violation.
That's the kind of law I practice.

What sort of defense do you think can be raised in the face of the black-letter reg that says "thou shalt not....." The usual criminal "dude" defense ("..'twasn't me, judge, it was some other dude") won't fly (pardon the pun). Neither will "I didn't know" - the law considers that if you have a license you know or should know.

>In the past and with only a few exceptions the authority has been left with >the PIC. It hasn't been that many years ago where it was possible for a >passenger to get permission to use an HT, but that has become nearly >impossible as the rules require that the radio be checked out in the >particular airplane, but it has been done. At least one story was published >about doing that, but I don't remember which magazine and only that it was >within the last 15 years. The article went through what the individual ham >had to do to get permission and the testing with the operation being >somewhat anticlimatic.

IIRC Delta was the only airline that permitted scanners or ham rigs to be operated in flight, but it's been about 5 years since I flew on that airline. My common-carrier vehicle of choice is by rail, where there are no such restrictions.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1761. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 01:38:10 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C004B59.3BA60684@sccoast.net>
Source record: 24708

Phil Kane wrote:
>
> N2EY wrote:
>
> > You mean how "other" religions > > are "wrong"? That's part of the > > boilerplate - if a church says > > other religions aren't "wrong", > > there's no reason for that > > church to exist.
>
> Jewish theology teaches that ours > is not the "one and only" "right" > faith and therefore all others are > "wrong".
>
> It teaches that moral living is > the "right" way, no matter which > faith one adheres to in doing it.

That's doublespeak, Phil. Almost any religion can say that - if a person lives a "moral" life, as defined by my religious theology, that person is okay. But, what you said hides the opposite - if a person does not live a "moral" life, as defined by Jewish theology, that person is wrong (a "sinner," as a Christian might say). The same is true for other religions (as long as they live a "moral" life as defined by Jewish theology). In other words, your religion is no more tolerant of those who live outside your concepts of morality than any other religion is of those who live outside it's concepts of morality. There is nothing wrong with that (all religions promote their own slightly different versions of morality and avoid those with conflicting morality), but hiding it behind doublespeak certainly suggests otherwise.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1762. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 01:46:58 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpiii$c6d$0@208.206.142.100>
Source record: 24709

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Why do you want to stick your ugly nose in other people's business?
> >
> > Why do you want to stick your business in other people's nose?
>
> I don't, Dick. I won't bother them and I don't want them to > bother me. What is wrong with live and let live? I don't > want to control what you do in the privacy of your home.
> Why do you want to control what I do in the privacy of mine?

Where on earth did you get that idea? Dreaming again, via some more of your
"one hit $shit"?

1763. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 01:50:27 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C004E36.5C8070A5@sccoast.net>
Source record: 24710

CAM wrote:
>
> I see you are not up on Southern Baptist > doctrine, Dwight. Jesus was with God > from the beginning. When God said, "Let > us make man in our image", he was > talking to Jesus and the Holy Spirit.
> Anyone who didn't believe in Jesus/
> Jehovah from the beginning is going to > hell. Haven't you ever heard of The > Trinity? What's the matter with you, > anyway?

Fine, but I've never heard that promoted by any christain religion (a person who died before Christ's birth went to hell). If that is indeed Southern Baptist doctrine, what are they basing it on?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1764. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 01:50:32 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpip8$c6d$1@208.206.142.100>
Source record: 24711

CAM wrote:
>
> "Leland C. Scott" wrote:
> > What I also found startling was his comment about who he has the most > > trouble with on the bands. In his words many of the complaints are > > about the on-air conduct of Extra and Advanced Class Hams who think > > "...they have a license to drive people crazy."
>
> Hmmmmmm, just like on rec.radio.amateur.policy

Yeah, you are an Extra now aren't you?

1765. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 01:54:24 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C004F22.F458522@sccoast.net>
Source record: 24712

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> No I didn't and neither do any of > the Southern Baptists. It is my > understanding that Jesus died for > the redemtion of the sins of all men.
> That goes for those before and > after him. It looks as if Buddha > is covered.

Well said, Dave. I completely forgot about that.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1766. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:07:45 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpjph$fh6$0@208.207.71.169>
Source record: 24713

CAM wrote:
>
> Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
> > One page on my site deals with what Amateur radio is slowly becoming, the > > new children's band...
>
> I thought all the children (mentally) were on this newsgroup.

Speaking for yourself again, I see. Of course you act like a pre-sophomoric 5th grader.

1767. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:07:54 UTC
From: BH <radioguyx@texxas.net>
Message-ID: <3BFF9A18.A6BA162A@texxas.net>
Source record: 24715

No, it was on 15 meters.

Phil Kane wrote:

>
> Was this on MARS?
>
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1768. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:08:54 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C005283.EA01ADBB@sccoast.net>
Source record: 24714

Krell wrote:
>
> Because they think that cute=funny.
> It's like that stupid "Dude, you're > gettin' a Dell" commercial, (snip)

Is that commercial supposed to be funny? No wonder I never got it - I thought Dell was serious about that spokesperson - they thought he would convince me to buy a Dell. In reality, a goofball like that would only make me less interested in their products (stupid commercials tend to have that effect on me - and there are a lot of really stupid commercials out there).

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1769. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:09:29 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpjsp$fh6$1@208.207.71.169>
Source record: 24716

CAM wrote:
>
> Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
> > I VOTE NO! It's a BAD IDEA! So was dropping the speed to 5 wpm... CBers with > > their nice habbits will come in droves.
>
> It's been a year and a half so why hasn't it happened yet?

Uh, there's still, that nasty 5wpm code test. Might as well be 30 to them.

1770. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:19:03 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C0054E2.364D0B72@sccoast.net>
Source record: 24717

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> (snip) Is Jesus mentioned anywhere
> the Muslim religion? (snip)

Yes, he is. Many in the Islamic faith believe he is one of the many prophets. Some believe he even holds a higher position (even to the point of believing in his eventual return).

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1771. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:28:27 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpl0biac0@208.207.71.171>
Source record: 24718

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
> > > > I VOTE NO! It's a BAD IDEA! So was dropping the speed to 5 wpm... CBers with > > > > their nice habbits will come in droves.
> > >
> > > It's been a year and a half so why hasn't it happened yet?
> >
> > They've been coming in droves for some time now....the droves will just > > get larger.
>
> Droves????? The ham population is virtually unchanged. Most of what has > happened is tech+'s upgrading to general and generals/advanced upgrading > to extra. Exactly where are those "droves", Dick? (FYI, the sky is not > hard and cannot fall.)

Evidently you were too deep into the drug culture to notice, but things changed in ham radio pretty drastically about the time we began to get large numbers of CBers -I mean the seasoned, hard core CBers- into ham radio. Before that you never heard any of the trash on HF. A single swear word was enough to get other hams down on your case as well as certainly the FCC. Ever hear of W4EGB? FCC took his license and put him off the air because every evening he'd get slowly drunker and nastier on the air. Such crap as the so-called Liberty Net wouldn't have ever been allowed to develop, much less become an ongoing cesspool.

A real, VALID CW test had more to do with keeping the bands clean and orderly than anything else, whatever the FCC says these days. (Of course that fact is no longer poltically correct) There were just no hams who were so mildly interested in ham radio they just didn't care. Today we're overloaded with them, largely courtesy of CB. I give you as evidence a blowsy broad who chose TIT as her "vanity" callsign, ha ha ha ha ha!

Back then most people really put out to get a ham ticket and were not about to jeopardize it by stupid behavior. Today it's all a given - tests, even the code, to say nothing of all the "It's my right" nonsense.

1772. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:29:23 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpl23iep0@208.207.71.171>
Source record: 24719

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
> > > > I VOTE NO! It's a BAD IDEA! So was dropping the speed to 5 wpm... CBers with > > > > their nice habbits will come in droves.
> > >
> > > It's been a year and a half so why hasn't it happened yet?
> >
> > They've been coming in droves for some time now....the droves will just > > get larger.
>
> Droves????? The ham population is virtually unchanged. Most of what has > happened is tech+'s upgrading to general and generals/advanced upgrading > to extra. Exactly where are those "droves", Dick? (FYI, the sky is not > hard and cannot fall.)

Evidently you were too deep into the drug culture to notice, but things changed in ham radio pretty drastically about the time we began to get large numbers of CBers -I mean the seasoned, hard core CBers- into ham radio. Before that you never heard any of the trash on HF. A single swear word was enough to get other hams down on your case as well as certainly the FCC. Ever hear of W4EGB? FCC took his license and put him off the air because every evening he'd get slowly drunker and nastier on the air. Such crap as the so-called Liberty Net wouldn't have ever been allowed to develop, much less become an ongoing cesspool.

A real, VALID CW test had more to do with keeping the bands clean and orderly than anything else, whatever the FCC says these days. (Of course that fact is no longer poltically correct) There were just no hams who were so mildly interested in ham radio they just didn't care. Today we're overloaded with them, largely courtesy of CB. I give you as evidence a blowsy broad who chose TIT as her "vanity" callsign, ha ha ha ha ha!

Back then most people really put out to get a ham ticket and were not about to jeopardize it by stupid behavior. Today it's all a given - tests, even the code, to say nothing of all the "It's my right" nonsense.

1773. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:30:47 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gnbvn30.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24720

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 02:07:54 GMT, BH wrote:

>> Was this on MARS?

>No, it was on 15 meters.

Well, the point that I have been tryinmg to make is what the Rules require, not what one gets away with.

If there's no complaint, no sweat. If a complaint is made, though, what defense can be offered?

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1774. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:40:21 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tplml$k2r$0@208.207.71.171>
Source record: 24721

Richard Plourde wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> >
> > Richard Plourde wrote:
> >
> >>Dick Carroll wrote:
> >>
> >> > It would only reasonable that any female would > >> > run for her life from Islam, for obvious reasons.
> >>
> >>There you go again, Carroll, throwing the baby out with the bath water...
> >>
> >>You insist on being eternaly wrong, painting with those, very , very broad > >>strokes of your's...
> >>
> >>You're getting dangerously close to becoming a laughing stock here with your > >>zealous attempt at being the 'top schlemiel'...
> >>
> >>
> >
> > I'm a realist. You're an idiot.
> >
>
> Well, well, well... what have we here? Carroll's attempt at repartee'????
>
> You are soooooo predictable... you're becoming a charicature of yourself.
>
> Have another dozen doughnuts and case of beer you'll feel better in the > morning... ;-)

You really are a clueless dumbass. All the evidence you need is right under your nose and what you smell is roses. Get your head out and take a good look around. That wasn't just another Hollywood production on Septembe 11, you simpleton.

You've been a caricature of yourself all along.

If you like doughnuts and beer, knock yourself out. I never touch either.

1775. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:45:00 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tplvd$ko2$0@208.207.71.171>
Source record: 24722

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > news:9tn6kv$q30$1@208.206.142.74...
> >
> >
> > Richard Plourde wrote:
> > >
> > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > >
> > > > It would only reasonable that any female would > > > > run for her life from Islam, for obvious reasons.
> > >
> > > There you go again, Carroll, throwing the baby out with the bath > water...
> > >
> > > You insist on being eternaly wrong, painting with those, very , very > broad > > > strokes of your's...
> > >
> > > You're getting dangerously close to becoming a laughing stock here with
> your > > > zealous attempt at being the 'top schlemiel'...
> > >
> >
> > I'm a realist. You're an idiot.
>
> Most people on this group present their arguments in a logical fashion. All > you can do is post statist views with absolutely nothing to back them up > other than your own opinion.

Most people will at least take a look at the available evidence before making up their minds or before stepping on their tounge. Somehow you CW phobic ex-CBers always predicate your choice of sides on any issue on whether or not the opposition is a CW supporter. Or whether or not he kisses up to you otherwise. You should at least have some idea of what the terrorist situation is about, if you live in New York. But evidently your hate for CW overrules your rationality.

Has ham radi0o gone to hell in the past couple decades? Without a doubt. And it is entirely in the (poor) quality of most of those persons entering the hobby.
There is not a valid gonad among you.

1776. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:46:15 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <XXYL7.196268$3d2.8168959@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24723

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tplml$k2r$0@208.207.71.171...
>
> If you like doughnuts and beer, knock yourself out. I never touch > either.

I have been known to touch them both but not anywhere near each other.

Wheaties and stale beer, Dick, breakfast of ex-champions.

1777. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:46:21 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpm1tkqc0@208.207.71.171>
Source record: 24724

Give it up Kim, they just WON'T sork as brains, however hard you may try to get them to. They just want to obey the law of gravity, nothing more.

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Man, I must be making some sense to you! Thanks!
>
> Kim W5TIT
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > news:9tmult$st9$3@208.207.71.169...
> > >
> > >
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Sigh It was a matter of my not paying attention
> > >
> > >
> > > If brains were dollars you still couldn't pay attention.

1778. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:50:47 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011124215047.14773.00001905@nso-dh.aol.com>
Source record: 24726

In article <3BFC0A87.125ABD1E@earthlink.net>, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
writes:

>
>Larry, he is a 300,000 foot tall bipolar, obsessive/compulsive alien who >can dunk basketballs and who has babies in the back of the bus. Perhaps >this is a man who, in some aspects, should be taken seriously!
>
>Dave K8MN

Dave:

My goodness! Well, at that altitude, I hope he moonlights doing tower work! Should be able to make a fortune!

1779. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:50:47 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011124215047.14773.00001904@nso-dh.aol.com>
Source record: 24727

In article <F89C3480A193D08D.3EA2BF8FE5E3FB92.60CE20EF0373D95C@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
>>Yeah, Rick. It's university profs, such as yourself, that are the reason >>Larry's never been able to do a darned thing with his "education." ;)
>
> Flunked him in too many classes, huh?
>
> Rick

Not even close, Rick. I got my B.S. in Human Resources Management
Summa Cum Laude. The worst grade I got was a B+ in Organizational and Industrial Psychology. All the rest were A's with a couple of
A minuses. Final GPA was 3.88.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1780. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:50:48 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011124215048.14773.00001906@nso-dh.aol.com>
Source record: 24725

In article <20011122160400.23334.00000784@nso-da.aol.com>, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) writes:

>
>Guess my electropolitical incorrectness rubs some folks the wrong way. Too >bad.
>
>73 de Jim, N2EY

Jim:

"Electropolitical incorrectness?" New acronym: EPIC.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1781. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:50:48 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011124215048.14773.00001907@nso-dh.aol.com>
Source record: 24728

In article <81556E28351A1A56.42166A57A58FAD72.308E90AEA500DABC@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
>>That's where you'd be wrong. I was in Safeway the other day, and there >>was a bottle of Tobasco sauce on a shelf, several inches over my head!
>>Somehow, I managed to "get it." In reality, I get lots of things that are >>over my head.
>
> Larry!
>
> You're demonstrating a sense of humor!
>
> Shame on you--you're destroying all our images of you!
>
> Rick

Oooops, sorry. I'm sure it's inconvenient for you, since it makes me appear to be just as human as anyone else! I'll keep that in mind!

73 de Larry, K3LT

1782. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 02:56:46 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpmlemja0@208.207.71.171>
Source record: 24729

CAM wrote:
>
> N2EY wrote:
> > Yup. But who gets to decide whether "harm" has occurred? The person who did > > the action? The person who is supposedly harmed? Some neutral third party?
> > What criteria determines "harm"? That is all "personal value" stuff.
>
> That's easy, Jim. The definition of actual harm should require the > use of force or threat of force.

ARE you serious??? There is such a thing as economic harm, psychological harm, any number of types other than "force".

The imagined harm over Kim's callsign
> is not harm at all.

Sure it it. If most hams want the ARS to appear as a family oriented service, and wish it to appear that way to younger persons, and when they demonstrate ham radio to younger folk, there is Kim W5TIT and her (tee hee, big gabonzas, with all the double ententre or sexual innuendo accompanying, what is that but harm?

If I told you I experienced harm because of your > choice of callsigns, would you change it for me? Of course not!

Just because you take no offense over W5TIT doesn't mean that a majority of other hams do not. Is your opinion the only one that counts???

> > Who gets to decide if a particular callsign causes harm or not?
>
> "Sticks and stones may break my bones but callsigns can never hurt me."
> Anyone who allows callsigns unaccompanied by force or threat of force > to hurt them are cooperating in their own pain. The "harm" is self > imposed. Callsigns can cause no harm without the cooperation of the > "victim"(s). Think about it. Finding harm in Kim's callsign is like > finding dirty sex in ink blots.

Total bullshit.

1783. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 03:04:15 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpn3fnhu0@208.207.71.171>
Source record: 24730

CAM wrote:
>

> What if someone chooses a callsign that means "tit" in Swahili? Would you > consider it obscene? It is a callsign. It is not a dirty word. People > who think it is dirty are using their free will to choose to think it > is dirty.

So then, WHY did she choose it? Couldn't be to go with her anatomy, could it? And the travesty is that is a sham anyway- oversized saggy mammary glands are not attractive and are not an object of attraction, so why does she need and want to call attention to them? Evidently she needs the reinforcement (literally). Did she choose it because of some basic innate insecurity on her part? Would she be a total unknown without being W5TIT, the titty ham? Does that callsign give her an identity that she otherwise could never have?

All this matters not, it is simply very poor taste and an albatross on
the ARS.

1784. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 03:06:47 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpn87nhu1@208.207.71.171>
Source record: 24731

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 24 Nov 2001 13:04:00 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
> >You do exactly the same thing, Rick.
>
> Of course I do--everyone does. That's the entire point.
>
> If I base my concepts of right and wrong on my own moral > values, you base yours on your values, Dave does, etc.--so long as we > can agree that harm to nonconsenting individuals is considered wrong > by all of us, then there is no conflict involved. I may behave in a > manner I find moral, you may behave in one you find moral, and neither > of us will in any way affect the other.

But society sets the guidelines for all of us. There is a range of acceptability. Go outside this range, and society will sanction you.

>
> What is so difficult for people to accept about that simple > concept?
>

Yeah, why indeed?

1785. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 03:12:40 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpnj8nhu2@208.207.71.171>
Source record: 24732

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 24 Nov 2001 04:07:30 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > You can blow smoke out your posterior until it's too sore to sit on,
> >but you can't change the fact that any kid soon learns that most of the > >crime comes from and within the ghetto, and guess what the ghetto is > >mostly populated with?
>
> Poor people, you idiot. Why do you think they CALL it a > ghetto?
>
> Remember the Warsaw Ghetto? The Ghetto in Bucharest? The > Polish Ghetto in Chicago?
>
> >All the touchy-feely BS you can spread like > >peanut butter won't change a thing.
>
> No it won't. You're a bigot and nothing even approaching the > truth is likely to get through that racist barrier.
>
> > And it's only racist if you make it to be.
>
> No, Dick. It's racist if you make untrue statements about a > group, stereotype a group, or otherwise single that group out as your > inferiors.
>
> > Basically it's fact.
>
> Basically, it's bigoted nonsense that would make Archie Bunker > cringe.
>
> > Facts are what kids are very good at determining. BS is what you are > >very good at spreading.
>
> And hatred, racism, and bigotry are your forte. So what?
> SOMEONE has to clean up after cretins like yourself and insure that > the children you pollute in your homes have a chance to learn the > truth once you get your claws out of them and they reach college.
>

And you are not only a dumbass you're a phony lying dumbass. You have not the first clue what you're talking about.

1786. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 03:17:28 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpns8pmu0@208.207.71.171>
Source record: 24733

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> news:9tn6e2$q30$0@208.206.142.74...
> > > Except that the truth happens to be that the danger of violent > > > crime is inversely proportional to the income level of the > > > neighborhood. It doesn't matter if the residents are black, white, > > > yellow, red, or green for that matter--if they are poor there will be > > > a high crime rate, if they aren't there won't.
> >
> >
> >
> > You can blow smoke out your posterior until it's too sore to sit on,
> > but you can't change the fact that any kid soon learns that most of the > > crime comes from and within the ghetto, and guess what the ghetto is > > mostly populated with? All the touchy-feely BS you can spread like > > peanut butter won't change a thing.
> > And it's only racist if you make it to be. Basically it's fact.
> > Facts are what kids are very good at determining. BS is what you are > > very good at spreading.
>
> Perhaps, then, you can enlighten us as to why the crime rate is so high in
> such an area.

Sure. Basically for the same reasons the young Islamics hate us and join the Jihad. They just don't know anything except what they're taught from infancy. If you're told from first cognizance that all Westerners are evil infidels who Allah dictates must be exterminated even at the cost of your own life (but you'll get your reward of 40 virgins and all you can eat in the afterlife) that's all you know.
If, as a black kid, you see nothing but drug deals, ubiquitous crime and hustling, you grow up believing you're supposed to be a drug dealing, hustling criminal.

1787. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 03:28:37 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tpoh5sbo0@208.207.71.171>
Source record: 24734

CAM wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> > If you served in foreign posts, it's too bad you didn't take > > the opportunity to absorb more of their cultures.
>
> Actually, a book was written about guys like Dave,
> "The Ugly American".

Just another totally erroneous judgement from our resident "one hit $hit" guy.

1788. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 04:59:52 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C007AC8.F4355CD@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 24735

Dwight Stewart wrote:

> CAM wrote:
> >
> > I see you are not up on Southern Baptist > > doctrine, Dwight. Jesus was with God
> > from the beginning. When God said, "Let > > us make man in our image", he was > > talking to Jesus and the Holy Spirit.
> > Anyone who didn't believe in Jesus/
> > Jehovah from the beginning is going to > > hell. Haven't you ever heard of The > > Trinity? What's the matter with you, > > anyway?
>
> Fine, but I've never heard that promoted by any christain > religion (a person who died before Christ's birth went to > hell). If that is indeed Southern Baptist doctrine, what are > they basing it on?

In the Catholic Church, they say that they're the best church around, but they say that if someone in another faith follows it and good and stuff (including Buddhists, Hindus, Muslims, etc.) they get credit for it and get into our heaven. I hope the other religions have reciprocal agreements, just in case... :-)

1789. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:02:44 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C007B74.6B7569F@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 24736

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:

>
>
> Not even close, Rick. I got my B.S. in Human Resources Management
> Summa Cum Laude. The worst grade I got was a B+ in Organizational > and Industrial Psychology. All the rest were A's with a couple of
> A minuses. Final GPA was 3.88.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

And you're the one driving a bus? :-)

1790. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:06:07 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C007C3F.3626DBF9@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24737

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net> writes:
> >Larry, he is a 300,000 foot tall bipolar, obsessive/compulsive alien who > >can dunk basketballs and who has babies in the back of the bus. Perhaps > >this is a man who, in some aspects, should be taken seriously!
> >
> My goodness! Well, at that altitude, I hope he moonlights doing tower > work! Should be able to make a fortune!

Unfortunately, that 300,000 foot dimension is not the same one as a tower.
It is at right angles to the other three dimensions.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1791. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:14:06 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C007E1E.6ACD3E1B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24738

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Did she choose it because of some basic innate insecurity > on her part? Would she be a total unknown without being W5TIT, the > titty ham? Does that callsign give her an identity that she otherwise > could never have?

The reason she chose it doesn't matter. What matters to that you have not taken responsibility for considering it in poor taste. Your feelings are your responsibility, Dick. You cause them to happen. Your feelings in reaction to a particular callsign are not Kim's responsibility. You are like the rapist who pleads that the way the woman was dressed forced him to think evil thoughts and he was powerless to prevent the crime.

> All this matters not, it is simply very poor taste and an albatross on
> the ARS.

You're right - it matters not and neither does your opinion or feelings except, of course, to you.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1792. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:21:46 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c007f50.1515526@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 24739

On Sat, 24 Nov 2001 19:06:55 GMT, "Roger Halstead" <rdhalste@tm.net>
wrote:

>
>"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
>news:cuvyxnansvbet.gn9g200.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
>> On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 02:45:49 GMT, BH wrote:
>>
>> >I can see this for installing non-type accepted amateur gear, but >> >do not see how this applies for using the installed aircraft comms >> >that can operate on the ham bands.
>> >
>> That is covered by:
>>
>> Sec. 97.11 Stations aboard ships or aircraft.
>>
>> (b) The station must be separate from and independent of all
>> other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft, except >> a common antenna may be shared with a voluntary ship radio >> installation......
>>
>No it's not!
>
>"IF" the aircraft radios are such that they can also cover the ham bands and >the oerator has the license they may be used on the ham bands.
>
>IF a Ham station is installed THEN that station must be kept seperate.
>
>The above says nothing about using the aircfraft system radios on ham bands
>if they go there and there are systems that do. Those would be systems such >as the HF rigs that are required for transoceanic flights. More than likely >for the big elaborate systems there are tohse that cover the VHF and UHF >bands as well, but those are not radios most of us could afford.
>
>I've seen more than one light plane that had a Kenwood, or Icom to use on HF
>for those transoceanic flights and the FAA was quite willing to accept them.
>Roger Halstead (K8RI)

Likewise on the Navy ships, the ham doesn't set up another station, they just set up one of the transcievers for a ham frequency. We did that in the 60s using AN/WRC-1 or we'd use an HF Xmitter with a separate reciever such as R390A or R1051.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

1793. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:29:03 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C00819F.4267901@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24740

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > That's easy, Jim. The definition of actual harm should require the > > use of force or threat of force.
>
> ARE you serious??? There is such a thing as economic harm, > psychological harm, any number of types other than "force".

Oh ye of such limited conceptual range. Actual harm of any kind requires force or threat of force of some kind. Have you never heard of economic forces or psychological forces? For instance:
Economic forces beyond the control of the Federal Reserve are drawing the US deeper into a recession. Try a web search for "economic forces" and see what pops up. Google just found
1,390,000 hits for me. Is that enough for you?

> The imagined harm over Kim's callsign
> > is not harm at all.
>
> Sure it it. If most hams want the ARS to appear as a family oriented > service, and wish it to appear that way to younger persons, and when > they demonstrate ham radio to younger folk, there is Kim W5TIT and her > (tee hee, big gabonzas, with all the double ententre or sexual innuendo > accompanying, what is that but harm?

Every young person's mother has tits, Dick. Probably 35% of the population has tits. You cannot simply sweep them under the rug and forget about them.
It's hard to find a TV program where they are not hanging out.

> If I told you I experienced harm because of your > > choice of callsigns, would you change it for me? Of course not!
>
> Just because you take no offense over W5TIT doesn't mean that a > majority of other hams do not. Is your opinion the only one that > counts???

I seriously doubt that the majority of hams are so antisocial that they would object to W5TIT as a callsign. But if they are, they have a personal problem and should see a psychologist.

> Total bullshit.

When you cannot refute the logic, utter some profanity, eh? Isn't "bullshit" a lot worse than Kim's call? After all, there are more people reading this newsgroup in one day than Kim ever talks to

on the air.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1794. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:30:38 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0081FE.9B86E319@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24741

Dick Carroll wrote:
> But society sets the guidelines for all of us. There is a range of > acceptability. Go outside this range, and society will sanction you.

This is a free country, Dick, with inalienable rights. You try to sanction me and you might just wind up getting sanctioned.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1795. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:32:23 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C008267.34177C5D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24742

Richard McCollum wrote:
> I have been known to touch them both but not anywhere near each other.

Are we still talking about tits?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1796. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:37:17 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C00838D.9DDE4665@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24743

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Has ham radi0o gone to hell in the past couple decades? Without a > doubt. And it is entirely in the (poor) quality of most of those persons > entering the hobby.

Yep, and Riley Hollingsworth sez those bad guys are mostly Extras and Advanced class.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1797. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:39:46 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C008422.3647B2CC@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24744

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> Krell wrote:
> > Perhaps, then, you can enlighten us as to why the crime rate is so high in > > such an area.
>
> Sure. Basically for the same reasons the young Islamics hate us and > join the Jihad. They just don't know anything except what they're taught > from infancy. If you're told from first cognizance that all Westerners > are evil infidels who Allah dictates must be exterminated even at the > cost of your own life (but you'll get your reward of 40 virgins and all > you can eat in the afterlife) that's all you know.

It appears that you have been taught from birth that all Islamics are evil
and that's all you know.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1798. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:42:55 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0084DF.DB977D2C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24745

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> Fine, but I've never heard that promoted by any christain
> religion (a person who died before Christ's birth went to > hell). If that is indeed Southern Baptist doctrine, what are > they basing it on?

That's exactly what I would like to know.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1799. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:44:57 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C008559.8425C09@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24746

Robert Casey wrote:
> In the Catholic Church, they say that they're the best church > around, but they say that if someone in another faith follows
> it and good and stuff (including Buddhists, Hindus, Muslims, > etc.) they get credit for it and get into our heaven. I hope > the other religions have reciprocal agreements, just in case...

Southern Baptists believe that only some protestants are going to heaven. In particular, they believe that Catholics and Mormons are going to hell.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1800. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:47:48 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C008604.AEC00834@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24747

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > > Why do you want to stick your ugly nose in other people's business?
> > >
> > > Why do you want to stick your business in other people's nose?
> >
> > I don't, Dick. I won't bother them and I don't want them to > > bother me. What is wrong with live and let live? I don't > > want to control what you do in the privacy of your home.
> > Why do you want to control what I do in the privacy of mine?
>
> Where on earth did you get that idea?

From some of your previous postings.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1801. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:56:40 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C008818.E11BC64A@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24748

Dick Carroll wrote:
> ... things
> changed in ham radio pretty drastically about the time we began to get > large numbers of CBers -I mean the seasoned, hard core CBers- into ham > radio. Before that you never heard any of the trash on HF.

So all the extras and advanced hams that Riley talks about trashing ham radio were previously hard core CBers???? Even the 20wpm Extras???

> Today we're overloaded with them, largely courtesy of CB.

Society has changed, Dick. CB and ham radio are merely microcosms of society in general. Movies, Music, and TV have had lots more effect on ham radio than have CBers.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1802. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 05:58:02 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C00886A.2835654@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24749

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Speaking for yourself again, I see. Of course you act like a > pre-sophomoric 5th grader.

Uhhhhhhhh Dick, all 5th graders are pre-sophmoric.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1803. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:00:17 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0088F1.222EDC53@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24750

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
> > > I VOTE NO! It's a BAD IDEA! So was dropping the speed to 5 wpm... CBers with > > > their nice habbits will come in droves.
> > >
> > It's been a year and a half so why hasn't it happened yet?
>
> Uh, there's still, that nasty 5wpm code test. Might as well be 30 to > them.

So which is it, Dick? Are CBers coming in droves or is 5wpm keeping them out. Methinketh thou talketh with a forked tongue. You cannot have it both ways.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1804. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:05:01 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C008976.866897B5@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24801

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 07:16:34 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >I asked the one who sat at my Thanksgiving dinner table. He says you're > >incorrect as regards the Episcopal Church. The Church also has the say > >on what music is permissable or not.
>
> I'll digitize and send you a video clip (from HBO, btw) of an > Episcopal priest conducting a marriage ceremony (using the Episcopal > rituals for all but the exchange of vows) in Washington D.C., in 1993 > for approximately 5,000 gay and lesbian couples who he invited to > recite their own vows to each other then pronounced married. They may > not be married under law, but they ARE married under church law (ask > your Priest)--and the priest who did so is still ordained and serving > as pastor of his church.
>
> Let me know where to send the clip.

You mean that a priest, disregarding the canons of the church did so.
I think that'd be The Reverend Lonnie Smily of the Unioted Church of
Have A Nice Day.

You needn't bother with the clip.

> >Yeah, I have the idea what your views are. I don't agree with 'em.
>
> I doubt seriously that you do, Dave. Simply because someone > doesn't try to control the life or choices of his/her partner does NOT > mean that he or she doesn't have a good--or monogamous--relationship, > only that they respect their spouse and respect their spouse's rights > and freedom of choice.

You don't have to doubt, I've come out and said so. Also, I don't believe that we were discussing a monogomous relationship, were we? At no point did I advocate control of a spouse's life. You must have been reading someone else's post.

> >> You mean someone else is supporting my wife's and son's needs > >> economically, intellectually, and emotionally? Someone is taking care > >> of her when she's sick, cheering her up when she's down, helping her > >> with her tasks, providing her emotional support and encouragement, > >> standing up for her if she's threatened or attacked, helping her with > >> her research, and taking her shopping (among other things)?
> >>

> >> Who?
> >
> >Let's see...Her dad could support her economically or she could do it > >herself. Her best friend could support her intellectual needs. Her > >sister could be her emotional support. A guard dog could ward off > >attacks and she could either drive or take the bus shopping.
>
> Her Dad lives on Social Security.
>
> I'm her best friend.
>
> She doesn't have a sister.
>
> We have cats not dogs.
>
> There are no busses where we live (her choice of location, > btw), we're 30 miles from the nearest small city.
>
> She doesn't drive.
>
> Note, incidently, that I asked who IS doing certain things and > you reply with who "could" do so if they chose (and existed).
>
> Try sticking to a thread if you participate in it. You're > beginning to sound like Larry & Dick.

Try coming up with your own solutions to your own hypthetical problems.

> >> Or are you referring to sex as the "job of a good husband." If > >> so, I have to ask: What on earth makes you think of sex as a "job" in > >> the first place?
> >
> >You used the word. Was is a euphemism?
>
> Go back to the original quote and re-read it.

That wasn't an answer.

> >
> >> >My tongue was firmly planted in cheek.
> >>
> >> Actually, your foot was firmly planted in your mouth.
> >
> >Actually, the meaning is lost since you snipped the portion of your > >statment to which I responded.
>
> So put it back. You STILL ended up with your foot in your > mouth.

That simply can't be since you snipped the portion to which I was replying.

> >I think you'd have problems whether you were informed beforehand or > >found out later.
>
> Why?

The things which would lead a wife to consider such action in the first place.

> >> What does society OR religion have to do with my private > >> behavior?
> >
> >I don't believe that any of us is formed without influence from society > >or religion. I don't believe that any individual brought up in a vacuum > >would have a clue about right or wrong. I don't know that any such > >individual exists.
>
> But right or wrong are _relative_ not absolutes.
>
> Example:
>
> Is sexual intercourse right or wrong?
>
> It shouldn't matter who the people involved are if it's an > absolute value--either it's "Right" or it's "Wrong."
>
> But, of course, it ISN'T an absolute.
>
> Is it right?
>
> For a loving married couple, we would BOTH say yes.
>
> If the woman is forced to do so, we would BOTH say no.
>
> If the man and woman aren't married to each other, however, we > run into a problem--because depending on the circumstances we probably > WON'T agree in all cases.
>
> Does that make your values right and mine wrong? Or mine right > and your's wrong? Or does it simply mean that we don't share the SAME > values in some areas and probably do in others.
>
> It isn't how you are brought up that determines what is right > and wrong--how you are brought up determines only what YOU believe to > be right and wrong. But belief does NOT make for fact.
>
> >>It would be idiotic for me to adhere to the values of a > >> religion I didn't believe in simply because other people do so in my > >> community--if everyone in your neighborhood believed their homes were > >> on fire would you start spraying water in your living room even though > >> you saw no flames or smoke? As far as "society" goes, try to remember > >> that society is simply an accumulation of individuals. Thus there is > >> no possible reason to assume that "society" has any more valid basis

> >> for its rules than any individual who is a part of it.
> >
> >That's poppycock. All individuals don't possess the same amount of gray > >matter and it only stands to reason that a society--your accumulation of > >individuals--will have a sum total of experience and intellect greater > >than any one individual can ever hope to have.
>
> Really?
>
> It could _just_ as logically be argued that we should have a > dictatorship, since a dictator who was brilliant wouldn't have his > intellect "Dulled" by the many lower intellect members of the society > and could therefore be counted on to make the right decisions more > often than would be the case if the population were to do so.

That simply doesn't make sense. The dictator still wouldn't have the sum total experience or intellect of all of his subjects. Have you seen what happens to almost every dictator?

> If the population of a nation invariably have a greater amount > of experience and a higher intellect--they explain the following:
>
> The election of the Nazis to power in Germany.

...election? By the way, he was defeated by the sum total intelligence and experience of the rest of the world.

> The makeup of our current congress and presidency.

What about it?

> Bigotry.

you tell us.

> War.

you tell us.

> Domestic Violence.

you tell us.

> Hate crimes.

you tell us.

> The Civil War.

you tell us.

> The Vietnam War.

you tell us.

> The popularity of the Home Shopping Network, the fact that the > number ONE selling paper in the US is the Weekly World News, tobacco > smoking, or the Drug War.

Which IS the number one selling paper? Is it The Weekly World News, Tobacco or The Drug War? I always thought it was Charmin.

> Go for it, Dave. If society is so smart, why do these problems > exist or these absurd choices of leaders occur?

Gee, Rick. I think you should tell us. After all, you seem to think you have all the answers. I'm just a guy who doesn't buy into your idea of nirvana.

> >> So long as my actions don't harm others, it really isn't the > >> concern of anyone but myself--just because YOUR religion opposes a > >> given behavior doesn't justify banning it--only avoiding it yourself.
> >
> >But society has always determinded which of your activities harm > >others. You don't have the final say.
>
> Really?
>
> So if society determines that drinking alcohol, smoking > cigarettes, using ham radio, and watching movies with a rating greater > than "PG" harm others, you will immediately stop doing them?

Be assured that if society makes such a decision, I'll abide by it.
Good luck with your rant now.

> It isn't up to society to arbitrarily decide which of my > activates harm others--it's up to society to PROVE that those actions > harm others before prohibiting them. And when it comes to morals laws, > it's pretty hard for them to do that.

Then explain those laws on the books with which you obviously have such a problem.

> >> Color IS apparent. It is also irrelevant. Teaching a child to > >> be color blind, as you know, is simply teaching him or her that the > >> color of a person's skin has absolutely no relationship to that > >> person's personality, behavior, intelligence, or capabilities. If you > >> insist that color should not be ignored then it could be added that > >> the color of someone's skin DOES indicate the clothing colors that > >> will look best on them and the degree of protection from burning they > >> should look for in a sun block. Fair enough?
> >
> >Then don't use cliches like "color blind" when you mean to say that skin > >color is irrelevant. That should also be fair enough.
>
> Ok, but be sure not to sign any of your messages "73," since > it's a cliche. Just say "goodbye" instead from now on.

I don't sign my messages with "73".

> >> Are you arguing that the Episcopal church does not attempt > >> to convert non-Christians to their beliefs--and that they do not see > >> other religious beliefs as being "wrong" or inferior to Christianity?
> >
> >Convert? Sure the Church attempts to convert others in order to spread > >the word of the gospels. Does the Church preach that those with > >different religious beliefs are wrong or inferior? No.
>
> Then perhaps you can explain to me how they manage to > "convert" people from their current religion, while simultaneously > telling them that their current religion is as good as Christianity?

Do you mean that you can't reveal something without condemning or censuring something else?

> >> you can speak for the Episcopal church? And if so, and your statement > >> above is true, then justify ANY of your comments about the morality of > >> my views or Kim's call sign.
> >
> >I believe that Kim is ignorant of the impropriety of her choice. Now, > >am I speaking from my religious or societal perspective?
>
> Are you stating that her call is or is not immoral?

I believe that you'll find that I've said her choice was a) tacky, b) lacking taste and c) lacking decorum. Anything else is speculation on your part.

> If it is not, then there is no possible impropriety involved.
> It is no more relevant that her call is W5TIT than it would be if it > were W5ITT.

That's not true. It could still be tacky, lack decorum and exhibit a lack of taste.

> If, otoh, it IS immoral (thus justifying the accusation of > impropriety) then you are either basing that view on a religious > definition of morality or on none at all (in which case, by > definition, her sign CAN'T be immoral). No non-religious (and not all > religious--outside of Christianity at least) philosophy defines > natural human sexuality or the human body as "immoral." Only religions > reserve that right.

Your rant goes waaaaaaaay beyond reality.

> Again, are you stating that her call is immoral (and thus > admitting that you ARE speaking from a religious perspective) or are > you stating that it is NOT immoral (and therefore not improper)?

No, I'm not stating that Kim's call is immoral and no, I'm not stating that it is not immoral. I'm stating that it is tacky, lacks decorum and that it exhibits lack of taste.

> >Who gets to judge which views of society are based in religion, Rick?
> >Is it you? Do you deny that some of your recent statements regarding > >Christianity would be offensive of any Christian? Society could find > >fault with your sexual views on public health or nuisance issues.
>
> Really?
>
> Show me a single quote from any post I've made that would > justify a definition of fault from a strictly secular perspective.

Are we talking about the swinger parties, the wives with multiple partners or those men who frequent prostitutes? Get real.

> >> Ok--find TEN Christians that practice the religion precisely
> >> the way it is intended to be practiced--in other words precisely as > >> the bible instructs them to practice it and I'll retract that > >> statement.
> >
> >Any what, precisely is supposed to be my motivation for doing so?
> >You'll want to contact a church group in order to conduct your own > >research.
>
> Translation: You know that it's completely impossible for you > to do so, so you choose to pretend there's no reason for you to try.
>
Damn, Rick. You've gotten it wrong again. There isn't any translation necessary unless you'd like to consider: I don't plan to put forth the effort because it wastes my precious time and would be highly unlikely to change your views. I don't plan to bother with it. You don't assign me homework.

> >> You didn't state that the US had a better tax rate than other > >> nations (it doesn't, try Monaco or Saudi Arabia)--you stated that it > >> had more freedom. High taxes have nothing to do with that.
> >
> >Certainly they do. Would you like to enjoy the freedoms offered by Saudi > >Arabia? Your sexual ideas would certainly be a hit there.
>
> Er, Dave.
>
> My reference was to the tax rate in Saudi Arabia, not to > freedom. Read more carefully.

I read what you wrote. Do you think you'd enjoy living in Saudi Arabia with its low tax rates?

>
> >> As far as social problems go, we have VASTLY more in the US > >> than in any Western European nation with the possible exception of the > >> relatively recently reunited Germany. Again, that has nothing to do > >> with freedom--the subject of your claim.
> >
> >Social problems indicate turmoil and instability and that has plenty to > >do with freedom. I disagree with your assessment that we have "VASTLY" > >or even any more social problems than in any Western European nation.

>
> Take a look at the current crime statistics, rate of infant > mortality in our cities, percentage of our citizens incarcerated, rate > of teen pregnancy, cost of our drug war, AIDS infection rate, rape
> rate, domestic violence rate, or the ranking of our schools, to name > just a few at random.
>
> Now tell me again we don't have VASTLY more social problems
> than Western European nations.

We don't have VASTLY more social problems than in Western European nations. All western European nations are suffering the problems described. Finland in the mid-80s didn't have skinheads and graffiti defacing urban buildings and monuments. Finland in the mid-90s had those problems. Where are the American sports hooligans like the those found in European countries.

> >> I wouldn't have the vaguest idea--but based on your statements > >> about other nations you did NOT teach political science.
> >
> >I retired from the Foreign Service a year ago.
>
> Is that supposed to make you an expert on politics?

Are you supposed to be an expert? Did someone tell you that you're important?

> If you served in foreign posts, it's too bad you didn't take
> the opportunity to absorb more of their cultures.

How would you know what I did? Your ignorance of what I did overseas has got to be at least as great as your ignorance of what I did for a living. By the way, I don't believe you can show me a Foreign Service member who does not serve in foreign posts. The people who work for the government domestically are Civil Service. Foreign Service members serve only periodically in the U.S. I was overseas for fifteen continuous years.

> I don't go to psychology, sociology, or political science > classes to LEARN those subjects, either.
>
> Your point being?

See how hard it is to respond if an individual insists on snipping relevant portions? Yeah, I know; I forgot too.

> >In the end, ask yourself why there are lots more folks from foreign > >countries coming to the U.S. each year than Americans who move abroad.
>
> On the basis of years of education--there AREN'T.

Earth to Rick: Get a clue.

> For the first time in American history, in the last decade,
> the EMMIGRATION rate for individuals with a Bachelors degree or better > has exceeded the IMMIGRATION rate for individuals with that level of > education. In other words, we're exporting our best minds.
>
> Ask yourself why.

Ask yourself why you'd make such an elitist statement.

> > Correction to translation: Please save me from this leftist > >rhetoric...
>
> For someone who claims to know something about political > issues, you certainly don't seem to know the difference between a > leftist and a libertarian.

If it squeals like a pig, there's probably some pork in there somewhere.

Dave K8MN

1805. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:13:47 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C008B8E.979A72F6@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24802

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Leaning in the direction of freedom is definitely not leaning to > > > either the left or the right. The liberal left is generally for > > > social freedom and against economic freedom.
> >
> > I was addressing the liberal left.
>
> From an equally invalid position called the conservative right.
> If you are against freedom, it doesn't really matter what you > call yourself. The liberal left and conservative right could > unite into a political party called the Anti-Freedom League.

Gee, how undemocratic of you to make such a sweeping statement.

> > >The conservative right
> > > is generally for economic freedom and against social freedom.
> > > Note that both are anti-freedom is certain areas. Libertarians > > > are for both social and economic freedom, i.e. freedom in general.
> >
> > I addressed the liberal left from the conservative right.
>
> That's what I was pointing out, Dave. You are against social freedom, > i.e. you are anti-freedom just like the liberal left. You really need > to do something about those beams in your eyes.

Anyone who would point them out would have a similar problem, eh?
You've already got me labelled and put into a box. You have a similar box around you, Cecil.

Cecil's Mantra: "By God, if we made everything legal, there wouldn't be any crime.

Dave K8MN

1806. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:15:36 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C008BFD.A32923C7@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24803

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > Well, let's start with you, Dave. Do you eat pork?
> >
> > Oh, did you think I was going to assist you? Try and find out.
>
> Now I don't have to - you just told me.

Sure you have to, Cecil. What I told you is that I do not intend to assist you. If you want to win, you have to work for it. You'll either be a winner or a guy who has gone to a lot of trouble for nothing. I've made no revelation. You're just seeing dirty pictures in ink blots.

Dave K8MN

1807. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:18:32 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C008CA9.DDD8F615@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24804

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > Convert? Sure the Church attempts to convert others in order to spread > > > > the word of the gospels. Does the Church preach that those with > > > > different religious beliefs are wrong or inferior? No.
> > >
> > > Don't know about your church but Southern Baptist churches certainly > > > preach that "those with different religious beliefs are wrong or > > > inferior".
> > >
> > Try to read the posts and you'll find the answer. I'm not a Southern > > Baptist.
>
> Ah, but you said "the Church" above. You didn't specify any > denomination.

The Church is all of Christianity. The church is a building. The Baptist Church is the Baptist Church.
>
> > > I hear it almost every Sunday. Did you know that Buddha, > > > a good man who died 300 years before Christ was born, went straight > > > to hell?
> > >
> > No I didn't and neither do any of the Southern Baptists. It is my > > understanding that Jesus died for the redemtion of the sins of all men.
> > That goes for those before and after him. It looks as if Buddha is > > covered.
>
> Guess you had better take it up with Reverend Witcher, our Southern > Baptist preacher. Want his phone number?

You can pass it on for me, Cecil. You're there anyway and it'll save me the cost of the phone call. It'll give you two something interesting to talk about. Ask him about Kim's call while you're at it.

Dave K8MN

1808. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:19:40 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C008CED.A50E6B73@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24805

CAM wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> > If you served in foreign posts, it's too bad you didn't take > > the opportunity to absorb more of their cultures.
>
> Actually, a book was written about guys like Dave,
> "The Ugly American".

It is quite obvious that you either did not read it or (more likely) that you don't remember Lederer's tome.

Dave K8MN

1809. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:22:09 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C008D7C.2D8D4B7B@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24806

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > Please point us to a document which provides a percentage of southerners > > opposed to passage of the Civil Rights Act.
>
> Please point us to a document which provides a percentage of > southerns favoring the passage of the Civil Rights Act. I > live and travel in the South, Dave. Things are slowly changing > for the better but in the 1960's, when I was a traveling salesman,
> I had to be quiet about my support for the Civil Rights Act or > else risk loss of sales and bodily injury.

YOU are the individual who indicated that the majority of Southerners supported segregation. Proving it is only necessary if you want to be believed (I think that is the way you put it).

I'd think a guy like you still has to be quiet about some things in order to prevent bodily injury.

Dave K8MN

1810. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:23:31 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C008DCF.95F0C8E9@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24807

Richard McCollum wrote:
>
> "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> news:3BFFC41B.A9365D6D@IEEE.org...
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > Please point us to a document which provides a percentage of southerners > > > opposed to passage of the Civil Rights Act.
> > >
> > Please point us to a document which provides a percentage of > > southerns favoring the passage of the Civil Rights Act. I > > live and travel in the South, Dave. Things are slowly changing > > for the better but in the 1960's, when I was a traveling salesman,
> > I had to be quiet about my support for the Civil Rights Act or > > else risk loss of sales and bodily injury.
> > --
> > cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
>
> The passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act was one of Lyndon Johnson's all > time great 'convincing' efforts. A cartoon of the era pictured two rather > obviously Southern senators meeting on the Capitol steps with their left > arms twisted in a knot. One says, "See you met Lyndon, too."

A Bill Mauldin cartoon wasn't it?

Dave K8MN

1811. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:29:09 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C008F1D.47C38D39@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24808

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 04:44:53 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >If it wasn't clear to you: The Netherlands has less freedom than the > >U.S.
>
> Would you care to tell us in what AREAS you have greater > personal freedom in the United States than in the Netherlands?

Do you carry a national ID card?

> Since your statement not only goes against experience, but
> goes against the recently released UN study of freedom in member > nations (which listed the Netherlands as the freest nation on earth, > followed by Denmark, etc.), it would seem that you need to offer more > than a simply statement of opinion to support your claim.

The UN? 'nuff said.

1812. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:37:40 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C009113.6960A44F@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24809

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> In article <3BFC0A87.125ABD1E@earthlink.net>, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> writes:
>
> >
> >Larry, he is a 300,000 foot tall bipolar, obsessive/compulsive alien who > >can dunk basketballs and who has babies in the back of the bus. Perhaps > >this is a man who, in some aspects, should be taken seriously!
> >
> >Dave K8MN
>
> Dave:
>
> My goodness! Well, at that altitude, I hope he moonlights doing tower > work! Should be able to make a fortune!

Naw, he's busy singing in the choir at a church whose views he does not share. That is, of course, when he isn't busy praying to his inner self.

Dave K8MN

1813. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:57:37 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125015737.12427.00003225@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 24818

In article <3BFE589B.210B81EB@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>> I VOTE NO! It's a BAD IDEA! So was dropping the speed to 5 wpm... CBers >with >> their nice habbits will come in droves.
>
>It's been a year and a half so why hasn't it happened yet?

I dunno, Cecil, but where are the legions of smart, computer-literate, technical-savvy, eager, enthusiastic, and committed young people who were supposed to create a digital paradise on the ham bands, and save them from any thought of reallocation by commercial communications and broadcasting interests? Of all of the new people who have come into my local ham radio club since Restructuring, there isn't a single one less than 45 years old, they are all about as technically ignorant as they can be, show no demonstrable interest in overcoming even the simplest technical challenges common to radio amateurs, want their hands held every step of the way, and think that organizing the local Field Day operation is an event worthy of fame and fortune!

We may not be getting droves of CB'ers, but there is still a 5 WPM code test to contend with. When it goes, the "droves" will come -- and they will be asserting their microphone privileges with a terrible vengeance! However, for your sake, I hope that there will be a few more "blowsy broads" that select demeaning, sexualized call signs, so you can continue to play Knight In Shining Armor when you come out in their defense!

73 de Larry, K3LT

1814. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:57:37 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125015737.12427.00003224@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 24820

In article <028833ADEBA69BBE.882EF94BB22E4E92.71A4EF907909FB94@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
> From a strictly personal perspective, I firmly believe that >racism, sexism, ageism, and religious prejudice have no place in our >hobby--and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage
>our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--but >that's purely a personal view, not a hard-and-fast fact.
>
> Comments?

Rick:

I have been railing against the overt bigotry, racism, sexism, and religious prejudice on the ham bands for years. These are the main reasons why I have all but abandoned any thought of using the phone bands as an on-the-air activity. I believe that all of these things have no place on ham radio, and every instance of them being heard by current and prospective amateurs brings the ARS "...one step closer to extinction," to borrow Riley Hollingsworth's words on a different, but strongly related topic.

I don't think that the ham bands are an appropriate venue for the full and unfettered expression of one's First Amendment "rights" to express negative commentary about other people. I think such speech is, in fact, protected by the Constitution, and must be "tolerated," but the proper venue would be here on Usenet; the ham radio bands are not.

I believe in the statement, "We live in a democracy, but we do not work in one." Just as an employer has the right to limit the speech of employees, in order to prevent embarrassment to the company, the ham bands must be kept strictly "G" rated, in order to reinforce the family-oriented nature thereof. Such subtle excursions from this concept as selecting demeaning callsigns with sexual innuendo, are an example of something that good hams should not do, for the good of the service.

>and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage
>our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--

"Here" is not "on the air," and that is an important distinction. I definitely do not behave on-the-air as I do in this newsgroup. This newsgroup is not ham radio. It is about ham radio, but the two are not the same, and what hams say here can contain a bit more of an "edge" than the can on-the-air without harming the positive image of the service -- as long the hams in question understand the difference, and are aware of where they are at the time. I know that you, among others, probably do not approve of some of the things I say here, in this newsgroup. However, I understand the difference between this and ham radio; and I'm sure you'd find my on-the-air behavior totally different -- if not boring.

Having said all this -- I doubt that much can be done about the bigoted, racist, sexist, etc. commentary which pollutes the HF phone bands, as long as the hams dishing it out are otherwise operating legally within the limits of their license privileges. It is a fortunate coincidence that the worst offenders along these lines also tend to be prone to exceeding their privileges, and are thus eligible for enforcement action. Unfortunately, we can't "enforce" the content of speech in any more meaningful way than to set a good example. Even more unfortunately, those who engage in hate speech on-the-air aren't likely to be positively affected by good examples, so all that is left is to avoid and ignore. My transceiver has one of those big round things on the front of it, and I'm not afraid to use it!

Uh oh -- now Kim's gonna think I'm talking about her again! I only said "one" Kim! Never mind -- she'll work her way into this somehow -- she usually does!

73 de Larry, K3LT

1815. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:57:38 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125015738.12427.00003227@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 24811

In article <3bf9cb28_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>Heck, one time when the FCC was talking about having a law that any tower >over a certain number of feet would have to be painted red and white, one of >the gang on '88 keyed up and said if he painted anything on his tower it >would be a great big FU. I about drove off the road on that one.
>
>Kim W5TIT

Kim:

I'm sure that, as usual, you were ROTFLYBFUAO.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1816. Re: Contest idea, work all your own suffix

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:57:38 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125015738.12427.00003226@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 24816

In article <20011124193950.09887.00001790@mb-da.aol.com>, k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ) writes:

>>Be the first to work your suffix in all American prefixes!
>>Of course if you have a call like Kim's, that's gonna >>take a while.
>
> Great idea!
>
> When I was KC8M, I worked/QSL'd the zero, six and three, and worked but >never got a card from four and five.
>
> So far I have about 10 "YZ" cards.
>
>73
>
>Steve, K4YZ

This is a good idea. When I held the call WR2F, I worked about eight of the other WR2's -- and always wished I could finish them all. I'll have to check QRZ.com and see how many LT's are out there!

73 de Larry, K3LT

1817. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:57:39 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125015739.12427.00003229@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 24815

In article <887B94DC0A930298.B2CBC2526C5F8194.34139715CCB3AA35@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
> I just had a dream in which God told me to have all the >Christians in the NG send me all their money and ham gear. He said >that if he says it's ok, then it's ok.
>
> I'm waiting . . .
>
> Rick

I just had a dream in which God told me that some nut in this newsgroup was going to tell us that we're supposed to send him
our money and ham gear -- and that He never said any such thing!
So don't be looking for any bank transfers or UPS shipments from Delaware...unless you ordered something from HRO!

73 de Larry, K3LT

1818. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:57:39 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125015739.12427.00003228@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 24819

In article <6be98d7d.0111230322.5dd13266@posting.google.com>, stewartx@sccoast.net (Dwight Stewart) writes:

>
> And, years from now, do you really think any of these minority groups >are going to step forward to help the many "white" families who been >negatively impacted by decades of affirmative action? For that matter, >once minorities are no longer a minority, do you really think they'll >ever end affirmative action?

Dwight:

I doubt it. I believe that some form of Affirmative Action will exist as long as the so-called "minority" ethnic groups continue to walk into voting booths and pull the switch for liberal, Democrat politicians.
They've got the Gravy Train rolling full speed, and don't plan on getting off any time soon, I'm sure. I think what this country needs is a good old fashioned revolt of the hard-working, taxpaying citizens of all races who want to see an end to the creation of dependency -- and force the know-nothings and do-nothings to wake up and find a way to share the wealth the good old-fashioned way -- by exercising the human characteristics of initiative, ingenuity, and integrity. BTW -- this applies to the lazy, slack-jawed, drooling, knuckle-dragging white trash as well as the "ethnic" minorities.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1819. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:57:40 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125015740.12427.00003232@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 24810

In article <3BFB2D51.2379D5B0@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Rick Adams wrote:
>> Seen any black helicopters lately, Larry? Maybe some UN troops >> taking over your neighborhood?

The only helicoptors I see over my neighborhood are the two Chinook's that are ferrying remains to/from the Dover AFB Mortuary; and the pretty blue job owned by the Delaware State Police.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1820. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:57:40 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125015740.12427.00003230@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 24812

In article <3BFB28E7.73A6CE1B@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Larry, I'm convinced you are pulling our legs. If not, you are >farther gone than I thought. One of your think-alikes hits >Afghani women with a stick because she shows her face in >public.

You are obviously mistaken, Cecil. I've never hit a woman with a stick for showing her face in public. I usually reserve that for people who drive too slow.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1821. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:57:40 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125015740.12427.00003231@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 24814

In article <3BFB2C88.9FC1C774@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> Well, you've got one thing right, Cecil -- I'm endlessly asking for >> forgiveness of my sins. I am also praying for those who don't see >> the need to ask forgiveness. That's as much as I can do, save for >> trying not to be a sinner.
>
>From your postings, I would say your attempt at not sinning >is pretty feeble.

Cecil:

All of my attempts at not sinning are feeble, compared to what they should be. I am a sinner, of that there is no doubt. Perhaps you would pray for me?

73 de Larry, K3LT

1822. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:57:41 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125015741.12427.00003233@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 24813

In article <3BFB2DA5.67728B4F@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior. I >> do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women; therefore, I would >> not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.
>
>Would you allow your wife to have lunch with a lesbian?

No, Cecil, and I wouldn't be married to any woman who wanted to!

73 de Larry, K3LT

1823. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 06:57:41 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125015741.12427.00003234@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 24817

In article <2C417BA006FB358B.64865A660512ACC7.E7EC661B8180E44F@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
>>I can't tell if that's penis envy or just plain envy.
>
> Kim, if talking about your call sign causes Larry to >experience penis envy, he's a LOT more confused than any of us >realize! :-)
>
> Rick
>

Actually, Rick, I think it's Kim who is "Jonesing" over penisus... penii...penises...whatever. After all, she's the one with the juvenile obsession with secondary sexual characteristics -- whether hers or someone else's.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1824. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 07:05:50 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125020550.12427.00003235@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 24821

In article <3C007B74.6B7569F@ix.netcom.com>, Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> writes:

>
>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
>>
>>
>> Not even close, Rick. I got my B.S. in Human Resources Management
>> Summa Cum Laude. The worst grade I got was a B+ in Organizational >> and Industrial Psychology. All the rest were A's with a couple of
>> A minuses. Final GPA was 3.88.
>>
>> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
>And you're the one driving a bus? :-)

Bob:

Yup -- along with a couple of guys with Master's Degrees. However,
I may not be driving much longer, I interview for a position in my company's Reservations section on Tuesday. However, I enjoy being a Paratransit operator, it is a very fulfilling job (most days). Since I now have the seniority to avoid taking an Extra List position, with it's inherent forced overtime, I may just stay "on the road." Decisions, decisions...

73 de Larry, K3LT

1825. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 07:07:53 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tq5c9amq0@208.206.142.91>
Source record: 24822

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > >
> > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > > Why do you want to stick your ugly nose in other people's business?
> > > >
> > > > Why do you want to stick your business in other people's nose?
> > >
> > > I don't, Dick. I won't bother them and I don't want them to > > > bother me. What is wrong with live and let live? I don't > > > want to control what you do in the privacy of your home.
> > > Why do you want to control what I do in the privacy of mine?
> >
> > Where on earth did you get that idea?
>
> From some of your previous postings.

Then you misread or misinterpreted what you read. But you always have trouble with your preconceptions.
```

1826. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 07:13:54 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tq5niamq1@208.206.142.91>
Source record: 24823

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > Has ham radi0o gone to hell in the past couple decades? Without a > > doubt. And it is entirely in the (poor) quality of most of those persons > > entering the hobby.
>
> Yep, and Riley Hollingsworth sez those bad guys are mostly > Extras and Advanced class.
>

Easy as the tests have been since the CB influx, that's no surprise.
Makes the Tech and Extra lites whiners look that much more pitiful and lame.

1827. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 07:19:35 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tq627cjd0@208.206.142.91>
Source record: 24824

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > Did she choose it because of some basic innate insecurity > > on her part? Would she be a total unknown without being W5TIT, the > > titty ham? Does that callsign give her an identity that she otherwise > > could never have?
>
> The reason she chose it doesn't matter. What matters to that you have > not taken responsibility for considering it in poor taste. Your feelings > are your responsibility, Dick. You cause them to happen. Your feelings > in reaction to a particular callsign are not Kim's responsibility. You > are like the rapist who pleads that the way the woman was dressed forced > him to think evil thoughts and he was powerless to prevent the crime.
>

As sos often is thje case, you are full to overflowing with male bovine excrement. It is very difficult for anyone to be held responsible, at least by any rational person, for someone else's choices. You on the other hand have no problem at all with jumping to criticize my opinion. Yet I have no right to criticise yours or hers. See a dichotomy there? I thought not.

> > All this matters not, it is simply very poor taste and an albatross on
> > the ARS.
>
> You're right - it matters not and neither does your opinion or feelings > except, of course, to you.

As always, you missed the point. The reason she chose that callsign is not important. The fact that she did, is.

1828. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 07:24:03 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tq6ajdim0@208.206.142.91>
Source record: 24825

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > That's easy, Jim. The definition of actual harm should require the > > > use of force or threat of force.
> >
> > ARE you serious??? There is such a thing as economic harm, > > psychological harm, any number of types other than "force".
>
> Oh ye of such limited conceptual range. Actual harm of any kind > requires force or threat of force of some kind. Have you never > heard of economic forces or psychological forces? For instance:
> Economic forces beyond the control of the Federal Reserve are > drawing the US deeper into a recession. Try a web search for > "economic forces" and see what pops up. Google just found
> 1,390,000 hits for me. Is that enough for you?
>
> > The imagined harm over Kim's callsign
> > > is not harm at all.
> >
> > Sure it it. If most hams want the ARS to appear as a family oriented > > service, and wish it to appear that way to younger persons, and when > > they demonstrate ham radio to younger folk, there is Kim W5TIT and her > > (tee hee, big gabonzas, with all the double ententre or sexual innuendo > > accompanying, what is that but harm?
>
> Every young person's mother has tits, Dick. Probably 35% of the population > has tits. You cannot simply sweep them under the rug and forget about them.
> It's hard to find a TV program where they are not hanging out.
>
> > If I told you I experienced harm because of your > > > choice of callsigns, would you change it for me? Of course not!
> >
> > Just because you take no offense over W5TIT doesn't mean that a > > majority of other hams do not. Is your opinion the only one that > > counts???
>
> I seriously doubt that the majority of hams are so antisocial that > they would object to W5TIT as a callsign. But if they are, they have > a personal problem and should see a psychologist.
>
> > Total bullshit.

>
> When you cannot refute the logic, utter some profanity, eh? Isn't > "bullshit" a lot worse than Kim's call? After all, there are more > people reading this newsgroup in one day than Kim ever talks to
> on the air.

You are one sick sucker. If there had been any logic in it it would have been refuted. As it was, all that was present was bullshit.

1829. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 07:25:37 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tq6dhdim1@208.206.142.91>
Source record: 24826

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > But society sets the guidelines for all of us. There is a range of > > acceptability. Go outside this range, and society will sanction you.
>
> This is a free country, Dick, with inalienable rights. You try to > sanction me and you might just wind up getting sanctioned.

I am not society. If you refuse to be sanctioned by society, that will ultimately be your problem and I will probably never even know of it. Societial sanctions often carry the FORCE of law.

1830. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 07:27:49 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tq6hldim2@208.206.142.91>
Source record: 24827

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > Krell wrote:
> > > Perhaps, then, you can enlighten us as to why the crime rate is so high in > > > such an area.
> >
> > Sure. Basically for the same reasons the young Islamics hate us and > > join the Jihad. They just don't know anything except what they're taught > > from infancy. If you're told from first cognizance that all Westerners > > are evil infidels who Allah dictates must be exterminated even at the > > cost of your own life (but you'll get your reward of 40 virgins and all > > you can eat in the afterlife) that's all you know.
>
> It appears that you have been taught from birth that all Islamics are evil
> and that's all you know.

There you go, lying out your ass again. Read the Koran and see what they are taught.

1831. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 07:40:39 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tq79nfpu0@208.206.142.91>
Source record: 24828

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > On Fri, 23 Nov 2001 04:44:53 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> > wrote:
> >
> > >If it wasn't clear to you: The Netherlands has less freedom than the > > >U.S.
> >
> > Would you care to tell us in what AREAS you have greater > > personal freedom in the United States than in the Netherlands?
>
> Do you carry a national ID card?
>
> > Since your statement not only goes against experience, but > > goes against the recently released UN study of freedom in member > > nations (which listed the Netherlands as the freest nation on earth, > > followed by Denmark, etc.), it would seem that you need to offer more > > than a simply statement of opinion to support your claim.
>
> The UN? 'nuff said.

He he he...Dave, he hasn't a clue. The UN is the biggest threat around to freedom in America. They want to make us more unfree, like the rest of the world. I'd wager he doesn't even know that of the 52 Islamic countries in the world, non contain a free society. It's all Islamic Law, bar none except Turkey which does have a partially free society.

1832. Aero Mobile -- The Best Way (Was: Aeronautical Mobile...)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 07:46:33 UTC
From: Jim Weir <jim@rst-engr.com>
Message-ID: <7q710ucb8machif88t8m31msbnedflku96@4ax.com>
Source record: 24829

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
shared these priceless pearls of wisdom:

-> The issue isn't what one can get away with - the issue is how one
-> protects one's rear end to avoid being charged with the violation.
-> That's the kind of law I practice.

Well, Kane, I'm so happy that you've had a career screwing up the works by legal manipulations.

Now take this on and do with it what you will --

In the amateur world, I'm an Extra and a long-time Elmer.
In the aviation world I'm an A&P, IA (airframe and powerplant mechanic with Inspection Authorization). Also commercial, instrument, flight instructor in airplanes and gliders.

In my airplane there is a 2-meter rig connected to the power bus by it's own breaker, but it is also connected to the airplane audio system through the aircraft's audio panel, and hence to the aircraft headphone and microphone circuits, thus "connected" to the aircraft system.

In my NSHO, this is the safest way to incorporate a ham rig in an airplane. The reasons are not important. My professional opinion is.

The aircraft number is N73CQ. The ham call is WX6RST. Come nail my ass to the grass for a violation if you wish.

Jim

Jim Weir, VP Eng. RST Eng. WX6RST
A&P, CFI, and other good alphabet soup

1833. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 07:46:42 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tq7l2glv0@208.206.142.91>
Source record: 24830

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > ... things
> > changed in ham radio pretty drastically about the time we began to get > > large numbers of CBers -I mean the seasoned, hard core CBers- into ham > > radio. Before that you never heard any of the trash on HF.
>
> So all the extras and advanced hams that Riley talks about trashing > ham radio were previously hard core CBers???? Even the 20wpm Extras???

why is it that you think 20WPM is such a big deal??? Anyone can do that if he (or she) wants.

"Think you can, think you can't, either way you're right". -Henry Ford

>
> > Today we're overloaded with them, largely courtesy of CB.
>
> Society has changed, Dick. CB and ham radio are merely > microcosms of society in general. Movies, Music, and TV
> have had lots more effect on ham radio than have CBers.

CB even contributed to the slide of society in general.

1834. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 07:48:40 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tq7ooglv1@208.206.142.91>
Source record: 24831

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
> > > > I VOTE NO! It's a BAD IDEA! So was dropping the speed to 5 wpm... CBers with > > > > their nice habbits will come in droves.
> > >
> > > It's been a year and a half so why hasn't it happened yet?
> >
> > Uh, there's still, that nasty 5wpm code test. Might as well be 30 to > > them.
>
> So which is it, Dick? Are CBers coming in droves or is 5wpm keeping > them out. Methinketh thou talketh with a forked tongue. You cannot > have it both ways.

Having yet another period of convoluted thought? Or do you really believe the CW test is here to stay?

1835. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 08:05:17 UTC
From: Roger Halstead <rdhalste@tm.net>
Message-ID: <1D1M7.669$9d.179502@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24832

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tpn87nhu1@208.207.71.171...
>
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > On 24 Nov 2001 13:04:00 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
> >
> > >You do exactly the same thing, Rick.
> >
> > Of course I do--everyone does. That's the entire point.
> >
> > If I base my concepts of right and wrong on my own moral > > values, you base yours on your values, Dave does, etc.--so long as we > > can agree that harm to nonconsenting individuals is considered wrong > > by all of us, then there is no conflict involved. I may behave in a > > manner I find moral, you may behave in one you find moral, and neither > > of us will in any way affect the other.
>
>
> But society sets the guidelines for all of us. There is a range of > acceptability. Go outside this range, and society will sanction you.
>
Then you have to define society as it varies with both geographic and ethnic
make up.
Depending on the particular act, the society may be local, regional, or national.

There are many parts of the world where we would consider their morals barbaric and they the same for us.

--
Roger Halstead (K8RI)
WWW.RogerHalstead.com
N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S# CD-2)
>
> >
> > What is so difficult for people to accept about that simple > > concept?
> >
>
>
> Yeah, why indeed?

1836. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 08:41:50 UTC
From: Roger Halstead <rdhalste@tm.net>
Message-ID: <i92M7.670$9d.179667@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24833

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
news:cuvyxnansvbet.gnbrvd1.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
> On Sat, 24 Nov 2001 19:06:55 GMT, Roger Halstead wrote:
>
> >> (b) The station must be separate from and independent of all
> >> other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft, except > >> a common antenna may be shared with a voluntary ship radio > >> installation......
> >>
> >No it's not!
> >
> >"IF" the aircraft radios are such that they can also cover the ham bands
and
> >the oerator has the license they may be used on the ham bands.
>
> What is the legal basis for your conclusion?
>
> " ... separate from and independent of all other radio apparatus > installed on the ship or aircraft" seems like pretty clear language.
>
> >IF a Ham station is installed THEN that station must be kept seperate.
>
> Any transmitting apparatus used by a licensed amateur radio operator > for transmissions on the amateur radio bands becomes a "ham station"
> for regulatory purposes.
>
> Please cite the FCC reg or case law that you claim says otherwise.
>
> >The above says nothing about using the aircfraft system radios on ham bands
> >if they go there and there are systems that do.
>
> It covers it very plainly: " ... separate from and independent of > all other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft".
>
> What part of the quoted reg do you not understand?
>
One of us doesn't and it's not me. <LOL>

The FCC and FAA have interpeted it on many an occasion.
Can I find them no. Nor do I care to take the time. I've seen the sanctioned use and that is all I need to see.
If you want to be sure, just call and ask them...As long as the equipment is certified and the user properly licensed they don't care.

I've talked with aircraft over the Atlantic using Icom and Kenwoods on ferry flights where HF is required.
They won't even let you take off without one from hawii. many large aircraft also cary these, but much communications has moved to satellite. Those radios are used both on aircraft and hamband frequencies.

I've talked with military aircraft on 15 meters using their own equipment on ham frequencies. No one cared there either.
Just ask the FCC for a repeat of past interpetations and if the equipment is certified under commercial it will pass muster for the ham bands and qualify for Amateur radio use.

It's no different than Police and EOC units using their commercial radios on both the police, fire, emergency, and ham bands, where the operator is qualified to do so. The one radio is used for all those services as it meets all the requirements. If the equipment in the aircraft is such that it covers every thing from 20 meters through the aircraft and military bands and the operator is licensed to operate on all of those services he, or she may do so.

As I said, police departments as well as many other services do it with their commercial radios on a regular basis and it is sanctioned and even aplauded by the FCC, so why would aviation be any different? The answer is that it's not!
Now as to the other way around where it's ham equipment then no it may not be used on aircraft frequencies (with the exception of HF gear) as it does not meet the certification.

Now as to company policy and paranoid lawyers, that is a whole nuther ball game which in general has very little to do with reality. That is purely a case of CYA and in general is about as good as a piece of toilet paper. The courts are throwing out disclaimers where people promise not to sue if they are hurt. They in general are not willing to let people sign away their rights.

As for the rediculous extremes those useless paranoid lawyers will take a subject:... I was a system admin on a Laboratory Information management System (LIMS) for a very large corporation. One day when I went to look up some "Hazard text" it was no longer in the corporate database. I was finally told that the lawyers had recomended that it be removed so if it were put on a lable and said labe installed on a product we would be liable.

Said lawyers were not smart enough to realize that said lables are a state, federal, and sometimes FDA requirement. Also the head of the labs made the statement that any sample sent without a lable containing the Hazard text was in violation of OSHA and MIOSHA amd would be disposed of as an unknown hazardous material without testing. (THAT is very expensive in addition to preventing product from being sold, or even finished) I told them that they had a choice. They put the text back in the database, or my team wuld go ahead and make up the lables and our own Hazard text as we could not move any material without it. Or one I knew they would not accept...No testing of the product. They put the Text back in. And I got promoted, but still in charge of the systems in addition to being in charge of implementing/installing more with FDA approval.

Either way the company was responsible.

BTW, I am an instrument rated pilot and have seen aircraft equipment used on ham bands legally and with no complaint.

--
Roger Halstead (K8RI)
WWW.RogerHalstead.com
N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S# CD-2)
> --
>
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
>
> Principal Attorney (retired)
> Communications Law Center
>
>

1837. Re: Aero Mobile -- The Best Way (Was: Aeronautical Mobile...)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 08:43:45 UTC
From: Roger Halstead <rdhalste@tm.net>
Message-ID: <5b2M7.671$9d.179272@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24834

Jim, he's a lawyer, we ain't gonna change his mind with facts. <LOL>
--
Roger Halstead (K8RI)
WWW.RogerHalstead.com
N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S# CD-2)

"Jim Weir" <jim@rst-engr.com> wrote in message news:7q710ucb8machif88t8m31msbnedflku96@4ax.com...
> "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
> shared these priceless pearls of wisdom:
>
> -> The issue isn't what one can get away with - the issue is how one
> -> protects one's rear end to avoid being charged with the violation.
> -> That's the kind of law I practice.
>
> Well, Kane, I'm so happy that you've had a career screwing up the works by legal > manipulations.
>
> Now take this on and do with it what you will --
>
> In the amateur world, I'm an Extra and a long-time Elmer.
> In the aviation world I'm an A&P, IA (airframe and powerplant mechanic
with > Inspection Authorization). Also commercial, instrument, flight instructor in > airplanes and gliders.
>
> In my airplane there is a 2-meter rig connected to the power bus by it's own > breaker, but it is also connected to the airplane audio system through the > aircraft's audio panel, and hence to the aircraft headphone and microphone > circuits, thus "connected" to the aircraft system.
>
> In my NSHO, this is the safest way to incorporate a ham rig in an airplane. The > reasons are not important. My professional opinion is.
>
> The aircraft number is N73CQ. The ham call is WX6RST. Come nail my ass to the > grass for a violation if you wish.
>
> Jim
>

> Jim Weir, VP Eng. RST Eng. WX6RST
> A&P, CFI, and other good alphabet soup

1838. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 11:53:04 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <AY4M7.196949$3d2.8216511@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24835

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message news:3C007B74.6B7569F@ix.netcom.com...
>
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> >
> >
> > Not even close, Rick. I got my B.S. in Human Resources Management > > Summa Cum Laude. The worst grade I got was a B+ in Organizational > > and Industrial Psychology. All the rest were A's with a couple of
> > A minuses. Final GPA was 3.88.
> >
> > 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
> And you're the one driving a bus? :-)
>

Love to argue with you but I gots to fire up the old school bus and cart a bunch of Baptists around.

Where else do you get paid for six hours driving one, read the Sunday paper, drink coffee, eat bagels? The church supplies the coffee and bagels, I do have to buy the paper.

Definite help for the equipment fund and all it takes is a CDL-B, my Masters is not required.

They don't even mind when we show up at Sunday School singing Da Biggest Cow I Ever Seen. Probably a good idea if I refrain from I don't Care if it Storms or Freezes (Long as I got my plastic Jesus) tho.

It's existential, Man.

1839. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 12:37:01 UTC
From: Gene Williams <GWilliams@tispsvcs.net> Message-ID: <9tqohl$c3o$0@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 24836

Hey Phil, the boys on 20 meters said to ask you how you earned the nickname,
"The West Coast Loose Cannon."

1840. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 13:47:56 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C00F689.9EA12B70@sccoast.net>
Source record: 24837

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> (snip) I think what this country needs > is a good old fashioned revolt of the > hard-working, taxpaying citizens of > all races who want to see an end to > the creation of dependency -- and > force the know-nothings and do-nothings > to wake up and find a way to share the > wealth the good old-fashioned way --
> by exercising the human characteristics
> of initiative, ingenuity, and integrity.

Agreed. There are people all around (white, black, green, pink, and purple) who are driving this contry right into the gutter. Sadly, it might be hard to find enough decent people left today to have a revolt (it might be a small revolt). Even more sadly, words like "initiative," "ingenuity," and "integrity" are almost cuss words today (assuming the person even remembers what those words mean).

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1841. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:04:07 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C00FA4E.D6267BE6@sccoast.net>
Source record: 24838

Robert Casey wrote:
>
> In the Catholic Church, they say > that they're the best church around, > but they say that if someone in > another faith follows it and good > and stuff (including Buddhists, > Hindus, Muslims, etc.) they get > credit for it and get into our > heaven. I hope the other > religions have reciprocal > agreements, just in case... :-)

Well, I don't know about reciprocal agreements, but most Christians I've met believe a person is going to stand alone in front of his maker (not with the church or it's members), so it is ultimately what the individual has done that really matters, not what religion he belongs to.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1842. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:06:13 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C00FAD5.958329B2@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24840

Dick Carroll wrote:
> It is very difficult for anyone to be held responsible, at > least by any rational person, for someone else's choices.

That's exactly the truth yet you are trying to hold Kim responsible for the feelings that you choose to feel.

You still just don't get it. Kim is not the cause of her callsign being objectionable to you - you are the cause. The objection originates with you and is a choice that you make using your free will. You have a perfect right to do that but you need to learn to recognize and accept the responsibility for your feelings because they are your feelings, not anyone else's.

Your feelings are your choice and your responsibility, Dick. Stop trying to blame them on someone else. All you have to do to alleviate the problem is to choose to change your feelings. Why should your personal feelings rule the rest of the world?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1843. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:08:32 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C00FB57.92C7A86F@sccoast.net>
Source record: 24839

CAM wrote:
>
> Southern Baptists believe that only
> some protestants are going to heaven.
> In particular, they believe that > Catholics and Mormons are going to
> hell.

Heck, I'm sure most Christians, as well as many Mormons
and Catholics, believe that more than a few self-proclaimed Christians are going to hell too.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

1844. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:11:15 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C00FC03.2BB8AC46@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24841

Dick Carroll wrote:
> You are one sick sucker. If there had been any logic in it it would > have been refuted. As it was, all that was present was bullshit.

Try using your internet search engine for "economic forces", Dick, and you will change your narrow mind.

When I took psychology in college, the Prof. had us yell obscenities at the top of our lungs in class. That alleviated all the juvenile hangups that I had over such words as "tits". You should try it.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1845. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:13:59 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C00FCA7.F97DADDA@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24842

Dick Carroll wrote:
> I am not society. If you refuse to be sanctioned by society, that will > ultimately be your problem and I will probably never even know of it.
> Societial sanctions often carry the FORCE of law.

Yes, they often do and I usually yield to the force of law. But when the sanctions of society don't carry the force of law, you can stuff them up your posterior along with all the victimless crimes.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1846. Hollingsworth

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:16:22 UTC
From: Leland KC8LD0 <Leland_member@newsguy.com>
Message-ID: <9tqufm01c23@drn.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24847

I was able to get Rileys autograph at the fest,man that was great.

I wonder what I could get for it on e-bay ?

Thoughts?

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LDO

1847. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:17:34 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C00FD7E.382AFC0A@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24843

Roger Halstead wrote:
> There are many parts of the world where we would consider their morals
> barbaric and they the same for us.

For instance, there is an area in Africa where the accepted standards of society require a man to teach his daughter about sex by being the first to have sex with her. Say Dick, how do you like those standards of society?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1848. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:19:29 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C00FDF1.DCFC0B50@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24844

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Yep, and Riley Hollingsworth sez those bad guys are mostly > > Extras and Advanced class.
>
> Easy as the tests have been since the CB influx, that's no surprise.

Are you aware that the most worrisome of the troublemakers are your age or older? The Liberty Net are your peers, Dick.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1849. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:27:32 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C00FFD4.8BEFA276@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24845

Dave Heil wrote:
> You've already got me labelled and put into a box. You have a similar > box around you, Cecil.

Actually, I'm pretty much out of the box. Like a lot of Texans, my favorite song is, "Don't Fence Me In".

> Cecil's Mantra: "By God, if we made everything legal, there wouldn't be > any crime.

Nope, Cecil's Mantra: If we get rid of victimless crimes, our penitentiaries will be half empty instead of overflowing and will cost the taxpayers half as much. It would be a win, win situation. We presently put so many marijuana users in jail that we don't have room for child molesters and rapists. Is that really what you want?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1850. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:29:00 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01002C.86347D41@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24846

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > Well, let's start with you, Dave. Do you eat pork?
> > >
> > > Oh, did you think I was going to assist you? Try and find out.
> >
> > Now I don't have to - you just told me.

> I've made no revelation.

I'm surprised at how ignorant you are of human psychology.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1851. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:50:57 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010551.26D303E3@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24848

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > It appears that you have been taught from birth that all Islamics are evil
> > and that's all you know.
>
> There you go, lying out your ass again. Read the Koran and see what > they are taught.

Read the Bible and see what WE are taught. Here's one of a multitude of passages: "I will render vengeance to mine enemies, ...
I will make mine arrows drunk with blood, and my sword shall devour flesh; and that with the blood of the slain and captives, from the beginning of revenges upon the enemy." from Deuteronomy 32. The "enemies" were peoples peacefully occupying lands that the Israelites chose to invade and take by force of arms while allegedly following your God's orders.

Again, rational Christians and Jews ignore God's admonition to make our arrows drunk with blood in the process of taking lands that don't belong to us. In like manner, rational Muslims, who are the vast majority of Muslims, ignore Allah's war-like admonitions in the Koran. You are guilty of spreading psychological terrorism, Dick.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1852. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:54:12 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010614.193BE24A@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24849

Dave Heil wrote:
> The Church is all of Christianity. The church is a building.

Pulled that one out of your posterior, eh? My unabridged dictionary doesn't have an entry for "Church".

> Ask him about Kim's call while you're at it.

You really want to side with a Southern Baptist bigot?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1853. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 14:55:37 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010669.8783B1B7@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24850

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Rick Adams wrote:
> > > If you served in foreign posts, it's too bad you didn't take > > > the opportunity to absorb more of their cultures.
> > >
> > Actually, a book was written about guys like Dave,
> > "The Ugly American".
>
> It is quite obvious that you either did not read it or (more likely)
> that you don't remember Lederer's tome.

Sorry, I forgot that you are devoid of a sense of humor.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1854. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:02:41 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010811.8DDF3225@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24851

Dave Heil wrote:
> I'm stating that it (Kim's call) is tacky, lacks decorum
> and that it exhibits lack of taste.

Those are your feelings, Dave, that you have used your free will to choose to feel them. Thus, if they are a problem, they are 100% your personal problem. The rest of the world doesn't care what feelings you choose to experience.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1855. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:06:39 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr1dvlql0@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24852

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Yep, and Riley Hollingsworth sez those bad guys are mostly > > > Extras and Advanced class.
> >
> > Easy as the tests have been since the CB influx, that's no surprise.
>
> Are you aware that the most worrisome of the troublemakers are > your age or older? The Liberty Net are your peers, Dick.

There are lots of former or current CBers in our age group, as you well know, Cecil. Many of whom, unable to cut the mustard before the big dumbdown, are now extra lites. But you already know that.

1856. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:08:42 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr1hqlql1@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24853

CAM wrote:
>
We presently put so many marijuana users in jail > that we don't have room for child molesters and rapists. Is > that really what you want?

That's more of your characteristic BS and you know it. We all do.

1857. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:08:51 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010983.A4B6DD07@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24854

Dick Carroll wrote:
> I'd wager he doesn't even know that of the 52 Islamic > countries in the world, non contain a free society. It's all Islamic > Law, bar none except Turkey which does have a partially free society.

Time was when the Islamic nations were more advanced than the Western nations. Their pendulum just went backwards for awhile. It will swing back and economics will eventually force their evolution to free market societies.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1858. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:11:16 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr1mklql2@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24855

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > It is very difficult for anyone to be held responsible, at > > least by any rational person, for someone else's choices.
>
> That's exactly the truth yet you are trying to hold Kim responsible > for the feelings that you choose to feel.
>
> You still just don't get it. Kim is not the cause of her callsign being > objectionable to you - you are the cause. The objection originates with > you and is a choice that you make using your free will. You have a > perfect right to do that but you need to learn to recognize and accept the > responsibility for your feelings because they are your feelings, not > anyone else's.
>
> Your feelings are your choice and your responsibility, Dick. Stop trying > to blame them on someone else. All you have to do to alleviate the > problem is to choose to change your feelings. Why should your personal > feelings rule the rest of the world?

So I have no right ot feel oiffended if someone else does something very offensive. Right. Of course, you do.

1859. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:11:39 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010A2B.DD248B8C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24856

Dave Heil wrote:
> YOU are the individual who indicated that the majority of Southerners > supported segregation.

Yep, that's true based on my personal experiences living and working in the South. I have absolutely no reason to believe otherwise. I have seen no evidence that would change my mind.
Do you have any evidence?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1860. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:15:50 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010B26.BDCD5772@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24857

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> In article <3BFB2DA5.67728B4F@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>
> > >
> > >Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > >> Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior. I > > >> do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women; therefore, I would > > >> not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.
> > >
> > >Would you allow your wife to have lunch with a lesbian?
>
> No, Cecil, and I wouldn't be married to any woman who wanted to!

You don't see gay men as the equivalent of women but you see lesbians as the equivalent of men?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1861. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:17:16 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010B7C.9113B763@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24858

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> >Larry, I'm convinced you are pulling our legs. If not, you are > >farther gone than I thought. One of your think-alikes hits > >Afghani women with a stick because she shows her face in > >public.
>
> You are obviously mistaken, Cecil. I've never hit a woman with > a stick for showing her face in public. I usually reserve that for > people who drive too slow.

I didn't say it was you, Larry. I said it was someone who thinks like you.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1862. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:19:25 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010BFD.DB445871@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24860

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> All of my attempts at not sinning are feeble, compared to what they > should be. I am a sinner, of that there is no doubt. Perhaps you would > pray for me?

God would probably punish you if I prayed for you.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1863. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:20:10 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr27a$o8r$0@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24859

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > You are one sick sucker. If there had been any logic in it it would > > have been refuted. As it was, all that was present was bullshit.
>
> Try using your internet search engine for "economic forces", Dick, and > you will change your narrow mind.
>
> When I took psychology in college, the Prof. had us yell obscenities > at the top of our lungs in class. That alleviated all the juvenile > hangups that I had over such words as "tits". You should try it.

You really are a nutcasr, abd that should be no surprise. If one has dipshits for teachers, one is much more likely to become one himself.

And whatever gave you the idea I have any hangup on the word "Tits"? Nothing could be further from fact. I'm not the Suthern Baptist, tho I'm familiar enough with the concept. The point has always been that society doesn't like to have to have some blowsy broad's floppies flung in their faces all the time, on the ham bands or elsewhere. That's what this is all about. There are lots of young kids and women who are much more offended than any of us here. Have they no right to be free from such garbage just because Kim wants to be vulgar? Where's your libertarian bullshit now?

1864. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:20:57 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010C59.BD684F9D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24863

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > > I don't, Dick. I won't bother them and I don't want them to > > > > bother me. What is wrong with live and let live? I don't > > > > want to control what you do in the privacy of your home.
> > > > Why do you want to control what I do in the privacy of mine?
> > >
> > > Where on earth did you get that idea?
> >
> > From some of your previous postings.
>
> Then you misread or misinterpreted what you read. But you always have > trouble with your preconceptions.

So have you changed your mind and now don't see anything wrong with me smoking marijuana in the privacy of my own home?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1865. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:21:38 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr2a2$o8r$1@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24861

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > I am not society. If you refuse to be sanctioned by society, that will > > ultimately be your problem and I will probably never even know of it.
> > Societial sanctions often carry the FORCE of law.
>
> Yes, they often do and I usually yield to the force of law. But when the > sanctions of society don't carry the force of law, you can stuff them > up your posterior along with all the victimless crimes.

Ah, so we finally get to the bottom line. Cecil likes to do what Cecil wants, no matter who else is negatively impacted by it.

1866. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:22:35 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr2br$o8r$2@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24862

Roger Halstead wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > news:9tpn87nhu1@208.207.71.171...
> >
> >
> > Rick Adams wrote:
> > >
> > > On 24 Nov 2001 13:04:00 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
> > >
> > > >You do exactly the same thing, Rick.
> > >
> > > Of course I do--everyone does. That's the entire point.
> > >
> > > If I base my concepts of right and wrong on my own moral > > > values, you base yours on your values, Dave does, etc.--so long as we > > > can agree that harm to nonconsenting individuals is considered wrong > > > by all of us, then there is no conflict involved. I may behave in a > > > manner I find moral, you may behave in one you find moral, and neither > > > of us will in any way affect the other.
> >
> >
> > But society sets the guidelines for all of us. There is a range of > > acceptability. Go outside this range, and society will sanction you.
> >
> Then you have to define society as it varies with both geographic and ethnic
> make up.
> Depending on the particular act, the society may be local, regional, or > national.
>
> There are many parts of the world where we would consider their morals
> barbaric and they the same for us.

Precisely. But we don't live there, under their system of laws and mores.

1867. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:24:05 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010D15.67F96BC4@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24865

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> Uh oh -- now Kim's gonna think I'm talking about her again!
> I only said "one" Kim! Never mind -- she'll work her way into this > somehow -- she usually does!

Actually, that statement turned itself into a lie.
That makes three "Kim"'s.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1868. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:25:50 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr2hu$p56$0@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24864

CAM wrote:
>
> Roger Halstead wrote:
> > There are many parts of the world where we would consider their morals > > barbaric and they the same for us.
>
> For instance, there is an area in Africa where the accepted standards > of society require a man to teach his daughter about sex by being the > first to have sex with her. Say Dick, how do you like those standards > of society?

I have no reason to like nor dislike it since I don't live there, am not usbject to it, and have no reason to evaluate it. Of course it is completely foreign to anything taught by the society I live within. You seem to want to oppose much of our society and you have daughters, so maybe you would want to answer your own question.

1869. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:27:06 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr2ka$p56$1@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24866

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> In article <887B94DC0A930298.B2CBC2526C5F8194.34139715CCB3AA35@lp.airnews.net>,
> Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>
> >
> > I just had a dream in which God told me to have all the > >Christians in the NG send me all their money and ham gear. He said > >that if he says it's ok, then it's ok.
> >
> > I'm waiting . . .
> >
> > Rick
>
> I just had a dream in which God told me that some nut in this > newsgroup was going to tell us that we're supposed to send him
> our money and ham gear -- and that He never said any such thing!
> So don't be looking for any bank transfers or UPS shipments > from Delaware...unless you ordered something from HRO!

I think it was totally predictable that Rick would turn out to be a hustler, and that is NOT a mobile antenna in this instance.

1870. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:27:23 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010DDB.5B32AF4F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24867

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > So all the extras and advanced hams that Riley talks about trashing > > ham radio were previously hard core CBers???? Even the 20wpm Extras???
>
> why is it that you think 20WPM is such a big deal??? Anyone can do that > if he (or she) wants.

So why do you divert the issue?

> CB even contributed to the slide of society in general.

You are confusing cause and effect again. CB contributes to the slide of society like guns contribute to crime. Hint:
CB radios and guns are objects incapable of independent actions.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1871. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:32:31 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010F0F.E1A55401@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24869

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > So which is it, Dick? Are CBers coming in droves or is 5wpm keeping > > them out. Methinketh thou talketh with a forked tongue. You cannot > > have it both ways.
>
> Having yet another period of convoluted thought? Or do you really > believe the CW test is here to stay?

I'll answer your question if you will answer mine above. It wouldn't surprise me in the least for the US Morse code test to outlive the repeal of S25.5.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1872. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:34:09 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr31h$p56$2@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24868

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> In article <3BFB2C88.9FC1C774@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>
> > >
> > >Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > >> Well, you've got one thing right, Cecil -- I'm endlessly asking for > > >> forgiveness of my sins. I am also praying for those who don't see > > >> the need to ask forgiveness. That's as much as I can do, save for > > >> trying not to be a sinner.
> > >
> > >From your postings, I would say your attempt at not sinning > > >is pretty feeble.
>
> Cecil:
>
> All of my attempts at not sinning are feeble, compared to what they > should be. I am a sinner, of that there is no doubt. Perhaps you would > pray for me?

But who would he pray to? He is his own diety.

1873. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:36:07 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C010FE7.B6BD9DDD@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24871

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> I dunno, Cecil, but where are the legions of smart, computer-literate, > technical-savvy, eager, enthusiastic, and committed young people > who were supposed to create a digital paradise on the ham bands, > and save them from any thought of reallocation by commercial > communications and broadcasting interests?

Please furnish some evidence that someone promised a "digital paradise". Intel contributed about 100 nocode techs with engineering degrees to the ARS. I assume other similar compainies did the same thing.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1874. Re: Hollingsworth

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:36:29 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <1e8M7.235842$W8.7920026@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24870

I don't know, but suggest you not put it in the CB radio section! :-)

Jim AA2QA

"Leland KC8LD0" <Leland_member@newsguy.com> wrote in message news:9tqufm01c23@drn.newsguy.com...
> I was able to get Rileys autograph at the fest,man that was great.
>
> I wonder what I could get for it on e-bay ?
>
> Thoughts?
>
> --
> Leland C. Scott
> KC8LDO
>

1875. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 15:42:48 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr3horho0@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24872

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> >
> > (snip) I think what this country needs
> > is a good old fashioned revolt of the > > hard-working, taxpaying citizens of
> > all races who want to see an end to > > the creation of dependency -- and
> > force the know-nothings and do-nothings
> > to wake up and find a way to share the > > wealth the good old-fashioned way --
> > by exercising the human characteristics
> > of initiative, ingenuity, and integrity.
>
> Agreed. There are people all around (white, black, green, > pink, and purple) who are driving this contry right into the > gutter. Sadly, it might be hard to find enough decent people > left today to have a revolt (it might be a small revolt).
> Even more sadly, words like "initiative," "ingenuity," and
> "integrity" are almost cuss words today (assuming the person > even remembers what those words mean).

Don't fret, Dwight. You evidently don't know that only a third of the populace of the Colonies were active participants in the Revolutionary War for Independence from Britian. Another third were Loyalists to the Crown, and the final third were "Why can't we all just get along" sorts like you, Rick, Kim and Cecil.
There are always enough freedom loving, THINKING citizens here to step up and get the job done.

1876. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:07:25 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr4vt$20r$0@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24873

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > It appears that you have been taught from birth that all Islamics are evil
> > > and that's all you know.
> >
> > There you go, lying out your ass again. Read the Koran and see what > > they are taught.
>
> Read the Bible and see what WE are taught. Here's one of a > multitude of passages: "I will render vengeance to mine enemies, ...
> I will make mine arrows drunk with blood, and my sword shall devour > flesh; and that with the blood of the slain and captives, from the > beginning of revenges upon the enemy." from Deuteronomy 32. The
> "enemies" were peoples peacefully occupying lands that the Israelites > chose to invade and take by force of arms while allegedly following > your God's orders.
>

If that's the best you can do no wonder you're on the defensive all the time. You would dredge up an obscure Old Testament story and promote it as the equal of the Koran's dictates to Muslims to eradicate all on earth who refuse to be converted or enslaved. There IS NO equivalence and you know it. There is nothing whatever in modern Christian teachings which even hints at any such conclusion. On th eother hand legions of Mullahs harangue the Moslems daily exhorting them to Kill the Infidels, That means us. They have been trying pretty hard for some time now to do just that, and you still have your head in some dark, damp space.

> Again, rational Christians and Jews ignore God's admonition to > make our arrows drunk with blood in the process of taking lands > that don't belong to us.

Hey idiot, there was no such admonition and you know it, just choose to twist a very old biblical story to fit your current agenda. Why do you always dredge up some agenda in opposition to reality? Is it in your psyche?

In like manner, rational Muslims, > who are the vast majority of Muslims, ignore Allah's war-like > admonitions in the Koran.

No one ever said that each and every Muslim is a born terrorist, and many want nothing to do with it, just as many Germans wanted nothing to do with Nazism nor the SS, but none the less they were dragged into it. Muslims are taught from infancy as an integral part of their religious training, that all other belief systems are not only inferior but that they must be wiped out and their adherents either converted, enslaved or killed. And to them, religion is also the civil law, so they don't have the option of rejecting it and getting away with it as you do. They, themselves are also subject to punishment, even death for rejecting their religious training and its dictates. There is nothing equal to that in Christianity as it has been taught since ancient times. The scriptural passage you quoted is from very ancient Jewish history, well predating Christendom, and even predating Islam.

You are guilty of spreading > psychological terrorism, Dick.

Have you ever considered offering your services to local agricultural business entities? I'm sure there would be a great demand for a manure spreader of your capacity and efficiency.

1877. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:08:44 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr52c$20r$1@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24874

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > The Church is all of Christianity. The church is a building.
>
> Pulled that one out of your posterior, eh? My unabridged dictionary > doesn't have an entry for "Church".
>
> > Ask him about Kim's call while you're at it.
>
> You really want to side with a Southern Baptist bigot?

Maybe we should email this post to Rev. Wicher. He might want to excommunicate Cecil from the choir.

1878. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:11:27 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr57f$20r$2@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24875

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > I'm stating that it (Kim's call) is tacky, lacks decorum
> > and that it exhibits lack of taste.
>
> Those are your feelings, Dave, that you have used your free > will to choose to feel them. Thus, if they are a problem, > they are 100% your personal problem. The rest of the world > doesn't care what feelings you choose to experience.

That's been your story and you're still sticking to it, but it is no less wrong.
When a large percentage of society views it as wrong, it is a moral issue and thus a part of the mores of that society. If it doesn't matter to you then that's fine as far as you go. But you don't set the mores for our society, try as you will.

1879. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:15:18 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr5em$2vs$0@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24876

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > I'd wager he doesn't even know that of the 52 Islamic > > countries in the world, non contain a free society. It's all Islamic > > Law, bar none except Turkey which does have a partially free society.
>
> Time was when the Islamic nations were more advanced than the Western > nations. Their pendulum just went backwards for awhile. It will swing back > and economics will eventually force their evolution to free market societies.

And how do you presume that economics can do that when Islam officially rejects all that is economic theory in favor of a religious dogma that is based on no econonimic theory at all, rather based on hatred of all other religious and particularily secular social systems, from which all advanced economic theory stems? Yoiu fail to appreciate that they gladly kill off their own kind as readily as the opposition, when they can find any valid reason. I'm amazed that the women of Islam aren't all Lorena Bobbits.

1880. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:16:50 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c011a16_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24879

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C00379A.10AC3378@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > It isn't just Cecil that is hearing
> > these things. I hear it in nearly every > > theological discussion, bible discussion,
> > religious discussion I am near or a part > > of. I hear it "nearly" each time I have > > ever been in a church. I hear nearly > > every time the witnesses show up on my > > doorstep. I heard it last night at the > > table with my fundamentalist brother-
> > and sister-in-law.
>
>
> You've repeatedly heard that people of other religions are > inferior?
>

Yes. In the discussions there is a general expression of "flaws" in beliefs, etc. Now, I am not sure as to the word "inferior" ever being used--but it is certainly implied.

>
> Like I said, many christians do believe those of > other religions are wrong, evil, going to hell, or whatever, > but I've heard very few describe them as inferior. And, > again, like I said before, the concept that the members of > other religions are wrong, etc, is certainly not unique to > christians (most religions think that of other religions).
>

Well, actually, no it's not unique to Christians, I suppose. Although, I have seen and heard more examples of it from Christianity because that is what I have been around the most.

>
> > I agree with you, Dwight, that it was > > not the teaching of Jesus Christ or
> > the attitude of true Christians. However,
> > when I stated last night, to the same
> > brother-in-law, that Jesus never judged
> > and condemned people to Hell, he stated > > that I was wrong--that the Bible is

> > replete with Jesus speaking of people > > who would burn in places, etc. (snip)
>
>
> First of all, since this topic has attracted others into > the discussion, let me add again that I'm certainly no > expert on christian theology. I'm simply offering my opinion > based on what I learned years ago. Anyway, having said that, > I do think it is important to make one thing clear here - in > a religious context, a christian cannot condemn a person to > hell.
>

That's what I'm thinking.

>
> A christian can state an opinion that a person is > going to hell because of the person's behavior, attitude, or > whatever, but that goes no further than an opinion.
>

I think most of the people (Christian or otherwise for that matter) who say others are "going to Hell" are not saying it just as an opinion--they truly believe that because of what they believe, they believe God would condemn that person to Hell and they are just "repeating what they've heard."

>
> Only God > has the power to condemn a person to his/her eventual > spiritual fate.
>

That's what I think also.

>
> Likewise, Jesus does not condemn a person to > hell - he simply stated the terms under which a person would > be condemned. Again, only God reserves the power of ultimate judgment.
>

Well, I won't go diving into a Bible to find examples of what my brother-in-law is talking about, but he's a minister, preaches, and believes that there are examples where Jesus did do that. You and I seem to be of the same lack--not enough "off the top of my head" knowledge of the Bible to see what he's talking about, or to pronounce that he may be wrong.

>
> > (snip) Like I said last night (and my > > brother-in-law nearly fell out of his > > chair): we all worship the same god, we > > just have different ways of doing it. I > > don't care how you get to "Heaven" just
> > that you try to get there. It's in the

> > "trying" that makes all good things > > happen.
>
>
> Well, while living a "good" life is certainly a worthwhile > goal, many religions would argue that something more is > required (an acceptance of God, avoidance of sin, > reparations for past sins, etc). But, to avoid giving a > "sermon," I'll let it drop with that.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

One is not mutually exclusive of the other, though. I don't believe in any "religion" per se, but I believe in God, I believe in Jesus, I believe the 10 Commandments are the basic things that teach how to live and honor one another, and I believe that Christianity has not and cannot corner the market on getting to Heaven.

Kim W5TIT

1881. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:18:59 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr5lj$2vs$1@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24877

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > >
> > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > > I don't, Dick. I won't bother them and I don't want them to > > > > > bother me. What is wrong with live and let live? I don't > > > > > want to control what you do in the privacy of your home.
> > > > > Why do you want to control what I do in the privacy of mine?
> > > >
> > > > Where on earth did you get that idea?
> > > >
> > > From some of your previous postings.
> > >
> > Then you misread or misinterpreted what you read. But you always have > > trouble with your preconceptions.
>
> So have you changed your mind and now don't see anything wrong with > me smoking marijuana in the privacy of my own home?

If you don't see anything wrong with breaking the law, knock yerself out. Maybe you'll eventually get busted and clash with Society after all. Hey, you gotta buy that stuff somewhere. The most available salesmen are undercover cops.
```

1882. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:21:10 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c011b18$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24880

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C004F22.F458522@sccoast.net...
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > No I didn't and neither do any of > > the Southern Baptists. It is my > > understanding that Jesus died for
> > the redemtion of the sins of all men.
> > That goes for those before and > > after him. It looks as if Buddha
> > is covered.
>
>
> Well said, Dave. I completely forgot about that.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

Well, either that, or it is an excellent argument out of the scenario of those in the Old Testament. :>

Kim W5TIT

1883. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:21:16 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tr5ps$2vs$2@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24878

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > So all the extras and advanced hams that Riley talks about trashing > > > ham radio were previously hard core CBers???? Even the 20wpm Extras???
> > >
> > > why is it that you think 20WPM is such a big deal??? Anyone can do that > > > if he (or she) wants.
>
> So why do you divert the issue?
>
> > CB even contributed to the slide of society in general.
>
> You are confusing cause and effect again. CB contributes to > the slide of society like guns contribute to crime. Hint:
> CB radios and guns are objects incapable of independent > actions.

You idiot. No one even mentioned the radio gear itself. It was never the problem and we all know that. Evidently except you.

1884. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:24:03 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c011bc5$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24881

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C0054E2.364D0B72@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > (snip) Is Jesus mentioned anywhere
> > the Muslim religion? (snip)
>
>
> Yes, he is. Many in the Islamic faith believe he is one of > the many prophets. Some believe he even holds a higher > position (even to the point of believing in his eventual return).
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

SHHHHHHhhhhhhh!!!! I was pretty certain Dick--you know the one who's read the book and now he knows all about the Muslim faith--was going to have to look that one up, and then recover from the shock that he's condemning a faith that subscribes to the thought that a Christian Jesus is regarded as a prophet. :)

Kim W5TIT

1885. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:31:25 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011125113125.25285.00000993@mb-cb.aol.com>
Source record: 24882

>Subject: Re: Radio Policy
>From: Dwight Stewart stewartx@sccoast.net
>Date: 11/25/2001 7:47 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C00F689.9EA12B70@sccoast.net>

>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>>
>> (snip) I think what this country needs
>> is a good old fashioned revolt of the >> hard-working, taxpaying citizens of
>> all races who want to see an end to >> the creation of dependency --

(SNIP)

>Agreed. There are people all around (white, black, green, >pink, and purple) who are driving this contry right into the >gutter

And I am in agreement with both of you. I think those whining the hardest about the perceived "loss of our freedoms" as they pertain to the present state of emergency are those who would least like to be "obligated" to "pay" for their freedom...Regardless if it was to serve in the Armed Forces or simply have to endue some relatively meager inconvienience at home.

>Even more sadly, words like "initiative," "ingenuity," and
>"integrity" are almost cuss words today (assuming the person >even remembers what those words mean).

Ditto. Well said.

K4YZ

1886. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:36:33 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c011eb4_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24883

```
"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tplvd$ko2$0@208.207.71.171...
>
>
> Krell wrote:
> >
> > "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > > news:9tn6kv$q30$1@208.206.142.74...
> > >
> > >
> > > Richard Plourde wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > >
> > > > > It would only reasonable that any female would > > > > > run for her life from Islam, for obvious reasons.
> > > >
> > > > There you go again, Carroll, throwing the baby out with the bath > > water...
> > > >
> > > > You insist on being eternaly wrong, painting with those, very , very > > broad > > > > strokes of your's...
> > > >
> > > > You're getting dangerously close to becoming a laughing stock here with
> > your > > > > zealous attempt at being the 'top schlemiel'...
> > > >
> > >
> > > I'm a realist. You're an idiot.
> >
> > Most people on this group present their arguments in a logical fashion.
All
> > you can do is post statist views with absolutely nothing to back them up > > other than your own opinion.
>
>
> Most people will at least take a look at the available evidence before > making up their minds or before stepping on their tounge. Somehow you CW > phobic ex-CBers always predicate your choice of sides on any issue on > whether or not the opposition is a CW supporter.
>
```

Paranoia will destroy ya, Dick. Well, it's probably because they're all a bunch of bleeding heart liberals, Dick! :^ (yeah, same generalities as you).

> Or whether or not he > kisses up to you otherwise. You should at least have some idea of what > the terrorist situation is about, if you live in New York. But evidently > your hate for CW overrules your rationality.
>

Uh, so NY has the market on terrorism, eh? Oh, and could ya lose the CW-hater=liberal=Democrat routine? The reverse could be said about you--and what makes one more correct than the other? It appears that your Conservative=probaby-CW-Lover=Republican president couldn't keep a handle on things and now we find ourselves in this situation. :^ (yeah, same generalities as you).

> Has ham radi0o gone to hell in the past couple decades? Without a > doubt. And it is entirely in the (poor) quality of most of those persons > entering the hobby.
> There is not a valid gonad among you.
>

And, with people like you in the hobby, we've had no choice but to be attracted to it. It's obvious you pro-CW guys didn't do the job you thought you were, of protecting the amateur radio hobby. What's your excuse? (yeah, same generalities as you).

Yeah, those generalities make it a whole lot easier--I don't have to come up with one valid, intellectual thought if I just use generalities. Let's see what else I can learn from you, Dick. :o (yeah, same generalities as you).

Kim W5TIT

1887. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:37:40 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c011ef6$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24884

Watch it, Dick...you're getting as preoccupied with "them" as Larry R. is.

Kim W5TIT

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tpm1tkqc0@208.207.71.171...
> Give it up Kim, they just WON'T sork as brains, however hard you may > try to get them to. They just want to obey the law of gravity, nothing > more.
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Man, I must be making some sense to you! Thanks!
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
> >
> > "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > > news:9tmult$st9$3@208.207.71.169...
> > >
> > >
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Sigh It was a matter of my not paying attention
> > >
> > >
> > > If brains were dollars you still couldn't pay attention.

1888. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:42:51 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0111250842.234d4ead@posting.google.com>
Source record: 24885

"Richard McCollum" <rmcollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
news:<AY4M7.196949$3d2.8216511@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...
> "Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message
> news:3C007B74.6B7569F@ix.netcom.com...
> >
> >
> > Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> >
> > >
> > >
> > > Not even close, Rick. I got my B.S. in Human Resources Management > > > Summa Cum Laude. The worst grade I got was a B+ in Organizational > > > and Industrial Psychology. All the rest were A's with a couple of
> > > A minuses. Final GPA was 3.88.
> > >
> > > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> >
> > And you're the one driving a bus? :-)
> >
>
> Love to argue with you but I gots to fire up the old school bus and cart a > bunch of Baptists around.
>
> Where else do you get paid for six hours driving one, read the Sunday paper, > drink coffee, eat bagels? The church supplies the coffee and bagels, I do > have to buy the paper.
>
> Definite help for the equipment fund and all it takes is a CDL-B, my Masters > is not required.
>
> They don't even mind when we show up at Sunday School singing Da Biggest Cow
> I Ever Seen. Probably a good idea if I refrain from I don't Care if it > Storms or Freezes (Long as I got my plastic Jesus) tho.
>
> It's existential, Man.

Yea, verily.

Regale them with Tom Lehrer's "National Brotherhood Week" for a real show-stopper.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1889. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:45:41 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c0120e4_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24886

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tpmlemja0@208.207.71.171...
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > N2EY wrote:
> > > Yup. But who gets to decide whether "harm" has occurred? The person who did > > > the action? The person who is supposedly harmed? Some neutral third party?
> > > What criteria determines "harm"? That is all "personal value" stuff.
> >
> > That's easy, Jim. The definition of actual harm should require the > > use of force or threat of force.
>
> ARE you serious??? There is such a thing as economic harm, > psychological harm, any number of types other than "force".
>
> The imagined harm over Kim's callsign
> > is not harm at all.
>
> Sure it it. If most hams want the ARS to appear as a family oriented > service, and wish it to appear that way to younger persons, and when > they demonstrate ham radio to younger folk, there is Kim W5TIT and her > (tee hee, big gabonzas, with all the double ententre or sexual innuendo > accompanying, what is that but harm?
>

So, let me get this straight. There is no tee hee, big gabonzas...sexual innuendo that happens on the air, so you must be talking about on this newsgroup. So, it is your opinion that the actions of people in this newsgroup should be held to be a reflection of the real amateur radio?
Well, you and whole bunch of us, had better start cleaning up.

Let me give you a list of hams you can contact--and you write to them and ask them if they've ever heard a "lewd" reference to my callsign on the air.
Now, I'm talking beyond someone saying something like: "what was that call?"
Because that is obviously nothing lewd, and it happens all the time.

>
> If I told you I experienced harm because of your > > choice of callsigns, would you change it for me? Of course not!
>
> Just because you take no offense over W5TIT doesn't mean that a > majority of other hams do not. Is your opinion the only one that > counts???

>

That a majority of other hams takes offense to my callsign is not the case, Dick. Prove your majority, please. Prove your belief that this callsign is harming the ARS by driving people away. Prove that your belief this callsign is keeping children from entering the hobby.

>
> > > Who gets to decide if a particular callsign causes harm or not?
> >
> > "Sticks and stones may break my bones but callsigns can never hurt me."
> > Anyone who allows callsigns unaccompanied by force or threat of force > > to hurt them are cooperating in their own pain. The "harm" is self > > imposed. Callsigns can cause no harm without the cooperation of the > > "victim"(s). Think about it. Finding harm in Kim's callsign is like > > finding dirty sex in ink blots.
>
>
> Total bullshit.

I bet you wouldn't have said that to your mommy. And, if you'd listened to her and learned from the lesson she was trying to teach you, you wouldn't upset yourself so easily.

Kim W5TIT

1890. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 16:59:53 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c01242c_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24887

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tpn3fnhu0@208.207.71.171...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
>
> > What if someone chooses a callsign that means "tit" in Swahili? Would
you > > consider it obscene? It is a callsign. It is not a dirty word. People > > who think it is dirty are using their free will to choose to think it > > is dirty.
>
> So then, WHY did she choose it?
>

Do you really want me to post the post of the story again?

>
> Couldn't be to go with her anatomy, > could it?
>

Good grief, of course it is. I bet you that my VANITY callsign has more to do with vanity than any other VANITY callsign. I mean, I don't have an attraction to my initials, sorry.

>
> And the travesty is that is a sham anyway- oversized saggy > mammary glands are not attractive and are not an object of attraction, > so why does she need and want to call attention to them?
>

And, so your likes must the likes of everyone else? And, would you please tell those women who've made countless huge bucks on men such as yourself who claim not to be impressed by the size of a woman's tits? By the way, are your balls still as nice and firm as they used to be, Dick, or do they hang down to your knees now? And, how 'bout the little fella, there? Still charging as always? I mean, we are bringing a discussion of the aging process and its affects on our bodies, right? I'd like to remind you UP FRONT (no pun intended) that YOU are the one who brought the lewd behavior into the discussion and I am more than happy to go there with you--if that is where you'd like to go.

>
> Evidently she

> needs the reinforcement
> (literally).
>

Uh, well, yeah, I wear a bra. Heck, A-cup women wear a bra (keeps our nipples from being so obvious, Dick).

>
> Did she choose it because of some basic innate insecurity > on her part?
>

Does my bold comments here assure of no insecurity on my part, Dick?

>
> Would she be a total unknown without being W5TIT, the > titty ham?
>

I can nearly guarantee you, Dick, that I am an unknown in the ARS. Well, except for those who know me. And, I don't include those who have "heard of" me as those who know me. Do you? I wouldn't even say you know me.

>
> Does that callsign give her an identity that she otherwise > could never have?
>

:| Dick. C'mon. I am learned long ago that the only validation I need in my life is from myself. I could park my butt in the middle of a forest (gotta be a forest, though, no deserts)...without a soul around for the rest of my life and be quite content. I love myself so much that I make up for any lack of class or adoration on your behalf--believe me. ANSWER: Once you learn that same validation philosophy, you learn to love yourself, and the natural happenstance of that is that you will erode poor traits and qualities that have always provided a barrier to "being liked."

>
> All this matters not, it is simply very poor taste and an albatross on
> the ARS.

Well, you and Larry R. have a lot of work to do--because I just don't see your albatross. Prove it, and maybe I'll rethink my belief that my callsign--anyone's callsign--is no detriment to the ARS. My callsign is less detriment to the ARS than your general behavior here is.

Kim W5TIT

1891. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 17:03:32 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c012506_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24888

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tpns8pmu0@208.207.71.171...
>
>
> Krell wrote:
> >
> > Perhaps, then, you can enlighten us as to why the crime rate is so high in > > such an area.
>
>
>
> Sure. Basically for the same reasons the young Islamics hate us and > join the Jihad. They just don't know anything except what they're taught > from infancy. If you're told from first cognizance that all Westerners > are evil infidels who Allah dictates must be exterminated even at the > cost of your own life (but you'll get your reward of 40 virgins and all > you can eat in the afterlife) that's all you know.
> If, as a black kid, you see nothing but drug deals, ubiquitous crime
> and hustling, you grow up believing you're supposed to be a drug > dealing, hustling criminal.

I'd take your lead and provide some generality here, but you've done such an excellent job yourself, Dick, that I don't think I can compete.

Oh buhruther.

Kim W5TIT

1892. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 17:04:39 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c012549$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24889

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message news:3C007AC8.F4355CD@ix.netcom.com...
>
> In the Catholic Church, they say that they're the best church > around, but they say that if someone in another faith follows
> it and good and stuff (including Buddhists, Hindus, Muslims, > etc.) they get credit for it and get into our heaven. I hope > the other religions have reciprocal agreements, just in case...
> :-)
>

Man, that's great, Robert! :) Me too!

Kim W5TIT

1893. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 17:15:01 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c0127b7$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24890

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011125015738.12427.00003227@nso-cg.aol.com...
> In article <3bf9cb28_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >
> >Heck, one time when the FCC was talking about having a law that any tower > >over a certain number of feet would have to be painted red and white, one
of
> >the gang on '88 keyed up and said if he painted anything on his tower it > >would be a great big FU. I about drove off the road on that one.
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Kim:
>
> I'm sure that, as usual, you were ROTFLYBFUAO.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

No, I sure wasn't Larry. I thought it was quite distasteful, misrepresentative of the ARS I know and like, and was rather bold of the individual. And, I tuned my radio to another frequency.

Kim W5TIT

1894. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 17:17:06 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c012834_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24891

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011125015741.12427.00003233@nso-cg.aol.com...
> In article <3BFB2DA5.67728B4F@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
writes:
>
> >
> >Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> >> Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior. I > >> do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women; therefore, I would > >> not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.
> >
> >Would you allow your wife to have lunch with a lesbian?
>
> No, Cecil, and I wouldn't be married to any woman who wanted to!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

But, Larry. You probably wouldn't be married.

Kim W5TIT

1895. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 17:20:48 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c012912_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24892

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tq6hldim2@208.206.142.91...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > >
> > > Krell wrote:
> > > > Perhaps, then, you can enlighten us as to why the crime rate is so high in > > > > such an area.
> > >
> > > Sure. Basically for the same reasons the young Islamics hate us and > > > join the Jihad. They just don't know anything except what they're taught
> > > from infancy. If you're told from first cognizance that all Westerners > > > are evil infidels who Allah dictates must be exterminated even at the > > > cost of your own life (but you'll get your reward of 40 virgins and
all
> > > you can eat in the afterlife) that's all you know.
> >
> > It appears that you have been taught from birth that all Islamics are evil
> > and that's all you know.
>
>
> There you go, lying out your ass again. Read the Koran and see what > they are taught.

SO!!!! You have read the Koran? Is that right?! And, you must be as susceptible to fanaticism as those who've read it and become terrorists in the name of their god.

Kim W5TIT

1896. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 17:59:35 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9trbi8$2tp$0@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24893

```
Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > news:9tq6hl$dim$2@208.206.142.91...
> >
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Krell wrote:
> > > > > Perhaps, then, you can enlighten us as to why the crime rate is so > high in > > > > > such an area.
> > > >
> > > > Sure. Basically for the same reasons the young Islamics hate us and > > > > join the Jihad. They just don't know anything except what they're > taught
> > > > from infancy. If you're told from first cognizance that all Westerners > > > > are evil infidels who Allah dictates must be exterminated even at the > > > > cost of your own life (but you'll get your reward of 40 virgins and
> all
> > > > you can eat in the afterlife) that's all you know.
> > >
> > > It appears that you have been taught from birth that all Islamics are > evil
> > > and that's all you know.
> >
> >
> > There you go, lying out your ass again. Read the Koran and see what > > they are taught.
>
> SO!!!! You have read the Koran? Is that right?! And, you must be as > susceptible to fanaticism as those who've read it and become terrorists in > the name of their god.
>

There's a huge question about whether or not you've even learned to read. We can easily see where your level of understanding is.

Should you decide to finally bring yourself up to date on world events, a good concise article which might help (if you can understand it) would be the Dec 3 issue of National Review magazine, page 38, entitled "Martyred". Written by a woman!
```

1897. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:07:51 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9trc1n$35b$0@208.206.142.68>
Source record: 24894

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> news:20011125015741.12427.00003233@nso-cg.aol.com...
> > In article <3BFB2DA5.67728B4F@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
> writes:
> >
> > >
> > > >Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > > >> Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior. I > > > >> do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women; therefore, I would > > > >> not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.
> > > >
> > > >Would you allow your wife to have lunch with a lesbian?
> > >
> > > No, Cecil, and I wouldn't be married to any woman who wanted to!
> > >
> > > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> > >
>
> But, Larry. You probably wouldn't be married.

If the selection was limited to the likes of you I wouldn't be, either.

1898. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:08:04 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C013294.8C6BA82A@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24895

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > You've already got me labelled and put into a box. You have a similar > > box around you, Cecil.
>
> Actually, I'm pretty much out of the box. Like a lot of Texans, > my favorite song is, "Don't Fence Me In".
>
> > Cecil's Mantra: "By God, if we made everything legal, there wouldn't be > > any crime.
>
> Nope, Cecil's Mantra: If we get rid of victimless crimes, our > penitentiaries will be half empty instead of overflowing and > will cost the taxpayers half as much. It would be a win, win > situation. We presently put so many marijuana users in jail > that we don't have room for child molesters and rapists. Is > that really what you want?

Your last sentence is completely absurd. If you need more prison space, build it.

Dave K8MN

1899. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:09:45 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0132F9.2D00EEDF@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24896

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > >
> > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > > > Well, let's start with you, Dave. Do you eat pork?
> > > > >
> > > > > Oh, did you think I was going to assist you? Try and find out.
> > > >
> > > > Now I don't have to - you just told me.
>
> > I've made no revelation.
>
> I'm surprised at how ignorant you are of human psychology.

Probably no more surprised than I am at your inability to comprehend a simple English language sentence.

Dave K8MN

1900. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:12:37 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0133A4.168EE08A@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24897

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > The Church is all of Christianity. The church is a building.
>
> Pulled that one out of your posterior, eh? My unabridged dictionary > doesn't have an entry for "Church".

Let's try to iron this one out. You believe that because your dictionary is deficient, I'm making something up?

> > Ask him about Kim's call while you're at it.
>
> You really want to side with a Southern Baptist bigot?

I'm only providing you with the opportunity for dialog with your pastor.
Perhaps you could attempt to straighten him out in the way you have here. Tell him why you stay despite your disagreement with Southern Baptist dogma.

Dave K8MN

1901. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:17:07 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C013493.4FB4F259@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24898

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Rick Adams wrote:
> > > > If you served in foreign posts, it's too bad you didn't take > > > > the opportunity to absorb more of their cultures.
> > >
> > > Actually, a book was written about guys like Dave,
> > > "The Ugly American".
> >
> > It is quite obvious that you either did not read it or (more likely) > > that you don't remember Lederer's tome.
>
> Sorry, I forgot that you are devoid of a sense of humor.

If I didn't have a sense of humor, I'd likely not spend much time responding to much of what you write.

Dave K8MN
```

1902. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:19:48 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C01353D.4561D23F@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24899

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > I'm stating that it (Kim's call) is tacky, lacks decorum
> > and that it exhibits lack of taste.
>
> Those are your feelings, Dave, that you have used your free > will to choose to feel them. Thus, if they are a problem, > they are 100% your personal problem. The rest of the world > doesn't care what feelings you choose to experience.

Those are views, Cecil and they don't pose a problem. You don't speak for the rest of the world. Others have expressed similar views.

Dave K8MN

1903. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:22:28 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0135D9.AE2F6DEE@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24900

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > YOU are the individual who indicated that the majority of Southerners > > supported segregation.
>
> Yep, that's true based on my personal experiences living and > working in the South. I have absolutely no reason to believe > otherwise. I have seen no evidence that would change my mind.
> Do you have any evidence?

Based on my personal experiences living and working in the South, I say you're all wet. Do you have any evidence?

Dave K8MN

1904. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:24:45 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c013810_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24906

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tr1mklql2@208.206.142.68...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > It is very difficult for anyone to be held responsible, at > > > least by any rational person, for someone else's choices.
> >
> > That's exactly the truth yet you are trying to hold Kim responsible > > for the feelings that you choose to feel.
> >
> > You still just don't get it. Kim is not the cause of her callsign being > > objectionable to you - you are the cause. The objection originates with > > you and is a choice that you make using your free will. You have a > > perfect right to do that but you need to learn to recognize and accept
the > > responsibility for your feelings because they are your feelings, not > > anyone else's.
> >
> > Your feelings are your choice and your responsibility, Dick. Stop trying > > to blame them on someone else. All you have to do to alleviate the > > problem is to choose to change your feelings. Why should your personal > > feelings rule the rest of the world?
>
>
> So I have no right ot feel oiffended if someone else does something > very offensive. Right. Of course, you do.
>

You are countering with a very narrow-minded reaction, Dick. YES you have an absolute and perfect right to feel offended by the actions of others.
You have an absolute and perfect right to express that you are offended.
But, you really don't have an absolute and perfect right to go beyond your expression of offense and then commit the same to another (offend them).

What the argument is, is that it is "unreasonable" for you to expect no other than an illogical reaction just as inappropriate as yours when you get to the point where your extreme reaction becomes offensive. That is two negatives and no good point is made through it.

You have an absolute perfect right to wake up every morning and want the world to be however it is that you dream of perfect. You do not have the right to begin assaulting (verbally or otherwise) everyone who is not helping make it that way.

Styles of debate:

PURE and PERFECT:

Kim: In my opinion my callsign is my personal choice. I accept that my callsign may be offensive to some, just as the actions of others in the ARS are offensive to me.

Dick: In my opinion Kim's callsign is atrocious and harms the ARS in every way. She should get rid of it.

MUDDY and UNPRODUCTIVE:

Kim: In my opinion my callsign is my personal choice and screw any half-witted, ignorant, knuckle-dragging nitwit who doesn't like it.

Dick: In my opinion Kim's callsign is atrocious and her sagging tits are of no interest to we morally righteous hams.

Which type of style do you think is going to be the most productive, Dick? You have every right to act in the manner that you choose to act upon something. BUT, to muddy a conversation with personal expressions of illregard for others is quite contrary to being logical (if through argument we wish to attain some form of understanding and compromise--which is usually my goal and I think the goal of most others).

Another way to look at it is, why don't we (the folks on this newsgroup) spend as much time being overzealous in our comments of admiration for things people say that we like?

Kim W5TIT

1905. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:28:20 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125132820.28714.00001992@nso-md.aol.com>
Source record: 24903

In article <3C010B26.BDCD5772@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>> >Would you allow your wife to have lunch with a lesbian?
>>
>> No, Cecil, and I wouldn't be married to any woman who wanted to!
>
>You don't see gay men as the equivalent of women but you see >lesbians as the equivalent of men?

Cecil:

The only way I see gay men and lesbians is as unfortunate, confused people who need our prayers, and also need to be kept away from our children. A simple examination of human male/female anatomy will show that same-sex relationships are not what the Creator intended. The fact that this confusion is widespread does not make it normal.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1906. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:28:20 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125132820.28714.00001991@nso-md.aol.com>
Source record: 24905

In article <AY4M7.196949$3d2.8216511@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:

>> > Not even close, Rick. I got my B.S. in Human Resources Management
>> > Summa Cum Laude. The worst grade I got was a B+ in Organizational >> > and Industrial Psychology. All the rest were A's with a couple of
>> > A minuses. Final GPA was 3.88.
>> >
>> > 73 de Larry, K3LT
>>
>> And you're the one driving a bus? :-)
>>
>
>Love to argue with you but I gots to fire up the old school bus and cart a >bunch of Baptists around.
>
>Where else do you get paid for six hours driving one, read the Sunday paper, >drink coffee, eat bagels? The church supplies the coffee and bagels, I do >have to buy the paper.
>
>Definite help for the equipment fund and all it takes is a CDL-B, my Masters >is not required.
>
>They don't even mind when we show up at Sunday School singing Da Biggest Cow
>I Ever Seen. Probably a good idea if I refrain from I don't Care if it >Storms or Freezes (Long as I got my plastic Jesus) tho.
>
>It's existential, Man.

Dick:

It certainly is. Even though I have a degree in Human Resources Management, I have a lifetime of work experience in the transportation industry. I got my degree mainly to have it; I never imposed any requirement upon myself to become a career H.R. person, even though I would not refuse an opportunity to do so. I enjoy being a Paratransit operator, and if I get the job I'm interviewing for in our Development department, I will have a huge adjustment to life back in the cubicles.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1907. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:28:21 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125132821.28714.00001993@nso-md.aol.com>
Source record: 24901

In article <3C010BFD.DB445871@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> All of my attempts at not sinning are feeble, compared to what they >> should be. I am a sinner, of that there is no doubt. Perhaps you would >> pray for me?
>
>God would probably punish you if I prayed for you.

I don't think so, Cecil. Go ahead, give it a try. I will pray for you as well.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1908. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:28:21 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125132821.28714.00001994@nso-md.aol.com>
Source record: 24902

In article <3c011ef6$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>Watch it, Dick...you're getting as preoccupied with "them" as Larry R. is.
>
>Kim W5TIT

Kim:

Wrong again, as usual. I am not even remotely preoccupied with "them."
It is YOU who have the preoccupation with your own breasts, and desire for everyone else to be preoccupied with "them" as you are; therefore your call sign is imposed on the whole of the ARS, at the expense of any good opinion of your personal judgment. Quit trying to throw this back on others, Kim. You are to blame for taking the ARS "...one step closer to extinction," not us.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1909. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:28:22 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125132822.28714.00001995@nso-md.aol.com>
Source record: 24904

In article <3c01242c_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>Well, you and Larry R. have a lot of work to do--because I just don't see >your albatross. Prove it, and maybe I'll rethink my belief that my >callsign--anyone's callsign--is no detriment to the ARS. My callsign is >less detriment to the ARS than your general behavior here is.
>
>Kim W5TIT

Kim:

Where do you, Rick, Cecil, and the rest of the no-coders/pro-TIT'ers get the idea that anyone's "general behavior" on this newsgroup -- including yours -- could be detrimental to the ARS? This newsgroup is NOT ham radio -- it is merely about ham radio. The same standards of behavior which can, and rightly should, influence and control hams on-the-air don't apply here, nor should they. On the ham bands, we need to always present out best possible "face" to the world, in order to justify our continued exploitation of a valuable and limited resource. Here on Usenet, we can, and must, have the opportunity to put a sharper edge on things, in order to express our thoughts and feelings with the freedom we deserve as Americans.
The world is full of double standards; this is just one of them, and a pretty reasonable one, at that. Grow up and stop whining just because participants in this newsgroup get to call things like they see them -- at your own self-inflicted expense.

73 de Larry, K3LT

1910. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:30:23 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c013962_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24907

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tr27a$o8r$0@208.206.142.68...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > You are one sick sucker. If there had been any logic in it it would > > > have been refuted. As it was, all that was present was bullshit.
> >
> > Try using your internet search engine for "economic forces", Dick, and > > you will change your narrow mind.
> >
> > When I took psychology in college, the Prof. had us yell obscenities > > at the top of our lungs in class. That alleviated all the juvenile > > hangups that I had over such words as "tits". You should try it.
>
>
> You really are a nutcasr, abd that should be no surprise. If one has > dipshits for teachers, one is much more likely to become one himself.
>
> And whatever gave you the idea I have any hangup on the word "Tits"?
> Nothing could be further from fact. I'm not the Suthern Baptist, tho I'm > familiar enough with the concept. The point has always been that society > doesn't like to have to have some blowsy broad's floppies flung in their > faces all the time, on the ham bands or elsewhere. That's what this is > all about. There are lots of young kids and women who are much more > offended than any of us here. Have they no right to be free from such > garbage just because Kim wants to be vulgar? Where's your libertarian > bullshit now?
>

Sure they do! If they are that offended, and there is nothing they can do about my callsign, they can choose another hobby. And, I challenge that I want to be vulgar, and I also challenge your notion that most women would be offended by my callsign. I can't imagine a kid having the capability to be offended by a callsign. If they are aware of tits in a derogatory light, it wasn't me who taught it to them. The same could be said, I suppose, for the adults. I didn't teach you, Dick, that the word tit is a derogatory term--who did?

Kim W5TIT

1911. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:33:16 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c013a0e$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24908

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tr31h$p56$2@208.206.142.68...
>
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> >
> > In article <3BFB2C88.9FC1C774@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
writes:
> >
> > > >
> > > >Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > > >> Well, you've got one thing right, Cecil -- I'm endlessly asking for > > > >> forgiveness of my sins. I am also praying for those who don't see > > > >> the need to ask forgiveness. That's as much as I can do, save for > > > >> trying not to be a sinner.
> > > >
> > > >From your postings, I would say your attempt at not sinning > > > >is pretty feeble.
> > >
> > > Cecil:
> > >
> > > All of my attempts at not sinning are feeble, compared to what they > > > should be. I am a sinner, of that there is no doubt. Perhaps you would > > > pray for me?
> >
> But who would he pray to? He is his own diety.

D-e-i-t-y. Maybe that is why you are so confused about Islam.

Kim W5TIT

1912. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:35:44 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c013aa3_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24909

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tr3horho0@208.206.142.68...
>
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
> >
> > Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > >
> > > (snip) I think what this country needs
> > > is a good old fashioned revolt of the > > > hard-working, taxpaying citizens of
> > > all races who want to see an end to > > > the creation of dependency -- and
> > > force the know-nothings and do-nothings
> > > to wake up and find a way to share the > > > wealth the good old-fashioned way --
> > > by exercising the human characteristics
> > > of initiative, ingenuity, and integrity.
> >
> > Agreed. There are people all around (white, black, green, > > pink, and purple) who are driving this contry right into the > > gutter. Sadly, it might be hard to find enough decent people > > left today to have a revolt (it might be a small revolt).
> > Even more sadly, words like "initiative," "ingenuity," and
> > "integrity" are almost cuss words today (assuming the person > > even remembers what those words mean).
>
>
> Don't fret, Dwight. You evidently don't know that only a third of the > populace of the Colonies were active participants in the Revolutionary > War for Independence from Britian. Another third were Loyalists to the > Crown, and the final third were "Why can't we all just get along" sorts > like you, Rick, Kim and Cecil.
> There are always enough freedom loving, THINKING citizens here to step > up and get the job done.

And why don't you give us just one example of what you're doing to defend freedom, Dick? While you're at it, why don't you also think about the fact that if it is your freedoms you are defending and claiming to do it for me, too, shove it...I'll take my chances with the known enemy.

Kim W5TIT

1913. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:43:37 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c013c7d_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24911

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9trbi8$2tp$0@208.206.142.68...
>
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > > news:9tq6hldim2@208.206.142.91...
> > >
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > Krell wrote:
> > > > > > Perhaps, then, you can enlighten us as to why the crime rate is so > > high in
> > > > > > such an area.
> > > > > >
> > > > > Sure. Basically for the same reasons the young Islamics hate us
and > > > > > join the Jihad. They just don't know anything except what they're > > taught > > > > > from infancy. If you're told from first cognizance that all Westerners > > > > > are evil infidels who Allah dictates must be exterminated even at
the > > > > > cost of your own life (but you'll get your reward of 40 virgins
and
> > all
> > > > > you can eat in the afterlife) that's all you know.
> > > >
> > > > It appears that you have been taught from birth that all Islamics are > > evil
> > > > and that's all you know.
> > >
> > >
> > > There you go, lying out your ass again. Read the Koran and see what > > > they are taught.
> >
> > SO!!!! You have read the Koran? Is that right?! And, you must be as > > susceptible to fanaticism as those who've read it and become terrorists

in
> > the name of their god.
> >
>
> There's a huge question about whether or not you've even learned to > read. We can easily see where your level of understanding is.
>
> Should you decide to finally bring yourself up to date on world events, > a good concise article which might help (if you can understand it) would > be the Dec 3 issue of National Review magazine, page 38, entitled > "Martyred". Written by a woman!
>

National Review? Bwahhhahahaha, my acceptance of that as anything but conservative rhetoric would be about as probable that I am going to begin listening to Limbaugh with any regularity.

Kim W5TIT

1914. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:44:17 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c013ca4_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24912

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
ews:9trc1n$35b$0@208.206.142.68...
>
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> > news:20011125015741.12427.00003233@nso-cg.aol.com...
> > > In article <3BFB2DA5.67728B4F@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
> > writes:
> > >
> > > >
> > > >Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > > >> Homosexuality is a personal choice of deviant sexual behavior. I > > > >> do not see "gay" men as the equivalent of women; therefore, I would > > > >> not want my wife having private meetings with "gay" male friends.
> > > >
> > > >Would you allow your wife to have lunch with a lesbian?
> > >
> > > No, Cecil, and I wouldn't be married to any woman who wanted to!
> > >
> > > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> > >
> >
> > But, Larry. You probably wouldn't be married.
>
>
>
> If the selection was limited to the likes of you I wouldn't be, either.

Oh, believe me, you have that right.

Kim W5TIT

1915. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:46:48 UTC
From: Roger Halstead <rdhalste@tm.net>
Message-ID: <s0bM7.5$7d.2230@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24910

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tr2hu$p56$0@208.206.142.68...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Roger Halstead wrote:
> > > There are many parts of the world where we would consider their morals > > > barbaric and they the same for us.
> >
> > For instance, there is an area in Africa where the accepted standards > > of society require a man to teach his daughter about sex by being the > > first to have sex with her. Say Dick, how do you like those standards > > of society?
>
>
> I have no reason to like nor dislike it since I don't live there, am > not usbject to it, and have no reason to evaluate it. Of course it is > completely foreign to anything taught by the society I live within. You > seem to want to oppose much of our society and you have daughters, so > maybe you would want to answer your own question.

Ahhh...How did your fractured logic come up with what some one would like or dislike from the above two posts.
Just because I, or some else, point out how society differs by region and ethnic backgrounds has absolutely no bearing on what I believe, or practice. Nor would it with any one else. Had I embraced one of those societies, or condemned one, or another, then it would be an entirely different matter. I only pointed out that society is not a constant from one city to another, one state to another and one country to another. Even at the local level society is constantly changing due to the makeup of the population and their beliefs. Now does the change go one way. More often than not it tends to cycle from conservatism, to liberalism, or some where in between. The same is true for religion and the tolerance of and between different religions. As populations have a tendency to over react to many things, those swings can be rather sudden and extreme, but usually smooth out over time.

There is a huge difference between recognizing differences, pointing out differences around the world and what an individual believes and practices. Actually they are not connected except possibly for open mindedness. It's just that many are unable to distinguish between what a person believes and what that person is able to view or discuss.

One thing I've found over the years is that many believe any one who can discuss a point with which they disagree must also believe that point. I've also found the shakier the foundations of ones beliefs the more likely they are to vehemently defend those beliefs, or attack any one who proposes something different. Those with a sound foundation can usually sit down and rationally discuss opposing views in depth.

I will always remember a good friend who passed away a good many years back. Our views on a particular religion were almost diametrically opposed. Unlike the vast majority who espouse their religion and values, yet live, shall we say a wee bit differently, this man absolutely lived what he espoused as a religion. We had, what to me were some of the most interesting discussions about religion, ethics, and morals in which I've ever had the privilege to participate.

One other thing is that each and every one of us is part of all those societies, although the farther away the less influence they have on us as individuals. Each and every one of those societies adds a bit of flavor to the next larger which dilutes it a bit, but a tiny bit of that societies flavor eventually trickles back down to local levels around the world.

The friction arises when any particular group tries to force, their beliefs onto others of different beliefs, or standards.

--
Roger Halstead (K8RI)
WWW.RogerHalstead.com
N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S# CD-2)

1916. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 18:55:37 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c013f4c_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 24913

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011125132822.28714.00001995@nso-md.aol.com...
> In article <3c01242c_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >
> >Well, you and Larry R. have a lot of work to do--because I just don't see > >your albatross. Prove it, and maybe I'll rethink my belief that my > >callsign--anyone's callsign--is no detriment to the ARS. My callsign is > >less detriment to the ARS than your general behavior here is.
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Kim:
>
> Where do you, Rick, Cecil, and the rest of the no-coders/pro-TIT'ers > get the idea that anyone's "general behavior" on this newsgroup -- > including yours -- could be detrimental to the ARS? This newsgroup > is NOT ham radio -- it is merely about ham radio.
>

Then, tell me how my callsign is of such danger to the ARS. The most communicating I do is on this newsgroup. I have been on the air with my callsign less than 1 hour, possibly, in the last 2-3 months. I don't spend much time talking on ham radio. I spend an inordinate amount of time here in this newsgroup. Are you talking about my callsign on the air, causing every licensed ham to become aware of it?

>
> The same > standards of behavior which can, and rightly should, influence and > control hams on-the-air don't apply here, nor should they.
>

Well, good then. I see that my callsign isn't the danger you thought it was.

>
> On the > ham bands, we need to always present out best possible "face" to > the world, in order to justify our continued exploitation of a valuable > and limited resource.
>

And how is it that you are fulfilling this responsibility you feel all hams have. You believe that good use of the bands is critical to the justification of the ARS, yet you refrain from voice modes, you refrain from using much other than HF, you refrain from the greater majority of operation in the ARS, Larry. When are you going to begin doing your part to help justify the ARS?

> Here on Usenet, we can, and must, have the > opportunity to put a sharper edge on things, in order to express our > thoughts and feelings with the freedom we deserve as Americans.

Good, you're beginnning to realize that we Americans have the right to expect freedom.

> The world is full of double standards; this is just one of them, and > a pretty reasonable one, at that. Grow up and stop whining just > because participants in this newsgroup get to call things like they > see them -- at your own self-inflicted expense.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

heh heh heh No expense here, at all, Larry, I assure you. OH, and as to the double-standards comment? You know, the one where you appear to be quite willing to accept them? Accept my callsign. :)

Kim W5TIT

1917. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:06:46 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C014146.BDAEAF4@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24914

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > It is very difficult for anyone to be held responsible, at > > > least by any rational person, for someone else's choices.
> >
> > That's exactly the truth yet you are trying to hold Kim responsible > > for the feelings that you choose to feel.
> >
> > You still just don't get it. Kim is not the cause of her callsign being > > objectionable to you - you are the cause. The objection originates with > > you and is a choice that you make using your free will. You have a > > perfect right to do that but you need to learn to recognize and accept the > > responsibility for your feelings because they are your feelings, not > > anyone else's.
> >
> > Your feelings are your choice and your responsibility, Dick. Stop trying > > to blame them on someone else. All you have to do to alleviate the > > problem is to choose to change your feelings. Why should your personal > > feelings rule the rest of the world?
>
> So I have no right ot feel oiffended if someone else does something > very offensive. Right. Of course, you do.

You have every right to feel offended by anything in the world. But that is something that you choose to do. The rest of the world doesn't care about your feelings.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1918. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:10:36 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01422C.6DE3BF71@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24915

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> Where do you, Rick, Cecil, and the rest of the no-coders/pro-TIT'ers > get the idea that anyone's "general behavior" on this newsgroup -- > including yours -- could be detrimental to the ARS? This newsgroup > is NOT ham radio -- it is merely about ham radio.

More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
You, personally, have offended more potential hams than Kim will during the rest of her life.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1919. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:12:31 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01429F.49FF4E36@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24916

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> Then, tell me how my callsign is of such danger to the ARS.

If W5TIT is a danger to the ARS, then so is
"Kneading Three Large Tits".
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1920. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:18:04 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0143EC.E1792AF9@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24917

Dick Carroll wrote:
> There are lots of young kids and women who are much more > offended than any of us here. Have they no right to be free from such > garbage just because Kim wants to be vulgar? Where's your libertarian > bullshit now?

I'm certain that you have offended more folk than Kim will during the rest of her lifetime. Someone needs to teach those ignorant kids to grow up and take responsibility for their own feelings.
Someone needs to teach you to grow up and take responsibility for the consequences of your own feelings. Kim's callsign cannot trigger any feelings in another person without that person's cooperation and consent. If you choose to cooperate in feeling vulgar, that's your choice, but don't blame anyone else for it.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1921. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:19:00 UTC
From: vtail@hotmail.com
Message-ID: <3c0143a3.28986770@news.netis.com>
Source record: 24924

On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 01:48:34 GMT, "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
wrote:

> Section 97.11 of the FCC Rules puts some very specific > restrictions on operation from an aircraft.

What 97.11 does is essentially kick the issue over the fence to the FAA where it belongs anyway.

The FAA says the pilot in command can use anything that he has determined will not cause interference with essential airborne navigation equipment.

Of course, the FAA doesn't bother to say how the pilot in command is supposed to go about making that determination.

1922. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:21:58 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0144D6.B196E815@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24918

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Ah, so we finally get to the bottom line. Cecil likes to do what Cecil > wants, no matter who else is negatively impacted by it.

If someone uses his/her free will to choose to be negatively impacted by my words or actions, that is their choice, Dick, and I am NOT responsible for their choices, they are. Ultimately, every human being is 100% selfish. I tithe to the church because I choose to, not because it is a requirement.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1923. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:23:59 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01454F.79B9C485@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24919

Dick Carroll wrote:
> You seem to want to oppose much of our society ...

I oppose the lack of freedom and abuse of power within our society. Sorry to see you support less freedom and abuse of power.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1924. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:28:01 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C014641.1E06648@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24920

Dick Carroll wrote:
> There are lots of former or current CBers in our age group, as you > well know, Cecil.

Former 11m CBers didn't exist when I was first licensed, Dick.
I participated in the last 11m ham contest. Please prove that the Liberty Net troublemakers are former CBers.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1925. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:31:39 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01471B.E91901AC@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24921

Dave Heil wrote:
> If you need more prison space, build it.

Prisons don't come for free. The Texas legislature will not approve building any new prisons.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1926. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:32:56 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C014768.4CCDEC49@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24923

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > I'm surprised at how ignorant you are of human psychology.
>
> Probably no more surprised than I am at your inability to comprehend a > simple English language sentence.

I comprehended it much better than you realize.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1927. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:33:48 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <wIbM7.128739$WW.8061618@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24922

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message news:9f4bfe89.0111250842.234d4ead@posting.google.com...
> "Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
news:<AY4M7.196949$3d2.8216511@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...
> > "Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message > > news:3C007B74.6B7569F@ix.netcom.com...
> > >
> > >
> > > Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > >
> > > >
> > > >
> > > > Not even close, Rick. I got my B.S. in Human Resources Management > > > > Summa Cum Laude. The worst grade I got was a B+ in Organizational > > > > and Industrial Psychology. All the rest were A's with a couple of
> > > > A minuses. Final GPA was 3.88.
> > > >
> > > > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> > >
> > > And you're the one driving a bus? :-)
> > >
> >
> > Love to argue with you but I gots to fire up the old school bus and cart
a > > bunch of Baptists around.
> >
> > Where else do you get paid for six hours driving one, read the Sunday paper, > > drink coffee, eat bagels? The church supplies the coffee and bagels, I do
> > have to buy the paper.
> >
> > Definite help for the equipment fund and all it takes is a CDL-B, my Masters
> > is not required.
> >
> > They don't even mind when we show up at Sunday School singing Da Biggest Cow
> > I Ever Seen. Probably a good idea if I refrain from I don't Care if it > > Storms or Freezes (Long as I got my plastic Jesus) tho.
> >
> > It's existential, Man.
>
> Yea, verily.

>
> Regale them with Tom Lehrer's "National Brotherhood Week" for a real show-stopper.
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY

We have already had the discussion about how good songs turn into hymns. What you may have been exposed to as Jesus Loves the Little Children is the tune to God Save Ireland. Our army used it in a little ditty that started out, "In this land of dopey dreams, happy peaceful Phillipines."

1928. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:38:33 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <ZMbM7.128747$WW.8060759@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24925

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011125132821.28714.00001994@nso-md.aol.com...
> In article <3c011ef6$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >
> >Watch it, Dick...you're getting as preoccupied with "them" as Larry R.
is.
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Kim:
>
> Wrong again, as usual. I am not even remotely preoccupied with "them."
> It is YOU who have the preoccupation with your own breasts, and desire > for everyone else to be preoccupied with "them" as you are; therefore your > call sign is imposed on the whole of the ARS, at the expense of any > good opinion of your personal judgment. Quit trying to throw this back > on others, Kim. You are to blame for taking the ARS "...one step > closer to extinction," not us.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

If 58 years on the planet has taught me one thing it is that the ladies are far more pre-occupied with 'them' than we are.

I recall wandering in to the late show at a local theatre at about the age of 17 or so into one of these floppy boob movies; was interesting for about 3.5 minutes at most. Incidentally the last X flick I went to was in Salt Lake City.

Dick NBK

1929. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:43:38 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0149EA.46BE5898@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24926

Dick Carroll wrote:
> If that's the best you can do no wonder you're on the defensive all the > time.

That's not the best I could do. That's the result of randomly opening the Old Testament. I don't have time to list all the atrocities that have been performed in Jehovah's name.

> You would dredge up an obscure Old Testament story and promote it > as the equal of the Koran's dictates to Muslims to eradicate all on > earth who refuse to be converted or enslaved.

Uh-Oh Dick, you don't believe in the Bible? God will get you for that. If you don't believe in the Bible why do you think Muslims believe in the Koran?

> Hey idiot, there was no such admonition and you know it, just choose to > twist a very old biblical story to fit your current agenda.

How can you be so ignorant of the Bible, Dick? God told the Israelites to forcibly take the promised land and slaughter all the innocent inhabitants. That was YOUR God talking, Dick.

> Muslims are taught from infancy as an integral part of their religious > training, that all other belief systems are not only inferior but that > they must be wiped out and their adherents either converted, enslaved or > killed.

The exact same thing is taught in YOUR Bible, Dick. You should crack it open and enlighten yourself. Civilized Christians don't pay much attention to the atrocities we are supposed to commit in the name of Jehovah.
Civilized Muslims don't pay much attention to the atrocities they are supposed to commit in the name of Allah.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1930. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:45:56 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <6883D00FE13BCA83.E7332C15E042843B.46CC26C61115D46E@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24927

On 25 Nov 2001 07:13:54 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

>> Yep, and Riley Hollingsworth sez those bad guys are mostly >> Extras and Advanced class.
>>
>
> Easy as the tests have been since the CB influx, that's no surprise.
>Makes the Tech and Extra lites whiners look that much more pitiful and >lame.

They didn't _make_ an easy test for Advanced class licenses, Dick, remember? They eliminated the class for new licensee. And many of us who are Extras (and were Advanced) upgraded BEFORE the tests changed.

If Hollingsworth is claiming Advanced class hams are causing more trouble than Techs, he is NOT talking about new licensees.

Sorry, Dick, but if you communicate on the air the way you do on line (and if you don't all you are doing is showing disrespect for ham radio in another venue), YOU and your cronies are the people Hollingsworth warned us about!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1931. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:46:31 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C014A97.ECFED318@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24928

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> National Review? Bwahhhahahaha, my acceptance of that as anything but > conservative rhetoric would be about as probable that I am going to begin > listening to Limbaugh with any regularity.

Like the terrorists, Dick is determined to stir up trouble. He, like the terrorists, would like to revive The Crusades. That is,
of course, as long as he doesn't have to do the fighting.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1932. ARNewsline 1267 - Nov 23 2001

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:48:23 UTC
From: radionews@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011125144823.24634.00001051@mb-fu.aol.com>
Source record: 24929

AMATEUR RADIO NEWSLINE(tm) REPORT #1267 – NOV. 23, 2001

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1267 with a release date of Friday, November 23rd, 2001 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. Six meters suprises the world and the night of the meteors are first on this weeks Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1267 coming your way right now.

(Billboard Cart Here)

**

THE BIG 6 METER OPENING

--
Cold Open Audio Here: N6KNW working Japan on 6 meters
--

That’s Brad Marckwardt, N6KNW, in Santa Clarita California working Japan on Saturday November 17th. No big deal you say? Well the band was 6 meters. It was the wrong time of the year for this kind of D-X. And less we forget, while Brad was working Japan, other hams were making equally amazing 6 meter D-X contacts like California to New York and Alaska to the lower 48. Take a listen:

--
Audio Here: Alaska to California, New York to California
--

The 6 meter DX was not limited to North America. Reports came in from around the world of similar single, double and even triple hop F 2 contacts.

From Costa Rica, Carlos Diez, TI5KD, reports that he started out the day working Europeans including GW4VEQ at about 13:50 UTC. Ten hours later, at 23:05 UTC Carlos crossed the Pacific with his signal, contacting JA4MBM for his first ever Costa Rica to Japan short path QSO.

The experts say that that the current solar cycle peaked in 2000 and that we are on the downside. But it appears that someone forgot to tell the VHF and UHF bands that its not time for D-X. It simply keeps rolling in on 6 meters and above and seems to get better and better with each opening.

Our thanks to Dave Booth, KC6WFS, who took time out from working some of the DX to make the recordings you heard in this report. And less we forget, the six meter band is still opening up almost every day – at least as this newscast is being prepared. (ARNewsline (tm))

**

THE ROCKS IN THE SKY: THE LEONID METEORS AND HAM RADIO

As if the 6 meter opening were not enough to bring bragging rights to many V-H-F enthusiasts, a few hours later came the light show in the sky. It was the Leonid Meteor Shower and hams who enjoy bouncing their signals off the ionized trails of meteors were not disappointed. One of them was Joe Hannigan. WL7M in Fritz Creek Alaska heard commenting during another 6 meter F2 opening:

--
Sound here
--

We do not have any of the sounds of the contacts. Much of it is high speed C-W or computerized using WSJT. But we do have some reports courtesy of the VHF Reflector.

Lets start with Sam Horton, KD4ESV of Bradenton Florida. He says that he was operating from grid square E L 87. Horton says that by 18:23 UTC he had worked twelve states including Alaska.

But that’s not all. Tim Marek, K7XC, of Fallon Nevada, operating as a Rover from grid square DM09 had one of the best meteor scatter reports. We don’t have time to cover it all, but here are a few stations that he worked starting with KB5XC in DM65, then AA7A in Arizona, K7MI in grid CN73 and W7USB in DN17. Tim added that W1IPL in grid DN62 went in the log along with K5JL in EM15 at about 03:23 AM local time.

K7XC says that all of these contacts were made mobile on 2 meters. Marek used an Icom IC 706 Mark 2 G transceiver driving a 170 watt power amplifier into a yagi antenna on his rover vehicle. Marek says that he spent the entire night chasing QSO’s on the space borne rocks. He wrote his report at about 6 a-m local time adding that he intended to crawl into bed and planned to sleep till noon. That is, if his pet cat would let him. (ARNewsline(tm))

**

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: HAPPY BIRTHDAY AO-40

The AMSAT Oscar 40 ham radio satellite has celebrated its first year in space. Then called Phase 3 D, the satellite was launched on November 16, 2000 aboard an Ariane 5 booster rocket from Kourou, French Guiana.

Even though the bird suffered some major damage during an orbital transfer maneuver, it has survived. After several months of work by the team at AMSAT Germany, transponder operation started last May 5th. At that time the U-band and L1-band uplinks were connected to the S-2 transmitter passband downlink via the satellites on-board Matrix switch. Since then, hams on Earth have made hundreds of contacts though the satellite.

AO-40 is currently in a long period during in which the Earth eclipses the Sun near perigee. The eclipses actually began about August 28th, and will rapidly increase in length. They will continue well into June 2002. For the current transponder operating schedule visit:

http://www.amsat-dl.org/journal/adlj-p3d.htm (AMSAT-NA)

**

BREAK 1

This is ham radio news coming to you from the United States of America. We are the Amateur Radio Newsline, heard on bulletin stations around the world, and welcoming the Douglas County Amateur Radio Club’s W0UK serving Lawrence, Kansas.

(5 sec pause here)

**

AMERICA AT WAR: FCC GETTYSBURG CHANGES MAIL ADDRESS

We told you it might happen and it has. At least for package deliveries. This, as the FCC’s Gettysburg, Pennsylvania office, announces that it has moved its mail handling facilities off-site.

The reason is the same as reported for FCC in Washington and CQ Magazine. Simply a precaution in case some of the strange people that we all call terrorists decide to target the Gettysburg licensing facility.

Its all fairly simple. Effective immediately, all overnight couriers, United Parcel Service and Federal Express deliveries have to go to a new location. That address is the FCC Gettysburg, Rear entrance, 35 York Street, Gettysburg, PA 17325.

The change does not affect US Postal Service deliveries. At least not yet. They will continue to be accepted at the office's physical address on Fairfield Road and diverted to the off-site mailroom. (FCC)

**

AMERICA AT WAR: VANITY LICENSING ON HOLD

I’m Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, with late breaking news about the Amateur Radio Vanity Call Sign program which is now, effectively, on hold. This, after the recently announced changes in mail handling procedures at the FCC's Gettysburg, Pennsylvania license processing facility.

As reported, mail directed to the FCC Gettysburg office was being held pending the start of special handling precautions to address any biohazards. Now that ARRL has issued a further bulletin on the matter. It quotes the ARRL’s VEC Manager Bart Jahnke, W9JJ. He says that the FCC has processed vanity applications received through October 14. But says Jhanke, vanity applications received after that date remain on hold for now.

There is some good news. The FCC is tracking the receipt date for each piece of mail. Because the agency gives equal priority to paper and electronic applications, all vanity processing was being suspended until the mail situation is resolved. Once the FCC begins opening its backlog of mail, most applications will probably be processed in about 18 days based on date received.

But there could still be problems for another group of filers. These are hams who waited till near the end of the two year grace period on renewing ham radio licenses. Jahnke says applications from those filing for renewal near the end of their two-year grace period will only be accepted for processing if they get to the FCC before the grace period expires.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Henry Freinberg, K2SSQ. (ARRL Bulletin, FCC)

**

AMERICA AT WAR: THE PSYCHOLOGICAL SIDE OF RADIO

The media is not only reporting the war against terrorism. According to the Media Network e-newsletter, it has also become heavily involved.

Here in the United States, media organizations like NBC were the first to be targeted by those spreading the anthrax virus. And the e-newsletter says that in Afghanistan, silencing the Taliban's voice and putting in a replacement was one of the first aims of the US led military campaign. That plan seems to be succeeding, with the restoration of "normal" radio services in the key city of Mazar-e-Sharif and a few days later in Kabul itself.

In another development, the psychological warfare broadcasts of "Information Radio" have only been heard irregularly on shortwave. Media Network says that it has contacted those responsible for running the operation to find out its current status.

As soon as Media Network get some updated information, it will be posted at http://www.rnw.nl/realradio/features/html/afghanistan010917.html (Media Network)

**

ENFORCEMENT: FCC VS. RF ELECTRONICS- AN EPILOGUE

The FCC says that it is thanking the owner of R-F Electronics for his decision to stop selling non certified amplifier kits and says that its closing the matter. But the owner of the company does not appear to be ready to say “you’re welcome.” In fact, Sidney Lee Martin, KD4YBC, is using the World Wide Web to launch a verbal counter attack against the regulatory agency. Amateur Radio Newsline’s David Black, KB4KCH, visited the spot in cyberspace and has the rest of the story:

--

Sidney Lee Martin ran afoul of the FCC for allegedly selling illegal power amplifiers for use on amateur HF and 6 meter frequencies. On September 19th, the Commission's Riley Hollingsworth wrote to Martin, telling him to stop the sales -- or face enforcement action.

With the threat of being taken to court and having his amateur radio license put in jeopardy, Martin shut his sales operation down September 25th. And he's taking a few verbal shots at the Commission.

Accusing the agency of being on a jihad, Martin says the FCC attacked and destroyed his business while letting another company continue selling non-certified amplifier kits. Martin says he will use his former business website to provide updates and comments on his tangle with the Commission. He's urging amateurs to ask questions and learn the truth.

In the meantime, the FCC appears to be closing the matter, at least as far as Martin's business is concerned. In an October first letter to Martin, the FCC's Hollingsworth notes Martin's comments that he has stopped selling non-certified equipment and thanks him for his cooperation.

The letter closes with Hollingsworth saying the Commission will review information Martin supplied about other sources selling non-certified equipment.

From Birmingham Alabama, I’m David Black, KB4KCH, reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

--

If you are interested in seeing what Martin has to say about the FCC, take your web browser over to http://members.aol.com/rfelectron/rfelect.htm (ARNewsline)

**

ENFORCEMENT DOWN UNDER: A VERY BUSY ACA

The United States is not the only place where the government has been actively enforcing its radio regulations. So has the Australian Communications Authority -- or ACA. And the figures for the past year are now in and Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, has them:

--

From this years ACA Annual Report we learn that this year, 12 penalties in lieu of prosecution were issued, three are under consideration by the ACA for withdrawal, seven were paid totalling $6,270 Australian, and two went to prosecution. In addition, prosecution proceedings without issuing penalties in lieu were instigated against six other persons for a total of 22 offenses.

During the year, the ACA conducted 1,200 Radiocommunications licence investigations, resulting in the issue of 267 verbal and 557 written warnings. No licence suspensions or cancellation actions were undertaken this year.

The ACA also investigated 781 complaints of interference to Radiocommunications services, and search and rescue authorities were assisted with the location of approximately 104 emergency position-indicating radio beacons. Although careless handling or faults caused many of these, 21 beacons had been maliciously activated with the intent of disrupting emergency services.

From Q-News Australia, I’m Graham Kemp, VK4BB, reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

--

Be it the United States, Australia or anywhere else, the same words always apply. Don’t do the crime if you cant pay the fine. (Q-News, ACA)

**

ARRL NEWS: THE BIG PROJECT EXPANDS

Some good news out of Newington. This, with word from the ARRL Schools wishing to take part in the Big Project can contact Jerry Hill, KH6HU at ARRL Headquarters, Field and Education Section, 225 Main St., Newington Connecticut, 06111. You can also find them in cyberspace at www.arrl.org. (ARRL)

**

ARRL NEWS: THE 2001 ARRL DIVISIONAL ELECTIONS

The results are in for the fall 2001 ARRL divisional elections and there are really no big surprises. In the Southeastern Division, Georgia Section Manager Sandy Donahue, W4RU, of Atlanta, Georgia, outpolled West Central Florida Assistant Section Manager Paul Toth, NA4AR, of Seminole, Florida by 478 votes. The final count was Donahue at 2783 and Toth at 2305. Both were contending for the seat being vacated by Vice Director Evelyn Gauzens, W4WYR, who decided not to seek a new term after 22 years of service.

In the Southwestern Division, San Diego Section Manager Tuck Miller, NZ6T, of National City, California, defeated Ned Stearns, AA7A, of Scottsdale, Arizona. The vote was 2485 to 2208. Miller assumes the vice director's position being vacated by Art Goddard, W6XD, who ran unopposed for director.

Last but by no means least, incumbent Pacific Division Vice Director Bob Vallio, W6RGG, of Castro Valley, California garnered 1924 votes to beat back a challenge by Gerald D. Griffin, K6MD, of Pacific Grove, California. Griffin polled 1225 votes. All those elected officially take office on January 1st, 2002. (ARRL)

**

HAM INDUSTRY NEWS: ELECRAFT IMPROVES THE K1

Elecraft's very popular K 1 compact CW transceiver has just became a four-bander. In addition to the 2-band version, the rig is now available with a single band-switched module that covers 40, 30, 20, and either 17 or 15 meters. No hardware or firmware changes are necessary to use the 4-band module and the module can also be ordered as an option to upgrade existing K 1 transceivers. For more information or to order, visit www.elecraft.com or e-mail sales@ elecraft.com. (Elecraft release)

**

BREAK 2

News never takes a vacation and neither do we. Coming to you from the United States of America, this is the Amateur Radio Newsline with links to the world at our only official website -- www.arnewsline.org.

**

COMMUNICATIONS BUSINESS: MORE LAYOFFS AT MOTOROLA

High tech giant Motorola has announced that it is reducing its work force by another 7,000 jobs, including an unspecified number of layoffs. The announcement came a day after the telecommunications giant reported a $1.4 billion loss for the quarter ended September 30.

Faced by a weakened economy and slower industry growth in worldwide cellphone sales, Motorola already this year had announced 32,000 job cuts to a work force that stood at 147,000 last December. That would increase the total cuts to 39,000 and trim the work force to approximately 108,000 by the end of the year - a reduction of about 26 percent. A company spokesperson indicated there could be more. (Published news reports)

**

HAMFESTS AND CONVENTIONS: SUPERFEST 2002

The Amateur Electronic Supply 8th annual Superfest open house is now slated for April 5th and 6th 2002 at the AES store in Milwaukee Wisconsin. According to a note from Molly Schreiber of AES, manufacturer representatives will be on hand displaying their wares and several forums are being scheduled. And as in years past, ham radio clubs are being invited to participate with free display space. Information on this and more is at the AES Superfest website. Its a long URL. Its in cyberspace at /www.aesham.com/superfest/sf.html. (AES Release)

**

RADIO PUBLICATIONS: DEPARTURE MESSAGE

CW aficionados attention. This one is for you. It’s a new book called Departure Message by Charles Lunsford that tells the story of an enlisted aircrew member flying as an Airborne Radio Operator in the 1950s.

Lunsford’s book traces one of the last of the Radio Operators trained in International Morse Code and who flew in the last aircraft purchased by the United States Air Force which had a Morse key as standard equipment. The book also describes some of the radio and radar aids of the time and the first top-secret transponders for identification.

Departure Message is published on-line by greatunpublished.com and is available in paperback or for download. More information is on the web at greatunpublished.com. (Charles Lunsford)

**

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: APPLE I-POD

Apple Computer has unveiled a revolutionary new portable music player that can hold an entire music collection. It also takes Apple outside its core computer business for the first time in eight years.

The Apple "i-Pod" is the size and shape of a deck of cards, with a small LCD screen and round dial on a white front and a stainless steel back. It holds about 1,000 songs in the MP3 music format and has a battery life of 8to 10 hours.

The only negative. The “i-Pod” currently will only work with Apple Macintosh computers, but that may change. About 7 million existing Macintoshes have the necessary hardware and software to be compatible with iPod. Apple president Steve Jobs says the company is considering porting it to windows based machines as well. (Apple release)

**

TECHNOLOGY FAILURE: COMPUTER FAILURE AT THE CALTECH USGS EARTHQUAKE MESSAGING SITE

A 5.1 magnitude earthquake near Anza California on October 30th should have generated an almost-immediate e-mail message to all southern California Seismic Network e-mail subscribers. However, this particular message was delayed about seven hours due to a catastrophic network hardware failure that occurred minutes before the shaker. To subscribe to this free and usually reliable reporting service, see http://pasadena.wr.usgs.gov/latest/mailing_lists.html (CGC Communicator)

**

INTERNATIONAL - FRANCE: ARISS-EUROPE QSL ADDRESS

The ARISS-Europe QSL Bureau's address has changed. Effective immediately, all European requests for ARISS QSL cards are to be addressed to AMSAT - France, 14 bis, rue des Gourlis, 92500 Rueil Malmaison, France.

Those applying for a QSL should include a self addressed envelope and two International Reply Coupons to cover the handling cost. The ARISS-Europe QSL Manager is Christophe Candebat, F1MOJ. His email address is F1MOJ@aol.com. (ON1CAU)

**

INTERNATIONAL - AUSTRALIA: VK 80 METER SSB BAND TO BE EXPANDED

The Australian 80-meter SSB 'DX Window', at present limited to a 4-kHz segment around 3798 kHz, is due to be expanded - but not until 2004. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, has more:

--

The Australian 80-metre SSB 'DX Window', at present limited to a 4-kHz segment around 3798kHz, is due to be expanded - but not until 2004. In Australia, the band 3700 - 3800kHz is presently allocated to the commercial land mobile service, effectively limiting amateur SSB operation to a single frequency. Following an approach by the Wireless Institute of Australia, the Australian Communications Authority has agreed to proceed with a change in the allocation of the band 3776 - 3800kHz. The ACA's intention is to reallocate this band to the amateur service on a primary basis from the 1st of January 2004. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH.

--

Current commercial users of that spectrum won’t be left out in the cold. They will be moved to existing land mobile spectrum adjacent to the new amateur band by the end of December 2003. (RSGB)

**

SPECIAL EVENTS: K7A PEARL HARBOR DAY STATION

Pearl Harbor Day will be celebrated in the ham radio world December 7, 8 and 9, when Special Events Station K7A comes on the air from Phoenix Arizona. K7A will be operational on most High Frequency bands. More information is posted on www.aztenx.org (Superstition ARC)

**

DX

In-D-X, Jim Weidner, K2JXW, who is the founder and president of the Amateur Radio Lighthouse Society announced the groups second annual Lighthouse Christmas Lights QSO Party. The event is scheduled for December 22nd to the 23rd. For more information please visit www.arlhs.com on the world wide web. (News release)

**

THAT FINAL ITEM: VK HAM RADIO IN THE AIR ON THE AIR

And finally this week, the story of the celebration of an old airplane and the part played by ham radio. It was an unusual job for hams. Again, from Australia, Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB:

--

VK4's Redcliffe & Districts Radio Club Inc. ran a radio link, at the request of Redcliffe City Councillor Ian Poyitt, from an aircraft to Redcliffe Radio Station 99.7 FM. The Link commemorated the 70th anniversary of the Tiger Moth. There was approximately 100 old aircraft participating in this rare fly-past.

--
Flight Audio Here
--

A hand held scanner's audio was fed directly into the mixing desk. A 2 meter radio using a quarter wave antenna from the aircraft, then a crossband link to take the 2 meter signal from the aircraft and retransmitted this on 70cm using the clubs new Yaesu FT-847.

The flight went off without a hitch with Steve Harris VK4HRS as the Aeronautical Mobile Announcer, having flown for the first time and enjoyed himself immensely.

--

Well done Steve and all at the Redcliffe Club. (Q-News)

**

NEWSCAST CLOSE

With thanks to Alan Labs, Amateur News Weekly, AMSAT, the ARRL, the CGC Communicator, CQ Magazine, the FCC, the Ohio Penn DX Bulletin, Radio Netherlands, Rain, the RSGB and Australia's Q-News, that's all from the Amateur Radio Newsline(tm). Our e-mail address is newsline@arnewsline.org. More information is available at Amateur Radio Newsline's(tm) only official website located at www.arnewsline.org. You can also write to us or support us at Amateur Radio Newsline(tm), P.O. Box 660937, Arcadia, California 91066.

A reminder that the Dayton Amateur Radio Association has opened the nominating period for the 2002 Dayton Hamvention Awards. There are three awards presented each year. They are the Radio Amateur of the Year, Special Achievement, and Technical Excellence.

All amateurs Novice through Extra are eligible. Awards are decided by the Awards Committee, based partially upon the information received. Magazine articles, newsletters, newspaper clippings, videos and the like are appreciated but cannot be returned. The deadline for nominations is January 31, 2002. Nominations can be submitted by US Mail to Post Office Box 964, Dayton Ohio 45401 or by completing the convenient e-form on the web at www.hamvention.org.

For now, with Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, at the editors desk, I'm Don Wilbanks, KC5MFA in New Orleans saying God Bless America, 73, and we thank you for listening." Amateur Radio Newsline(tm) is Copyright 2001. All rights reserved.

**
**

PROMO: THIS WEEK ON THE RAINREPORT

Severe weather can happen anytime and anywhere. Thats the reason many hams belong to SKYWARN. Maybe you should too. Find out why when Hap Holly intetviews David Black KB4KCH on this weeks RAIN Report. It’s now on line at www.rainreport.com or you can hear it by telephone at 847-827-7246.

1933. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:51:32 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C014BC4.E884D410@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24930

Dave Heil wrote:
> Let's try to iron this one out. You believe that because your > dictionary is deficient, I'm making something up?

Talk about delusions of grandeur. My unabridged dictionary of the English language is deficient? ROTFLMBO Thanks fer
the laugh, Dave. One more word added to that dictionary and I wouldn't be able to pick it up.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1934. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:56:27 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C014CEB.BFDF3963@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24931

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Those are your feelings, Dave, that you have used your free > > will to choose to feel them. Thus, if they are a problem, > > they are 100% your personal problem. The rest of the world > > doesn't care what feelings you choose to experience.
>
> That's been your story and you're still sticking to it, but it is no > less wrong.

Dick, you are not going to reach adult maturity until you take responsibility for your own feelings. Children don't understand such but they gain understanding as they mature. You never did.

> When a large percentage of society views it as wrong, it is a moral > issue and thus a part of the mores of that society.

Aha, the old argumentum ad populum diversion. Can't you do any better than a diversion, Dick?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1935. Re: Aero Mobile -- The Best Way (Was: Aeronautical Mobile...)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:58:59 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gnd7y00.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 24932

On Sat, 24 Nov 2001 23:46:33 -0800, Jim Weir wrote:

>Now take this on and do with it what you will --
>
>In the amateur world, I'm an Extra and a long-time Elmer.

So am I - Amateur and commercial licensed 50 years next summer, officer of several amateur radio clubs and professional organizations. In addition to that am both a communications engineer and a communications attorney, and an "Elmer" in all three fields.

>In the aviation world I'm an A&P, IA (airframe and powerplant mechanic with >Inspection Authorization). Also commercial, instrument, flight instructor in >airplanes and gliders.

10 years in military airborne and ground comms (USN and USAF-SAC), 30 years with FCC doing and supervising radio compliance investigations and inspections, including amateur, aircraft and marine systems.

Now that we've roared at each other, let's get dowm to brass tacks.

>In my airplane there is a 2-meter rig connected to the power bus by it's own >breaker, but it is also connected to the airplane audio system through the >aircraft's audio panel, and hence to the aircraft headphone and microphone >circuits, thus "connected" to the aircraft system.
>
>In my NSHO, this is the safest way to incorporate a ham rig in an airplane. The >reasons are not important. My professional opinion is.

No argument there. The subject in question was whether the Rules permit a cockpit member to use radio equipment installed in the aircraft for Aircraft Radio (Part 87) purposes for amateur communications, especially in aircarrier service where the radios are installed and used to meet FAA requirements. That is the meaning and intent of Sec. 97.11(b).

>The aircraft number is N73CQ. The ham call is WX6RST. Come nail my ass >to the grass for a violation if you wish.

I'm out of the "nailing the ass" business now (retired from the FCC as District Director 6 years ago). My business is keeping folks from being nailed by my former colleagues and picking up the pieces after they are.

Fly safely.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

1936. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 19:59:20 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C014D98.A5807A71@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24933

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > I'm stating that it (Kim's call) is tacky, lacks decorum > > > and that it exhibits lack of taste.
> >
> > Those are your feelings, Dave, that you have used your free > > will to choose to feel them. Thus, if they are a problem, > > they are 100% your personal problem. The rest of the world > > doesn't care what feelings you choose to experience.
>
> Those are views, Cecil and they don't pose a problem.

They are views based on unthinking feelings, Dave. That is the least reliable way to arrive at a rational conclusion. I'm glad your mob is not large enough to enforce your whims.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1937. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 20:01:41 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <18EAF8AD4F6892F8.F649511990A4FFBF.6F428E9C0F2B9076@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24934

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 18:08:04 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Your last sentence is completely absurd. If you need more prison space, >build it.

Sure, why not.

After all, we ALREADY have the largest percentage of our population incarcerated of ANY first world nation--including the former USSR at its peak; and we surpass most third world nations as well (don't believe it? Take a look at the Department of Justice statistics at http://www.doj.gov). We certainly DO need new prisons if we are going to become more of a police state than we already are!

Dave--open your eyes! If we have such a high percentage of our population in prison doesn't that tell you there's something wrong with our legal system? Particularly when we ALSO have more violent crime than any other first world nation as well (same source)?

If "more prisons" are the answer, then we should have the most peaceful, safest, nation on earth. Until the end of the cold war you could walk down any street in Moscow safely at night. You can do so today in Stockholm, the Hague, or Bern. Even major cities such as Amsterdam, Munich, Madrid, and Copenhagen are vastly safer than the average US city. CLEARLY we're doing something wrong--and the ONLY things we're doing differently are:

1. Emphasizing victimless crime instead of violent crime. In many of those nations prostitution is legal and marijuana is either legal or no subject to prosecution.

2. Using a punishment model in our prisons instead of a rehabilitation one (used by virtually all other first world nations).

3. Maintaining a death penalty (none of those nations have one).

4. Emphasizing laws based on morality instead of rights and protection from harm.

5. Not responding to the needs of the poor in any realistic manner.

6. Private ownership of hand guns and no registration of other firearms.

Take your pic, Dave, one or more of these is the root of our current prison crises. We don't need more prisons--we need an intelligent approach to criminal justice that locks up dangerous people not potheads like more modern countries have.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1938. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 20:04:33 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C014ED1.7D84C664@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24936

Dick Carroll wrote:
> And how do you presume that economics can do that when Islam officially > rejects all that is economic theory in favor of a religious dogma that > is based on no econonimic theory at all, rather based on hatred of all > other religious and particularily secular social systems, from which all > advanced economic theory stems? Yoiu fail to appreciate that they gladly > kill off their own kind as readily as the opposition, when they can find > any valid reason. I'm amazed that the women of Islam aren't all Lorena > Bobbits.

You are such a bullshit artist, Dick. Many Islamic nations are, and have been, supporters of free market forces. Islam doesn't prohibit free economies. You have allowed a handful of extremists to get your goat.
You have allowed them to turn you into a person just as evil as they.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1939. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 20:05:45 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <BB7A02FF28E1A076.1619E8136C7709BA.617006811EC36713@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24935

On Sat, 24 Nov 2001 16:51:55 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>I can't sleep trying to make up dirty phonetics for your callsign.

ROTFLMAO

THAT was great!

By the way, "Nice 2 Eat You" works. Get some sleep!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1940. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 20:07:38 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C014F8A.C42F435B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24937

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > YOU are the individual who indicated that the majority of Southerners > > > supported segregation.
> >
> > Yep, that's true based on my personal experiences living and > > working in the South. I have absolutely no reason to believe > > otherwise. I have seen no evidence that would change my mind.
> > Do you have any evidence?
>
> Based on my personal experiences living and working in the South, I say > you're all wet. Do you have any evidence?

I have lots of evidence based on my personal experiences in the Southern US. What country are you talking about? It's not the US.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

1941. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 20:12:36 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0150B4.91C05889@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24938

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> I will pray for you as well.

No doubt God will punish me as a result of your prayers.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1942. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 20:14:57 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <8C54853EF353DA67.D7055109B9EA471A.BF842BFF9E4B4EBE@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24939

On 25 Nov 2001 03:04:15 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> So then, WHY did she choose it? Couldn't be to go with her anatomy, >could it? And the travesty is that is a sham anyway- oversized saggy >mammary glands are not attractive and are not an object of attraction, >so why does she need and want to call attention to them? Evidently she >needs the reinforcement

I see you're as prejudiced when it comes to women's bodies as you are when it comes to race, Dickie.

Fortunately not everyone agrees with you--some of us view the human body as naturally beautiful whether it's a petite size 4 or a full figured size 24. Judging a woman on her figure is like judging a man on his bank account--something no respectable person would do.

>(literally). Did she choose it because of some basic innate insecurity >on her part? Would she be a total unknown without being W5TIT, the >titty ham? Does that callsign give her an identity that she otherwise >could never have?

Does demonstrating bigotry, sexism, hate, and a vile, spiteful, nature in a public forum devoted to ham radio give YOU an identity that you otherwise could never have?

Dick, you are an insult to the ARS and precisely the kind of ham that would discourage any respectable person from entering the hobby. As a parent, if I heard Kim's call on the air or saw it here in an amateur radio oriented news group I wouldn't be the slightest offended--I'd chuckle and continue to teach my child about ham radio.
But if I encountered views and statements such as yours in such a setting, I'd have to come to the conclusion that ham radio was totally unsuited for my child. So would any concerned parent. I may not prohibit him from exploring it based on that--but I WOULD cease to encourage his participation and would encourage him to take up a hobby where he would be exposed to a better class of people.

>All this matters not, it is simply very poor taste and an albatross on
>the ARS.

Dick YOU are the one in poor taste and an albatross on the ARS!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1943. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 20:15:27 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01515F.3C575DAB@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24940

Dick Carroll wrote:
> But who would he pray to? He is his own diety.

Nope, God is within me so I pray to my inner self.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1944. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 20:20:49 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0152A1.11F780CD@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24941

Dick Carroll wrote:
> If you don't see anything wrong with breaking the law, knock yerself > out.

If you lived in Louisiana with your wife, would you break the law prohibiting oral sex between a husband and wife. Are all laws good laws?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1945. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 20:24:18 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C015372.FADA4806@IEEE.org>
Source record: 24942

Dick Carroll wrote:
> No one even mentioned the radio gear itself. It was never > the problem and we all know that.

Well then, CB radios can't be all bad, can they? Just like gun users, some individual humans are good and some are bad.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1946. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 20:56:56 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <681C504644C3DE49.94B8E00E697A6DF9.DD96F71F6B4B2BB2@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24943

On 25 Nov 2001 02:56:46 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Sure it it. If most hams want the ARS to appear as a family oriented >service, and wish it to appear that way to younger persons, and when >they demonstrate ham radio to younger folk, there is Kim W5TIT and her >(tee hee, big gabonzas, with all the double ententre or sexual innuendo >accompanying, what is that but harm?

You know, what's interesting Dickie is that you insist you know what "most hams want."

I think what "most hams want" is an environment where people communicate showing each other respect and courtesy; where hams don't jam each other because they don't want to listen to offensive ideas;
where bigotry, racism, sexism, and prejudice are not part of the conversations; and where hams demonstrate welcome and friendship, not bitterness, ridicule, or a sense of superiority to new hams.

THAT, not a "family oriented service" is what most of us want,
Dick, at least as far as I can tell from my conversations with other hams.

Sorry you don't agree--maybe if you'd get your nose out of cw once in a while and listen to the hams using voice (and, Dick, if you claim to speak for "most hams" you BETTER listen to--and communicate with--those of us who prefer voice, because WE represent the majority of hams, not those who live in the cw sub-bands) you'd have a better idea of what "most hams" really DO want from the hobby.

> Just because you take no offense over W5TIT doesn't mean that a >majority of other hams do not. Is your opinion the only one that >counts???

Is yours?

FAR more hams have posted here that they do NOT take offense at her sign than have posted that they do. That makes it pretty clear that most hams DON'T take offense at her sign. Why is YOUR opinion any more important than ours?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1947. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:03:52 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011125160352.20950.00000727@nso-cu.aol.com>
Source record: 24944

In article <3C00FB57.92C7A86F@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:

>CAM wrote:
>>
>> Southern Baptists believe that only
>> some protestants are going to heaven.
>> In particular, they believe that >> Catholics and Mormons are going to
>> hell.

> Heck, I'm sure most Christians, as well as many Mormons
>and Catholics, believe that more than a few self-proclaimed >Christians are going to hell too.

I think Cecil means that they believe ALL Catholics and Mormons are going there, regardless of how they live their lives.

Catholics and Mormons are Christians, btw. All of them.

73 de Jim, N2EY

1948. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:17:19 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <39ACD59A1A1A84AC.CA66D9F666246B14.2D38BC483A8BA7DA@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24945

On 25 Nov 2001 03:06:47 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

>> If I base my concepts of right and wrong on my own moral >> values, you base yours on your values, Dave does, etc.--so long as we >> can agree that harm to nonconsenting individuals is considered wrong >> by all of us, then there is no conflict involved. I may behave in a >> manner I find moral, you may behave in one you find moral, and neither >> of us will in any way affect the other.
>
>
> But society sets the guidelines for all of us. There is a range of >acceptability. Go outside this range, and society will sanction you.

Does that make society right?

German society decided that it was unacceptable to be a Jew, a Gypsy, or a homosexual. The chose concentration camp internment and death as a sanction for those "offenses."

You claim that society is the fair source of guidelines. Those were theirs. Do you accept THEM as valid and acceptable--or do you feel you would oppose those "guidelines" if they were imposed on you?

You can't have it both ways, Dick. If society DOES have the legitimacy to set the guidelines for us all (as you claim) then it has the right to set ANY guidelines for behavior it chooses--whether you agree with them or not. On the other hand, if you believe that the individual citizen has the right to step back and say "No--these are unreasonable guidelines for civilized people to be subjected to--I will not obey them," then you, yourself, contradict the statement you made above.

>> What is so difficult for people to accept about that simple >> concept?
>
> Yeah, why indeed?

I don't know, Dick. I really don't.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1949. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:23:15 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3C8BA5E9532C8ED5.94C63300D2EB0456.81CCA8B3F3AC6E35@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24946

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 08:17:34 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>For instance, there is an area in Africa where the accepted standards >of society require a man to teach his daughter about sex by being the >first to have sex with her. Say Dick, how do you like those standards >of society?

There's also a substantially sized society in Africa (and another in South America, btw) in which it is the responsibility of the brother of the woman to initiate her SON into manhood by having sex with him.

And there are several societies in which young girls (around five years of age) have their clitorises cut out and their vaginas sewed closed (usually by a village woman who uses no anesthetic) in a rite called female circumcision.

I wonder which of those three societies Dick would have the greatest contempt for--I know which one (the last) repells me the most!).

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1950. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:31:30 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C016331.C81B1080@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 24947

Dick Carroll wrote:

>
> There are lots of former or current CBers in our age group, as you > well know, Cecil. Many of whom, unable to cut the mustard before the big > dumbdown, are now extra lites. But you already know that.

There's been this trouble before the restructuring. And the FCC has observed that since restructuring (aka dumbdown) it has NOT gotten any worse. Oh sure there are newbie type errors, but most of us general and extra lites quickly learned.

1951. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:32:47 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <F3A34779EE34B337.263252C283FA5214.749E828457839CD2@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24948

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 06:22:09 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>YOU are the individual who indicated that the majority of Southerners >supported segregation. Proving it is only necessary if you want to be >believed (I think that is the way you put it).

The proof you want should be pretty obvious, Dave. The majority of the residents of those states either voted directly for laws that created a segregated society or elected representatives they knew supported and would introduce such laws.

Maybe you can claim that some of the segregation laws were "left overs" from the post civil-war era. Some were. But what about laws such as the use of "colored" and "white" drinking fountains, waiting rooms at bus stations, lunch counters, or sections of a movie theater--or support for redistricting elections that resulted in gerrymandering (dividing districts so that all voting districts had a white majority and no black votes would count)? Those (and many other laws) were clearly written in the Twentieth Century; those districts were redivided more than once in the Twentieth Century as the racial makeup of an area changed racially. It wasn't opposition to segregation that permitted such laws and gerrymandering, it was SUPPORT for segregation.

>I'd think a guy like you still has to be quiet about some things in >order to prevent bodily injury.

Why?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1952. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:34:10 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <7AD158D0421F82C6.77B8176034BED39A.FC6785E72F2A503C@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24949

On 25 Nov 2001 15:27:06 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> I think it was totally predictable that Rick would turn out to be a >hustler, and that is NOT a mobile antenna in this instance.

Leave it to Dick to come up with something that stupid!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1953. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:36:51 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <AEFA43858F5D0635.6E876CABD6A9DAB3.60EB7503256A7E60@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24950

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 06:15:36 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Sure you have to, Cecil. What I told you is that I do not intend to >assist you. If you want to win, you have to work for it. You'll either >be a winner or a guy who has gone to a lot of trouble for nothing.
>I've made no revelation. You're just seeing dirty pictures in ink >blots.

I'll make it simple, Cecil.

He eats pork products.

Unless he specifically contradicts me and states publicly that he does NOT eat pork products, you can take it as a given that I'm relating a fact, and you can count it on your side of the ledger. All he has to do is deny it, honestly, of course--but standing mute when evidence of your guilt has been introduced _always_ results in the presumption of guilt, even in a court of law.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1954. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:39:27 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <A2306BFCD52B4061.DAB6BF4E6CDA2F2C.7FB82F50E7C541AA@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24951

On 25 Nov 2001 03:12:40 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> And you are not only a dumbass you're a phony lying dumbass. You have >not the first clue what you're talking about.

Anyone ever notice that when Dick has nothing he can say in response to a statement, he turns to insults and obscenities and to accusing his opponent of being a liar instead of demonstrating integrity and conceding the point?

Great example of ham radio for young kids to emulate. Sort of like teaching your children about good government by apprenticing them to the Taliban.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1955. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:48:50 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <F4D4003CA7855028.17F5828F294EFA59.527D5786B768612A@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24952

On 25 Nov 2001 03:17:28 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> If, as a black kid, you see nothing but drug deals, ubiquitous crime
>and hustling, you grow up believing you're supposed to be a drug >dealing, hustling criminal.

You know, Dick, in a sense you are right--provided, of course, that when you refer to a "black kid" you are referring to one who is growing up in an inner city, not one who is growing up in a middle class neighborhood. Your social environment DOES shape your behavior.

Of course, you aren't asking the next logical questions:

1. Why are there so many drugs in the inner cities in the first place? It's pretty clear that the people living there don't have the resources to import/manufacture drugs--that they have to buy them from other sources then sell them in smaller quantities. Have you thought about what the race of the people selling TO them is?

2. What common factors are present (beside race) in the description you gave above? How about poverty? Don't people turn to crime to support them if they live in poverty far more frequently than if they don't? Don't they turn to drugs such as crack or alcohol for "escape" if poverty has made life intolerable and no escape is available to them? Doesn't lack of good schools and educational opportunities contribute a great deal to the crime in our cities? Is it the fault of the residents that the schools are underfunded while the ones in the suburbs receive more funds than they need?

Dick, you blame race for something that race has no part in at all. Sure there are more black kids experiencing what you describe than white kids--that's because there's considerably more poverty among blacks than whites and it is POVERTY, not race, that leads to those results.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1956. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:50:07 UTC
From: Roger Halstead <rdhalste@tm.net>
Message-ID: <jldM7.32$7d.7984@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 24953

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C010F0F.E1A55401@IEEE.org...
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > So which is it, Dick? Are CBers coming in droves or is 5wpm keeping > > > them out. Methinketh thou talketh with a forked tongue. You cannot > > > have it both ways.
> >
> > Having yet another period of convoluted thought? Or do you really > > believe the CW test is here to stay?
>
> I'll answer your question if you will answer mine above. It wouldn't > surprise me in the least for the US Morse code test to outlive the > repeal of S25.5.
> --
I'll add my two cents here...

I see no real need for the CW test for the licenses even though I had to take it at all levels.
I do think it's a good idea to know the code, but that is a bit different than needing it.
I would like to see the speed for the Extra put back to 20 WPM as the extra is not much more than a "prestige" license. You gain almost nothing by getting it except saying you made it, so why not keep the speed in there too.

As far as the quality of people coming into the service as well as those already here, it matters not what license grade, they all have their problem children (reguardless of age or education)

Although there is a stigma associated with CB and in particular "free banders", the former are mostly straight forward folks. Freebanders are by their very nature, outlaws. They are operating illegally which indicated their ability to follow regulations and their opinion of following regulations only when it suits them.

OTOH, Amateur radio is a technical service (hobby to some) and getting people to follow technical subjects is an up hill battle. A "steep" up hill battle.

It's not just Amateur Radio, but technical subjects in college as well. Students would, in general, much rather go into the liberal arts than science. Enrolments are much higher in Liberal Arts than in the Sciences. The Sciences are thought of as being difficult, and being a "techie" has a stigma attached. Sooo...many do not want to be thought of as techies and would also follow the much easier course with a Libera Arts Education.

Albeit, I do not say all liberal arts subjects are easy. It's just that the ones I was exposed to were far easier than the three terms of Calc I had to take (have math and art minors) Well, except music...I had an A in those courses too, but music theory...forget it.

Making it easier to get the ticket, or shifting the emphasis from tech plus rules and regs with CW to mainly tech whch does not make it any easier over all is not enough. IF we want more hams there has to be something to entice the newcomers into the service. Something we can offer not found easier elsewhere.

What would bring in more new people to a mainly tech hobby? I have no idea.

I really think that instead of devoting energy to the sometimes emotional debate for code Vs no code we should be debating how to bring in more quality people in the face of the general population having less and less interest in technical subjects.

--
Roger Halstead (K8RI)
WWW.RogerHalstead.com
N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S# CD-2)

> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1957. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:51:04 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <5686F89F8B662A88.45B51962E1B18E0A.A24D5525BF291BF7@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24954

On 25 Nov 2001 07:27:49 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> There you go, lying out your ass again. Read the Koran and see what >they are taught.

I've read it, Dick. And I say you are totally wrong in your statements.

Have YOU read it--or only read ABOUT it? If you claim to have read it, then by all means provide me citations of the statements that back your claims so I can read them in context in the copy of the Koran sitting five feet from me right now.

Put up or shut up, Dick. You claim to have read it--prove it.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1958. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:55:03 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <26F2F370B10910FE.317A86D5714B884C.688A0FCADB6A311F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24955

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 12:43:37 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>National Review? Bwahhhahahaha, my acceptance of that as anything but >conservative rhetoric would be about as probable that I am going to begin >listening to Limbaugh with any regularity.

Pity poor Dickie, Kim.

That magazine HAS to be the "bible" of his beliefs--and several years ago it came out in no uncertain terms for the legalization of drugs!

He must have had a heart attack over THAT issue--led off by no less a conservative voice than William F. Buckley!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1959. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 21:58:48 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C016997.2E81D22F@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 24956

>
> Like the terrorists, Dick is determined to stir up trouble. He, > like the terrorists, would like to revive The Crusades. That is,
> of course, as long as he doesn't have to do the fighting.

Reminds me of the spin my Catholic grammar school history books put on the Crusades. They talked about that the purpose was to liberate the Holy land from "someone".
Who that someone was was glossed over. And they also glossed over the results.

And stuff like "Crusader Rabbit", though just a cartoon show, implied that it was a Good Thing.

Just recently the Catholic church did own up to the Crusades being a bad idea.

1960. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 22:11:43 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <6FB4988D02AA8A34.1758C3159B5DA31E.C589A145F75B286C@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24957

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 06:19:40 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>> Actually, a book was written about guys like Dave,
>> "The Ugly American".
>
>It is quite obvious that you either did not read it or (more likely)
>that you don't remember Lederer's tome.

That's true, Dave.

The central character had FAR more concern for the culture he was interacting with, and was far more open minded, than yourself.

Cecil should have known better.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1961. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 22:14:17 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C016D39.D8D4A14E@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 24958

>
>
> You don't see gay men as the equivalent of women but you see > lesbians as the equivalent of men?

I always wondered that, if I said that I was a male lesbian, that would mean that I'm a heterosexual man. Because lesbians like women, and the same is true of hetrosexual men, they also like women.

:-)

Man with hole in pocket feel cocky.

1962. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 22:27:38 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C01705A.C671A4F5@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 24959

Phil Kane wrote:

>
>
> Sec. 97.11 Stations aboard ships or aircraft.
>
> (b) The station must be separate from and independent of all
> other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft, except
> a common antenna may be shared with a voluntary ship radio
> installation......

What is or was the purpose of this rule? Is it to prevent other non ham radio operators from getting on a ham band by mistake?

1963. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 22:36:21 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <4B51A0DAD182D2CF.ABB1AEA7AF65AEBF.CE269D6E9AD3D21D@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24960

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 06:29:09 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Do you carry a national ID card?

Sure--I have a social security card. My son, as required by law, has a drift card. I am required to show picture identification to board an aircraft in the United States and, based on the laws that have been passed and will take effect in January, I will soon be required to show such identification to board ANY form of transportation that crosses a state line. That the card is issued by the State instead by the federal government is irrelevant--in many nations id cards are issued by their provinces not the national government.

Incidently, in the Netherlands you are NOT required to carry a national ID card--you are ISSUED one, but it is the equivalent of a combination of our social security cards and a medical insurance id card--such as a Blue Cross card in the US.

>> Since your statement not only goes against experience, but
>> goes against the recently released UN study of freedom in member >> nations (which listed the Netherlands as the freest nation on earth, >> followed by Denmark, etc.), it would seem that you need to offer more >> than a simply statement of opinion to support your claim.
>
>The UN? 'nuff said.

Can't stand anything that comes from an impartial source, or just afraid of Black Helicopter?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1964. Re: Aero Mobile -- The Best Way (Was: Aeronautical Mobile...)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 22:36:43 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C01727B.7C2E3140@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 24961

Jim Weir wrote:

> In my airplane there is a 2-meter rig connected to the power bus by it's own > breaker, but it is also connected to the airplane audio system through the > aircraft's audio panel, and hence to the aircraft headphone and microphone > circuits, thus "connected" to the aircraft system.
>
> In my NSHO, this is the safest way to incorporate a ham rig in an airplane. The > reasons are not important. My professional opinion is.
>
> The aircraft number is N73CQ. The ham call is WX6RST. Come nail my ass to the > grass for a violation if you wish.

But that is a seperate rig. Think that would meet the rule Phil is talking about. What I'd like to know is the reason for that rule, not just that it's the rules and obey or else. Actually if I understand the reason behind a rule, I'll probably would more likely obey that rule. Like I know why you're not supposed to drunk drive....

1965. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 22:40:02 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <53DBEC038D54B145.105008A147A893A2.91FFABC950ED1A74@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24962

On 25 Nov 2001 06:57:40 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Cecil:
>
>All of my attempts at not sinning are feeble, compared to what they >should be. I am a sinner, of that there is no doubt. Perhaps you would >pray for me?
>
>73 de Larry, K3LT

Better not, Cecil.

You might get what you pray for--and what on Earth would you do with Larry Roll?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1966. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 22:41:28 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <0009E5E7A8F8E94F.50BD387849A6D2C0.46F2AD1D6EF51AB5@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24963

On 25 Nov 2001 02:50:48 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Oooops, sorry. I'm sure it's inconvenient for you, since it makes me appear >to be just as human as anyone else! I'll keep that in mind!

Thanks. I'd hate to be the one to make that mistake in identity!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1967. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 22:44:18 UTC
From: "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <6veM7.128924$WW.8082339@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24964

>> Krell wrote:
>> Wasn't there a prophet that negated kosher laws for Christians? I seem to >> remember that Isaiah, Daniel, or some other prophet had a dream in which god >> told him to eat what was before him. It was a feast of snakes, frogs, pigs, >> lizards and everything that was "unclean." God told the guy, "If I say it's >> OK, then it's OK."

CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message news:3BFDCD9B.E0F65F@IEEE.org...
>
> I don't recall that prophet. Since Yahweh, Jehovah, and Allah are all the > same God, why don't the Jews and Muslims eat pork? Did Jesus eat pork?
> I doubt it very seriously. He didn't want to risk trichinosis.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

The Lord guided my hand and eye to the Book of Acts where it is written in the Eleventh Chapter that the Apostle Peter falls into a trance while praying in Joppa and is presented with a vision of " fourfooted beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air". A voice tells him to "arise...slay and eat". He protests that he has has never allowed anything unclean to enter his mouth.
The voice answers him saying: "What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common."

This is part of a story Peter is telling to the good Christian Jews of Jerusalem justifying his associating with (and eating with) the "unclean" gentiles of Joppa.
The point of the story is that not only does God have no "unclean" animals, He also has no "unclean" peoples and that everyone is to be welcomed into God's fellowship.

--
Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
Glendale, Arizona

1968. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 22:44:36 UTC
From: BH <radioguyx@texxas.net>
Message-ID: <3C00BBEC.79281B6@texxas.net>
Source record: 24965

I think the rule applies to amateur (non-type accepted) equipment and not the installed comms on board the aircraft or ship. The installed comms can be operated on the ham bands by a qualified operator, but if amateur equipment is installed, it must be according to the rule below.

Robert Casey wrote:
>
> Phil Kane wrote:
>
> > >
> > >
> > > Sec. 97.11 Stations aboard ships or aircraft.
> > >
> > > (b) The station must be separate from and independent of all
> > > other radio apparatus installed on the ship or aircraft, except > > > a common antenna may be shared with a voluntary ship radio > > > installation......
>
> What is or was the purpose of this rule? Is it to prevent other > non ham radio operators from getting on a ham band by > mistake?

1969. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 22:45:09 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <732A215917B75E22.3A6C6ED9E04EE295.A2B04360C79724DF@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24966

On 25 Nov 2001 18:28:20 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>The only way I see gay men and lesbians is as unfortunate, confused >people who need our prayers, and also need to be kept away from our >children. A simple examination of human male/female anatomy will >show that same-sex relationships are not what the Creator intended.
>The fact that this confusion is widespread does not make it normal.

Gee, Larry, if that's the case I wonder why homosexual behavior is so common in the animal kingdom. I always thought animal behavior was, by definition, "normal."

BTW, over 96% of ALL child molestation is performed by heterosexuals (according to the Department of Justice statistics available at http://www.doj.gov), despite the fact that between 7% and 10% of our population is homosexual. It would seem that your insistence that we keep homosexuals away from our children would only result in increased levels of child sexual abuse--is that what you hope for?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1970. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 23:05:07 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <E1FD64A2A03FD06C.84073B2D92AE729F.9EEFA0EB998C0BAB@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24967

On 25 Nov 2001 06:57:37 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I don't think that the ham bands are an appropriate venue for the >full and unfettered expression of one's First Amendment "rights" to >express negative commentary about other people. I think such >speech is, in fact, protected by the Constitution, and must be >"tolerated," but the proper venue would be here on Usenet; the ham >radio bands are not.

Larry, I've been active on the Usenet since it began--and on the bbs systems (some of which I wrote) before that.

Why is it that something that is inappropriate on ham radio is appropriate here? Either both are suitable venues for racism or neither is. If you limited your statement to "Newsgroups specifically created to discuss racial and ethnic issues and prejudices" I might agree (but even then, if it's "ok" on the Internet why isn't it equally "ok" to have such discussions on the air as a part of special interest nets--the ham equivalent of Usenet news groups?), but you don't. Instead, you seem to feel that the people on ham radio have to be "sheltered" from speech that is acceptable in this medium (with a very similar audience) instead. Why?

>I believe in the statement, "We live in a democracy, but we do not >work in one." Just as an employer has the right to limit the speech >of employees, in order to prevent embarrassment to the company,
>the ham bands must be kept strictly "G" rated, in order to reinforce >the family-oriented nature thereof. Such subtle excursions from this >concept as selecting demeaning callsigns with sexual innuendo, >are an example of something that good hams should not do, for >the good of the service.

Bad analogy, Larry.

A work place is NOT a public place governed by Constitutional protections. It is private property, and the owner/manager of that property has the right to set any limits he or she chooses on how the employees can use their time on those premises. The ham bands, on the other hand, are NOT private property, but instead are regulated by the government, and thus MUST be subject to all Constitutional protections.

More important, however, is your argument that the bands must be kept "G" rated. Sorry, Larry, but I disagree if that means that all conversations must be at a level and on a topic understandable by or suitable to children. If I choose to talk with an adult, I don't expect to have my choice of subject matter dictated by Walt Disney. There are important issues that are NOT suitable for discussion with children--racism and prejudice among them--and there is absolutely no reason such discussions should not take place on the ham bands.

>>and that the actions of bigots both here and on the air damage >>our image and reduce interest in our hobby by prospective hams--
>
>"Here" is not "on the air," and that is an important distinction.

No, Larry, it is NOT an important distinction. Either:

1. Discussions here ARE related to the ARS and thus should reflect the same values as on-the-air discussions or;

2. Discussions here are NOT related to the ARS, and thus you should respect the people who choose the Internet as their communications hobby instead of ham radio and treat THEIR space with the same respect you expect the ham bands to receive.

Take your pick--in either case, your lack of consistency between an "on the air" personality and the one you display here is completely unreasonable.

> I >definitely do not behave on-the-air as I do in this newsgroup.

Then you have no respect for those whose primary interests are in the Internet rather than ham radio.

>This
>newsgroup is not ham radio. It is about ham radio, but the two >are not the same, and what hams say here can contain a bit more >of an "edge" than the can on-the-air without harming the positive >image of the service -- as long the hams in question understand >the difference, and are aware of where they are at the time.

Harming it in whose eyes, Larry?

On the air, the only people who will hear what is said are, for the most part, other hams. Here MANY potential hams are reading these messages--and are forming an impression of ham radio from their content.

Which do YOU think has the greatest negative impact on increasing the number of new hams?

> I know >that you, among others, probably do not approve of some of the >things I say here, in this newsgroup. However, I understand the >difference between this and ham radio; and I'm sure you'd find my >on-the-air behavior totally different -- if not boring.

Perhaps because you're more willing to show respect for others in a medium where you have a large investment in equipment and time than you are in one where you have no chance of being cited for your behavior or losing your license?

>Having said all this -- I doubt that much can be done about the >bigoted, racist, sexist, etc. commentary which pollutes the HF >phone bands, as long as the hams dishing it out are otherwise >operating legally within the limits of their license privileges. It is >a fortunate coincidence that the worst offenders along these >lines also tend to be prone to exceeding their privileges, and are >thus eligible for enforcement action. Unfortunately, we can't >"enforce" the content of speech in any more meaningful way than >to set a good example. Even more unfortunately, those who >engage in hate speech on-the-air aren't likely to be positively >affected by good examples, so all that is left is to avoid and ignore.
>My transceiver has one of those big round things on the front >of it, and I'm not afraid to use it!

Then perhaps you should do so when you hear the call "W5TIT"
instead of complaining that it is destroying ham radio.

>Uh oh -- now Kim's gonna think I'm talking about her again!
>I only said "one" Kim! Never mind -- she'll work her way into this >somehow -- she usually does!

Well since you mentioned her directly . . .

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1971. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 23:08:00 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9trti202s0q@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24969

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tr5lj$2vs$1@208.206.142.68...
> > So have you changed your mind and now don't see anything wrong with > > me smoking marijuana in the privacy of my own home?
>
>
> If you don't see anything wrong with breaking the law, knock yerself > out. Maybe you'll eventually get busted and clash with Society after > all. Hey, you gotta buy that stuff somewhere. The most available > salesmen are undercover cops.

This hasn't anything to do with breaking the law. It has to do with whether laws against (certain) drugs are just. Would your opinion be different if marijuana were legal?

1972. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 23:16:47 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <010671EF27DE9960.84BF843FD2DEAEAF.5A6D078F98DC5D15@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 24968

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 17:14:17 -0500, Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote:

>I always wondered that, if I said that I was a male lesbian, that >would mean that I'm a heterosexual man. Because lesbians >like women, and the same is true of hetrosexual men, they also >like women.
>
>:-)
>
>Man with hole in pocket feel cocky.

Not if man lesbian. Lesbian not have cocky.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1973. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 23:19:31 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tru7m02tph@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24970

"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
news:ZMbM7.128747$WW.8060759@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> If 58 years on the planet has taught me one thing it is that the ladies
are > far more pre-occupied with 'them' than we are.
>
> I recall wandering in to the late show at a local theatre at about the age > of 17 or so into one of these floppy boob movies; was interesting for about > 3.5 minutes at most. Incidentally the last X flick I went to was in Salt > Lake City.
>
> Dick N&#65533;BK

With the strict control the LDS has over that state, it's surprising that any such theatres exist at all.

1974. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 23:30:01 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9trurb02ur7@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 24971

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message news:3C016997.2E81D22F@ix.netcom.com...
> Just recently the Catholic church did own up to > the Crusades being a bad idea.

Is this the official church position? I heard some scholars say that if the crusades hadn't taken place, Europe today would be predominately Muslim.

1975. Re: Dropping the code, or is it something more?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-25 23:52:26 UTC
From: Bob - KE4JCD <ke4jcd@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <_ufM7.120444$Yb.30136751@typhoon.tampabay.rr.com>
Source record: 24972

Finally someone talking sense and without all the CB humor like Cam and Dick seen to do so well. Now that I got that out of my system, lets get down to business...

I till you why me, my wife and my two friends joined Amateur Radio. We joined to get away form CBers and all the DX, Noise, jammers, ect. When we did, We meet with very rude comments like lazy, go back to the CB, because we had no uses for HF. We loved the VHF and UHF bands, you can really talk local without running AMPS to talk over the DX. It was heavenly, but they keep it up and soon Tim KE4VBR quit, then me and my wife quit, now only John KE4UNO remains on HAM Bands, but he to is getting fed up with the DX Patrol. Now ME, My Wife and Tim, all moved to GMRS, as their is a very fine local GMRS Repeater here in town ran by a local HAM WB4ONX who dose like HF and has a very fine station...

Now about JAMMERS which were taking control of our local repeaters, please refer to my website on jammers
http://www.hartungpress.com/hamradio/crummyhams.htm

Code is not the problem, its the way people act! Right Cam and Dick? You should be happy that people like me, my wife and others join just to use just VHF and UHF. Plus the others who take their time and go all the way. I found this to be true in most places, and these people are running people off! I talked a friend and her husband in to HAM radio and giving up their cellphone. Soon the MUST HAVE DX OR YOU'LL DIE Patrol got to them too and they both QUIT and still hate me for wasting their time..

Now there is another problem, the internet. I mean you can talk, e-mail, find vast amounts of information without CODE, License, The DX Patrol, jammers who can be block and can't hear anymore. Soon, wireless internet, something I have via my cellphone and laptop computer. I can talk to my family via I-Phone, Yahoo Chat, ICQ and a number of other ways. You need no ANT. Farm, High Priced HF Rigs, tuner Boxes, Ect. Just a low priced computer and a phone line and your all set. Then if your like ME, DSL or Cable Modems for High-speed access, How can you compete with that, Simple quit trying to push HF on people who can careless about it. Then Hope that soon, they take a bit if that's what they want. Going on to HF, what I call the NOISE BAND. Like to old out of date AM Radio band, Me I like FM Radio both for music and to talk.

Now I could go on, but I think you get what I'm saying. Now your turn, do agree or not?

Bob - KE4JCD
http://www.ke4jcd.org

Hartung Press
http://www.hartungpress.com

"Roger Halstead" <rdhalste@tm.net> wrote in message news:jIdM7.32$7d.7984@newshog.newsread.com...
>
> "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> news:3C010F0F.E1A55401@IEEE.org...
> I'll add my two cents here...
>
> I see no real need for the CW test for the licenses even though I had to take it at all levels.
> I do think it's a good idea to know the code, but that is a bit different than needing it.
> I would like to see the speed for the Extra put back to 20 WPM as the extra > is not much more than a "prestige" license. You gain almost nothing by > getting it except saying you made it, so why not keep the speed in there too.
>
> As far as the quality of people coming into the service as well as those > already here, it matters not what license grade, they all have their problem > children (reguardless of age or education)
>
> Although there is a stigma associated with CB and in particular "free > banders", the former are mostly straight forward folks. Freebanders are by > their very nature, outlaws. They are operating illegally which indicated > their ability to follow regulations and their opinion of following > regulations only when it suits them.
>
> OTOH, Amateur radio is a technical service (hobby to some) and getting > people to follow technical subjects is an up hill battle. A "steep" up hill battle.
>
> It's not just Amateur Radio, but technical subjects in college as well.
> Students would, in general, much rather go into the liberal arts than > science. Enrolments are much higher in Liberal Arts than in the Sciences.
> The Sciences are thought of as being difficult, and being a "techie" has a > stigma attached. Sooo...many do not want to be thought of as techies and > would also follow the much easier course with a Libera Arts Education.
>
> Albeit, I do not say all liberal arts subjects are easy. It's just that > the ones I was exposed to were far easier than the three terms of Calc I had > to take (have math and art minors) Well, except music...I had an A in those > courses too, but music theory...forget it.
>

> Making it easier to get the ticket, or shifting the emphasis from tech plus > rules and regs with CW to mainly tech whch does not make it any easier over > all is not enough. IF we want more hams there has to be something to entice > the newcomers into the service. Something we can offer not found easier > elsewhere.
>
> What would bring in more new people to a mainly tech hobby? I have no idea.
>
> I really think that instead of devoting energy to the sometimes emotional > debate for code Vs no code we should be debating how to bring in more > quality people in the face of the general population having less and less > interest in technical subjects.
>
>
> --
> Roger Halstead (K8RI)
> WWW.RogerHalstead.com
> N833R, World's Oldest Debonair? (S# CD-2)
>

1976. Re: Hollingsworth

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 00:04:00 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011125190400.27432.00001644@mb-fl.aol.com>
Source record: 24973

>Subject: Hollingsworth
>From: Leland KC8LD0 Leland_member@newsguy.com
>Date: 11/25/2001 8:16 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <9tqufm01c23@drn.newsguy.com>

>
>I wonder what I could get for it on e-bay ?

Spanked?

Steve, K4YZ

1977. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 00:08:04 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011125190804.27432.00001645@mb-fl.aol.com>
Source record: 24974

>Subject: Re: Dropping the code.
>From: CAM Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org
>Date: 11/25/2001 9:36 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C010FE7.B6BD9DDD@IEEE.org>

>Intel contributed about 100 nocode techs with >engineering degrees to the ARS. I assume other similar >compainies did the same thing.

You know what happens when you "assume", Cecil.

Considering that Intel is but one of hundreds of techno-tanks, if all the others created the similar numbers (percentage wise, anyway) of new Hams, we WOULD have had the "digital paradise" otherwise alluded to.

In as much as it hasn't happened in the last 11 years, I dare say it's not going to in the near term future either.

73

Steve, K4YZ

1978. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 00:26:47 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C018C47.45594BFB@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 24975

>
> > > >There is nothing 'evil' or illegal about the call sign, just show
> > > >a lack of class and taste...the trailer park mentality.

I found a nice picture of a pair of tits (birds, for those of you with dirty minds) I made into a QSL card for Kim (in case she doesn't have some already). Look in alt.binaries.pictures.radio

Think it has taste and class....

1979. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 00:49:55 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts3jj$4qa$0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24976

Try chapter 5 verse 33.

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 25 Nov 2001 07:27:49 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > There you go, lying out your ass again. Read the Koran and see what > >they are taught.
>
> I've read it, Dick. And I say you are totally wrong in your > statements.
>
> Have YOU read it--or only read ABOUT it? If you claim to have > read it, then by all means provide me citations of the statements that > back your claims so I can read them in context in the copy of the > Koran sitting five feet from me right now.
>
> Put up or shut up, Dick. You claim to have read it--prove it.
>
> Rick
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

1980. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 00:53:43 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts3qn$4qa$1@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24977

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Those are your feelings, Dave, that you have used your free > > > will to choose to feel them. Thus, if they are a problem, > > > they are 100% your personal problem. The rest of the world > > > doesn't care what feelings you choose to experience.
> >
> > That's been your story and you're still sticking to it, but it is no > > less wrong.
>
> Dick, you are not going to reach adult maturity until you take > responsibility for your own feelings. Children don't understand > such but they gain understanding as they mature. You never did.
>
> > When a large percentage of society views it as wrong, it is a moral > > issue and thus a part of the mores of that society.
>
> Aha, the old argumentum ad populum diversion. Can't you do any > better than a diversion, Dick?

So now you yet again attempt a diversion by accusing others of creating a diversion? Where have we seen this from you before???

I'll repoeat, when a large percentage of society views it as wrong it is a moral issue and thus a part of the mores of that society. Basic psychology, not advanced.

1981. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 01:04:13 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011125200413.24612.00000992@nso-cr.aol.com>
Source record: 24978

In article <9598F1FAEAF3CEAA.1E1CB1ECEF5BBD15.25A160AD88E7F86E@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 24 Nov 2001 13:04:00 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
>>You do exactly the same thing, Rick.
>
> Of course I do--everyone does. That's the entire point.

So your concepts of right and wrong are no more based on "logic" than anyone else's. OK
>
> If I base my concepts of right and wrong on my own moral >values, you base yours on your values, Dave does, etc.--so long as we >can agree that harm to nonconsenting individuals is considered wrong >by all of us, then there is no conflict involved.

Agreed.

>I may behave in a >manner I find moral, you may behave in one you find moral, and neither >of us will in any way affect the other.

That's the easy part. It's self-evident.

> What is so difficult for people to accept about that simple >concept?

The problem is, who gets to define "harm"? You might say that a particular action of yours causes no harm, and others may disagree. The devil is in the details.
>>
>>How do you KNOW there are no absolute values for right and wrong? Besides, >>making that statement is an absolute!
>
> But not an absolute value of right and wrong.

Yes. it is.

>I never said there were no absolutes in life!

OK
>
> How do I know there are no absolute values for right or wrong?
>A couple ways:
>
> 1. There has never been universal agreement among ALL sane and >intelligent people (I'll leave the mentally ill and intellectually >challenged out of the definition, since their perceptions would by >necessity inaccurately influence their decisions) as to ANY universals >that were right and wrong.

So? Just because a thing has not yet been discoverd does not mean it does not exist. Go back around 200 years, and your argument could be applied to electronic communications (nobody has ever done it, so it must not exist). There is almost universal acceptance of relativistic physics today, yet a little over 100 years ago nobody had ever thought of it. Yet it existed.

>If absolutes existed, there would >necessarily be agreement as to their existence.

Nope. Not at all. A thing exists whether its existence is acknowledged or not. Did electromagnetic waves exist before there was agreement on their existence?

>Yet for ANY "right" or
>"wrong" you can list, I can identify at least one (or more) culture >that feels the opposite.
>
So? The fact that some culture(s) don't agree to them does not mean moral absolutes do not exist.

> 2. There is no commonly accepted source for such absolutes to >have been decided. Some people believe right and wrong are defined by >a "god," others by culture, still others by the individual. Unless >one, invariant, and demonstrably infallible source of such absolutes >can be shown to exist (not on a basis of belief--as in a diety--but in >a scientifically verifiable sense), no such absolutes can be >reasonably be considered TO exist.

Wrong again, Rick. Do the laws of physics exist? Yes. Is there universal acceptance of their source or origin? Nope. Yet they exist anyway.
>
> Why is it so difficult for people to accept that concepts of >right and wrong are relative, instead of absolute?

The fact that you have not proved your contentions, for one.

> We don't live in a >static, unchanging, world--we live in a dynamic, evolving, one.

Yup. Which means that we are learning more and more about the moral absolutes. Just as Newtonian physics was shown to be inadequate for some phenomena, old moral systems have been shown to need renewal. Doesn't mean moral absolutes don;t exist, just that they haven't been completely identified yet.
>
> What
>is "right" today may well be "wrong" tomorrow.

Only because we have misdefined "right" in the first case. For example, slavery was once considered "right", yet it was always "wrong".

>Some examples:
>
> 1. I would hope we all agree that killing another adult human >being who does not wish to die and did not commit a capital crime is
>"wrong."

Why do you limit it to adults? Is it OK to kill children??

>But if that is the case, doesn't that make war (in which >conscripts and civilians are routinely killed--as is happening now in >Afghanistan) wrong and those who wage war evil by definition?

Nope. It all depends on the intent. Killing those who are trying to kill you is self-defense.

What is absolutely wrong is to START a war. Like Germany did in WW2. First they used the threat of force to get Austria and some other territories, then they used force itself on Poland.

> If not,
>then killing is NOT an absolute "wrong."

Yup. Murder is an absolute wrong, though.

>If so, then everyone in this >group who ever served in uniform (as I did as well) was "wrong" as >his/her role could have reasonably been expected to result in the >killing of others.

Incorrect, as shown above.
>
> 2. In most early cultures (including the Egyptian and Roman >cultures), prostitution was considered an act of spirituality--many >temples had prostitutes who contributed their fees to the temple >itself. Today, the churches define prostitution as "wrong" and >immoral. Which is it? Depends a LOT on your perspective--and thus the >concept of an "absolute" wrong doesn't apply here either.

Nope. Not the same thing at all.

The prostitution of ancient pagan cultures bears no real resemblance to the modern version. Your example is so flawed as to be useless.

> Many examples could be used just as easily. The important fact >is, there are NO universals concerning right and wrong (the closest is >an almost--but not complete--taboo on incest throughout cultures, but >of course each culture defines what incest IS in a different manner;
>what an American would consider incest may not be considered such in,
>for example, Borneo, and what a Sudanese would consider incest >wouldn't be considered incest here in the USA).

What you are avoiding is the reasons these things are considered "wrong". For example, on reason incest is not a good idea is the high incidence of genetic defects resulting from such unions.

> But lacking
>universals, we likewise lack absolutes.

Nope.
>
> The closest we can come to an absolute value is to limit our >"Universals" to a statement that any act which harms the person or >property of a non-consenting (and, in the case of criminal punishment >or war, inappropriately targeted) individual is "wrong" from any >reasonable perspective.

Yup. But ya gotta define "harm". You keep avoiding that little detail.

>Thus, if I commit murder, rape, theft, or >expose myself to children at a bus stop for that matter, it can >clearly be seen that harm HAS been inflicted directly on >non-consenting individuals, and thus by any reasonable definition the >act was "wrong."

Maybe. Suppose I committed theft of medical supplies from a closed store to save a life at an accident scene. Was that act "wrong"?
>
> On the other hand, if instead of acting in the manner above, I >choose to attend a nude beach, smoke a joint, or attend a swing party >for that matter, it is equally clear that no non-consenting person is >in any way involved in the action, and thus no harm has occurred.

No, it's not clear at all. At least not in the second and third examples. The nude beach I'm not sure of.

You are "presuming the conclusion" that no harm was done.

>Given such a circumstance, the ONLY valid judge of whether or not my >action was "wrong" is myself--and that decision can only be based on >my personal interpretation of morality, not on one being imposed on me >by others.

IF you can show that no harm was done to others, yes. But you have to show that first. You simply presume it.
>
> Why is that concept so difficult for people to understand and >accept? It allows EVERYONE the right to engage in any activity that >does not harm others, and forbids anyone from engaging in any activity >that DOES harm others. Sounds pretty logical to me.

The problem is that actions you consider harmless are not considered harmless by others. For example, if a "swing party" results in the transmission of venereal disease(s) or unwanted pregnancies, it isn't harmless to others at all.
>
>>> Why is that so difficult to understand? If my actions harm >>>you, it is clear (by recourse to logic) that a "wrong" has occurred.
>>
>>Yup. But who gets to decide whether "harm" has occurred? The person who did >>the action? The person who is supposedly harmed? Some neutral third party?

>>What criteria determines "harm"? That is all "personal value" stuff.
>
> You mean moral values are NOT "personal" but the definition of
>"harm" is?

I mean BOTH have to be generally agreed upon.
>
> That's absurd!

What is absurd is for me to accept that an action is harmless just because you say it is.
>
> It's pretty easy to tell if someone has been harmed. All >that's necessary is to learn if they were directly involved in the >activity concerned, and if so if they gave their informed consent for >the activity TO occur. If--and only if--they were involved and did not >consent to the activity can we define the experience as having harmed
>them.

Nope. Incorrect.
>
> For example, if I choose to attend a nude beach, it clearly >cannot cause you harm. If you are not at that beach, you _can_ not be >harmed in any manner by my attendance and if you ARE at the nude >beach, you have given an implied consent for others to be nude in your >presence--if you are offended by seeing nude people yet choose to go >to a nude beach, you really don't have any grounds for complaint if >people ignore your claim to be offended.

As I said above, I'm not sure about the nude beach.
>
> On the other hand, if instead of a clearly designated nude >beach, I choose to wander through your yard nude, then you DO have a >legitimate grounds to claim harm. Because I will have invaded your >privacy and reduced your enjoyment of your yard, by necessity my >action harmed you and you have valid grounds for a complaint.

That part I agree on.
>
> Is that really so difficult to understand? It simply states
>the same thing as the old cliche: "Your right to swing your arm ends >at the tip of my nose."
>
So it's OK to swing one's fist but stop a fraction of an inch from another person's nose? I disagree! Such action is a threat.

>>There's no claim at all - that's obvious. But again the question is: who >gets >>to decide whether harm has occurred?
>
> Use the criteria above to determine harm. Anyone could then >recognize whether it occurred or not.

Apply it to the smoke a joint or swing party ideas, then see what happens.
>
>>>It can't be your values, you aren't >>>involved in the action and thus aren't in a position to judge its >>>"rightness."
>>
>>Does this mean that the "victim" has no say about whether harm has occurred?
>
> No--it means that the non-victim (the person who is not >involved in the action--as stated above) has no voice in the matter.

An action may involve more people than you realize.
>
>>> It can't be society's values, for the same reason. That >>>leaves ONLY myself and others involved in the action.
>>
>>So only the persons committing an action get to decide whether harm has >>occurred? I don't think you mean that!
>
> I don't think I _said_ that either!

You discount society's values, so the only people left are those committing the action.
>
> I said that only the persons INVOLVED in an action have a >voice, not that only the persons PERFORMING an action do. If, for >example, I hold you up at gun point, we are BOTH involved in the >action.

Yep.

> But if I place a bet on a horse race, unless you are present
>and a part of the action, you are NOT involved, and therefore have no >voice in deciding whether my action (in which you can't legitimately >identify a victim who was harmed) was right or wrong in any absolute >sense.

Nope. Your placing a bet on a horse race affects me even if I am not there. Not in a big way, but there is an effect.
>
>>> Just as I'm not "in charge" of deciding that your views are >>>narrow-minded,

They are not.

>>> you are not "in charge" of deciding that Kim's (or mine >>>for that matter) are "immoral" or "tasteless."
>>
Yes, I am. I say callsigns like that are inappropriate, that's all. My opinion only.

>>Who gets to decide if a particular callsign causes harm or not?
>
> The FCC. They set the standards for issuing call signs.

So they are infallible in that decision? I don't think so. By that logic, govt. agencies define right and wrong because they determine whether or not harm has occurred.

Note that the FCC will not issue a call like Kim's unless asked. That means they recognize it is somehow different from other calls.
>
>>You're avoiding the central questions, Rick: Who decides whether harm has >>occurred? Who decides whether the harm is great enough to require some sort
>of >>action to remedy the situation?
>
> Answered above.

Avoided above.
>
>>Here's an example: Suppose A lets his property become a real mess. Grass >isn't >>cut, paint is peeling, junk in the yard, etc. Nothing that is a clear health >or >>safety hazard but the place looks awful. B, who lives right next door, wants
>to >>sell his house and move away because B doesn't like living next to such a >dump.
>>But B cannot find a buyer because of the condition of A's place. Has A >harmed
>>B? Who gets to decide? If the decision is yes, how much harm has occurred
>and >>what is the remedy?
>
> It is clear that A has harmed B.

Agreed.

>Through his direct and >deliberate violation of reasonably expected standards in a residential >community he has caused B to suffer an economic loss.

"Reasonably expected standards" simply means society's values. In a different residential community, A's actions might have no effect at all.

So what we have is SOCIETY deciding what the values are. Not the individuals involved!

>B, in any such >circumstances, could sell his house--however he would be forced to >accept a price below that which he would have realized had the >neighboring home not reduced his property value.

In some markets, a house next to such a property becomes unsellable. This is how blighted areas are created from nice neighborhoods.

>Thus, the amount of >the loss (the harm suffered by B) is the amount of reduction in price >between a fair market value, given expected neighborhood values, and >the actual realized offering price.

Plus consideration for B's time and aggravation in having to deal with it, legal fees, excess RE taxes, etc.

> The remedy, obviously, is a legal >action against A compelling him to either repair his property and thus >restore B's property values or to compensate B for the difference in >selling prices resulting from his actions. As far as who gets to >decide, in such a case, clearly the decision would be made by a judge.

And all this is OK with you and your moral ideas?
>
> BTW, consider this. Obviously, you view A as having harmed B
>(a view I agree with), and felt that way when you wrote this example.

That was part of it, but there's a lot more. For example, did the harm occur when A let his property run down, or only when B tried to sell?

>Let's change it a bit. Suppose instead of failing to maintain his >property, A is a ham radio operator who chooses to put up an antenna >farm that, because it distracts from the visual appearance of the >neighborhood, results in the same difficulty in selling for B. Is the >situation the same or different? Why?

It's the same. But studies have shown that putting up antennas does NOT negatively impact property values unless said antennas are poorly maintained.
>
>>Suppose B finds a buyer (C) who agrees to buy B's house but at a price far >>below fair market value because of the condition of A's place. Is A >responsible >>for B's loss? Can C try to get A to fix up the property?
>
> The answer to the first part is above. With respect to the >second part, C has NO legitimate grounds to demand that A fix up the >property (although he is certainly free to ask him to do so and to try >to convince him that it would benefit him as well). C purchased the >property at a price consistent with being next door to a property in >the condition of A's--thus he is NOT harmed by A's actions in any way >(assuming A doesn't allow his property to deteriorate even further,
>thus reducing C's property value further, and placing him in the same >position B was in originally).

I disagree. Such action permits neighborhoods to decline.

>Sounds simple to me, and requires no >recourse to any "absolute" values.
>

>>Who decides? Whose values of "harm" should be used? Think about it.
>
> I have--read over my examples and try to do the same yourself.

I have. Your ideas don't work in real life.
>
73 de Jim, N2EY

1982. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 01:08:12 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts4ls$7t4$0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24979

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > And how do you presume that economics can do that when Islam officially > > rejects all that is economic theory in favor of a religious dogma that > > is based on no econonimic theory at all, rather based on hatred of all > > other religious and particularily secular social systems, from which all > > advanced economic theory stems? Yoiu fail to appreciate that they gladly > > kill off their own kind as readily as the opposition, when they can find > > any valid reason. I'm amazed that the women of Islam aren't all Lorena > > Bobbits.
>
> You are such a bullshit artist, Dick. Many Islamic nations are, and have > been, supporters of free market forces. Islam doesn't prohibit free > economies. You have allowed a handful of extremists to get your goat.
> You have allowed them to turn you into a person just as evil as they.

Ok, lets recap Cecil's position here.

Of 52 Islamic nations, none have any hint of freedom in their societies save Turkey, and all severely repress women, some even legalizing killing them for imagined minor infractions such as talking to a man not a family member. He, by his attitude of support, does support that.

He also states categorically that Islam is not a religion basically different from Christianity or Judism although of the three only Islam dictates that non-Islamics must be converted, enslaved or otherwise killed. He supports that, from his postings here.

He states that the radical Islamics are nothing more than Southern Baptists in disguise, since some tiny segment of some Chrtistian fundamentalist group (not known to be a Southern Baptist splinter group) has committed a very few acts of terrorism such as bombing abortion clinics. He equates that to the Al Queda organization which has trained literally hundreds of thousands of terrorists who have all been trained to 'destroy the evil Infidel of the West' even though it cost all their own lives and the lives of all other Moslems. Allah has dictated it to be their fates if that is to be the outcome.
Cecil refuses to acknowledge that I have stated that there are a great many Moslems who want nothing to do with this concept but who are forced by their clergy who are also their civil government to accede to that principle or be themselves treated as evil infidels. He equates this to modern Christian theory and practice. Basically the only Moslems who have any real choice in the ongoing Moslem process of Jihad are those who live in free countries where they are not subject to Islamic law, and even a large portion of those voluntarily support the concept of Jihad against the west which has welcomed them.

What an lamebrained idiot.

1983. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 01:09:14 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts4nq$7t4$1@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24980

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 06:29:09 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Do you carry a national ID card?
>
> Sure--I have a social security card. My son, as required by > law, has a drift card. I am required to show picture identification to > board an aircraft in the United States and, based on the laws that > have been passed and will take effect in January, I will soon be > required to show such identification to board ANY form of > transportation that crosses a state line. That the card is issued by > the State instead by the federal government is irrelevant--in many > nations id cards are issued by their provinces not the national > government.
>
> Incidently, in the Netherlands you are NOT required to carry a > national ID card--you are ISSUED one, but it is the equivalent of a > combination of our social security cards and a medical insurance id > card--such as a Blue Cross card in the US.
>
> >> Since your statement not only goes against experience, but > >> goes against the recently released UN study of freedom in member > >> nations (which listed the Netherlands as the freest nation on earth, > >> followed by Denmark, etc.), it would seem that you need to offer more > >> than a simply statement of opinion to support your claim.
> >>
> >The UN? 'nuff said.
>
> Can't stand anything that comes from an impartial source, or > just afraid of Black Helicopter?
>

If you consider the UN an inpatial source you are to be pitied.

1984. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 01:47:40 UTC
From: K0HB <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <08c08def11908a3b18dec108509784d7.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 24981

>Subject: Re: Dropping the code.
>From: CAM Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org
>Date: 11/25/2001 9:36 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C010FE7.B6BD9DDD@IEEE.org>

>Intel contributed about 100 nocode techs with >engineering degrees to the ARS. I assume other similar >compainies did the same thing.

At ADC Telecom we had about 95 amateurs last time I counted, including our Chief Scientist (a Tech). The class ratios seem pretty much to be in proportion to the ARS as a whole.

But they are a contribution from the ARS -to- ADC, not vice versa.
I assume other similar companies enjoy a similar contribution -from-
the ARS.

73, de Hans, K0HB
ChOp K0RT

--
Posted from 1cust168.tnt4.minneapolis3.mn.da.uu.net [63.22.118.168]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

1985. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 01:50:33 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts759dps0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24982

CAM wrote:
>
> > Muslims are taught from infancy as an integral part of their religious > > training, that all other belief systems are not only inferior but that > > they must be wiped out and their adherents either converted, enslaved or > > killed.
>
> The exact same thing is taught in YOUR Bible, Dick. You should crack it > open and enlighten yourself. Civilized Christians don't pay much attention > to the atrocities we are supposed to commit in the name of Jehovah.
> Civilized Muslims don't pay much attention to the atrocities they > are supposed to commit in the name of Allah.

You're nuts. Such activity as a formal part of Christianity went out with the Inquisition. In Islam it was clearly demonstrated September 11, and in numerous lesser but horrific incidents in the preceding decades.
The widespread cheering in Islamic countries following the fall of WTC was widely televised. Your know all this and choose to ignore it. Your idiotic statements in the wake of what has happened in recent months shows clearly for all to see what you truly are.

1986. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 01:51:27 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts76v$dq0$0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24983

CAM wrote:
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > National Review? Bwahhhahahaha, my acceptance of that as anything but > > conservative rhetoric would be about as probable that I am going to begin > > listening to Limbaugh with any regularity.
>
> Like the terrorists, Dick is determined to stir up trouble. He, > like the terrorists, would like to revive The Crusades. That is,
> of course, as long as he doesn't have to do the fighting.

Well, I spent 5 years on active duty while you laid around on yoiur ass
as a 4F. Nuff said.

1987. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 01:52:58 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts79q$dq0$1@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24984

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 25 Nov 2001 03:12:40 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > And you are not only a dumbass you're a phony lying dumbass. You have > >not the first clue what you're talking about.
>
> Anyone ever notice that when Dick has nothing he can say in > response to a statement, he turns to insults and obscenities and to > accusing his opponent of being a liar instead of demonstrating > integrity and conceding the point?
>
> Great example of ham radio for young kids to emulate. Sort of > like teaching your children about good government by apprenticing them
> to the Taliban.

Well, if you're a lying, phony dumbass that's waht you'll be labelled.

1988. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 01:58:13 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts7jletc0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24985

Rick Adams wrote:

> behavior is so common in the animal kingdom. I always thought animal > behavior was, by definition, "normal."

It isn't. There is virtually no homosexual behavior in the animal kingdom.
That's a figment of human homosexual supporters.

> BTW, over 96% of ALL child molestation is performed by > heterosexuals (according to the Department of Justice statistics > available at http://www.doj.gov), despite the fact that between 7% and > 10% of our population is homosexual.

So why do you compare apples and oranges? The two are not the same at all and you should know it. Pedophiles are commonly heteros.

It would seem that your > insistence that we keep homosexuals away from our children would only > result in increased levels of child sexual abuse--is that what you > hope for?

It would seem that you are still a blooming idiot.

1989. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 02:03:52 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts7u8etc1@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24986

Nonya Bidniz wrote:
>
> On 25 Nov 2001 02:28:27 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > Evidently you were too deep into the drug culture to notice, but things > >changed in ham radio pretty drastically about the time we began to get > >large numbers of CBers -I mean the seasoned, hard core CBers- into ham > >radio. Before that you never heard any of the trash on HF. A single > >swear word was enough to get other hams down on your case as well as > >certainly the FCC. Ever hear of W4EGB? FCC took his license and put him > >off the air because every evening he'd get slowly drunker and nastier on > >the air. Such crap as the so-called Liberty Net wouldn't have ever been > >allowed to develop, much less become an ongoing cesspool.
>
> Evidently you were too deep into the drug culture to notice, but the > Liberty Net was on the air long before restructuring went into effect.

Ah, poor Baby!!!! For you history started with restructuring. Take your pacifier quietly, now!

1990. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 02:15:03 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts8j7hrg0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24987

Nonya Bidniz wrote:
>
> On 25 Nov 2001 02:29:23 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > A real, VALID CW test had more to do with keeping the bands clean and > >orderly than anything else, whatever the FCC says these days. (Of course > >that fact is no longer poltically correct) There were just no hams who > >were so mildly interested in ham radio they just didn't care. Today > >we're overloaded with them, largely courtesy of CB. I give you as > >evidence a blowsy broad who chose TIT as her "vanity" callsign, ha ha ha > >ha ha!
>
> Rather flimsy evidence, that, considering that (since operation on the > HF bands requires passing a code test) everyone in the Liberty Net > supposedly passed a code test, eh?

You have no idea what a real code test amounts to. For the entire time of the VE system a code test was largely a sham, with the multiple guess questions where you could literally guess your way to a license. I've seen it repeatedly, and was obligated to go along with it as VE. It was the rule.

Your vaunted Liberty net that you'r so proud of is a recent development, of only a few years.Of course to a beginner that's forever.

>
> Sorry, bigot. You'll have to do a lot better than that.
>

If being a code supporter makes me a bigot the that is what I is. On the other hand you are an illiterate dipschit.

> > Back then most people really put out to get a ham ticket
>
> OH! Is THAT how you got your ticket?

Surely that is what I did. I studied, learned the material and missed not a single question on the General, Advanced and Extra written exams, and passed the 13 and 20wpm code tests, in a single test sitting at the FCC district office in Kansas City. Tht was after making a 260 mile one way drive to get there.
All that is moot except that you seem to think that the VE shsould come to your home and test you on subjects of your choice at a difficulty level that you feel comfortable with.

And here I was thiking you'd > actually passed the tests. Excuse me while I toss my religion in the > garbage can.
>
> >and were not about to jeopardize it by stupid behavior.
>
> There is stupid behavior at every level of society (of which the ARS > is a cross-section and therefore a reasonably good reflection).

Now you're going to say that people who invest lots of time, energy and effort won't feel any different about protecting that investment than those who have it all given to them. BS.

As > evidence, I offer Bill Clinton

Thanks just the same, but you can keep that other idiot. You'll get along just fine with him.

1991. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 02:20:16 UTC
From: K0HB <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <397bbd8f51b96b2316bcffd9a718cad7.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 24988

The opinion of N2EY seems to be.....

>Just because a thing has not yet been discoverd does not mean it does not >exist. Go back around 200 years, and your argument could be applied to >electronic communications (nobody has ever done it, so it must not exist).

Electronic communications did not exist in 1801, at least not on this planet.

73, Hans, K0HB

--
Posted from 1cust168.tnt4.minneapolis3.mn.da.uu.net [63.22.118.168]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

1992. Re: Dropping the code, or is it something more?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 02:21:19 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts8uvivd0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24989

Bob - KE4JCD wrote:
>
> Finally someone talking sense and without all the CB humor like Cam and > Dick seen to do so well. Now that I got that out of my system, lets get down > to business...
>
> Code is not the problem, its the way people act! Right Cam and Dick? You > should be happy that people like me, my wife and others join just to use > just VHF and UHF. Plus the others who take their time and go all the way. I > found this to be true in most places, and these people are running people > off! I talked a friend and her husband in to HAM radio and giving up their > cellphone. Soon the MUST HAVE DX OR YOU'LL DIE Patrol got to them too and > they both QUIT and still hate me for wasting their time..
>

You got NONE of that from me. It is the folks who believe that you should get everything for nothing that I take issue with. I've never have had a problem with those who just want to get a tech license for VHF/UHF. Never will.

1993. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 02:22:43 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts91jivf0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24990

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > There are lots of former or current CBers in our age group, as you > > well know, Cecil.
>
> Former 11m CBers didn't exist when I was first licensed, Dick.
> I participated in the last 11m ham contest. Please prove that > the Liberty Net troublemakers are former CBers.

Hey, it was you who said they were my peers. They are not. They are yours.

1994. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 02:29:15 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts9dr$k1v$0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24991

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 25 Nov 2001 07:13:54 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> >> Yep, and Riley Hollingsworth sez those bad guys are mostly > >> Extras and Advanced class.
> >>
> > >
> > > Easy as the tests have been since the CB influx, that's no surprise.
> > >Makes the Tech and Extra lites whiners look that much more pitiful and > > >lame.
>
> They didn't _make_ an easy test for Advanced class licenses, > Dick, remember? They eliminated the class for new licensee. And many > of us who are Extras (and were Advanced) upgraded BEFORE the tests > changed.

And that's why your license is dated after the date of the restructuring???

>
> If Hollingsworth is claiming Advanced class hams are causing > more trouble than Techs, he is NOT talking about new licensees.
>

So you've discussed it with him and he made that statement?

> Sorry, Dick, but if you communicate on the air the way you do
> on line (and if you don't all you are doing is showing disrespect for > ham radio in another venue), YOU and your cronies are the people > Hollingsworth warned us about!

You are a horses ass whether on the air on the net. I didn't need to be warned about the likes of you, your manner gives you away right away!

1995. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 02:29:38 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <mOhM7.129188$WW.8103588@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24992

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9ts7jletc0@208.206.142.78...
>
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
>
> > behavior is so common in the animal kingdom. I always thought animal > > behavior was, by definition, "normal."
>
>
> It isn't. There is virtually no homosexual behavior in the animal > kingdom.
> That's a figment of human homosexual supporters.
>

There is not because the human is the only primate at least where both the X and Y chromosomes get involved with brain wiring. Female homosexuals are generally a product of another equally natural process but male ones are more than likely wired that way. It is also why the best guess for the proportion in the male population is about the same as left-handedness as the same process produces both. Were it not for Caleb (Southern Kingdom Joshua) who was left-handed the God Squad would be after them as well. Lefties have in general have more extremes of behavior than righties, i.e. more geniuses and more serial killers; they are over-represented in both. It should not be too surprising that gays will as well although absent the social pressures who in hell knows.

Perhaps surprisingly there is no correlation between handedness (also missing in the animal kingdom) and gayitude.

The lesson of all of this is that modern genetics has just scratched the surface.

As the Greeks proved, there can be some social pressure toward homosexual behavior but probably not toward homosexuality itself.

Pedophilia is a whole different can of worms.

Dick NBK

1996. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 02:30:49 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts9gp$k7k$0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24993

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> In article <3c011ef6$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:
>
> >
> >Watch it, Dick...you're getting as preoccupied with "them" as Larry R. is.
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Kim:
>
> Wrong again, as usual. I am not even remotely preoccupied with "them."
> It is YOU who have the preoccupation with your own breasts, and desire > for everyone else to be preoccupied with "them" as you are; therefore your > call sign is imposed on the whole of the ARS, at the expense of any > good opinion of your personal judgment. Quit trying to throw this back > on others, Kim. You are to blame for taking the ARS "...one step > closer to extinction," not us.
>

It is difficult for me to become preoccupied with that which disgusts me. She is disgusting. You are right, Larry- Her choice of a vanity callsign clearly shows her own preoccupation.

1997. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 02:33:33 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9ts9lt$k7k$1@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24994

Richard McCollum wrote:
>
> "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> news:20011125132821.28714.00001994@nso-md.aol.com...
> > In article <3c011ef6$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
> writes:
> >
> > >
> > > >Watch it, Dick...you're getting as preoccupied with "them" as Larry R.
> is.
> > >
> > > >Kim W5TIT
> >
> > Kim:
> >
> > Wrong again, as usual. I am not even remotely preoccupied with "them."
> > It is YOU who have the preoccupation with your own breasts, and desire > > for everyone else to be preoccupied with "them" as you are; therefore your > > call sign is imposed on the whole of the ARS, at the expense of any > > good opinion of your personal judgment. Quit trying to throw this back > > on others, Kim. You are to blame for taking the ARS "...one step > > closer to extinction," not us.
> >
> > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> >
>
> If 58 years on the planet has taught me one thing it is that the ladies are > far more pre-occupied with 'them' than we are.

Somehow some of them such as Kim seem to stress quantity when the real attribute is quality. Some never learn. Instead, they choose vanity callsigns to keep their 'Ass-ets' in the limelight. Turns out they're not assets at all.

> Incidentally the last X flick I went to was in Salt
> Lake City.

And that ain't exactly Sin City.

1998. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 02:41:08 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsa44lon0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 24995

Krell wrote:
>
> "Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
> news:ZMbM7.128747$WW.8060759@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> > If 58 years on the planet has taught me one thing it is that the ladies
> are > > far more pre-occupied with 'them' than we are.
> >
> > I recall wandering in to the late show at a local theatre at about the age > > of 17 or so into one of these floppy boob movies; was interesting for > about
> > 3.5 minutes at most. Incidentally the last X flick I went to was in Salt > > Lake City.
> >
> > Dick Nï¿½BK
>
> With the strict control the LDS has over that state, it's surprising that > any such theatres exist at all.

You'll find a lot of those folks to lean a lot more liberal in many areas than you probably would have guessed. The LDS church doesn't actually control the state but it does have vast influence, and that isn't surprising given that SLC has 50% Mormon population and the Salt Lake Valley, which contains 90% of the state's population is 90% Mormon.
Alcohol is sold only in state liquor stores (I don't know what they stock as I didn't go into one). Redneck bars are rare but I saw a couple.

1999. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 02:42:52 UTC
From: K0HB <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <f4ab7fa0a99839d27a05f1c1e3ce231b.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 24996

The opinion of Dick Carroll seems to be......

> You're nuts. Such activity as a formal part of Christianity went out > with the Inquisition. In Islam it was clearly demonstrated September 11,
> and in numerous lesser but horrific incidents in the preceding decades.

Terroristic activity in the name of religion (Christianity) has been going on in Northern Ireland for decades too -- and BOTH sides claim
a different flavor of Christianity as their motivation.

With all kind wishes,

de K0HB

--
Posted from 1cust168.tnt4.minneapolis3.mn.da.uu.net [63.22.118.168]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

2000. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 02:51:10 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <y6iM7.129220$WW.8109433@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 24997

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tsa44lon0@208.206.142.78...
>
>
> Krell wrote:
> >
> > "Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
> > news:ZMbM7.128747$WW.8060759@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> > > If 58 years on the planet has taught me one thing it is that the ladies
> > are > > > far more pre-occupied with 'them' than we are.
> > >
> > > I recall wandering in to the late show at a local theatre at about the age > > > of 17 or so into one of these floppy boob movies; was interesting for > > about > > > 3.5 minutes at most. Incidentally the last X flick I went to was in Salt
> > > Lake City.
> > >
> > > Dick N�BK
> >
> > With the strict control the LDS has over that state, it's surprising
that > > any such theatres exist at all.
>
>
> You'll find a lot of those folks to lean a lot more liberal in many > areas than you probably would have guessed. The LDS church doesn't > actually control the state but it does have vast influence, and that > isn't surprising given that SLC has 50% Mormon population and the Salt > Lake Valley, which contains 90% of the state's population is 90% Mormon.
> Alcohol is sold only in state liquor stores (I don't know what they > stock as I didn't go into one). Redneck bars are rare but I saw a > couple.

How do you know if you were resisting temptations if there weren't any? I got a chuckle out of Snowbird, which among other things was slang for a bullshitter and a coke freak. The X-flick wasn't much but the alternative was the square dance convention down at the Salt Palace.

Want to see something funnier when the Gentiles meet the LDS, go to the Polynesian Cultural Center on Oahu but get there early. It is hilarious to see the tourists find out they can't get a cuppa and see the exhibits come to life. A big black Maori looking at his mates and in a clipped N-Zee accent say something like 'OK mates, let's try to make it look like we've done this before'.

The PCC is part of Brigham Young University and the kids do the displays to pay the tab.

2001. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:01:11 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C01AEB1.27313194@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24998

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > If you need more prison space, build it.
>
> Prisons don't come for free. The Texas legislature will not > approve building any new prisons.

Looks like something for Texans to debate. I'm sure you'll do your part to enlighten the legislature by posting here.

Dave K8MN

2002. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:03:00 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C01AF1A.703BF391@earthlink.net>
Source record: 24999

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > I'm surprised at how ignorant you are of human psychology.
> >
> > Probably no more surprised than I am at your inability to comprehend a > > simple English language sentence.
>
> I comprehended it much better than you realize.

That simply can't be if you come back translating the sentence as something entirely different than what I wrote.

If you need help, I had turkey for Thanksgiving. This morning I had waffles for breakfast. Now, on with your quest Don Quixote.

Dave K8MN

2003. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:07:17 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C01B019.5A5BB9AF@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25000

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > Let's try to iron this one out. You believe that because your > > dictionary is deficient, I'm making something up?
>
> Talk about delusions of grandeur. My unabridged dictionary > of the English language is deficient? ROTFLMBO Thanks fer
> the laugh, Dave. One more word added to that dictionary > and I wouldn't be able to pick it up.

The worth of a dictionary is not measured by its weight. If yours is deficient, buy a new one or go to a library. If you don't want to drive, call your nearest theological seminary. Is your mind so closed to information you have not yet learned?

Dave K8MN

2004. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:08:40 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C01B06C.27EED331@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25051

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > I'm stating that it (Kim's call) is tacky, lacks decorum > > > > and that it exhibits lack of taste.
> > >
> > > Those are your feelings, Dave, that you have used your free > > > will to choose to feel them. Thus, if they are a problem, > > > they are 100% your personal problem. The rest of the world > > > doesn't care what feelings you choose to experience.
> >
> > Those are views, Cecil and they don't pose a problem.
>
> They are views based on unthinking feelings, Dave. That is the > least reliable way to arrive at a rational conclusion. I'm glad > your mob is not large enough to enforce your whims.

Does the name "Custer" mean anything to you, Cecil?

Dave K8MN
```

2005. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:12:40 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c01b3c0_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25053

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9ts9gp$k7k$0@208.206.142.78...
>
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> >
> > In article <3c011ef6$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
> >
> > > >
> > > >Watch it, Dick...you're getting as preoccupied with "them" as Larry R.
is.
> > > >
> > > >Kim W5TIT
> >
> > > Kim:
> >
> > > Wrong again, as usual. I am not even remotely preoccupied with "them."
> > > It is YOU who have the preoccupation with your own breasts, and desire > > > for everyone else to be preoccupied with "them" as you are; therefore
your
> > > call sign is imposed on the whole of the ARS, at the expense of any > > > good opinion of your personal judgment. Quit trying to throw this back > > > on others, Kim. You are to blame for taking the ARS "...one step > > > closer to extinction," not us.
> >
>
> It is difficult for me to become preoccupied with that which disgusts > me. She is disgusting. You are right, Larry- Her choice of a vanity > callsign clearly shows her own preoccupation.
>

I didn't find the response about your balls, Dick?

Kim W5TIT

2006. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:15:42 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsc4uqnb0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25052

Roger Halstead wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > news:9tr2hu$p56$0@208.206.142.68...
> >
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Roger Halstead wrote:
> > > > There are many parts of the world where we would consider their morals > > > > barbaric and they the same for us.
> > >
> > > For instance, there is an area in Africa where the accepted standards > > > of society require a man to teach his daughter about sex by being the > > > first to have sex with her. Say Dick, how do you like those standards > > > of society?
> >
> >
> > I have no reason to like nor dislike it since I don't live there, am > > not usbject to it, and have no reason to evaluate it. Of course it is > > completely foreign to anything taught by the society I live within. You > > seem to want to oppose much of our society and you have daughters, so > > maybe you would want to answer your own question.
>
> Ahhh...How did your fractured logic come up with what some one would like or > dislike from the above two posts.

MY fractured logic??? Or are you talking about Cecil's? If you've read here long and seriously enough you already know what an absolute troll Cecil is. He is trying to make his life interesting as he whiles away his declining years alone. He said so. As for me, I'm not taking his bait.

> Just because I, or some else, point out how society differs by region and > ethnic backgrounds has absolutely no bearing on what I believe, or practice.

Evidently you missed Cecil's point which was to try to trap me in some position where he could find some other reason to keep it up. A progressive sort of game he always plays.

> Nor would it with any one else. Had I embraced one of those societies, or > condemned one, or another, then it would be an entirely different matter. I > only pointed out that society is not a constant from one city to another, > one state to another and one country to another.

I hope we can assume that you condemn the Islamic fundamentalist regime known as the Taliban, or should I say the late Taliban?

> One other thing is that each and every one of us is part of all those > societies, although the farther away the less influence they have on us as > individuals.

You can claim membership in radical fundamentalist Islam if you wish,
but I reject it for myself.

> Each and every one of those societies adds a bit of flavor to > the next larger which dilutes it a bit, but a tiny bit of that societies > flavor eventually trickles back down to local levels around the world.
>
> The friction arises when any particular group tries to force, their beliefs > onto others of different beliefs, or standards.
>

Hate to tell ya, Roger Doger, but you're beginning to sound all touchy-feely, like Rick the Slick.

2007. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:17:51 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tsc6k0m0b@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25058

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9ts79q$dq0$1@208.206.142.78...
> > Anyone ever notice that when Dick has nothing he can say in > > response to a statement, he turns to insults and obscenities and to > > accusing his opponent of being a liar instead of demonstrating > > integrity and conceding the point?
> >
> > Great example of ham radio for young kids to emulate. Sort of > > like teaching your children about good government by apprenticing them > > to the Taliban.
>
>
> Well, if you're a lying, phony dumbass that's waht you'll be labelled.

Let's see; what's more damaging to amateur radio? Dick's ad hominem attacks or Kim's callsign?

2008. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:21:04 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tscf0reo0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25054

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> German society decided that it was unacceptable to be a Jew, a > Gypsy, or a homosexual. The chose concentration camp internment and > death as a sanction for those "offenses."

German society did no such thing, Professor Nutty. Hitler's goons decided that for one and all, after they had decieved the German polulation and maneuvered the Nazi party into dictatorial power.

>
> You claim that society is the fair source of guidelines. Those > were theirs. Do you accept THEM as valid and acceptable--or do you > feel you would oppose those "guidelines" if they were imposed on you?
>

If you are really that much of a fool, I feel pity foir you.

> You can't have it both ways, Dick.

YOU can't get it right either way.

If society DOES have the > legitimacy to set the guidelines for us all (as you claim) then it has > the right to set ANY guidelines for behavior it chooses--whether you > agree with them or not.

Nope. I have the right to persuade my fellows in society of the justness of my views, just at anyone does in a free society.

All your trolling is for naught.

2009. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:25:01 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tsck00mnv@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25061

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
news:9ts759dps0@208.206.142.78...
> You're nuts. Such activity as a formal part of Christianity went out

Formal? It's still practiced by the KKK and Rev. Phelps of godhatesfags.com

> with the Inquisition. In Islam it was clearly demonstrated September 11,
> and in numerous lesser but horrific incidents in the preceding decades.
> The widespread cheering in Islamic countries following the fall of WTC > was widely televised. Your know all this and choose to ignore it. Your > idiotic statements in the wake of what has happened in recent months > shows clearly for all to see what you truly are.

The Bible, Koran, and the Book of Mormon have all been twisted by fanatics to suit their own ends. It continues to be done today. Islam, as practiced by Arab countries is not a religion. It is a politcal system. This is not what true Islam is all about.

2010. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:28:59 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C01B4EC.3630E75C@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25055

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 18:08:04 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Your last sentence is completely absurd. If you need more prison space, > >build it.
>
> Sure, why not.
>
> After all, we ALREADY have the largest percentage of our > population incarcerated of ANY first world nation--including the > former USSR at its peak; and we surpass most third world nations as > well (don't believe it? Take a look at the Department of Justice > statistics at http://www.doj.gov). We certainly DO need new prisons if > we are going to become more of a police state than we already are!
>
> Dave--open your eyes! If we have such a high percentage of our > population in prison doesn't that tell you there's something wrong > with our legal system? Particularly when we ALSO have more violent > crime than any other first world nation as well (same source)?
>
> If "more prisons" are the answer, then we should have the most > peaceful, safest, nation on earth. Until the end of the cold war you > could walk down any street in Moscow safely at night. You can do so > today in Stockholm, the Hague, or Bern. Even major cities such as > Amsterdam, Munich, Madrid, and Copenhagen are vastly safer than the > average US city. CLEARLY we're doing something wrong--and the ONLY > things we're doing differently are:
>
> 1. Emphasizing victimless crime instead of violent crime. In > many of those nations prostitution is legal and marijuana is either > legal or no subject to prosecution.
>
> 2. Using a punishment model in our prisons instead of a > rehabilitation one (used by virtually all other first world nations).
>
> 3. Maintaining a death penalty (none of those nations have > one).
>
> 4. Emphasizing laws based on morality instead of rights and > protection from harm.
>
> 5. Not responding to the needs of the poor in any realistic > manner.

>
> 6. Private ownership of hand guns and no registration of other > firearms.
>
> Take your pic, Dave, one or more of these is the root of our > current prison crises. We don't need more prisons--we need an > intelligent approach to criminal justice that locks up dangerous > people not potheads like more modern countries have.

That isn't necessarily the case, Rick. This is just your pet theory. There are plenty of studies which do not agree with the information you've set forth. You haven't even given us a percentage of our poor, suffering and incarcerated souls who are in for possession of marijuana use. Just what percentage of U.S. prisoners are incarcerated for possessions of small amounts of marijuana?

You seem to have lots of "facts" at your disposal. I especially love the one about Moscow being safe until the end of the Cold War. Do you have any idea why? One of our embassy staff was out in the city one night in the '80s. He got drunk and stumbled into a canal. His life was saved by his KGB "tail".

Did you know that private ownership of handguns is permitted in Finland? Did you also know that you have a national I.D. card and that is necessary to provide the police with your new address when you move? Did you know that a yearly licensing fee of about $600 is imposed in order to watch the color TV you buy and that roving electronic eavesdropping patrols can come to your house and sieze your TV if you haven't paid the fee.

Prostitution is illegal in Finland (as I believe I mentioned earlier). So is the possession of marijuana. Finnish prisons now house the dutch manager of a touring rock band for bringing drugs into Finland as well as one stupid American girl who brought 15 lbs. of heroin into the country.

The Nordic prison systems are very enlightened though. During the late '90s, one Danish fellow was released from his Danish prison for a "holiday". He came to Finland, robbed a hotel and killed a Finnish policeman. Maybe we could institute a "holiday" system too.

If we have more violent crime than other first world countries, we need additional space for those who commit the crimes. It would seem that there are those who don't know how to handle the freedoms we have and who always push for just a little more.

Dave K8MN

2011. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:31:13 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsd21$t1q$0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25056

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 25 Nov 2001 02:56:46 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > Sure it it. If most hams want the ARS to appear as a family oriented > >service, and wish it to appear that way to younger persons, and when > >they demonstrate ham radio to younger folk, there is Kim W5TIT and her > >(tee hee, big gabonzas, with all the double ententre or sexual innuendo > >accompanying, what is that but harm?
>
> You know, what's interesting Dickie is that you insist you > know what "most hams want."

Well, guess what! I have a better shot at it than you do, by a bunch.
And when that view is reinforced by various other entities among ham radio society, you and Cecil being notable exceptions, that view stands.
Your loss.

>
> I think what "most hams want" is an environment where people > communicate showing each other respect and courtesy;

No argument there, and Kim's callsign is NOT showing respect and courtesy, rather it is simply offensive to most other hams. I know that most women would view it as vulgar.

where hams don't > jam each other because they don't want to listen to offensive ideas;
> where bigotry, racism, sexism, and prejudice are not part of the > conversations; and where hams demonstrate welcome and friendship, not > bitterness, ridicule, or a sense of superiority to new hams.

Why do you have this hangup on those few HF frequencies where that goes on" If it is so offensive to you, why do you frequent those parts of ham radio? Why don't you just routinely avoid them, as I do? I couldn't tell you the "livberty net" frequency. I don't remember EVER listening to it, and I would not even know it existed if not for all you poor fools ranting here. Wellmeaning and proper folks just don't have anything to do with all that. So I guess we know where that leaves you.

>
> THAT, not a "family oriented service" is what most of us want, > Dick, at least as far as I can tell from my conversations with other > hams.

So no it's you who have all the answers. Sorry, I got here first.

>
> Sorry you don't agree--maybe if you'd get your nose out of cw
> once in a while and listen to the hams using voice (and, Dick, if you > claim to speak for "most hams" you BETTER listen to--and communicate > with--those of us who prefer voice, because WE represent the majority > of hams, not those who live in the cw sub-bands) you'd have a better > idea of what "most hams" really DO want from the hobby.

Hey, stuff your advice Doc. Where the sun doesn't shine. Alongside your head.

>
> > Just because you take no offense over W5TIT doesn't mean that a > >majority of other hams do not. Is your opinion the only one that > >counts???
>
> Is yours?

Never said it was. I can ignore trivialities like her all day, form now on. But when Riley Hollingsworth says it's a problem you better believe its a problem.

>
> FAR more hams have posted here that they do NOT take offense > at her sign than have posted that they do. That makes it pretty clear > that most hams DON'T take offense at her sign.

Bullshit. Few hams even post here. Most have better sense.

2012. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:31:40 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C01B5A2.D497D333@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25057

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > YOU are the individual who indicated that the majority of Southerners > > > > supported segregation.
> > >
> > > Yep, that's true based on my personal experiences living and > > > working in the South. I have absolutely no reason to believe > > > otherwise. I have seen no evidence that would change my mind.
> > > Do you have any evidence?
> >
> > Based on my personal experiences living and working in the South, I say > > you're all wet. Do you have any evidence?
>
> I have lots of evidence based on my personal experiences in the > Southern US. What country are you talking about? It's not the US.

Sure it is, Cecil. You've obviously lived in places with a higher percentage of bigots.

Dave K8MN
```

2013. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:33:04 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tsd360nfs@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25062

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
news:9ts7u8etc1@208.206.142.78...

> > Evidently you were too deep into the drug culture to notice, but the > > Liberty Net was on the air long before restructuring went into effect.
>
>
>
> Ah, poor Baby!!!! For you history started with restructuring. Take your > pacifier quietly, now!

The score for the damage to amateur radio is as follows:

Dick's attitude - 98
Kim's callsign - 1 (the only damage being those hams that have complained about it, but they really don't count)

2014. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:41:17 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsdkt$12q$0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25059

K0HB wrote:
>
> The opinion of N2EY seems to be......
>
> >Just because a thing has not yet been discoverd does not mean it does not > >exist. Go back around 200 years, and your argument could be applied to > >electronic communications (nobody has ever done it, so it must not exist).
>
> Electronic communications did not exist in 1801, at least not on this > planet.

But electromagnetic radiation did.

2015. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:46:43 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C01B91A.2BFF1F60@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25060

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 06:15:36 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Sure you have to, Cecil. What I told you is that I do not intend to > >assist you. If you want to win, you have to work for it. You'll either > >be a winner or a guy who has gone to a lot of trouble for nothing.
> >I've made no revelation. You're just seeing dirty pictures in ink > >blots.
>
> I'll make it simple, Cecil.
>
> He eats pork products.
>
> Unless he specifically contradicts me and states publicly that > he does NOT eat pork products, you can take it as a given that I'm > relating a fact, and you can count it on your side of the ledger. All > he has to do is deny it, honestly, of course--but standing mute when > evidence of your guilt has been introduced _always_ results in the > presumption of guilt, even in a court of law.

You'll make it simple? You're pretty much of a grin too, Rick.
This part about "standing mute when evidence of your guilt..." is a particularly entertaining. I can't seem to find that part where any evidence at all has been introduced. If you guys are curious, you'll have to research in order to find the answer. It may remain one of the mysteries of your lives and I hope it provides an opportunity for you to fritter away hours. Good luck in your quests.

Dave K8MN

2016. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:52:15 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C01BA5E.2B41C02A@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25063

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 06:19:40 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >> Actually, a book was written about guys like Dave,
> >> "The Ugly American".
> > >
> > >It is quite obvious that you either did not read it or (more likely) > > >that you don't remember Lederer's tome.
>
> That's true, Dave.
>
> The central character had FAR more concern for the culture he > was interacting with, and was far more open minded, than yourself.
>
> Cecil should have known better.

For a "touchy-feely" New Age guy, you certainly have a tendency to make snap judgements based on scant information.

Dave K8MN

2017. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 03:58:18 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C01BBCD.26DE2933@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25064

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 06:29:09 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Do you carry a national ID card?
>
> Sure--I have a social security card. My son, as required by > law, has a drift card. I am required to show picture identification to > board an aircraft in the United States and, based on the laws that > have been passed and will take effect in January, I will soon be > required to show such identification to board ANY form of > transportation that crosses a state line. That the card is issued by > the State instead by the federal government is irrelevant--in many > nations id cards are issued by their provinces not the national > government.

A Social Security card is not a national ID card. It isn't even necessary to carry it with you. As to your son's drifting, we can only hope that he finds himself and stops this drifting one day. I don't know of any photo Social Security cards and I'm quite certain that a state-issued drivers license doesn't count as a "national ID card".

> Incidently, in the Netherlands you are NOT required to carry a > national ID card--you are ISSUED one, but it is the equivalent of a > combination of our social security cards and a medical insurance id > card--such as a Blue Cross card in the US.
>
> >> Since your statement not only goes against experience, but > >> goes against the recently released UN study of freedom in member > >> nations (which listed the Netherlands as the freest nation on earth, > >> followed by Denmark, etc.), it would seem that you need to offer more > >> than a simply statement of opinion to support your claim.
> >
> >The UN? 'nuff said.
>
> Can't stand anything that comes from an impartial source, or > just afraid of Black Helicopter?

Neither. I find the UN to be largely tangled in its own bureaucracy.
I'd fear no helicopters within ten or so years. It would take 'em that long to finish up the various meetings necessary to get one airborne.

Dave K8MN

2018. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:04:58 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsf1a$46g$0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25065

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > news:9ts7u8etc1@208.206.142.78...
>
> > > Evidently you were too deep into the drug culture to notice, but the > > > Liberty Net was on the air long before restructuring went into effect.
> >
> >
> >
> > Ah, poor Baby!!!! For you history started with restructuring. Take your > > pacifier quietly, now!
>
> The score for the damage to amateur radio is as follows:
>
> Dick's attitude - 98
> Kim's callsign - 1 (the only damage being those hams that have complained > about it, but they really don't count)

The only damage is to your fragile code-phobic psyche and that doesn't count.

2019. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:20:28 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125232028.25429.00003451@nso-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 25067

In article <4B51A0DAD182D2CF.ABB1AEA7AF65AEBF.CE269D6E9AD3D21D@lp.airnews.net>, Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
> Sure--I have a social security card. My son, as required by >law, has a drift card.

Rick:

I've heard of those. They require you use only transceivers which have unstable VFO's. Bummer. We gotta get that law repealed!

73 de Larry, K3LT

2020. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:20:29 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125232029.25429.00003453@nso-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 25071

In article <3C01429F.49FF4E36@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>> Then, tell me how my callsign is of such danger to the ARS.
>
>If W5TIT is a danger to the ARS, then so is
>"Kneading Three Large Tits".

Cecil:

If my callsign, and the phonetics you have constructed therefrom, are truly a "danger to the ARS," then perhaps you should write to Riley Hollingsworth and complain about it. He has already stated that Kim's callsign has the potential to take the ARS "...one step closer to extinction." If he says anything like that about my callsign, then I will immediately take steps to change it to something less offensive. Keep in mind that the phonetics I use for my callsign are "Kilo Three Lima Tango," and my call letters, unlike Kim's, don't spell out any recognizable word.

73 de Larry, K3LT

2021. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:20:29 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125232029.25429.00003452@nso-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 25072

In article <681C504644C3DE49.94B8E00E697A6DF9.DD96F71F6B4B2BB2@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
> Is yours?
>
> FAR more hams have posted here that they do NOT take offense >at her sign than have posted that they do. That makes it pretty clear >that most hams DON'T take offense at her sign. Why is YOUR opinion any >more important than ours?
>
> Rick

I don't think you're in any position to ask that question, Rick. Using Cecil's logic, the same logic by which he contends that my call is
"Kneading Three Large Tits," your callsign is KE8 Heil Hitler. As a person who was raised Catholic, and has Jews on my mother's side of the family, I find that pretty darned offensive -- if Cecil's "logic" is to be given serious consideration. So, lemme akxs you -- are you going to do anything about it -- or is Cecil's logic inherently flawed?

73 de Larry, K3LT

2022. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:20:30 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125232030.25429.00003455@nso-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 25066

In article <3c013ca4_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>> If the selection was limited to the likes of you I wouldn't be, either.
>
>Oh, believe me, you have that right.
>
>Kim W5TIT

Yes, Kim, Dick did, indeed, have that right!

73 de Larry, K3LT

2023. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:20:30 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125232030.25429.00003454@nso-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 25074

In article <3c013962_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>Sure they do! If they are that offended, and there is nothing they can do >about my callsign, they can choose another hobby. And, I challenge that I >want to be vulgar, and I also challenge your notion that most women would be >offended by my callsign. I can't imagine a kid having the capability to be >offended by a callsign. If they are aware of tits in a derogatory light, it >wasn't me who taught it to them. The same could be said, I suppose, for the >adults. I didn't teach you, Dick, that the word tit is a derogatory >term--who did?
>
>Kim W5TIT

Kim:

The word "tit" is not derogatory, just a vulgar and inherently offensive way to refer to a woman's breasts. This term is used when one intends to deliberately demean and depersonalize a woman through the reference to secondary sexual characteristics which the viewer finds attractive, in exception to or exclusion of all of the other personal qualities she possesses as a woman, and as a human being. Most modern women are personally offended by those who judge and value her primarily for the size, shape, and general attractiveness of her breasts. Men who do this are quite rightly criticized for this, yet you not only deliberately encourage such behavior, you actively solicit it through your selection of a callsign. In so doing, you not only bring the ARS "…one step closer to extinction," you also set back all the societal gains made by women in the last century, and bring about a return to their objectification as mere sexual playthings. Is that really how you see yourself?

73 de Larry, K3LT

2024. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:20:31 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125232031.25429.00003457@nso-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 25069

In article <3C01422C.6DE3BF71@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> Where do you, Rick, Cecil, and the rest of the no-coders/pro-TIT'ers >> get the idea that anyone's "general behavior" on this newsgroup -- >> including yours -- could be detrimental to the ARS? This newsgroup >> is NOT ham radio -- it is merely about ham radio.
>
>More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
>You, personally, have offended more potential hams than Kim will >during the rest of her life.

Cecil:

What makes you think it is I who is offending them?

73 de Larry, K3LT

2025. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:20:31 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125232031.25429.00003456@nso-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 25073

In article <3c013f4c_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>> The world is full of double standards; this is just one of them, and >> a pretty reasonable one, at that. Grow up and stop whining just >> because participants in this newsgroup get to call things like they >> see them -- at your own self-inflicted expense.
>>
>> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>>
>
>heh heh heh No expense here, at all, Larry, I assure you. OH, and as to >the double-standards comment? You know, the one where you appear to be >quite willing to accept them? Accept my callsign. :)
>
>Kim W5TIT

Kim:

I have no choice but to accept your callsign. I have stated many times that your callsign is your responsibility alone -- and you are also responsible for the fact that you are taking the ARS "...one step closer to extinction" by having chosen it. The whole shebang is totally on your head alone -- and you're the only one who can rectify the situation. If you choose not to, you merely provide all the proof necessary that you are a person of poor taste and judgment, and leave yourself open to the criticism of those who find it offensive.

73 de Larry, K3LT

2026. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:20:32 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125232032.25429.00003459@nso-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 25068

In article <53DBEC038D54B145.105008A147A893A2.91FFABC950ED1A74@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
>>Cecil:
>>
>>All of my attempts at not sinning are feeble, compared to what they >>should be. I am a sinner, of that there is no doubt. Perhaps you would >>pray for me?
>>
>>73 de Larry, K3LT
>
> Better not, Cecil.
>
> You might get what you pray for--and what on Earth would you >do with Larry Roll?

Talk about your feeble attempts at humor...

73 de Larry, K3LT

2027. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:20:32 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125232032.25429.00003458@nso-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 25070

In article <ZMbM7.128747$WW.8060759@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:

>
>I recall wandering in to the late show at a local theatre at about the age >of 17 or so into one of these floppy boob movies; was interesting for about >3.5 minutes at most. Incidentally the last X flick I went to was in Salt
>Lake City.

The first, last, and only in-theatre X-rated movie I ever saw was in Times Square in NYC, circa 1970, during a Christmas season field trip with my freshman class from the Catholic junior college I was attending at the time, Villa Maria College of Buffalo. The movie was named Scorpio 70. I just looked it up on imdb.com, there is no info on the film whatsoever except for the main cast/crew listing.
What I do recall about the film is that the best set of breasts I saw was on the girl I was with!

73 de Larry, K3LT

2028. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:20:33 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011125232033.25429.00003460@nso-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 25075

>The only way I see gay men and lesbians is as unfortunate, confused >people who need our prayers, and also need to be kept away from our >children. A simple examination of human male/female anatomy will >show that same-sex relationships are not what the Creator intended.
>The fact that this confusion is widespread does not make it normal.

> Gee, Larry, if that's the case I wonder why homosexual >behavior is so common in the animal kingdom. I always thought animal >behavior was, by definition, "normal."

Rick:

The commonality of homosexual behavior within the animal kingdom is well documented, obviously, but still deviates from what is the normal, intended means of sexual relations between the two sexes of the species in question. In fact, within the animal kingdom, we even see sexual relations between different species (certain sick humans do likewise).

> BTW, over 96% of ALL child molestation is performed by >heterosexuals

And I condemn 100% of it, regardless of the sexual preference of who is committing it.

>(according to the Department of Justice statistics >available at http://www.doj.gov), despite the fact that between 7% and >10% of our population is homosexual. It would seem that your >insistence that we keep homosexuals away from our children would only >result in increased levels of child sexual abuse--is that what you >hope for?

Obviously not -- and the fact that you would ask such a question only tends to reveal your liberal agenda. I believe in keeping homosexuals away from children for the simple reason that homosexuals tend to view their sexual preference as a valid option, even a preferable one -- and are disposed toward "recruitment" of young people into their "lifestyle."

73 de Larry, K3LT

2029. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:43:28 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <0A0185E23A8EFBAD.42FE15BFB04EE01E.D81A60712F21ACC2@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25076

On 26 Nov 2001 02:29:15 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> And that's why your license is dated after the date of the >restructuring???

Look again, genius. It would have been impossible for my upgrade (from KE8HH--that's an Advanced call, remember?) using the new rules in time for it to have been issued by that date. My written was completed in December of 1999 and I took my cw test at the last session before the new rules went into effect [I failed the 20WPM in December by one question]). If your memory still works, you'll remember that I _discussed_ my upgrade here in this newsgroup and commented in the thread on code testing that I had just PASSED the 20 WPM the day I took the test. You, Larry, and Ed Hare (among others) were all part of that thread.

Take your Ginko, Dick, your memory is slipping.

>> If Hollingsworth is claiming Advanced class hams are causing >> more trouble than Techs, he is NOT talking about new licensees.

> So you've discussed it with him and he made that statement?

Your memory is really slipping isn't it Dick?

There ARE no post-restructuring Advanced licenses, it was phased out at the time. If someone holds an Advanced ticket it's because he or she passed the test BEFORE the restructuring. I don't need to ask Hollingsworth about that--as a licensed ham I'm _supposed_ to know the license classes and privileges. Come to think of it, so are you.

>> Sorry, Dick, but if you communicate on the air the way you do
>> on line (and if you don't all you are doing is showing disrespect for >> ham radio in another venue), YOU and your cronies are the people >> Hollingsworth warned us about!
>
> You are a horses ass whether on the air on the net. I didn't need to be >warned about the likes of you, your manner gives you away right away!

Great example of what I'm talking about.

Incidently, you have no idea what I'm like on the air--I've never communicated with you there, remember?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2030. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:47:22 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tshgq$b22$0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25077

Nonya Bidniz wrote:
>
> On 26 Nov 2001 02:15:03 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > You have no idea what a real code test amounts to.
>
> Since you don't even know who I am let alone what my background in > radio is, you have no valid basis on which to make that statement.
>

Sure I do. Youi gave yourself away.

> > For the entire time > >of the VE system a code test was largely a sham, with the multiple guess > >questions where you could literally guess your way to a license. I've > >seen it repeatedly, and was obligated to go along with it as VE. It was > >the rule.
>
> You weren't obligated to do any such thing. You retained the right to > grab the nearest pair of scissors, snip your VE credentials into > little pieces, and walk away.

And leavd a room full of applicants hanging? That may be a choice you'r make but it wasn't one for me. I had signed onto the system and was personally obligated to carry it out. I did not forsee how it would all evolve or I might have done othewise. I couldn't know I was helping to spawn a generation of hams like you and a few others posting here.

Judging from your attitude, you probably > would have been doing the ARS a favor by doing so.

Tell it to the hundreds of hams I helped make it possible for them to get a license when I had the only VE team for a couple hundred miles.

>
> >Your vaunted Liberty net that you'r so proud of is a recent development, > >of only a few years.Of course to a beginner that's forever.
>
> Show me where I expressed pride in the Liberty Net. Also tell us on > what information you base your assumption that I'm a beginner.

I ID'd you right away. You'r not a beginner, but as always you come across like one.
For some reason you "aginers" seem hung up on the socalled Libety Net which is nothing more that a tiny collection of misfits who do evidently do little else in ham radio. Such a small percentage of hams as to be inconsequentialif not for the content (evidently, from all the slant you guys give their nonsense. I domn't know since I never tune in there at all). Surely fresh meat for Riley's harvest. I can't imagine why anyone who doesn't want to be involved in that stuff even tunes in.

What I am disputing is > your erroneous assertion that "a real code test" would have prevented > such a rectal irritation from appearing within the hobby in the first > place. Passing a test of one's proficiency in Morse code proves only > one's proficiency with the code.

Today, that's pretty well evident. Was not always so. And it is a fact that you don't find unacceptable behavior among CW operators.

> Is is not a test of moral > composition. Never was, never will be.

Well, you got it half right. Never will again be.

>
> >On the other hand you are an illiterate dipschit.
>
> Since you can't even spell "sipshit" properly,

And YOU can??? For your info, I choose to spell it my way.

I doubt that you are > qualified to judge who is an is not a dipshit. On the other hand, > since it takes one to know one, perhaps you ARE qualified.
>

Yeah, right, Brian. You should know.

> >I studied, learned the material and missed
> >not a single question on the General, Advanced and Extra written exams, > >and passed the 13 and 20wpm code tests, in a single test sitting at the > >FCC district office in Kansas City. Tht was after making a 260 mile one > >way drive to get there.
>
> Uphill, naked and in four feet of snow, no doubt. <yawn!>

Ya gotta admit, I really wanted it or I would have stayed home in front of the boob toob instead of with nose in book. No question pools, either.

> >All that is moot except that you seem to think that the VE shsould come > >to your home and test you on subjects of your choice at a difficulty > >level that you feel comfortable with.
>
> Times change. Testing procedures change. Some of us see the value of > change and learn to deal with it.

Yeah, right, all change is valuable. Especially when it makes it easy for you.

Others, apparently including > yourself, are condemned to forever whine about it.
>
> Would you like some cheese to go with that whine, sir?

Just finshed a cheese stick, thank you just the same.

>
> >> There is stupid behavior at every level of society (of which the ARS > >> is a cross-section and therefore a reasonably good reflection).

If the ARS is a crossection of society then it's because of the dumbed down licene requirments have generated a CB like atmosphere. Ham radio was never a passtime for the masses.

> >
> >Now you're going to say that people who invest lots of time, energy and > >effort won't feel any different about protecting that investment than > >those who have it all given to them. BS.
>
> Quite a generalization. However, like most generalizations about > people, it is partially correct and partially incorrect. There are > undoubtedly many people who invested a lot of time, energy, and effort > to get their licenses, even under the post-restructuring system...or > at least they themselves will feel that they have done so, since they > will not be comparing their own experience to yours. Thus, there will > also undoubtedly be many persons licensed under the post-restructuring > system who will cherish the priviledges granted by their licenses > every bit as much as you and I do, and will conduct themselves > accordingly both on and off the air.

Hey, a rational paragraph! You're definitely improving.

> There will also undoubtedly be people who will get on the air and act > like the morons that they in fact are minutes after finding out what > their callsign is. What you fail to realize is that the result of an > Element 1 test is by no means sufficient information on which to > attempt to predict which side of the line any given individual is > going to wind up on.
>

And you've got that mostly right, except for the part where I fail to realize. I realized long ago that ham radio was on the skids and that realization is ever more apparent. Of courdse there will be a core cadre of 'good guys' that will be around until FCC finally shuts us down out of embarassment and/or disgust.

> 73

Likewise.

2031. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:47:59 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <59D994A658CEE7F9.833DFD4C0F043EA2.9365CB88E55F5F32@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25078

On 26 Nov 2001 02:30:49 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> It is difficult for me to become preoccupied with that which disgusts >me. She is disgusting. You are right, Larry- Her choice of a vanity >callsign clearly shows her own preoccupation.

Now that we know you are disgusted by women's breasts, it explains a lot about you Dick.

Out of curiosity, don't you think that you would eliminate a lot of your hate and bitterness if you just came out of your closet and admitted it to yourself?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2032. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:48:39 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <0E8B445B014F3F73.A9A3A1BB9AAEB986.BF8953714CA1CF93@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25079

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 21:12:40 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>I didn't find the response about your balls, Dick?

I guess he didn't have enough of them to answer, Kim.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2033. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:52:15 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tshpvbof0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25080

K0HB wrote:
>
> The opinion of Dick Carroll seems to be......
>
> > You're nuts. Such activity as a formal part of Christianity went out > > with the Inquisition. In Islam it was clearly demonstrated September 11, > > and in numerous lesser but horrific incidents in the preceding decades.
>
> Terroristic activity in the name of religion (Christianity) has been > going on in Northern Ireland for decades too -- and BOTH sides claim
> a different flavor of Christianity as their motivation.

Ah, Yes, dear old Homeland. But only a blip on the radar beside Islamic fundamentalist terrorism, as demonstrated by longtime activities culminating at the World Trade Center.

2034. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 04:54:58 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C01CAE7.5C997706@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25081

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> Don't fret, Dwight. You evidently > don't know that only a third of the > populace of the Colonies were active > participants in the Revolutionary > War for Independence from Britian.
> Another third were Loyalists to the > Crown, and the final third were "Why > can't we all just get along" sorts
> like you, Rick, Kim and Cecil.
> There are always enough freedom > loving, THINKING citizens here to > step up and get the job done.

Well, if the citizens you're referring to are trying to wipe out the freedoms this country fought the Revolutionary War for, then they're certainly no friends of mine. Conservatives, perhaps like youself, who would openly support this country's conversion into a military dictatorship, are just as dangerious in my mind as the extreme liberals.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2035. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:06:52 UTC
From: jeffreyh@Hawaii.Edu
Message-ID: <9tsilc$n0u$1@news.hawaii.edu>
Source record: 25082

Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be >prevalent among may ham radio operators.

Out of our 600,000+ members, what percentage display those characteristics, Rick? If say, you've counted 60,000, that would be just 10%. Is ten percent "a tremendous amount"? (Do you even know 60,000 hams???)

(I wish you folks would preface your comments with "IMO" so that the non-hams reading this NG know you're not in any way stating facts but rather opinions...)

73, Jeff KH6O

--
Telecommunication Specialist Mathematics Lecturer
U.S. Coast Guard University of Hawaii System
jherman @ d14.uscg.mil jeffreyh @ hawaii.edu

2036. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:11:19 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01CEF7.DF12C598@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25084

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> If my callsign, and the phonetics you have constructed therefrom, > are truly a "danger to the ARS," then perhaps you should write to > Riley Hollingsworth and complain about it.

It is not a danger to the ARS. Neither is Kim's call. Vulgarity is in the eyes of the beholder. Just because I find your call to be vulgar doesn't mean that it objectively is vulgar.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2037. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:11:35 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsiu7evq0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25083

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> news:9ts759dps0@208.206.142.78...
> > You're nuts. Such activity as a formal part of Christianity went out
>
> Formal? It's still practiced by the KKK and Rev. Phelps of godhatesfags.com

Oh really?? They advocate their death and total destruction?

>
> > with the Inquisition. In Islam it was clearly demonstrated September 11,
> > and in numerous lesser but horrific incidents in the preceding decades.
> > The widespread cheering in Islamic countries following the fall of WTC > > was widely televised. Your know all this and choose to ignore it. Your > > idiotic statements in the wake of what has happened in recent months > > shows clearly for all to see what you truly are.
>
> The Bible, Koran, and the Book of Mormon have all been twisted by fanatics > to suit their own ends. It continues to be done today. Islam, as practiced > by Arab countries is not a religion. It is a politcal system. This is not > what true Islam is all about.

So you'll be glad to pass that message along to the hundreds of thousands of radical Islamic fundamentalist schooltrained terrorist Jihadists - and all their more "moderate" cheerleaders - so that we can cancel the current war and just all get along, right?

2038. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:12:56 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01CF58.64E74809@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25085

```
Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
> >You, personally, have offended more potential hams than Kim will > >during the rest of her life.
>
> What makes you think it is I who is offending them?

Your bigoted postings even offend me, Larry, and I have a thick skin.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2039. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:18:18 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01D09A.E2629F7@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25086

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> The word "tit" is not derogatory, just a vulgar and inherently offensive > way to refer to a woman's breasts.

Since the word "tit" does not elicit that response in me, Larry, the word is NOT objectively vulgar and offensive. You find it vulgar and offensive because you are filtering it through your subjective belief system, i.e. you are using your free will to choose to find it vulgar and offensive. You have a perfect right to feel any way you choose but the rest of the world doesn't give a hoot about your subjective beliefs and feelings.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2040. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:23:25 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01D1CD.844EDB10@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25087

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> > You know, what's interesting Dickie is that you insist you > > know what "most hams want."
>
> Well, guess what! I have a better shot at it than you do, by a bunch.
> And when that view is reinforced by various other entities among ham > radio society, you and Cecil being notable exceptions, that view stands.
> Your loss.

Dick, you are showing your ignorance of sampling theory. There are not enough samples of 700,000 hams regarding Kim's callsign to make a valid judgment one way or another. Your view is ridiculous.

> I know that most women would view it as vulgar.

Have you polled most women, Dick?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2041. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:27:46 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01D2D2.8706E4C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25088

Rick Adams wrote:
> I wonder which of those three societies Dick would have the > greatest contempt for--I know which one (the last) repells me the > most!).

Dick has stated that he is satisfied with allowing society to dictate mores.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2042. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:32:37 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01D3F5.18DDDAD0@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25090

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > There are lots of former or current CBers in our age group, as you > > > well know, Cecil.
> >
> > Former 11m CBers didn't exist when I was first licensed, Dick.
> > I participated in the last 11m ham contest. Please prove that > > the Liberty Net troublemakers are former CBers.
>
> Hey, it was you who said they were my peers. They are not. They are > yours.

Glad to see you admit it. My coded ham license predates yours and predates the 11m CB band. So you have just admitted that CBers are NOT the cause of the troubles on 75m and 20m. Good to see some reality in your postings.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2043. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:32:40 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C01D3B3.C197B4C5@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25089

Steve Robeson K4YZ wrote:
>
> (snip) I think those whining the hardest > about the perceived "loss of our freedoms" > as they pertain to the present state of > emergency are those who would least like > to be "obligated" to "pay" for their > freedom...Regardless if it was to serve > in the Armed Forces or simply have to > endue some relatively meager > inconvienience at home.

I disagree, Steve. Extremism on either side of the political spectrum is not a good thing. I'm all for defending this country but, unlike many conservatives, I'm not willing to write a blank check to allow the government, or the military, to do whatever they want - even in a situation like this. As citizens of a free country, we must challenge anything that we perceive to be a threat to our freedoms and our rights, no matter how slight or how little the inconvienience. If we fail to do that, we're walking down the path to being less free, or having less rights, than those other countries we find so objectable.

Short of military conquest, rights and freedoms are not taken away in massive sweeps (the people might revolt if that happened). Instead, rights and freedoms are nibbled away in little bits, in little laws, and in little inconvieniences. However, after enough of these little inconvieniences, the people wake up to realise they have nothing left.

Go back to the oath you took when you joined the military, Steve. You swore to defend the Constitution against all enemies, foreign and domestic. Anyone out to take away rights contained in that Constitution ARE the domestic enemies. That's why, in my opinion, anybody who messes with those rights, no matter how slight or how little the inconvienience, had better have a damn good reason before they do. And I want to know exactly what that reason is. And, if they don't tell me, I darn sure plan to ask. Now, if you want to call that "whining," then so be it. I, on the other hand, would call that being a good citizen.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2044. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:35:37 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <4BA6E63D3AD2001C.A89828444B0AD29E.4650B37101A7194C@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25091

On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 03:28:59 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>That isn't necessarily the case, Rick. This is just your pet theory.
>There are plenty of studies which do not agree with the information >you've set forth.

Ok, then cite them directly. I provided the source for my information (the US Department of Justice). Care to do the same or is it hard to cite vaporware?

> You haven't even given us a percentage of our poor, >suffering and incarcerated souls who are in for possession of marijuana >use. Just what percentage of U.S. prisoners are incarcerated for >possessions of small amounts of marijuana?

From the NORML website:

"Marijuana prohibition needlessly destroys the lives and careers of literally hundreds of thousands of good people each year in this country. More than 700,000 Americans were arrested on marijuana charges last year, and more than 5 million Americans have been arrested for marijuana offenses in the past decade. Almost 90 percent of these arrests are for simple possession, not trafficking or sale.
This is a misapplication of the criminal sanction that invites government into areas of our private lives that are inappropriate and wastes valuable law enforcement resources that should be focused on serious and violent crime"

From the DoJ:

"In 2000, there were 1,579,566 drug arrests in the US. Of those, 46.5 percent -- 734,497 arrests -- were for marijuana. There were 646,042 arrests for simple possession of marijuana in 2000."

From Bartol, C. (2002). Criminal Behavior: A psychosocial approach. Upper Saddle River, NJ: Prentice-Hall.:

"In 1998, 1.56 million people were arrested nationally either for the sale and/or manufacture or possession of illegal drugs . . .
During that same year, an estimated 417,000 jail inmates or 70 percent of all inmates in local facilities had committed a drug offense or used drugs regularly."

Next question?

>You seem to have lots of "facts" at your disposal. I especially love >the one about Moscow being safe until the end of the Cold War. Do you >have any idea why? One of our embassy staff was out in the city one >night in the '80s. He got drunk and stumbled into a canal. His life >was saved by his KGB "tail".

Actually, in Moscow, a citizen would probably be served more quickly by the Moscow Militia, or the NKVD, the civilian branch of state security.

Do you really think that if a member of the Russian embassy staff in Washington during the cold war had fallen into a river he wouldn't have been seen to do so by his FBI tail? Perhaps he wouldn't have saved him--but he WOULD have seen him fall.

>Did you know that private ownership of handguns is permitted in Finland?

Sure. Want to tell us how easy it is to get a permit to carry one concealed, as is common in the US?

>Did you also know that you have a national I.D. card and that is >necessary to provide the police with your new address when you move?

From the US Selective Service Registration Form (MB2):

"Failure to register is a felony and may result in up to $250,000 in fines, up to 5 years imprisonment or both. . . Once you register, the law requires you to keep Selective Service informed within 10 days of your address change."

Not much difference I can see--except that 5 years sounds like a bit more severe punishment than would be the case there.

>Did you know that a yearly licensing fee of about $600 is imposed in >order to watch the color TV you buy and that roving electronic >eavesdropping patrols can come to your house and sieze your TV if you >haven't paid the fee.

Do the words "Personal Property Tax" ring a bell here in the states?

>Prostitution is illegal in Finland (as I believe I mentioned earlier).

So? It's illegal here, too. Remember that it was the Netherlands that I cited as the freest nation in the world--why not try to cite some arguments about THAT nation?

Incidently, since you ARE citing Finland, care to tell us the penalties for sodomy, adultery, homosexual sexual activities, personal use (not sales) of marijuana, and being openly gay in the military?

Oh, I forgot, there ARE no penalties for those acts in Finland, are there?

>So is the possession of marijuana. Finnish prisons now house the dutch >manager of a touring rock band for bringing drugs into Finland as well >as one stupid American girl who brought 15 lbs. of heroin into the >country.

Er, Dave,

Smuggling 15 lbs. of heroin or other drugs into a nation isn't exactly the same as simple possession. Care to tell us how long the girl received as a sentence (in the US that quantity would guarantee life w/o parole due to mandatory minimum sentencing laws)? Better yet, tell us how many citizens are incarcerated for simple possession of marijuana--the drug offence you BEGAN this sentence with.

>The Nordic prison systems are very enlightened though. During the late
>'90s, one Danish fellow was released from his Danish prison for a >"holiday". He came to Finland, robbed a hotel and killed a Finnish >policeman. Maybe we could institute a "holiday" system too.

We have one--it's called "work release."

>If we have more violent crime than other first world countries, we need >additional space for those who commit the crimes. It would seem that >there are those who don't know how to handle the freedoms we have and >who always push for just a little more.

Violent crime isn't an attempt to push for more freedom, Dave, it's a crime against people. And if we started addressing the causes of crime (poverty, racism, a lost drug war, etc.) instead of building more prisons perhaps we WOULDN'T have more violent crime than other first world nations in the first place.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2045. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:36:36 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01D4E4.29ED6E43@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25092

Krell wrote:
> With the strict control the LDS has over that state, it's surprising that > any such theatres exist at all.

LDS is against caffeine but they own Pepsi and put caffeine in them.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2046. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:44:14 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01D6AE.C61D9C3C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25094

Dave Heil wrote:
> If we have more violent crime than other first world countries, we need > additional space for those who commit the crimes.

We would have plenty of space if we didn't lock up people for victimless crimes, e.g. prostitution.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2047. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:46:07 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C01D6D8.1DBC72FC@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25093

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> SHHHHHHhhhhhhh!!!! I was pretty certain > Dick--you know the one who's read the > book and now he knows all about the > Muslim faith--was going to have to look > that one up, and then recover from the > shock that he's condemning a faith that > subscribes to the thought that a > Christian Jesus is regarded as a > prophet. :)

Opps, sorry about that. I thought you were just asking a general question. Warn me next time (e.g. "nobody else answer").

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2048. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:46:20 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01D72C.7F41502B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25095

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > > I'm surprised at how ignorant you are of human psychology.
> > >
> > > Probably no more surprised than I am at your inability to comprehend a > > > simple English language sentence.
> >
> > I comprehended it much better than you realize.
>
> That simply can't be if you come back translating the sentence as > something entirely different than what I wrote.

It's easy to read between the lines, Dave.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2049. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:48:02 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsl2i$ke1$0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25096

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 26 Nov 2001 02:29:15 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > And that's why your license is dated after the date of the > >restructuring???
>
> Look again, genius. It would have been impossible for my > upgrade (from KE8HH--that's an Advanced call, remember?) using the new > rules in time for it to have been issued by that date.

Not at all. You clearly could have taken your Advanced and your CSCE for the Extra written to the April 15 VE session and your Extra license was issued by the FCC on May 9. Simple enough.

My written was > completed in December of 1999 and I took my cw test at the last > session before the new rules went into effect ...

Yada,yada,yada.....you and your Pal Cecil always have your story worked out in intricate detail well in advance.

> >> If Hollingsworth is claiming Advanced class hams are causing > >> more trouble than Techs, he is NOT talking about new licensees.
>
> > So you've discussed it with him and he made that statement?
>
> Your memory is really slipping isn't it Dick?
>
> There ARE no post-restructuring Advanced licenses, it was > phased out at the time. If someone holds an Advanced ticket it's > because he or she passed the test BEFORE the restructuring.

Don't look now, but the nonsense didn't start after the Grate Dumb Down.

> >> Sorry, Dick, but if you communicate on the air the way you do
> >> on line (and if you don't all you are doing is showing disrespect for > >> ham radio in another venue), YOU and your cronies are the people > >> Hollingsworth warned us about!
> >
> > You are a horses ass whether on the air on the net. I didn't need to be > >warned about the likes of you, your manner gives you away right away!
>
> Great example of what I'm talking about.
>

Hey, man I didn't create you as a horses ass, you did that all on your own.

2050. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:48:48 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01D7C0.1C8F7006@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25097

Dave Heil wrote:
> It may remain one of the > mysteries of your lives and I hope it provides an opportunity for you to > fritter away hours. Good luck in your quests.

It's absolutely no mystery, Dave. You have already provided the answer.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2051. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:54:48 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01D928.D0675EB3@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25099

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > > Muslims are taught from infancy as an integral part of their religious > > > training, that all other belief systems are not only inferior but that > > > they must be wiped out and their adherents either converted, enslaved or > > > killed.
> >
> > The exact same thing is taught in YOUR Bible, Dick. You should crack it > > open and enlighten yourself. Civilized Christians don't pay much attention > > to the atrocities we are supposed to commit in the name of Jehovah.
> > Civilized Muslims don't pay much attention to the atrocities they > > are supposed to commit in the name of Allah.
>
> You're nuts. Such activity as a formal part of Christianity went out > with the Inquisition.

If that is true, then Christians are ignoring Jehovah's directions in the Bible. The great majority of Muslims also ignore Allah's directions in the Koran. Only a very small percentage of Muslims are terrorists.
There are virtually no female Muslim terrorists. By itself, that's half the Muslim population. Your bigoted attempt at collectivism just doesn't wash.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2052. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:54:50 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tslfa$l4p$0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25098

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> >
> > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> > >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
> > >You, personally, have offended more potential hams than Kim will > > >during the rest of her life.
> >
> > What makes you think it is I who is offending them?
>
> Your bigoted postings even offend me, Larry, and I have a > thick skin.
>

So does an onion.
```

2053. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:56:52 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tslj4$l4p$1@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25100

CAM wrote:
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > The word "tit" is not derogatory, just a vulgar and inherently offensive > > way to refer to a woman's breasts.
>
> Since the word "tit" does not elicit that response in me, Larry,
> the word is NOT objectively vulgar and offensive.

SOCIETY at large finds the word to be vulgar and offensive on its face, more expecially when used in a public mixed setting. You insist that just because you are as coarse and vulgar, that society also is. You are wroing.

2054. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 05:57:45 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01D9D9.6C850807@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25001

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
> Well, I spent 5 years on active duty while you laid around on yoiur ass
> as a 4F. Nuff said.

Actually '1Y' and that classification wasn't my idea.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2055. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:00:52 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01DA94.AB5B379A@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25002

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Well, if you're a lying, phony dumbass that's waht you'll be labelled.

Dick, you have such a way with words. Who first called you a Dick?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2056. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:02:22 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01DAEE.EA872E17@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25004

Dave Heil wrote:
> The worth of a dictionary is not measured by its weight. If yours is > deficient, buy a new one or go to a library.

How about you just furnish a reference dictionary that contains "Church" as an entry?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2057. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:04:17 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsm11$n4g$0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25003

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > > There are lots of former or current CBers in our age group, as you > > > > well know, Cecil.
> > >
> > > Former 11m CBers didn't exist when I was first licensed, Dick.
> > > I participated in the last 11m ham contest. Please prove that > > > the Liberty Net troublemakers are former CBers.
> >
> > Hey, it was you who said they were my peers. They are not. They are > > yours.
>
> Glad to see you admit it.

Admit what? That the Liberty Nuts are your pals, not mine? That was as easy as it was factual.

My coded ham license predates yours and > predates the 11m CB band.

So? you have stated long ago that you were mostly inactive for most of your license tenure. And just for the record, my coded license dates to the time when 11 metes was a ham band. So what?

So you have just admitted that CBers are
> NOT the cause of the troubles on 75m and 20m.

Your deductive powers are magical, I see. For I said no such thing.

> Good to see some reality
> in your postings.

'Twould be very nice to see some in yours.

2058. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:07:20 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsm6o$n4g$1@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25005

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > SHHHHHHhhhhhhh!!!! I was pretty certain > > Dick--you know the one who's read the > > book and now he knows all about the > > Muslim faith--was going to have to look
> > that one up, and then recover from the > > shock that he's condemning a faith that > > subscribes to the thought that a > > Christian Jesus is regarded as a > > prophet. :)
>
> Opps, sorry about that. I thought you were just asking a general > question. Warn me next time (e.g. "nobody else answer").

Well just for THE RECORD Mohammad considered and discounted Jesus long before his own death, and proclaimed himself to be the Final Prophet, which remains Muslim doctrine to this day.

2059. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:09:19 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01DC8F.7A504C46@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25006

Dick Carroll wrote:
> I'll repoeat, when a large percentage of society views it as wrong it > is a moral issue and thus a part of the mores of that society. Basic > psychology, not advanced.

I'll bet you love the mores of the society that circumcises little girls. The US has individual rights defined by The Constitution to protect us from people like you. You and your mob can go to hell.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2060. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:12:22 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01DD46.6BBBD748@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25008

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > They are views based on unthinking feelings, Dave. That is the > > least reliable way to arrive at a rational conclusion. I'm glad > > your mob is not large enough to enforce your whims.
>
> Does the name "Custer" mean anything to you, Cecil?

Are you threatening me with a massacre? I'm a little better armed than Custer was.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2061. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:15:07 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C01DD9C.47D42A73@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25007

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> The first, last, and only in-theatre
> X-rated movie I ever saw was in Times > Square in NYC, circa 1970, during a > Christmas season field trip with my > freshman class from the Catholic > junior college I was attending at > the time, Villa Maria College of > Buffalo. (snip)

The first x-rated movie I saw was an accident. I was about 16 and was living with an older (28-29?) female church member while her husband was out of town. Anyway, one evening we decided to go to a drive-in and selected a movie with an innocent enough sounding name (long forgotten, but there was nothing to even hint it was x-rated). However, shortly after the movie started, we realised the mistake (and left just after that). Sadly, shortly before the movie started, we went to buy some popcorn and ran into a member of another church who was working on the electrical system. So, of course, by the next morning, everybody in the church knew we had went to an x-rated movie.

Happily, my next x-rated movie was much more pleasant. It involved a vacation trip to Verona with an Italian friend, a beautiful Italian girl who didn't speak a word of English (the friend's younger sister), a walk alone the beach of Lake Garda, a dinner at a outdoor cafe, a later movie she selected, and a week camping by the lake with this girl. I'll leave the details to your imagination - I can hardly believe them myself.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2062. Re: airmobile hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:19:16 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <4F961F442A32158D.CC0FFBF87EAB94D6.5DC9518B8C00D2CB@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25009

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 19:19:00 GMT, vtail@hotmail.com wrote:

>Of course, the FAA doesn't bother to say how the pilot in command is >supposed to go about making that determination.

Key it up at max power during preflight, with all the com radios on, and nav radios set to 'TEST' and tuned to the end of their range nearest the ham rig's band.

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

2063. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:25:57 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C01E024.DE18FF84@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25010

N2EY wrote:
>
> I think Cecil means that they > believe ALL Catholics and Mormons > are going there, regardless of > how they live their lives.

LOL. I know what Cecil was saying, Jim. My point is that there are a lot of judgemental people in all religions.

> Catholics and Mormons are > Christians, btw. All of them.

For the intent of the discussion here, my name selection was just fine - you knew which I was talking about, didn't you?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2064. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:34:57 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C01E23D.9929D568@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25011

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > The Church is all of Christianity.
> > The church is a building.
>
> My unabridged dictionary doesn't > have an entry for "Church".

Yes it does, Cecil. Look in the guide about capital letters at the beginning of a word - lower case when talking about something in general and upper case when talking about a specific. Therefore, "Church" would suggest a specific church (a Catholic Church, the Catholic Church, etc), while "church" is talking about nothing specific (a building, church in general, etc). You know that.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2065. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:36:23 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01E2E7.87BD6C30@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25013

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Of 52 Islamic nations, none have any hint of freedom in their societies
> save Turkey, ...

Where are you getting your false information, Dick? Egypt, as an example, has a relatively free market economy.

> He also states categorically that Islam is not a religion basically > different from Christianity or Judism although of the three only Islam > dictates that non-Islamics must be converted, enslaved or otherwise > killed.

Your Bible dictates exactly the same thing, Dick. Rational Christians take their Bible with a grain of salt. Rational Muslims take their Koran with a grain of salt. What is it about that that you don't understand? Would you have us nuke all Muslims? That sure sounds like what you are advocating.

> He states that the radical Islamics are nothing more than Southern > Baptists in disguise, since some tiny segment of some Chrtistian > fundamentalist group (not known to be a Southern Baptist splinter group) > has committed a very few acts of terrorism such as bombing abortion > clinics.

Radicals are radicals and terrorists are terrorists. Their religions are not at fault. Their radicalism and terrorism are at fault. There are radical Catholics in Ireland who are every bit as warped as the radical Muslims. Tim McVee, a Christian, was every bit as warped as the radical Muslims. You are advocating genocide of a population that is 99.9% innocent of any wrongdoing.

> He equates that to the Al Queda organization which has trained > literally hundreds of thousands of terrorists who have all been trained > to 'destroy the evil Infidel of the West' even though it cost all their > own lives and the lives of all other Moslems.

Dick, you want to murder millions of peace-loving, law-abiding Muslims to be sure you get a handful of terrorists. What you advocate IS terrorism.
And "hundreds of thousands of terrorists" is an unbelievable stretch. The combined armies of the Taliban and Al Queda are only about 100,000 and most of them are soldiers, not what can be defined as "terrorists". I would be surprised if there are more than 10,000 true Muslim terrorists in the entire world.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2066. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:36:42 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C01E2A6.BADD81F0@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25012

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dwight Stewart" wrote..
> >
> > Well said, Dave. I completely forgot > > about that.
>
> Well, either that, or it is an excellent > argument out of the scenario of those in > the Old Testament. :>

Both.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2067. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:40:28 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01E3DC.96166361@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25014

Dave Heil wrote:
> Sure it is, Cecil. You've obviously lived in places with a higher > percentage of bigots.

Not just lived, Dave. I used to be a traveling salesman covering Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2068. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:48:12 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01E5AC.1B9A7299@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25015

Dick Carroll wrote:
> There is virtually no homosexual behavior in the animal kingdom.

You've got to be kidding, Dick. Just yesterday, my female dog mounted my niece's female dog and started humping. Any farm boy will tell you that homosexual behavior is rampant among domestic animals. So is cross species stuff like ducks and chickens.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2069. K1MAN webpage.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:53:53 UTC
From: "N0VFP, Lloyd" <lloyd_vfp@msn.com>
Message-ID: <e1bb06a74f973f91732f3ab8815a96bd@spamfreenews.com>
Source record: 25016
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

This is a very good site......

http://www.carte.net/k1man/sites.htm

2070. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 06:54:55 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01E73F.7F8C85D3@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25017

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> K0HB wrote:
> > Terroristic activity in the name of religion (Christianity) has been > > going on in Northern Ireland for decades too -- and BOTH sides claim > > a different flavor of Christianity as their motivation.
>
> Ah, Yes, dear old Homeland. But only a blip on the radar beside Islamic > fundamentalist terrorism, as demonstrated by longtime activities > culminating at the World Trade Center.

So murders in Ireland are only a blip on the radar? You say some astounding things, Dick. Dead Irish people are just as dead as dead American people.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2071. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 07:07:21 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01EA29.C4ACD9A6@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25019

Dick Carroll wrote:
> SOCIETY at large finds the word to be vulgar and offensive on its face,

Care to offer some proof, Dick? I say you are wrong.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2072. Twistedhed: Illegal CBer

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 07:07:48 UTC
From: keyclownslappa@hotmail.com
Message-ID: <ce9e428e.0111252307.68b9be0a@posting.google.com>
Source record: 25018

From: Twstedhead@webtv.net (Twstedhead@webtv.net)
Subject: Re: CBer's to be fined Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb
Date: 1999/10/06

Everyone knows amps on 11 meters are illegal. So what? So we have the holier-than-thou schmoes out there trying to convince us that we ought to change our ways. Look, I,ll make it real simple 4 u self appointed cops and monitors or whatever the hell u refer to yourselves as. We know the risks, if we take the chance, most of us are ready to deal with the consequences should the heat come down. I have respect for MOST hams, but I achieve the same results at a fraction of the cost. If I bleed a neighbor, all they have to do is knock on my door. We will work it out. I have been in the same area for quite some years and have no problems. If I am not hurting anyone, why the hell should you care WHAT I do? The bottom line is you shouldn't. Get a life. You guys that bitch about us freebanders and "peaked" radios have way too much time on your hands. I don't need to run anymore than 30 watts where I am located and I talk all over the world......yes.. on the freeband. Nothng pleases me more than one of you cb rambos to come in to my conversation and start preaching about rules. God, I love to squash you suckers.

2073. Crazy Twistedhed Sniffs Jock Straps And Talks To Saucer Men

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 07:13:01 UTC
From: keyclownslappa@hotmail.com
Message-ID: <ce9e428e.0111252313.4b7eadd9@posting.google.com>
Source record: 25020

Subject: More Twistedhed's Blathering
Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb
Author: twistedhed@webtv.net (Twistedhed)
Date: 2001-03-26 17:20:06 PST

in 3741-3A87F5A4-23@storefull-122.iap.bryant.webtv.net
twistedhed@webtv.net wrote:
>nice forgery Dougie but the headers don't lie.
>Undoubtedly you don't understand how the Usenet >works so I will explain it to you, my anonymous
>acolyte
>what do you know of my life? The jockstrap you sent >in the mail is a trophy of your docile worship of
>me and it hangs proudly above my mantle
>I will never cease pirate CB activity as long as it irks
>you or someone like you. However, as a consolation
>and to ease your suffering, I will stay within the >confines of the freeband for now. The saucer men tell >me I have a good signal in the pile
==========

2074. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 07:14:53 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01EBED.B55ECAC6@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25021

Dick Carroll wrote:
> So? you have stated long ago that you were mostly inactive for most of > your license tenure.

You misunderstood. I had some HF inactivity but I was always active on VHF/UHF during those periods.

> And just for the record, my coded license dates to > the time when 11 metes was a ham band. So what?

So it means that the Liberty Net folk are indeed your peers.

> So you have just admitted that CBers are
> > NOT the cause of the troubles on 75m and 20m.
>
> Your deductive powers are magical, I see. For I said no such thing.

You have admitted that a lot of the Morse coded Liberty Net folk obtained their licenses before a 11m CB band existed. It follows that CB has nothing to do with the mess on 75m contrary to what you asserted earlier.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2075. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 07:17:02 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01EC6E.5F41476@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25022

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Yada,yada,yada.....you and your Pal Cecil always have your story worked > out in intricate detail well in advance.

That's a characteristic of telling the truth, Dick.
You should try it sometime.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2076. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 07:25:48 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01EE7C.BFEE1355@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25023

Dick Carroll wrote:
> So you'll be glad to pass that message along to the hundreds of > thousands of radical Islamic fundamentalist schooltrained terrorist > Jihadists - and all their more "moderate" cheerleaders - so that we can > cancel the current war and just all get along, right?

Where are you getting those outrageous numbers, Dick? There are not even "hundreds of thousands" of soldiers in the combined armies of the Taliban and al Qaeda.

Are you advocating the murder of millions of Muslims in order to kill a few thousand terrorists?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2077. Re: Twistedhed: Illegal CBer

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 07:32:45 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C01F01D.199F3965@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25024

IllegalCBersMustGO wrote:
> Everyone knows amps on 11 meters are illegal.

Would you believe that every CB radio has a built-in amp?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2078. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 07:35:11 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsrbf$6ak$1@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25025

Cecil, a travelling salesman? Wow! Pity the poor customers.

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > Sure it is, Cecil. You've obviously lived in places with a higher > > percentage of bigots.
>
> Not just lived, Dave. I used to be a traveling salesman covering > Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2079. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 07:38:17 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsrh9$6ak$2@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25026

CAM wrote:
>
> You have admitted that a lot of the Morse coded Liberty Net folk > obtained their licenses before a 11m CB band existed. It follows > that CB has nothing to do with the mess on 75m contrary to what > you asserted earlier.
>

I said no such thing. I said they were licensed before the Grate Dumb
Down.

2080. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 07:39:16 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsrj4$6ak$3@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25027

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > Yada,yada,yada.....you and your Pal Cecil always have your story worked > > out in intricate detail well in advance.
>
> That's a characteristic of telling the truth, Dick.
> You should try it sometime.
>

Yeah, right! so how many times have we caught you changing the story in
a later rendition.....

2081. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 07:43:53 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tsrrp$6ak$4@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25028

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > I'll repoeat, when a large percentage of society views it as wrong it > > is a moral issue and thus a part of the mores of that society. Basic > > psychology, not advanced.
>
> I'll bet you love the mores of the society that circumcises little > girls.

You really like to lose, don'te you?

The US has individual rights defined by The Constitution
> to protect us from people like you.

Far more likely us from you.

> You and your mob can go to > hell.

You're doing a pretty good job of showing the way.

> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2082. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 08:02:38 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tssuuacq0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25029

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > Of 52 Islamic nations, none have any hint of freedom in their societies
> > save Turkey, ...
>
> Where are you getting your false information, Dick? Egypt, as an > example, has a relatively free market economy.

Ah, the Bazaar. Sure, mercantile exchange takes place. So does the ongoing Islamic dictatorial government which quashes personal freedom as dictated by the Koran and replaces it with total personal fealty to the dictates of Allah. Or else.

>
> > He also states categorically that Islam is not a religion basically > > different from Christianity or Judism although of the three only Islam > > dictates that non-Islamics must be converted, enslaved or otherwise > > killed.
>
> Your Bible dictates exactly the same thing, Dick. Rational Christians > take their Bible with a grain of salt. Rational Muslims take their > Koran with a grain of salt. What is it about that that you don't > understand? Would you have us nuke all Muslims? That sure sounds > like what you are advocating.

You still don't have a single clue, do youi? Yoiu juste can't accept the fundamental differences, even after so many years of zealous assault on Western people and infrastructure. You don't WANT to acknowledge the fundamental differences. Even after September 11. President Bush had no trouble acknowledging those differences, and acting accordingly.
And nowhere did I ever suggest that all Muslims should be sanctioned,much less nuked. I did suggest that all Muslims-those who are serious about their religion- are potentially a problem in that they may harbor latent tendencies to suddenly get religion and follow Allah's dictates to destroy the Evil Infidels.

>
> > He states that the radical Islamics are nothing more than Southern > > Baptists in disguise, since some tiny segment of some Chrtistian > > fundamentalist group (not known to be a Southern Baptist splinter group) > > has committed a very few acts of terrorism such as bombing abortion > > clinics.
>
> Radicals are radicals and terrorists are terrorists. Their religions > are not at fault. Their radicalism and terrorism are at fault. There > are radical Catholics in Ireland who are every bit as warped as > the radical Muslims. Tim McVee, a Christian, was every bit as warped > as the radical Muslims. You are advocating genocide of a population > that is 99.9% innocent of any wrongdoing.

Cecil, when are you going to read what's there? Ever? I advocate that we defend ourselves from genocide foisted upon us by a substantial percentage of the Muslim population. This is not somebodies fantasy. If you'd check the news every few days you'd know that. I don't mean the local networks, either. Worldnews on satellite TV (fromCanada) is a good source, BBC America another, Fox News also good. Evidently you pay attention only when it fits your agenda. How long do you suppose it has been that I realized just what we're facing? Not that long. I used to think the the Moslems were relatively benign, even after the '93 WTC bombing I didn't realize just how serious this really is, and has been all along. Do some research and get rid of your blinders.

> > He equates that to the Al Queda organization which has trained > > literally hundreds of thousands of terrorists who have all been trained > > to 'destroy the evil Infidel of the West' even though it cost all their > > own lives and the lives of all other Moslems.
>
> Dick, you want to murder millions of peace-loving, law-abiding Muslims
> to be sure you get a handful of terrorists. What you advocate IS terrorism.

Either you are blind or a ignoramus. I advocate no such thing. I advocate striking the snake at its head, not coiling it in your lap.
Yoiu would just let things be while you worry about your "right" to dabble in illicit substances until it's too late to stop. If you don't believe that it's a serious threat its because you are in denial.

> And "hundreds of thousands of terrorists" is an unbelievable stretch. The > combined armies of the Taliban and Al Queda are only about 100,000 and > most of them are soldiers, not what can be defined as "terrorists". I > would be surprised if there are more than 10,000 true Muslim terrorists > in the entire world.

Well, we know of 19 that were successful on Sept 11. So how much havoc do you expect 10,000 could manage, assuming you are correct, which youi are not?

2083. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 08:06:08 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tst5gauj0@208.206.142.78>
Source record: 25030

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > There is virtually no homosexual behavior in the animal kingdom.
>
> You've got to be kidding, Dick. Just yesterday, my female dog > mounted my niece's female dog and started humping. Any farm boy > will tell you that homosexual behavior is rampant among domestic > animals. So is cross species stuff like ducks and chickens.

Nonsense. Animals have no awareness of sex. They are stimulated by pheromones, and sexual activity is the result of that stimuli. You don't see deer screwing around except during rutting season when the females provide the pheromones.
If the phereomones there they don't know sex exists.

2084. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 10:27:06 UTC
From: "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <_NoM7.129566$WW.8155513@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 25031

Nonya Bidniz <no_email@all.gov> wrote in message news:91360u44hndlams35reqosgbhbggti1d7d@4ax.com...

> On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 03:24:31 GMT, Nonya Bidniz <no_email@all.gov>
> wrote:

> >>On the other hand you are an illiterate dipschit.

> >Since you can't even spell "sipshit" properly, I doubt that you are > >qualified to judge who is an is not a dipshit. On the other hand, > >since it takes one to know one, perhaps you ARE qualified.

> Oops...apparently I can't spell it right either, at least not the > first time. Excuse me whilst I go wipe te egg off my face.

Heh, heh. An entirely understandable slip-up. Both SIP's and DIP's are older forms of IC packages. To be really effective, and really up-to-date, one might consider using the term 'TQFP-shit'.

--
Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
Glendale, Arizona

2085. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 12:25:30 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011126072530.20853.00000913@nso-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 25037

In article <wIbM7.128739$WW.8061618@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:

>> Yea, verily.
>>
>> Regale them with Tom Lehrer's "National Brotherhood Week" for a real >show-stopper.
>>
>> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>
>We have already had the discussion about how good songs turn into hymns.
>What you may have been exposed to as Jesus Loves the Little Children is the >tune to God Save Ireland. Our army used it in a little ditty that started >out, "In this land of dopey dreams, happy peaceful Phillipines."
>
Yup.

But we have barely scratched the surface of true commentary/novelty/parody songs. Particularly the written-for-the-purpose stuff like Tom Lehrer and Monty Python ditties ("Every Sperm Is Sacred", "The Philosopher's Song", and of course "The Lumberjack Song".

Didja know that if you take Neil Diamond's hit "September Morn" and replace the words "September Morn" with "Internet Porn", and make a few other minor changes the song still works, although with a somewhat different meaning?

73 de Jim, N2EY

2086. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 12:25:30 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011126072530.20853.00000912@nso-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 25038

In article <3bffadc1_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>I have participated in NTS; have served as net control on NTS nets; have >participated in public service events; have served as net control in public >service events; have been the voice of training for Hunt County ARES nets >and, a couple years back, nets for a group we named TRADES; and the list >goes on.

That's nice, Kim. I've done the NTS thing, too - all the way up to Area level.

> My callsign has been no problem--in fact never even been mentioned >after the fact--on any kind of net. I am sure that those who disagree with >it just leave the matter alone and disregard it, and those who do find humor >or whatever, in it, know that nets are not the time.

Everyone knows the nets are not the time. So the lack of comment simply means that those who are offended don't compound the problem by mentioning it during the net.

In addition, it's obvious that you won't voluntarily change it, so there's no point in on-air mention of the issue.
>
>In fact, responsibly-minded people see it as nothing more than a callsign, >and one that has a great deal of "conversational value" off the air, for >those eyeball get-togethers!

Sems to me you define "responsibly minded people" as those who don't voice objections.
>
>Believe me, the comments made here are made here only. :)
>
Because this is the appropriate place to do so.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2087. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 12:25:31 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011126072531.20853.00000915@nso-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 25033

In article <3C01D6AE.C61D9C3C@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Dave Heil wrote:
>> If we have more violent crime than other first world countries, we need >> additional space for those who commit the crimes.
>
>We would have plenty of space if we didn't lock up people
>for victimless crimes, e.g. prostitution.

That would be a good idea if prostitution were a victimless crime. But it's not.

How many people are locked up for prostitution, vs. violent crimes? You're saying we would have plenty of space, Cecil, so you must know the numbers.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2088. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 12:25:31 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011126072531.20853.00000914@nso-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 25034

In article <3C01422C.6DE3BF71@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.

They DO? How do you know, Cecil?

73 de Jim, N2EY

2089. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 12:25:32 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011126072532.20853.00000917@nso-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 25035

In article <397bbd8f51b96b2316bcffd9a718cad7.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>, "K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net> writes:

>The opinion of N2EY seems to be......
>
>>Just because a thing has not yet been discoverd does not mean it does not >>exist. Go back around 200 years, and your argument could be applied to >>electronic communications (nobody has ever done it, so it must not exist).
>
>Electronic communications did not exist in 1801, at least not on this >planet.

Exactly. The concept of it, and the methods of making those concepts practical, hadn't been demonstrated in 1801.

KE8HH's logic is that if something hasn't been demonstrated, it cannot exist. That's simply not correct.

Sorry if I was a bit vague there.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2090. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 12:25:32 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011126072532.20853.00000916@nso-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 25036

In article <3C01DC8F.7A504C46@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Dick Carroll wrote:
>> I'll repoeat, when a large percentage of society views it as wrong it >> is a moral issue and thus a part of the mores of that society. Basic >> psychology, not advanced.
>
>I'll bet you love the mores of the society that circumcises little
>girls.

Is it OK to do it to boys but not girls?

>The US has individual rights defined by The Constitution
>to protect us from people like you.

All of those rights are subject to change. All it takes is for a large percentage of society, through their elected representatives, to amend the Constitution.

In addition, the interpretation of the Constitution is determined by a very small group of judges. Rights rise and fall on their decision. For example, abortion was illegal practically everywhere until 1973, when a single judgement of the Supremes struck down existing laws and established a "right of privacy" for those seeking abortions and wiped out the "right to life" of those being aborted.

The Constitution ain't carved in stone, Cecil.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2091. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 12:25:33 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011126072533.20853.00000918@nso-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 25032

In article <3C01E024.DE18FF84@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>>
>> I think Cecil means that they >> believe ALL Catholics and Mormons
>> are going there, regardless of >> how they live their lives.
>
> LOL. I know what Cecil was saying, Jim. My point is that there are a >lot of judgemental people in all religions.

Agreed. There are also those who have all sorts of mistaken ideas about Catholics and members of the LDS church, and the beliefs of same.
>
>> Catholics and Mormons are >> Christians, btw. All of them.

> For the intent of the discussion here, my name selection was just >fine - you knew which I was talking about, didn't you?
>
Just wanted to be clear.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2092. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 13:13:14 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <KdrM7.1741$m%.527643@monger.newsread.com>
Source record: 25039

Amen Brother! Preach it to the masses!

Ryan

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3BFE52A2.BC9AED37@IEEE.org...
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > To help balance the views, Kim. We wouldn't want things to lean too far > > to the left.
>
> Leaning in the direction of freedom is definitely not leaning to > either the left or the right. The liberal left is generally for > social freedom and against economic freedom. The conservative right > is generally for economic freedom and against social freedom.
> Note that both are anti-freedom is certain areas. Libertarians > are for both social and economic freedom, i.e. freedom in general.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2093. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 13:13:16 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <MdrM7.1742$m%.527285@monger.newsread.com>
Source record: 25040

Oh, I know that..... I just thought it would be funny if we all sent a whole bunch to ya, just to see what happens to the message traffic along the way. I am sure there are some mega-prudes (people who like to control others actions of course) on the NTS as well as here.

Ryan

"Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> wrote in message
news:3bffadc1_1@newsa.ev1.net...
> Hello, Ryan. Well, I know you submitted with tongue-in-cheek, because I've > always stated (and it's true) that my callsign is no distraction to > responsibly-minded individuals on the air.
>
> I have participated in NTS; have served as net control on NTS nets; have > participated in public service events; have served as net control in public > service events; have been the voice of training for Hunt County ARES nets
> and, a couple years back, nets for a group we named TRADES; and the list > goes on. My callsign has been no problem--in fact never even been mentioned > after the fact--on any kind of net. I am sure that those who disagree with > it just leave the matter alone and disregard it, and those who do find humor > or whatever, in it, know that nets are not the time.
>
> In fact, responsibly-minded people see it as nothing more than a callsign, > and one that has a great deal of "conversational value" off the air, for > those eyeball get-togethers!
>
> Believe me, the comments made here are made here only. :)
>
> Kim W5TIT
>
>
> "KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
> news:3LJL7.438$9d.140537@newshog.newsread.com...
> > Just had an interesting thought there Kim..... what if we had a bunch of > > people generate message traffic TO YOU (with your call obviously). Can
> you > > imagine what people might do within the NTS??? Definitely prove or > disprove
> > the alleged comments made here. Just a though I had.
> >

> > Ryan KC8PMX
> >
> > >
> > > You must be the "silent majority" because the majority of people I
> > encounter
> > > over my callsign have no problem with it at all. And, a "silent > majority"
> > > is either a) a secret society, or b) useless.
> > >
> > > Kim W5TIT
> > >
> > >
> >
> >
>
>

2094. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 13:37:07 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9ttgfp01iji@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25041

"Jeffrey Herman" <jeffreyh@Hawaii.Edu> wrote in message
news:9tsilc$n0u$1@news.hawaii.edu...
> Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
> >A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be > >prevalent among may ham radio operators.
>
> Out of our 600,000+ members, what percentage display those > characteristics, Rick? If say, you've counted 60,000, that > would be just 10%. Is ten percent "a tremendous amount"?
> (Do you even know 60,000 hams???)

That's as may be, but there is an old experiment my English teacher once showed us. He had a plain, white piece of paper, (standard 8 1/2 x 11 inches) and marked it with a black dot, about the size of a dime. He asked the class what they noticed about the paper. Everyone said they noticed the black dot. He then pointed that we didn't notice the white area, or that the other side was still blank, or even the shape or size. The first thing they saw was a black dot that stood out from the rest of the paper.

Even if 5% or 1% of hams are racist or bigots, they are like that black dot that stands out. People will notice this before anything else. People will base their judgements on this.

> (I wish you folks would preface your comments with "IMO"
> so that the non-hams reading this NG know you're not in any > way stating facts but rather opinions...)
>
> 73, Jeff KH6O

Most postings on this, or any other newsgroup, are just that - opinions.

2095. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 13:42:46 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9ttgqc01j2p@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25042

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C01D1CD.844EDB10@IEEE.org...
> > I know that most women would view it as vulgar.
>
> Have you polled most women, Dick?

Only in his dreams.

2096. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 13:59:23 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tthpg01jvn@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25044

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tsiu7evq0@208.206.142.78...
>
>
> Krell wrote:
> >
> > "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> > news:9ts759dps0@208.206.142.78...
> > > You're nuts. Such activity as a formal part of Christianity went out
> >
> > Formal? It's still practiced by the KKK and Rev. Phelps of godhatesfags.com
>
>
> Oh really?? They advocate their death and total destruction?

That's seems to be the impression one gets from their doctrines and beliefs.

> > The Bible, Koran, and the Book of Mormon have all been twisted by fanatics > > to suit their own ends. It continues to be done today. Islam, as practiced > > by Arab countries is not a religion. It is a politcal system. This is not > > what true Islam is all about.
>
>
> So you'll be glad to pass that message along to the hundreds of > thousands of radical Islamic fundamentalist schooltrained terrorist > Jihadists - and all their more "moderate" cheerleaders - so that we can > cancel the current war and just all get along, right?

Telling you something is like pouring water on a rock - it just doesn't sink
in.

2097. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 14:05:51 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tti5k01kcg@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25043

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C01EE7C.BFEE1355@IEEE.org...
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > So you'll be glad to pass that message along to the hundreds of > > thousands of radical Islamic fundamentalist schooltrained terrorist > > Jihadists - and all their more "moderate" cheerleaders - so that we can > > cancel the current war and just all get along, right?
>
> Where are you getting those outrageous numbers, Dick? There are not > even "hundreds of thousands" of soldiers in the combined armies of > the Taliban and al Qaeda.
>
> Are you advocating the murder of millions of Muslims in order to > kill a few thousand terrorists?
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

Cecil, since you're a Libertarian, you might have a subscription to Liberty magazine. Sarah McCarthy has an interesting article in the December issue. I share her views completely on this issue. Her article, "Rage Now!" advocates total retaliation without even bringing religion into the picture.

Dick, however, doesn't see things this way.

2098. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 14:10:15 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9ttidt01l1u@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25046

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C01D4E4.29ED6E43@IEEE.org...
> Krell wrote:
> > With the strict control the LDS has over that state, it's surprising
that > > any such theatres exist at all.
>
> LDS is against caffeine but they own Pepsi and put caffeine in them.

That probably only applies to church members. Even Jews sell pork to goyim.
They just don't consume it themselves.

2099. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 14:12:58 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9ttij201leu@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25047

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011125232032.25429.00003458@nso-fc.aol.com...
> What I do recall about the film is that the best set of breasts I saw > was on the girl I was with!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

Yet, you don't think it's right for a word meaning "breasts" to be viewed by the rest of the world via an amateur callsign. What a hypocrite!

2100. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 14:22:25 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9ttj4m01m57@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25101

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
news:9ts7u8etc1@208.206.142.78...
> > > Ah, poor Baby!!!! For you history started with restructuring. Take your > > > pacifier quietly, now!
> >
> > The score for the damage to amateur radio is as follows:
> >
> > Dick's attitude - 98
> > Kim's callsign - 1 (the only damage being those hams that have complained > > about it, but they really don't count)
>
>
> The only damage is to your fragile code-phobic psyche and that doesn't > count.

Umm...What does my opinion of code have to do with Kim's callsign and your attitude?

2101. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 14:23:24 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011126092324.22712.00001887@mb-mj.aol.com>
Source record: 25045

>Subject: Re: Radio Policy
>From: Dwight Stewart stewartx@sccoast.net
>Date: 11/25/2001 11:32 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C01D3B3.C197B4C5@sccoast.net>

>I'm not willing to write a blank check to >allow the government, or the military, to do whatever they want - even >in a situation like this.

And neither is Congress....witness the inclusion of sunset requirements in many of the "emergency" acts being implemented. Congress will ahve to at least revisit and re-vote on many of these acts for them to continue. And I agree.

>However, after enough of these little >inconvieniences, the people wake up to realise they have nothing left.

It's been that way for years, and much of it has been imposed on us by agencies OTHER than the government....However the Government has it's own peculiarities.....

I recieved a letter Saturday from the Agency in Ohio that oversees my son's child support. The letter was postmarked November 19th, dated November 19th, and in the text it advised me that there "would" be an administrative hearing to review the present amount on October 29th, but that it was not necessary for me to attend...

Thankgoodness, too, cuz my free pass in the Time Tunnel expired on November 18th.

>That's why, in my opinion, >anybody who messes with those rights, no matter how slight or how >little the inconvienience, had better have a damn good reason before >they do. And I want to know exactly what that reason is

I agree, but I also acknowledge that there are times when "debate" over such actions is incompatable with imminent need. Therefore I have no problem with the implementation of certain restrictions and limits as long as there are reasonable time constraints from the onset.

>Now, if you want to call that >"whining," then so be it. I, on the other hand, would call that being >a good citizen.

There's a difference between the bonafide interaction of the citizen in the process of the government and those who just whine. I know the difference.

73
Steve, K4YZ

2102. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 14:43:47 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C025523.C561E1CA@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25048

N2EY wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
>
> They DO? How do you know, Cecil?

Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2103. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 14:46:06 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0255AE.C6284AF4@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25049

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > You have admitted that a lot of the Morse coded Liberty Net folk > > obtained their licenses before a 11m CB band existed. It follows > > that CB has nothing to do with the mess on 75m contrary to what > > you asserted earlier.
> >
>
> I said no such thing. I said they were licensed before the Grate Dumb
> Down.

You agreed that a lot of them are my peers who were licensed before 11m CB even existed which contradicts virtually everything you have ever said about the subject. Nobody believed you anyway.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2104. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 14:47:59 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C02561F.A7F2D9A5@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25050

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > Yada,yada,yada.....you and your Pal Cecil always have your story worked > > > out in intricate detail well in advance.
> >
> > That's a characteristic of telling the truth, Dick.
> > You should try it sometime.
>
> Yeah, right! so how many times have we caught you changing the story in
> a later rendition.....

Not changing, Dick - just adding details. That, of course, doesn't include my tongue-in-cheek humor which you invariably fall for.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2105. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 15:10:28 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C025B64.CCE107D5@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25102

N2EY wrote:
> That would be a good idea if prostitution were a victimless crime. But it's > not.

Exactly what is the real difference between a one night stand (legal) and paying for a one night stand (illegal)? Prostitution is an economic contract between two consenting adults. There is no victim unless adultery is committed and those victims are caused by the adultery, not by the prostitution. Blaming adultery on prostitution is like blaming armed robberies on guns.

Years ago I was single and doing consulting engineering in Korea. One night this lovely lady knocked on my door and said she had been sent by one of the firms with which I had placed an order. She was my commission. I had the night of my life, she got to spend a rare night with a gentleman, and earned her living doing what she was best at.
It was perfectly legal. Exactly who was the victim?

> How many people are locked up for prostitution, vs. violent crimes? You're > saying we would have plenty of space, Cecil, so you must know the numbers.

One estimate I read on the web is that 1/3 of all prisoners committed victimless crimes. One prisoner got more prison time for possession of one marijuana cigarette than a serial child molester got for his string of multiple broken lives. Do you think that's right?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2106. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 15:14:55 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C025C6F.F31FD526@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25103

Krell wrote:
> Cecil, since you're a Libertarian, you might have a subscription to Liberty > magazine. Sarah McCarthy has an interesting article in the December issue. I > share her views completely on this issue. Her article, "Rage Now!" advocates > total retaliation without even bringing religion into the picture.

I'm not sure what she meant by "total". If by total retaliation, she means eliminating the threat, I agree with her. We can minimize the threat of terrorism without genocide against a billion innocent people.

> Dick, however, doesn't see things this way.

Dick apparently desires to commit genocide against Muslims. That's what some Muslim terrorists want to do to us. Dick is just like them.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2107. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 15:18:22 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C025D3E.B4BAED66@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25104

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > I'll repoeat, when a large percentage of society views it as wrong it > > > is a moral issue and thus a part of the mores of that society. Basic > > > psychology, not advanced.
> >
> > I'll bet you love the mores of the society that circumcises little > > girls.
>
> You really like to lose, don'te you?

You are so hung up on the mores of society, Dick, I thought I would show how mores can be just as evil as anything else.

> > You and your mob can go to > > hell.
>
> You're doing a pretty good job of showing the way.

"Here's A Quarter, Call Someone Who Cares".
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2108. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 15:22:51 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C025E4B.3B7CB1E7@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25105

N2EY wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> >I'll bet you love the mores of the society that circumcises little > >girls.
>
> Is it OK to do it to boys but not girls?

I don't believe it's OK to do it to either sex. Did you see Woody Allen's movie where he demanded his foreskin back from his parents?

> >The US has individual rights defined by The Constitution
> >to protect us from people like you.
>
> All of those rights are subject to change. All it takes is for a large > percentage of society, through their elected representatives, to amend the > Constitution.

Takes 2/3 of the states to do that avoiding the tyranny of a small majority.

> The Constitution ain't carved in stone, Cecil.

It ain't perfect but it will do until something better comes along.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2109. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 15:38:16 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0261E8.4508E37F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25106

Dick Carroll wrote:
> And nowhere did I ever suggest that all Muslims should be > sanctioned,much less nuked. I did suggest that all Muslims-those who are > serious about their religion- are potentially a problem in that they may > harbor latent tendencies to suddenly get religion and follow Allah's > dictates to destroy the Evil Infidels.

Let's, for the sake of argument, say you are right about all Muslims.
What actions do you propose to take? Please be specific. If you don't advocate killing or jailing all Muslims, what is your purpose in stirring up hatred for all Muslims?

> Cecil, when are you going to read what's there? Ever? I advocate that > we defend ourselves from genocide foisted upon us by a substantial > percentage of the Muslim population.

So if you don't advocate killing them, exactly what are you advocating?
Please be specific.

> Worldnews on satellite TV (fromCanada) is a good > source, BBC America another, Fox News also good. Evidently you pay > attention only when it fits your agenda.

I don't get any of those news services.

> > Dick, you want to murder millions of peace-loving, law-abiding Muslims > > to be sure you get a handful of terrorists. What you advocate IS terrorism.
>
> Either you are blind or a ignoramus. I advocate no such thing. I > advocate striking the snake at its head, not coiling it in your lap.

Are you going to give us a parable or spell out some details? Exactly what do you propose to do?

> You would just let things be while you worry about your "right" to > dabble in illicit substances until it's too late to stop. If you don't > believe that it's a serious threat its because you are in denial.

I don't believe you are capable of a posting without a diversion.
Unlike you, I believe in jailing or killing all the few thousand terrorists, Dick, not all one billion Muslims.

> Well, we know of 19 that were successful on Sept 11. So how much havoc > do you expect 10,000 could manage, assuming you are correct, which you > are not?

I advocate going after and neutralizing or killing, all the terrorists.
I believe we can do that without murdering a billion Muslims. You, apparently do not share my view. Your goal is to get every non-Muslim to hate every Muslim. Toward what end? You are no better than the terrorists. They hate all Christians. You hate all Muslims.

--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2110. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 15:42:48 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0262F8.42AA4CCC@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25107

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Cecil, a travelling salesman? Wow! Pity the poor customers.

My customers awarded me so much business (at 8% commission) that I had to transfer to California as a Project Engineer to manage the projects that I had sold. I designed so much of the digital electronics, they later transferred me to R&D.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2111. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 15:44:53 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C026375.5B86CBCD@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25108

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > There is virtually no homosexual behavior in the animal kingdom.
> >
> > You've got to be kidding, Dick. Just yesterday, my female dog > > mounted my niece's female dog and started humping. Any farm boy > > will tell you that homosexual behavior is rampant among domestic > > animals. So is cross species stuff like ducks and chickens.
>
> Nonsense. Animals have no awareness of sex.

Guess that's why none of them ever reproduce, eh? There is not one other person on this newsgroup who agrees with you, Dick. You seem to be the only ignorant one this time.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2112. Updated web pages

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 17:02:47 UTC
From: Charles Johnston <ctj92@cableone.net> Message-ID: <3c0275b7$1@news.bnb-lp.com>
Source record: 25109

Added a Q Signals page to my site. The full list can also be downloaded as either a text file or MS Word document file.....

Web site listed below....

--

73 / DX

Charles T Johnston
Prescott, Arizona - U.S.A.
charles@ab7sl.com

AB7SL - Ham Radio Pages Official W9INN Antennas Page
www.ab7sl.com

2113. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 17:07:37 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0272E5.25F9BD94@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25110

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 03:28:59 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >That isn't necessarily the case, Rick. This is just your pet theory.
> >There are plenty of studies which do not agree with the information > >you've set forth.
>
> Ok, then cite them directly. I provided the source for my > information (the US Department of Justice). Care to do the same or is > it hard to cite vaporware?

Wish you'd stop snipping relevant portions, Rick. It isn't clear from your edit what it is that I'm in disagreement with. Did you read from my statement that the portion of your claims with which I disagree are the Department of Justice figures?

> > You haven't even given us a percentage of our poor, > >suffering and incarcerated souls who are in for possession of marijuana > >use. Just what percentage of U.S. prisoners are incarcerated for > >possessions of small amounts of marijuana?
>
> From the NORML website:
>
> "Marijuana prohibition needlessly destroys the lives and > careers of literally hundreds of thousands of good people each year in > this country. More than 700,000 Americans were arrested on marijuana > charges last year, and more than 5 million Americans have been > arrested for marijuana offenses in the past decade. Almost 90 percent > of these arrests are for simple possession, not trafficking or sale.
> This is a misapplication of the criminal sanction that invites > government into areas of our private lives that are inappropriate and > wastes valuable law enforcement resources that should be focused on > serious and violent crime"

Heh, NORML is a group advocating the legalization of marijuana.

> From the DoJ:
>
> "In 2000, there were 1,579,566 drug arrests in the US. Of > those, 46.5 percent -- 734,497 arrests -- were for marijuana. There > were 646,042 arrests for simple possession of marijuana in 2000."

This does not address convictions nor imprisonments.

> From Bartol, C. (2002). Criminal Behavior: A psychosocial > approach. Upper Saddle River, NJ: Prentice-Hall.:
>
> "In 1998, 1.56 million people were arrested nationally either > for the sale and/or manufacture or possession of illegal drugs . . .
> During that same year, an estimated 417,000 jail inmates or 70 percent > of all inmates in local facilities had committed a drug offense or > used drugs regularly."

Sale and manufacture? You have a problem with those people being arrested? The book certainly does not make clear what percentage of the 417,000 jail inmates it speaks of are there for a drug offense. It simply states that they had committed one or that they use drugs.

> Next question?

Where's the beef?
>
> >You seem to have lots of "facts" at your disposal. I especially love > >the one about Moscow being safe until the end of the Cold War. Do you > >have any idea why? One of our embassy staff was out in the city one > >night in the '80s. He got drunk and stumbled into a canal. His life > >was saved by his KGB "tail".
>
> Actually, in Moscow, a citizen would probably be served more > quickly by the Moscow Militia, or the NKVD, the civilian branch of > state security.

Actually, his tail was KGB. He wasn't a citizen.

> Do you really think that if a member of the Russian embassy
> staff in Washington during the cold war had fallen into a river he > wouldn't have been seen to do so by his FBI tail? Perhaps he wouldn't > have saved him--but he WOULD have seen him fall.

I don't care. What was your reasoning behind making your statement in the first place?

> >Did you know that private ownership of handguns is permitted in Finland?
>
> Sure. Want to tell us how easy it is to get a permit to carry > one concealed, as is common in the US?

Is there a secret? Tell us.

> >Did you also know that you have a national I.D. card and that is > >necessary to provide the police with your new address when you move?
>
> From the US Selective Service Registration Form (MB2):
>
> "Failure to register is a felony and may result in up to > $250,000 in fines, up to 5 years imprisonment or both. . . Once you > register, the law requires you to keep Selective Service informed > within 10 days of your address change."

I'm not subject to the draft. Neither is my wife. Are you? Is Kim? Is Cecil? Try again.

> Not much difference I can see--except that 5 years sounds like > a bit more severe punishment than would be the case there.
>
> >Did you know that a yearly licensing fee of about $600 is imposed in > >order to watch the color TV you buy and that roving electronic > >eavesdropping patrols can come to your house and sieze your TV if you > >haven't paid the fee.
>
> Do the words "Personal Property Tax" ring a bell here in the > states?

I don't pay personal property tax on a TV. The tax is not a personal property tax. It is a use tax. If you never have your set turned on, you'll never have it siezed.

> >Prostitution is illegal in Finland (as I believe I mentioned earlier).
>
> So? It's illegal here, too. Remember that it was the > Netherlands that I cited as the freest nation in the world--why not > try to cite some arguments about THAT nation?

I'm not the individual claiming that legalized prostitution makes a nation more free. You cited Finland, among other nations, as being more free than the U.S.

> Incidently, since you ARE citing Finland, care to tell us the > penalties for sodomy, adultery, homosexual sexual activities, personal > use (not sales) of marijuana, and being openly gay in the military?

I don't have the slightest idea. I did not try to state anything I did not have firsthand knowledge of.

> Oh, I forgot, there ARE no penalties for those acts in > Finland, are there?

My guess would be that you have no more idea than I do.

> >So is the possession of marijuana. Finnish prisons now house the dutch > >manager of a touring rock band for bringing drugs into Finland as well > >as one stupid American girl who brought 15 lbs. of heroin into the > >country.
>
> Er, Dave,
>
> Smuggling 15 lbs. of heroin or other drugs into a nation isn't > exactly the same as simple possession. Care to tell us how long the > girl received as a sentence (in the US that quantity would guarantee > life w/o parole due to mandatory minimum sentencing laws)? Better yet, > tell us how many citizens are incarcerated for simple possession of > marijuana--the drug offence you BEGAN this sentence with.

I believe her sentence was was 13 years. I provided the information in addition to information about marijuana being illegal. I know that those found to possess marijuana are arrested. I'll ask my wife if she knows how many are incarcerated.

> >The Nordic prison systems are very enlightened though. During the late
> >'90s, one Danish fellow was released from his Danish prison for a > >"holiday". He came to Finland, robbed a hotel and killed a Finnish > >policeman. Maybe we could institute a "holiday" system too.
>
> We have one--it's called "work release."

Violent criminals are not provided "work release".

> >If we have more violent crime than other first world countries, we need > >additional space for those who commit the crimes. It would seem that > >there are those who don't know how to handle the freedoms we have and > >who always push for just a little more.
>
> Violent crime isn't an attempt to push for more freedom, Dave, > it's a crime against people. And if we started addressing the causes > of crime (poverty, racism, a lost drug war, etc.) instead of building > more prisons perhaps we WOULDN'T have more violent crime than other > first world nations in the first place.

Some folks become violent simply because it is as much a part of their genetic makeup as sexuality. There are some just plain evil people loose. As far as addressing the root causes, I believe there are numerous groups along with government addressing those very issues.

Dave K8MN

2114. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 17:08:36 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C027343.47119E1D@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25111

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > If we have more violent crime than other first world countries, we need > > additional space for those who commit the crimes.
>
> We would have plenty of space if we didn't lock up people
> for victimless crimes, e.g. prostitution.

You might have a case if everyone believed as you do. Most folks don't.

Dave K8MN

2115. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 17:10:24 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0273AC.2B79ACDE@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25112

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > >
> > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > > I'm surprised at how ignorant you are of human psychology.
> > > >
> > > > Probably no more surprised than I am at your inability to comprehend a > > > > simple English language sentence.
> > >
> > > I comprehended it much better than you realize.
> >
> > That simply can't be if you come back translating the sentence as > > something entirely different than what I wrote.
>
> It's easy to read between the lines, Dave.

Why, you'd have to be a fool to believe that.

Dave K8MN
```

2116. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 17:12:05 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C027411.75CC95C8@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25113

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > It may remain one of the > > mysteries of your lives and I hope it provides an opportunity for you to > > fritter away hours. Good luck in your quests.
>
> It's absolutely no mystery, Dave. You have already provided the answer.

I've provided no information whatever. It is up to you to divine the information from the facts at your disposal. Oh, there aren't any?
Darn the luck!

Dave K8MN

2117. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 17:16:08 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C027502.D0B45EDB@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25114

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > >
> > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > They are views based on unthinking feelings, Dave. That is the > > > > least reliable way to arrive at a rational conclusion. I'm glad > > > > your mob is not large enough to enforce your whims.
> > >
> > > Does the name "Custer" mean anything to you, Cecil?
> >
> > Are you threatening me with a massacre? I'm a little better > > armed than Custer was.

The "mob" you refer to is society. You're outnumbered and outvoted pardner.

Dave K8MN

2118. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 17:19:15 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0275BB.5036EB54@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25115

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > The Church is all of Christianity.
> > > The church is a building.
> >
> > My unabridged dictionary doesn't > > have an entry for "Church".
>
> Yes it does, Cecil. Look in the guide about capital letters at the > beginning of a word - lower case when talking about something in > general and upper case when talking about a specific. Therefore, > "Church" would suggest a specific church (a Catholic Church, the > Catholic Church, etc), while "church" is talking about nothing > specific (a building, church in general, etc). You know that.
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

Sure he does but he'd prefer to play games.

Dave K8MN

2119. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 17:22:41 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C027687.5FAF6413@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25116

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > Sure it is, Cecil. You've obviously lived in places with a higher > > percentage of bigots.
>
> Not just lived, Dave. I used to be a traveling salesman covering > Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas.

Yeah, I know. I waved at you twice while you were passing through Shreveport but you must not have seen me. I think I saw you pass through the Tupelo area too while I was visiting my former in-laws. I hope you've taken steps to correct your vision.

Dave K8MN

2120. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 17:34:49 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C027953.E74613F6@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25117

CAM wrote:
>
> N2EY wrote:
> >
> > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> > >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
> >
> > They DO? How do you know, Cecil?
>
> Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.

Brilliant! Of course there's the part where they'd have to be online, would have to be aware of newsgroups, would have to find this particular newsgroup and would have to be interested in a mild sort of way in amateur radio in order to start reading it.

I think we may have another Sherlock Holmes on our hands.

Dave K8MN

2121. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 17:37:25 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <p5vM7.198527$3d2.8380017@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 25118

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011126072530.20853.00000913@nso-cc.aol.com...
> In article <wIbM7.128739$WW.8061618@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
> "Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:
>
> >> Yea, verily.
> >>
> >> Regale them with Tom Lehrer's "National Brotherhood Week" for a real
> >show-stopper.
> >>
> >> 73 de Jim, N2EY
> >
> >We have already had the discussion about how good songs turn into hymns.
> >What you may have been exposed to as Jesus Loves the Little Children is
the > >tune to God Save Ireland. Our army used it in a little ditty that started > >out, "In this land of dopey dreams, happy peaceful Phillipines."
> >
> Yup.
>
> But we have barely scratched the surface of true commentary/novelty/parody > songs. Particularly the written-for-the-purpose stuff like Tom Lehrer and Monty > Python ditties ("Every Sperm Is Sacred", "The Philosopher's Song", and of > course "The Lumberjack Song".
>
> Didja know that if you take Neil Diamond's hit "September Morn" and
replace the > words "September Morn" with "Internet Porn", and make a few other minor changes
> the song still works, although with a somewhat different meaning?
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>

I do want to keep my job. Are you familiar with Lou and Peter Berryman???

2122. Re: K1MAN webpage.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 18:01:41 UTC
From: old one-eye <andryne3333@hotmail.com>
Message-ID: <9svM7.6852$Kc2.766424@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 25119
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

It's a good site if your into reading self-gratification by a commensurate mental patient with an ego the size of the State of Montana who likes to QRM existing QSO's with his redundant bullshitcasts..

I do encourage a look at the webpage however.
An excellent example of ham radio at it's "best".
(this being a retard - hire the handicapped, their fun to watch)

"N0VFP, Lloyd" <lloyd_vfp@msn.com> wrote in message
news:e1bb06a74f973f91732f3ab8815a96bd@spamfreenews.com...
> This is a very good site......
>
> http://www.carte.net/k1man/sites.htm
>
>
>

2123. Re: K1MAN webpage.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 18:06:11 UTC
From: old one-eye <andryne3333@hotmail.com>
Message-ID: <nwvM7.6873$Kc2.769802@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 25120
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

From the ARRL Letter, Vol. 18, # 27, July 9, 1999

FCC queries K1MAN on control op's whereabouts
The FCC wants to know who was the control operator and where he or she was when it visited the station of Glenn Baxter, K1MAN, in Belgrade Lakes, Maine, in mid- May and failed to find Baxter or anyone else on the premises. As FCC Attorney for Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth, K4ZDH, announced at the Dayton Hamvention, FCC engineers from the Commission's Boston office unsuccessfully attempted to inspect Baxter's station while it was on the air May 14 and again the following day. They reported that the station was transmitting, but facilities appeared to be locked and no one was around.

Hollingsworth wrote Baxter June 25 to formally inquire into the circumstances of the May visits.
He also asked if K1MAN employed station automation equipment and if the station ever was remotely controlled.

The FCC says that during its first attempt to visit K1MAN, on the morning of May 14, 1999, K1MAN was transmitting on 3.975 MHz. FCC personnel say they were unable to find anyone"either at Baxter" s station at the tip of Long Point or at his nearby residence"and, according to Hollingsworth's letter, "there were no vehicles on the premises."

"The radio transmissions continued while the FCC personnel went to your residence at Point Road, but there was no one present there either," Hollingsworth wrote. The next day while K1MAN was on the air, Hollingsworth wrote, "FCC personnel again attempted to inspect your station but there was no one present and there were no vehicles."

In addition to the name, address, and telephone number of the control operator on those two occasions, the FCC also wants to find out where the control operator was and at what times, and on what frequencies, K1MAN transmitted on May 14 and 15, 1999.

Hollingsworth also asked Baxter to list the name, address and telephone number of all control operators of K1MAN during the hours of operation listed on Baxter's Web site and in his daily transmissions. He also inquired if any portions of K1MAN transmissions automated, and, if so, to provide details and a copy of the control circuit.

In addition, Hollingsworth asked Baxter to list the programming schedule for K1MAN for the period of January 1, 1998 through June 1, 1999, "and provide the dates, times and frequencies," as well as the name address, and telephone number of the control operator for each of those transmissions.

The FCC also wants to know if automated tape control devices were utilized at K1MAN during the period January 1, 1998 to June 1, 1999, and, if so, on what dates, times, and frequencies.

Hollingsworth's letter also asks Baxter to list all dates, times and frequencies that K1MAN has transmitted without a control operator being present since the inception of the license term on October 17, 1995.

Finally, the FCC said it wants to know if K1MAN has been controlled remotely since the inception of the license term on October 17, 1995, and, if so, on what dates, times, frequencies. Hollingsworth's letter also requested a "detailed schematic of the control circuit configuration."

The FCC letter gave Baxter 30 days to provide the requested information.

BELGRADE LAKES, ME: The FCC's Riley Hollingsworth wrote Extra licensee Glenn A. Baxter, K1MAN, June 25, after FCC engineers from the Commission's Boston office unsuccessfully attempted to inspect Baxter's station while it was on the air May 14 and again the following day. The FCC engineers reported that the station was transmitting, but facilities appeared to be locked and no one was around during both attempted visits. The FCC says that during its first attempt to visit K1MAN, on the morning of May 14, 1999, K1MAN was transmitting on 3.975 MHz. FCC personnel reportedly were unable to find anyone--either at Baxter's station at the tip of Long Point or at his nearby residence--and, according to Hollingsworth's letter, "there were no vehicles on the premises." Among other things, the FCC wants to know the name, address, and telephone number of the control operator on those two occasions, where the control operator was and at what times, and on what frequencies, K1MAN transmitted on May 14 and 15, 1999. The FCC also asked if K1MAN has been controlled remotely since the inception of the license term on October 17, 1995. The FCC letter gave Baxter 30 days to provide the requested information.

2124. Re: Airmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 18:07:28 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gnexo92.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 25121

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 22:44:36 GMT, BH wrote:

>> What is or was the purpose of this rule? [97.11]
>>Is it to prevent other non ham radio operators from getting on >>a ham band by mistake?

>I think the rule applies to amateur (non-type accepted) equipment >and not the installed comms on board the aircraft or ship. The >installed comms can be operated on the ham bands by a qualified >operator, but if amateur equipment is installed, it must be >according to the rule below.

No, the "installed" in the Rule applies to "commercial" gear installed on the vessel/aircraft for compliance with marine or aviation safety rules. The idea is that this equipment is dedicated to and provided for that task, and not for any other purpose, even if it tuned through the ham bands.

That question came up quite often on shipboard where the operator stood an 8-hour watch. If s/he wanted to work ham radio while off-watch, separate ham band apparatus was required.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

2125. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 18:22:27 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C028863.639568CE@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25122

Dave Heil wrote:
> Brilliant! Of course there's the part where they'd have to be online, > would have to be aware of newsgroups, would have to find this particular > newsgroup and would have to be interested in a mild sort of way in > amateur radio in order to start reading it.

Why do you think that potential hams would not be interested in ham radio newsgroups?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2126. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 18:25:34 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C02891E.C3774AF@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25123

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > It's easy to read between the lines, Dave.
>
> Why, you'd have to be a fool to believe that.

Wiggle, wiggle, wiggle. Are you denying being a Homo sapien, Dave? Reading between the lines is as easy as predicting that you breath air.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2127. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 18:26:35 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C02895B.97F17E82@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25124

Dave Heil wrote:
> I've provided no information whatever.

Keep up those delusional thoughts, Dave.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2128. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 18:28:43 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0289DB.9AB1D7F9@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25125

Dave Heil wrote:
> The "mob" you refer to is society. You're outnumbered and outvoted > pardner.

That matters not a whit while I still have the protection of my bodyguard, The US Constitution.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2129. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 19:08:45 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C02933D.2AEE1E5F@uci.edu>
Source record: 25126

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 21 Nov 2001 11:37:10 -0800, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
> wrote:
>
> >Rick Adams wrote:
> >> Nothing Cecil has said in this newsgroup would even remotely
> >> lead to a diagnosis of obsessive/compulsive--and I _am_ a > >> diagnostician!
> >>
> >Doh!
>
> I still stick by that statement.

Incuding his own statement to the contrary? Wow. I'd have to conclude that your experience in discussing topics with him is apparently somewhat limited.

2130. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 19:20:36 UTC
From: k0hb@qwest.net
Message-ID: <b7c5262e.0111261120.6b9651e1@posting.google.com>
Source record: 25127

"Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> wrote in message news:<3bff4c4f_1@newsa.ev1.net>...
> "Hans Brakob" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
> news:74351f51ce66c5eb65293fe2012446f8.15732@mygate.mailgate.org...
> > "Kim-W5TIT" wrote:
> >
> > > > Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
> > >
> > > Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
> > >
> > > Larry
> > > Dick Carroll
> > > Richard McCollum
> > > Hans (I'm not sure though)
> > > Dave Heil
> >
> > Kim,
> >
> > I've never called you ignorant, bigoted, or any other defamatory or > > denigrating personal characteristic. To my knowledge I have never met > > you or had any opportunity to know you. Therefor, I wouldn't have the > > audacity to label you as such.
> >
> > I am of the sincere opinion, however, that you have chosen a trashy > > vanity callsign. Expressing that opinion reflects on your choice, > > not on your character.
> >
> > Your decision to label me (or any of the other four on your list, for > > that matter) as an "ignorant bigoted ham" based on having civilly > > expressed my opinion, speaks volumes about your personal integrity, > > however.
> >
> > Hans, K0HB
> >
> >
>
> The approach, with you, wasn't from the angle of my callsign. It was from > other stuff I've seen posted from you.
>
> Kim W5TIT

Please point out to me instances on which you base your defamatory appellation "bigotted". Have you ever seen me post ANYTHING voicing an intolerant attitude toward any group or person based on race, gender, religious affiliation, or similar characteristic?

Your personal integrity is on the line on this one, and nothing short of a specific public apology to me and others you have named will restore your credibility as a responsible individual.

de Hans, K0HB

2131. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 19:30:36 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B80E2A1CE34A3121.0E7E78DB627D6776.BFD08550BCBEBD60@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25128

On 26 Nov 2001 03:21:04 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> German society did no such thing, Professor Nutty. Hitler's goons >decided that for one and all, after they had decieved the German >polulation and maneuvered the Nazi party into dictatorial power.

Deceived the population, Dick?

Mein Kampf was published in the 1920s (Volume one in 1924) and became the best selling book in Germany (in one year alone it sold over 1,000,000 copies). In that book, Hitler outlined EVERYTHING he planned--the invasion of Poland, Russia, and France; the establishment of an "Aryan" state in which only aryans would be in power; destruction of the Jews, Gypsies, and other "inferior" races (his term). He made absolutely no bones about the kind of nation he intended to create--or about the practices that would exist within it.

More, most of the right wing parties completely supported his attitudes towards Jews, etc. Among those groups were the trade unions, the military, and most of the groups opposing the communists in Germany.

Read Mein Kampf or The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich someday if you want to actually _understand_ what happened in Germany.

>> You claim that society is the fair source of guidelines. Those >> were theirs. Do you accept THEM as valid and acceptable--or do you >> feel you would oppose those "guidelines" if they were imposed on you?
>
> If you are really that much of a fool, I feel pity foir you.

Want to try answering the question instead of pontificating,
Dick?

> If society DOES have the >> legitimacy to set the guidelines for us all (as you claim) then it has >> the right to set ANY guidelines for behavior it chooses--whether you >> agree with them or not.
>
> Nope. I have the right to persuade my fellows in society of the >justness of my views, just at anyone does in a free society.

Two points:

1. No claim that it was only "free" society that could set rules was made--the statement was that society did so. Try your "persuasion" in Communist China or a South American dictatorship and see how successful it is.

2. I didn't ask if you had the right to persuade others to change their views--I asked if society has the right to SET guidelines for any behavior it wishes (as was claimed)--as usual you avoided the question.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2132. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-26 20:16:56 UTC
From: uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org
Message-ID: <ff37aa44.0111261216.2503cb4b@posting.google.com>
Source record: 25129

yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT) wrote in message
news:<20011120215926.27773.00002961@nso-fo.aol.com>...
> Fully half the people I work with are women, and
> within the confines of the workplace, I have many interesting > conversations with them. However, these are not exclusive, one-on-> one meetings at Starbucks or anywhere else. That would not be > appropriate behavior, since most of these women are married, and > I am engaged in an exclusive, monogamous relationship with a > woman myself. Such meetings are inherently inappropriate unless > the mates of both parties are physically present and mutually > involved. I don't believe that the kind of loyalty and commitment > to such a relationship has any room in it for "friendly" intimate > meetings such as that. If one has such commitment, then he or > she must not take any action which would even give the appearance > of an outside relationship.

Larry, I thought your ideas about Kim's call sign were a bit odd, and I really thought you were defending them a bit more than was actually needed, but this is ridiculas.

Not trust my wife because she had lunch with another man? Think that it's only appropriate to see another woman when her spouse is with her?

This all harkens back to a time when men thought they owned women.

Or worse, you feel you can't trust your wife when she's with another man?

No wonder you aren't married. If a woman I was seeing was so insecure that she couldn't trust me alone with another woman, I'd know she wasn't a woman I'd want to marry.

Insecure. I hate to say it, because it sounds insulting, but Larry, this idea that you're insecure certainly seems realisitic when one applies it to your hatred of Kim's call sign.

Geez, Larry. If you can't trust the woman you marry, who can you trust?
And why would you marry her if you can't trust her? Those women out there who "don't understand" -- they probably do understand. They just reject your beliefs as being either too insecure or too old fashioned. I doubt
I know anyone -- my mother included -- who'd agree with you.

Sheesh.

Sean.

2133. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 00:22:40 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <k1BM7.130282$WW.8221079@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 25130

"K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
news:b7c5262e.0111261120.6b9651e1@posting.google.com...
> "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> wrote in message
news:<3bff4c4f_1@newsa.ev1.net>...
> > "Hans Brakob" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
> > news:74351f51ce66c5eb65293fe2012446f8.15732@mygate.mailgate.org...
> > > "Kim-W5TIT" wrote:
> > >
> > > > Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
> > >
> > > Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
> > >
> > > Larry
> > > Dick Carroll
> > > Richard McCollum
> > > Hans (I'm not sure though)
> > > Dave Heil
> > >
> > > Kim,
> > >
> > > I've never called you ignorant, bigoted, or any other defamatory or > > > denigrating personal characteristic. To my knowledge I have never met > > > you or had any opportunity to know you. Therefor, I wouldn't have the > > > audacity to label you as such.
> > >
> > > I am of the sincere opinion, however, that you have chosen a trashy > > > vanity callsign. Expressing that opinion reflects on your choice, > > > not on your character.
> > >
> > > Your decision to label me (or any of the other four on your list, for > > > that matter) as an "ignorant bigoted ham" based on having civilly > > > expressed my opinion, speaks volumes about your personal integrity, > > > however.
> > >
> > > Hans, K0HB
> > >
> > >
> >
> > The approach, with you, wasn't from the angle of my callsign. It was from > > other stuff I've seen posted from you.
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
>

>
> Please point out to me instances on which you base your defamatory > appellation "bigotted". Have you ever seen me post ANYTHING voicing > an intolerant attitude toward any group or person based on race, gender, > religious affiliation, or similar characteristic?
>
> Your personal integrity is on the line on this one, and nothing short > of a specific public apology to me and others you have named will restore > your credibility as a responsible individual.
>
> de Hans, K0HB

If I bothered to think about it, I would probably ask for exactly the same information/apology.
So I will.

Dick N&#65533;BK

2134. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 00:50:10 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C02DD44.5327D432@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25131

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > Brilliant! Of course there's the part where they'd have to be online, > > would have to be aware of newsgroups, would have to find this particular > > newsgroup and would have to be interested in a mild sort of way in > > amateur radio in order to start reading it.
>
> Why do you think that potential hams would not be interested in ham > radio newsgroups?

Not all potential hams know that they are potential hams. Next year's ham may not even have heard about ham radio yet. The other points I made are valid, Sherlock.

Dave K8MN

2135. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 00:54:34 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C02DE49.6DFBFAD@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25132

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > It's easy to read between the lines, Dave.
> >
> > Why, you'd have to be a fool to believe that.
>
> Wiggle, wiggle, wiggle. Are you denying being a > Homo sapien, Dave? Reading between the lines is > as easy as predicting that you breath air.

No, I've never denied being part of the human race. Neither have I denied eating pork. Of course I haven't admitted eating pork. Had I not given you the hint about eating turkey, you'd have not known whether I was a vegetarian. Your work is cut out for you. I think you'll have your best luck trying to contact those who have had meals in my home or those who have eaten meals in restaurants with me. We haven't eaten many meals out since our return and we haven't done much entertaining so I suggest you begin your search with the city of Dar es Salaam phone book beginning under the letter "A".

Good luck on your quest!

Dave K8MN

2136. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 00:59:38 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C02DF74.14AD0EC4@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25133

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > The "mob" you refer to is society. You're outnumbered and outvoted > > pardner.
>
> That matters not a whit while I still have the protection of my > bodyguard, The US Constitution.

You are the individual who wants numerous laws changed. You are the libertarian who will not live to see a libertarian as a chief executive of this country. You little "L" libertarians should take the hint after watching throuncing after throuncing of big "L" Libertarian (or even libertarian) candidates for national office. There aren't many in the U.S. who'd vote your way. What do you think is the reason?

Dave K8MN

2137. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 01:35:17 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tuqjg02gp2@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25135

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C02DF74.14AD0EC4@earthlink.net...

> libertarian) candidates for national office. There aren't many in the > U.S. who'd vote your way. What do you think is the reason?

Easy. Most people are sheep that believe whatever the media tell them.

2138. Is this rec.radio.cb or what?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 01:43:32 UTC
From: nevagaveadamn@aol.com Message-ID: <20011126204332.10752.00001607@mb-mi.aol.com>
Source record: 25134

Looks just like it.

2139. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:19:30 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tut7i$f9n$0@208.206.142.65>
Source record: 25136

```
Krell wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > news:9tsiu7$evq$0@208.206.142.78...
> >
> >
> > Krell wrote:
> > >
> > > "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> > > news:9ts759$dps$0@208.206.142.78...
> > > > You're nuts. Such activity as a formal part of Christianity went out
> > >
> > > Formal? It's still practiced by the KKK and Rev. Phelps of > godhatesfags.com
> >
> >
> > Oh really?? They advocate their death and total destruction?
>
> That's seems to be the impression one gets from their doctrines and beliefs.
>
> > > The Bible, Koran, and the Book of Mormon have all been twisted by > fanatics > > > to suit their own ends. It continues to be done today. Islam, as > practiced > > > by Arab countries is not a religion. It is a politcal system. This is > not > > > what true Islam is all about.
> >
> >
> > So you'll be glad to pass that message along to the hundreds of > > thousands of radical Islamic fundamentalist schooltrained terrorist > > Jihadists - and all their more "moderate" cheerleaders - so that we can > > cancel the current war and just all get along, right?
>
> Telling you something is like pouring water on a rock - it just doesn't sink
> in.

You might want to look into a mirror when you say that. You've just described yourself.
```

2140. Old Germanium Transistors Needed please!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:33:29 UTC
From: synchromusic@compaq.net
Message-ID: <5dc5f3d3.0111261833.1b1bb404@posting.google.com>
Source record: 25137

Hi I'm looking for the following germanium transistors to make some repairs to some old fuzztones:
OC81D,OC75, OC76,OC44,OC71,AC125,AC126, and NKT275.
Looking for NOS European but used is OK too! Please e-mail me and let me know what you have. Thanks in advance.

2141. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:33:35 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tuu1vhmt0@208.206.142.65>
Source record: 25138

CAM wrote:
>
> > Well, we know of 19 that were successful on Sept 11. So how much havoc > > do you expect 10,000 could manage, assuming you are correct, which you > > are not?
>
> I advocate going after and neutralizing or killing, all the terrorists.
> I believe we can do that without murdering a billion Muslims. You, > apparently do not share my view. Your goal is to get every non-Muslim > to hate every Muslim. Toward what end? You are no better than the > terrorists. They hate all Christians. You hate all Muslims.
>

I'm beginning to despise fools who insist I say things I have never said.
Do you plan to just assume that any Muslim who says he is not really a follower of his religion is thus automatically benign? Do youor do you not believe it is a fact that we have allowed thousands of "risks" to settle into the USA anonymously, and that an unknown number of them are now living among us, ready to act at will? What the hell do you think I'm talking about? Wiping out all Muslim women and children, just because they're Muslim? Kindly show where I said anything even close to that, otherwise you are a senile old fool who can't get anything striaght.

2142. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:35:09 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tuu4thmt1@208.206.142.65>
Source record: 25139

N2EY wrote:
> The Lumberjack Song".
>
> Didja know that if you take Neil Diamond's hit "September Morn" and replace the > words "September Morn" with "Internet Porn", and make a few other minor changes
> the song still works, although with a somewhat different meaning?

Gee, imagine what you could do with "Cracklin' Rosie".

2143. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:37:29 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <J%CM7.199014$3d2.8428398@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 25140

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tsdkt$12q$0@208.206.142.78...
>
>
> K0HB wrote:
>>snip>>
>> Electronic communications did not exist in 1801, at least not on this > > planet.
>
>
> But electromagnetic radiation did.

And we prove it by the fact that plant life (and we) exist.

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim

2144. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:40:42 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c02fde1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25142

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011125232030.25429.00003455@nso-fc.aol.com...
> In article <3c013ca4_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >> If the selection was limited to the likes of you I wouldn't be, either.
> >
> >Oh, believe me, you have that right.
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Yes, Kim, Dick did, indeed, have that right!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Is there an echo online? Of course he has that right. There is NO way in Hell I'd find him attractive to the likes of me! For once, you're both right.

Kim W5TIT

2145. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:44:24 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tuum8jbg0@208.206.142.65>
Source record: 25141

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > > There is virtually no homosexual behavior in the animal kingdom.
> > >
> > > You've got to be kidding, Dick. Just yesterday, my female dog > > > mounted my niece's female dog and started humping. Any farm boy > > > will tell you that homosexual behavior is rampant among domestic > > > animals. So is cross species stuff like ducks and chickens.
> >
> > Nonsense. Animals have no awareness of sex.
>
> Guess that's why none of them ever reproduce, eh? There is not one > other person on this newsgroup who agrees with you, Dick. You seem > to be the only ignorant one this time.

You really don't get it, do you? I wouldn't say it's universal across all species, but generally animals have no awareness of sex, instead they are stimulated sexually almost exclusively by pheremones emitted by the opposite sex at estrus, mating time. If not, they wouldn't reproduce. They usually have no ongoing interest in the opposite sex, in fact many never go near the opposite sex other that at rutting time when the pheremones are flowing. Some males even kill and eat the opposite sex and their own offspring, if they can (bears in particular). Often animals in captivity, such as in zoos, never reproduce or engage in sexual activity and show no interest in sex.

You have a masters degree and much of a Phd and don't know that???

2146. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:53:11 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c0300ce_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25144

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011125232030.25429.00003454@nso-fc.aol.com...
> In article <3c013962_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >
> >Sure they do! If they are that offended, and there is nothing they can do > >about my callsign, they can choose another hobby. And, I challenge that I > >want to be vulgar, and I also challenge your notion that most women would be > >offended by my callsign. I can't imagine a kid having the capability to be > >offended by a callsign. If they are aware of tits in a derogatory light,
it > >wasn't me who taught it to them. The same could be said, I suppose, for
the > >adults. I didn't teach you, Dick, that the word tit is a derogatory > >term--who did?
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Kim:
>
> The word "tit" is not derogatory, just a vulgar and inherently offensive > way to refer to a woman's breasts.
>

Larry:

The word tit is not offensive to scores of women I know, and I probably have known far more than you. I know of no woman who refers to her tops as breasts or mammaries. We all call them tits. We call all you guys' thangs dicks.

>
> This term is used when one > intends to deliberately demean and depersonalize a woman through
> the reference to secondary sexual characteristics which the viewer > finds attractive, in exception to or exclusion of all of the other personal > qualities she possesses as a woman, and as a human being.
>

Where do you come up with your Puritan crap? No wonder you think the word tit (which, by the way is not my callsign, my callsign is W5TIT, phonetically Whiskey Five Tango India Tango) is offensive! Could you please 'splain to me what "secondary sexual characteristics" tits can have? Tits serve two purposes. They can nurse babies or men, or woman if the owner of the tits is prone to that persuasion. We have to cover our tits and you men have to cover your dicks. Know why? They "mean" sex to many people. I know of no primary purpose for tits other than nursing and sex. So, if there's no primary, what is your definition of a "secondary sexual characteristic"?

> Most
> modern women are personally offended by those who judge and value > her primarily for the size, shape, and general attractiveness of her > breasts.
>

Uh, Larry. What the Hell would you know about a modern woman? Puhleeze. You're still looking for some virgin who believes that her man should tell her how to live!

> Men who do this are quite rightly criticized for this, yet you
> not only deliberately encourage such behavior, you actively solicit it > through your selection of a callsign.
>

And I think whomever criticizes a man or woman for calling a spade a spade or a tit a tit is looking for far more attention than I have time to give! I am not soliciting a damned thing from anyone, Larry. I call my tits tits and always have. I call my, well....never mind. Just be glad I don't have the callsign W5PSY.

> In so doing, you not only bring
> the ARS ".one step closer to extinction," you also set back all the > societal gains made by women in the last century, and bring about a > return to their objectification as mere sexual playthings. Is that > really how you see yourself?
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Nope. I don't see myself that way, Larry. Only people like you are capable of such arrogance. I don't think I have the slightest bit of power you relay to me. We women are mere playthings, always have been and always will be. That's why we are so darned good at everything else we do. We do it well and we can still come home and "take care" of our man. But, now we're on a subject to which you cannot relate, and is so far beyond your reach that you have to dream up ways to have power over women. Ha!

Kim W5TIT

2147. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:54:22 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c030115_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25146

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011125232031.25429.00003457@nso-fc.aol.com...
> In article <3C01422C.6DE3BF71@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
writes:
>
> >
> >Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> >> Where do you, Rick, Cecil, and the rest of the no-coders/pro-TIT'ers > >> get the idea that anyone's "general behavior" on this newsgroup -- > >> including yours -- could be detrimental to the ARS? This newsgroup > >> is NOT ham radio -- it is merely about ham radio.
> >
> >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
> >You, personally, have offended more potential hams than Kim will > >during the rest of her life.
>
> Cecil:
>
> What makes you think it is I who is offending them?
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Ummmmmmmmmmmmmm, Larry. If I am ruining ham radio, then you are offending people. That's pretty darned simple to figure out.

Kim W5TIT

2148. Re: Twistedhed: Illegal CBer

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:55:43 UTC
From: JR <radiobuf@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3C02483F.E6178359@mailcity.net>
Source record: 25143

Now don't go confusing the cber, I know it's easy to do.

CAM wrote:
>
> IllegalCBersMustGO wrote:
> > Everyone knows amps on 11 meters are illegal.
>
> Would you believe that every CB radio has a > built-in amp?
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2149. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:56:30 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c030195_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25147

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011125232031.25429.00003456@nso-fc.aol.com...
> In article <3c013f4c_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >> The world is full of double standards; this is just one of them, and > >> a pretty reasonable one, at that. Grow up and stop whining just > >> because participants in this newsgroup get to call things like they > >> see them -- at your own self-inflicted expense.
> >>
> >> 73 de Larry, K3LT
> >>
> >
> >heh heh heh No expense here, at all, Larry, I assure you. OH, and as to > >the double-standards comment? You know, the one where you appear to be > >quite willing to accept them? Accept my callsign. :)
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Kim:
>
> I have no choice but to accept your callsign. I have stated many times > that your callsign is your responsibility alone -- and you are also > responsible for the fact that you are taking the ARS "...one step > closer to extinction" by having chosen it. The whole shebang is totally > on your head alone -- and you're the only one who can rectify the > situation. If you choose not to, you merely provide all the proof > necessary that you are a person of poor taste and judgment, and > leave yourself open to the criticism of those who find it offensive.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Ya know what, Larry? You've just provided me with all the evidence I need that you are not serious about your objection to my callsign at all--you just get your rocks off by pushing that message. LOL

One must feel they are responsible for something in order to feel criticism, Larry. I don't.

Kim W5TIT

2150. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:58:41 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tuvh1jbg1@208.206.142.65>
Source record: 25145

CAM wrote:
>
> N2EY wrote:
> >
> > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> > >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
> >
> > They DO? How do you know, Cecil?
>
> Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.

You'd be surprised how many people including hams never heard of
usenet.
When you tell them about it and how to download the 60,000 groups, and that you must download ALL of them, most decide they want nothing to do with it.

2151. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 02:59:00 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c03022b_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25148

^5. ROFLMAO!!

Kim W5TIT

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:0E8B445B014F3F73.A9A3A1BB9AAEB986.BF8953714CA1CF93@lp.airnews.net...
> On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 21:12:40 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
> wrote:
>
> >I didn't find the response about your balls, Dick?
>
> I guess he didn't have enough of them to answer, Kim.
>
> Rick
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2152. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:02:25 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c0302eb_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25149

Jeff:

I know you're smarter than that. The percentage of any measurement can only be made against the field sampled. Of the ham radio operators I listen to in the Dallas area, I'd say at least 50% of them are prejudiced or bigots.

Your example would even be "OK" if we knew, of those 600,000, how many don't even operate.

Experience is that a tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism "seem" (note the operative word there) to be prevalent in ham radio.

Kim W5TIT

"Jeffrey Herman" <jeffreyh@Hawaii.Edu> wrote in message news:9tsilc$n0u$1@news.hawaii.edu...
> Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
> >A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be > >prevalent among may ham radio operators.
>
> Out of our 600,000+ members, what percentage display those > characteristics, Rick? If say, you've counted 60,000, that > would be just 10%. Is ten percent "a tremendous amount"?
> (Do you even know 60,000 hams???)
>
> (I wish you folks would preface your comments with "IMO"
> so that the non-hams reading this NG know you're not in any > way stating facts but rather opinions...)
>
> 73, Jeff KH6O
>
> --
> Telecommunication Specialist Mathematics Lecturer
> U.S. Coast Guard University of Hawaii System
> jherman @ d14.uscg.mil jeffreyh @ hawaii.edu

2153. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:10:51 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c0304ed_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25150

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C01D6D8.1DBC72FC@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > SHHHHHHhhhhhhh!!!! I was pretty certain > > Dick--you know the one who's read the > > book and now he knows all about the > > Muslim faith--was going to have to look
> > that one up, and then recover from the > > shock that he's condemning a faith that > > subscribes to the thought that a > > Christian Jesus is regarded as a > > prophet. :)
>
>
> Opps, sorry about that. I thought you were just asking a general > question. Warn me next time (e.g. "nobody else answer").
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

:) Right now, I have many more posts to go...but still haven't seen a response from Dick on this one. But, I also haven't seen a response from Dave on a long response I made to him. And, I haven't seen a response...well, you know, the list goes on!

Kim W5TIT

2154. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:13:18 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c030583_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25152

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tslfa$l4p$0@208.206.142.78...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> > > >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
> > > >You, personally, have offended more potential hams than Kim will > > > >during the rest of her life.
> > >
> > > What makes you think it is I who is offending them?
> > >
> > Your bigoted postings even offend me, Larry, and I have a > > thick skin.
> >
>
> So does an onion.

BWAAHAHAHHHAhaaaaaahhahahhahaha!!!! Is that why the nickname for tracing paper is onion skin? OHMYGAWD...ROFLMAO

Kim W5TIT

2155. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:16:57 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9tv0j9nsm0@208.206.142.65>
Source record: 25151

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > It's easy to read between the lines, Dave.
> >
> > Why, you'd have to be a fool to believe that.
>
> Wiggle, wiggle, wiggle. Are you denying being a > Homo sapien, Dave? Reading between the lines is > as easy as predicting that you breath air.

Oh, for you but for no one else? Just as I thought.
```

2156. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:17:27 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c030670_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25153

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tsm6o$n4g$1@208.206.142.78...
>
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
> >
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > SHHHHHHhhhhhhh!!!! I was pretty certain > > > Dick--you know the one who's read the > > > book and now he knows all about the > > > Muslim faith--was going to have to look
> > > that one up, and then recover from the > > > shock that he's condemning a faith that > > > subscribes to the thought that a > > > Christian Jesus is regarded as a > > > prophet. :)
> >
> > Opps, sorry about that. I thought you were just asking a general > > question. Warn me next time (e.g. "nobody else answer").
>
>
> Well just for THE RECORD Mohammad considered and discounted Jesus long > before his own death, and proclaimed himself to be the Final Prophet, > which remains Muslim doctrine to this day.

Uh huh. Yeah. And, exactly, what book are you reading that from?

Kim W5TIT

2157. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:28:44 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c030919_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25154

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011126072530.20853.00000912@nso-cc.aol.com...
> In article <3bffadc1_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >I have participated in NTS; have served as net control on NTS nets; have > >participated in public service events; have served as net control in public > >service events; have been the voice of training for Hunt County ARES nets > >and, a couple years back, nets for a group we named TRADES; and the list > >goes on.
>
> That's nice, Kim. I've done the NTS thing, too - all the way up to Area level.
>
> > My callsign has been no problem--in fact never even been mentioned > >after the fact--on any kind of net. I am sure that those who disagree with > >it just leave the matter alone and disregard it, and those who do find humor > >or whatever, in it, know that nets are not the time.
>
> Everyone knows the nets are not the time. So the lack of comment simply means > that those who are offended don't compound the problem by mentioning it during
> the net.
>

You may choose to think of it that way. I choose to believe that people just don't have a problem with it. We have lots of get-togethers around here, and I've never been approached negatively (oooops, except from one ham) about my callsign.

> In addition, it's obvious that you won't voluntarily change it, so there's no
> point in on-air mention of the issue.
> >

Your knowledge that I am adamant about not changing it is due to your reading it so often from me here in the newsgroup. Knowledge of my feelings about changing it aren't all that known because of discussions I've had either on the air or at get-togethers. My callsign just isn't a point of discussion among hams around here--or at least not that I am aware of. And, if it is not important enough for them to express disapproval, then it's not important.

> >In fact, responsibly-minded people see it as nothing more than a callsign,
> >and one that has a great deal of "conversational value" off the air, for > >those eyeball get-togethers!
>
> Sems to me you define "responsibly minded people" as those who don't voice > objections.
> >

Well, that would be correct in terms of someone who does not express objections to a callsign during a net, wouldn't you?

However, I would also say someone is quite responsibly minded if they see my callsign for what it is. It is something meant for quiet fun on the air, and a all the kidding about it we want off the air, however there isn't all that much.

> >Believe me, the comments made here are made here only. :)
> >
> Because this is the appropriate place to do so.
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>

Uh, you don't know most of the hams around here. Some pretty darned inappropriate conversations take place on the air here on 2M daily. :)

Kim W5TIT

2158. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:30:53 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c030996_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25155

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011126072530.20853.00000913@nso-cc.aol.com...
> In article <wIbM7.128739$WW.8061618@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
> "Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:
>
> >> Yea, verily.
> >>
> >> Regale them with Tom Lehrer's "National Brotherhood Week" for a real
> >show-stopper.
> >>
> >> 73 de Jim, N2EY
> >
> >We have already had the discussion about how good songs turn into hymns.
> >What you may have been exposed to as Jesus Loves the Little Children is
the > >tune to God Save Ireland. Our army used it in a little ditty that started > >out, "In this land of dopey dreams, happy peaceful Phillipines."
> >
> Yup.
>
> But we have barely scratched the surface of true commentary/novelty/parody > songs. Particularly the written-for-the-purpose stuff like Tom Lehrer and Monty
> Python ditties ("Every Sperm Is Sacred", "The Philosopher's Song", and of > course "The Lumberjack Song".
>
> Didja know that if you take Neil Diamond's hit "September Morn" and
replace the > words "September Morn" with "Internet Porn", and make a few other minor changes
> the song still works, although with a somewhat different meaning?
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>

Here's one for ya...though I've never been able to test it:

Put the album "The Wall" on,
Put the movie "The Wizard of Oz" on,

On the third MGM lion roar, start "The Wall" and turn down the sound on the movie. I am told they both go along nearly perfect.

Kim W5TIT

2159. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:41:38 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c030c1c_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25156

"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:k1BM7.130282$WW.8221079@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
>
> "K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
> news:b7c5262e.0111261120.6b9651e1@posting.google.com...
> > "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> wrote in message
> news:<3bff4c4f_1@newsa.ev1.net>...
> > > "Hans Brakob" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
> > > news:74351f51ce66c5eb65293fe2012446f8.15732@mygate.mailgate.org...
> > > > "Kim-W5TIT" wrote:
> > > >
> > > > > > Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams?????????????
> > > > >
> > > > > Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
> > > > >
> > > > > Larry
> > > > > Dick Carroll
> > > > > Richard McCollum
> > > > > Hans (I'm not sure though)
> > > > > Dave Heil
> > > >
> > > > Kim,
> > > >
> > > > I've never called you ignorant, bigoted, or any other defamatory or > > > > denigrating personal characteristic. To my knowledge I have never met > > > > you or had any opportunity to know you. Therefor, I wouldn't have
the > > > > audacity to label you as such.
> > > >
> > > > I am of the sincere opinion, however, that you have chosen a trashy
> > > > vanity callsign. Expressing that opinion reflects on your choice, > > > > not on your character.
> > > >
> > > > Your decision to label me (or any of the other four on your list,
for
> > > > that matter) as an "ignorant bigoted ham" based on having civilly > > > > expressed my opinion, speaks volumes about your personal integrity,
> > > > however.
> > > >
> > > > Hans, K0HB
> > > >

> > > >
> > >
> > > The approach, with you, wasn't from the angle of my callsign. It was
> from > > > other stuff I've seen posted from you.
> > >
> > > Kim W5TIT
> >
> >
> > Please point out to me instances on which you base your defamatory > > appellation "bigotted". Have you ever seen me post ANYTHING voicing > > an intolerant attitude toward any group or person based on race, gender, > > religious affiliation, or similar characteristic?
> >
> > Your personal integrity is on the line on this one, and nothing short > > of a specific public apology to me and others you have named will > restore > > your credibility as a responsible individual.
> >
> > de Hans, K0HB
>
> If I bothered to think about it, I would probably ask for exactly the same > information/apology.
> So I will.
>
> Dick N&#65533;BK
>
>

You must have already missed your apology, Dick.

As to credibility, Hans, you've never given me any of that, so how shall I "win it back"?

Kim W5TIT

2160. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:45:29 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c030d04_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25157

```
"K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
news:b7c5262e.0111261120.6b9651e1@posting.google.com...
> "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> wrote in message
news:<3bff4c4f_1@newsa.ev1.net>...
> > "Hans Brakob" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
> > news:74351f51ce66c5eb65293fe2012446f8.15732@mygate.mailgate.org...
> > > "Kim-W5TIT" wrote:
> > >
> > > > Ten ignorant bigoted hams are MOST of 700,000 hams???????????
> > >
> > > Is there ten? I don't think there is, in the newsgroup. Let's see:
> > >
> > > Larry
> > > Dick Carroll
> > > Richard McCollum
> > > Hans (I'm not sure though)
> > > Dave Heil
> > >
> > > Kim,
> > >
> > > I've never called you ignorant, bigoted, or any other defamatory or > > > denigrating personal characteristic. To my knowledge I have never met > > > you or had any opportunity to know you. Therefor, I wouldn't have the > > > audacity to label you as such.
> > >
> > > I am of the sincere opinion, however, that you have chosen a trashy > > > vanity callsign. Expressing that opinion reflects on your choice, > > > not on your character.
> > >
> > > Your decision to label me (or any of the other four on your list, for > > > that matter) as an "ignorant bigoted ham" based on having civilly > > > expressed my opinion, speaks volumes about your personal integrity, > > > however.
> > >
> > > Hans, K0HB
> > >
> > >
> >
> > The approach, with you, wasn't from the angle of my callsign. It was
from > > other stuff I've seen posted from you.
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
>
```

>
> Please point out to me instances on which you base your defamatory > appellation "bigotted". Have you ever seen me post ANYTHING voicing > an intolerant attitude toward any group or person based on race, gender, > religious affiliation, or similar characteristic?
>

Haven't you been one of those who so wholeheartedly takes delight in the "dumbed down" ham experience? If not, then I am mistaken and I certainly apologize. If so, I find that a rather bigoted attitude, though your mileage may vary--as it has nothing to do with race, gender, religious affiliation, etc.

> Your personal integrity is on the line on this one, and nothing short > of a specific public apology to me and others you have named will restore > your credibility as a responsible individual.
>
> de Hans, K0HB

Hans, are you willing to say that you've ever given me any credibility to begin with? If not, then how would I win it back?

Kim W5TIT

2161. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:57:44 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c030fe8_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25164

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9tuvh1jbg1@208.206.142.65...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > N2EY wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> > > >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
> > >
> > > They DO? How do you know, Cecil?
> >
> > Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.
>
>
> You'd be surprised how many people including hams never heard of
> usenet.
> When you tell them about it and how to download the 60,000 groups, and > that you must download ALL of them, most decide they want nothing to do > with it.
>

Why?! It takes--maybe--10 minutes and that would be with a very, very slow connection. The browser can be set to "Catch Up" (IE; I don't know what its equivalent is on Netscape), so a lot of time doesn't even have to be spent with downloading the headers.

Then, there's also sites such as Google (formerly Deja). Don't know if there's any others.

It's just not that hard or time consuming.

Kim W5TIT

2162. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:59:41 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <E777E7E977F222AE.4F10C375DD104472.8051A47C96A6D557@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25163

On 26 Nov 2001 01:52:58 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

>> Great example of ham radio for young kids to emulate. Sort of >> like teaching your children about good government by apprenticing them >> to the Taliban.
>
>
> Well, if you're a lying, phony dumbass that's waht you'll be labelled.

Now, now, Dick.

That's a very harsh evaluation of yourself.

Don't be so hard on yourself.

You're just out of touch with the real world and stuck in the 20s. You're not a bad man--just an ill informed, rigid, and bigoted one.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2163. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:59:42 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <D21E2C5BB3DF33E6.16EBD794597AE7A0.C3FE08C55B135834@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25159

On 26 Nov 2001 01:51:27 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Well, I spent 5 years on active duty while you laid around on yoiur ass
>as a 4F. Nuff said.

How wonderful.

I spent two tours in SE Asia as a corpsman assigned to the 2nd Recon Marines. I have one lung and 15% hearing as a result of that tour and I was awarded a Navy Cross as well as two purple hearts and other more traditional decorations (check the Vietnam Veterans web page if you don't believe me--I'm listed). Maybe you can get away with claiming that Cecil doesn't have the right to speak (although I disagree completely--I didn't serve in the military to protect an elitist society), but you DAMN sure don't have the right to do so in my case.

I EARNED the right to criticize this country, Dick. By ANY medical opinion I've lost at least 10 years of my life from my wounds--and I DON'T accept Veterans benefits for them--I earn my own way. Don't like MY opinions, stuff them!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2164. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:59:42 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9C08DE6630CA7081.BF2AE79320912F22.B545E19E6401B8EE@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25162

On 26 Nov 2001 01:50:33 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> You're nuts. Such activity as a formal part of Christianity went out >with the Inquisition. In Islam it was clearly demonstrated September 11,
>and in numerous lesser but horrific incidents in the preceding decades.
>The widespread cheering in Islamic countries following the fall of WTC >was widely televised. Your know all this and choose to ignore it. Your >idiotic statements in the wake of what has happened in recent months >shows clearly for all to see what you truly are.

Dick, several years ago a man in Iron Mountain Michigan took his two sons to the iron foundry where he worked and threw them into the vat of molten iron because he believed it was his obligation to God. Obviously, he was wrong but equally obviously Osama ben Laden was as well. If you truly believe that Islamic religious beliefs are responsible for the deaths of the people in NYC, then you MUST accept that Christianity is responsible for the death of those children. And if we must fight Islam as a result, then it follows that we are equally obligated to ban Christianity in the US as well.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2165. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:59:43 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <BF867E1303CC203D.10CAC3FEC18728DD.9AA17D5FA840BB03@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25160

On 26 Nov 2001 00:49:55 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

>Try chapter 5 verse 33.
>
>

Nice try, Dick, but the Koran isn't divided into chapters.

Here's the fifth VOLUME of the Koran complete:

=======
SURA XCIV. THE OPENING [V.]

MECCA. 8 Verses

In the Name of God, the Compassionate, the Merciful

HAVE we not OPENED thine heart for thee?

And taken off from thee thy burden,

Which galled thy back?

And have we not raised thy name for thee?

Then verily along with trouble cometh ease.

Verily along with trouble cometh ease.

But when thou art set at liberty, then prosecute thy toil.

And seek thy Lord with fervour.
===========

Care to tell us what you're talking about--or cite the specific text you are referring to so I can search my own versions of the Koran?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2166. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:59:44 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <42D7EE0A2C7BFCD2.D1A8E7DDA825A0DB.03B43304D0007088@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25161

On 26 Nov 2001 01:09:14 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> If you consider the UN an inpatial source you are to be pitied.

Oh get off your "Black Helicopter" paranoia, Dick. The UN is as impartial as you can get when it comes to national organizations.

America just isn't as "perfect" as your brainwashed mind believes it to be--I know it's a shock to you, but there are some other nations with some pretty good ideas too.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2167. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 03:59:45 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <F4CCFE14ACF8FDEC.CC28C09249FBB33E.30627B07AF8921FD@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25158

On 26 Nov 2001 01:58:13 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> It isn't. There is virtually no homosexual behavior in the animal >kingdom.
>That's a figment of human homosexual supporters.

BULLSHIT!

Pick up ANY book on zoology and you'll find you are wrong. Of course, I'm sure you won't accept the word of scientists--it contradicts the word of your bigoted religious leaders--but it happens to be fact.

Look up the Bonobo Chimpanzees in any book available, the females are ALL bisexual, and the males engage in homosexual behavior whenever the opportunity presents itself. They're TYPICAL of the animal kingdom.

It isn't a "figment of human homosexual supporters" that animals display homosexual behavior, it's a delusion of homophobes and religious zealots that they don't!

>> BTW, over 96% of ALL child molestation is performed by >> heterosexuals (according to the Department of Justice statistics >> available at http://www.doj.gov), despite the fact that between 7% and >> 10% of our population is homosexual.
>
> So why do you compare apples and oranges? The two are not the same at >all and you should know it. Pedophiles are commonly heteros.

Excuse me?

The statement was made that we have to protect our children from homosexuals. If it isn't from molestation, what are we supposed to protect them from--exposure to an alternative view on morality?

Are you one of those idiots who believe that homosexuals
"recruit" straight kids into their lifestyle? Do you REALLY believe that all it takes is exposure to a gay experience to turn a straight into a gay? If so, then it must mean that homosexuality is BETTER than heterosexuality, something I don't happen to believe (as good, yes--better, no).

> It would seem that your >> insistence that we keep homosexuals away from our children would only >> result in increased levels of child sexual abuse--is that what you >> hope for?

>
> It would seem that you are still a blooming idiot.

Once again, instead of discussing issues you use put-downs.
You really ARE a loser aren't you, Dickie boy?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2168. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:02:37 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9tv36l0307s@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25170

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
news:9tut7i$f9n$0@208.206.142.65...

> > Telling you something is like pouring water on a rock - it just doesn't sink
> > in.
>
>
> You might want to look into a mirror when you say that. You've just > described yourself.

While I have advocated attacks on countries that support terrorism, I've never singled out Muslims as Dick has.

2169. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:08:34 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <17A80AA1704FAE52.C9EC46F066B9DA87.A6725897A005888A@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25165

On 26 Nov 2001 05:48:02 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Not at all. You clearly could have taken your Advanced and your CSCE
>for the Extra written to the April 15 VE session and your Extra license >was issued by the FCC on May 9. Simple enough.

Wake up, genius. It was _averaging_ over 40 days from test to issuance when the restructuring first came in--and my upgrade was dated 24 days after that date.

Try using you memory as well, Dick. If you can reach back that far, you'll remember that I not only was opposing your position on the change in code requirements before the change, but I pointed out more than once (in response to your accusations that I was in favor of no-code because I couldn't pass a test) that I already HAD passed my 20 WPM, remember? I even argued that I _could_ have had it waived due to my hearing loss, but chose not to do so--something I was complimented for by some and slammed for by others in this news group!

> Yada,yada,yada.....you and your Pal Cecil always have your story worked >out in intricate detail well in advance.

I don't know Cecil personally, Dick. But I _do_ agree with much of what he says--far more of what he voices makes sense than is the case for you.

>> There ARE no post-restructuring Advanced licenses, it was >> phased out at the time. If someone holds an Advanced ticket it's >> because he or she passed the test BEFORE the restructuring.
>
> Don't look now, but the nonsense didn't start after the Grate Dumb >Down.

Then your own statements are ridiculous and meaningless. Read the entire thread you're trying to respond to.

>> >> Sorry, Dick, but if you communicate on the air the way you do
>> >> on line (and if you don't all you are doing is showing disrespect for >> >> ham radio in another venue), YOU and your cronies are the people >> >> Hollingsworth warned us about!
>> >
>> > You are a horses ass whether on the air on the net. I didn't need to be >> >warned about the likes of you, your manner gives you away right away!
>>
>> Great example of what I'm talking about.

> Hey, man I didn't create you as a horses ass, you did that all on your >own.

And that just demonstrates how crude and ill mannered you are.
If that doesn't carry to on-the-air behavior it's because you don't have the courage to state your beliefs there as you do here.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2170. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:12:07 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <EDB9BD3EF67D75C7.A87C3525971D2B64.6B892F39E2D18AB9@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25166

On 26 Nov 2001 06:07:20 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Well just for THE RECORD Mohammad considered and discounted Jesus long >before his own death, and proclaimed himself to be the Final Prophet,
>which remains Muslim doctrine to this day.

Care to provide a cite, or is this more of the Dick Carroll school of ouija board knowledge?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2171. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:16:33 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0313A1.D00898FD@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25167

Dave Heil wrote:
> Not all potential hams know that they are potential hams.

That's obviously true. But there have been many potential hams asking questions about becoming a ham on this newsgroup using his personal computer. I have never heard a potential ham ask questions about becoming a ham over the air using his personal transceiver. :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2172. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:18:32 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C031418.65B3DD09@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25168

Dick Carroll wrote:
> You'd be surprised how many people including hams never heard of
> usenet.

Doubt it. Internet savvy people know about usenet and usually don't possess a transceiver. Hope that's not too much for you to comprehend.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2173. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:19:38 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03145A.ED5B0158@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25169

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> It's just not that hard or time consuming.

You've got to realize, Kim, that everything is hard for Dick, especially tying his shoelaces.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2174. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:23:14 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C031532.4680DDC0@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25171

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> > Well just for THE RECORD Mohammad considered and discounted Jesus long > > before his own death, and proclaimed himself to be the Final Prophet, > > which remains Muslim doctrine to this day.
>
> Uh huh. Yeah. And, exactly, what book are you reading that from?

Dick is reading stuff from radical Christian terrorist web pages.
In reality, Mohammed considered Jesus to be a great prophet although somewhat misguided with the turn-the-other-cheek stuff.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2175. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:24:28 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <0E08216FB16F54A9.167DB12D8CBFCC92.62F6966A32ABBC50@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25172

On 26 Nov 2001 12:25:30 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>In addition, it's obvious that you won't voluntarily change it, so there's no
>point in on-air mention of the issue.

Then precisely what is the point of mentioning it (over and over again, for that matter) here?

You, and others, expect the ARS to be treated with respect.
Great. I'm a ham as well. On the other hand, I'm ALSO a computer hobbyist who spends far more time on the Internet than on the air.
From my perspective, people like you, Dick, and Larry, who scream that the ham bands should be free of any form of bigotry, racism, or
"offensive" behavior are the worst kind of hypocrites! It's wrong in
YOUR hobby, but perfectly alright here where OTHERS are hobbyists!

If you don't like Kim's sign, then say so on the air. If you feel (as Dick and others do) that Islamic people are inferior, that their religion is inferior, or that minorities are losers who depend on affirmative action to provide them jobs they don't deserve then voice your opinions on the ham bands or shut the fuck up! You have no more right to fill the Internet with that moralistic, racist, or bigoted crap than you do to fill the ham bands with it. Either take it BOTH places or drop it completely.

Think about it.

>Sems to me you define "responsibly minded people" as those who don't voice >objections.
>>
>>Believe me, the comments made here are made here only. :)
>>
>Because this is the appropriate place to do so.

Bullshit!

This venue is no more appropriate than the ham bands. Who the hell gave hams the right to come into the Internet Usenet groups and post offensive material they wouldn't think of voicing in the ham bands? There are just as many children here as there are on the air--if you're so goddamn concerned with them then try practicing what you keep preaching in THIS venue too!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2176. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:26:09 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0315E1.F1B989ED@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25173

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Wiggle, wiggle, wiggle. Are you denying being a > > Homo sapien, Dave? Reading between the lines is > > as easy as predicting that you breath air.
>
> No, I've never denied being part of the human race. Neither have I > denied eating pork.

Yep.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2177. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:29:02 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03168E.9CE42AC8@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25174

Dave Heil wrote:
> You are the individual who wants numerous laws changed. You are the > libertarian who will not live to see a libertarian as a chief executive > of this country. You little "L" libertarians should take the hint after > watching throuncing after throuncing of big "L" Libertarian (or even > libertarian) candidates for national office. There aren't many in the > U.S. who'd vote your way. What do you think is the reason?

Ignorance.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2178. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:32:38 UTC
From: K0HB <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <5e9445dcf03d5b166315f01d00b1bb0b.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 25175

The opinion of Kim-W5TIT seems to be......

>Haven't you been one of those who so wholeheartedly takes delight in the
>"dumbed down" ham experience?

You simply don't pay attention, and apparently just willy-nilly apply insults like "bigotted". I have never used that term, or any similar related to the current licensing structure. Below is a copy of my comments to FCC on the NPRM which led to "restructuring". Does it strike you as support for the "old smart ways"?

Hans, K0HB

Before the Federal Communications Commission
Washington, DC 20554

In the Matter of) WT Docket No. 98-143
)
1998 Biennial Regulatory Review --) RM-9148
Amendment of Part 97 of the Commission's) RM-9150 Amateur Service Rules.) RM-9196
)
)

PERSONAL COMMENTS OF HANS BRAKOB, K0HB

OVERVIEW

These comments contain proposals on reducing the number of amateur radio operator license classes, and suggestions regarding Morse testing.

I. Discussion:

The NPRM proposes reducing the number of operator classes from six to four. This reduction would be accomplished by phasing out Novice and Technician Plus classes, leaving the remaining four classes in place. It is worthy of note that this plan would preserve the heart of the so-called "incentive licensing" plan which was implemented in 1968.

I believe that the effects originally expected of the incentive licensing scheme have not been realized in practice. There is little evidence that this scheme, now 30 years old, has produced any notable increase in the skills, operating excellence, advanced electronic techniques, or other tangible valuable difference between the operators in the various "non-entry-level" classes of licensee.

As a non-scientific but pragmatic experiment, tune a receiver to 14.350MHz. Close your eyes and slowly tune the receiver down across the 20M amateur radio band. Try to detect the "class boundaries" based on a difference in signal quality, better operating practices, or more advanced technical conversations. I think you will find no detectable difference as you transit across the frequencies which mark the boundary between General, Advanced, and Amateur Extra sub-bands. Thus it can be assumed that the expectations of the incentive licensing program (greater levels of technical and operating skill at higher license classes) have not been realized, and the incentive licensing plan can be safely abandoned as providing no significant benefit to the public interest, necessity, or convenience (PICON).

II Proposal:

A. License Classes:

If the interest of the FCC is (as stated in the NPRM) streamlining of the licensing structure, then I propose that the license classes be reduced to two classes, namely "Basic" and "Advanced".

The "Basic" license would have an entry-level test (basic regulations, safety, operating procedures, basic DC and AC electronics). Without CW endorsement this class would have full frequency and mode priveleges above 30MHz, power limited to 50W output.

The "Standard" license test would be of a difficulty level similar to the current Advanced class test, and would have full privileges above 30MHz at power levels up to 1500W.

B. Morse required for operation below 30MHz

Either license class could gain access to all MF/HF amateur radio frequency allocations (at 50W and 1500W respectively) upon passing a Morse test of 5WPM and gaining a "CW endorsement" for their operator license.

The Morse test should be "fill in the blank" or "1 minute of solid copy". Multiple-choice test formats should not be allowed.

C. Status of current licensees.

Current licensees should be redistributed as follows:

Current class	Converts to
Novice:	Basic CW Endorsed
Technician:	Basic
Technician+:	Basic CW Endorsed (Note 1)
General:	Standard CW Endorsed
Advanced:	Standard CW Endorsed (Note 2)
Extra:	Standard CW Endorsed (Note 2)

Notes:
1) "Old" Technicians (who took same written test as General and 5WPM) would be
"Standard" CW endorsed.
2) Current Advanced and Extra licensees could continue to have that class printed on their license in recognition of their previous status.

Respectfully submitted,

H. Hans Brakob, K0HB

--
Posted from mplsapanas11poolb158.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.20.158]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

2179. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:35:34 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C031816.AA70F341@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25176

Dick Carroll wrote:
> What the hell do you think > I'm talking about? Wiping out all Muslim women and children, just > because they're Muslim? Kindly show where I said anything even close to > that, otherwise you are a senile old fool who can't get anything > striaght.

You have said that every Muslim is a potential terrorist, Dick. You have said that Muslims have no choice except to kill Christians.
Exactly why would you be fomenting so much hatred of Muslims if you don't want them exterminated? You can't back down now. You have been advocating genocide.

I, OTOH, recognize that Muslim terrorists are a small fraction of one percent of Muslims. I say go after the terrorists, not the rest of the one billion Muslims who are peaceful and law-abiding.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2180. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:38:39 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0318CF.E87FD40C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25177

Dick Carroll wrote:
> You really don't get it, do you? I wouldn't say it's universal across > all species, but generally animals have no awareness of sex, ...

Dick, consciousness makes animals aware of sex. You do believe that animals are conscious, don't you? You are the only exception I know to animals being conscious.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2181. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:46:28 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <F43CEE277D37515B.663FD7FDD4316B4D.63E9B4AB07ADF1C8@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25178

On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 17:07:37 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Wish you'd stop snipping relevant portions, Rick. It isn't clear from >your edit what it is that I'm in disagreement with. Did you read from >my statement that the portion of your claims with which I disagree are >the Department of Justice figures?

Then remember what you said. Internet convention is to cut all material other than the specific material you are responding to directly, remember? I _do_ quote the preceding statement if, and only if, it is impossible to understand the quote I'm responding to without doing so.

>Heh, NORML is a group advocating the legalization of marijuana.

Yup. And the US Government is one opposing it. I guess NEITHER is a valid source of information.

>> From the DoJ:
>>
>> "In 2000, there were 1,579,566 drug arrests in the US. Of >> those, 46.5 percent -- 734,497 arrests -- were for marijuana. There >> were 646,042 arrests for simple possession of marijuana in 2000."
>
>This does not address convictions nor imprisonments.

Check out their website (http://www.doj.gov) and read the data for yourself. I've provided plenty to support my claims. Besides, if NORML isn't a legitimate source, the DoJ site isn't either. Guess that means there IS no valid source of information, right?

>> From Bartol, C. (2002). Criminal Behavior: A psychosocial >> approach. Upper Saddle River, NJ: Prentice-Hall.:
>>
>> "In 1998, 1.56 million people were arrested nationally either >> for the sale and/or manufacture or possession of illegal drugs . . .
>> During that same year, an estimated 417,000 jail inmates or 70 percent >> of all inmates in local facilities had committed a drug offense or >> used drugs regularly."
>
>Sale and manufacture? You have a problem with those people being >arrested? The book certainly does not make clear what percentage of the >417,000 jail inmates it speaks of are there for a drug offense. It >simply states that they had committed one or that they use drugs.

Depends on whether they are selling to minors or adults. To minors, yes--but I feel people belong in prison for selling alcohol or tobacco to children, too. To adults? No, I DON'T see that as a valid grounds for arrest--it is people's RIGHT to use those substances if they choose--just as it is their right to use alcohol or tobacco products, both of which are more addicting and harmful to the health than other recreational drugs.

>Where's the beef?

Between the buns.

>> Actually, in Moscow, a citizen would probably be served more >> quickly by the Moscow Militia, or the NKVD, the civilian branch of >> state security.
>
>Actually, his tail was KGB. He wasn't a citizen.

True--but we were talking about the rights of a citizen, not a non-citizen, remember?

If you want to include non-citizens, consider the fact that recent laws enacted thanks to the September 11 terrorist attacks allow the US to take foreign nationals into custody for an indefinite period (even if the INS does not believe there are any grounds to arrest the individual), to try him or her in a military tribunal instead of a court of law (and the tribunals do NOT have to allow even the measure of rights available under the UCMJ), and to execute him or her on a 2/3 majority decision with no appeal possible.

Compared to that being followed by the KGB is an exercise in freedom!

>> Do you really think that if a member of the Russian embassy >> staff in Washington during the cold war had fallen into a river he >> wouldn't have been seen to do so by his FBI tail? Perhaps he wouldn't >> have saved him--but he WOULD have seen him fall.
>
>I don't care. What was your reasoning behind making your statement in
>the first place?

That it paralleled exactly the situation YOU narrated in Moscow, of course.

>> Sure. Want to tell us how easy it is to get a permit to carry >> one concealed, as is common in the US?
>
>Is there a secret? Tell us.

Ok--unless you are a member of the militia, you CAN'T carry a concealed weapon.

>> From the US Selective Service Registration Form (MB2):
>>
>> "Failure to register is a felony and may result in up to >> $250,000 in fines, up to 5 years imprisonment or both. . . Once you >> register, the law requires you to keep Selective Service informed >> within 10 days of your address change."

>
>I'm not subject to the draft. Neither is my wife. Are you? Is Kim? Is >Cecil? Try again.

You asked for a national id card. I provided it. Next case.

>> Do the words "Personal Property Tax" ring a bell here in the >> states?
>
>I don't pay personal property tax on a TV. The tax is not a personal >property tax. It is a use tax. If you never have your set turned on, >you'll never have it siezed.

If you lived in several states in the US, you would be liable for an annual personal property tax--which WOULD include the value of your tv, etc. whether you used them or not. And again, this is an ECONOMIC issue--stop ignoring those of freedom.

>> So? It's illegal here, too. Remember that it was the >> Netherlands that I cited as the freest nation in the world--why not >> try to cite some arguments about THAT nation?
>
>I'm not the individual claiming that legalized prostitution makes a >nation more free. You cited Finland, among other nations, as being more >free than the U.S.

Are you arguing that lack of legal prostitution marks a nation as NOT free?

Fine--you just made my argument for me--the US is not a free country.

>> Incidently, since you ARE citing Finland, care to tell us the >> penalties for sodomy, adultery, homosexual sexual activities, personal >> use (not sales) of marijuana, and being openly gay in the military?
>
>I don't have the slightest idea. I did not try to state anything I did >not have firsthand knowledge of.

I'll help. All are legal.

>> Oh, I forgot, there ARE no penalties for those acts in >> Finland, are there?
>
>My guess would be that you have no more idea than I do.

Try working with facts instead of guesses--or at least researching issues before speaking. I stated that those were legal not as an opinion but as a statement of fact.

>> Smuggling 15 lbs. of heroin or other drugs into a nation isn't >> exactly the same as simple possession. Care to tell us how long the >> girl received as a sentence (in the US that quantity would guarantee >> life w/o parole due to mandatory minimum sentencing laws)? Better yet, >> tell us how many citizens are incarcerated for simple possession of >> marijuana--the drug offence you BEGAN this sentence with.
>
>I believe her sentence was was 13 years. I provided the information in >addition to information about marijuana being illegal. I know that >those found to possess marijuana are arrested. I'll ask my wife if she >knows how many are incarcerated.

Try -0-.

13 years is less than 1/4 of the sentence she would serve for the same offense in the US.

>> We have one--it's called "work release."
>
>Violent criminals are not provided "work release".

Really?

Tell that to the officials at Southern Michigan Prison (the largest walled prison in the world, btw). They do so.

Or how about sex offenders--the only reason "Megan's Law" became popular is the early release of a sex offender who later raped and murdered a girl in NJ.

>Some folks become violent simply because it is as much a part of their >genetic makeup as sexuality.

BULL.

That's pure nonsense. Ask ANY behavioral scientist about it and they will tell you it's an old wives tale without a single bit of evidence to support it--and a great deal of evidence to refute it.

Dave, I _TEACH_ Criminal Justice Psychology--telling me that is like telling a ham that radio works by making the air vibrate from my antenna to yours! It's utter nonsense and the mark of the uninformed person.

> There are some just plain evil people loose.

More nonsense.

Prove it or don't claim it.

> As far as addressing the root causes, I believe there are >numerous groups along with government addressing those very issues.

From a political/pork-barrel perspective. Not with any attempt to actually SOLVE the problems--it might not be comfortable politically.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2182. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:48:15 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <1C78AE1DB66BA18C.E5597E0A87831BEB.172013B39C92541E@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25179

On 26 Nov 2001 12:25:31 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>That would be a good idea if prostitution were a victimless crime. But it's >not.

A lot of people keep claiming that. Care to identify the victim?

>How many people are locked up for prostitution, vs. violent crimes? You're >saying we would have plenty of space, Cecil, so you must know the numbers.

He didn't limit it to prostitution, he stated "victimless crimes like prostitution." How many? Over 70% of all inmates. Don't believe it? Check the figures at the DoJ website or at the correctional association web site.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2183. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:49:53 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <77E5E5FCCFC8716E.1E4094517FDA162F.AE05C36FA45051B5@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25180

On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 17:08:36 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>You might have a case if everyone believed as you do. Most folks don't.

Is that supposed to make him wrong?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2184. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:53:45 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <BFB2B4227D21E5B3.D7C0B78F007632C5.D83D7D0909C07098@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25181

On 26 Nov 2001 04:20:29 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>If my callsign, and the phonetics you have constructed therefrom, >are truly a "danger to the ARS," then perhaps you should write to >Riley Hollingsworth and complain about it. He has already stated >that Kim's callsign has the potential to take the ARS "...one step >closer to extinction." If he says anything like that about my >callsign, then I will immediately take steps to change it to something >less offensive. Keep in mind that the phonetics I use for my >callsign are "Kilo Three Lima Tango," and my call letters, unlike >Kim's, don't spell out any recognizable word.

Larry, grow up!

Riley Hollingsworth is an expert on communications law. He is NOT an expert on morality, on the way in which social influences will impact on the ARS, or, for that matter, any more of an expert on the ARS (legal and enforcement issues aside) than you, Dick, me, or any other ham who has been on the air for more than a few months (I've been licensed since the mid seventies--and as I understand both you and Dick have been licensed longer than that). Hollingsworth is just like anyone else, Larry, he has opinions that he holds but his opinions are no more valid than anyone else's.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2185. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:57:22 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <DC86BF375B90AC31.C827AA44D761B32A.5855EB376386E6EF@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25182

On 26 Nov 2001 04:20:31 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I have no choice but to accept your callsign. I have stated many times >that your callsign is your responsibility alone -- and you are also >responsible for the fact that you are taking the ARS "...one step >closer to extinction" by having chosen it.

No, Larry, if that call sign takes the ARS "one step closer to extinction" it isn't Kim's fault for having chosen it--it's the FCC's fault for having ISSUED it.

There is no way that Kim is responsible for damage to the ARS
if her actions are ALL within the guidelines of the FCC regulations--and her's were. If Hollingsworth or anyone else is so convinced that her call is harmful, then it is up to them to convince the FCC to limit the range of available call signs, not to criticize Kim for acting in accordance with the law.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2186. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 04:59:30 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <1A7EA877217F328F.363625849C7957A8.3D676BEF89372E80@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25183

On 26 Nov 2001 04:20:31 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>What makes you think it is I who is offending them?

You, Dave, and Dick present a far worse image of hams here than Kim could do if she posted PICTURES of her tits instead of using TIT in her call sign!

I'm happy that the ARS has more of a range than the three of you present. If it didn't, I'd be ashamed to admit I was a ham.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2187. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:00:48 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <EF808A1606C3EE29.8CDE645EED11D004.733B2C5703A23C59@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25184

On 26 Nov 2001 05:54:50 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

>> Your bigoted postings even offend me, Larry, and I have a >> thick skin.
>>
>
> So does an onion.

Don't you ever get ANYTHING right, Dick?

An onion doesn't have a "thick skin" it has a very thin one with many layers of "meat" inside.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2188. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:03:34 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <84CCC52A61BD8F83.5B63C76B1E716016.4BE1D7AFC76E87DE@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25186

On 26 Nov 2001 12:25:31 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>>More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
>
>They DO? How do you know, Cecil?

Try checking the daily statistics in the NEWS newsgroup hierarchy. Since the daily readership of this group is higher than the number of hams licensed in the US last year, it seems pretty likely that at least as many readers are potential hams as are likely to be listening to the ham bands.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2189. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:03:58 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011127000358.02880.00000915@nso-fl.aol.com>
Source record: 25188

In article <p5vM7.198527$3d2.8380017@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:

>> But we have barely scratched the surface of true commentary/novelty/parody >> songs. Particularly the written-for-the-purpose stuff like Tom Lehrer and >Monty
>> Python ditties ("Every Sperm Is Sacred", "The Philosopher's Song", and of >> course "The Lumberjack Song".
>>
>> Didja know that if you take Neil Diamond's hit "September Morn" and
>replace the >> words "September Morn" with "Internet Porn", and make a few other minor >changes
>> the song still works, although with a somewhat different meaning?
>>
>> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>>
>
>I do want to keep my job.

Yeah, me too.

> Are you familiar with Lou and Peter Berryman???
>
You mean the ones who do "Squalor" and "A Chat With Your Mom"?

Oh yes.

Let us not forget Tom Paxton ("Yuppies In The Sky", "Not Tonight, Marie", "I Am Changing My Name To Chrysler"). And, of course, Utah Phillips and Loudon Wainwright III.

--

Counter culture comedy alert!!! The Firesign Theatre will celebrate their 35th anniversary by doing their first TV special on PBS. Air time in Philly is 8 Pm on Nov 28th. Check your local listings.

73 de Jim, N2EY

Brought to you by Loosener's Castor Oil Flakes and Ralph Spoilsport Motors.

2190. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:03:59 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011127000359.02880.00000916@nso-fl.aol.com>
Source record: 25187

In article <3C025523.C561E1CA@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>>
>> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>> >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
>>
>> They DO? How do you know, Cecil?
>
>Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.

Your deduction does not follow from the facts.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2191. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:04:00 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C031771.8B95F51E@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25185

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C02DF74.14AD0EC4@earthlink.net...
>
> > libertarian) candidates for national office. There aren't many in the > > U.S. who'd vote your way. What do you think is the reason?
>
> Easy. Most people are sheep that believe whatever the media tell them.

Er, sure. THAT'S right. We're Demoncrats. We're Republicans. We're Democrats. We're Republicans. Damn! I'm confused. Why does the media lead us everywhere except toward the Libertarian Party and the Communist Party and the tiny little single issue parties?

Dave K8MN

2192. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:12:11 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <93357BF7806084C7.599ED4622DE4BBB4.C744DF0AF6BB42C0@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25189

On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 17:34:49 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Brilliant! Of course there's the part where they'd have to be online, >would have to be aware of newsgroups, would have to find this particular >newsgroup and would have to be interested in a mild sort of way in >amateur radio in order to start reading it.

Ok, let's examine that part by part.

Online: There are twenty TIMES as many homes connected to the Internet then there are hams in the US alone.

Aware of newsgroups. This information is made available to ALL online service (isp) users--and nearly all isps either offer news servers (and send configuration instructions to ALL new users) or recommend certain news groups in their monthly mailings to users.

Find this particular newsgroup. Anyone can find a ham radio related newsgroup in the Usenet listings (ALL news readers in common use--i.e., Agent, NewsBin, Outlook Express, Netscape, etc.) have the ability to find news groups in their groups lists (downloaded from the news server) based on simple criteria. Try typing "amateur" and "radio" into one and you'll this group very easily. Someone too stupid to do that is too stupid to pass even the dumbed down Tech test in use today and would never become a ham anyway.

Interest. If a potential ham is NOT interested in reading the ham newsgroups so he or she can find out more about ham radio--and hams in general--before buying a rig and getting a license, he or she doesn't have very much interest in the hobby in the first place.

>I think we may have another Sherlock Holmes on our hands.

Well, one of us used logic in this message. But I think you'll have to settle for being a slightly befuddled Watson.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2193. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:12:51 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <DB05A39F51229FDE.9B546AA5444FA72E.E7C38DB57BBB3119@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25190

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 00:50:10 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Not all potential hams know that they are potential hams. Next year's >ham may not even have heard about ham radio yet. The other points I >made are valid, Sherlock.

If they don't know they are potential hams, they aren't listening to the ham bands either.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2194. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:14:27 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0319DC.4EA73CD4@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25191

Kim-W5TIT wrote:

> I know of no woman who refers to her tops as > breasts or mammaries. We all call them tits. We call all you guys' > thangs dicks.

> Tits serve two purposes. They can nurse babies or men, or woman if > the owner of the tits is prone to that persuasion. We have to cover > our tits and you men have to cover your dicks.

> I call my tits tits and always have. I call my, well....never mind. > Just be glad I don't have the callsign W5PSY.

This too is tacky and lacks class and decorum.*

...and that's just part of the reason I refer to the woman as Tugboat Annie.

Dave K8MN
* The view expressed is my personal opinion.

2195. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:17:19 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <71FF13C1D50B5079.5074E212311610A9.404C11FD5051E64D@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25192

On 27 Nov 2001 02:58:41 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

>When you tell them about it and how to download the 60,000 groups, and >that you must download ALL of them, most decide they want nothing to do >with it.

Maybe because that's a totally inaccurate statement, Dick.

You need a LIST of the newsgroups--but that only takes a few seconds to download on your first connection. After that, if you use a decent reader (and excellent ones such as Agent are available in FREE versions) you only download the HEADERS for the groups that interest you--and THEN download only the messages you care to read.

If you have been telling people they have to download 60,000 groups (btw, there are only 48,000 accepted ones--you added a few there) you've been lying to them.

You would be offended if people told potential hams they had to pass a 20 WPM code test to get their first license, and must have a sound understanding of calculus to pass the written test. Well, guess what, Dick. People who are involved in the Usenet see what you are telling people as being just as offensively wrong.

Take the time to learn what you're talking about before you make such idiotic comments.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2196. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:19:20 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <81E19112DEB830E5.BE57C8CE25828668.2573A153377CD80A@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25193

On 26 Nov 2001 05:56:52 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> SOCIETY at large finds the word to be vulgar and offensive on its face, >more expecially when used in a public mixed setting. You insist that >just because you are as coarse and vulgar, that society also is. You are >wroing.

No, Dick. You insist that because you are an old fashioned prude that everyone else in society is. Many of us disagree. Live with it.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2197. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:22:27 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C031BB8.7FEA1512@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25194

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > Not all potential hams know that they are potential hams.
>
> That's obviously true. But there have been many potential hams > asking questions about becoming a ham on this newsgroup using > his personal computer. I have never heard a potential ham ask > questions about becoming a ham over the air using his personal > transceiver. :-)

Nice smiley.
Is a few or ten or fifteen people "many"? How does that equate to your earlier statement that more potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to amateur radio?

Dave K8MN

2198. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:24:27 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C031C2F.D4BBF9BD@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25195

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > You'd be surprised how many people including hams never heard of
> > usenet.
>
> Doubt it. Internet savvy people know about usenet and usually > don't possess a transceiver. Hope that's not too much for you > to comprehend.

My dad, my sister and my two neighbors all own computers and have internet access. None are internet savvy and none access newsgroups. You don't have any solid information, do you?

Dave K8MN

2199. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:24:44 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <D03AF4640085312D.4A6C735A226CF76A.F5F03DDB8710A28B@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25196

On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 20:53:11 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>We women are mere playthings, always have been and always will >be.

Really, Kim?

Now I KNOW I want my next "Buddha's Birthday" gifts from Toys
'R Us! ;-)

Trivia time: Since all the Christians in the group expect everyone to know the day Jesus birthday is celebrated, is there a single person here who has enough respect for other religions to know when Buddha's Birthday (a historically accurate date, btw) is celebrated? I'll even give a hint--it's a holiday in the US.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2200. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:25:34 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <7178D063D40EFB0B.3783B3B5D4C5F2C5.5B853428D3D633E6@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25197

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 23:23:25 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Have you polled most women, Dick?

Nope. And that's why he's so cranky!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2201. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:27:13 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C031CD3.A2D685F4@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25198

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 26 Nov 2001 12:25:30 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
> >In addition, it's obvious that you won't voluntarily change it, so there's no > >point in on-air mention of the issue.
>
> Then precisely what is the point of mentioning it (over and > over again, for that matter) here?
>
> You, and others, expect the ARS to be treated with respect.
> Great. I'm a ham as well. On the other hand, I'm ALSO a computer > hobbyist who spends far more time on the Internet than on the air.
> From my perspective, people like you, Dick, and Larry, who scream that > the ham bands should be free of any form of bigotry, racism, or
> "offensive" behavior are the worst kind of hypocrites! It's wrong in > YOUR hobby, but perfectly alright here where OTHERS are hobbyists!
>
> If you don't like Kim's sign, then say so on the air. If you > feel (as Dick and others do) that Islamic people are inferior, that > their religion is inferior, or that minorities are losers who depend
> on affirmative action to provide them jobs they don't deserve then > voice your opinions on the ham bands or shut the fuck up! You have no > more right to fill the Internet with that moralistic, racist, or > bigoted crap than you do to fill the ham bands with it. Either take it > BOTH places or drop it completely.
>
> Think about it.
>
> >Sems to me you define "responsibly minded people" as those who don't voice > >objections.
> >>
> >>Believe me, the comments made here are made here only. :)
> >>
> >Because this is the appropriate place to do so.
>
> Bullshit!
>
> This venue is no more appropriate than the ham bands. Who the > hell gave hams the right to come into the Internet Usenet groups and > post offensive material they wouldn't think of voicing in the ham > bands? There are just as many children here as there are on the > air--if you're so goddamn concerned with them then try practicing what > you keep preaching in THIS venue too!

>
> Rick

This is the voice of the tranquil Buddhist libertarian New Age Man.
S'cuse the language, kids.

Dave K8MN

2202. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:28:15 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C031D11.E52CED1B@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25199

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Wiggle, wiggle, wiggle. Are you denying being a > > > Homo sapien, Dave? Reading between the lines is > > > as easy as predicting that you breath air.
> >
> > No, I've never denied being part of the human race. Neither have I > > denied eating pork.
>
> Yep.

You're plaintive cries and your inane arguments are growing weaker.

Dave K8MN
```

2203. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:30:11 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C031D84.501F473@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25200

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > You are the individual who wants numerous laws changed. You are the > > libertarian who will not live to see a libertarian as a chief executive > > of this country. You little "L" libertarians should take the hint after > > watching throuncing after throuncing of big "L" Libertarian (or even > > libertarian) candidates for national office. There aren't many in the > > U.S. who'd vote your way. What do you think is the reason?
>
> Ignorance.

I don't think you're view isn't supported because folks think you're ignorant, Cecil. I think they just believe you to be misguided.

Dave K8MN

2204. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:33:06 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C031E2E.B9335DCB@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25301

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 17:08:36 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >You might have a case if everyone believed as you do. Most folks don't.
>
> Is that supposed to make him wrong?

In the eyes of the majority, apparently so.

Dave K8MN

2205. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:43:12 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B0B67C16D8B5A692.EDA9DA20B52C6DEE.43AEF76893F13EFE@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25302

On 26 Nov 2001 04:20:29 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I don't think you're in any position to ask that question, Rick. Using >Cecil's logic, the same logic by which he contends that my call is
>"Kneading Three Large Tits," your callsign is KE8 Heil Hitler. As a >person who was raised Catholic, and has Jews on my mother's side >of the family, I find that pretty darned offensive -- if Cecil's "logic" is to >be given serious consideration. So, lemme akxs you -- are you going >to do anything about it -- or is Cecil's logic inherently flawed?

Actually, it's not KE8 Heil Hitler--that doesn't use the first two letters and the numeral.

It's King Edward Ate Horatio Hornblower.

Better?

Am I going to do something about it?

Yup!

I plan to get a vanity sign in the next couple weeks. How would W8GOD, W8POT, K8DIC, W8DIK, W8FUK, W8FUC, W8ASS, or W8BAL work for you? All are available (among others).

Don't like those choices?

Complain to the FCC, not to me--I don't decide what's acceptable and what isn't--they do.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2206. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:45:16 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <748744DAB993441F.3EE40D4E986810BF.B126C9E26A98D268@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25303

On 26 Nov 2001 07:35:11 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

>Cecil, a travelling salesman? Wow! Pity the poor customers.

Why, do you think he left them pregnant?

He has more sense than that, Dick. You'll have to blame your grandkids on someone else.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2207. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:46:10 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <2B121C183993ECC8.F9CF8D8ADE0AC17B.65C16E071B70AB43@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25304

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 23:46:20 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>It's easy to read between the lines, Dave.

Holding up three fingers for him huh, Cecil? ;-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2208. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:50:30 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B493FC82922011A6.A7BCC27B09672BEC.74E675A108ECE54D@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25305

On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 03:46:43 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>You'll make it simple? You're pretty much of a grin too, Rick.
>This part about "standing mute when evidence of your guilt..." is a >particularly entertaining. I can't seem to find that part where any >evidence at all has been introduced. If you guys are curious, you'll >have to research in order to find the answer. It may remain one of the >mysteries of your lives and I hope it provides an opportunity for you to >fritter away hours. Good luck in your quests.

Read carefully, Dave.

I don't CARE if you eat pork products.

Cecil does.

I just told him you did.

You can either contradict me, and state you do NOT eat pork products or you can let my accusation stand.

If you contradict me, Cecil then knows for certain (assuming you are honest in your response instead of a liar, of course) that you do NOT eat pork products.

If you DON'T contradict me, the only evidence Cecil has is my statement, and in the absence of any denial on your part it's perfectly reasonable for him to accept it as a given and make his point on that basis.

Have fun weaseling out of this one.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2209. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:51:27 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <E8D600D8E9FD585E.2A0F94EB5393A542.4B1D3041B81AE121@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25306

On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 00:00:52 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Dick, you have such a way with words. Who first called you a Dick?

Not me--that's an insult to penises!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2210. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:54:22 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <F3DCDFAD898E2826.457C3A26220EDCE8.8D0EC62D371072A1@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25307

On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 09:14:55 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Dick apparently desires to commit genocide against Muslims. That's >what some Muslim terrorists want to do to us. Dick is just like them.

Cecil, that's a nasty thing to say about terrorists. At least THEY believe in what they are doing--and are willing to die for their principles--Dick doesn't have the integrity to stand by his beliefs.

Rick
--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2211. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 05:57:57 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <71BF5E958D73A950.0AAA353BC8A56730.A3E0D998A6EAB719@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25308

On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 23:57:45 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Actually '1Y' and that classification wasn't my idea.

Wasn't 1Y the designation for an honorably discharged vet with medical conditions that prevented conscription? I thought that was the designation on my own card after I was discharged from the Navy for the wounds I got in SE Asia, but I could be wrong.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2212. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 06:00:36 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <D5BF3CC8284DF18E.77373733AB2BB7F0.60B11E5406552A95@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25309

On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 03:52:15 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>For a "touchy-feely" New Age guy, you certainly have a tendency to make >snap judgements based on scant information.

I never claimed to be either "touchy-feely" OR interested in New Age topics, Dave. The fact that people accuse me of that doesn't make it a fact.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2213. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 06:08:32 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <51292258B2A79366.54F57C1163DA2840.1050AA72B4ED8C2F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25310

On 26 Nov 2001 12:25:32 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>Is it OK to do it to boys but not girls?

Are you aware of the difference, Jim?

A girl is "circumcised" by having her clitoris cut out and her vagina sewn shut so her husband can tear out the stitches and prove she was a virgin on her wedding night.

Not only does the clitoridectomy (it's proper name) mutilate the girl and prevent her from ever experiencing orgasms, it makes her five TIMES as likely to be infected with HIV--usually during the procedure, which is conducted at age five or six.

I think there's a bit of difference there, don't you?

>>The US has individual rights defined by The Constitution
>>to protect us from people like you.
>
>All of those rights are subject to change. All it takes is for a large >percentage of society, through their elected representatives, to amend the >Constitution.

Yup.

That's all it took in Germany when the Nazis took power, too.

>In addition, the interpretation of the Constitution is determined by a very >small group of judges. Rights rise and fall on their decision. For example, >abortion was illegal practically everywhere until 1973, when a single judgement
>of the Supremes struck down existing laws and established a "right of privacy" >for those seeking abortions and wiped out the "right to life" of those being >aborted.

It didn't wipe out ANYONE'S rights--as George W. Bush just proved with his terrorism legislation.

According to current law, which HAS been examined from Constitutional aspects, non-citizens are NOT protected by the rights guaranteed in the US Constitution. And since the Constitution defines a citizen as a person who is either naturalized by a court of law, is born and draws his/her first breath in the United States, or is born of US parents in a foreign nation, it follows that a fetus is NOT a citizen, and thus is NOT protected by the Constitution.

Rick

>
>The Constitution ain't carved in stone, Cecil.
>
>73 de Jim, N2EY
>

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2214. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 06:11:59 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <493E183518BD064F.B1D133096F83331E.B93307EA28D27703@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25311

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 00:59:38 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>You are the individual who wants numerous laws changed. You are the >libertarian who will not live to see a libertarian as a chief executive >of this country.

We already have--Thomas Jefferson.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2215. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 06:19:40 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B8A9C32B9F96A786.FA66D06AC6749091.5AE17EB6CD0BCF18@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25312

On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 03:58:18 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>A Social Security card is not a national ID card. It isn't even >necessary to carry it with you. As to your son's drifting, we can only >hope that he finds himself and stops this drifting one day. I don't >know of any photo Social Security cards and I'm quite certain that a >state-issued drivers license doesn't count as a "national ID card".

Ignoring the obvious stupidity of your response to a typo of drift instead of draft, don't lean too hard on your "photo" concept to prove something is a national id card. The papers issued to Italian citizens under Mussolini didn't have pictures either--just a number (as my social security card has). And you weren't required to carry them all the time, only when conducting an activity (applying for a job, opening a bank account, etc.) where they were required. Tried applying for a job w/o a social security number lately?

>Neither. I find the UN to be largely tangled in its own bureaucracy.
>I'd fear no helicopters within ten or so years. It would take 'em that >long to finish up the various meetings necessary to get one airborne.

They do pretty well when it comes to relief efforts, Dave. Or to pointing out the failings in various nations--ours included.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2216. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 07:31:43 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C03414A.5001FCF7@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25313

Steve Robeson K4YZ wrote:
>
> I recieved a letter Saturday from > the Agency in Ohio that oversees my > son's child support. The letter was > postmarked November 19th, dated November > 19th, and in the text it advised me > that there "would" be an administrative > hearing to review the present amount on > October 29th, but that it was not > necessary for me to attend...

Don't you know that time means nothing in many government offices? When I went to work for the IRS once, they said they were going to check my returns for the last three years. A month later, they wanted to talk to me about a return I filed nine years earlier. When I asked about the time difference (nine is more than three), they said that is just what they tell people. When I asked why they didn't just tell people they were going to look back at an undetermined number of years, they said that was against the rules. Of course, when I asked the obvious question of why they were looking past the three years for me, they gave the same first answer - that's just what we tell people.

Luckily, the problem they had found with my return was that I had over paid and was due a refund. Of course, since I understood there was a time limit on that (three years), I asked if I would still get the refund. They said of course.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2217. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 07:44:56 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C034460.E4E1C4A7@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25314

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> Well just for THE RECORD Mohammad > considered and discounted Jesus long > before his own death, and proclaimed > himself to be the Final Prophet, > which remains Muslim doctrine to > this day.

I first learned about Jesus' standing in the Muslim faith when I saw a picture of him on the wall of a mosque in Istanbul. If what you say is true, that seems to he a fairly prominent place to display a picture of someone who had been dismissed by Mohammed.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2218. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 07:59:59 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C0347E2.38B30A4A@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25315

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> Sure he does but he'd prefer to play games.

Of course, Dave. But don't get caught up in the game - we understood what you were trying to say, and Cecil's response didn't alter that understanding.

By the way, everybody, did you notice this thread has just about reached the all time record for the number of messages posted to a single thread (check out google.com for the totals). Perhaps it is time to bring this thread "one step closer to extinction" and move
some of the unrelated topics into their own threads. :-)

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2219. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 11:56:22 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011127065622.22754.00000757@nso-cs.aol.com>
Source record: 25316

In article <9tuu4thmt1@208.206.142.65>, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>> The Lumberjack Song".
>>
>> Didja know that if you take Neil Diamond's hit "September Morn" and replace
>the >> words "September Morn" with "Internet Porn", and make a few other minor >changes
>> the song still works, although with a somewhat different meaning?
>
>
> Gee, imagine what you could do with "Cracklin' Rosie".

I thought "Cracklin' Rosie" was already a novelty song (about inexpensive wine).

73 de Jim, N2EY

2220. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 11:56:23 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011127065623.22754.00000758@nso-cs.aol.com>
Source record: 25317

In article <3C0347E2.38B30A4A@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:

> By the way, everybody, did you notice this thread has just about >reached the all time record for the number of messages posted to a >single thread (check out google.com for the totals). Perhaps it is >time to bring this thread "one step closer to extinction" and move
>some of the unrelated topics into their own threads. :-)
>
No, no, no! The whole point is for us to keep this going until March. Can't expect Kim to do it alone!

73 de Jim, N2EY

2221. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 12:25:02 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011127072502.20950.00000763@nso-cu.aol.com>
Source record: 25319

In article <3c030996_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>Here's one for ya...though I've never been able to test it:
>
>Put the album "The Wall" on,
>Put the movie "The Wizard of Oz" on,
>
>On the third MGM lion roar, start "The Wall" and turn down the sound on the >movie. I am told they both go along nearly perfect.
>
The imdb database

http://www.imdb.com

gives a list of the coincidences under the trivia for the movie. Quite amazing, really.

Some more "Wizard of Oz" trivia:

The coat worn by the wizard was found in a used-clothing store in LA and turned out to have belonged to Frank L. Baum.

The wicked witch's guards are actually singing words as they march into the palace at the changing of the guard. The words are "All we owe, we owe her"

Dorothy has a last name, mentioned in the film. What is it?

73 de Jim, N2EY

2222. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 12:25:03 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011127072503.20950.00000764@nso-cu.aol.com>
Source record: 25321

In article <3c030919_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

(N2EY wrote):
>> Everyone knows the nets are not the time. So the lack of comment simply >means >> that those who are offended don't compound the problem by mentioning it >during
>> the net.
>>
>
>You may choose to think of it that way. I choose to believe that people >just don't have a problem with it.

We may both be right. Most of the hams you know may not have a problem with it, while most of the hams I know would have one. Dallas sure ain't in EPA.

>We have lots of get-togethers around >here, and I've never been approached negatively (oooops, except from one >ham) about my callsign.

So it isn't 100% accepted.
>
>> In addition, it's obvious that you won't voluntarily change it, so there's >no
>> point in on-air mention of the issue.
>
>Your knowledge that I am adamant about not changing it is due to your >reading it so often from me here in the newsgroup.

Yup. Also from your attitudes and responses about other issues. Plus it's pretty obvious that you chose and paid for it.

> Knowledge of my feelings >about changing it aren't all that known because of discussions I've had >either on the air or at get-togethers.

OK

> My callsign just isn't a point of >discussion among hams around here--or at least not that I am aware of.

Bingo.

> And,
>if it is not important enough for them to express disapproval, then it's not >important.
>

>> >In fact, responsibly-minded people see it as nothing more than a >callsign,
>> >and one that has a great deal of "conversational value" off the air, for >> >those eyeball get-togethers!
>>
>> Sems to me you define "responsibly minded people" as those who don't voice >> objections.
>
>Well, that would be correct in terms of someone who does not express >objections to a callsign during a net, wouldn't you?

Yup - because a net isn't the appropriate time/place to do so.
>
>However, I would also say someone is quite responsibly minded if they see my >callsign for what it is. It is something meant for quiet fun on the air, >and a all the kidding about it we want off the air, however there isn't all
>that much.

Different tastes in what's funny and appropriate, that's all. I think calls like that are inappropriate in the ARS, and causes harm to the image of the ARS. And you don't see it that way. We both know folks who agree and disagree.
>
>> >Believe me, the comments made here are made here only. :)
>> >
>> Because this is the appropriate place to do so.

>Uh, you don't know most of the hams around here.

True. You have described a high percentage of them as "bigoted" and/or "prejudiced".

I DO know lots of hams around here and other places, and they are quite different from what you describe. So it may be a regional thing. Or it may be we hang out in different ham circles.

>Some pretty darned >inappropriate conversations take place on the air here on 2M daily. :)

There ya go!

73 de Jim, N2EY

2223. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 12:25:04 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011127072504.20950.00000765@nso-cu.aol.com>
Source record: 25320

In article <51292258B2A79366.54F57C1163DA2840.1050AA72B4ED8C2F@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 26 Nov 2001 12:25:32 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
>>Is it OK to do it to boys but not girls?
>
> Are you aware of the difference, Jim?

Yup.
>
> A girl is "circumcised" by having her clitoris cut out and her >vagina sewn shut so her husband can tear out the stitches and prove
>she was a virgin on her wedding night.

That's ONE definition. In other countries it is done differently. I did not say it was acceptable, moral or a good thing.

The question still remains: is it OK to do it to boys but not girls?
>
> I think there's a bit of difference there, don't you?

Did I say there wasn't? No. I simply asked if it was OK for boys but not girls.
>
>>>The US has individual rights defined by The Constitution
>>>to protect us from people like you.
>>
>>All of those rights are subject to change. All it takes is for a large >>percentage of society, through their elected representatives, to amend the >>Constitution.
>
> Yup.
>
> That's all it took in Germany when the Nazis took power, too.

Did Germany have the same Constitution as the USA? Did the Nazi party take power by a majority vote in a free election? Did the Reichstag vote on every change in the laws, and approve every one by a 2/3 majority?

I don't think so.
>
>>In addition, the interpretation of the Constitution is determined by a very >>small group of judges. Rights rise and fall on their decision. For example, >>abortion was illegal practically everywhere until 1973, when a single >judgement
>>of the Supremes struck down existing laws and established a "right of >privacy"

>>for those seeking abortions and wiped out the "right to life" of those being >>aborted.
>
> It didn't wipe out ANYONE'S rights

Sure it did. It ruled that the right of privacy was more important.

>--as George W. Bush just >proved with his terrorism legislation.

Huh??
>
> According to current law, which HAS been examined from >Constitutional aspects, non-citizens are NOT protected by the rights >guaranteed in the US Constitution.

Ahhh. Now I get ya. But the Supremes could change that if a test case is brought before them. The Supremes have reversed their position before, too.

>And since the Constitution defines >a citizen as a person who is either naturalized by a court of law, is >born and draws his/her first breath in the United States, or is born >of US parents in a foreign nation, it follows that a fetus is NOT a >citizen, and thus is NOT protected by the Constitution.

Does it say "is born and draws his/her first breath in the United States" or just "is born in the United States"?

You missed the whole point, though. Cecil was describing the Constitution as if it were an unchangable thing, with only one interpretation. That's simply not true.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2224. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 12:25:05 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011127072505.20950.00000766@nso-cu.aol.com>
Source record: 25318

In article <84CCC52A61BD8F83.5B63C76B1E716016.4BE1D7AFC76E87DE@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 26 Nov 2001 12:25:31 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
>>>More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
>>
>>They DO? How do you know, Cecil?
>
> Try checking the daily statistics in the NEWS newsgroup >hierarchy.

I tried, but there doesn't seem to be a listing of daily statistics.

How about posting a link so we can all check?

>Since the daily readership of this group is higher than the >number of hams licensed in the US last year, it seems pretty likely >that at least as many readers are potential hams as are likely to be >listening to the ham bands.

There are more than 680,000 readers of rrap?? Amazing!

73 de Jim, N2EY
>

2225. Re: Contest idea, work all your own suffix

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 13:05:18 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011127080518.09918.00002040@mb-da.aol.com>
Source record: 25323

>Subject: Contest idea, work all your own suffix
>From: Robert Casey wa2ise@ix.netcom.com
>Date: 11/24/2001 3:24 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C00101A.EC216778@ix.netcom.com>
>
>Be the first to work your suffix in all American prefixes!

And did you see the fellow in QST not too long ago who worked his way through the alphabet "AAA" through "ZZZ" suffixes? He had a couple cards up there I have!

73

Steve, K4YZ

2226. Re: Contest idea, work all your own suffix

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 13:07:47 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011127080747.09918.00002041@mb-da.aol.com>
Source record: 25322

>Subject: Re: Contest idea, work all your own suffix
>From: yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
>Date: 11/25/2001 12:57 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <20011125015738.12427.00003226@nso-cg.aol.com>

>This is a good idea. When I held the call WR2F, I worked about eight >of the other WR2's -- and always wished I could finish them all. I'll have >to check QRZ.com and see how many LT's are out there!

Hey Larry....WR2F has been reissued. Maybe you can STILL work them all! I hope to work KC8M someday!1

73

Steve, K4YZ

2227. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 15:10:01 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03ACC9.57A0F2A5@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25324

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > Not all potential hams know that they are potential hams.
> >
> > That's obviously true. But there have been many potential hams > > asking questions about becoming a ham on this newsgroup using > > his personal computer. I have never heard a potential ham ask > > questions about becoming a ham over the air using his personal > > transceiver. :-)
>
> Nice smiley.
> Is a few or ten or fifteen people "many"? How does that equate to your > earlier statement that more potential hams read this newsgroup than > listen to amateur radio?

That's my educated personal opinion, Dave, based on many years of experience. If you don't like it, you can lump it. To me, it seems obvious to the most casual observer. I personally have recommended these newsgroups to hundreds of potential hams over the years who usually did not possess shortwave receivers capable of CW and SSB reception on the ham bands.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2228. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 15:13:28 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03AD98.17DA3BDB@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25325

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote:
> >I think we may have another Sherlock Holmes on our hands.
>
> Well, one of us used logic in this message. But I think you'll > have to settle for being a slightly befuddled Watson.

I have personally directed hundreds of potential hams to these newsgroups. I assume other hams have done likewise.
The great majority of the people I directed to these newsgroups had no way to receive shortwave ham CW/SSB.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2229. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 15:16:09 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03AE39.A734DE02@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25326

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > You'd be surprised how many people including hams never heard of
> > > usenet.
> >
> > Doubt it. Internet savvy people know about usenet and usually > > don't possess a transceiver. Hope that's not too much for you > > to comprehend.
>
> My dad, my sister and my two neighbors all own computers and have > internet access. None are internet savvy and none access newsgroups.
> You don't have any solid information, do you?

Are your dad, sister, and two neighbors potential hams? I'm talking primarily about people who have shown an interest in ham radio. I have personally directed hundreds of those potential hams to these newsgroups during Amateur Radio awareness days.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2230. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 15:18:41 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03AED1.DFDC0419@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25327

N2EY wrote:
>
> In article <3C025523.C561E1CA@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>
> >N2EY wrote:
> >>
> >> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> >> >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
> >>
> >> They DO? How do you know, Cecil?
> >
> >Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.
>
> Your deduction does not follow from the facts.

Got any proof? Seems to me a no-brainer to deduce that more people have access to these ham radio newsgroups than have access to shortwave receivers capable of receiving ham CW/SSB.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2231. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 15:23:12 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03AFE0.77C15A47@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25328

N2EY wrote:
>
> Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
> >Since the daily readership of this group is higher than the > >number of hams licensed in the US last year, it seems pretty likely > >that at least as many readers are potential hams as are likely to be > >listening to the ham bands.
>
> There are more than 680,000 readers of rrap?? Amazing!

There were 680,000 new hams licensed in the US last year?? Amazing!
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2232. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 15:26:23 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03B09F.240A3F73@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25329

Dave Heil wrote:
> > Just be glad I don't have the callsign W5PSY.
>
> This too is tacky and lacks class and decorum.*

Uhhhhhh Dave, W5PSY was issued by the FCC to Mr. Olsen of Duncanville, TX.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2233. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 15:35:43 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03B2CF.DEFAB8BF@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25330

Rick Adams wrote:
> Trivia time: Since all the Christians in the group expect > everyone to know the day Jesus birthday is celebrated, is there a > single person here who has enough respect for other religions to know > when Buddha's Birthday (a historically accurate date, btw) is > celebrated? I'll even give a hint--it's a holiday in the US.

Wonder how many Christians know that a pagan holiday was adopted as Jesus' birthday because Romans were already celebrating it anyway?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2234. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 15:46:29 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C03A8F6.77DEA77E@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25331

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 03:46:43 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >You'll make it simple? You're pretty much of a grin too, Rick.
> >This part about "standing mute when evidence of your guilt..." is a > >particularly entertaining. I can't seem to find that part where any > >evidence at all has been introduced. If you guys are curious, you'll > >have to research in order to find the answer. It may remain one of the > >mysteries of your lives and I hope it provides an opportunity for you to > >fritter away hours. Good luck in your quests.
>
> Read carefully, Dave.
>
> I don't CARE if you eat pork products.
>
> Cecil does.
>
> I just told him you did.
>
> You can either contradict me, and state you do NOT eat pork > products or you can let my accusation stand.

All I have to say is that you have absolutely no way of knowing whether
I do or whether I don't.

> If you contradict me, Cecil then knows for certain (assuming > you are honest in your response instead of a liar, of course) that you > do NOT eat pork products.

All I have to say is that you have absolutely no way of knowing.

> If you DON'T contradict me, the only evidence Cecil has is my > statement, and in the absence of any denial on your part it's > perfectly reasonable for him to accept it as a given and make his > point on that basis.
>
> Have fun weaseling out of this one.
>
> Rick

Gee Rick, that'd be like catching up on the evening news from a guy who has no radio, TV or internet access. Cecil would have to be a fool to take his information from such a source. This "weaseling" stuff certainly is easier than I ever believed possible.

Dave K8MN

2235. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 15:54:52 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C03AAE2.D728A302@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25332

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 03:58:18 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >A Social Security card is not a national ID card. It isn't even > >necessary to carry it with you. As to your son's drifting, we can only > >hope that he finds himself and stops this drifting one day. I don't > >know of any photo Social Security cards and I'm quite certain that a > >state-issued drivers license doesn't count as a "national ID card".
>
> Ignoring the obvious stupidity of your response to a typo of > drift instead of draft, don't lean too hard on your "photo" concept to > prove something is a national id card.

Damn! For a guy who brays about his sense of humor and who clucks about the lack of a sense of humor in others, I wouldn't think you'd be so touchy. At least I haven't come out and called you a liar based on your typo.

> The papers issued to Italian > citizens under Mussolini didn't have pictures either--just a number > (as my social security card has). And you weren't required to carry > them all the time, only when conducting an activity (applying for a > job, opening a bank account, etc.) where they were required. Tried > applying for a job w/o a social security number lately?

So Maximo can carry Antonio's ID card and vice versa. It sounds as if their system needed work. I don't intend to apply for a job at all but the necessity for the Social Security number in obtaining a job is pretty evident. Uncle wants his payroll and Social Security taxes. You don't have a problem with that do you?

> >Neither. I find the UN to be largely tangled in its own bureaucracy.
> >I'd fear no helicopters within ten or so years. It would take 'em that > >long to finish up the various meetings necessary to get one airborne.
>
> They do pretty well when it comes to relief efforts, Dave. Or > to pointing out the failings in various nations--ours included.

I was not addressing relief efforts, nor were you. We don't need 'em to point out our failings. We have you and the Swedes for that.

Dave K8MN

2236. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:00:40 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03B8A8.E267F6C2@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25333

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > Well just for THE RECORD Mohammad considered and discounted Jesus long > > before his own death, and proclaimed himself to be the Final Prophet, > > which remains Muslim doctrine to this day.
>
> I first learned about Jesus' standing in the Muslim faith when I saw > a picture of him on the wall of a mosque in Istanbul. If what you say > is true, that seems to he a fairly prominent place to display a > picture of someone who had been dismissed by Mohammed.

Contrary to Dick's ignorant postings, here's what Muslims believe about Jesus.

"Many non-Muslims are surprised to find out that according to Muslim belief, Jesus, the son of Mary, is one of the greatest messengers of God. Muslims are taught to love Jesus, and a person cannot be a Muslim without believing in the virgin birth and miracles of Jesus Christ, peace be upon him. Muslims believe these things about Jesus not because of the Bible or any other religion, but simply because the Holy Qur'an says these things about him." http://www.muslim-answers.org/miscons.htm
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2237. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:05:10 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C03AD3B.56BAEEB0@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25334

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > Not all potential hams know that they are potential hams.
> > >
> > > That's obviously true. But there have been many potential hams > > > asking questions about becoming a ham on this newsgroup using > > > his personal computer. I have never heard a potential ham ask > > > questions about becoming a ham over the air using his personal > > > transceiver. :-)
> >
> > Nice smiley.
> > Is a few or ten or fifteen people "many"? How does that equate to your > > earlier statement that more potential hams read this newsgroup than > > listen to amateur radio?
>
> That's my educated personal opinion, Dave, based on many years of > experience. If you don't like it, you can lump it.

Well, at least it is your personal opinion.

> To me, it seems > obvious to the most casual observer.

I'm a casual observer. It isn't obvious to me.

> I personally have recommended > these newsgroups to hundreds of potential hams over the years who > usually did not possess shortwave receivers capable of CW and SSB > reception on the ham bands.

Balderdash.

Dave K8MN

2238. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:05:34 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03B9CE.33FB9D8C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25336

N2EY wrote:
> We may both be right. Most of the hams you know may not have a problem with it, > while most of the hams I know would have one. Dallas sure ain't in EPA.

Many Texans migrated from PA to be rid of you prudes. Now here you are, 150 years later, bugging us again. Could be you damned yankees are just jealous of Texas tits. Right Kim?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2239. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:07:03 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C03ADA6.49B5ECE4@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25335

CAM wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote:
> > >I think we may have another Sherlock Holmes on our hands.
> >
> > Well, one of us used logic in this message. But I think you'll > > have to settle for being a slightly befuddled Watson.
>
> I have personally directed hundreds of potential hams to > these newsgroups. I assume other hams have done likewise.
> The great majority of the people I directed to these > newsgroups had no way to receive shortwave ham CW/SSB.

Sure, Cecil. I certainly wish I could take you seriously.

Dave K8MN

2240. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:08:25 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03BA79.7FAC0FB@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25338

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote:
> >
> > >You might have a case if everyone believed as you do. Most folks don't.
> >
> > Is that supposed to make him wrong?
>
> In the eyes of the majority, apparently so.

"Justice is blind" and doesn't care about the tyranny of the majority.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2241. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:08:34 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C03AE01.3258BE4C@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25337

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > > You'd be surprised how many people including hams never heard of > > > > usenet.
> > >
> > > Doubt it. Internet savvy people know about usenet and usually > > > don't possess a transceiver. Hope that's not too much for you > > > to comprehend.
> >
> > My dad, my sister and my two neighbors all own computers and have
> > internet access. None are internet savvy and none access newsgroups.
> > You don't have any solid information, do you?
>
> Are your dad, sister, and two neighbors potential hams? I'm talking > primarily about people who have shown an interest in ham radio. I > have personally directed hundreds of those potential hams to these > newsgroups during Amateur Radio awareness days.

Just about everybody is a potential ham, Cecil.

As to your claim about directing hundreds here, it is simply more crap.

Dave K8MN

2242. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:10:01 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03BAD9.B855ED28@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25340

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > No, I've never denied being part of the human race. Neither have I > > > denied eating pork.
> > >
> > Yep.
>
> You're plaintive cries and your inane arguments are growing weaker.

Who are you trying to convince. Us or yourself?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2243. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:11:35 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C03AEB0.80A5178E@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25339

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > > Just be glad I don't have the callsign W5PSY.
> >
> > This too is tacky and lacks class and decorum.*
>
> Uhhhhhh Dave, W5PSY was issued by the FCC to Mr. Olsen
> of Duncanville, TX.

Uhhhhh Cecil, I was referring to Kim's post, not Mr. Olsen's call.
I don't believe Mr. Olson has the anatomical parts to reference in the manner Tugboat did.

Dave K8MN

2244. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:16:25 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03BC59.9A5DF243@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25341

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 23:57:45 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
> wrote:
>
> >Actually '1Y' and that classification wasn't my idea.
>
> Wasn't 1Y the designation for an honorably discharged vet with > medical conditions that prevented conscription?

If so, it apparently wasn't limited to vets. I was classified '1Y'
because of migraine headaches. They told me they didn't want me on the front lines with an automatic weapon during a blinding headache.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2245. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:21:43 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03BD97.4F382FBE@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25343

N2EY wrote:
> Did the Nazi party take power by a majority vote in a free election?

They did come to power through a plurality vote in a free election.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2246. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:23:10 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9u0e8i$q5b$1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 25342

"Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9toc370t2t@enews1.newsguy.com...
> Interesting comments. It's also interesting to note that these Extra and > Advanced hams passed the 13 and 20 WPM code tests.

Yes they were. I was very surprised by his comments. Given the comments made by others to this group you would figure it would be the other way around.

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LD0

Saw this on a Tee-shirt:

"I am a bomb technician. If you see me running, try to keep up. "

2247. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:24:40 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03BE48.A970AEA1@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25344

Dave Heil wrote:
> I don't think you're view isn't supported because folks think you're > ignorant, Cecil. I think they just believe you to be misguided.

It is not I who is ignorant, Dave. It is the Democratic/Republican masses. Once they alleviate their ignorance they will become freedom-loving Libertarians.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2248. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:26:37 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03BEBD.A15F276E@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25346

Rick Adams wrote:
> Tried applying for a job w/o a social security number lately?

I had to produce a social security card to get a job as a part-time GED teacher.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2249. Re: Hollingsworth

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:27:03 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9u0efr$qa4$1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 25345

"JAMES HAMPTON" <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:1e8M7.235842$W8.7920026@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> I don't know, but suggest you not put it in the CB radio section! :-)
>
> Jim AA2QA

It would be even better if the CBers who seem to have a real fetish with faking posts by me, like the one starting this thread, would just have the balls to stick their own name (Handle) to what they wrote instead.

--

__
73 de,

Leland C. Scott
KC8LD0

ARRL member
NCI member

"You ask what Morse Code is good for? I'll tell you. Morse Code is used exclusively by Electronics Based life forms to communicate amongst themselves using advanced Organic Digital Signal Processors, running state of the art Artificial Intelligence Software, to perform the highly complex transmit encryption, receive decryption and error correction
functions."

2250. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:32:21 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03C015.FC979BA3@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25347

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> > Nope, it's social engineering in the same way a driver's license
> > is social engineering. We are talking about government requirements > > not elective procedures.
>
> You're wrong. Obtaining an amateur radio license is an elective procedure.

Nope, you're wrong, Jim. Choosing not to obtain an amateur radio license is an elective procedure. Obtaining an amateur radio license requires one to meet the governmental requirements which are a form of social engineering. Think about it. Every licensed ham had only two choices - meet the requirements or cheat. Since you are not the cheating kind, you had no choice except to meet the requirements based on the desired social engineering. There was no other choice for licensed hams like you except to meet the requirements.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2251. Re: K1MAN webpage.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 16:40:50 UTC
From: K0HB <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <a96f1f4d2ee76e5b3a11b225221d54bf.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 25348
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.shortwave

"N0VFP, Lloyd" <lloyd_vfp@msn.com> wrote in message
news:e1bb06a74f973f91732f3ab8815a96bd@spamfreenews.com...

> This is a very good site......
>
> http://www.carte.net/k1man/sites.htm

K1MAN is a pathetic scam artist, and you are a pathetic suck-up.

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

--
Posted from mplsapanas11poolb82.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.20.82]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

2252. Re: K1MAN webpage.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 17:19:46 UTC
From: Lloyd <Lloyd@barfhqnet.net> Message-ID: <9u0hri$1hh$0@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 25349
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman

"K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
news:a96f1f4d2ee76e5b3a11b225221d54bf.15732@mygate.mailgate.org...
> "N0VFP, Lloyd" <lloyd_vfp@msn.com> wrote in message
> news:e1bb06a74f973f91732f3ab8815a96bd@spamfreenews.com...
> > This is a very good site......
> > http://www.carte.net/k1man/sites.htm
> K1MAN is a pathetic scam artist, and you are a pathetic suck-up.
> With all kind wishes,
> de Hans, K0HB
> Posted from mplsapanas11poolb82.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.20.82]
> via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

K1MAN has been approved by me, the BARF Chief of Communicatins, for consumption by the amateur radio community.
And if Roger would listen, it would make him a much better person and would especially help him with that awful cursing habit he has.

Lloyd

2253. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 17:22:52 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u0i5c$7l$0@208.207.71.138>
Source record: 25350

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > news:9tut7i$f9n$0@208.206.142.65...
>
> > > Telling you something is like pouring water on a rock - it just doesn't > sink
> > > in.
> >
> >
> > You might want to look into a mirror when you say that. You've just > > described yourself.
>
> While I have advocated attacks on countries that support terrorism, I've > never singled out Muslims as Dick has.

Which means you have no idea what you're advocating attacking. There is not a single nation that supports radical Islamic terrorists that is not populated by Muslims. Your attitude is examplary of just how we go this far into such a rediculous scenario in the first place. We have been taught to be completely tolerant of all other religious systems, even one whose basic fundamentals dictate that we should be destroyed.

No one ever said (and I did not) that all Muslims are radical terrorists, as Cecil has flatly stated, lying, that I did say that. What I did say is that all Muslims are trained from infancy to believe that all other belief systems are inferior and are to be either converted, enslaved or eliminated by the sword. Cecil equates ancient Jewish actions far predating Islam with modern Islamic practice, as practiced by all their fundamentalist Jihadists and as still routinely taught as a fundamental part of Islam. I contend that this belief system and its lifeling teachings do indeed predispose Muslims to follow those teachings, when there is a choice that must be made between them and other systems. zIslam itself teaches that any Muslim is far superior to any infidel in any circumstance. What else should they then choose? The evidence of this factor is widespread for all, who will look, to see.

I also contend this makes the religion of Islam quite different in its basis from any other. Christianity and Judism, indeed no other modern religion of which I have knowedge today teaches murder of all others. Although such activity exists it is not the teachings of any other religion save Islam. If you can provide information to the contrary, I will be very glad to evaluate it, not just label you as a terrorist yourself for recognizing reality, as you Cecil and others have done for me. Cecil's quotes from the Old Testament do not apply. They to not represent modern Christian theology and he knows it.

2254. Re: K1MAN webpage.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 17:23:23 UTC
From: long dongdong silver <singmeasongkenny2@hotmail.com>
Message-ID: <f_PM7.9303$Kc2.1013805@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 25201
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.shortwave

I sorta hope K1MAN goes back to broadcasting on 14.313 again, like he did during the heydays of the old 14.313 BARF vs Piece Coalition Wars! Remember that Hans? I still recall with glee the day old Mike MU-Juice was on there talkin to fat Judy and Baxter fired up his stupid broadcast right on top of them! Ole dumbshit Mike didn't know what was going on and threw one of his famous on the air "shitfits" when he realized what happened. Yes, ole Glen sure knew how to inflame the situation and interject himself into the fracas.
(Baxter thought he was singlehandedly going to cure the 15-Year 14.313 Booer War with the help of W4ASX whom he kissed and swapped-spit with at the Orlando Hamfest earlier - yup, they had a plan - and the result of which was like when the Three Stooges dumped that load of cats into the piano in that classic 2-reeler bit...hahaha!) Glub I love ham radio Hans! Got more opportunity to have radio fun with for a freakin lifetime. Hopefully the old 14.313 is commin back. Already sounds like a cat caught in a lawn mower on 14.275 when Baxter fires up atop Dan and the boys. Let's hope it spreads north in freq

As they say at ARRL: "Now ur Talkin...." ROTFLMAO.

"K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
news:a96f1f4d2ee76e5b3a11b225221d54bf.15732@mygate.mailgate.org...
> "N0VFP, Lloyd" <lloyd_vfp@msn.com> wrote in message
> news:e1bb06a74f973f91732f3ab8815a96bd@spamfreenews.com...
>
> > This is a very good site......
> >
> > http://www.carte.net/k1man/sites.htm
>
>
> K1MAN is a pathetic scam artist, and you are a pathetic suck-up.
>
> With all kind wishes,
>
> de Hans, K0HB
>
>
>
> --
> Posted from mplsapanas11poolb82.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.20.82]
> via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG
>

2255. Re: Hollingsworth

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 17:31:51 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <776792AB7F86D57D.CF66EF89B84A3F52.DD3D5EE32EEE511C@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25202

On 25 Nov 2001 06:16:22 -0800, Leland KC8LD0
<Leland_member@newsguy.com> wrote:

>I was able to get Rileys autograph at the fest,man that was great.
>
>I wonder what I could get for it on e-bay ?

I suspect those are getting more and more common...though having it on something other than a nasty letter may increase the value a bit :)

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

2256. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 17:47:42 UTC
From: N2EY@AOL.COM
Message-ID: <c2356669.0111270947.507225bf@posting.google.com>
Source record: 25203

Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:<0E08216FB16F54A9.167DB12D8CBFCC92.62F6966A32ABBC50@lp.airnews.net>...
> On 26 Nov 2001 12:25:30 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
> >In addition, it's obvious that you won't voluntarily change it, so there's no > >point in on-air mention of the issue.
>
> Then precisely what is the point of mentioning it (over and > over again, for that matter) here?

The discussion here is about whether certain callsigns are appropriate to the ARS. It's not just about Kim's callsign, but about the larger topic of such callsigns in general. The W6 version of Kim's call has been assigned to a person with the first name Michael since at least 1979, btw.
>
> You, and others, expect the ARS to be treated with respect.

Yep. I think that certain things are appropriate in the ARS and certain things aren't. Is it wrong to discuss such issues in a forum devoted to ARS policy? You seem to think so.

> Great. I'm a ham as well.

Anybody interested is welcome to post here.

> On the other hand, I'm ALSO a computer
> hobbyist who spends far more time on the Internet than on the air.

To each his own.

> From my perspective, people like you, Dick, and Larry, who scream that > the ham bands should be free of any form of bigotry, racism, or
> "offensive" behavior are the worst kind of hypocrites! It's wrong in
> YOUR hobby, but perfectly alright here where OTHERS are hobbyists!

I don't "scream" anything here, Rick. And I don't think bigotry, racism or "offensive" behavior belong on the ham bands or USENET. Have I said that it's perfectly alright here? Nope.
>
> If you don't like Kim's sign, then say so on the air.

Why? And to whom? Kim and I have never worked each other on the air, nor met in person. Nor are we likely to, because we don't seem to share a common band/mode that will span the distance from Wayne to Forney, and neither has much reason to travel to the other's area.

You will notice that I have not described any legal call as vulgar, obscene, profane or even trashy. Just inappropriate for the ARS. Nor have I "trashed" the holder(s) of such calls.

There is an ongoing discussion HERE about whether certain callsigns are good or bad for the image of the ARS. I have a certain view on the subject, so I make certain comments on it here. Is it wrong to do so? Am I being electro-politically incorrect because I dare to disagree with you?

If I encounter an on-air discussion about whether certain callsigns are appropriate or not, I may make some comments. I have not encountered such a discussion yet.

It is inappropriate to disrupt a public service net with non-net related issues, btw.

> If you
> feel (as Dick and others do) that Islamic people are inferior, that > their religion is inferior, or that minorities are losers who depend
> on affirmative action to provide them jobs they don't deserve then > voice your opinions on the ham bands or shut the (expletive deleted)

> up!

I don't feel that way at all, Rick. Please produce some posts where I claim the followers of ANY religion, as a group, are inferior. Or their religion. Or some anti-minority stuff. C'mon, produce some posts - there all there in the archives.

> You have no > more right to fill the Internet with that moralistic, racist, or > bigoted

(expletive deleted)

> than you do to fill the ham bands with it.

Please show where I have done any "moralistic, racist or bigoted" posts on USENET.

> Either take it
> BOTH places or drop it completely.
>
> Think about it.

I have. You seem to like telling people what to think about, btw.

There are appropriate and inappropriate places for various discussions. Is this not an appropriate place to discuss whether certain callsigns have a negative impact on the image of the ARS? I think rrap IS the place.
>
> >Sems to me you define "responsibly minded people" as those who don't voice

> >objections.
> >>
> >>Believe me, the comments made here are made here only. :)
> >>
> >Because this is the appropriate place to do so.
>
(expletive deleted)

> This venue is no more appropriate than the ham bands.

Yes, it is. It's a policy NG - why can't you see that simple fact?

> Who the > hell gave hams the right to come into the Internet Usenet groups and > post offensive material they wouldn't think of voicing in the ham > bands?

The FCC. They regulate ALL electronic communication, not just radio.
People can send stuff over the internet that would be prosecutable over the air. The rules are different. Ask Howard Stern. Or look at some of the other, nonradio NGs.

> There are just as many children here as there are on the > air--

How do you know, Rick? And, if so, why all the expletives? Do you talk that way around children? Do you talk that way on the air? I don't.

> if you're so

(expletive deleted)

>concerned with them then try practicing what > you keep preaching in THIS venue too!

My concern is with anyone who might be offended by inappropriate stuff heard on the ham bands.

I challenge you to produce a post of mine where I wrote anything racist, sexist, prejudiced, bigoted, vulgar, obscene or profane.
C'mon, produce the posts. Show where I don't practice what I preach.

Seems to me, Rick, that you lump me into a group instead of actually reading my posts and responding as an individual. You talk as if all who agree on this callsign thing agree with everything written by others who happen to agree to it. We're all equivalent in your eyes.
That's bigotry, right there - by YOU.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2257. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 18:01:26 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u0kdm$5t1$0@208.207.71.138>
Source record: 25204

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 26 Nov 2001 01:50:33 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > You're nuts. Such activity as a formal part of Christianity went out > >with the Inquisition. In Islam it was clearly demonstrated September 11,
> >and in numerous lesser but horrific incidents in the preceding decades.
> >The widespread cheering in Islamic countries following the fall of WTC > >was widely televised. Your know all this and choose to ignore it. Your > >idiotic statements in the wake of what has happened in recent months > >shows clearly for all to see what you truly are.
>
> Dick, several years ago a man in Iron Mountain Michigan took > his two sons to the iron foundry where he worked and threw them into > the vat of molten iron because he believed it was his obligation to > God. Obviously, he was wrong but equally obviously Osama ben Laden was > as well. If you truly believe that Islamic religious beliefs are > responsible for the deaths of the people in NYC, then you MUST accept > that Christianity is responsible for the death of those children. And > if we must fight Islam as a result, then it follows that we are > equally obligated to ban Christianity in the US as well.

I'm sure glad that I lived and worked far enough from a university that an advanced degree was not a workable option. You and Cecil are giving higher education a bad name.

Of course Islam was responiible for the WTC etc! If not for the basic teachings of fundamentalist Islam those acts would have never been never been performed -by ISLAMICS! Do you insinuate they were other than Islamics? Do you insist that Islam does NOT, in its basic teachings, dictate that all other belief systems are inferior and must be either converted, enslaved, or eliminated? Do you refuse to realize that the fundamentalist Islamics have concluded they will never be able to dominate the West by religious means alone (conversion) and have concluded that elimination is the only workable means remaining of making sure that Islam dominates? Do you not know that the fundamentalists dominate Islam in most of the world, and do so by accusing moderates of violating the basics of Islam, and even kill or otherwise punish them? Do you not know that such activity is becoming ever more widespread throughout the world of Islam?
Do you really believe that so few Moslems follow their basic tenants that they are as few in number as the single Christian mental case you quoted above?

In fact it is becoming very clear that there is very little that you actually DO know on the subject, you just like to pretend. I suppose it boosts your ego.

You are still in denial and just another component of the problem. Most of us were glad to tolerate that sort of a belief system, considering it as non-threatening, until that day in September when the light went on. Looks like some of you are still in the dark.

Truly non-violent Muslims had better be very proactive in divorcing themseves from any and all of their soulmates while they still can since the trust is about gone, or it is going very fast. That may be difficult if they intend to adhere to the basic tenants of their religion. Seems that the radicals always are able to dominate the moderates on the basis that Allah says that ALL Muslims are obligated to follow the basic tentants. Even some of the hijackers found themselves in that situation, and evidently many ultimately failed to carry out the actions they were assigned at the last moment, realizing just what they had let themselves be led into, otherwise the carnage would have been even worse. In fact it seems moderate Muslims might be themselves candidates for conversion, or at least abandonment of such a radical and violent belief system, if they intend to just ignore so much of it, yet expose themselves to manipulation by the radical elements of that religion. That really is a very difficult way to have to live.

If some of you prefer to continue trusting that all well be well, I'm sure the radicals will be glad to dream up more nasty surprises for you, and of course you'll hand them the tools to use.

Oh, by the way, you demanded a few days ago that I provide proof of what I've been saying. I told you to read Chapter 5, verse 33 of the Koran. You have remained very,very silent on the subject since that time. I wonder why.

2258. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 18:02:59 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u0kgj$5t1$1@208.207.71.138>
Source record: 25205

CAM wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 23:57:45 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
> > wrote:
> >
> > >Actually '1Y' and that classification wasn't my idea.
> >
> > Wasn't 1Y the designation for an honorably discharged vet with > > medical conditions that prevented conscription?
>
> If so, it apparently wasn't limited to vets. I was classified '1Y'
> because of migraine headaches. They told me they didn't want me > on the front lines with an automatic weapon during a blinding > headache.

Hmmmm. I wonder what a good Google search would show on this subject....

2259. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 18:24:43 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03DA6B.FA3EB6BA@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25206

Krell wrote:
>
> "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> news:3BFC2F7C.69E864CB@IEEE.org...
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > You're such a card, Cecil (or should we call your cEcIlLy?)
> >
> > Cecilia will do. I'm a lesbian.
>
> Hey! If you're a young, shapely, attractive, fem, and are attracted to such,
> I'd like to watch some time. (But NOT if you're a stocky, overweight, > gravel-voiced, butch dyke.)

I'm a young, shapely, attractive, fem trapped in the body of an old, overweight, half-deaf, half-blind man. It's not fair.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2260. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 18:29:57 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03DBA5.B8CF28B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25207

Dave Heil wrote:
> Just about everybody is a potential ham, Cecil.

Ah, that's your mistake. I consider a potential ham as a person who has an interest in ham radio and has a good change of becoming a ham. That's what I meant when I used the words.

> As to your claim about directing hundreds here, it is simply more crap.

I taught ham radio classes at Intel for 13 years. Multiply 4 by 12 by 13 and see what you get. I passed out the names of all the r.r.a.* newsgroups in each class.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2261. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 18:32:35 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03DC43.177FA5EC@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25208

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > Just be glad I don't have the callsign W5PSY.
> > >
> > > This too is tacky and lacks class and decorum.*
> >
> > Uhhhhhh Dave, W5PSY was issued by the FCC to Mr. Olsen
> > of Duncanville, TX.
>
> Uhhhhh Cecil, I was referring to Kim's post, not Mr. Olsen's call.
> I don't believe Mr. Olson has the anatomical parts to reference in the > manner Tugboat did.

So it's OK for a man to have W5PSY but if a woman were issued that call by the FCC, she would be a slut? Talk about sexist.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2262. Re: K1MAN webpage.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 18:36:21 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9u0smfpoe1@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 25225
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest

"LARDASS Lllllllllllllllllllllllllllloyd" <Lloyd@barfhqnet.net> wrote in message news:9u0hri$1hh$0@pita.alt.net...
> "K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
> news:a96f1f4d2ee76e5b3a11b225221d54bf.15732@mygate.mailgate.org...
> > "N0VFP, Lloyd" <lloyd_vfp@msn.com> wrote in message
> > news:e1bb06a74f973f91732f3ab8815a96bd@spamfreenews.com...
> > > This is a very good site......
> > > http://www.carte.net/k1man/sites.htm
> > K1MAN is a pathetic scam artist, and you are a pathetic suck-up.
> > With all kind wishes,
> > de Hans, K0HB
> > Posted from mplsapanas11poolb82.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.20.82]
> > via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG
>
>
> K1MAN has been approved by me, the BARF Chief of > Communicatins, for consumption by the amateur radio community.
^^^^^^^^^^^^^^^^^^

Ironic that the "BARF" would have a Chief of "Communications" that can't even spell "communications."

The BARF is about as useful today as the old Warsaw Pact is.

> And if Roger would listen, it would make him a much better person > and would especially help him with that awful cursing habit he has.
>
> Lloyd

Poor Lllllllardasssss Lllllllllloyd, he gets so sexually excited at hearing those kinds of words. Oh, well, there's a first time for everything, I suppose.

2263. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 18:37:07 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03DD53.EB42D29E@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25209

Dave Heil wrote:
> This "weaseling" stuff
> certainly is easier than I ever believed possible.

Could that be because you are a natural born weasel? :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2264. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 18:51:51 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03E0C7.84276A0@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25212

Dick Carroll wrote:
> No one ever said (and I did not) that all Muslims are radical > terrorists, as Cecil has flatly stated, lying, that I did say that. What > I did say is that all Muslims are trained from infancy to believe that > all other belief systems are inferior and are to be either converted, > enslaved or eliminated by the sword.

Your hatred for all Muslims can certainly be inferred from your postings. If you do not want to commit genocide against all Muslims, exactly what is your purpose in stirring up hatred for all Muslims? Last time I checked, all people, even including you, are free to believe and think anything they choose to believe and think. It's the force or threat of force from the terrorists that is a danger to us. Since the only way to stop what people believe and think is to kill them, if you are not advocating killing them, exactly what are you advocating? Concentration Camps for one billion Muslims?

The Muslim terrorists comprise much less than one percent of the Muslim population. Why do you want to punish 99.99% of the members of a religion for the actions of the other 0.01%? Note that these numbers assume that all 100,000 members of the Taliban and al Qaeda armies are terrorists which is a ridiculously large assumption. More likely, only about 0.001% of all Muslims are terrorists. I wouldn't be surprised to discover that 0.001% of Christians or Jews are terrorists. Certainly, more than 0.001% of Christians are criminals.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2265. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 18:52:15 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gnguc54.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 25211

On 27 Nov 2001 09:47:42 -0800, N2EY wrote:

>The discussion here is about whether certain callsigns are appropriate >to the ARS. It's not just about Kim's callsign, but about the larger >topic of such callsigns in general. The W6 version of Kim's call has >been assigned to a person with the first name Michael since at least >1979, btw.

One could not request a specific 1X3 call until the Vanity program started in the mid-90s, except through the Dick Zeigler Under-The-Table route (Dick went to the Federal pen for that in 1978 or so).

I would not ever claim that Michael was a crook so the call appears to have been a "routine" issuance, albeit unusual.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

2266. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 18:52:16 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gngues5.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 25210

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 12:24:43 -0600, CAM wrote:

>I'm a young, shapely, attractive, fem trapped in the body of an >old, overweight, half-deaf, half-blind man. It's not fair.

Welcome to the club......

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

2267. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 18:59:45 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0111271059.e837328@posting.google.com>
Source record: 25213

CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message news:<3C03AED1.DFDC0419@IEEE.org>...
> N2EY wrote:
> >
> > In article <3C025523.C561E1CA@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> >
> > >N2EY wrote:
> > >>
> > >> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> > >> >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
> > >>
> > >> They DO? How do you know, Cecil?
> > >
> > >Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.
> >
> > Your deduction does not follow from the facts.
>
> Got any proof?

You made the claim, Cecil, the proof is up to you.

> Seems to me a no-brainer to deduce that more people > have access to these ham radio newsgroups than have access to > shortwave receivers capable of receiving ham CW/SSB.

Maybe, maybe not. Even if true, it only means that more people have access, not that more of them actually read this particular NG than listen to ham radio. BTW, ham radio includes more than CW/SSB. Almost anyone with a scanner can listen to 2 meter FM.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2268. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 19:01:43 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C03E317.7B11FEE3@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 25214

Rick Adams wrote:

> On 26 Nov 2001 05:48:02 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > Not at all. You clearly could have taken your Advanced and your CSCE
> >for the Extra written to the April 15 VE session and your Extra license > >was issued by the FCC on May 9. Simple enough.
>
> Wake up, genius. It was _averaging_ over 40 days from test to > issuance when the restructuring first came in--and my upgrade was > dated 24 days after that date.
>

FWIW, I cashed in my CSCE's and old tech plus on Restructuring
Day (4/15/00) and I had my new license issued within a week.
So I could claim to be an old extra. But I won't.

2269. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 19:05:06 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0111271105.63b1ecb0@posting.google.com>
Source record: 25215

CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message news:<3C03B2CF.DEFAB8BF@IEEE.org>...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> > Trivia time: Since all the Christians in the group expect > > everyone to know the day Jesus birthday is celebrated, is there a > > single person here who has enough respect for other religions to know > > when Buddha's Birthday (a historically accurate date, btw) is > > celebrated? I'll even give a hint--it's a holiday in the US.
>
> Wonder how many Christians know that a pagan holiday was adopted
> as Jesus' birthday because Romans were already celebrating it anyway?

Of course. The evergreen tree, Yule log and many other symbols are derived from pagan rituals. Same for Easter, whose name derives from Eo-star, a feast of spring. That's where all the bunny rabbit and fuzzy chick stuff comes from, as well as the new clothes customs.

The holidays and traditions develop as much from people's needs as from religion or actual events.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2270. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 19:07:07 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9u0o6n02ipj@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25222

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9u0i5c$7l$0@208.207.71.138...

> Which means you have no idea what you're advocating attacking. There > is not a single nation that supports radical Islamic terrorists that is > not populated by Muslims. Your attitude is examplary of just how we go > this far into such a rediculous scenario in the first place. We have > been taught to be completely tolerant of all other religious systems, > even one whose basic fundamentals dictate that we should be destroyed.

...and where did you learn this? From "Islam for Dummies?"

Islam is a peaceful religion that has been hijacked by a group of radicals, and twisted into something that Mohammed would be appalled at. Dick, you and I want the same thing, but for different reasons. Ideally, I would be satisfied if the people of Muslim countries rose against these terrorists and blastted them nito oblivion, but that's not going to happen because Muslim nations are more frightened by the terrorists than Israel or the U.S. They are calling the shots and running the show. Who knows; we might even get a few to join the action if we nuked a couple of cities. After all, we nuked Japan in WWII and now they're a staunch ally.

2271. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 19:09:51 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03E4FF.97F8DFDC@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25216

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Of course Islam was responiible for the WTC etc! If not for the basic > teachings of fundamentalist Islam those acts would have never been never > been performed -by ISLAMICS!

It's the Christians who are responsible for the WTC etc. If the Christians had not engaged in the Crusades and sacked Constanople, the Islamics wouldn't be mad at us. Actually, Jehovah=Yahweh=Allah is responsible for the WTC etc. He created the Christians, Jews, and the Islamics knowing that they would be at each other's throats for centuries.

> You are still in denial and just another component of the problem. Most > of us were glad to tolerate that sort of a belief system, considering it > as non-threatening, until that day in September when the light went on.

Dick, did you discard Christianity because Tim McVee was a Christian?
How can you, with a straight face, condemn 99.999% of the Islamic people for the actions of 0.001%?

> If some of you prefer to continue trusting that all well be well, I'm > sure the radicals will be glad to dream up more nasty surprises for you, > and of course you'll hand them the tools to use.

Nobody thinks that all is well, Dick. The terrorists need to be neutralized but that is much less than one percent of Muslims. By spreading such hatred and malicious lies, you are probably re-enforcing the pre-conceived notions of some terrorists about Christians. Maybe your Christian maliciousness should be neutralized.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2272. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 19:12:31 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03E59F.D55A9944@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25217

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > If so, it apparently wasn't limited to vets. I was classified '1Y'
> > because of migraine headaches. They told me they didn't want me > > on the front lines with an automatic weapon during a blinding > > headache.
>
> Hmmmm. I wonder what a good Google search would show on this > subject....

Probably additional details about me being classified '1Y'.
I had been approved for induction by the Air Force before I found out during an Army physical that migraine headaches are grounds for rejection.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2273. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 19:18:03 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <LFRM7.131132$WW.8319527@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 25218

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C03E59F.D55A9944@IEEE.org...
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > If so, it apparently wasn't limited to vets. I was classified '1Y'
> > > because of migraine headaches. They told me they didn't want me > > > on the front lines with an automatic weapon during a blinding > > > headache.
> >
> > Hmmmm. I wonder what a good Google search would show on this > > subject....
>
> Probably additional details about me being classified '1Y'.
> I had been approved for induction by the Air Force before I > found out during an Army physical that migraine headaches > are grounds for rejection.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

1-Ys of the world, Unite! And yours, like mine and Dick Cheny's, was the product of some benevolent doc at the draft board who did not like sending college grads to the jungle. Believe it or not, mine was for chronic athlete's foot.

Dick NBK

2274. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 19:22:26 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03E7F2.6AFB1693@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25219

N2EY wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message news:<3C03AED1.DFDC0419@IEEE.org>...
> > N2EY wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> > > >Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.
> > >
> > > Your deduction does not follow from the facts.
> >
> > Got any proof?
>
> You made the claim, Cecil, the proof is up to you.

Since you don't present any proof to the contrary, I will continue to hold that opinion, thank you. Changing my opinion without any evidence is not something that I do. Do you change your opinion in the absence of evidence, Jim?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2275. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 19:25:01 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C03E88D.2AA9174F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25220

N2EY wrote:
> The holidays and traditions develop as much from people's needs as
> from religion or actual events.

Not to mention, Constantine wanted to make it easy for people to believe in Christianity.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2276. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 19:34:10 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <8A28DA642C125CE3.940DE072DF838EF3.70544A7151EF6981@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25221

On 26 Nov 2001 04:20:32 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>> Better not, Cecil.
>>
>> You might get what you pray for--and what on Earth would you >>do with Larry Roll?
>
>Talk about your feeble attempts at humor...

Talk about feeble things to pray for . . . ;-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2277. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 19:50:30 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <665A50CC67ACFA35.8BA7C2B22687649E.11DF9FEC86026A88@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25223

On 26 Nov 2001 08:06:08 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Nonsense. Animals have no awareness of sex. They are stimulated by >pheromones, and sexual activity is the result of that stimuli. You don't >see deer screwing around except during rutting season when the females >provide the pheromones.

From Bahemihl, B., Ph.D., (2000). Biological Exhuberance:
Animal Homosexuality and Natural Diversity, St. Martin's Press.

species % homosexual % bisexual % heterosexual silver gulls (females) 10 11 79
black headed gulls (both sexes) 22 15 63 Japanese macaques (both sexes) 9 56 35 bonobo chimpanzees (both sexes) 0 100 0 galahs (both sexes) 44 11 44

From by Tina Adler writing in Science News Magazine

"Scientists have studied the sex drive and sexual orientation of domesticated and wild rams. A heterosexual ram with a strong sex drive will mount either other males or ewes. However, a significant proportion of domesticated males - up to 16 percent - never mate with females during a breeding season, Perkins says.

About 6 percent seem uninterested in any sexual activity; another 10 percent are homosexual, choosing males even when females are available. Domesticated rams resemble their wild relatives, which scientists have also observed participating in homosexual relations.
Ewes rarely engage in such activities."

From Newsweek Magazine:

"A zoo in Holland is offering tours of the homosexual animals in its care to show that gay animals are found in the nature.

The Artis Zoo in Amsterdam has gay monkeys, geese, bulls, goats, dophins, flamingos, elephants and gorillas says Director Maarten Frankenhuis.

He went on to say that male animals even in the company of females sometimes preferred their own sex. At other times animals that were in all-male enclosures had sex with other males, ï¿½like in English boarding schools,ï¿½ said Frankenhuis.

The tours are particularly popular amongst those wanting to show others that homosexuality is normal in the animal kingdom.

ï¿½We get mostly gay people and mothers with their sons after theyï¿½ve come out,ï¿½ Frankenhuis told Newsweek.

Frankenhuis said that homosexual animals are not treated badly by others in their species as animals donï¿½t have the complications that humans have."

From Bidstrop, S. (2000). The Natural "Crime Against Nature"
A Brief Survey of Homosexual Behaviors In Animals.

"Just as in humans, animals often form long-term same-sex relationships. In species in which this normally occurs in heterosexual couples, that shouldn't come as a great surprise, but it does come as a surprise in species where heterosexual pair-bonds don't normally form for long if at all. This is true of bottlenose dolphins, which are not known to form heterosexual pair bonds, but which do in fact form homosexual pair bonds, including sex, and often lasting for life.
In animals in which "bachelor groups" form, such as bison, gazelles, antelope, sage grouse and Guinean cocks-of-the-rock, it is not uncommon for same sex pair bonds to form and last until one or the other member of the pair departs the relationship and breeds. It is also not uncommon for homosexual preference to form among members of such bachelor groups; when offered the opportunity to breed unencumbered with members of the opposite sex or the same sex, they choose the same sex.

The human pattern of bisexuality also appears in animals. In some cases, animals prefer same sex at one point in their lives, and change preference later. They may even change back and forth. In some cases, animals may seek sex with partners of either sex at random.

In animals with a seasonal breeding pattern, homosexuality can even be seasonal. Male walruses, for example, often form homosexual pair bonds and have sex with each other outside of the breeding season, but will revert to a heterosexual pattern during the normal breeding season."

>If the phereomones there they don't know sex exists.

Don't look that way to me!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2278. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 19:55:22 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gngxca8.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 25224

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 13:12:31 -0600, CAM wrote:

>> Hmmmm. I wonder what a good Google search would show on this >> subject....
>
>Probably additional details about me being classified '1Y'.
>I had been approved for induction by the Air Force before I >found out during an Army physical that migraine headaches
>are grounds for rejection.

Induction physicals are weird anyhow.

They called me for one at age 25 when my I-S (industrial) deferment lapsed between jobs. Of course they called me while I was just recovering from a strep infection and my heart sounded like a cement mixer. I was classified as 4-F subject to recall in 90 days. By that time I had found another job and was again eligible for I-S deferment status, but the Draft Board kept me as 4-F without re-exam.

My younger brother, OTOH. who was born with partially developed optic nerves and has no better than 20/200 eyesight in both eyes was classified as 1-Y. Theoretically they could have called him before they called me.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

2279. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:05:58 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9ADEEC8131962182.DD0E0ACB6A2E015F.135A51351943F6B4@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25226

On 26 Nov 2001 01:04:13 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>So your concepts of right and wrong are no more based on "logic" than anyone
>else's. OK

My PERSONAL values don't NEED to be based on logic--only those of the state. My values can't be used to limit your choices--those of the state can, and thus the state has a greater responsibility to insure that its values are strictly logical and not based on opinion, religion, or any other basis than harm to non-consenting individuals.

>The problem is, who gets to define "harm"? You might say that a particular >action of yours causes no harm, and others may disagree. The devil is in the >details.

Not really.

So long as no one who does not consent to participate is involved in an activity how is it POSSIBLE to harm someone who doesn't give consent?

Those who would claim that "immoral" activities (by their definition of morality, of course) "harm" society have an obligation to demonstrate the nature of that harm, and to show that a concrete victim (not some amorphous abstract as "society"--at least one, identifiable, individual) suffered harm. If no victim can be identified, or if all victims gave their consent to the harm (i.e., medically assisted suicide, etc.) it is completely unreasonable for the state to claim that the activity "harms" anyone.

Harm isn't an abstract, it's absolute. Either a given action causes direct harm to a non-consenting individual or it does not. If it does, it should be prohibited. If not, it is not the concern of the state.

Try to identify a single act which you would define as causing harm, yet which does not fit my definition of harm above. You'll find rather quickly that it can't be done--without a victim it's impossible to identify ANY specific harm that has occurred (and remember, harm to the property of an individual--including acts which render that property less valuable--IS a form of personal harm).

>>>How do you KNOW there are no absolute values for right and wrong? Besides, >>>making that statement is an absolute!
>>
>> But not an absolute value of right and wrong.
>

>Yes. it is.

Nope. An absolute statement of semantics.

>> 1. There has never been universal agreement among ALL sane and >>intelligent people (I'll leave the mentally ill and intellectually >>challenged out of the definition, since their perceptions would by >>necessity inaccurately influence their decisions) as to ANY universals >>that were right and wrong.
>
>So? Just because a thing has not yet been discoverd does not mean it does not >exist. Go back around 200 years, and your argument could be applied to >electronic communications (nobody has ever done it, so it must not exist).
>There is almost universal acceptance of relativistic physics today, yet a >little over 100 years ago nobody had ever thought of it. Yet it existed.

Ok, let's assume I accept that point. Effectively it is immaterial anyway because, as you agree above, such absolutes have NOT been discovered. I will grant the "possibility" of such absolutes being recognized--but because they WILL be absolutes, by definition, no sane person will want to violate those standards anyway.

Until, however, such absolutes are shown to exist, I'll maintain my view that the definition of "right" and "wrong" is based on personal values (perhaps shared with others--but still personal values), not on any absolutes, and thus are binding ONLY on those who accept them as valid.

>>If absolutes existed, there would >>necessarily be agreement as to their existence.
>
>Nope. Not at all. A thing exists whether its existence is acknowledged or not.
>Did electromagnetic waves exist before there was agreement on their existence?

Sure--but until that existence WAS discovered, they had no relevance to society at all. And once their existence WAS known, there was universal agreement among sane and intelligent adults as to both their existence and (in so far as a person was educated in science) in their principles.

Moral absolutes _may_ exist, but if they do they have NOT been discovered as yet--if they were, like electromagnetic waves, they would be universally accepted.

Incidently, the reverse argument is, by necessity, equally true. Since there are NO values for "right" and "wrong" that all sane and rational humans agree are absolutes, it follows that NO currently existent system of morals has the right to claim its values ARE absolute instead of relative, thus the claims of all religions to present the only "truth" are demonstrably wrong.

>>Yet for ANY "right" or
>>"wrong" you can list, I can identify at least one (or more) culture >>that feels the opposite.

>>
>So? The fact that some culture(s) don't agree to them does not mean moral >absolutes do not exist.

Nonsense.

If they were absolutes, by definition ALL people would accept them as valid!

>> 2. There is no commonly accepted source for such absolutes to >>have been decided. Some people believe right and wrong are defined by >>a "god," others by culture, still others by the individual. Unless >>one, invariant, and demonstrably infallible source of such absolutes >>can be shown to exist (not on a basis of belief--as in a diety--but in >>a scientifically verifiable sense), no such absolutes can be >>reasonably be considered TO exist.
>
>Wrong again, Rick. Do the laws of physics exist? Yes. Is there universal >acceptance of their source or origin? Nope. Yet they exist anyway.

You're groping at straws there. The laws of physics are NOT absolutes to start with (read Einstein, Hawking, or any modern Theoretical Physicist), they are theories that are subject to change.
When Newton was alive, physics had a clear set of laws--are all the same laws still accepted today, or did Einstein's equations refute some of those "immutable" laws of the period?

More importantly, unlike morality, physics deals with objective (versus subjective) criteria--they are not the same thing.

>> Why is it so difficult for people to accept that concepts of >>right and wrong are relative, instead of absolute?
>
>The fact that you have not proved your contentions, for one.

I don't need to. Those who insist that they are absolute have an obligation to demonstrate that fact clearly since they expect to use those values to establish laws that affect my freedom of choice directly, while my personal values do NOT have any influence on the freedom of choice of others.

In addition, you are asking me to prove a negative--that something does NOT exist. I'll make you a deal--if you'll prove to me, beyond any doubt, that you have NEVER sold heroin to children, I will in turn prove to you that moral values are not absolutes. Fair enough?

>> We don't live in a >>static, unchanging, world--we live in a dynamic, evolving, one.
>
>Yup. Which means that we are learning more and more about the moral absolutes.
>Just as Newtonian physics was shown to be inadequate for some phenomena, old >moral systems have been shown to need renewal. Doesn't mean moral absolutes >don;t exist, just that they haven't been completely identified yet.

Weak. Very Weak. By that argument, we can assume that Santa Claus and flying rain deer really exist, we just haven't found them yet!

At least you make one point--if, as YOU state, we have not found any absolute values of right & wrong, by necessity any group or organization that claims to adhere to such absolute values is incorrect and is basing its assumptions on false information. And, of course, Christianity makes precisely that claim. Thus, by YOUR argument, it can be seen that Christianity is based on false information. But if that is the case, Christians are practicing a religion that has no basis in fact, and the entire framework becomes one of pure superstition.

>> What
>>is "right" today may well be "wrong" tomorrow.
>
>Only because we have misdefined "right" in the first case. For example, slavery >was once considered "right", yet it was always "wrong".

Precisely.

But if right and wrong are subject to change, how can you claim that ANY current definitions of right and wrong are accurate--or worthy of acceptance? Just as slavery was once viewed as "right" by a majority of people and is now considered "wrong" the same may hold equally true for every other moral value currently being held up as "right" or an "absolute."

>> 1. I would hope we all agree that killing another adult human >>being who does not wish to die and did not commit a capital crime is >>"wrong."
>
>Why do you limit it to adults? Is it OK to kill children??

Because, to avoid conflict over such topics as the right & wrong of sex education, teenage sexuality, etc., I've elected to keep the focus of the argument on the behavior of adults. Certainly killing or otherwise physically harming a child is, by my definition, wrong--but no more (or less) wrong than killing an adult. We can include children in the debate, but if we do such topics as the question of whether imposing religion on a child is abuse or not have to be raised as well, and that just dilutes the focus of the discussion needlessly.

>>But if that is the case, doesn't that make war (in which >>conscripts and civilians are routinely killed--as is happening now in >>Afghanistan) wrong and those who wage war evil by definition?
>
>Nope. It all depends on the intent. Killing those who are trying to kill you is >self-defense.

THOU SHALT NOT KILL.

That's the rule the most Christians say is among the most valid of the ten commandments. It doesn't say "Thou shalt not kill except . . ." It says "Thou shalt not kill."

Can't have it both ways. Either killing someone is an absolute wrong or it is not. If it is there are NO circumstances under which it is acceptable. If it is not, there are.

>What is absolutely wrong is to START a war. Like Germany did in WW2. First they >used the threat of force to get Austria and some other territories, then they >used force itself on Poland.

The Taliban did NOT send the terrorists to the USA--Osama bin Laden did so. George W. Bush responded to the act of an individual by starting a war against a nation that wouldn't obey his order to capture and turn him over to the USA. According to your statement above, his act was an absolute wrong.

>> If not,
>>then killing is NOT an absolute "wrong."
>
>Yup. Murder is an absolute wrong, though.

Would it have been wrong to kill Hitler at the Beer Hall Putsch in 1924 if the killer knew FOR CERTAIN what would follow? It would have prevented the deaths of millions of innocent people. But it would have been murder.

Would you consider it wrong if Osama bin Laden were murdered by afghanis who wanted to see the destruction of their nation by the US halted?

>>If so, then everyone in this >>group who ever served in uniform (as I did as well) was "wrong" as >>his/her role could have reasonably been expected to result in the >>killing of others.
>
>Incorrect, as shown above.

Correct as shown above.

>> 2. In most early cultures (including the Egyptian and Roman >>cultures), prostitution was considered an act of spirituality--many >>temples had prostitutes who contributed their fees to the temple >>itself. Today, the churches define prostitution as "wrong" and >>immoral. Which is it? Depends a LOT on your perspective--and thus the >>concept of an "absolute" wrong doesn't apply here either.
>
>Nope. Not the same thing at all.
>
>The prostitution of ancient pagan cultures bears no real resemblance to the >modern version. Your example is so flawed as to be useless.

Really?

Did the women of the time not sell their sexual favors for money? Did the men not pay for sexual pleasure?

Perhaps YOU see a difference that would justify claiming that prostitution was not "wrong" then but is now, but I don't.

>> Many examples could be used just as easily. The important fact >>is, there are NO universals concerning right and wrong (the closest is >>an almost--but not complete--taboo on incest throughout cultures, but
>>of course each culture defines what incest IS in a different manner;
>>what an American would consider incest may not be considered such in,
>>for example, Borneo, and what a Sudanese would consider incest >>wouldn't be considered incest here in the USA).
>
>What you are avoiding is the reasons these things are considered "wrong". For >example, on reason incest is not a good idea is the high incidence of genetic >defects resulting from such unions.

False.

Incest can involve anything from Father/Daughter sex to sex between people so distantly related that there is absolutely NO chance their relationship will result in any more defects than any random pairing. In addition, those bans were made LONG before the concepts of genetics were known in the first place--and did NOT apply to royalty at all--only to the commoners.

>> The closest we can come to an absolute value is to limit our >>"Universals" to a statement that any act which harms the person or >>property of a non-consenting (and, in the case of criminal punishment >>or war, inappropriately targeted) individual is "wrong" from any >>reasonable perspective.
>
>Yup. But ya gotta define "harm". You keep avoiding that little detail.

No--you do.

If you claim harm exists, you have the obligation to demonstrate that fact. It isn't my obligation to show that it doesn't.
In the absence of an identifiable victim, it's ASSUMED not to exist.

>>Thus, if I commit murder, rape, theft, or >>expose myself to children at a bus stop for that matter, it can >>clearly be seen that harm HAS been inflicted directly on >>non-consenting individuals, and thus by any reasonable definition the >>act was "wrong."
>
>Maybe. Suppose I committed theft of medical supplies from a closed store to >save a life at an accident scene. Was that act "wrong"?

If you did not make an attempt to compensate the store owner at a later time, yes it was. You harmed the store owner.

>> On the other hand, if instead of acting in the manner above, I >>choose to attend a nude beach, smoke a joint, or attend a swing party >>for that matter, it is equally clear that no non-consenting person is >>in any way involved in the action, and thus no harm has occurred.
>
>No, it's not clear at all. At least not in the second and third examples. The >nude beach I'm not sure of.

How are the second and third examples not clear? Demonstrate a way in which attendance at a swing party, as an example, in any way harms individuals who do not consent to the harm? Who is the victim?
Who is the victim if I smoke a joint or drink a beer (effectively the same type of act) in a private setting? Don't claim it could result in unsafe driving--THAT would constitute harm. Stick instead to the concept of the person sitting at home smoking a joint or enjoying a few drinks.

>You are "presuming the conclusion" that no harm was done.

In the absence of any identifiable victim or any proof that harm HAS occurred, that's a reasonable conclusion.

Have you harmed your children today? If you say no, aren't you just assuming that? Is it a reasonable assumption? If so, mine are as well--if not, you need to spend more time addressing your children's needs and less on the Inet! ;-)

>>Given such a circumstance, the ONLY valid judge of whether or not my >>action was "wrong" is myself--and that decision can only be based on >>my personal interpretation of morality, not on one being imposed on me >>by others.
>
>IF you can show that no harm was done to others, yes. But you have to show that >first. You simply presume it.

Nope, again it isn't up to me to show that no harm was done.
It is up to others to show that harm WAS done. Innocent until proven guilty, remember?

>> Why is that concept so difficult for people to understand and >>accept? It allows EVERYONE the right to engage in any activity that >>does not harm others, and forbids anyone from engaging in any activity >>that DOES harm others. Sounds pretty logical to me.
>
>The problem is that actions you consider harmless are not considered harmless >by others. For example, if a "swing party" results in the transmission of >venereal disease(s) or unwanted pregnancies, it isn't harmless to others at
>all.

But they don't!

I've studied swingers rather extensively (my dissertation for my doctorate in Sociology was on "The influence of the Internet on members of the swing lifestyle in the United States" and was the result of four years of study). A few facts:

1. Only two cases of AIDS resulting from participation in swinging activities have EVER been recorded at the CDC; both occurred in 1985 at a swing club in Minneapolis where two women had unprotected anal sex with a local man known to frequent the gay bathhouses. Clearly, that wasn't a case of "swinging" causing infection, it was one of sheer stupidity.

2. The majority of club and party swingers use condoms and follow other safe-sex practices. Some swing clubs even require members to sign an agreement to practice safe sex on the premises.

3. Swingers are essentially a "closed loop" population. What that means is that they tend to have sexual relations only with other swingers (logical, right?). And because swingers are notoriously conservative (believe it or not, most are both Republicans and practicing Christians--there's even an organization online for Fundamentalist swingers!) and thus strongly opposed to both drug use (IV drug use is the single most common source of HIV infection in the US), marijuana often excepted, and male homosexual activities (female bisexuality is extremely common in the lifestyle, but poses virtually NO risk of HIV or other major infection according to the CDC).

4. The only disorders more common in swingers than in the general population are colds and the flu--both are statistically higher in swing groups, but that holds true of any setting in which people are in very close proximity (as they are when dancing, etc.) including those who regularly attend American Legion and VFW functions, and those very active in church groups. Yeast infections are also somewhat more common in swing groups, but not to any significant extent, nor are they necessarily sexually transmitted.

5. As far as unwanted pregnancies go--swingers are very careful to protect themselves from that result, many in fact have had vasectomies or tubal ligations (the AVERAGE swinging couple in the US have been married over 10 years [over 20 years is very common], are between 36 and 50 years old, and have all the children they wish to have--and thus vasectomies & ligations are fairly common). Of the people I interviewed (a fairly large, representative sample) none had either been impregnated at a swing function nor did they know anyone else who had (one woman said she was impregnated by her husband at a swing club--and that they were "soft" swingers [swingers who engage in foreplay but not intercourse with other couples], thus it couldn't have been anyone other than her husband who was responsible. They wanted another child, btw).

Based on your criteria above, I guess it's harmless after all.

>> You mean moral values are NOT "personal" but the definition of
>>"harm" is?
>

>I mean BOTH have to be generally agreed upon.

Why?

What business is it of yours, or anyone else's, what my moral values are? And what business is it of mine what someone else's are?

So long as harm does not result, it isn't anyone's BUSINESS what someone's values or behavior are. Perhaps it isn't the right of free choice that is key here, it's the right to privacy.

>What is absurd is for me to accept that an action is harmless just because you >say it is.

Then by all means identify a victim and demonstrate that harm occurred. That's all that's necessary to make your point. In the absence of such a victim, however, there is absolutely no rational basis at all for considering an action anything BUT harmless.

>> It's pretty easy to tell if someone has been harmed. All >>that's necessary is to learn if they were directly involved in the >>activity concerned, and if so if they gave their informed consent for >>the activity TO occur. If--and only if--they were involved and did not >>consent to the activity can we define the experience as having harmed >>them.
>
>Nope. Incorrect.

So demonstrate that with more proof than your opinion.

>> For example, if I choose to attend a nude beach, it clearly >>cannot cause you harm. If you are not at that beach, you _can_ not be >>harmed in any manner by my attendance and if you ARE at the nude >>beach, you have given an implied consent for others to be nude in your >>presence--if you are offended by seeing nude people yet choose to go >>to a nude beach, you really don't have any grounds for complaint if >>people ignore your claim to be offended.
>
>As I said above, I'm not sure about the nude beach.

Why not?

Either it harms you or it does not. It's a pretty clear cut issue.

>> Is that really so difficult to understand? It simply states
>>the same thing as the old cliche: "Your right to swing your arm ends >>at the tip of my nose."
>>
>So it's OK to swing one's fist but stop a fraction of an inch from another >person's nose? I disagree! Such action is a threat.

Only if the intent is to threaten or harm. If, for example, I happen to be one of those people who use gestures a great deal to communicate and one of those gestures comes close to hitting your nose, while I may be considered rude or careless, I _can't_ be considered to have harmed you. But, otoh, if my hand actually CONNECTS with your nose, accident or not, I HAVE harmed you.

>> Use the criteria above to determine harm. Anyone could then >>recognize whether it occurred or not.
>
>Apply it to the smoke a joint or swing party ideas, then see what happens.

Ok. The criteria states that so long as an action does not harm the person or property of a non-consenting individual, it is no one's business other than that of the participants involved.

Smoking a joint: Unless non-smokers who object to/are influenced by the marijuana smoke are present there is no possible victim, and thus harm has not occurred.

Swing parties: Because no one is present at a swing party who doesn't agree to be there, with the clear understanding that open sexual behavior, nudity, and other adult activities will occur in their presence (no one at a swing party is obligated to participate, obviously, but they are expected to be tolerant of the activities of other guests) in this case as well no victim exists, and thus harm has not occurred.

>> No--it means that the non-victim (the person who is not >>involved in the action--as stated above) has no voice in the matter.
>
>An action may involve more people than you realize.

Another vague statement. Identify them specifically. You can't ban an action because someone, somewhere, who was not even involved in it may be offended by it. If you feel that kind of action is appropriate, then by necessity all churches should be closed immediately because their teachings may be offensive to some members of our society, all schools should be closed because they may teach something offensive to some members of our society, and all government programs should be discontinued because THEY may be offensive to some members of our society. In other words, if we accept that harm can involve "victims" who are not directly affected by the specific actions in any way, then we must recognize that nearly all actions we perform in our lives can be considered harmful as well for precisely the same reason.

>>>So only the persons committing an action get to decide whether harm has >>>occurred? I don't think you mean that!
>>
>> I don't think I _said_ that either!
>
>You discount society's values, so the only people left are those committing the >action.

The word "committing" is NOT the same as the words "participating in."

Why SHOULD society have a voice in activities that don't in any way involve them? Should YOU have the right to tell me how to interact with my wife in bed, for example? If you believe you should, I'd LOVE to see you justify that one. But if YOU don't have that right, why does society--which simply consists of a lot of individuals like yourself--have any different right as a group? What I--or anyone else--do in private is totally my own business, and not that of society. What's so hard to understand about that?

You keep arguing that harm isn't limited to the participants.
Then demonstrate that instead of using it like a hammer to make your points. Unless you can show concrete harm to concrete victims you really don't have any justification for claiming such harm exists, and we both know it.

>> But if I place a bet on a horse race, unless you are present
>>and a part of the action, you are NOT involved, and therefore have no >>voice in deciding whether my action (in which you can't legitimately >>identify a victim who was harmed) was right or wrong in any absolute >>sense.
>
>Nope. Your placing a bet on a horse race affects me even if I am not there. Not >in a big way, but there is an effect.

Care to demonstrate that?

Did I make a bet on a horse race today? Did Cecil? Did Kim?
Did anyone in this News Group? Who in the United States DID do so?
Which Americans "harmed you" today--and how were you harmed?

Easy to claim it--but if you don't even know if something happened, it IS a bit absurd for you to claim it harmed you. Even if I did make a bet on a horse race today and informed you of it in this thread, precisely how would you have been harmed personally? If you can't IDENTIFY the harm to yourself that you claim would occur, you really don't have much of an argument there at all.

>>>> Just as I'm not "in charge" of deciding that your views are >>>>narrow-minded,
>
>They are not.
>
>>>> you are not "in charge" of deciding that Kim's (or mine >>>>for that matter) are "immoral" or "tasteless."
>>>
>Yes, I am. I say callsigns like that are inappropriate, that's all. My opinion >only.

And it has precisely the same value as mine, Kim's, Cecil's, or Hollingsworth's for that matter. NO opinion has any greater value than anyone elses--which is the best possible reason for not accepting "society" (which is only a grouping of individuals, not a separate entity) as having the right to determine what is moral and what is

not.

>>>Who gets to decide if a particular callsign causes harm or not?
>>
>> The FCC. They set the standards for issuing call signs.
>
>So they are infallible in that decision? I don't think so. By that logic, govt.
>agencies define right and wrong because they determine whether or not harm has >occurred.

No one said they are infallible. It IS however their responsibility to issue call signs and to govern the use of the airways in this country. Thus, it is their responsibility to make decisions as to what is or is not appropriate use of those airways, including the content (which itself includes the call sign) to be permitted to various services (ranging from the most restrictions on the broadcast media and the least on cellular telephone users). Thus they are the ONLY legitimate arbiters of what call signs are acceptable and what call signs are not. You can rant and rave all you want about her sign, but if the FCC approves it (which, by granting the sign, they have done) no one else has a say in the matter.

>Note that the FCC will not issue a call like Kim's unless asked. That means >they recognize it is somehow different from other calls.

W8GOD is likewise available only on request. Presumably, since you claim it to be true in Kim's case, the FCC must see "GOD" as offensive as well.

>>>You're avoiding the central questions, Rick: Who decides whether harm has >>>occurred? Who decides whether the harm is great enough to require some sort
>>of >>>action to remedy the situation?
>>
>> Answered above.
>
>Avoided above.

No, ANSWERED above. Now try to provide any evidence that YOUR view is accurate. FIND THE VICTIMS for the harm you claim occurs.

>> It is clear that A has harmed B.
>
>Agreed.
>
>>Through his direct and >>deliberate violation of reasonably expected standards in a residential >>community he has caused B to suffer an economic loss.
>
>"Reasonably expected standards" simply means society's values. In a different >residential community, A's actions might have no effect at all.

Nope--it refers directly to the average behavior demonstrated by a resident of that community. More specifically, it refers to behavior that does not affect the property values or enjoyment of other residents.

>So what we have is SOCIETY deciding what the values are. Not the individuals >involved!

Not at all. The housing market decides in this case. If the actions of the neighbor do NOT reduce the value of the home or directly reduce the enjoyment and use of the property owned by neighbors (by directly, I mean that simply _knowing_ what a person does inside his/her home--that s/he is a practicing homosexual for example--and being personally offended by that kind of activity does NOT mean an individual is harmed by it), he or she has NOT harmed anyone, regardless of the opinion of "society."

Why on earth is it so difficult for you to understand such a simple concept?

>>B, in any such >>circumstances, could sell his house--however he would be forced to >>accept a price below that which he would have realized had the >>neighboring home not reduced his property value.
>
>In some markets, a house next to such a property becomes unsellable. This is >how blighted areas are created from nice neighborhoods.

Which, of course, would make the damages in B's case equal to the normal market value of his home if A's home was not a consideration.

>>Thus, the amount of >>the loss (the harm suffered by B) is the amount of reduction in price >>between a fair market value, given expected neighborhood values, and >>the actual realized offering price.
>
>Plus consideration for B's time and aggravation in having to deal with it, >legal fees, excess RE taxes, etc.

Within reason, yes.

>> The remedy, obviously, is a legal >>action against A compelling him to either repair his property and thus >>restore B's property values or to compensate B for the difference in >>selling prices resulting from his actions. As far as who gets to >>decide, in such a case, clearly the decision would be made by a judge.
>
>And all this is OK with you and your moral ideas?

Absolutely.

My moral values do NOT support causing others harm w/o their permission. They simply insist that if no one is harmed it isn't any of society's business. In the case above, a clear victim (B) exists and real, identifiable, harm has occurred.

>> BTW, consider this. Obviously, you view A as having harmed B
>>(a view I agree with), and felt that way when you wrote this example.
>
>That was part of it, but there's a lot more. For example, did the harm occur >when A let his property run down, or only when B tried to sell?

That depends on whether it reduced B's enjoyment of his property. If it did not, then the harm didn't occur until the sale was attempted (for example, if A offered to purchase B's property for fair market value as soon as it was made available, A would NEVER have harmed B). If, however, B's enjoyment of his property was reduced directly by A's actions, clearly the harm began at that moment, not the moment of sale.

>>Let's change it a bit. Suppose instead of failing to maintain his >>property, A is a ham radio operator who chooses to put up an antenna >>farm that, because it distracts from the visual appearance of the >>neighborhood, results in the same difficulty in selling for B. Is the >>situation the same or different? Why?
>
>It's the same. But studies have shown that putting up antennas does NOT >negatively impact property values unless said antennas are poorly maintained.

How about enjoyment of the property?

Suppose I'm a non-ham living next door to you and I feel your antenna farm is unsightly and detracts from my view of the mountains/lake/ocean/cess pool beyond your property. I cannot escape the view of your antennas because they dominate the only scenic side of my yard.

Have you harmed me? From my perspective, that WOULD constitute harm, as the property owner lost some measure of enjoyment in his property as a direct result of your actions. Do you agree?

>> The answer to the first part is above. With respect to the >>second part, C has NO legitimate grounds to demand that A fix up the >>property (although he is certainly free to ask him to do so and to try >>to convince him that it would benefit him as well). C purchased the >>property at a price consistent with being next door to a property in >>the condition of A's--thus he is NOT harmed by A's actions in any way >>(assuming A doesn't allow his property to deteriorate even further, >>thus reducing C's property value further, and placing him in the same >>position B was in originally).
>
>I disagree. Such action permits neighborhoods to decline.

Only if others follow suit. The mere fact that a single homeowner (who, remember, has already lost money in a court action brought by "B" and who stands to lose an equivalent amount if any other neighbor loses money on the sale of his or her property) has allowed his personal property to deteriorate does not mean any other property owner will do the same. One run-down property does NOT make for a declining neighborhood.

>>>Who decides? Whose values of "harm" should be used? Think about it.
>>
>> I have--read over my examples and try to do the same yourself.
>
>I have. Your ideas don't work in real life.

Again, Jim, show some examples to prove your statements, not just vague generalities and opinions.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2280. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:09:44 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u0veo$356$0@208.207.71.155>
Source record: 25227

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 25 Nov 2001 07:27:49 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > There you go, lying out your ass again. Read the Koran and see what > >they are taught.
>
> I've read it, Dick. And I say you are totally wrong in your > statements.
>
> Have YOU read it--or only read ABOUT it? If you claim to have > read it, then by all means provide me citations of the statements that > back your claims so I can read them in context in the copy of the > Koran sitting five feet from me right now.
>
> Put up or shut up, Dick. You claim to have read it--prove it.

Actually, Rick I have the entire document (actually an online translation, the Islamic fundamentalists insist that only the original is accurate and that no translation can ever be). I downloaded it from this website online Koran at

http://www.hti.umich.edu/k/koran/browse.html

And here are a few direct quotations for your pleasure. Of course, all ancient writings are subject to the interpretations of today, and of course that is the major problem. The fundamentalists insist to moderates that their interpretations are correct, and that Allah obligates all Muslims to follow. Thus they are able to persuade so many believers of the accuracy of those interpretations. Of course I have never said that all Muslims are oreinted toward voilence toware nonbelievers, but as you can easily see, the scriptural mandate is there, and to the many who need only a little urging, it is clearly, from Sept 11, sufficient.

From the Koran:

[48.13] And whoever does not believe in Allah and His Apostle, then surely We have prepared burning fire for the unbelievers.

[48.16] Say to those of the dwellers of the desert who were left behind: You shall soon be invited (to fight) against a people possessing mighty prowess; you will fight against them until they submit; then if you obey, Allah will grant you a good reward;

and if you turn back as you turned back before, He will punish you with a painful punishment.

(So they MUST destroy the infidels, or they themselves will be severly punished)

[48.17] There is no harm in the blind, nor is there any harm in the lame, nor is there any harm in the sick (if they do not go forth); and whoever obeys Allah and His Apostle, He will cause him to enter gardens beneath which rivers flow, and whoever turns back, He will punish him with a painful punishment.

[48.25] It is they who disbelieved and turned you away from the Sacred Mosque and (turned off) the offering withheld from arriving at its destined place; and were it not for the believing men and the believing women, whom, not having known, you might have trodden down, and thus something hateful might have afflicted you on their account without knowledge-- so that Allah may cause to enter into His mercy whomsoever He pleases; had they been widely separated one from another, We would surely have punished those who disbelieved from among them with a painful punishment.

48.29] Muhammad is the Apostle of Allah, and those with him are firm of heart against the unbelievers, compassionate among themselves; you will see them bowing down, prostrating themselves, seeking grace from Allah and pleasure; their marks are in their faces because of the effect of prostration; that is their description in the Taurat and their description in the Injeel; like as seed-produce that puts forth its sprout, then strengthens it, so it becomes stout and stands firmly on its stem, delighting the sowers that He may enrage the unbelievers on account of them; Allah has promised those among them who believe and do good, forgiveness and a great reward.

It is clear enough that the roots of violence come from the Koran itself, for those believers who would interpret it that way, and for all the masses they influence. If your mileage varies, that's your deficit. For me, Sept 11 was proof enough.

Dick

2281. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:12:06 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <85A12BD34BEB7725.BA55D38686CC6855.0C3F963FB2F98279@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25228

On 26 Nov 2001 04:20:33 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Obviously not -- and the fact that you would ask such a question only >tends to reveal your liberal agenda. I believe in keeping homosexuals >away from children for the simple reason that homosexuals tend to >view their sexual preference as a valid option, even a preferable one --
>and are disposed toward "recruitment" of young people into their
>"lifestyle."

Give that tired "recruitment" nonsense a rest, Larry. Any intelligent (and educated) person knows that's a straw dog.
Homosexuals don't "recruit" heterosexuals--there are plenty of homosexuals for them to interact with.

As far as viewing their sexual preference as a "valid option," don't you view YOURS that way? Why shouldn't a homosexual (who is as normal, by any reasonable scientific standard you care to name, as you are) feel the same?

Maybe if you would spend less time looking down on homosexuals and more time teaching your OWN children that homosexuality is normal--and that homosexuals are just like everyone else in society, some good, some bad, some just average--you would be raising far healthier and better adjusted children yourself.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2282. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:20:05 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1025$42e$0@208.207.71.155>
Source record: 25229

CAM wrote:
>
> N2EY wrote:
> > We may both be right. Most of the hams you know may not have a problem with it, > > while most of the hams I know would have one. Dallas sure ain't in EPA.
>
> Many Texans migrated from PA to be rid of you prudes. Now here you > are, 150 years later, bugging us again. Could be you damned yankees > are just jealous of Texas tits. Right Kim?

Cecil is pandering again. Wonder what he wants?

2283. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:24:46 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <AC9C5E451D3AB705.3C12D39E2E187583.5E602034BF2A26C0@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25230

On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 11:08:45 -0800, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
wrote:

>Incuding his own statement to the contrary? Wow. I'd have to conclude >that your experience in discussing topics with him is apparently >somewhat limited.

It is. But based on those exchanges, and reading his posts in this and other threads I _still_ will argue that nothing he has said justifies a diagnosis of obsessive/compulsive disorder.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2284. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:30:42 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9DDEC14B19BC57C9.E9D45611C65D4071.140BA0EF73E0F99F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25231

On 26 Nov 2001 05:06:52 GMT, jeffreyh@Hawaii.Edu (Jeffrey Herman)
wrote:

>Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>>A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seems to be >>prevalent among many ham radio operators.
>
>Out of our 600,000+ members, what percentage display those >characteristics, Rick? If say, you've counted 60,000, that >would be just 10%. Is ten percent "a tremendous amount"?
>(Do you even know 60,000 hams???)

I never claimed to.

1. It would take a vastly smaller sample than 60,000 hams to provide statistically viable information.

2. I didn't say a tremendous amount of HAMS were engaging in that behavior, I said a tremendous amount of it was prevalent among hams. Turn on your HF rig or your 2m rig (if you live in an urban area) and see for yourself how much of it is going on.

>(I wish you folks would preface your comments with "IMO"
>so that the non-hams reading this NG know you're not in any >way stating facts but rather opinions...)

My statement was that a tremendous amount of those behaviors
"SEEMS" to be prevalent . . . That, in itself, makes it clear that it is a personal observation not a quantifiable fact.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2285. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:42:02 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <0D016DE6627CA6F5.D51C83A32F9D03E9.90B0600E1A29A66D@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25232

On 26 Nov 2001 12:25:32 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>KE8HH's logic is that if something hasn't been demonstrated, it cannot exist.
>That's simply not correct.

Jim, you need to learn to take your time and READ what people say.

I never said that "if something hasn't been demonstrated, it cannot exist." I have been stating, pretty clearly, that unless you can demonstrate that a victim exists you CANNOT claim that harm occurred. That is not even similar to what you claim.

As far as something not existing unless its demonstrated, that's absurd. On the other hand, unless something CAN be demonstrated to exist, it is NOT incumbent on anyone to believe it DOES exist. For example, there is absolutely no evidence that "aethers" are real (as was believed by many in the 19th Century. Are they? Scientists certainly don't think so. On the other hand, we can neither totally guarantee that they do NOT exist nor be expected to treat them as though they do simply because someone, somewhere, believes in them.
The same, of course, holds true for the concept of a deity--it is completely unreasonable to expect anyone to believe in the existence of a God unless you can provide solid evidence (of a scientific nature acceptable to the unbiased observer with no preconceptions about the issue) that one exists. Since, like "aethers," the concept of a "god" is diametrically opposed to any known scientific principle, the proof IS incumbent on the person who claims the phenomenon exists, not on the person who claims it does not.

That isn't arguing that something "CANNOT exist ..." It's simply arguing that no one has an obligation to accept the existence of anything that cannot be scientifically demonstrated TO exist, a very different matter.

>Sorry if I was a bit vague there.

You were.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2286. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:43:14 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0408EF.B4777C9@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25233

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > No, I've never denied being part of the human race. Neither have I > > > > denied eating pork.
> > >
> > > Yep.
> >
> > You're plaintive cries and your inane arguments are growing weaker.
>
> Who are you trying to convince. Us or yourself?

Gee Cecil, I'm not the one who made the idiotic pronouncement. I detect a death rattle in your rant.

Dave K8MN

2287. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:44:43 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C040948.37273B9D@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25234

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > I don't think you're view isn't supported because folks think you're > > ignorant, Cecil. I think they just believe you to be misguided.
>
> It is not I who is ignorant, Dave. It is the Democratic/Republican > masses. Once they alleviate their ignorance they will become > freedom-loving Libertarians.

I'm certain that you attempt to achieve comfort from the above thought.

Dave K8MN

2288. Re: Twistedhed: Illegal CBer

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:50:03 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9459F737B41CEC44.2C47F90E37CE7E44.68CD966AB315DFBC@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25235

On 25 Nov 2001 23:07:48 -0800, keyclownslappa@hotmail.com
(IllegalCBersMustGO) wrote:

>Nothng pleases me more >than one of you cb rambos to come in to my conversation and start >preaching about rules. God, I love to squash you suckers.

Ignoring the rest of this troll, I wanted to point out the worst weakness in the arguments made in it.

The poster claims that people "come in to" his conversations and start preaching about rules. If this is true, either:

1. He is transmitting in the ham bands in the first place, rather than the "Freeband" ones between the 10m ham band and the cb band. Thus, the poster is the one who is violating the rights of the hams by invading OUR bands. If that's the case, his arguments are totally null since he demands respect for his "rights" but refuses to respect the rights of others.

2. He is transmitting outside the ham bands in the "freeband" area and hams are responding to him there. But if this is the case, the hams themselves are at least as guilty of violating FCC rules as he is, and therefore have no possible legitimate grounds for their actions at all. If that's the case, his arguments are fair, since others are violating the same regulations he is, yet are criticizing HIM for the behavior.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2289. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:50:46 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C040AB6.7B2F2106@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25236

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Who are you trying to convince. Us or yourself?
>
> Gee Cecil, I'm not the one who made the idiotic pronouncement. I detect > a death rattle in your rant.

You are free to delude yourself, Dave. Be my guest.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2290. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:53:00 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C040B39.6AE0803F@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25237

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > Just about everybody is a potential ham, Cecil.
>
> Ah, that's your mistake. I consider a potential ham as a person > who has an interest in ham radio and has a good change of becoming > a ham. That's what I meant when I used the words.

Ah, that's not my mistake. Most of us are potential Nobel laureates.
Now go forth and live up to your potential.

> > As to your claim about directing hundreds here, it is simply more crap.
>
> I taught ham radio classes at Intel for 13 years. Multiply 4 by 12 > by 13 and see what you get. I passed out the names of all the
> r.r.a.* newsgroups in each class.

Right. Your claim is now that this newsgroup (or any of the others) has existed for 13 years. More crap. Sure wish I could take you seriously. You play fast and loose with the truth. Convince us of your liklihood of being a potential truth teller.

Dave K8MN

2291. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:54:35 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C040B98.7DF22E7D@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25238

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > > Just be glad I don't have the callsign W5PSY.
> > > > >
> > > > > This too is tacky and lacks class and decorum.*
> > > >
> > > > Uhhhhhh Dave, W5PSY was issued by the FCC to Mr. Olsen
> > > > of Duncanville, TX.
> > >
> > > Uhhhhh Cecil, I was referring to Kim's post, not Mr. Olsen's call.
> > > I don't believe Mr. Olson has the anatomical parts to reference in the > > > manner Tugboat did.
>
> So it's OK for a man to have W5PSY but if a woman were issued that > call by the FCC, she would be a slut? Talk about sexist.

Mr. Olsen didn't show up here and talk about his call in comparison to a part of a woman's anatomy. Tugboat Annie did.

Dave K8MN
```

2292. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:55:37 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C040BD9.162D36FD@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25240

Dick Carroll wrote:
> It is clear enough that the roots of violence come from the Koran > itself, for those believers who would interpret it that way, and for all > the masses they influence. If your mileage varies, that's your deficit.
> For me, Sept 11 was proof enough.

Let's assume what you say is correct and that the actions of a handful of terrorists proves that all one billion Muslims are terrorists. What actions do you propose to take to alleviate the problem? Please be specific.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2293. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:55:55 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C040BE7.A3DA2A2B@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25239

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > This "weaseling" stuff
> > certainly is easier than I ever believed possible.
>
> Could that be because you are a natural born weasel? :-)

Naw, I think it more likely that the weaselettes aren't as sharp as they think themselves to be.

Dave K8MN

2294. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 21:57:24 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <AD6ECC8352DCD442.5A1B9184B6F0AEE1.1283EEB864CFCFC7@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25241

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 05:27:13 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>This is the voice of the tranquil Buddhist libertarian New Age Man.
>S'cuse the language, kids.

Excuse it hell, I don't happen to feel children NEED to be sheltered from real-world language--that's the view of the moralistic types, remember.

And drop the New Age nonsense--I never claimed the slightest involvement in that area.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2295. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 22:03:28 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <2005F67864921A15.BADFEB3DFDE2C24D.20CA082E3E2B0806@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25242

On 27 Nov 2001 09:47:42 -0800, N2EY@AOL.COM (N2EY) wrote:

>There is an ongoing discussion HERE about whether certain callsigns >are good or bad for the image of the ARS. I have a certain view on the >subject, so I make certain comments on it here. Is it wrong to do so?
>Am I being electro-politically incorrect because I dare to disagree >with you?

No, actually there is an ongoing discussion here about whether KIM'S call sign is good or bad for the image of the ARS. Not a single other sign has been mentioned, and Dick has made it very clear that he intends to keep this thread alive (with a subject line that is DIRECTLY related to Kim) until she changes her call sign. THAT, Jim, is an attempt to force her to act against her will, and it is wrong
from ANY moral perspective.

If this discussion was, as you claim, directed to the generic topic of whether certain call signs are good or bad for the image of the ARS, Kim's sign would be mentioned no more than any other that was found in the callbook and was considered inappropriate by anyone. That is patently not the case.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2296. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 22:06:53 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3076E41407B1FEEA.3B088E87FD10B5EC.6CB6AF643564FC5A@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25243

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 05:33:06 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>In the eyes of the majority, apparently so.

I guess the same could be said for Martin Luther King's views on civil rights as well then. Certainly a majority of the people in the South (the area affected by his actions and statements) felt he was wrong.

Then again, people thought Galileo was wrong, too.

Simply because the majority believe something does NOT make it true.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2297. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 22:10:59 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <995039458B19F345.F081ADD1E856F561.C0E8C8262E8E8700@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25244

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 05:22:27 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Nice smiley.
>Is a few or ten or fifteen people "many"? How does that equate to your >earlier statement that more potential hams read this newsgroup than >listen to amateur radio?

If 15 people post, and the Usenet average is for 1 out of every 100 participants in a newsgroup to ever post to it (which is the current average), then it follows that approximately 1,500 potential hams are in this news group. That's a lot more hams than take the test in a typical month in the US as a whole.

Sounds like pretty good evidence that more potential hams read this group than listen to ham radio to me.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2298. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 22:14:05 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <A3D049A36B62DA4D.A6F532DC298F6476.47FD2A7CC650A112@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25245

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 05:24:27 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>My dad, my sister and my two neighbors all own computers and have
>internet access. None are internet savvy and none access newsgroups.
>You don't have any solid information, do you?

On aol, huh?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2299. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 22:14:58 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C041062.3DA23783@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25246

Dave Heil wrote:
> Ah, that's not my mistake. Most of us are potential Nobel laureates.

Sure we are, Dave, sure we are. (Somebody get the net!)

> Right. Your claim is now that this newsgroup (or any of the others) > has existed for 13 years. More crap.

Netnews existed long before the world wide web and originated in 1979. (22 years ago but who's counting?) For awhile, groups were supported by email reflectors. I suggest you alleviate your gross ignorance by reading:
http://www.tltodd.com/~tlt/lists/wcgnews/netnews.hist.html
http://www.linuxdoc.org/LDP/nag/node256.html
I don't remember the name(s) of the first amateur radio newsgroups.
This particular newsgroup is a relative newcomer to the r.r.a.*
group and was created out of the r.r.a.misc group. In any case, we have had amateur radio newsgroups since the early 1980's.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2300. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 22:17:14 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0410EA.96E5A418@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25248

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > So it's OK for a man to have W5PSY but if a woman were issued that > > call by the FCC, she would be a slut? Talk about sexist.
>
> Mr. Olsen didn't show up here and talk about his call in comparison to a > part of a woman's anatomy. Tugboat Annie did.

So it's OK to have the call, just not OK to talk about it?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2301. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 22:17:30 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <BD287ED335D85408.5EDC1F9287288EEB.82631341FB0C80B7@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25247

On 27 Nov 2001 05:03:59 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>>Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.
>
>Your deduction does not follow from the facts.

Are you claiming that more potential hams have radios than computers?

Better argue that one with Dave, he claims EVERYONE is a potential ham--and I doubt you would even attempt to claim more people in the US own ham radios than computers with Internet access.

Rick
--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2302. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 22:28:34 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <F9C337F900F32EB4.209FE7730E1EBCC1.4BB8DCAC247457BE@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25249

On 27 Nov 2001 12:25:05 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>>Since the daily readership of this group is higher than the >>number of hams licensed in the US last year, it seems pretty likely >>that at least as many readers are potential hams as are likely to be >>listening to the ham bands.
>
>There are more than 680,000 readers of rrap?? Amazing!

Again, Jim, read more carefully.

I stated that the daily readership of this group is higher than the number of hams LICENSED IN THE US LAST YEAR. Unless you are trying to claim that more than 680,000 hams received their licenses in the year 2000 your statement is absurd.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2303. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-27 22:32:50 UTC
From: K0HB <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <0cdbe65b9ad483142e47e5c185cc79bb.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 25250

"Rick Adams" wrote:

> 2. I didn't say a tremendous amount of HAMS were engaging in > that behavior, I said a tremendous amount of it was prevalent among > hams. Turn on your HF rig or your 2m rig (if you live in an urban > area) and see for yourself how much of it is going on.

I live in an urban area, and my HF rig is used several hours each week on a wide range of bands. My 2M/70cM rig is on continuously in my car. I'm a very active ham.

Guess what? I have NEVER heard any bigotry on uhf/vhf, and only a couple of isolated instances on HF.

Seems you and Kim need to find a new subject for your trolling expedition -- "ignorant bigotted hams" just doesn't have any credibility these days.

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

--
Posted from mplsapanas12poolb122.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.22.122]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

2304. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 00:23:23 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <%7WM7.102$9d.19434@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 25251

As I understand it, it is viewed as a "living" document that is to evolve over time. At least that is the intent of it, I believe.

Ryan

> > The Constitution ain't carved in stone, Cecil.
>
> It ain't perfect but it will do until something better comes along.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2305. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 00:23:24 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <08WM7.103$9d.19434@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 25252

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C025523.C561E1CA@IEEE.org...
> N2EY wrote:
> >
> > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> > >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
> >
> > They DO? How do you know, Cecil?
>
> Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

True.... I can buy or build 3-5 awesome desktop PC's for the price of one freakin' HF rig.

Ryan

2306. A question to all.....

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 00:23:25 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <18WM7.104$9d.19434@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 25253

Alrighty..... another one of those "what if" questions:

Is it legal to rent or lease ham gear? I was wondering about this one, say for instance, here in Michigan we have places called Rental King, Rent-a-Center etc. Not that we would want to have ham gear rented at a location like that, but if there were places that you could rent or lease equipment, in the short term, that may seem like a more feasable option for some who clearly cannot afford one of those way-overpriced, multi-band, do-everything rigs. (Between those and the "kit" radios, there is not much inbetween)

Also, would it be legal to rent someone elses station? Since the FCC license does not state what gear you are operating, only that YOU are licensed, is this a loophole?

Don't mean to start any arguments, just an honest question, looking for intelligent answers.

--
Ryan KC8PMX

Check out www.qsl.net/w8kea

Amateur Radio Is Fun!!! Ask me!

2307. Re: Hollingsworth

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 00:41:27 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <XoWM7.200195$3d2.8531144@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 25254

Heh. Ok. I love your 'what CW is good for'. Kinda nice. Don't look for too many people with the guts to put their real e-mail address or real name on a lot of posts. Personally, I don't really care about the CW. As I have read many posts and entered into some 'discussions', I have realized it is better to let the thing drop. Why? It is otherwise getting too difficult to seperate the 'real' from the 'fake'. It is possible, even with the computer programs, to seperate real from fake. I pulled that stunt on Guam. I was in the shack with another ham who informed me that the 'gummies' monitored EVERYTHING from the shack. Yeah, like I'm gonna give away secrets. Although we usually operated on 20, sometimes 15, and once in a while 10, I tuned up on 40. Low on 40. Di dit dit di di dah dit di dit dit di di dah dit. My friend asked what I was doing. I answered "calling CQ". He exclaimed 'that isn't CQ!'. I replied that I was an American, he was an American, and I was simply being American. After the puzzled look, I told him I was using American Morse - as in land-line morse. I had a chap answer me and I had to ask him to QRS to about 16 words per minute (although I had copied 40 words per minute without error for several minutes in a test about 6 months earlier - that was international morse). We shot the breeze for a good 20 or 30 minutes. I'll bet the gummies were playing that tape for a week! The unfortunate side effect of this was they pulled the beer cooler out of the ham shack. Oh well ...

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim AA2QA

"Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net> wrote in message news:9u0efr$qa4$1@news.bignet.net...
>
> "JAMES HAMPTON" <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
> news:1e8M7.235842$W8.7920026@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> > I don't know, but suggest you not put it in the CB radio section! :-)
> >
> > Jim AA2QA
>
> It would be even better if the CBers who seem to have a real fetish with > faking posts by me, like the one starting this thread, would just have the > balls to stick their own name (Handle) to what they wrote instead.
>
> --
> __
> 73 de,
>
> Leland C. Scott
> KC8LD0
>

> ARRL member
> NCI member
>
> "You ask what Morse Code is good for? I'll tell you. Morse > Code is used exclusively by Electronics Based life forms to > communicate amongst themselves using advanced Organic > Digital Signal Processors, running state of the art Artificial > Intelligence Software, to perform the highly complex > transmit encryption, receive decryption and error correction > functions."
>
>
>
>

2308. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:03:14 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011127200314.23850.00000868@nso-fy.aol.com>
Source record: 25256

In article <3C03BD97.4F382FBE@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>> Did the Nazi party take power by a majority vote in a free election?
>
>They did come to power through a plurality vote in a free election.

Yup. Then they proceeded to dismantle the democratic system.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2309. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:03:14 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011127200314.23850.00000869@nso-fy.aol.com>
Source record: 25257

In article <3C03B9CE.33FB9D8C@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>> We may both be right. Most of the hams you know may not have a problem with
>it,
>> while most of the hams I know would have one. Dallas sure ain't in EPA.
>
>Many Texans migrated from PA to be rid of you prudes.

No prudes around here that I know, Cecil. Lots of nice folks and hams who don;t act inappropriately on or off the air. The kind of stuff Kim describes as common on 2 meteres in her area is rare around here, and almost universally deplored by hams.

> Now here you >are, 150 years later, bugging us again.

It's the other way around.

>Could be you damned yankees >are just jealous of Texas

(body parts).

Nope. Not at all.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2310. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:05:13 UTC
From: garigue <garigue@home.net>
Message-ID: <dLWM7.263091$5A3.100346135@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 25255

Ryan ..I will buy your idea of the Constitution being a "living" document only if the last 5000 years plus of human nature changes. 73 Tom KI3R
"KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
news:%7WM7.102$9d.19434@newshog.newsread.com...
> As I understand it, it is viewed as a "living" document that is to evolve > over time. At least that is the intent of it, I believe.
>
>
> Ryan
>
>
> > > The Constitution ain't carved in stone, Cecil.
> >
> > It ain't perfect but it will do until something better comes along.
> > --
> > cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
>
>

2311. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:18:21 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C043C59.1070004@att.net>
Source record: 25258

N2EY wrote:

> Counter culture comedy alert!!! The Firesign Theatre will celebrate their 35th > anniversary by doing their first TV special on PBS. Air time in Philly is 8 Pm > on Nov 28th. Check your local listings.
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>
> Brought to you by Loosener's Castor Oil Flakes and Ralph Spoilsport Motors.

Great, Jim, I'll check my local listings...

Oh, it ain't no use
If you ain't got the boost
The boost you get from Loostners

JOHNNY... JOHNNY....
Coooommmmmmiiinnngggg Mother....

Bombs away, Dad

Pass the 30 weight, Mom...

Rich

"Shoes for Liberty... Shoes for Defence..."

2312. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:20:48 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C043CED.4070600@att.net>
Source record: 25259

Dave Heil wrote:

> Er, sure. THAT'S right. We're Demoncrats. We're Republicans. We're > Democrats. We're Republicans. Damn! I'm confused. Why does the media > lead us everywhere except toward the Libertarian Party and the Communist > Party and the tiny little single issue parties?

Because those parties don't have anyone voting on the Supreme Court... :^

Rich...

2313. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:23:27 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C043D8C.5080304@att.net>
Source record: 25260

Dave Heil wrote:

> Er, sure. THAT'S right. We're Demoncrats. We're Republicans. We're > Democrats. We're Republicans. Damn! I'm confused. Why does the media > lead us everywhere except toward the Libertarian Party and the Communist > Party and the tiny little single issue parties?

Hey I just noticed....

Demoncrats??????????????????????????

Was this a typo.... more than likely Freudian...

Rich....

We are not amused...
-- Queen Victoria

2314. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:29:27 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C043DF5.35490EB0@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25261

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Who are you trying to convince. Us or yourself?
> >
> > Gee Cecil, I'm not the one who made the idiotic pronouncement. I detect > > a death rattle in your rant.
>
> You are free to delude yourself, Dave. Be my guest.

You can babble about delusion all you'd like. It would appear that you'll either have to come up some hard facts or look like an idiot.
Do I eat pork or not. Hmmmmm, one of the mysteries of the ages.

On with your quest, Don Quixote!

Dave K8MN

2315. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:34:27 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C043F21.1F1A3593@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25262

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 05:27:13 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >This is the voice of the tranquil Buddhist libertarian New Age Man.
> >S'cuse the language, kids.
>
> Excuse it hell, I don't happen to feel children NEED to be > sheltered from real-world language--that's the view of the moralistic > types, remember.
>
> And drop the New Age nonsense--I never claimed the slightest > involvement in that area.
>
> Rick

There are those of us who believe you do harm to kids with that kind of stuff. This is the kind of "real world" language that real adults don't even need to use. You're one consenting adult. I didn't see that the party to whom you made your statement consented.

You'd like it all your way. You can skip the part about New Age if my comparison offends. You can just be the tranquil Buddhist Libertarian telling another to "shut (expletive deleted) up).

Dave K8MN

2316. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:38:34 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C044017.C2FC5DBE@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25263

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 05:33:06 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >In the eyes of the majority, apparently so.
>
> I guess the same could be said for Martin Luther King's views > on civil rights as well then. Certainly a majority of the people in > the South (the area affected by his actions and statements) felt he > was wrong.

Let's set the record straight. Most of us can see the difference between the Civil Rights movement and the libertarian line. That's why the U.S. has a Civil Rights Act and why the U.S. hasn't had a Libertarian President.

> Then again, people thought Galileo was wrong, too.

What political movement did he found?

> Simply because the majority believe something does NOT make it
> true.

In this case, it certainly does. The majority rejects the libertarian philosophy as impractical and votes for one or the other of the two major parties.

Dave K8MN

2317. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:40:54 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c044148_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25266

Hans, Hans, Hans. A) Why would you get so upset over something said "about" you if it isn't so? B) I haven't the time to look through all the old posts from you so here you go:

If you have never been in on the frenzy of the CW debate wherein you have alluded (not necessarily outwardly claimed), that those who are licensed under the current structure are somehow less a ham, then:

I apologize for having the opinion that you had.

Kim W5TIT

"K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
news:5e9445dcf03d5b166315f01d00b1bb0b.15732@mygate.mailgate.org...
> The opinion of Kim-W5TIT seems to be......
>
> >Haven't you been one of those who so wholeheartedly takes delight in the
> >"dumbed down" ham experience?
>
> You simply don't pay attention, and apparently just willy-nilly apply > insults like "bigotted". I have never used that term, or any similar > related to the current licensing structure. Below is a copy of my comments
> to FCC on the NPRM which led to "restructuring". Does it strike you as > support for the "old smart ways"?
>
> Hans, K0HB
>
>
>
> Before the > Federal Communications Commission
> Washington, DC 20554
>
> In the Matter of) WT Docket No. 98-143
>)
> 1998 Biennial Regulatory Review --) RM-9148
> Amendment of Part 97 of the Commission's) RM-9150 > Amateur Service Rules.) RM-9196
>)
>)
>
> PERSONAL COMMENTS OF HANS BRAKOB, K0HB
>
>

>
> OVERVIEW
>
> These comments contain proposals on reducing the number of amateur radio > operator license classes, and suggestions regarding Morse testing.
>
> I. Discussion:
>
> The NPRM proposes reducing the number of operator classes from six > to four. This reduction would be accomplished by phasing out Novice > and Technician Plus classes, leaving the remaining four classes in > place. It is worthy of note that this plan would preserve the heart > of the so-called "incentive licensing" plan which was implemented in > 1968.
>
> I believe that the effects originally expected of the incentive > licensing scheme have not been realized in practice. There is > little evidence that this scheme, now 30 years old, has produced any > notable increase in the skills, operating excellence, advanced electronic > techniques, or other tangible valuable difference between the operators > in the various "non-entry-level" classes of licensee.
>
> As a non-scientific but pragmatic experiment, tune a receiver to > 14.350MHz. Close your eyes and slowly tune the receiver down across the > 20M amateur radio band. Try to detect the "class boundaries" based on > a difference in signal quality, better operating practices, or more > advanced technical conversations. I think you will find no detectable > difference as you transit across the frequencies which mark the boundary > between General, Advanced, and Amateur Extra sub-bands. Thus it can be > assumed that the expectations of the incentive licensing program (greater > levels of technical and operating skill at higher license classes) have > not been realized, and the incentive licensing plan can be safely abandoned
> as providing no significant benefit to the public interest, necessity, or > convenience (PICON).
>
>
> II Proposal:
>
>
> A. License Classes:
>
> If the interest of the FCC is (as stated in the NPRM) streamlining of
the > licensing structure, then I propose that the license classes be reduced > to two classes, namely "Basic" and "Advanced".

> The "Basic" license would have an entry-level test (basic > regulations, safety, operating procedures, basic DC and AC > electronics). Without CW endorsement this class would have > full frequency and mode priveleges above 30MHz, power limited > to 50W output.
>
> The "Standard" license test would be of a difficulty level > similar to the current Advanced class test, and would have > full privileges above 30MHz at power levels up to 1500W.
>
>
> B. Morse required for operation below 30MHz
>
> Either license class could gain access to all MF/HF amateur > radio frequency allocations (at 50W and 1500W respectively) > upon passing a Morse test of 5WPM and gaining a "CW endorsement" > for their operator license.
>
> The Morse test should be "fill in the blank" or "1 minute of > solid copy". Multiple-choice test formats should not be allowed.
>
> C. Status of current licensees.
>
> Current licensees should be redistributed as follows:
>
> Current class Converts to
> ------------- -----------
> Novice: Basic CW Endorsed
> Technician: Basic
> Technician+: Basic CW Endorsed (Note 1)
> General: Standard CW Endorsed
> Advanced: Standard CW Endorsed (Note 2)
> Extra: Standard CW Endorsed (Note 2)
>
> Notes:
> 1) "Old" Technicians (who took same written > test as General and 5WPM) would be
> "Standard" CW endorsed.
> 2) Current Advanced and Extra licensees could > continue to have that class printed on their > license in recognition of their previous status.
>
>
> Respectfully submitted,
>
> H. Hans Brakob, K0HB
>
>
>

> --
> Posted from mplsapanas11poolb158.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.20.158]
> via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

2318. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:42:37 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C04420A.204@att.net>
Source record: 25264

Rick Adams wrote:

> Wasn't 1Y the designation for an honorably discharged vet with > medical conditions that prevented conscription? I thought that was the > designation on my own card after I was discharged from the Navy for > the wounds I got in SE Asia, but I could be wrong.

When I was Honorably Discharged my designation bcame 4A... That means if they wanted me back... it was 'women and children first'... ;-)

Rich

2319. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:44:45 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C04418B.F72A073C@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25265

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 05:22:27 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Nice smiley.
> >Is a few or ten or fifteen people "many"? How does that equate to your > >earlier statement that more potential hams read this newsgroup than > >listen to amateur radio?
>
> If 15 people post, and the Usenet average is for 1 out of > every 100 participants in a newsgroup to ever post to it (which is the > current average), then it follows that approximately 1,500 potential > hams are in this news group. That's a lot more hams than take the test > in a typical month in the US as a whole.
>
> Sounds like pretty good evidence that more potential hams read > this group than listen to ham radio to me.
>
> Rick

For a guy who has the credentials you purport to have, you don't strike me as a guy who lets things like facts stand in the way of a good rant. You quote a "newsgroup average" from an unnamed source. Maybe some newsgroups get 7,000 readers. Maybe some--maybe even this one--have 15. Maybe they are the same 15. No stats exist, to my knowledge, which provide numbers of new amateur exam takers correlated to the number of potential hams whether they are internet news group lurkers or those listening on the ham bands. If what you've posted sounds like good evidence to you, perhaps you can provide your insider info on when we might expect the mother ship to return.

Dave K8MN

2320. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:49:09 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c044337$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25268

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C0319DC.4EA73CD4@earthlink.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> > I know of no woman who refers to her tops as > > breasts or mammaries. We all call them tits. We call all you guys' > > thangs dicks.
>
> > Tits serve two purposes. They can nurse babies or men, or woman if > > the owner of the tits is prone to that persuasion. We have to cover > > our tits and you men have to cover your dicks.
>
> > I call my tits tits and always have. I call my, well....never mind. >
Just be glad I don't have the callsign W5PSY.
>
> This too is tacky and lacks class and decorum.*
>
> ...and that's just part of the reason I refer to the woman as Tugboat > Annie.
>
> Dave K8MN
> * The view expressed is my personal opinion.

Then consider that most women are tacky and lack class and decorum. Forgive me for no desire to live up to either of the latter.

Kim W5TIT

2321. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:49:31 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0442A9.31671CB8@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25267

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 05:24:27 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >My dad, my sister and my two neighbors all own computers and have
> >internet access. None are internet savvy and none access newsgroups.
> >You don't have any solid information, do you?
>
> On aol, huh?

Surprisingly, one one of 'em uses AOL. Two use MSN and one uses Earthlink. None does more than surf the web or e-mail except for my dad who has somehow figured out how to use IRC to chat. All are in the dark about newsgroups. The neighbors are a family of two adults and two children. I wonder what percentage of users are like these folks...

Dave K8MN

2322. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:51:50 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c0443d8_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25271

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C031CD3.A2D685F4@earthlink.net...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > On 26 Nov 2001 12:25:30 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
> >
> > >In addition, it's obvious that you won't voluntarily change it, so there's no
> > >point in on-air mention of the issue.
> >
> > Then precisely what is the point of mentioning it (over and > > over again, for that matter) here?
> >
> > You, and others, expect the ARS to be treated with respect.
> > Great. I'm a ham as well. On the other hand, I'm ALSO a computer > > hobbyist who spends far more time on the Internet than on the air.
> > From my perspective, people like you, Dick, and Larry, who scream that > > the ham bands should be free of any form of bigotry, racism, or
> > "offensive" behavior are the worst kind of hypocrites! It's wrong in > > YOUR hobby, but perfectly alright here where OTHERS are hobbyists!
> >
> > If you don't like Kim's sign, then say so on the air. If you > > feel (as Dick and others do) that Islamic people are inferior, that > > their religion is inferior, or that minorities are losers who depend
> > on affirmative action to provide them jobs they don't deserve then > > voice your opinions on the ham bands or shut the fuck up! You have no > > more right to fill the Internet with that moralistic, racist, or > > bigoted crap than you do to fill the ham bands with it. Either take it > > BOTH places or drop it completely.
> >
> > Think about it.
> >
> > >Sems to me you define "responsibly minded people" as those who don't voice > > >objections.
> > >>
> > >>Believe me, the comments made here are made here only. :)
> > >>
> > >Because this is the appropriate place to do so.
> >
> > Bullshit!
> >
> > This venue is no more appropriate than the ham bands. Who the > > hell gave hams the right to come into the Internet Usenet groups and

> > post offensive material they wouldn't think of voicing in the ham
> > bands? There are just as many children here as there are on the > > air--if you're so goddamn concerned with them then try practicing what > > you keep preaching in THIS venue too!
> >
> > Rick
>
> This is the voice of the tranquil Buddhist libertarian New Age Man.
> S'cuse the language, kids.
>
> Dave K8MN

Oh, yeah. Lemmee guess, and you're a real gentleman, right? Pfffftttttttt

Kim W5TIT

2323. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:54:21 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0443CB.4C5376EF@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25269

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > Ah, that's not my mistake. Most of us are potential Nobel laureates.
>
> Sure we are, Dave, sure we are. (Somebody get the net!)

It must pain you that you didn't live up to your potential, Cecil.
I've learned to live with my failings.

> > Right. Your claim is now that this newsgroup (or any of the others) > > has existed for 13 years. More crap.
>
> Netnews existed long before the world wide web and originated in > 1979.

Neat factoid. And how many Americans were reading "Netnews" in 1979.
Imagine all of those hundreds or thousands of potential hams.

> (22 years ago but who's counting?) For awhile, groups > were supported by email reflectors. I suggest you alleviate your > gross ignorance by reading:
> http://www.tltodd.com/~tlt/lists/wcgnews/netnews.hist.html
> http://www.linuxdoc.org/LDP/nag/node256.html
> I don't remember the name(s) of the first amateur radio newsgroups.
> This particular newsgroup is a relative newcomer to the r.r.a.*
> group and was created out of the r.r.a.misc group. In any case,
> we have had amateur radio newsgroups since the early 1980's.

What if a tree fell in the forest and there was nobody there...

Dave K8MN

2324. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:55:36 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C044515.8030903@att.net>
Source record: 25270

>>>The US has individual rights defined by The Constitution
>>>to protect us from people like you.

The Constitution is (I hope) enough... but it's under attack from the Executive branch and the DOJ... (I don't trust that Ashcroft guy...)

>>All of those rights are subject to change. All it takes is for a large >>percentage of society, through their elected representatives, to amend the >>Constitution.
>>

>
> Yup.
>
> That's all it took in Germany when the Nazis took power, too.

'W' Bush just usurped the constitution with his proclamation that non-citizens can be 'brought to justice' at a military tribunal. I guess he hasn't 'snuffed' enough people in Texas now he'll be able to do it anywhere in the world that he sees fit...

>>In addition, the interpretation of the Constitution is determined by a very >>small group of judges. Rights rise and fall on their decision. For example, >>abortion was illegal practically everywhere until 1973, when a single judgement
>>of the Supremes struck down existing laws and established a "right of privacy"
>>for those seeking abortions and wiped out the "right to life" of those being >>aborted.

The Military Tribunals can't be appealed... even to the Supremes... Bush has usurped the Legislature AND... the Judiciary...

Nice huh????

>>The Constitution ain't carved in stone, Cecil.
>>

"W" proved that... ;^

RIch...

2325. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:55:49 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c0444c6$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25278

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011127065623.22754.00000758@nso-cs.aol.com...
> In article <3C0347E2.38B30A4A@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart
> <stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:
>
> > By the way, everybody, did you notice this thread has just about
> >reached the all time record for the number of messages posted to a > >single thread (check out google.com for the totals). Perhaps it is > >time to bring this thread "one step closer to extinction" and move
> >some of the unrelated topics into their own threads. :-)
> >
> No, no, no! The whole point is for us to keep this going until March.
Can't
> expect Kim to do it alone!
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>

ROFLMAO...you are paying attention...LOL

Kim W5TIT

2326. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:56:22 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c0444e7$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25280

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011127065623.22754.00000758@nso-cs.aol.com...
> In article <3C0347E2.38B30A4A@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart
> <stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:
>
> > By the way, everybody, did you notice this thread has just about
> >reached the all time record for the number of messages posted to a > >single thread (check out google.com for the totals). Perhaps it is > >time to bring this thread "one step closer to extinction" and move
> >some of the unrelated topics into their own threads. :-)
> >
> No, no, no! The whole point is for us to keep this going until March.
Can't
> expect Kim to do it alone!
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>

Oh, and by the way, the many branches of this thread have been pretty darned interesting...

Kim W5TIT

2327. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:59:09 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0444EA.1BE56106@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25272

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 27 Nov 2001 05:03:59 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
> >>Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.
> > >
> > >Your deduction does not follow from the facts.
> >
> > Are you claiming that more potential hams have radios than > > computers?
> >
> > Better argue that one with Dave, he claims EVERYONE is a > > potential ham--and I doubt you would even attempt to claim more people > > in the US own ham radios than computers with Internet access.

How many of those folks (first we've eliminated those with computers but no internet access and those with internet access and no clue about newsgroups) are reading this stuff?

I do maintain that anyone is a potential ham. I met a retired Pittsburgh cop recently. He is an in-law of my neighbor. I gave him a damaged tower which he wanted to refurbish and use for TV reception and to mount his scanner antennas. He has used the scanners since his retirement to monitor police frequencies. After a demo of what ham radio can do, the guy is fired up to obtain a license. He has neither a shortwave radio nor a computer.

Dave K8MN

2328. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:59:27 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011127205927.12427.00003462@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 25273

In article <3C01CF58.64E74809@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Your bigoted postings even offend me, Larry, and I have a >thick skin.

Cecil:

Right. I guess someone who was 300,000 feet tall in the fourth dimension WOULD have a pretty thick skin!

73 de Larry, K3LT

2329. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:59:27 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011127205927.12427.00003461@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 25275

In article <3C01CEF7.DF12C598@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> If my callsign, and the phonetics you have constructed therefrom, >> are truly a "danger to the ARS," then perhaps you should write to >> Riley Hollingsworth and complain about it.
>
>It is not a danger to the ARS. Neither is Kim's call. Vulgarity >is in the eyes of the beholder. Just because I find your call >to be vulgar doesn't mean that it objectively is vulgar.

Nice backpedalling, Cecil. I just hope you didn't strain anything!

73 de Larry, K3LT

2330. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:59:28 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011127205928.12427.00003463@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 25274

In article <b7c5262e.0111261120.6b9651e1@posting.google.com>, k0hb@qwest.net (K0HB) writes:

>
>Your personal integrity is on the line on this one, and nothing short >of a specific public apology to me and others you have named will restore >your credibility as a responsible individual.
>
>de Hans, K0HB

Hansl:

Don't hold your breath waiting for that!

73 de Larry, K3LT

2331. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:59:28 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011127205928.12427.00003464@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 25277

In article <ff37aa44.0111261216.2503cb4b@posting.google.com>, uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org (Sean G Gilley) writes:

>
>Geez, Larry. If you can't trust the woman you marry, who can you trust?
>And why would you marry her if you can't trust her? Those women out there >who "don't understand" -- they probably do understand. They just reject >your beliefs as being either too insecure or too old fashioned. I doubt
>I know anyone -- my mother included -- who'd agree with you.
>
>Sheesh.
>
>Sean.

Sean:

That's the advantage of being all grown up, out of the house, and on your own -- you don't have to worry about what others think about you, including your mother! I hope the day comes when you are mature enough to understand my position on this matter. However, considering the way you were probably brought up, I doubt that will ever happen.

People who are married, or in committed relationships with a person they love, respect, and trust, do not challenge that trust by having private meetings, professional or otherwise, with people of the opposite sex unless their spouse or partner is present. It simply is not done.
You say your mother wouldn't agree with me. Let me ask you -- is she still married to your father?

73 de Larry, K3LT

2332. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 01:59:29 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011127205929.12427.00003465@nso-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 25276

In article <9ts9gp$k7k$0@208.206.142.78>, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
writes:

>> Wrong again, as usual. I am not even remotely preoccupied with "them."
>> It is YOU who have the preoccupation with your own breasts, and desire >> for everyone else to be preoccupied with "them" as you are; therefore your >> call sign is imposed on the whole of the ARS, at the expense of any >> good opinion of your personal judgment. Quit trying to throw this back >> on others, Kim. You are to blame for taking the ARS "...one step >> closer to extinction," not us.
>>
>
> It is difficult for me to become preoccupied with that which disgusts >me. She is disgusting. You are right, Larry- Her choice of a vanity >callsign clearly shows her own preoccupation.

Dick:

Yup. I believe that instead of Kim being so preoccupied with what she has hanging off of her chest, she should be more worried about what she is missing between her ears!

73 de Larry, K3LT

2333. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:00:54 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c0445fd_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25282

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C03AEB0.80A5178E@earthlink.net...
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > Just be glad I don't have the callsign W5PSY.
> > >
> > > This too is tacky and lacks class and decorum.*
> >
> > Uhhhhhh Dave, W5PSY was issued by the FCC to Mr. Olsen
> > of Duncanville, TX.
>
> Uhhhhh Cecil, I was referring to Kim's post, not Mr. Olsen's call.
> I don't believe Mr. Olson has the anatomical parts to reference in the > manner Tugboat did.
>
> Dave K8MN

And, I submit that you are the one with the mind who deciphered my message--all with nothing but mere inuendo from me. Who is it, exactly, with no class?

Kim W5TIT

2334. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:01:12 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C044566.B97741C5@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25279

KC8PMX wrote:
>
> "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> news:3C025523.C561E1CA@IEEE.org...
> > N2EY wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> > > >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
> > >
> > > They DO? How do you know, Cecil?
> >
> > Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.
> > --
> > cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
>
> True.... I can buy or build 3-5 awesome desktop PC's for the price of one > freakin' HF rig.
>
> Ryan

Where do you get 3 awesome desktop PCs for under say, nine hundred clams?

Dave K8MN

2335. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:03:25 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0445EA.2A546575@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25281

Richard Plourde wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
>
> > Er, sure. THAT'S right. We're Demoncrats. We're Republicans. We're > > Democrats. We're Republicans. Damn! I'm confused. Why does the media > > lead us everywhere except toward the Libertarian Party and the Communist > > Party and the tiny little single issue parties?
>
> Hey I just noticed....
>
> Demoncrats??????????????????????????
>
> Was this a typo.... more than likely Freudian...

Probably both. Cantcha tell? I'm a Republican.

Dave K8MN

2336. Re: A question to all.....

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:08:39 UTC
From: K0HB <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <70774c9f1d8ddb84dd7f61831c10810c.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 25283

"KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
news:18WM7.104$9d.19434@newshog.newsread.com...

> Alrighty..... another one of those "what if" questions:
>
> Is it legal to rent or lease ham gear? I was wondering about this one, say > for instance, here in Michigan we have places called Rental King, > Rent-a-Center etc. Not that we would want to have ham gear rented at a > location like that, but if there were places that you could rent or lease > equipment, in the short term, that may seem like a more feasable option for > some who clearly cannot afford one of those way-overpriced, multi-band, > do-everything rigs. (Between those and the "kit" radios, there is not much > inbetween)
>
> Also, would it be legal to rent someone elses station? Since the FCC license > does not state what gear you are operating, only that YOU are licensed, is > this a loophole?

Hi Ryan,

Everything you're suggesting is perfectly legal and above board.

A non-ham could build a first rate contesting station in a desireable location (Virgin Islands for example) and rent it out to licensed hams for their favorite contest weekend. There used to be a 'bed&breakfast' operation in Hawaii which offered a fully equipped ham station as one of their features.

The prohibition in 97.113(a)(2) is against actual on the air operation for compensation. It does not prohibit you from being compensated for the use of your station by another licensed person.

73, de Hans, K0HB

--
Posted from mplsapanas12poolb122.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.22.122]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

2337. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:10:51 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C0448A7.80305@att.net>
Source record: 25284

N2EY wrote:

> The question still remains: is it OK to do it to boys but not girls?

> Did I say there wasn't? No. I simply asked if it was OK for boys but not girls.

Jim, you know better than this... it is NOT the same thing... it's 'apples and oranges'...

Rich

BTW the answer is No... because if it were the same thing it would mean that the Doctor cut off my dick... so I say, no, it's NOT 'ok to do it to boys but not girls'.

2338. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:15:42 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c04497b_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25287

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C040B98.7DF22E7D@earthlink.net...
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > > > Just be glad I don't have the callsign W5PSY.
> > > > > >
> > > > > This too is tacky and lacks class and decorum.*
> > > > >
> > > > Uhhhhhh Dave, W5PSY was issued by the FCC to Mr. Olsen
> > > > of Duncanville, TX.
> > > >
> > > Uhhhhh Cecil, I was referring to Kim's post, not Mr. Olsen's call.
> > > I don't believe Mr. Olson has the anatomical parts to reference in the > > > manner Tugboat did.
> > >
> > So it's OK for a man to have W5PSY but if a woman were issued that > > call by the FCC, she would be a slut? Talk about sexist.
>
> Mr. Olsen didn't show up here and talk about his call in comparison to a > part of a woman's anatomy. Tugboat Annie did.
>
> Dave K8MN

As, uh, most of us have in this thread?

Kim W5TIT

2339. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:17:13 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C044A26.5020008@att.net>
Source record: 25285

CAM wrote:

> Uhhhhhh Dave, W5PSY was issued by the FCC to Mr. Olsen
> of Duncanville, TX.

W5PSY Duncanville Texas..... That is TOO funny....

Rich

2340. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:18:47 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1hi7$i5b$0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25286

Krell wrote:
>
> "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> news:20011125232032.25429.00003458@nso-fc.aol.com...
> > What I do recall about the film is that the best set of breasts I saw > > was on the girl I was with!
> >
> > 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
> Yet, you don't think it's right for a word meaning "breasts" to be viewed by > the rest of the world via an amateur callsign. What a hypocrite!

"Tits" is and has long been considered a vulgar expression. Breasts is
not.
What an idiot!

2341. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:21:10 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1hmm$i5b$1@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25288

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > Rick Adams wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote:
> > >
> > > >You might have a case if everyone believed as you do. Most folks don't.
> > >
> > > Is that supposed to make him wrong?
> >
> > In the eyes of the majority, apparently so.
>
> "Justice is blind" and doesn't care about the tyranny of the majority.

You once again come out with an oxymoron, you moron. The majority makes the rules/laws. Remember "Majority rule, minority rights"? From Polysci 101

2342. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:24:13 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c044b6f_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25291

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011127205928.12427.00003464@nso-cg.aol.com...
> In article <ff37aa44.0111261216.2503cb4b@posting.google.com>,
> uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org (Sean G Gilley) writes:
>
> >
> >Geez, Larry. If you can't trust the woman you marry, who can you trust?
> >And why would you marry her if you can't trust her? Those women out
there
> >who "don't understand" -- they probably do understand. They just reject > >your beliefs as being either too insecure or too old fashioned. I doubt
> >I know anyone -- my mother included -- who'd agree with you.
> >
> >Sheesh.
> >
> >Sean.
>
> Sean:
>
> That's the advantage of being all grown up, out of the house, and on > your own -- you don't have to worry about what others think about you, > including your mother! I hope the day comes when you are mature > enough to understand my position on this matter. However, considering > the way you were probably brought up, I doubt that will ever happen.
>
> People who are married, or in committed relationships with a person > they love, respect, and trust, do not challenge that trust by having > private meetings, professional or otherwise, with people of the opposite > sex unless their spouse or partner is present. It simply is not done.
> You say your mother wouldn't agree with me. Let me ask you -- is > she still married to your father?
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Well, since you're asking about the "voice of experience" Larry, and you have so much advice and opinion on marrige: are you still married to ... er, OH YEAH, that's right! YOU'RE NOT MARRIED.

Kim W5TIT

2343. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:25:49 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c044bce_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25294

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011127205929.12427.00003465@nso-cg.aol.com...
> In article <9ts9gp$k7k$0@208.206.142.78>, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
> writes:
>
> >> Wrong again, as usual. I am not even remotely preoccupied with "them."
> >> It is YOU who have the preoccupation with your own breasts, and desire > >> for everyone else to be preoccupied with "them" as you are; therefore
your
> >> call sign is imposed on the whole of the ARS, at the expense of any > >> good opinion of your personal judgment. Quit trying to throw this back > >> on others, Kim. You are to blame for taking the ARS "...one step > >> closer to extinction," not us.
> >>
> >
> > It is difficult for me to become preoccupied with that which disgusts > >me. She is disgusting. You are right, Larry- Her choice of a vanity > >callsign clearly shows her own preoccupation.
>
> Dick:
>
> Yup. I believe that instead of Kim being so preoccupied with what > she has hanging off of her chest, she should be more worried about > what she is missing between her ears!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Larry, just because you leave women with something missing between their ears, doesn't mean I have something missing between my ears.

Kim W5TIT

2344. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:26:19 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1i0b$i5b$2@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25289

```
Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message > news:9tuvh1$jbg$1@208.206.142.65...
> >
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > N2EY wrote:
> > > >
> > > > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> > > > >More potential hams read this newsgroup than listen to ham radio.
> > > >
> > > > They DO? How do you know, Cecil?
> > >
> > > Deduction. More potential hams have computers than ham radios.
> >
> >
> > You'd be surprised how many people including hams never heard of
> > usenet.
> > When you tell them about it and how to download the 60,000 groups, and > > that you must download ALL of them, most decide they want nothing to do > > with it.
> >
>
> Why?! It takes--maybe--10 minutes and that would be with a very, very slow > connection. The browser can be set to "Catch Up" (IE; I don't know what its > equivalent is on Netscape), so a lot of time doesn't even have to be spent > with downloading the headers.
>
> Then, there's also sites such as Google (formerly Deja). Don't know if > there's any others.
>
> It's just not that hard or time consuming.

I know, but for some reason that big number sounds difficult to some people. Sorta like 20wpm Morse code.
```

2345. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:27:28 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1i2g$i5b$3@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25290

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > You'd be surprised how many people including hams never heard of
> > > usenet.
> >
> > Doubt it. Internet savvy people know about usenet and usually > > don't possess a transceiver. Hope that's not too much for you > > to comprehend.
>
> My dad, my sister and my two neighbors all own computers and have
> internet access. None are internet savvy and none access newsgroups.
> You don't have any solid information, do you?

Literally everything he says outside his technical field turns out to be conjecture, and largely BS.
```

2346. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:29:25 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c044ca6_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25295

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9u1hi7$i5b$0@208.207.71.131...
>
>
> Krell wrote:
> >
> > "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> > news:20011125232032.25429.00003458@nso-fc.aol.com...
> > > What I do recall about the film is that the best set of breasts I saw > > > was on the girl I was with!
> > >
> > > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> >
> > Yet, you don't think it's right for a word meaning "breasts" to be viewed by
> > the rest of the world via an amateur callsign. What a hypocrite!
>
>
> "Tits" is and has long been considered a vulgar expression. Breasts is
> not.
> What an idiot!

Oh really? "Tits" is vulgar, eh? Then, you'd better put some kind of protective suit on, because most women refer to their "breasts" as tits. And, most women refer to a bra as a tit-sling. But, hopefully, you've never been in the restrooms or locker rooms I've been in. Come to think of it, if you believe that "tits" is vulgar, you'd probably faint dead away in a women's restroom or locker room.

Kim W5TIT

2347. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:30:15 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1i7n$i5b$4@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25292

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > > You'd be surprised how many people including hams never heard of > > > > usenet.
> > >
> > > Doubt it. Internet savvy people know about usenet and usually > > > don't possess a transceiver. Hope that's not too much for you > > > to comprehend.
> >
> > My dad, my sister and my two neighbors all own computers and have
> > internet access. None are internet savvy and none access newsgroups.
> > You don't have any solid information, do you?
>
> Are your dad, sister, and two neighbors potential hams? I'm talking > primarily about people who have shown an interest in ham radio. I > have personally directed hundreds of those potential hams to these > newsgroups during Amateur Radio awareness days.

I know several internet savvy hams I have mentioned something I found on usenet to who had no knowledge of it, and when I explained the routine to access the groups they decided not to bother with it, All of my family members are computer savvy and one is an engineer and a licensed ham. I am the only one on usenet.
(Sorry bout that Cecil, I'm not either going to join them)

2348. test - do not reply

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:31:38 UTC
From: Frank Todd <k3eko@nospam.home.com>
Message-ID: <e0YM7.263166$5A3.100505457@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 25293

testing...

2349. Re: A question to all.....

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:37:14 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gnhg6tb.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 25296

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 02:08:39 +0000 (UTC), K0HB wrote:

[Re: Leasing/renting ham gear.]

>Everything you're suggesting is perfectly legal and above board.

Henry Radio in Los Angeles used to have a policy of "selling" a piece of used ham gear (traded-in by someone) and returning 90% of the sale price if the gear was returned within 5 days. They were fully aware that this was de-facto "rental".

To date this practice, they had lots of Gonset Gooney-Birds for us
2-meter guys who needed a portable or mobile rig over a long weekend. (Late 1950s)

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

2350. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:38:23 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C044F1C.3050706@att.net>
Source record: 25297

Dick Carroll wrote:

> Of course, all > ancient writings are subject to the interpretations of today, and of > course that is the major problem.

Did you know that in olden (more enlightened) days tit was NOT considered a vulgar word? It's true... ;-)

I guess certain usages, even today, are subject to interpretation. :^

Rich

2351. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:42:54 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1iveklv0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25298

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > You are the individual who wants numerous laws changed. You are the > > > libertarian who will not live to see a libertarian as a chief executive > > > of this country. You little "L" libertarians should take the hint after > > > watching throuncing after throuncing of big "L" Libertarian (or even > > > libertarian) candidates for national office. There aren't many in the > > > U.S. who'd vote your way. What do you think is the reason?
> >
> > Ignorance.
>
> I don't think you're view isn't supported because folks think you're > ignorant, Cecil. I think they just believe you to be misguided.
>

On the other hand,.....
```

2352. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:51:52 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1jg8$n5j$0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25299

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > What the hell do you think > > I'm talking about? Wiping out all Muslim women and children, just > > because they're Muslim? Kindly show where I said anything even close to > > that, otherwise you are a senile old fool who can't get anything > > striaght.
>
> You have said that every Muslim is a potential terrorist, Dick. You > have said that Muslims have no choice except to kill Christians.
> Exactly why would you be fomenting so much hatred of Muslims if you > don't want them exterminated? You can't back down now. You have been > advocating genocide.
>
> I, OTOH, recognize that Muslim terrorists are a small fraction of > one percent of Muslims. I say go after the terrorists, not the > rest of the one billion Muslims who are peaceful and law-abiding.

Ok, let's use your figures. If one tenth of one percent of the world/s
1.25 BILLION muslims are Islamic fundamentalist terrorists, that's 1,250,000 terrorists, if my calculator functioned correctly. Still think it's no problem?

I DID say that based on the fundamental teachings of Islam, every Muslim is a potential terrorist in that it is almost certaian that he will be forced to make a choice-follow his religious teachings and leaders, or reject them. In countries where fundamentalist Islam is not only the religion but the law as well, asking a Muslim to reject his religion can easily be fatal. At the least, it will cause him huge amounts of personal problems and grief.

2353. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:52:35 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1jhj$n5j$1@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25300

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 26 Nov 2001 01:09:14 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > If you consider the UN an inpatial source you are to be pitied.
>
> Oh get off your "Black Helicopter" paranoia, Dick. The UN is > as impartial as you can get when it comes to national organizations.
>
> America just isn't as "perfect" as your brainwashed mind > believes it to be--I know it's a shock to you, but there are some > other nations with some pretty good ideas too.

As I said, you are to be pitied.

2354. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:54:06 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1jke$n5j$2@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25351

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Mon, 26 Nov 2001 03:58:18 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >A Social Security card is not a national ID card. It isn't even > >necessary to carry it with you. As to your son's drifting, we can only > >hope that he finds himself and stops this drifting one day. I don't > >know of any photo Social Security cards and I'm quite certain that a > >state-issued drivers license doesn't count as a "national ID card".
>
> Ignoring the obvious stupidity of your response to a typo of > drift instead of draft, don't lean too hard on your "photo" concept to > prove something is a national id card. The papers issued to Italian > citizens under Mussolini didn't have pictures either--just a number > (as my social security card has). And you weren't required to carry > them all the time, only when conducting an activity (applying for a > job, opening a bank account, etc.) where they were required. Tried > applying for a job w/o a social security number lately?
>
> >Neither. I find the UN to be largely tangled in its own bureaucracy.
> >I'd fear no helicopters within ten or so years. It would take 'em that > >long to finish up the various meetings necessary to get one airborne.
>
> They do pretty well when it comes to relief efforts, Dave. Or > to pointing out the failings in various nations--ours included.

Sure they do a great job at things like appoingint Syria to the Security Council

2355. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:55:37 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1jn9$ni9$0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25352

N2EY wrote:
>
> In article <9tuu4thmt1@208.206.142.65>, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
> writes:
>
> >N2EY wrote:
> >> The Lumberjack Song".
> >>
> >> Didja know that if you take Neil Diamond's hit "September Morn" and replace
> >the > >> words "September Morn" with "Internet Porn", and make a few other minor > >changes
> >> the song still works, although with a somewhat different meaning?
> >>
> >>
> > Gee, imagine what you could do with "Cracklin' Rosie".
>
> I thought "Cracklin' Rosie" was already a novelty song (about inexpensive > wine).

The Neil Diamond song? Not the way I hear it.

2356. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:56:49 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9CBD4B7FC9D1E529.4558EAE90FB5B3C7.6FD28F07A9E8EF0F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25353

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 15:46:29 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>All I have to say is that you have absolutely no way of knowing whether
>I do or whether I don't.

But that's the beauty of it, Dave. I don't HAVE to know it--I just have to claim it is true, which provides evidence to Cecil. In order to invalidate that information, you have to state it is UNTRUE--in which case you answer Cecil's question. In the absence of such "proof," however, Cecil is totally justified in accepting the only evidence he is provided--my statement!

It's just like being accused of publicly exposing yourself
Dave, it doesn't matter if the accusation is true or not--if you are accused and don't deny the allegation, you WILL be found guilty in a court since the testimony of the accuser will be the only voice heard.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2357. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 02:59:23 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1jub$o49$0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25354

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > You really don't get it, do you? I wouldn't say it's universal across > > all species, but generally animals have no awareness of sex, ...
>
> Dick, consciousness makes animals aware of sex. You do believe that > animals are conscious, don't you? You are the only exception I know > to animals being conscious.

Cecil, it's you that is unconscious. All the animals I have ever been around or read about had no interest in sex whatever until the female was in estrus.
I think there may be some other primates,some monkey species, for which that may not be true, but even the large apes don't go ape over sex like humans do.

2358. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 03:00:57 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1k19$o9f$0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25355

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> news:20011125232030.25429.00003455@nso-fc.aol.com...
> > In article <3c013ca4_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
> writes:
> >
> > >> If the selection was limited to the likes of you I wouldn't be, either.
> > >
> > >Oh, believe me, you have that right.
> > >
> > >Kim W5TIT
> >
> > Yes, Kim, Dick did, indeed, have that right!
> >
> > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> >
>
> Is there an echo online? Of course he has that right. There is NO way in > Hell I'd find him attractive to the likes of me! For once, you're both > right.
>

Much more accurately, you'd never get the opportunity.

2359. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 03:03:22 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1k5q$o9f$1@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25356

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > On 26 Nov 2001 12:25:30 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
> >
> > >In addition, it's obvious that you won't voluntarily change it, so there's no > > >point in on-air mention of the issue.
> >
> > Then precisely what is the point of mentioning it (over and > > over again, for that matter) here?
> >
> > You, and others, expect the ARS to be treated with respect.
> > Great. I'm a ham as well. On the other hand, I'm ALSO a computer > > hobbyist who spends far more time on the Internet than on the air.
> > From my perspective, people like you, Dick, and Larry, who scream that > > the ham bands should be free of any form of bigotry, racism, or
> > "offensive" behavior are the worst kind of hypocrites! It's wrong in > > YOUR hobby, but perfectly alright here where OTHERS are hobbyists!
> >
> > If you don't like Kim's sign, then say so on the air. If you > > feel (as Dick and others do) that Islamic people are inferior, that > > their religion is inferior, or that minorities are losers who depend
> > on affirmative action to provide them jobs they don't deserve then > > voice your opinions on the ham bands or shut the fuck up! You have no > > more right to fill the Internet with that moralistic, racist, or > > bigoted crap than you do to fill the ham bands with it. Either take it > > BOTH places or drop it completely.
> >
> > Think about it.
> >
> > >Sems to me you define "responsibly minded people" as those who don't voice > > >objections.
> > >>
> > >>Believe me, the comments made here are made here only. :)
> > >>
> > >Because this is the appropriate place to do so.
> >
> > Bullshit!
> >
> > This venue is no more appropriate than the ham bands. Who the > > hell gave hams the right to come into the Internet Usenet groups and > > post offensive material they wouldn't think of voicing in the ham
> > bands? There are just as many children here as there are on the > > air--if you're so goddamn concerned with them then try practicing what > > you keep preaching in THIS venue too!

> >
> > Rick
>
> This is the voice of the tranquil Buddhist libertarian New Age Man.
> S'cuse the language, kids.

He's a real Sweetums, isn't he Dave?

2360. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 03:09:30 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1khaplm0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25357

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > K0HB wrote:
> > > Terroristic activity in the name of religion (Christianity) has been > > > going on in Northern Ireland for decades too -- and BOTH sides claim > > > a different flavor of Christianity as their motivation.
> > >
> > Ah, Yes, dear old Homeland. But only a blip on the radar beside Islamic > > fundamentalist terrorism, as demonstrated by longtime activities > > culminating at the World Trade Center.
>
> So murders in Ireland are only a blip on the radar? You say some > astounding things, Dick. Dead Irish people are just as dead as > dead American people.

So far I haven't been apprised of any atrocity connected with the Irish Troubles of anywhere the magnitude of Sept 11. Have you? But then, you're the igno that equates a 6000 year old passage in the Old Testament with modern religous practice.

2361. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 03:15:17 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1ks5$qt1$0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25358

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Jeff:
>
> I know you're smarter than that. The percentage of any measurement can only > be made against the field sampled. Of the ham radio operators I listen to > in the Dallas area, I'd say at least 50% of them are prejudiced or bigots.
>

Great. So you listen to two, and one is such.

> Your example would even be "OK" if we knew, of those 600,000, how many don't > even operate.
>
> Experience is that a tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism "seem"
> (note the operative word there) to be prevalent in ham radio.

And your vast experience probably includes that two hams mentioned above.
If yoiu'd just avoid the lunatic fringe, which is found most everywhere in this enlightened day where people liky you and Rick are so openminded the wind blows through, you wouldn't have any worries. There are very few bigots in ham radio.
On the other hand there is a growing number of airheads like you Rick and Cecil.

2362. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 03:20:55 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C045913.4090700@att.net>
Source record: 25359

Dick Carroll wrote:

>
> CAM wrote:
>
>>Dick Carroll wrote:
>>
>>>K0HB wrote:
>>>
>>>>Terroristic activity in the name of religion (Christianity) has been >>>>going on in Northern Ireland for decades too -- and BOTH sides claim >>>>a different flavor of Christianity as their motivation.
>>>>
>>> Ah, Yes, dear old Homeland. But only a blip on the radar beside Islamic >>>fundamentalist terrorism, as demonstrated by longtime activities >>>culminating at the World Trade Center.
>>>
>>So murders in Ireland are only a blip on the radar? You say some >>astounding things, Dick. Dead Irish people are just as dead as >>dead American people.
>>
>
>
> So far I haven't been apprised of any atrocity connected with the Irish > Troubles of anywhere the magnitude of Sept 11. Have you? But then, > you're the igno that equates a 6000 year old passage in the Old > Testament with modern religous practice.
>

Ah... Carroll... from 1984 to 2000 around 10,000 people have died at the hands of the PKK... about 5500 Guards and 4500 citizens.

Do you consider that trivial? Or should we just ignore it?

Rich

Now this is where you do some more of your name-calling... you... you... you... name-caller.... :P

2363. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 03:27:47 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1ljjsmr0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25360

CAM wrote:
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> > > Well just for THE RECORD Mohammad considered and discounted Jesus long > > > before his own death, and proclaimed himself to be the Final Prophet, > > > which remains Muslim doctrine to this day.
> >
> > Uh huh. Yeah. And, exactly, what book are you reading that from?
>
> Dick is reading stuff from radical Christian terrorist web pages.

Must have missed those. Where did you find them on the web>

> In reality, Mohammed considered Jesus to be a great prophet although > somewhat misguided with the turn-the-other-cheek stuff.

Nonsense. He rejected Chistianity as idolistic since Christians of the time showed what he interpreted to be idolistic adoration of Mary,
mother of Jesus.
He thought that Christians were thus polytheistic, and he stated that was against the true teachigns of the one Allah.

2364. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 03:34:31 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <EECCE7721D8F3BD3.2905FE8BAB95D3C9.19AD449E3E0E63A0@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25361

On 27 Nov 2001 18:01:26 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> I'm sure glad that I lived and worked far enough from a university that >an advanced degree was not a workable option. You and Cecil are giving >higher education a bad name.

Too willing to look at BOTH sides of issues for you Dickie?

> Of course Islam was responiible for the WTC etc!

No, you bigoted idiot, Islam was NOT responsible. A small group of Islamic TERRORISTS were responsible.

In Belfast, Ireland, many terrorist bombings have been performed by the IRA and other groups. This terrorism is due to a schism between the Roman Catholic Irish and the Protestant Irish. Do you believe we should blame the Catholic Church if the terrorism, or just the individuals involved?

>If not for the basic >teachings of fundamentalist Islam those acts would have never been never >been performed -by ISLAMICS!

If not for the teachings of the Roman Catholic and Protestant churches those killings in Belfast wouldn't have occurred.

If not for the teachings of the Old Testament, the killings in Palestine and the West Bank by the Israelis would never have occurred.

Why is it you don't blame the religion in the other cases, but you do in the case of Islam? Pure ignorance or bigotry?

> Do you insinuate they were other than >Islamics?

Nope.

Do YOU insinuate that the terrorists in Ireland are other than Christians?

>Do you insist that Islam does NOT, in its basic teachings, >dictate that all other belief systems are inferior and must be either >converted, enslaved, or eliminated?

Do YOU insist that the Christian Bible doesn't, in ITS basic teachings, dictate that all other belief systems are inferior and must be either converted, enslaved, or eliminated?

It's the same thing, Dickie. If it makes Islamic people into terrorists, it makes Christians into the same thing.

>Do you refuse to realize that the >fundamentalist Islamics have concluded they will never be able to >dominate the West by religious means alone (conversion) and have >concluded that elimination is the only workable means remaining of >making sure that Islam dominates?

Do you refuse to realize that fundamentalist Christians in the United States who have concluded they will never eliminate abortion by political means alone (laws) and have concluded that the elimination of abortion clinics and murder of physicians who perform abortions is the only workable means remaining of making sure that abortions are not performed?

Dickie, fundamentalist Islamic TERRORISTS and fundamentalist Christian TERRORISTS may have reached that conclusion, but not fundamentalists of EITHER religion as a whole.

> Do you not know that the >fundamentalists dominate Islam in most of the world, and do so by >accusing moderates of violating the basics of Islam, and even kill or >otherwise punish them?

No, I do NOT know that--because it doesn't happen to be true!

The largest sect of Islam--by FAR--is the Sunni sect. And Sunnis are progressive in their religion, not fundamentalist. Such nations as Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Egypt, etc. are all Sunni nations, only a few such as Iran are Shi'ite, or fundamentalist, muslim states--and even those for the most part totally oppose the concept of terrorism as being against the teachings of the Koran--a book, btw, it is very obviously you've never read despite pretending to know all about its teachings.

> Do you not know that such activity is becoming >ever more widespread throughout the world of Islam?

Again, I don't know that because it isn't true.

>Do you really believe that so few Moslems follow their basic tenants >that they are as few in number as the single Christian mental case you >quoted above?

Do you really believe that so few Christians follow their basic tenants [sic] that they are as few in number as the single Christian mental case I quoted above?

No difference at all in the questions, Dickie. And no difference at all in the answers.

> In fact it is becoming very clear that there is very little that you >actually DO know on the subject, you just like to pretend. I suppose it >boosts your ego.

Really?

Try posting FACTS instead of bigoted misinterpretations of a religion you neither understand nor wish to trouble yourself learning about.

> You are still in denial and just another component of the problem. Most >of us were glad to tolerate that sort of a belief system, considering it >as non-threatening, until that day in September when the light went on.
>Looks like some of you are still in the dark.

How very generous of you--you were willing to "tolerate" a religion that has been one of the most important influences on civilization in history. How magnanimous.

How bigoted!

> Truly non-violent Muslims had better be very proactive in divorcing >themseves from any and all of their soulmates while they still can since >the trust is about gone, or it is going very fast.

Sure--otherwise bigots like you will be screaming for concentration camps to house them in.

> Oh, by the way, you demanded a few days ago that I provide proof of >what I've been saying. I told you to read Chapter 5, verse 33 of the >Koran. You have remained very,very silent on the subject since that >time. I wonder why.

Silent, Dickie?

I pointed out that there is no such THING as "Chapter 5, verse 33" in the Koran. Try using the real thing instead of a phoney quote from the hate-mongers-are-us web site.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2365. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 03:37:30 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <6D2221EF5ED70090.5E728878FBF7DA71.D6A213B19CD52AFE@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25362

On 27 Nov 2001 18:02:59 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Hmmmm. I wonder what a good Google search would show on this >subject....

I wouldn't have the vaguest idea Dick. As I stated, I'm pretty sure my own classification was 1Y, but I'm not at all certain of that.
I _know_ it wasn't 4F, which I always thought was the designation for non-service connected medical ineligibility, but again I could easily be very wrong since Cecil apparently is sure of the 1Y in his case.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2366. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 03:41:38 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <7846A04E2467A02E.2449A1AC284B5468.EDECA3E886E99C74@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25363

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 02:59:59 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

> By the way, everybody, did you notice this thread has just about >reached the all time record for the number of messages posted to a >single thread (check out google.com for the totals). Perhaps it is >time to bring this thread "one step closer to extinction" and move
>some of the unrelated topics into their own threads. :-)

I tried that with the "bigotry" thread but it hasn't helped.

Bear in mind that Dick has stated he will NOT allow this thread to end until Kim changes her call sign. Regardless of content, he'll keep it going just to try to force her to capitulate to his demands.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2367. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:01:28 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C046198.CF0EBFD0@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25364

Dick Carroll wrote:
> You once again come out with an oxymoron, you moron. The majority makes > the rules/laws.

You are so absolutely ignorant, Dick. If Congress is the majority, that means we have about 1500 citizens in the entire US.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2368. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:03:24 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C04620C.DB634C65@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25365

Dave Heil wrote:
> You can babble about delusion all you'd like. It would appear that > you'll either have to come up some hard facts or look like an idiot.
> Do I eat pork or not.

You have already admitted that you do, Dave. You might as well have taken the 5th to avoid self incrimination.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2369. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:06:27 UTC
From: Jim Pennino <jimp@mail.specsol.com>
Message-ID: <3sn1u9.eee.ln@mail.specsol.com>
Source record: 25374

CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@ieee.org> wrote:
> Rick Adams wrote:
>>
>> On Sun, 25 Nov 2001 23:57:45 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
>> wrote:
>>
>> >Actually '1Y' and that classification wasn't my idea.
>>
>> Wasn't 1Y the designation for an honorably discharged vet with >> medical conditions that prevented conscription?

> If so, it apparently wasn't limited to vets. I was classified '1Y'
> because of migraine headaches. They told me they didn't want me > on the front lines with an automatic weapon during a blinding > headache.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

If you were discharged, you couldn't be drafted (called back under some circumstances though).

1Y, to simplify, was semi-gimp; not healthy enough for first string, but could be called if all the healthy were used up.

Jim Pennino

2370. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:16:26 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C04651B.53E50C59@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25366

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C0319DC.4EA73CD4@earthlink.net...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > > I know of no woman who refers to her tops as > > > breasts or mammaries. We all call them tits. We call all you guys' > > > thangs dicks.
> >
> > > Tits serve two purposes. They can nurse babies or men, or woman if > > > the owner of the tits is prone to that persuasion. We have to cover > > > our tits and you men have to cover your dicks.
> >
> > > I call my tits tits and always have. I call my, well....never mind. >
> Just be glad I don't have the callsign W5PSY.
> >
> > This too is tacky and lacks class and decorum.*
> >
> > ...and that's just part of the reason I refer to the woman as Tugboat > > Annie.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
> > * The view expressed is my personal opinion.
>
> Then consider that most women are tacky and lack class and decorum. Forgive > me for no desire to live up to either of the latter.

That is not the conclusion I draw at all. I don't know many women who would verbalize or write the type of thing you've written here. My comment wasn't directed at "other" women. It is written about your actions. My wife, mother, sister, next door neighbor, girl across the road don't speak like that. I consider it coarse and vulgar. I can see material like yours written on restroom walls at service stations. I don't much care for it there either.

Dave K8MN

2371. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:19:22 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0465CC.1897A3BF@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25367

```
Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C031CD3.A2D685F4@earthlink.net...
> > Rick Adams wrote:
> > >
> > > On 26 Nov 2001 12:25:30 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
> > >
> > > >In addition, it's obvious that you won't voluntarily change it, so
> there's no
> > > >point in on-air mention of the issue.
> > >
> > > Then precisely what is the point of mentioning it (over and > > > over again, for that matter) here?
> > >
> > > You, and others, expect the ARS to be treated with respect.
> > > Great. I'm a ham as well. On the other hand, I'm ALSO a computer > > > hobbyist who spends far more time on the Internet than on the air.
> > > From my perspective, people like you, Dick, and Larry, who scream that > > > the ham bands should be free of any form of bigotry, racism, or
> > > "offensive" behavior are the worst kind of hypocrites! It's wrong in > > > YOUR hobby, but perfectly alright here where OTHERS are hobbyists!
> > >
> > > If you don't like Kim's sign, then say so on the air. If you > > > feel (as Dick and others do) that Islamic people are inferior, that > > > their religion is inferior, or that minorities are losers who depend
> > > on affirmative action to provide them jobs they don't deserve then > > > voice your opinions on the ham bands or shut the fuck up! You have no > > > more right to fill the Internet with that moralistic, racist, or > > > bigoted crap than you do to fill the ham bands with it. Either take it > > > BOTH places or drop it completely.
> > >
> > > Think about it.
> > >
> > > >Sems to me you define "responsibly minded people" as those who don't > voice
> > > >objections.
> > > >>
> > > >>Believe me, the comments made here are made here only. :)
> > > >>
> > > >Because this is the appropriate place to do so.
> > >
> > > Bullshit!
> > >
```

> > > This venue is no more appropriate than the ham bands. Who the > > > hell gave hams the right to come into the Internet Usenet groups and > > > post offensive material they wouldn't think of voicing in the ham > > > bands? There are just as many children here as there are on the > > > air--if you're so goddamn concerned with them then try practicing what > > > you keep preaching in THIS venue too!
> > >
> > > Rick
> >
> > This is the voice of the tranquil Buddhist libertarian New Age Man.
> > S'cuse the language, kids.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> Oh, yeah. Lemmee guess, and you're a real gentleman, right? Pfffftttttttt

Kim, I know it may be difficult for you to digest but I don't talk like that on the air or in public. Let's just say that you and I don't hang with the same type crowd.

Dave K8MN

2372. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:21:12 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1ono$80i$0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25368

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 26 Nov 2001 01:58:13 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > It isn't. There is virtually no homosexual behavior in the animal > >kingdom.
> >That's a figment of human homosexual supporters.
>
> BULLSHIT!
>
> Pick up ANY book on zoology and you'll find you are wrong. Of > course, I'm sure you won't accept the word of scientists--it > contradicts the word of your bigoted religious leaders--but it happens > to be fact.

Sure it does. You have no clue of my religious background or beliefs, or lack thereor. Nor my experience with animals. I guess I'm supposed to believe you and some other dippy "scientist" who likely never saw animals in their natural setting over my own observations and that of many other outdoorsmen, and over other SCIENTIFIC evidence. Not gonna happen.

> Look up the Bonobo Chimpanzees in any book available, the > females are ALL bisexual, and the males engage in homosexual behavior > whenever the opportunity presents itself. They're TYPICAL of the > animal kingdom.

There's the Bullshit. I am aware of some species of primates which exhibit a preoccupation with sex. But if you call that typical it shows how LITTLE you know about the animal world.

> It isn't a "figment of human homosexual supporters" that > animals display homosexual behavior, it's a delusion of homophobes and > religious zealots that they don't!
>

Hear, Hear, Professor Bozo said it.

2373. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:22:30 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C046687.3F5C3C56@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25369

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C03AEB0.80A5178E@earthlink.net...
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > > Just be glad I don't have the callsign W5PSY.
> > > > >
> > > > > This too is tacky and lacks class and decorum.*
> > > >
> > > > Uhhhhhh Dave, W5PSY was issued by the FCC to Mr. Olsen
> > > > of Duncanville, TX.
> > >
> > > Uhhhhh Cecil, I was referring to Kim's post, not Mr. Olsen's call.
> > > I don't believe Mr. Olson has the anatomical parts to reference in the > > > manner Tugboat did.
> > >
> > > Dave K8MN
> >
> And, I submit that you are the one with the mind who deciphered my > message--all with nothing but mere inuendo from me. Who is it, exactly, > with no class?

Right, Kim. You not only provided the call, you provided the innuendo.
I'll bet Mr. Olsen doesn't do that with his call. You did the same in the selection of your vanity call.

Dave K8MN

2374. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:24:54 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1oum$8hj$0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25370

CAM wrote:
>
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> > > Nope, it's social engineering in the same way a driver's license
> > > is social engineering. We are talking about government requirements > > > not elective procedures.
> >
> > You're wrong. Obtaining an amateur radio license is an elective procedure.
>
> Nope, you're wrong, Jim. Choosing not to obtain an amateur radio > license is an elective procedure. Obtaining an amateur radio > license requires one to meet the governmental requirements > which are a form of social engineering. Think about it. Every > licensed ham had only two choices - meet the requirements or > cheat. Since you are not the cheating kind, you had no choice > except to meet the requirements based on the desired social > engineering. There was no other choice for licensed hams > like you except to meet the requirements.

Give it up,Jim. These guys are out of touch with reality.

2375. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:26:33 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C04677A.325D84F@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25371

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C040B98.7DF22E7D@earthlink.net...
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > >
> > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > > > > Just be glad I don't have the callsign W5PSY.
> > > > > >
> > > > > > This too is tacky and lacks class and decorum.*
> > > > > >
> > > > > Uhhhhhh Dave, W5PSY was issued by the FCC to Mr. Olsen
> > > > > of Duncanville, TX.
> > > > >
> > > > Uhhhhh Cecil, I was referring to Kim's post, not Mr. Olsen's call.
> > > > I don't believe Mr. Olson has the anatomical parts to reference in the > > > > manner Tugboat did.
> > > >
> > > So it's OK for a man to have W5PSY but if a woman were issued that > > > call by the FCC, she would be a slut? Talk about sexist.
> > >
> > Mr. Olsen didn't show up here and talk about his call in comparison to a > > part of a woman's anatomy. Tugboat Annie did.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
> >
> As, uh, most of us have in this thread?

Right--mostly about the inappropriate choice made by you.
We all get the salty humor, nudge wink.

Dave K8MN

2376. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:27:17 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0467A5.6CE4C30@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25373

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Ok, let's use your figures. If one tenth of one percent of the world/s
> 1.25 BILLION muslims are Islamic fundamentalist terrorists, that's > 1,250,000 terrorists, if my calculator functioned correctly. Still think > it's no problem?

Ignoring the fact that your estimate is ridiculously high, the terrorists are indeed a formidable force to be reckoned with and neutralized. What I am worried about is what you want to do with the other 99.99% of Muslims. Exactly what do you want to do with them, Dick? What would you do with the 300,000 American Muslims?

> I DID say that based on the fundamental teachings of Islam, every > Muslim is a potential terrorist in that it is almost certaian that he > will be forced to make a choice-follow his religious teachings and > leaders, or reject them.

Well, let me quote what your God says to do with people who believe in other gods. "Thou shalt surely smite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, destroying it utterly, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the sword." Dick, your God isn't any more tolerant of other religions than is the Islamic God. In fact, they are the same God and a large percentage of Islamic beliefs are from your Bible. "If there be found among you, within any of thy gates which the Lord thy God giveth thee, man or woman, that hath wrought wickedness in the sight of the Lord thy God, in transgressing his covenant, and hath gone and served other gods, and worshipped them, ... Then shalt thou bring forth that man or that woman, which have committed that wicked thing, unto thy gates, even that man or that woman, and shalt stone them with stones, till they die." What's that about the Christians and Jews tolerating other religions? "But thou shalt utterly destroy them; namely, the Hittites, and the Amorites, the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites; as the Lord thy God has commanded thee. That they teach you not to do after all their abominations, which they have done unto their gods; so should ye sin against the Lord your God." So there you are, Dick. Over and over, your God commands his followers to kill any and all people of other religions. How is your God different from the Islamic God? Here's what your God commands you to do to whores: "Then they shall bring the damsel to the door of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her with stones that she die; because she hath wrought folly in Israel, to play the whore in her father's house:" And my favorite: Joshua and the Israelites invaded another country and sacked Jericho. "And they utterly destroyed all that was in the city, both man and woman, young and old, and ox, and sheep, and ass, with the edge of the sword." So Dick, the Koran looks somewhat mild compared to your very own Christian Bible.

--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2377. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:28:40 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0467F9.1BE64925@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25372

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> news:9u1hi7$i5b$0@208.207.71.131...
> >
> >
> > Krell wrote:
> > >
> > > "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> > > news:20011125232032.25429.00003458@nso-fc.aol.com...
> > > > What I do recall about the film is that the best set of breasts I saw > > > > was on the girl I was with!
> > > >
> > > > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> > >
> > > Yet, you don't think it's right for a word meaning "breasts" to be > viewed by
> > > the rest of the world via an amateur callsign. What a hypocrite!
> >
> >
> > "Tits" is and has long been considered a vulgar expression. Breasts is
> > not.
> > What an idiot!
>
> Oh really? "Tits" is vulgar, eh? Then, you'd better put some kind of > protective suit on, because most women refer to their "breasts" as tits.
> And, most women refer to a bra as a tit-sling. But, hopefully, you've never > been in the restrooms or locker rooms I've been in. Come to think of it, if > you believe that "tits" is vulgar, you'd probably faint dead away in a > women's restroom or locker room.

Just who is it you are hanging out with, Kim--a roller derby team?

Dave K8MN

2378. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:34:27 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C046954.4602B721@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25375

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > You can babble about delusion all you'd like. It would appear that > > you'll either have to come up some hard facts or look like an idiot.
> > Do I eat pork or not.
>
> You have already admitted that you do, Dave. You might as well have > taken the 5th to avoid self incrimination.

I've provided you no information whatever regarding the matter. It appears that you took the fifth--and drank it.

Dave K8MN

2379. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:36:42 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9240ACC63684DC30.212099251DB9C814.516A48B23E3A7069@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25376

On 27 Nov 2001 12:25:04 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>That's ONE definition. In other countries it is done differently. I did not say >it was acceptable, moral or a good thing.

No, Jim, it is the ONLY definition--see any medical dictionary.

You're right--in some countries it IS done differently. For example, in the United States it's done in a hospital (there is only ONE in the US--in Atlanta as I recall--that will permit the surgery--most people here who have their daughters "circumcised" [over 40,000 in the 1990s according to UNICEF] send them overseas to hospitals that specialize in that kind of operation). While the vagina isn't sewn shut in all cases (it isn't in hospital clitoridectomies, for example), the complete removal of the clitoris IS performed (removal of the clitoral hood for medical or cosmetic reasons is called "hooding" not "circumcision").

>The question still remains: is it OK to do it to boys but not girls?

Boys suffer no physical incapacitation as a result, and in some cases (malformed foreskin, hypospadia surgery requiring tissue, etc.) it's medically necessary or advisable. In the Jewish faith, of course, it is a requirement based on the biblical injunction.

Is it ok? Perhaps not, but comparing it to the female version is like comparing drinking a beer to heroin addiction, they have nothing in common.

>> That's all it took in Germany when the Nazis took power, too.
>

>Did Germany have the same Constitution as the USA?

They had an excellent one (written after WWI) that had all the guarantees of freedom and representation provided by the US Constitution as well as a number of outstanding social provisions. At the time, it was widely regarded (including by the USA) as an outstanding Constitution, among the finest legal documents ever created.

> Did the Nazi party take >power by a majority vote in a free election?

Yup!

In the election of July 31, 1933, the Nazi party won 13,745,000 votes which gave them 230 seats in Parliament, and made them the largest single party in government. Hitler was already the legally selected Chancellor of the Republic. Through a coalition formed with the Communist Party (a coalition Hitler hated but accepted) the Nazis gained the majority of votes in the Parliament legally.

As attractive as it would be to believe that the Nazis "took over" Germany by force, the fact remains that it simply isn't true.

>Did the Reichstag vote on every >change in the laws, and approve every one by a 2/3 majority?

Wasn't necessary to do so--examine the German Constitution of the time. A simple majority was all that was necessary except in the case of a Constitutional change, the same as is true in the US, of course.

Many laws were subject to change by administrative departments, in the same way laws such as tax regulations (but not rates or forms), radio operations, or securities exchange regulations are changed here in the US.

>I don't think so.

Then you incorrectly informed.

As an introductory book on the topic, try "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich" by William L. Shirer. If you're interested in the allied response to Nazism, try the six volume "The Second World War" by Winston S. Churchill.

>> It didn't wipe out ANYONE'S rights
>
>Sure it did. It ruled that the right of privacy was more important.

Yup!

Who is the PERSON whose rights were "wiped out?"

Bear in mind that in order to claim the fetus has rights you much (1) prove it is a person by definition and (2) prove that it is a person who is protected by laws determining rights in the first place.
In the USA, the laws protecting rights are contained in the Constitution, which does NOT define a fetus as a citizen, and explicitly limits the protections it affords TO citizens.

>> According to current law, which HAS been examined from >>Constitutional aspects, non-citizens are NOT protected by the rights >>guaranteed in the US Constitution.
>
>Ahhh. Now I get ya. But the Supremes could change that if a test case is >brought before them. The Supremes have reversed their position before, too.

They can't change the fact that the Constitution SPECIFIES that a person is not a citizen of the United States except under very specific circumstances (given in my previous message) OR that those who are not citizens are not protected by the provisions of the Constitution--those are PART of the Constitution and not subject to SC change. The responsibility of the SC is to rule on the Constitutionality of laws and legal decisions. So long as those laws are Constitutional (and, by definition, the Constitution IS Constitutional), they are not empowered to rule against them.

>Does it say "is born and draws his/her first breath in the United States" or >just "is born in the United States"?

The Fourteenth Amendment (the "citizenship amendment") states:

"All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside."

Because birth (which is legally defined as having exited the birth canal and drawn an independent breath--important in some legal cases, and affirmed by the SC) is a specific criteria of citizenship, it follows that a fetus _cannot_ be a citizen, and thus is not protected by the Constitution.

>
>You missed the whole point, though. Cecil was describing the Constitution as if >it were an unchangable thing, with only one interpretation. That's simply not >true.

Here, we agree--although the SC is not in a position to change it--only the Congress and the population share that right.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2380. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:37:09 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0469F5.FF37E337@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25377

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Cecil, it's you that is unconscious. All the animals I have ever been > around or read about had no interest in sex whatever until the female > was in estrus.

You are just not very aware, Dick. A couple of days ago, my fixed female dog mounted my niece's fixed female dog and started humping.
No estrus in sight. I used to have a tomcat who wasn't a bit choosy about which sex he humped. He raped many a smaller tomcat.
I had a male duck that raped my mother's chickens. Homosexuality is rampant in animals and the thing that separates animals from plants is that animals are aware.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2381. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:39:32 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C046A84.E3567032@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25378

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> People who are married, or in committed relationships with a person
> they love, respect, and trust, do not challenge that trust by having > private meetings, professional or otherwise, with people of the opposite > sex unless their spouse or partner is present.

Egads Larry, would you actually demand to sit in on your wife's job review behind closed doors with her male boss? You are one sick puppy.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2382. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:42:47 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C046B47.98F316AD@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25379

Dick Carroll wrote:
> So far I haven't been apprised of any atrocity connected with the Irish > Troubles of anywhere the magnitude of Sept 11. Have you?

Exactly how many people have to be murdered for it to matter to you, Dick? A dead Irish victim is just as dead as a dead American victim. The Oklahoma City bombing victims are just as dead as the WTC victims. Tim McVee was a Christian. Why aren't you badmouthing all Christians?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2383. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:47:48 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <92671D3A71B98C53.1A76B846AD7C80CE.06FD735BDBD03028@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25380

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 15:54:52 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>So Maximo can carry Antonio's ID card and vice versa. It sounds as if >their system needed work. I don't intend to apply for a job at all but >the necessity for the Social Security number in obtaining a job is >pretty evident. Uncle wants his payroll and Social Security taxes. You >don't have a problem with that do you?

Taxes? No, not most of them. I have an issue with some of the regressive ones and those that tax income more than once (as do property and inheritance taxes), but not with reasonable taxation.

On the other hand, I _do_ have a problem with having to provide my social security number for any OTHER purpose than taxation.
For example, there is absolutely no justification for the FCC to have my SS# simply because I am an amateur--they have my unique call sign, that's sufficient. In the same light, my SS# should not be required for a passport (it is) or other non-tax uses.

Today a child can't even be ENROLLED in a school unless he or she provides a social security number. Unless you believe that a kindergarten child is going to earn income by attending public school, there is no legitimate grounds for demanding that he or she have such a number in the first place, let alone requiring that it be furnished to a school.

>> They do pretty well when it comes to relief efforts, Dave. Or >> to pointing out the failings in various nations--ours included.
>
>I was not addressing relief efforts, nor were you. We don't need 'em to >point out our failings. We have you and the Swedes for that.

Someone needs to do so with all the jingoism in our society
(and in this news group of course).

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2384. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:48:48 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C046CB0.9A8800BD@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25381

Dave Heil wrote:
> I've provided you no information whatever regarding the matter.

On the contrary, you have provided me all the information I need.
If you are too ignorant to realize it, I feel sorry for you.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2385. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:52:39 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C046D97.4A88E58A@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25382

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Give it up,Jim. These guys are out of touch with reality.

Were you required to pass the exams, Dick, or did you cheat?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2386. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:54:30 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1qm6cuk0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25383

Rick Adams wrote:
>

Dick has made it very clear that he > intends to keep this thread alive (with a subject line that is > DIRECTLY related to Kim) until she changes her call sign. THAT, Jim, > is an attempt to force her to act against her will, and it is wrong
> from ANY moral perspective.

OK, so you now have earned the title of Professor Bullshit Squared.

>
> If this discussion was, as you claim, directed to the generic > topic of whether certain call signs are good or bad for the image of > the ARS, Kim's sign would be mentioned no more than any other that was > found in the callbook and was considered inappropriate by anyone. That > is patently not the case.

You are patently full of it up to your eyebrows.

2387. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:56:06 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1qp6cuk1@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25384

Phil Kane wrote:
>
> On 27 Nov 2001 09:47:42 -0800, N2EY wrote:
>
> >The discussion here is about whether certain callsigns are appropriate > >to the ARS. It's not just about Kim's callsign, but about the larger > >topic of such callsigns in general. The W6 version of Kim's call has > >been assigned to a person with the first name Michael since at least > >1979, btw.
>
> One could not request a specific 1X3 call until the Vanity program > started in the mid-90s, except through the Dick Zeigler Under-The-Table > route (Dick went to the Federal pen for that in 1978 or so).
>
> I would not ever claim that Michael was a crook so the call appears > to have been a "routine" issuance, albeit unusual.

Phil you seem to have forgotten the period 1975-77 where Extras could indeed request a specific callsign. Zeigler was evidently selling them out the back door to the ineligible, and that was what got him in trouble, and got that program cancelled.

2388. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 04:57:55 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <7B4239A4A04D973D.DC2153731CC206E3.9A05C7270098E8EE@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25385

On 27 Nov 2001 12:25:02 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>Dorothy has a last name, mentioned in the film. What is it?

Gale. In a later version of the book, Baum created the name to add a pun to the story. When Dorothy tells the Scarecrow that her name is "Dorothy Gale, of the Kansas Gales." he replies that it explains her "breezy manner."

My turn:

The Tin Woodsman has a first and last name. What are they?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2389. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:08:15 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1rfvete0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25386

Richard Plourde wrote:
>
> > So far I haven't been apprised of any atrocity connected with the Irish > > Troubles of anywhere the magnitude of Sept 11. Have you? But then, > > you're the igno that equates a 6000 year old passage in the Old > > Testament with modern religous practice.
> >
>
> Ah... Carroll... from 1984 to 2000 around 10,000 people have died at the hands > of the PKK... about 5500 Guards and 4500 citizens.
>
> Do you consider that trivial? Or should we just ignore it?
>

Ah...Plourde, do you see anywhere that I said it was trivial? I said there was no atrocity there that would match Sept 11.(An atrocity is defined as an occurance or multiples occuring simulatenously. We have no way to know just how luck we really were that many of the planned hijackings did not reach the intended target).
What part of that is so complex that your fragile mind missed it?

2390. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:09:27 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1ri7ete1@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25387

Krell wrote:
>
> "Jeffrey Herman" <jeffreyh@Hawaii.Edu> wrote in message
> news:9tsilc$n0u$1@news.hawaii.edu...
> > Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
> > >A tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism seem to be > > >prevalent among may ham radio operators.
> >
> > Out of our 600,000+ members, what percentage display those > > characteristics, Rick? If say, you've counted 60,000, that > > would be just 10%. Is ten percent "a tremendous amount"?
> > (Do you even know 60,000 hams???)
>
> That's as may be, but there is an old experiment my English teacher once > showed us. He had a plain, white piece of paper, (standard 8 1/2 x 11 > inches) and marked it with a black dot, about the size of a dime. He asked > the class what they noticed about the paper. Everyone said they noticed the > black dot. He then pointed that we didn't notice the white area, or that the > other side was still blank, or even the shape or size. The first thing they > saw was a black dot that stood out from the rest of the paper.
>
> Even if 5% or 1% of hams are racist or bigots, they are like that black dot > that stands out. People will notice this before anything else. People will > base their judgements on this.

Better tell it to Rick and Kim who say that ham radio is loaded with racism and bigotry when neither would recognize them if one jumped up and bit them in the butt.

2391. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:11:56 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1rmsete2@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25388

Robert Casey wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
>
> > On 26 Nov 2001 05:48:02 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
> >
> > > Not at all. You clearly could have taken your Advanced and your CSCE
> > >for the Extra written to the April 15 VE session and your Extra license > > >was issued by the FCC on May 9. Simple enough.
> >
> > Wake up, genius. It was _averaging_ over 40 days from test to > > issuance when the restructuring first came in--and my upgrade was > > dated 24 days after that date.
> >
>
> FWIW, I cashed in my CSCE's and old tech plus on Restructuring
> Day (4/15/00) and I had my new license issued within a week.
> So I could claim to be an old extra. But I won't.

He could to, and is.

2392. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:14:28 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1rrkete3@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25389

```
Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> news:9u1hi7$i5b$0@208.207.71.131...
> >
> >
> > Krell wrote:
> > >
> > > "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> > > news:20011125232032.25429.00003458@nso-fc.aol.com...
> > > > What I do recall about the film is that the best set of breasts I saw > > > > was on the girl I was with!
> > > >
> > > > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> > >
> > > Yet, you don't think it's right for a word meaning "breasts" to be > viewed by
> > > the rest of the world via an amateur callsign. What a hypocrite!
> >
> >
> > "Tits" is and has long been considered a vulgar expression. Breasts is
> > not.
> > What an idiot!
>
> Oh really? "Tits" is vulgar, eh? Then, you'd better put some kind of > protective suit on, because most women refer to their "breasts" as tits.
> And, most women refer to a bra as a tit-sling. But, hopefully, you've never > been in the restrooms or locker rooms I've been in. Come to think of it, if > you believe that "tits" is vulgar, you'd probably faint dead away in a > women's restroom or locker room.

Most people know that what is commonly accepted in locker rooms isn't acceptable in public mixed company especially with children present.
Sorry you don't
```

2393. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:17:10 UTC
From: Jim Pennino <jimp@mail.specsol.com>
Message-ID: <m0s1u9.ngp.ln@mail.specsol.com>
Source record: 25396

```
Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote:
> CAM wrote:
>>
>> Dave Heil wrote:
>> >
>> > CAM wrote:
>> > >
>> > > Dick Carroll wrote:
>> > > > You'd be surprised how many people including hams never heard of >> > > > usenet.
>> > >
>> > > Doubt it. Internet savvy people know about usenet and usually >> > > don't possess a transceiver. Hope that's not too much for you >> > > to comprehend.
>> >
>> > My dad, my sister and my two neighbors all own computers and have
>> > internet access. None are internet savvy and none access newsgroups.
>> > You don't have any solid information, do you?
>>
>> Are your dad, sister, and two neighbors potential hams? I'm talking >> primarily about people who have shown an interest in ham radio. I >> have personally directed hundreds of those potential hams to these >> newsgroups during Amateur Radio awareness days.

> Just about everybody is a potential ham, Cecil.

> As to your claim about directing hundreds here, it is simply more crap.

> Dave K8MN

ROTFLMO!

You have NO idea what the average person thinks of hams; clue, it isn't flattering.

Jim Pennino
```

2394. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:21:11 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3CD2CF29665D635E.B8C55D82339AD2FE.F9070AE460C4EC5A@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25390

On 28 Nov 2001 01:59:29 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Yup. I believe that instead of Kim being so preoccupied with what >she has hanging off of her chest, she should be more worried about >what she is missing between her ears!

Larry, has it occurred to you that it isn't Kim who is demonstrating here that she is preoccupied by her tits--it's you, Dave, and Dickie?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2395. Re: A question to all.....

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:23:40 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c04748c.3401829@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 25392

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 02:08:39 +0000 (UTC), "K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net>
wrote:

>"KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
>news:18WM7.104$9d.19434@newshog.newsread.com...
>
>> Alrighty..... another one of those "what if" questions:
>>
>> Is it legal to rent or lease ham gear? I was wondering about this one, say >> for instance, here in Michigan we have places called Rental King, >> Rent-a-Center etc. Not that we would want to have ham gear rented at a >> location like that, but if there were places that you could rent or lease >> equipment, in the short term, that may seem like a more feasable option for >> some who clearly cannot afford one of those way-overpriced, multi-band, >> do-everything rigs. (Between those and the "kit" radios, there is not much >> inbetween)
>>
>> Also, would it be legal to rent someone elses station? Since the FCC license >> does not state what gear you are operating, only that YOU are licensed, is >> this a loophole?
>
>Hi Ryan,
>
>Everything you're suggesting is perfectly legal and above board.
>
>A non-ham could build a first rate contesting station in a desireable
>location (Virgin Islands for example) and rent it out to licensed hams >for their favorite contest weekend. There used to be a 'bed&breakfast' >operation in Hawaii which offered a fully equipped ham station as one >of their features.

Yep, and I seem to recall a similar type rental for somewhere in Australia being advertised in the ham mags.

>The prohibition in 97.113(a)(2) is against actual on the air operation >for compensation. It does not prohibit you from being compensated for >the use of your station by another licensed person.

Right on!

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

2396. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:24:16 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <D3F9537EBCE99B8D.6268B446BD32D0B2.AFC771CA12B639D5@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25391

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 01:34:27 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>There are those of us who believe you do harm to kids with that kind of >stuff.

Then don't use it around them.

>This is the kind of "real world" language that real adults don't >even need to use.

Opinion. Some people express certain thoughts more accurately using such terms, others don't.

>You're one consenting adult. I didn't see that the >party to whom you made your statement consented.

To what?

My use of the English language?

Don't like my messages? You know where your delete key is;
don't read them.

>You'd like it all your way. You can skip the part about New Age if my >comparison offends. You can just be the tranquil Buddhist Libertarian >telling another to "shut (expletive deleted) up).

Nope.

Never claimed to be tranquil either. OR a "large "L"
Libertarian--just a libertarian.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2397. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:25:47 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9FE0B8E48C07112C.C8E28D6282CFB388.15D29F2023ED5F15@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25393

On 28 Nov 2001 03:03:22 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> He's a real Sweetums, isn't he Dave?

Thanks for the strokes Dickie--but I'll pass. Not only aren't you my type--I question whether you are even my species.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2398. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:27:19 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9u1siq01n88@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 25403

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
news:9u1hi7$i5b$0@208.207.71.131...
> > Yet, you don't think it's right for a word meaning "breasts" to be viewed by
> > the rest of the world via an amateur callsign. What a hypocrite!
>
>
> "Tits" is and has long been considered a vulgar expression. Breasts is
> not.
> What an idiot!

It's only vulgar if you allow it to be so.

2399. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:27:32 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <BAAB20D22126D171.25F9CB9AA1BF361A.1429EA91C5830B8E@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25394

On 28 Nov 2001 02:21:10 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> You once again come out with an oxymoron, you moron. The majority makes >the rules/laws. Remember "Majority rule, minority rights"? From Polysci >101

I don't--and I _teach_ PLS101 classes!

Majority rule CAN mean Tyranny of the Majority, Dickie. Simply because the "majority" want something does NOT make it either "right" or appropriate.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2400. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:30:39 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <04FD8F1910D1D109.9185787D8F5A6A24.7B856716ED042234@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25395

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 01:38:34 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Let's set the record straight. Most of us can see the difference >between the Civil Rights movement and the libertarian line. That's why >the U.S. has a Civil Rights Act and why the U.S. hasn't had a >Libertarian President.

Dave, you can't even see the difference between a Libertarian
(a member of the Libertarian political party) and a libertarian (one who adheres to a policy of liberty). Confusing them--as you insist on doing--is like confusing a Democrat (member of the Democratic party) and a democrat (person who believes in democracy).

>> Simply because the majority believe something does NOT make it >> true.
>
>In this case, it certainly does. The majority rejects the libertarian >philosophy as impractical and votes for one or the other of the two >major parties.

How nice.

The libertarian philosophy is integral to the US Constitution and the Declaration of Independence. I guess both of THOSE are impractical as well from your perspective, right?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2401. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:33:45 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <212A4F7AA7D2E1CD.2A47E290026B5A50.7AA27EA567A59B14@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25397

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 01:44:45 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>For a guy who has the credentials you purport to have, you don't strike >me as a guy who lets things like facts stand in the way of a good rant.
>You quote a "newsgroup average" from an unnamed source. Maybe some >newsgroups get 7,000 readers. Maybe some--maybe even this one--have 15.
>Maybe they are the same 15. No stats exist, to my knowledge, which >provide numbers of new amateur exam takers correlated to the number of >potential hams whether they are internet news group lurkers or those >listening on the ham bands. If what you've posted sounds like good >evidence to you, perhaps you can provide your insider info on when we >might expect the mother ship to return.

Dave, for days I have posted explicit citations to MANY of the points I make in my messages. As yet, you haven't seen fit to support a single one of your own claims with a legitimate citation. When you start, I'll worry about providing you sources for all my statements of fact instead of just the ones I quote directly. Until then, if you want the sources find them yourself.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2402. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:35:16 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <99556F09A71F8C6E.9BCB5191CCCB6A82.E2D7C9086AE95CD3@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25398

On 28 Nov 2001 02:26:19 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> I know, but for some reason that big number sounds difficult to some >people. Sorta like 20wpm Morse code.

You mean 10 minutes of computer time (with no human intervention) is all that's needed to pass a 20WPM code test? I sure wasted a LOT of time studying for that test (and flunking it twice before passing it) for nothing.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2403. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:36:49 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B87095F3A387BF83.1AC749AA727459B0.27E69112CB019B90@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25399

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 21:53:00 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Right. Your claim is now that this newsgroup (or any of the others) >has existed for 13 years. More crap. Sure wish I could take you >seriously. You play fast and loose with the truth. Convince us of your >liklihood of being a potential truth teller.

Care to provide the date on which this newsgroup WAS created?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2404. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:45:53 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <4A006B6D0570F66C.D38FEF6E11609882.41867AF1283E6246@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25400

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 01:49:31 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Surprisingly, one one of 'em uses AOL. Two use MSN and one uses >Earthlink. None does more than surf the web or e-mail except for my dad >who has somehow figured out how to use IRC to chat. All are in the dark >about newsgroups. The neighbors are a family of two adults and two >children. I wonder what percentage of users are like these folks...

Around 30-35% according to online estimates of the number of people who use local isps versus major providers.

I'm extremely confused by one thing. You say none of them know about the Usenet--yet Earthlink recommends Usenet Groups of interest to members in ALL it's email bulletins--at least once per month at a minimum. Earthlink has its own news server for members as well. On aol, of course, newsgroups are readily available from the aol main menu. MSN, otoh, does NOT promote Usenet, since it has it's own "communities" (essentially email lists) and no longer provides a news server for its customers.

For the most part, if those individuals aren't aware of the Usenet it's because they haven't taken the time to learn about the services they are paying for each month--or to read any of the bulletins those services send out. If that's the case, I doubt seriously that a large percentage of users are like these folks.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2405. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:48:33 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <0310C35CBE06A4BD.502B05FD3FFF0D15.42685176084825CB@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25401

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 21:54:35 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Mr. Olsen didn't show up here and talk about his call in comparison to a >part of a woman's anatomy. Tugboat Annie did.

No she didn't--Kim did. As a response to a thread started by Dick, not herself.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2406. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:51:46 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C047B6E.EE440F53@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25402

CAM wrote:
>
> Contrary to Dick's ignorant > postings, here's what Muslims > believe about Jesus.

Thanks, Cecil. And, with that, I'll let this issue stand - if a person isn't going to believe what you posted, that person isn't going to believe a thing.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2407. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 05:53:15 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <C3119E03D18365CE.A164EEE292EDEB30.A1B588A3882CEE4E@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25404

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 04:16:26 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>That is not the conclusion I draw at all. I don't know many women who >would verbalize or write the type of thing you've written here. My >comment wasn't directed at "other" women. It is written about your >actions. My wife, mother, sister, next door neighbor, girl across the >road don't speak like that.

At least in front of you. Otoh, if they know your views, they probably avoid a LOT of common terms in your presence. That's still easier than talking to Dick--at least in your case they probably don't have to avoid words with more than two syllables.

>I consider it coarse and vulgar.

That is your privilege. Not everyone would agree with you.

>I can see >material like yours written on restroom walls at service stations. I >don't much care for it there either.

So next time you stop at a restroom, leave your pen in the car.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2408. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:00:30 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C047D72.228432D6@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25405

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 15:54:52 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >So Maximo can carry Antonio's ID card and vice versa. It sounds as if > >their system needed work. I don't intend to apply for a job at all but > >the necessity for the Social Security number in obtaining a job is > >pretty evident. Uncle wants his payroll and Social Security taxes. You > >don't have a problem with that do you?
>
> Taxes? No, not most of them. I have an issue with some of the > regressive ones and those that tax income more than once (as do > property and inheritance taxes), but not with reasonable taxation.

Too bad we can't all pick and choose which taxes we don't mind paying and simply ignore the rest. I assume that you don't feel that you are being unfairly singled out. As the judge who administered my wife's citizenship oath told her, "Congratulations on becoming a citizen with all the rights and responsibilities--including the one to pay taxes."

> On the other hand, I _do_ have a problem with having to > provide my social security number for any OTHER purpose than taxation.
> For example, there is absolutely no justification for the FCC to have > my SS# simply because I am an amateur--they have my unique call sign, > that's sufficient. In the same light, my SS# should not be required > for a passport (it is) or other non-tax uses.

It is there in both cases for tax reasons. If you owe taxes, you'll not receive a license or a passport.

> Today a child can't even be ENROLLED in a school unless he or > she provides a social security number. Unless you believe that a > kindergarten child is going to earn income by attending public school, > there is no legitimate grounds for demanding that he or she have such > a number in the first place, let alone requiring that it be furnished > to a school.

Start a movement.

> >> They do pretty well when it comes to relief efforts, Dave. Or > >> to pointing out the failings in various nations--ours included.
> >
> >I was not addressing relief efforts, nor were you. We don't need 'em to > >point out our failings. We have you and the Swedes for that.
>

> Someone needs to do so with all the jingoism in our society
> (and in this news group of course).

Naw, Rick. It isn't jingoism. The UN isn't a country. The Swedes already think of themselves as the world's conscience. We, as you know, are the world's policeman. My Swedish friends and I often joke about it. Why should you have a problem with it? Now that we have established that, what is your axe to grind with the U.S.?

Dave K8MN

2409. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:03:00 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C047E08.E314026C@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25406

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > I've provided you no information whatever regarding the matter.
>
> On the contrary, you have provided me all the information I need.
> If you are too ignorant to realize it, I feel sorry for you.

You apparently can't take "I'm not telling you" as an answer. Maybe Rick should re-examine his diagnosis of your obsessive compulsive behavior.

I'm still not telling you, Cecil. On with your quest!

Dave K8MN

2410. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:08:12 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C047F3E.85E2C21@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25407

```
Jim Pennino wrote:
>
> Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote:
> > CAM wrote:
> >>
> >> Dave Heil wrote:
> >> >
> >> > CAM wrote:
> >> > >
> >> > > Dick Carroll wrote:
> >> > > > You'd be surprised how many people including hams never heard of > >> > > > usenet.
> >> > >
> >> > > Doubt it. Internet savvy people know about usenet and usually > >> > > don't possess a transceiver. Hope that's not too much for you > >> > > to comprehend.
> >> >
> >> > My dad, my sister and my two neighbors all own computers and have > >> > internet access. None are internet savvy and none access newsgroups.
> >> > You don't have any solid information, do you?
> >>
> >> Are your dad, sister, and two neighbors potential hams? I'm talking > >> primarily about people who have shown an interest in ham radio. I > >> have personally directed hundreds of those potential hams to these > >> newsgroups during Amateur Radio awareness days.
>
> > Just about everybody is a potential ham, Cecil.
>
> > As to your claim about directing hundreds here, it is simply more crap.
>
> > Dave K8MN
>
> ROTFLMO!
>
> You have NO idea what the average person thinks of hams; clue, it isn't > flattering.
>
> Jim Pennino
```

Well why hold back, Jim? Enlighten us. Fill us in. If you make that claim, apparently you do have some idea of what the average person thinks of hams. You might also let us know what means you used to conduct your poll.

Dave K8MN

2411. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:09:13 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1v29obb0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25408

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > It is clear enough that the roots of violence come from the Koran > > itself, for those believers who would interpret it that way, and for all > > the masses they influence. If your mileage varies, that's your deficit.
> > For me, Sept 11 was proof enough.
>
> Let's assume what you say is correct and that the actions of a handful > of terrorists proves that all one billion Muslims are terrorists. What > actions do you propose to take to alleviate the problem? Please be > specific.

As usual, your entire premise is wrong. Nothing I said or intimated can reasonably be interpreted to say that all 1.25 billion Muslims are terrorists, but it is clear that far more than enough to take us out are indeed of that persuasion. What to do with THEM? I think Dubya etc are handling that adequately at this point. Where it goes from Afghanistan will be the catch.

2412. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:12:35 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C048044.FA4DFCEF@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25409

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 01:34:27 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >There are those of us who believe you do harm to kids with that kind of > >stuff.
>
> Then don't use it around them.

I don't. You did. The kids didn't have an opportunity to consent.

> >This is the kind of "real world" language that real adults don't > >even need to use.
>
> Opinion. Some people express certain thoughts more accurately > using such terms, others don't.

You don't.

> >You're one consenting adult. I didn't see that the > >party to whom you made your statement consented.
>
> To what?
>
> My use of the English language?

Is that the conclusion that you drew from my statement?

> Don't like my messages? You know where your delete key is;
> don't read them.
>
> >You'd like it all your way. You can skip the part about New Age if my > >comparison offends. You can just be the tranquil Buddhist Libertarian > >telling another to "shut (expletive deleted) up).
>
> Nope.
>
> Never claimed to be tranquil either. OR a "large "L"
> Libertarian--just a libertarian.

And the libertarian's idea of freedom is to tell someone to shut the bleep up? Keep working on the Buddhist thing.

Dave K8MN

2413. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:16:40 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C048139.B7ED2E48@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25410

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 01:38:34 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Let's set the record straight. Most of us can see the difference > >between the Civil Rights movement and the libertarian line. That's why > >the U.S. has a Civil Rights Act and why the U.S. hasn't had a > >Libertarian President.
>
> Dave, you can't even see the difference between a Libertarian
> (a member of the Libertarian political party) and a libertarian (one > who adheres to a policy of liberty). Confusing them--as you insist on > doing--is like confusing a Democrat (member of the Democratic party)
> and a democrat (person who believes in democracy).

Right. You little "L" types demonstrate your freedom by attempting to stifle the views of another. Keep telling folks to shut up. It does wonders for your image.

> >> Simply because the majority believe something does NOT make it > >> true.
> >
> >In this case, it certainly does. The majority rejects the libertarian > >philosophy as impractical and votes for one or the other of the two > >major parties.
>
> How nice.
>
> The libertarian philosophy is integral to the US Constitution > and the Declaration of Independence. I guess both of THOSE are > impractical as well from your perspective, right?

Are you now stating what you'd like me to say? My sentence works just fine on its own without the translation.

Dave K8MN

2414. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:17:22 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C048172.2EB65043@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 25411

Rick Adams wrote:

>
> If 15 people post, and the Usenet average is for 1 out of > every 100 participants in a newsgroup to ever post to it (which is the > current average), then it follows that approximately 1,500 potential > hams are in this news group. That's a lot more hams than take the test > in a typical month in the US as a whole.
>

Could you cite a referece for "1 out of 100 post" statement?
Seems a little hard to believe, seeing that it is very easy to post a followup or start a new thread.

2415. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:21:40 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1vpk$q45$0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25412

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 02:59:59 -0500, Dwight Stewart
> <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:
>
> > By the way, everybody, did you notice this thread has just about
> >reached the all time record for the number of messages posted to a > >single thread (check out google.com for the totals). Perhaps it is > >time to bring this thread "one step closer to extinction" and move
> >some of the unrelated topics into their own threads. :-)
>
> I tried that with the "bigotry" thread but it hasn't helped.
>
> Bear in mind that Dick has stated he will NOT allow this > thread to end until Kim changes her call sign. Regardless of content, > he'll keep it going just to try to force her to capitulate to his > demands.
>

Prefessor Nutball, you had really better work on your interpretive reading skills, you couldn't pass Freshman Ccomposition 100 at this point. Nowhere did I ever remotely indicate any such thing.

2416. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:22:35 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C048299.631C0B04@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25414

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 01:44:45 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >For a guy who has the credentials you purport to have, you don't strike > >me as a guy who lets things like facts stand in the way of a good rant.
> >You quote a "newsgroup average" from an unnamed source. Maybe some > >newsgroups get 7,000 readers. Maybe some--maybe even this one--have 15.
> >Maybe they are the same 15. No stats exist, to my knowledge, which > >provide numbers of new amateur exam takers correlated to the number of > >potential hams whether they are internet news group lurkers or those > >listening on the ham bands. If what you've posted sounds like good > >evidence to you, perhaps you can provide your insider info on when we > >might expect the mother ship to return.
>
> Dave, for days I have posted explicit citations to MANY of the > points I make in my messages. As yet, you haven't seen fit to support > a single one of your own claims with a legitimate citation. When you > start, I'll worry about providing you sources for all my statements of > fact instead of just the ones I quote directly. Until then, if you > want the sources find them yourself.

...and I just pointed out several opportunities for glaring errors in your theory. As I recall, I recently poked holes in some of the information you provided. Some was from suspect sources with an agenda (NORML). One was from a book which provided figures but not figures stating what you claimed. Your latest stuff doesn't even sound like evidence at all. Besides, most of this latest stuff is simply diversion from the debate over whether Kim's choice of call was a poor one. At least that had something to do with amateur radio.

Dave K8MN

2417. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:22:51 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u1vrr$q45$1@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25413

N2EY wrote:
>
> In article <3C03BD97.4F382FBE@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>
> >N2EY wrote:
> >> Did the Nazi party take power by a majority vote in a free election?
> > >
> > >They did come to power through a plurality vote in a free election.
> >
> > Yup. Then they proceeded to dismantle the democratic system.

Yes, very quickly, since they had achieved the control they wanted. It was a sham on the desperate German populace from the start.

2418. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:24:44 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C04831A.403E7139@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25415

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 21:53:00 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Right. Your claim is now that this newsgroup (or any of the others) > >has existed for 13 years. More crap. Sure wish I could take you > >seriously. You play fast and loose with the truth. Convince us of your > >liklihood of being a potential truth teller.
>
> Care to provide the date on which this newsgroup WAS created?
>
> Rick

Be my guest, Rick. It wasn't 1979. I'll guess early '90s. I know I've been here since the mid-'90s. Is there a prize for the correct answer?

Dave K8MN

2419. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:29:25 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <E8738A6E16A9E8CC.3E4ECC2DB0E2037A.CAB03A084E38A25E@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25416

On 27 Nov 2001 21:09:44 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

>Actually, Rick I have the entire document (actually an online >translation, the Islamic fundamentalists insist that only the original >is accurate and that no translation can ever be). I downloaded it from >this website
>
>
>online Koran at
>
>
>http://www.hti.umich.edu/k/koran/browse.html

Interesting.

Here's the "Chapter 5 verse 33" you keep citing (it isn't a chapter, but that's ok):

"[5.33] The punishment of those who wage war against Allah and His apostle and strive to make mischief in the land is only this, that they should be murdered or crucified or their hands and their feet should be cut off on opposite sides or they should be imprisoned; this shall be as a disgrace for them in this world, and in the hereafter they shall have a grievous chastisement,"

Sure doesn't seem to say what you claimed it to say. What it states is that those who wage war against Allah (i.e., those who make war on the Islamic people) should be punished.

Would you expect them to say "Hey, guys, beat me, whip me, pour beer on my belly?" Of COURSE they would want to punish anyone who made war on them--wouldn't you?

>[48.13] And whoever does not believe in Allah and His Apostle, then >surely We have prepared burning fire for the unbelievers.

[John 3:18] He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.

>[48.16] Say to those of the dwellers of the desert who were left behind:
>You shall soon be invited (to fight) against a people possessing mighty >prowess; you will fight against them until they submit; then if you >obey, Allah will grant you a good reward; >and if you turn back as you turned back before, He will punish you with >a painful punishment.

Sounds a LOT like Jonah and Ninevea [sp??] to me.

>(So they MUST destroy the infidels, or they themselves will be severly >punished)

No, they must fight against a powerful invading force and strive to be victorious. Gee, sounds like something a DI would tell you in basic training.

Remember Joshua with his horn? Solomon and his wars? Moses and his magic tricks in Egypt? How about some of the injunctions in Exodus, Genesis, and (of course) Revelations?

What the Koran presents sounds VERY tame compared to those.

>[48.17] There is no harm in the blind, nor is there any harm in the >lame, nor is there any harm in the sick (if they do not go forth); and >whoever obeys Allah and His Apostle, He will cause him to enter gardens >beneath which rivers flow, and whoever turns back, He will punish him >with a painful punishment.

This is supposed to be a threat to infidels? Dick, it's the same thing that the Christians say: If you deny Christ's holiness you to hell but if you accept him you go to heaven.

>[48.25] It is they who disbelieved and turned you away from the Sacred >Mosque and (turned off) the offering withheld from arriving at its >destined place; and were it not for the believing men and the believing >women, whom, not having known, you might have trodden down, and thus >something hateful might have afflicted you on their account without >knowledge-- so that Allah may cause to enter into His mercy whomsoever
>He pleases; had they been widely separated one from another, We would >surely have punished those who disbelieved from among them with a >painful punishment.

Same here. Dick, you KNOW that the bible is filled with threats of "punishment" for religious infractions or non-believers.
Why is it you don't interpret those as dangers to other faiths, but you interpret far milder injunctions in the Koran as threats to yours?

>48.29] Muhammad is the Apostle of Allah, and those with him are firm of >heart against the unbelievers, compassionate among themselves; you will >see them bowing down, prostrating themselves, seeking grace from Allah >and pleasure; their marks are in their faces because of the effect of >prostration; that is their description in the Taurat and their >description in the Injeel; like as seed-produce that puts forth its >sprout, then strengthens it, so it becomes stout and stands firmly on >its stem, delighting the >sowers that He may enrage the unbelievers on account of them; Allah has >promised those among them who believe and do good, forgiveness and a >great reward.

And, again, the same here.

If THIS is the worst "threat" you can find in the Koran, you should be very glad the people you are terrified of don't use the bible instead. It has FAR more violent threats (as in the complete destruction of whole peoples for daring not to accept the god of the Israelites as their own) than anything you've posted by an order of magnitude!

> It is clear enough that the roots of violence come from the Koran >itself, for those believers who would interpret it that way, and for all >the masses they influence. If your mileage varies, that's your deficit.
>For me, Sept 11 was proof enough.

Dick, those quotes prove nothing other than that Islam believes those who do not accept Allah as god and Mu hammed as his Prophet will be punished in the afterlife--EXACTLY the same thing
Christians believe about Jesus and THEIR god!

You need to stop seeing Islamic people with hate and prejudice and see them as they really are--an ancient people who have contributed enormously to our civilization, science, and arts.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2420. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:31:34 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u20c6sea0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25417

Richard Plourde wrote:
>
> >>>The US has individual rights defined by The Constitution
> >>>to protect us from people like you.
>
> The Constitution is (I hope) enough... but it's under attack from the Executive > branch and the DOJ... (I don't trust that Ashcroft guy...)
>

You don't know him. I worked for him for eight years as the state's Governor. He is hardnosed but honest to a fault. I think the confirmation hearings mellowed him considerably, he sure acts like it.

> >>All of those rights are subject to change. All it takes is for a large > >>percentage of society, through their elected representatives, to amend the > >>Constitution.
> >>
>
> > Yup.
> >
> > That's all it took in Germany when the Nazis took power, too.
>
> 'W' Bush just usurped the constitution with his proclamation that non-citizens > can be 'brought to justice' at a military tribunal.

Question: Where in the COnstitution does it say that an alien has the same rights as a citizen? It doesn't.

I guess he hasn't 'snuffed' > enough people in Texas now he'll be able to do it anywhere in the world that he > sees fit...

Oh, I'm sure HE was personally responsible for all the death penalty murderers who met their fate in Texas, Yeah, Right! THose poor 'victims' had nothing to do with it. And of course THEIR vicims are so soon forgotten....

>
> >>In addition, the interpretation of the Constitution is determined by a very > >>small group of judges. Rights rise and fall on their decision. For example, > >>abortion was illegal practically everywhere until 1973, when a single judgement
> >>of the Supremes struck down existing laws and established a "right of privacy"
> >>for those seeking abortions and wiped out the "right to life" of those being > >>aborted.
>

> The Military Tribunals can't be appealed... even to the Supremes... Bush has > usurped the Legislature AND... the Judiciary...
>
> Nice huh????
>
> >>The Constitution ain't carved in stone, Cecil.
> >>
>
> "W" proved that... ;^
>
> RIch...

When it comes to terrorists who ARE out to get us -you, too- and none of them are American citizens, I have no problem with it. Why should they have the right to come here with our destruction as their sole intent and then be able to take advantage of our system of personal rights to get off free just because of evidentiary weaknesses? The OJ trial proved what jurys can all too easily do. And it cuts both ways...how would you like to be an Arab accused of terrorism standing trial in New York? Think you'd stand a chance even if you were totally innocent?
And the Military Tribulans apply only to non-citizens, you will note.

2421. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:31:46 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <17388096F574BBBC.7D02BFB14914A360.AF2E3261A78553B8@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25418

On 28 Nov 2001 01:03:14 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>Yup. Then they proceeded to dismantle the democratic system.

True.

But they did so within the framework of their Constitution, not by force. Technically, the US Congress could do exactly the same thing to our system anytime they chose to do so, provided they could garner sufficient votes, as the Nazis did.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2422. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:36:57 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u20m9sea1@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25419

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 26 Nov 2001 04:20:33 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
> wrote:
>
> >Obviously not -- and the fact that you would ask such a question only > >tends to reveal your liberal agenda. I believe in keeping homosexuals > >away from children for the simple reason that homosexuals tend to > >view their sexual preference as a valid option, even a preferable one --
> >and are disposed toward "recruitment" of young people into their > >"lifestyle."
>
> Give that tired "recruitment" nonsense a rest, Larry. Any > intelligent (and educated) person knows that's a straw dog.
> Homosexuals don't "recruit" heterosexuals--there are plenty of > homosexuals for them to interact with.
>

That's patently untrue. Not all recruit, but many do. And you really should know (I'm sure you do) that at certain states of adolescense children are indeed recuitable, which can also seriously damage their mental development. Now I'd wager you will come back with some indignant
"officlal" prounouncement that will be as wrong is it is indignant.

2423. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:37:33 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <8FE686B849183886.8F19E5C8BFD0FAE3.E9CE2FF975EEFD9C@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25420

On 28 Nov 2001 02:51:52 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Ok, let's use your figures. If one tenth of one percent of the world/s
>1.25 BILLION muslims are Islamic fundamentalist terrorists, that's >1,250,000 terrorists, if my calculator functioned correctly. Still think >it's no problem?

It would be if the original assumption was right--but of course it was only a "throw-away" percentage that Cecil cited to make his point and never intended to be accurate.

I would be VERY surprised if more than 1/10000 of 1 percent of the muslims (i.e., 1,250 people) were in any way connected with terrorism--and most of those are supporters or demonstrators, not actual terrorists. Compare that to the right wing fanatics in the militias throughout our country (you know, the Timothy McVeigh types) and I think you'll find we have MANY more such individuals than they have.

> I DID say that based on the fundamental teachings of Islam, every >Muslim is a potential terrorist in that it is almost certaian that he >will be forced to make a choice-follow his religious teachings and >leaders, or reject them. In countries where fundamentalist Islam is not >only the religion but the law as well, asking a Muslim to reject his >religion can easily be fatal. At the least, it will cause him huge >amounts of personal problems and grief.

And, of course, precisely the same thing applies to Christians, as my own response to your Koran quotes shows.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2424. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:38:59 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <EAFB85710A6CEBED.CA37C7E6C2194C14.8A1D0DB8B5365864@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25422

On 28 Nov 2001 02:54:06 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Sure they do a great job at things like appoingint Syria to the >Security Council

Why not--the US is there and you can't get much more dangerous or unpredictable than us!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2425. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:40:43 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C0486D6.ECC95AD1@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25421

N2EY wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart writes:
>
> > (snip) Perhaps it is time to bring > > this thread "one step closer to > > extinction" and move some of the > > unrelated topics into their own > > threads. :-)
>
>
> No, no, no! The whole point is for us > to keep this going until March. Can't > expect Kim to do it alone!

Well, it just popped into my head the other day what others might be thinking when they stumble into this newsgroup and see this massive thread. Surely a thread this large must be talking about a major event in human existence. What is one step closer to extinction - radio, this country, human beings, the whole planet? And what is causing this extinction - laws, famine, disease, a meteor?

But, then they read the thread and find out that someone thinks Kim's callsign is going to cause the extinction of ham radio (with a good mix of religion, damn yankees, new age men, racism, affirmative action, and so forth, thrown into the discussion for good measure).

Lets face it, people, this is one darn strange thread. :-)

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2426. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:40:49 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u20th$10r$0@208.207.71.131>
Source record: 25423

N2EY wrote:
>
> > If you
> > feel (as Dick and others do) that Islamic people are inferior, that > > their religion is inferior, or that minorities are losers who depend
> > on affirmative action to provide them jobs they don't deserve then > > voice your opinions on the ham bands or shut the
>
> (expletive deleted)
>
> > up!
>
> I don't feel that way at all, Rick. Please produce some posts where I > claim the followers of ANY religion, as a group, are inferior. Or > their religion. Or some anti-minority stuff. C'mon, produce some posts
> - there all there in the archives.
>

And neither do I,nor HAVE I posted such bigoted accusatory statements, as I havd been repeatedly accused by Rick and Cecil. They are just looking for reason and occasion to be blatently accusatory. Both are clearly possesed by delusions of grandeur.

2427. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:42:13 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <D78FF8967DC3F652.EFCD5F5E349E223C.D4343FBD37612A5D@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25424

On 28 Nov 2001 04:21:12 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Sure it does. You have no clue of my religious background or beliefs, >or lack thereor. Nor my experience with animals. I guess I'm supposed to >believe you and some other dippy "scientist" who likely never saw >animals in their natural setting over my own observations and that of >many other outdoorsmen, and over other SCIENTIFIC evidence. Not gonna >happen.

Right, Dickie. You know more about animals than zoologists, biologists, or animal researchers in other scientific fields.

Had a reality check recently? You need one rather badly.

>> Look up the Bonobo Chimpanzees in any book available, the >> females are ALL bisexual, and the males engage in homosexual behavior >> whenever the opportunity presents itself. They're TYPICAL of the >> animal kingdom.
>
> There's the Bullshit. I am aware of some species of primates which >exhibit a preoccupation with sex. But if you call that typical it shows >how LITTLE you know about the animal world.

Read the quotes (from INFORMED sources) on the topic Dick. You are the one displaying ignorance (as usual) not me.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2428. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:43:27 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <2740D23082EE13BE.35F5DE7DC4CFBC28.027F1408CFB1B56C@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25425

On 28 Nov 2001 01:59:28 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>You say your mother wouldn't agree with me. Let me ask you -- is >she still married to your father?

My wife doesn't agree with you Larry--and we've been happily married for 21 years.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2429. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 06:45:42 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C048800.F8D932CC@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25426

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> I tried that with the "bigotry" > thread but it hasn't helped.
>
> Bear in mind that Dick has stated > he will NOT allow this thread to > end until Kim changes her call > sign. (snip)

Well, we can't blame this on Dick alone. The thread has shot off into too many side discussions, many of which Dick isn't even directly involved in. In the end, this thread just seems to have a life of it's own. Like I said, one strange thread.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2430. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 07:13:06 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C048E82.53584256@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 25427

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:

>
> You say your mother wouldn't agree with me. Let me ask you -- is > she still married to your father?
>
>

"Your mama, she had sex with her husband before you were born!"
:-)

2431. Re: Twistedhed: Illegal CBer/JOCK STRAP IN MAIL?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 07:20:04 UTC
From: keyclownslappa@hotmail.com
Message-ID: <ce9e428e.0111272320.718dc568@posting.google.com>
Source record: 25428

Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:<9459F737B41CEC44.2C47F90E37CE7E44.68CD966AB315DFBC@lp.airnews.net>...
> On 25 Nov 2001 23:07:48 -0800, keyclownslappa@hotmail.com > (IllegalCBersMustGO) wrote:
>
> >Nothng pleases me more > >than one of you cb rambos to come in to my conversation and start > >preaching about rules. God, I love to squash you suckers.
>
> Ignoring the rest of this troll, I wanted to point out the > worst weakness in the arguments made in it.
>
> The poster claims that people "come in to" his conversations > and start preaching about rules. If this is true, either:
>
> 1. He is transmitting in the ham bands in the first place, > rather than the "Freeband" ones between the 10m ham band and the cb > band. Thus, the poster is the one who is violating the rights of the > hams by invading OUR bands. If that's the case, his arguments are > totally null since he demands respect for his "rights" but refuses to > respect the rights of others.
>
> 2. He is transmitting outside the ham bands in the "freeband" > area and hams are responding to him there. But if this is the case, > the hams themselves are at least as guilty of violating FCC rules as > he is, and therefore have no possible legitimate grounds for their > actions at all. If that's the case, his arguments are fair, since > others are violating the same regulations he is, yet are criticizing > HIM for the behavior.
>
> Rick

YEAH THAT'S TWISTEDHED ALLRIGHT. HE MAKES NO SENSE. BUT MOST ILLEGAL CRIMINAL CBERS DONT. THIS GUY IS MORE CRAZY THAN EVER. LOOK AT THIS POST OF HIS --------

From: twistedhed@webtv.net (twistedhed@webtv.net)
Subject: Lesson # 2 for my trollup
Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb
Date: 2001-03-24 15:21:24 PST

This is by far the most outrageous thing you have done to date my felonious friend and if I were to take your warped sense of reality into account I might be truly frightened. Sending me a malodorous filthy stained and sperm-juiced man's JOCK STRAP is low, Dougie, very low, but then thats what youre all about these days and it doesnt take a degree in psychology to see it. Well the joke is on you my tourettes-afflicted tormentor because I am sending the aformentioned garment to the chief postal inspector in the state capital of Ohio along with a demand that he trace the origin of the mailing to YOU Dougie, thats right it is going to come right back into your lap and then who will have the last laugh? Me that's who. I am SICK and TIRED of babysitting you here and waiting to see what else you will send me so you have dug your own rotten hole Dougie and we shall see what transpires.

2432. Re: Airtmobile Hams

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 07:34:29 UTC
From: George <kb0mai@spam.msn.com>
Message-ID: <jr0N7.1197$I85.47926@eagle.america.net>
Source record: 25429

You are thinking that the FCC gives a shit about him. The fact of the matter is they could do all of these thing but they dont. They will go after the big fish but there is no money in it for them for the little guys like us.

> > I use my HT all the time on airplanes. Nobody gives a shit. They > > think it's a Dictaphone for business notes.
>
> And when they catch you doing that and confiscate your HT (they can)
> and kick you off the flight (they can) and file a complaint with the > FCC for the violation (they can) and the FCC hits you with a > penalty and/or revokes your license (they can) what valid defense > will you offer?
>

2433. Whats the deal?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 08:12:13 UTC
From: Chuck <kb8pdr@fuse.net>
Message-ID: <u09733tfurlt0a@corp.supernews.com>
Source record: 25430

I cme ot this new group in hopes of finding out intereting tid bits of Ham Radio Policy. What goes here?, not one posting about policy. Either my computer is goofed or you poeple are just enraged with one another. I hate to even post the message here, but this is all new to me. I will wait a few daays and see if anything actually comes up about policy if not I will move on. One thing that does strike me funny as that Dave Heil is here and posting, I hope this is not the same Dave Heil that builds the microphones. As this would be dissapointing to me. As I was hoping that you would have some very interesting tid bits posted here. Later all. I hope that does not offend anyone. But I would think that the news group would reflect the title. Chuck

2434. MORE TWISTEDHED the NUTTY CBER

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 10:00:09 UTC
From: keyclownslappa@hotmail.com
Message-ID: <ce9e428e.0111280200.3f2fadd8@posting.google.com>
Source record: 25431

From: twistedhed (twistedhed@webtv.net)
Subject: Hey WHAT ABOUT ME?
Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb
Date: 2001-04-13 17:20:07 PST

Hello FCC,

I need to be busted. I tried and tried for so long but no dice. I bootlegged all over 10, 11 and 12 meters. I ran power. I even said bad words on the radio. When are you going to bust me? I NEED TO BE ARRESTED because then you will put me in a nice psycho hospital where I can be free of the saucermen who chase me and pinch my bum.

2435. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 10:23:20 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011128052320.28714.00002176@nso-md.aol.com>
Source record: 25433

In article <DC86BF375B90AC31.C827AA44D761B32A.5855EB376386E6EF@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
>>I have no choice but to accept your callsign. I have stated many times >>that your callsign is your responsibility alone -- and you are also >>responsible for the fact that you are taking the ARS "...one step >>closer to extinction" by having chosen it.
>
> No, Larry, if that call sign takes the ARS "one step closer to >extinction" it isn't Kim's fault for having chosen it--it's the FCC's >fault for having ISSUED it.

Rick:

The FCC is not in the business of making value judgments on the callsigns people select for themselves. Being a government agency, they are legally constrained against doing so. An individual amateur's Vanity call sign is strictly their choice; and the negative effect it has on their image, and the image of the ARS, is strictly their responsibility. Mr. Hollingsworth was very clear on that point.

> There is no way that Kim is responsible for damage to the ARS
>if her actions are ALL within the guidelines of the FCC >regulations--and her's were.

Incorrect, for the reasons stated above.

>If Hollingsworth or anyone else is so >convinced that her call is harmful, then it is up to them to convince >the FCC to limit the range of available call signs, not to criticize >Kim for acting in accordance with the law.

That is not Mr. Hollingsworth's job to do, nor should it be. The best arbitrators of the effect of Kim's poor choice in a callsign are her fellow hams; and that is precisely what is taking place here.
Obviously we, as her fellow hams, are in disagreement on this issue. In fact, the majority would seem to support Kim. That, however, will not make the debate come to an end. The only thing that will stop it is for Kim to change her callsign to one which no longer offends, or you can figure out some way to silence your opposition.

73 de Larry, K3LT

2436. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 10:23:21 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011128052321.28714.00002177@nso-md.aol.com>
Source record: 25435

In article <1A7EA877217F328F.363625849C7957A8.3D676BEF89372E80@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
>>What makes you think it is I who is offending them?
>
> You, Dave, and Dick present a far worse image of hams here >than Kim could do if she posted PICTURES of her tits instead of using >TIT in her call sign!

Rick:

I see. So far, Kim has not chosen to do that, and I, for one, am extremely grateful!

> I'm happy that the ARS has more of a range than the three of >you present. If it didn't, I'd be ashamed to admit I was a ham.

I respect differences of opinion. The problem with liberals such as yourself is that you can "tolerate" anything except a difference of opinion! As an American, I'd defend to the death your right to express your differences of opinion here or anywhere else -- but I'm not so sure you would!

73 de Larry, K3LT

2437. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 10:23:22 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011128052322.28714.00002178@nso-md.aol.com>
Source record: 25432

In article <3C031CD3.A2D685F4@earthlink.net>, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
writes:

>> This venue is no more appropriate than the ham bands. Who the >> hell gave hams the right to come into the Internet Usenet groups and >> post offensive material they wouldn't think of voicing in the ham >> bands? There are just as many children here as there are on the >> air--if you're so goddamn concerned with them then try practicing what >> you keep preaching in THIS venue too!
>>
>> Rick
>
>This is the voice of the tranquil Buddhist libertarian New Age Man.
>S'cuse the language, kids.
>
>Dave K8MN

Dave:

Rick is a university professor; as such, he has a professional mandate to be politically correct in thought, word, and deed. He is just doing what comes naturally for people who are committed to supporting the social decay necessary to ensure that liberal socialist elites maintain their position as the ruling class in the New World Order. Lately, it has become fashionable for liberals like themselves to couch their beliefs in the label of Libertarianism, but it's still the same thing. The difference is that conservatives are willing to share the hegemony, liberals are not. While we may not dislike them personally, we still cannot trust them.

73 de Larry, K3LT

2438. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 10:23:23 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011128052323.28714.00002179@nso-md.aol.com>
Source record: 25434

In article <85A12BD34BEB7725.BA55D38686CC6855.0C3F963FB2F98279@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

> Give that tired "recruitment" nonsense a rest, Larry. Any >intelligent (and educated) person knows that's a straw dog.

Rick:

Hmmm -- well, you'll have to excuse me, but as a person who is both intelligent and educated, I must respectfully disagree. Homosexuals do, in fact, attempt to "recruit" others -- young children in particular, into their lifestyle. Have you ever read the book "Heather Has Two Mommies?" I have. I found it to be nothing but an attempt to convince young children that a homosexual relationship is just as normal as a heterosexual one.

>Homosexuals don't "recruit" heterosexuals--there are plenty of >homosexuals for them to interact with.

Then why do they believe that there needs to be more?

> As far as viewing their sexual preference as a "valid option,"
>don't you view YOURS that way?

Of course not. There is nothing "optional" about being a normal heterosexual. It is the way God and nature intended for us to be;
homosexuality is a deviation from the norm.

>Why shouldn't a homosexual (who is as >normal, by any reasonable scientific standard you care to name, as you >are) feel the same?

I'm sure they do; that doesn't make them right.

> Maybe if you would spend less time looking down on homosexuals
>and more time teaching your OWN children that homosexuality is >normal--and that homosexuals are just like everyone else in society, >some good, some bad, some just average--you would be raising far >healthier and better adjusted children yourself.

I am not raising any children whatsoever, Rick. If I were, I'd be teaching them that homosexuals are fellow human beings, who, unfortunately, are confused about their sexual identity. I would teach them that homosexuals are to be treated with the same human dignity anyone else deserves, are not to be discriminated against in matters of professional employment. However, I would warn them not to be seduced by them, or even place themselves in a situation where that could happen.

I have known and worked with many homosexuals. I knew two gay men who were civilian employees working for me when I was stationed in England. One of them is now dead from AIDS. I mourn the loss of his life, because aside from his sexual deviancy, he was a basically good person. I don't understand what makes people become homosexuals, but I can see from first-hand experience that it is not the right way to live one's life. I cannot change my views on this issue. We will have to agree to disagree.

73 de Larry, K3LT

2439. Re: K1MAN webpage.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 10:31:27 UTC
From: Carleton Ingerson <n1dxm@worldnet.att.net> Message-ID: <323N7.239375$W8.8287832@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 25436
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.shortwave

I agree, this jerk has been run off the air once already. Who the hell let him back on??

"K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
news:a96f1f4d2ee76e5b3a11b225221d54bf.15732@mygate.mailgate.org...
> "N0VFP, Lloyd" <lloyd_vfp@msn.com> wrote in message
> news:e1bb06a74f973f91732f3ab8815a96bd@spamfreenews.com...
>
> > This is a very good site......
> >
> > http://www.carte.net/k1man/sites.htm
>
>
> K1MAN is a pathetic scam artist, and you are a pathetic suck-up.
>
> With all kind wishes,
>
> de Hans, K0HB
>
>
>
> --
> Posted from mplsapanas11poolb82.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.20.82]
> via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

2440. Re: Whats the deal?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 10:43:31 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <nd3N7.239384$W8.8287956@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 25437

"Chuck" <kb8pdr@fuse.net> wrote in message
news:u09733tfurlt0a@corp.supernews.com...
> I cme ot this new group in hopes of finding out intereting tid bits of Ham > Radio Policy. What goes here?, not one posting about policy. Either my > computer is goofed or you poeple are just enraged with one another. I hate > to even post the message here, but this is all new to me. I will wait a few > daays and see if anything actually comes up about policy if not I will move > on. One thing that does strike me funny as that Dave Heil is here and > posting, I hope this is not the same Dave Heil that builds the microphones.
> As this would be dissapointing to me. As I was hoping that you would have > some very interesting tid bits posted here. Later all. I hope that does
not > offend anyone. But I would think that the news group would reflect the > title. Chuck
>
>

Chuck, this group was set up for the 'code wars' which apparently have become a bore; they sure as hell have for me. Bob Heil makes his very good mikes, Dave uses them. A few of the cast of characters are not entirely what they appear. That and a buck will buy the morning coffee in a cheap dive.

Dick N BK

2441. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 12:11:21 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011128071121.11017.00001247@nso-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 25439

In article <9u1jn9$ni9$0@208.207.71.131>, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
writes:

>> > Gee, imagine what you could do with "Cracklin' Rosie".
>>
>> I thought "Cracklin' Rosie" was already a novelty song (about inexpensive >> wine).
>
>
> The Neil Diamond song?

Yup. Took me years to get it. Like the very end of the classic film "North By Northwest"...

> Not the way I hear it.
>
Hope I don't ruin it for ya. Try listening to it or reading the lyrics with the idea that it's an ode to cheap sparkling rose' wine.

Lines like

"Cracklin' Rose, you're a store-bought woman"

are the give-away.

73 de Jim, N2EY

"Well, since she put me down
There's been owls pukin' in my bed" - The Beach Boys, "Help Me Rhonda"

2442. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 12:11:21 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011128071121.11017.00001246@nso-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 25441

In article <3C046D97.4A88E58A@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Were you required to pass the exams, Dick, or did you cheat?

Cecil:

There is/was a legal way that a person could get an Extra license without taking any additional examsl, and without cheating. I don't think Dick got his that way, and neither did I, but it WAS possible.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2443. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 12:11:22 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011128071122.11017.00001248@nso-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 25442

In article <3C0448A7.80305@att.net>, Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>
> > The question still remains: is it OK to do it to boys but not girls?
>
> > Did I say there wasn't? No. I simply asked if it was OK for boys but not >girls.
>
>Jim, you know better than this... it is NOT the same thing... it's 'apples
>and >oranges'...

I've seen varying descriptions of the procedure as applied in various countries.
>
>Rich
>
>BTW the answer is No...

AT LAST! A straight answer from somebody!

>because if it were the same thing it would mean that
>the >Doctor cut off my dick... so I say, no, it's NOT 'ok to do it to boys but not >girls'.
>
In some cases, such amputations have occurred to boys because of mistakes and infections.

Your point is well taken.

I would say that the routine nonreversible mutilation of any human without their consent is pretty barabic.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2444. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 12:11:23 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011128071123.11017.00001249@nso-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 25438

In article <3C044515.8030903@att.net>, Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
writes:

(Cecil wrote):
> >>>The US has individual rights defined by The Constitution
> >>>to protect us from people like you.
>
>The Constitution is (I hope) enough... but it's under attack from the >Executive >branch and the DOJ... (I don't trust that Ashcroft guy...)
>
(N2EY wrote):
> >>All of those rights are subject to change. All it takes is for a large > >>percentage of society, through their elected representatives, to amend the > >>Constitution.
> >
> > Yup.
(I'm not sure who wrote):

> > That's all it took in Germany when the Nazis took power, too.
>
>
>'W' Bush just usurped the constitution with his proclamation that >non-citizens >can be 'brought to justice' at a military tribunal. I guess he hasn't >'snuffed'
>enough people in Texas now he'll be able to do it anywhere in the world that >he >sees fit...

I think there is a precedent for Dubya's action. I understand that in WW2, spies and saboteurs were handled that way - including some executions. The USA was infiltrated more than once by well-trained German agents posing as Americans. The idea is that nonuniformed foreigners acting in certain ways are committing acts of war against the USA.

I'm not sure if I agree or not.
>
> >>In addition, the interpretation of the Constitution is determined by a >very > >>small group of judges. Rights rise and fall on their decision. For >example, > >>abortion was illegal practically everywhere until 1973, when a single
>judgement
> >>of the Supremes struck down existing laws and established a "right of >privacy"

> >>for those seeking abortions and wiped out the "right to life" of those >being > >>aborted.
>
>The Military Tribunals can't be appealed... even to the Supremes... Bush has >usurped the Legislature AND... the Judiciary...
>
>Nice huh????

I did not know that the even the Supremes could not be involved. A bit scary...
>
> >>The Constitution ain't carved in stone, Cecil.
>
>"W" proved that... ;^
>
Sure did. Thanks for the info, Rich. I had no idea it was so easy.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2445. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 12:11:23 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011128071123.11017.00001250@nso-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 25440

In article <17388096F574BBBC.7D02BFB14914A360.AF2E3261A78553B8@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 28 Nov 2001 01:03:14 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
>>Yup. Then they proceeded to dismantle the democratic system.
>
> True.
>
> But they did so within the framework of their Constitution,
>not by force.

Exactly.

>Technically, the US Congress could do exactly the same >thing to our system anytime they chose to do so, provided they could >garner sufficient votes, as the Nazis did.

Yup. My point is that the Constitution is not an absolute protection, as Cecil seems to think.

73 de Jim, N2EY
>

2446. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 13:16:56 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <ct5N7.2022$m%.631581@monger.newsread.com>
Source record: 25443

Oooohhhh! Now that's a shopping list. Only one problem if we wanted to pursue a vanity call......It is my understanding that the vanity call system has been put on hold due to the anthrax/mail situation/paranoia. Could take a while....

Ryan

>
> I plan to get a vanity sign in the next couple weeks. How > would W8GOD, W8POT, K8DIC, W8DIK, W8FUK, W8FUC, W8ASS, or W8BAL work > for you? All are available (among others).
>
> Don't like those choices?
>
> Complain to the FCC, not to me--I don't decide what's > acceptable and what isn't--they do.
>
> Rick
>
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2447. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 14:02:44 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C04EF82.10009@att.net>
Source record: 25444

> Richard Plourde wrote:

>> The Constitution is (I hope) enough... but it's under attack from the >> Executive branch and the DOJ... (I don't trust that Ashcroft guy...)

Dick Carroll wrote:

> You don't know him. I worked for him for eight years as the state's > Governor. He is hardnosed but honest to a fault. I think the > confirmation hearings mellowed him considerably, he sure acts like it.

I hope you're right, but I don't have ANY confidence. The guy is a 'religious zealot'... and anyone who is 'guided' in that manner is someone to be feared.

>> 'W' Bush just usurped the constitution with his proclamation that >> non-citizens can be 'brought to justice' at a military tribunal.

> Question: Where in the COnstitution does it say that an alien has the > same rights as a citizen? It doesn't.

It's in the Bill of Rights... Article 6
Yes, Carroll, non-citizens are included in here.

>> I guess he hasn't 'snuffed' enough people in Texas now he'll >> be able to do it anywhere in the world that he sees fit...

> Oh, I'm sure HE was personally responsible for all the death penalty > murderers who met their fate in Texas, Yeah, Right! THose poor 'victims' > had nothing to do with it. And of course THEIR vicims are so soon > forgotten....

Of course... he was... he was the Chief Executive... (derived from the word execute)

>> The Military Tribunals can't be appealed... even to the Supremes...
>> Bush has usurped the Legislature AND... the Judiciary...

>>Nice huh????

>> >>The Constitution ain't carved in stone, Cecil.
>> >>

>>"W" proved that... ;^

> When it comes to terrorists who ARE out to get us -you, too- and none > of them are American citizens,

We don't know... Ashcroft won't release the list...

> I have no problem with it. Why should > they have the right to come here with our destruction as their sole > intent and then be able to take advantage of our system of personal > rights to get off free just because of evidentiary weaknesses?

Then, *&^$(&^ DECLARE WAR!!!!
The problem is that Bush has included 20 million people, here in the U S, and anyone in his scope.

> The OJ
> trial proved what jurys can all too easily do.

OJ, was a 'Hollywood' trial and I wouldn't hold him up as the 'poster boy' for ANY cause... ;-)

And it cuts both > ways...how would you like to be an Arab accused of terrorism standing > trial in New York? Think you'd stand a chance even if you were totally > innocent?

They already did... And it was emminently fair. (remember the WTC bombers???)

> And the Military Tribulans apply only to non-citizens, you will note.

Non-citizens... for now... but it's a slippery slope... and I know that Bush and Ashcroft are too 'slick' for me...
If they want to do this, then they should at least declare war... I'm tired of them wanting it both ways...

Rich

2448. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 14:23:51 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C04F475.4080603@att.net>
Source record: 25445

N2EY wrote:

> I would say that the routine nonreversible mutilation of any human without > their consent is pretty barabic.

I wouldn't say that... (pretty isn't an adverb)... ;-)

I would leave out all those qualifiers and say...

The mutilation of any human is unequivocably barabic.

...and yet, strangely, these hings happen in many 'civilizations'...

Rich

2449. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 14:45:08 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C04F972.20002@att.net>
Source record: 25446

> Richard Plourde writes:

>>'W' Bush just usurped the constitution with his proclamation that >>non-citizens >>can be 'brought to justice' at a military tribunal. I guess he hasn't >>'snuffed'
>>enough people in Texas now he'll be able to do it anywhere in the world that >>he >>sees fit...
>>
N2EY wrote:

> I think there is a precedent for Dubya's action. I understand that in WW2, > spies and saboteurs were handled that way - including some executions. The USA > was infiltrated more than once by well-trained German agents posing as > Americans. The idea is that nonuniformed foreigners acting in certain ways are > committing acts of war against the USA.

> I'm not sure if I agree or not.

Yeah, there was about a half dozen submariners...

two points...

War had been declared and...

This action is way too broad...

Lincoln did it also... but... we were AT WAR in all previous examples. Let them declare a war and then I'll join in the 'festivities'... ;-)

> I did not know that the even the Supremes could not be involved. A bit scary...

Well, the contest of the Presidential action in WW2 did go to the Supremes and they said it was OK, BUT we were at war.

What can't go to the Supremes is an appeal... there is NO RIGHT OF APPEAL... and they can't provide their own Lawyers and a few other 'goodies' and this applies to 20 million people legally living (most of them) in the United States.

>>"W" proved that... ;^

> Sure did. Thanks for the info, Rich. I had no idea it was so easy.

Well in times of war the President can usurp Congress.... BUT.... we are not at war if Congress doesn't say we are!!!

I think this action reeks of Bush coming out like a real 'cowboy' on this. Did you hear his 'sound bite' about how he would 'explain' to the Pakistani

President why he's doing it?

Rich

OBTW... I also don't like the way Ashcroft's DOJ is letting Microsoft off with a slap on the wrist... (I don't trust that guy) They're only worried about where the next campaign contribution is coming from.

2450. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 14:51:58 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C04FA00.96840C78@sccoast.net>
Source record: 25447

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> Richard Plourde wrote:
> >
> > 'W' Bush just usurped the constitution
> > with his proclamation that non-citizens > > can be 'brought to justice' at a > > military tribunal.
>
> Question: Where in the COnstitution does > it say that an alien has the same rights
> as a citizen? It doesn't.

The Fifth Amendment... "_NO_ person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, ... nor shall _ANY_ person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law..." The key words are "no person" and "any person." Nothing here seems to limit those words to just U.S. Citizens.

The Sixth Amendment... "In _ALL_ criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury..." The key words are "all criminal prosecutions." Again, nothing there that would exclude aliens - a criminal prosecution of an alien is still a criminal prosecution, and this amendmend says "ALL" criminal prosecutions.

Furthermore, beyond the fact that these two amendments seem to cover aliens, any U.S. Citizen (including the President and Ashcroft) have the legal obligation to follow the laws outlined in the Constitution. In other words, any government official, who has sworn to protect and defend the Constitution, who attempts to prosecute someone under terms other than defined by the Constitution would be guilty of violating the laws of this land (as defined by that Constitution).

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

2451. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 15:02:31 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <3C04FD85.2050609@att.net>
Source record: 25448

>>Richard Plourde wrote:

>>>'W' Bush just usurped the constitution
>>>with his proclamation that non-citizens
>>>can be 'brought to justice' at a >>>military tribunal.

> Dick Carroll wrote:

>> Question: Where in the COnstitution does
>>it say that an alien has the same rights
>>as a citizen? It doesn't.

Dwight Stewart wrote:

> The Fifth Amendment... "_NO_ person shall be held to answer for a > capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or > indictment of a Grand Jury, ... nor shall _ANY_ person be subject for > the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb, nor > shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against > himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due > process of law..." The key words are "no person" and "any person."
> Nothing here seems to limit those words to just U.S. Citizens.

Correct...

> The Sixth Amendment... "In _ALL_ criminal prosecutions, the accused > shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial > jury..." The key words are "all criminal prosecutions." Again, > nothing there that would exclude aliens - a criminal prosecution of an > alien is still a criminal prosecution, and this amendmend says "ALL" > criminal prosecutions.

Military tribunals are speedy... BUT... NOT public... we may never know what happened at these things in our lifetime...

> Furthermore, beyond the fact that these two amendments seem to cover > aliens, any U.S. Citizen (including the President and Ashcroft) have > the legal obligation to follow the laws outlined in the Constitution.
> In other words, any government official, who has sworn to protect and > defend the Constitution, who attempts to prosecute someone under terms > other than defined by the Constitution would be guilty of violating > the laws of this land (as defined by that Constitution).

Could it be that by excluding U S Citizens they were 'protecting' themselves???
hhhmmmmm....

Rich

2452. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 15:44:05 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C050645.1E92F970@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25449

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> In fact, the majority would seem to support Kim.

That should tell you something, Larry.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2453. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 15:51:20 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0507F8.8A23C9AC@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25450

Rick Adams wrote:
> Care to provide the date on which this newsgroup WAS created?

When I said I provided the names of amateur radio newsgroups to potential hams, I wasn't talking specifically about this one.
r.r.a.p was created to get the Morse code argument off of r.r.a.misc. So I never meant to imply that r.r.a.p was 13 years old. I would guess that r.r.a.p is 8-10 years old.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2454. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 15:55:46 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C050902.8BF9957A@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25451

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Contrary to Dick's ignorant
> > postings, here's what Muslims > > believe about Jesus.
>
> Thanks, Cecil. And, with that, I'll let this issue stand - if a > person isn't going to believe what you posted, that person isn't going > to believe a thing.

It's funny that all Muslims believe in the virgin birth of Jesus when the latest polls show a large percentage of US Christians don't even believe in the virgin birth.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2455. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 15:58:12 UTC
From: uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org
Message-ID: <ff37aa44.0111280758.35006325@posting.google.com>
Source record: 25452

yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT) wrote in message
news:<20011127205928.12427.00003464@nso-cg.aol.com>...
> That's the advantage of being all grown up, out of the house, and on > your own -- you don't have to worry about what others think about you, > including your mother! I hope the day comes when you are mature > enough to understand my position on this matter. However, considering > the way you were probably brought up, I doubt that will ever happen.

Larry, I am "all grown up, out of the house and on my own".
Have been for over twenty-five years. I was brought up to respect people, and to respect people's rights. Your "position on this matter" (and others) shows that you do neither.

As for being mature enough to understand your position -- well, I do understand it. I simply think it is apalling. I think it's stupid, and I think it reeks of subservience and slavery. I think that any man who'd be so distrusting as to not allow his wife to be alone with another man isn't truly mature at all.

Maturity is understanding that adults should be treated like adults.
Adults shouldn't be treated like little children who need to be watched every minute. To treat a person as an adult has to do with trust. And until you grow up and learn that, you'll never be perceived as mature.

> People who are married, or in committed relationships with a person
> they love, respect, and trust, do not challenge that trust by having > private meetings, professional or otherwise, with people of the opposite > sex unless their spouse or partner is present. It simply is not done.

And this is a ridiculous attitude. It simply is done. I think that you have grave insecurity problems. If you can't trust your wife to be alone with another man in any situation, then you should never have married her. You don't want a partner in life, you want someone to whom you are chained.

That's not a healthy way for two adults to interact.

> You say your mother wouldn't agree with me. Let me ask you -- is > she still married to your father?

I brought my mother into this because she's 62 years old -- older than you, if I remember correctly -- and would have attitudes more moralistic than most people these days.

Is she still married to my father? If I say 'yes', does that prove something to you? If I say 'no' does it prove something else?

In reality, either answer proves absolutely nothing to anyone. If I said 'yes', then perhaps it's because my mom choose to follow your rules, even though she didn't agree with them. Or perhaps my parents never had such rules, and yet they are still married. If I said 'no', it still proves nothing. Perhaps both my parents followed your rules to the letter, and yet are still divorced. Perhaps neither did. Maybe just my mom did, and yet my father left her.

In any case, without knowing a host of details, you really couldn't make any valid judgement based upon either answer.

On the other hand, I'm sure I could find any number of people married for over ten years that disagree with you. Over twenty years would be more difficult, simply because I doubt that as many use the internet.

This attitude of yours goes right along with the rest of the attitudes you exhibit here, however. Guess I shouldn't be surprised.

Sean.

2456. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 15:59:57 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0509FD.E8B9DB8B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25453

Dick Carroll wrote:
> And neither do I,nor HAVE I posted such bigoted accusatory statements,
> as I havd been repeatedly accused by Rick and Cecil.

That's the disadvantage of multiple personalities, Dick. One doesn't remember what the other posted. Go back and read your own postings.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2457. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:02:22 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C050A8E.DB73B045@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25454

Rick Adams wrote:
> Dave, you can't even see the difference between a Libertarian
> (a member of the Libertarian political party) and a libertarian (one > who adheres to a policy of liberty). Confusing them--as you insist on > doing--is like confusing a Democrat (member of the Democratic party)
> and a democrat (person who believes in democracy).

Remember Dave is the guy who jumped down my throat for confusing "church" with "Church". Too bad he doesn't practice what he preaches.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2458. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:03:29 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C050AD1.CDA8E061@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25456

Dave Heil wrote:
> You little "L" types demonstrate your freedom by attempting to > stifle the views of another.

Is that what Thomas Jefferson did?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2459. Re: A question to all.....

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:04:15 UTC
From: K0HB <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <e49aad709841d33fd512fe1437f4b340.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 25455

"Bill Sohl" <billsohl@mindspring.com> wrote in message

>
> Yep, and I seem to recall a similar type rental for somewhere > in Australia being advertised in the ham mags.
>

Assuming he is talking about USA rules, the VK example wouldn't be relevant. Having said that, there is (was?) a hotel in 9M8 which includes one suite with a ham setup, including a pretty classy antenna farm.

3333333, de Hans, K0HB

--
Posted from 1cust252.tnt1.minneapolis3.mn.da.uu.net [63.30.251.252]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

2460. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:04:39 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C050B17.79407C41@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25457

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > I've provided you no information whatever regarding the matter.
> >
> > On the contrary, you have provided me all the information I need.
> > If you are too ignorant to realize it, I feel sorry for you.
>
> You apparently can't take "I'm not telling you" as an answer. Maybe > Rick should re-examine his diagnosis of your obsessive compulsive > behavior.
>
> I'm still not telling you, Cecil. On with your quest!

You are too ignorant to realize that you've already told me.
So be it.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2461. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:07:25 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C050BBD.E1E8E33D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25458

Dick Carroll wrote:
> As usual, your entire premise is wrong. Nothing I said or intimated can > reasonably be interpreted to say that all 1.25 billion Muslims are > terrorists, but it is clear that far more than enough to take us out are > indeed of that persuasion. What to do with THEM? I think Dubya etc are > handling that adequately at this point. Where it goes from Afghanistan > will be the catch.

Now wait just a minute, Dick. I'm the one who agrees with what Bush is doing. You are the one who wants all Muslims punished because they cannot seem to help themselves when they all believe in terrorism.
Where did the other Dick Carroll go, you know, the genocidal one?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2462. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:13:00 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C050D0C.F4BDD222@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25459

Rick Adams wrote:
> Same here. Dick, you KNOW that the bible is filled with > threats of "punishment" for religious infractions or non-believers.

For instance, regarding people who "serve other gods": Deut 13:15
"Thou shalt surely smite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, destroying it utterly, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the sword." That's how tolerant Dick's religion is.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2463. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:16:01 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C050DC1.457FC0B0@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25460

Rick Adams wrote:
> But (the Nazis) did so within the framework of their Constitution, > not by force. Technically, the US Congress could do exactly the same > thing to our system anytime they chose to do so, provided they could > garner sufficient votes, as the Nazis did.

Apparently, the President could do it with Executive Orders. Do you think the President could disolve Congress with an Executive Order?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2464. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:18:11 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C050E43.5ED81625@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25461

N2EY wrote:
> Yup. My point is that the Constitution is not an absolute protection, as Cecil > seems to think.

I didn't say it is absolute protection nor do I believe such.
However, it has usually been adequate protection but not always.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2465. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:27:30 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u339i$41t$0@208.207.71.134>
Source record: 25462

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > And neither do I,nor HAVE I posted such bigoted accusatory statements,
> > as I havd been repeatedly accused by Rick and Cecil.
>
> That's the disadvantage of multiple personalities, Dick. One > doesn't remember what the other posted. Go back and read your > own postings.
>

You know about multiple personalities, all aright. It's reality you have problems with.

2466. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:27:47 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C051083.8C9D5A22@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25464

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Ah...Plourde, do you see anywhere that I said it was trivial?

You certainly implied it. Maybe you should be more careful with your words, Dick. Everyone seems to be misunderstanding what you are trying to say.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2467. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:28:33 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u33bh$41t$1@208.207.71.134>
Source record: 25463

N2EY wrote:
>
> In article <3C046D97.4A88E58A@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>
> >Were you required to pass the exams, Dick, or did you cheat?
>
> Cecil:
>
> There is/was a legal way that a person could get an Extra license without > taking any additional examsl, and without cheating. I don't think Dick got his > that way, and neither did I, but it WAS possible.

Cecil has no clue.

2468. Re: Whats the deal?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:30:28 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C051124.EAA8B922@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25465

Chuck wrote:
> I cme ot this new group in hopes of finding out intereting tid bits of Ham
> Radio Policy. What goes here?, not one posting about policy.

Feel free to post one. What policy would you like to discuss?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2469. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:45:43 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u34bn$6ta$0@208.207.71.134>
Source record: 25466

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > Cecil, it's you that is unconscious. All the animals I have ever been > > around or read about had no interest in sex whatever until the female > > was in estrus.
>
> You are just not very aware, Dick. A couple of days ago, my fixed > female dog mounted my niece's fixed female dog and started humping.
> No estrus in sight.

Yep, it happens on occasion. I guess you believe that is actual homosexuality in animals just the same as humnans. You -and they- are to be pitied.

I used to have a tomcat who wasn't a bit
> choosy about which sex he humped. He raped many a smaller tomcat.
> I had a male duck that raped my mother's chickens.

More tall tales from the Cecilian files.

Homosexuality
> is rampant in animals and the thing that separates animals from > plants is that animals are aware.

Cecil, I'm quite positive that I have been around far more animals of most types than you. The only time I ever have observed anything that could have been in any viewed as abberant sexual activity, other than a very rare curious exhibition such as your neice's confused female dog, was some monkeys in a zoo. In fact, I'm beginning to believe that you and Rick belong in the zoo with them.

2470. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 16:48:54 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u34hm$6ta$1@208.207.71.134>
Source record: 25467

Richard Plourde wrote:
>
> N2EY wrote:
>
> > I would say that the routine nonreversible mutilation of any human without > > their consent is pretty barabic.
>
> I wouldn't say that... (pretty isn't an adverb)... ;-)
>
> I would leave out all those qualifiers and say...
>
> The mutilation of any human is unequivocably barabic.
>
> ...and yet, strangely, these hings happen in many 'civilizations'...
>

I believe that better describes the true quality of that (those) civilizatioins, or the lack of it, than any words could ever do.

2471. Re: Hollingsworth

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 17:13:14 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9u35ib$b9p$1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 25468

"JAMES HAMPTON" <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
news:XoWM7.200195$3d2.8531144@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> Heh. Ok. I love your 'what CW is good for'. Kinda nice.

Some can't seem to take it for the tongue-in-cheek joke that it is.

> Don't look for > too many people with the guts to put their real e-mail address or real name
> on a lot of posts.

I've paid for that many times in another news group. Oh well it's one more barb to shove in the other direction when need a rises.

> Personally, I don't really care about the CW.

You're in the wrong news group!!!

>I'll bet the gummies were > playing that tape for a week! The unfortunate side effect of this was they > pulled the beer cooler out of the ham shack. Oh well ...

Yeah, you got them P.O. so they let you guys know in the only way that would REALLY matter. 8-))

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LD0

Saw this on a Tee-shirt:

"I am a bomb technician. If you see me running, try to keep up. "

2472. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 17:16:49 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u3661bgk0@208.207.71.134>
Source record: 25469

CAM wrote:
>
Exactly what do you want to do with them, Dick? What would > you do with the 300,000 American Muslims?

Who hinted that I want to do anything at all with them? If they act like freedomloving Americans -and are in fact American citizens, and not here illigally on expired visas (2 million aliens are currently here on expired visas accordding to data I saw yesterday) that should be sufficient to assure their freedom just as you and I. The very many who are here in disdain of our laws are thus suspect, and must be caught and dealt with according to the results of the investigation involved. No doubt that will turn up a number of terrorist types. The rest of the world has gotten used to abusing the American system and some hold it in disdain, as it deserves. The actions and more to the point lack of any coherent action, of Clintoon and co. has left us very exposed.

> > I DID say that based on the fundamental teachings of Islam, every > > Muslim is a potential terrorist in that it is almost certaian that he > > will be forced to make a choice-follow his religious teachings and > > leaders, or reject them.
>
> Well, let me quote what your God says to do with people who believe in > other gods. "Thou shalt surely smite the inhabitants of that city with > the edge of the sword, destroying it utterly, and all that is therein, > and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the sword." Dick, your God > isn't any more tolerant of other religions than is the Islamic God.

Cecil I'm no the one attending Southern Baptist services every weekend, that's you. But don't tell me that current Christian theory and practice includes death and destruction to all nonbelievers as does a serious component of Islam today. It just isn't so and you know it. That sort of viewpoint is limited to a miniscule group of singleminded abortion clinic bombers in the USA. The radical Islamics on the other hand are determined to virtually destroy the USA and all within it, even their own kind, the Muslims living here, since it is not practical to keep them from the same fate. They are viewed as simply expendables. There is no comparing the two philosophies and you know it. So stop the BS.

2473. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 17:19:36 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u36b8bgk1@208.207.71.134>
Source record: 25470

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 28 Nov 2001 02:51:52 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > Ok, let's use your figures. If one tenth of one percent of the world/s
> >1.25 BILLION muslims are Islamic fundamentalist terrorists, that's > >1,250,000 terrorists, if my calculator functioned correctly. Still think > >it's no problem?
>
> It would be if the original assumption was right--but of > course it was only a "throw-away" percentage that Cecil cited to make > his point and never intended to be accurate.
>
> I would be VERY surprised if more than 1/10000 of 1 percent of > the muslims (i.e., 1,250 people) were in any way connected with > terrorism--and most of those are supporters or demonstrators, not > actual terrorists. Compare that to the right wing fanatics in the > militias throughout our country (you know, the Timothy McVeigh types) > and I think you'll find we have MANY more such individuals than they > have.
>
> > I DID say that based on the fundamental teachings of Islam, every > >Muslim is a potential terrorist in that it is almost certaian that he > >will be forced to make a choice-follow his religious teachings and > >leaders, or reject them. In countries where fundamentalist Islam is not > >only the religion but the law as well, asking a Muslim to reject his > >religion can easily be fatal. At the least, it will cause him huge > >amounts of personal problems and grief.
>
> And, of course, precisely the same thing applies to > Christians, as my own response to your Koran quotes shows.
>

I guess you would believe that, given your twisted Ultraliberal viewpoint, masquerading as it does behind the fascia of libertarianism. You haven't shown anything like that at all, of course.

2474. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 18:32:17 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C052DB1.15F82DDF@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25471

Dick Carroll wrote:
> You know about multiple personalities, all aright. It's reality you have > problems with.

Sometimes, Dick, but not this time. I advocated neutralizing the terrorists. You advocated neutralizing the Islamics, presumably all one billion of them. Exactly what actions do you propose to take against one billion Muslims, Dick? Please be specific.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2475. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 18:48:11 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C05316B.67D7360C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25472

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Who hinted that I want to do anything at all with them?

You did, Dick. You said, in so many words, that all Muslims have no choice except to become terrorists because they adhere to the letter of the Koran and are required to kill people of another religion. OTOH, I posted what Muslims believe about Jesus as one of the greatest prophets of all time, born of The Virgin Mary.

> Cecil I'm no the one attending Southern Baptist services every weekend, > that's you. But don't tell me that current Christian theory and practice > includes death and destruction to all nonbelievers as does a serious > component of Islam today.

If, as you say, Muslims have no choice except to follow the letter of the Koran and kill any member of another religion, then I submit to you that Christians also have no choice except to follow the letter of the Bible and kill any member of another religion. To wit:

Here is what our God tells us to do to people who "serve other gods".

Deuteronomy 13
12 If thou shalt hear say in one of thy cities, which the Lord thy God hath given thee to dwell there, saying,
13 Certain men, the children of Belial, are gone out from among you, and have withdrawn the inhabitants of their city, saying, Let us go and serve other gods, which ye have not known;
14 Then shalt thou inquire, and make search, and ask diligently; and, behold, if it be the truth, and the thing is certain, that such abomination is wrought among you;
15 Thou shalt surely smite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, destroying it utterly, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the sword.
16 And thou shalt gather all the spoil of it into the midst of the street thereof, and shalt burn with fire the city, and all the spoil thereof of every whit, for the Lord thy God: and it shall be an heap for ever; it shall not be built again.

I submit that your logic is flawed, Dick. Probably 99.99% of Moslems are tolerant of other religions and take their Koran with a grain of salt just as 99.99% of Christians are tolerant of other religions and take their Bible with a grain of salt. Heck, half of the religious writings of Judaism, Islam, and Christianity are virtually identical. Moses, who wrote the above, is a great prophet in all three religions. Guess what "God" was in Jesus' native language? Would you believe

"Allah"? Jehovah=Yahweh=Allah
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2476. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 18:50:29 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0531F5.5C6D456C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25473

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Cecil has no clue.

Are we talking about commercial radio licenses, Executive Orders,
or what?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2477. Re: Hollingsworth

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 18:57:02 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <2saN7.200797$3d2.8621226@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 25474

Heh, you misunderstood my 'I don't care' attitude. I used to love CW. I'm just waiting to get another HF rig (after doing a couple of roofs, remodeling the kitchen and the bathroom - I just don't want to charge it. It will wait.). Most likely I'll end up on a few digital modes (largely CW) and some SSB. Who know? I've just got to start planning an antenna (no mean feat living on a city lot!). Anyone can construct a dummy load - I need a decent antenna. Heck, I haven't been on HF in 30 years!

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim AA2QA

"Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net> wrote in message news:9u35ib$b9p$1@news.bignet.net...
>
> "JAMES HAMPTON" <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
> news:XoWM7.200195$3d2.8531144@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> > Heh. Ok. I love your 'what CW is good for'. Kinda nice.
>
> Some can't seem to take it for the tongue-in-cheek joke that it is.
>
> > Don't look for > > too many people with the guts to put their real e-mail address or real > name
> > on a lot of posts.
>
> I've paid for that many times in another news group. Oh well it's one more > barb to shove in the other direction when need a rises.
>
> > Personally, I don't really care about the CW.
>
> You're in the wrong news group!!!
>
> >I'll bet the gummies were > > playing that tape for a week! The unfortunate side effect of this was > they > > pulled the beer cooler out of the ham shack. Oh well ...
>
> Yeah, you got them P.O. so they let you guys know in the only way that
would > REALLY matter. 8-))
>
>
> --
> Leland C. Scott
> KC8LD0

>
> Saw this on a Tee-shirt:
>
> "I am a bomb technician. If you see > me running, try to keep up. "
>
>

2478. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 18:57:31 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C05339B.9DC86C7@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25476

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > You are just not very aware, Dick. A couple of days ago, my fixed > > female dog mounted my niece's fixed female dog and started humping.
> > No estrus in sight.
>
> Yep, it happens on occasion. I guess you believe that is actual > homosexuality in animals just the same as humnans.

Is a humnan anything like a hummer? Is that your species? Certainly that is an example of homosexuality in dogs. And no, dogs are not the same as humans. I'm surprised you would think such a thing.

> I used to have a tomcat who wasn't a bit
> > choosy about which sex he humped. He raped many a smaller tomcat.
> > I had a male duck that raped my mother's chickens.
>
> More tall tales from the Cecilian files.

Not a tall tale at all, Dick. The neighbors brought their half grown tomcats over to show us their bleeding rear ends. Did you know cats have barbs on their peni?

> Cecil, I'm quite positive that I have been around far more animals of > most types than you.

Doubt it, Dick. I grew up on a farm. Most of my uncles were ranchers. If you want to alleviate your ignorance on the subject, do a web search for "homosexual+animals".
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2479. Re: Whats the deal?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 18:58:54 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <OtaN7.200798$3d2.8622179@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 25475

A lot of us post concerning one policy. The golden rule. Do unto others BEFORE they do unto you. Then split!

:-)

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim

"Chuck" <kb8pdr@fuse.net> wrote in message
news:u09733tfurlt0a@corp.supernews.com...
> I cme ot this new group in hopes of finding out intereting tid bits of Ham > Radio Policy. What goes here?, not one posting about policy. Either my > computer is goofed or you poeple are just enraged with one another. I hate > to even post the message here, but this is all new to me. I will wait a few > daays and see if anything actually comes up about policy if not I will move
> on. One thing that does strike me funny as that Dave Heil is here and > posting, I hope this is not the same Dave Heil that builds the microphones.
> As this would be dissapointing to me. As I was hoping that you would have > some very interesting tid bits posted here. Later all. I hope that does
not > offend anyone. But I would think that the news group would reflect the > title. Chuck
>
>

2480. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:01:20 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <1A466C173E169CEA.DCB113D7AEA23EF2.73603558A302279C@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25477

On 28 Nov 2001 05:11:56 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> He could to, and is.

Too bad your memory is so weak, Dick. YOU were part of the discussion here when I DID take the test--and you even made comments (sarcastic ones, as I recall) when I mentioned here that I'd just passed my 20WPM.

As one of your idols (Dan Qayle) said: "What a terrible thing it is to lose one's mind--or never to have had one before." I'm sure you can relate to that.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2481. Re: Whats the deal?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:05:22 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C053572.B57ED535@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25478

Chuck wrote:
>
> I cme ot this new group in hopes of finding out intereting tid bits of Ham > Radio Policy. What goes here?, not one posting about policy. Either my > computer is goofed or you poeple are just enraged with one another. I hate > to even post the message here, but this is all new to me. I will wait a few > daays and see if anything actually comes up about policy if not I will move > on. One thing that does strike me funny as that Dave Heil is here and > posting, I hope this is not the same Dave Heil that builds the microphones.
> As this would be dissapointing to me. As I was hoping that you would have > some very interesting tid bits posted here. Later all. I hope that does not > offend anyone. But I would think that the news group would reflect the > title. Chuck

There is no Dave Heil who builds microphones. That's Bob Heil K9EID.
Now you don't have to be disappointed. If you'd like some real disappointment, try reading some of the utter filth in rec.radio.amateur.misc.

Usually, a thread here begins with ham radio and wanders off topic to degenerate into something about the U.S. not being free because it doesn't permit prostitution or marijuana smoking. Apparently you are now reading one or more of those off topic threads.

Dave K8MN

2482. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:15:01 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C0537B6.E4480D24@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25479

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> In article <1A7EA877217F328F.363625849C7957A8.3D676BEF89372E80@lp.airnews.net>,
> Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>
> >
> >>What makes you think it is I who is offending them?
> >
> > You, Dave, and Dick present a far worse image of hams here > >than Kim could do if she posted PICTURES of her tits instead of using > >TIT in her call sign!
>
> Rick:
>
> I see. So far, Kim has not chosen to do that, and I, for one, am > extremely grateful!
>
> > I'm happy that the ARS has more of a range than the three of > >you present. If it didn't, I'd be ashamed to admit I was a ham.
>
> I respect differences of opinion. The problem with liberals such as > yourself is that you can "tolerate" anything except a difference of > opinion! As an American, I'd defend to the death your right to express > your differences of opinion here or anywhere else -- but I'm not so > sure you would!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

What you've said about Rick is pretty much true. Once you've been told to "shut the (expletive deleted) up" by a Buddhist libertarian professor, the light begins to dawn that he isn't all that concerned with liberty other than his own.

I don't recall demanding that Kim "shut the (expletive deleted) up" though I have to admit that I might have wished she would on occasion. Rick comes across like a '60s radical with a real job but unchanged political views. I don't believe that there is anything which will convince him that his skewed views run counter to the mainstream but it is fun to watch him rail against the system, the country and mainstream morality and religion. I haven't called for him to desist and I don't remember that you have.

Dave K8MN

2483. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:15:47 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <5C3A68D7A1AAFC20.818450E39CC1B027.3FBA66BA24034C91@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25480

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 06:12:35 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>I don't. You did. The kids didn't have an opportunity to consent.

Did your kids have the opportunity to consent to religious exposure before you stated teaching them about Christianity?

Mine was only exposed to the real world (and I _don't_ use that type of language frequently). Yours was/were exposed to brainwashing and superstition. Neither consented. I wonder which of us harmed our kids more?

>> Opinion. Some people express certain thoughts more accurately >> using such terms, others don't.
>
>You don't.

You're right--which is why I seldom use them instead of more precise terms.

>> My use of the English language?
>
>Is that the conclusion that you drew from my statement?

It's the view you presented in your statement.

>> Never claimed to be tranquil either. OR a "large "L"
>> Libertarian--just a libertarian.
>
>And the libertarian's idea of freedom is to tell someone to shut the >bleep up? Keep working on the Buddhist thing.

Why?

You have the right to tell _me_ to shut up as well. The libertarian idea of freedom includes free speech, including the right to express your views--and if that view is that the person you are communicating with should "shut up" then you have every right to express it, just not to enforce it.

I don't need to work on the "Buddhist thing" Dave, I never claimed to be a practicing Buddhist--I accept Buddhist philosophy but not Buddhist religious practices (which, btw, is a perfectly acceptable perspective in Buddhism, even though it wouldn't be in Christianity). On the other hand, several people here present themselves as Christians (including you, Dick, Larry, and others). Try working on your OWN religious behavior before you criticize that of others (motes and beams, remember?). Your religion teaches tolerance, non-judgementalism, compassion for others, and gentleness. Looks as though the three of you have a LONG way to go before you can even pretend to be "Christians" to me.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2484. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:23:06 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C05399A.89BEE919@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25481

Richard Plourde wrote:
>
> N2EY wrote:
>
> > I would say that the routine nonreversible mutilation of any human without > > their consent is pretty barabic.
>
> I wouldn't say that... (pretty isn't an adverb)... ;-)
>
> I would leave out all those qualifiers and say...
>
> The mutilation of any human is unequivocably barabic.
>
> ...and yet, strangely, these hings happen in many 'civilizations'...

In this peculiar day in which we live, it isn't necessary to mutilate children. We just wait until they are in their teens and they will pay to have all sorts of parts tattooed or pierced.

Dave K8MN

2485. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:26:06 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <A4F4B2F8454FCA4B.83AA700126467C90.3098D71CB22851B9@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25482

On 28 Nov 2001 10:23:22 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Rick is a university professor; as such, he has a professional mandate >to be politically correct in thought, word, and deed.

I do?

That's news to me. If anything, on the campus where I teach
I'm KNOWN for not being "PC."

Sorry, Larry, but your picture of academia just doesn't mesh with reality. In the early Nineties PC was the "in" thing--but today it's far less emphasized and outside of expecting academics to demonstrate respect for other cultures and races in the classroom (something any intelligent person would do anyway) "PC" really doesn't have much influence anymore.

>He is just doing >what comes naturally for people who are committed to supporting the >social decay necessary to ensure that liberal socialist elites maintain >their position as the ruling class in the New World Order.

What a wonderfully absurd statement!

Larry, someday you REALLY need to take (or pass if you wasted a professor's time taking it before) a course in Political Science.
Not only are those views contradictory--social decay does NOT "ensure that liberal socialist elites maintain their position . . .," in the first place the concept of a "liberal socialist elite" is a contradiction in terms (by definition, elitists in a political sense are conservatives not liberals), but that position is in direct opposition to the libertarian perspective I've been presenting since I entered this slugfest!

Libertarians (small OR large "l") are NOT liberals or socialists, Larry. We come quite far from fitting that mold.

> Lately, it >has become fashionable for liberals like themselves to couch their >beliefs in the label of Libertarianism, but it's still the same thing. The >difference is that conservatives are willing to share the hegemony, >liberals are not. While we may not dislike them personally, we still >cannot trust them.

Take a PoliSci course, Larry. You sound like even more of an uneducated idiot here than usual.

For the last time without charging tuition, libertarians are NOT liberals.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2486. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:29:11 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C053B07.E62B13E4@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25483

CAM wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote:
> > Dave, you can't even see the difference between a Libertarian
> > (a member of the Libertarian political party) and a libertarian (one > > who adheres to a policy of liberty). Confusing them--as you insist on > > doing--is like confusing a Democrat (member of the Democratic party) > > and a democrat (person who believes in democracy).
>
> Remember Dave is the guy who jumped down my throat for confusing
> "church" with "Church". Too bad he doesn't practice what he > preaches.

Your memory is slipping. I used a word with a capital "C". You did the jumping about it. Most of your jumping turned out to be to conclusions and incorrect ones at that. Did you find the relevant part in your heavy dictionary yet?

Now instead of voting for the "Libertarian Party" candidate, you'll have to search for a "libertarian Party" candidate.

Now about Kim's call, the only portion of this endless rant which related to amateur radio...

Dave K8MN

2487. Re: K1MAN webpage.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:29:57 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9u3omrfdg4@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 25502
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.shortwave

"Carleton Ingerson" <n1dxm@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:323N7.239375$W8.8287832@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> I agree, this jerk has been run off the air once already. Who the hell let > him back on??

FWIW, K1MAN claims to have been off the air because of taking a teaching position.

> "K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
> news:a96f1f4d2ee76e5b3a11b225221d54bf.15732@mygate.mailgate.org...
> > "N0VFP, Lloyd" <lloyd_vfp@msn.com> wrote in message
> > news:e1bb06a74f973f91732f3ab8815a96bd@spamfreenews.com...
> >
> > > This is a very good site......
> > >
> > > http://www.carte.net/k1man/sites.htm
> >
> >
> > K1MAN is a pathetic scam artist, and you are a pathetic suck-up.
> >
> > With all kind wishes,
> >
> > de Hans, K0HB
> >
> >
> >
> > --
> > Posted from mplsapanas11poolb82.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.20.82]
> > via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG
>
>

2488. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:32:06 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C053BB6.5F0CC371@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25484

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > You little "L" types demonstrate your freedom by attempting to > > stifle the views of another.
>
> Is that what Thomas Jefferson did?

Don't you know? At what point in his life did Uncle Thomas begin referring to himself as a libertarian? Remember in his quarrel with Hamilton how he shouted, "Just shut the (expletive deleted) up, Al!"?

Dave K8MN

2489. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:34:02 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C053C2B.85E8A7C@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25485

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > I've provided you no information whatever regarding the matter.
> > >
> > > On the contrary, you have provided me all the information I need.
> > > If you are too ignorant to realize it, I feel sorry for you.
> >
> > You apparently can't take "I'm not telling you" as an answer. Maybe > > Rick should re-examine his diagnosis of your obsessive compulsive > > behavior.
> >
> > I'm still not telling you, Cecil. On with your quest!
>
> You are too ignorant to realize that you've already told me.
> So be it.

...and your obsessive/compulsive side can't admit that no such thing has taken place in this dimension or reality. You just don't get any help from me in your search. On with your quest!

Dave K8MN

2490. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:46:27 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <34976FD0F948FB2C.B707F891A694C7A3.0E8FD74A804BEEB9@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25486

On 28 Nov 2001 04:54:30 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Dick has made it very clear that he >> intends to keep this thread alive (with a subject line that is >> DIRECTLY related to Kim) until she changes her call sign. THAT, Jim, >> is an attempt to force her to act against her will, and it is wrong
>> from ANY moral perspective.
>
> OK, so you now have earned the title of Professor Bullshit Squared.

Do you deny stating that you intend to keep the thread going,
Dick?

>> If this discussion was, as you claim, directed to the generic >> topic of whether certain call signs are good or bad for the image of >> the ARS, Kim's sign would be mentioned no more than any other that was >> found in the callbook and was considered inappropriate by anyone. That >> is patently not the case.
>
> You are patently full of it up to your eyebrows.

Why--because I disagree with you?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2491. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:48:45 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <8A4C1104920D59DD.54EEDE22E0492CB3.D007AEAD4790BE8F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25487

On Tue, 27 Nov 2001 22:52:39 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Were you required to pass the exams, Dick, or did you cheat?

I'm sure he didn't have to cheat, Cecil.

How hard could it be to pass a test on spark gap theory
anyway?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2492. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:50:09 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <FD7243487561B960.26751406F9A8CEE1.E55C709CC7EA0D93@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25488

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 12:50:29 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Are we talking about commercial radio licenses, Executive Orders,
>or what?

Didn't they pass a rule that anyone that was licensed during the first three years of the ARS received an automatic upgrade to Extra on his 100th birthday?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2493. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 19:55:42 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <59321D8DBA23E3C8.6B405E6A488CBA30.ECF27DADE9948FF2@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25489

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 06:16:40 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Right. You little "L" types demonstrate your freedom by attempting to >stifle the views of another. Keep telling folks to shut up. It does >wonders for your image.

Dave, not only would it be perfectly acceptable to a libertarian to tell someone to shut up--just not to _require_ them to do so--but I have yet to see you produce a direct quotation where I TOLD you to shut up.

I HAVE told you that you don't have the vaguest idea what you're talking about when it comes to libertarianism, and that you should use the words correctly--but if you interpret that to be the equivalent of telling you to shut up, it must be because you CAN'T use the words correctly, and it mean shutting up if you tried.

>> The libertarian philosophy is integral to the US Constitution >> and the Declaration of Independence. I guess both of THOSE are >> impractical as well from your perspective, right?
>
>Are you now stating what you'd like me to say? My sentence works just >fine on its own without the translation.

Precisely WHERE did I provide you a quote to recite, Dave? You really ARE quite good at misquoting people, aren't you? Must help a lot in winning arguments when you get to provide the dialog for both sides.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2494. Re: Hollingsworth

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 20:13:38 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9u3g4chaj1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 25490

"JAMES HAMPTON" <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:2saN7.200797$3d2.8621226@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> Heh, you misunderstood my 'I don't care' attitude. I used to love CW.

What do you figure your code speed is after all the years of I assume non use?

> I'm > just waiting to get another HF rig (after doing a couple of roofs, > remodeling the kitchen and the bathroom - I just don't want to charge it.
> It will wait.).

Paying the interest charges on a credit card for a few months will ruin the best deal you can find on a rig mail order.

> Most likely I'll end up on a few digital modes (largely CW) > and some SSB. Who know?

Hollingsworth seemed to be a big fan of PSK31. He must have mentioned it at least 20 times during his recent talk on enforcement issues at the Fort Wayne Hamfest the other week.

>I've just got to start planning an antenna (no > mean feat living on a city lot!). Anyone can construct a dummy load - I > need a decent antenna.

I live in an apartment. Trying to come up antennas that work well even at V/UHF is not easy to do.

> Heck, I haven't been on HF in 30 years!

Sounds like you have a bit of catching up to do. 8-))

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LDO

--
"People have a societal and ethical responsibility to be considerate of the rights of your fellow citizen. Those that choose to ignore and dismiss this out of hand are, at the very least, social deviates and misfits, who are morally bankrupt, and at the most, criminal. "

Dave Hall

2495. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 20:32:12 UTC
From: uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org
Message-ID: <ff37aa44.0111281232.1ed0aea@posting.google.com>
Source record: 25491

"Bob - KE4JCD" <ke4jcd@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:<8yUL7.113107$Yb.28227333@typhoon.tampabay.rr.com>...
> As you said "I haven't seen such "droves" in my area." Well the CODE TEST > hasn't been dropped yet. People I talk to all say much of the same thing,
> The CODE is stopping them and when its gone so will HAM RADIO! CBers will > come in droves and as I have on my website, BAD HABITS!

So argue for harder tests. I guarentee that if code is stopping them, they won't be upgrading to AE. Not with the current test, at least.
It's too much work to learn that test. The key is to make the test difficult enough that it takes effort to pass it. Doesn't matter whether it's a code test or a written test. If it takes time and effort to pass it, it's too much work.

> One page on my site deals with what Amateur radio is slowly becoming, the > new children's band...
>
> Here something sweet for your ears...
> http://www.hartungpress.com/hamradio/crummyhams.htm

I listened to most of that last night. What's funny is that you often couldn't tell the good guys from the bad guys.

All of them were acting that poorly.

Sean.

2496. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 20:40:25 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <E549E727B6E43381.C6B3E03F9718E168.E2710D7DE8F1D9C5@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25492

On 28 Nov 2001 10:23:20 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>The FCC is not in the business of making value judgments on the >callsigns people select for themselves. Being a government agency, >they are legally constrained against doing so. An individual amateur's >Vanity call sign is strictly their choice; and the negative effect it has
>on their image, and the image of the ARS, is strictly their >responsibility. Mr. Hollingsworth was very clear on that point.

I have no problem with that at all.

What I DO have a problem with is people who claim to believe the above view, yet insist on making Kim's call sign THEIR business as well as her's.

Either it is strictly her business (as your statement makes it clear that it is) or it is not. If it is, then what possible justification do you, Dick, and Dave have for taking her to task for her choice? If, on the other hand, it is NOT her choice, then it is the FCC, not you, Dick, and Dave, that is responsible for affecting that decision. In no case, however, is it the business of others to tell her (beyond a single statement of personal opinion) to change her call or that she is "damaging the ARS" by maintaining it. In particular, Dick's insistence that this thread will continue until she changes her call is a direct contradiction of the spirit and the content of your own statement above--it simply replaces FCC authority with blackmail.

It's time for people to step back and drop the subject for good. You, Dick, and Dave don't care for her call sign and feel it is harmful to the image of the ARS. Fine. You have the right to feel that way if you choose. Others of us, including myself, Cecil, and many others feel the opposite, and we have just as much right to our view as you have to yours. Neither you nor we, however, have the slightest right to expect Kim to accept--or even care about--our personal views on the subject. It's her call sign. She decided she wanted it and if and when she no longer does want it, she will be the one to decide to change it again. Slamming her or pressuring her here in this news group accomplishes absolutely nothing for anyone, and creates an even worse image of tolerance among hams than the discussions in rram!

>> There is no way that Kim is responsible for damage to the ARS
>>if her actions are ALL within the guidelines of the FCC >>regulations--and her's were.
>

>Incorrect, for the reasons stated above.

Nope. Any action which can accurately be predicted to harm a governmental agency or to adversely impact on its operations is legitimately subject to Federal regulation. That Kim's call sign is NOT so subject makes it clear that the FCC does not regard it as a threat to the service.

>That is not Mr. Hollingsworth's job to do, nor should it be.

Neither is offering his personal opinion, in his official capacity, concerning the morality of her call (an implicit part of the claim that her call sign will bring the ARS "...one step closer to extinction" is the assumption that there is something inherently wrong with the call sign in the first place). Outside of a limited range of topics, all having to do with FCC regulations and enforcement, Hollingsworth's opinion has absolutely no more nor less weight than that of any other individual. Many of us in this news group have been part of the ARS as long as Hollingsworth or longer--and many of us have at least as much on-the-air experience as he does. I don't know when--or even IF--Hollingsworth was licensed as a ham (his name doesn't appear in the database on qrz.com), but having been a licensed ham for over 25 years I suspect I have at least as much practical experience with ham radio as he has--and I KNOW many of the people in this news group have more than he has. What makes HIS interpretation of the effect of Kim's call sign any more relevant or accurate than anyone else's? His title? Great--I'll be more than glad to write Noam Chomsky and ask HIS opinion on the topic--and as the top expert in linguistics in the world, he is certainly more qualified to speak on the subject of the interpretation and effect of words than is Riley Hollingsworth, Dick Carroll, or anyone else in this news group, myself included.

> The
>best arbitrators of the effect of Kim's poor choice in a callsign are >her fellow hams; and that is precisely what is taking place here.

No it isn't Larry. This isn't an expression of opinion, it's a witch hunt!

It's one thing to inform Kim politely that you don't agree with her choice of call signs and that you feel it could have a negative effect on potential new hams. That's reasonable. But to hound her, ridicule her, and insult her as has been occurring here since the thread began is nothing but an attempt to force her to change her call against her will, and that's abominable behavior for people who CLAIM to be supporting morality.

>Obviously we, as her fellow hams, are in disagreement on this >issue. In fact, the majority would seem to support Kim. That, >however, will not make the debate come to an end. The only >thing that will stop it is for Kim to change her callsign to one >which no longer offends, or you can figure out some way to >silence your opposition.

In other words, you, Dick, Dave, and the very few others who oppose her sign (you admit yourself that the majority of hams support her), will simply hound and harass her until you force her to obey your orders!

Talk about a group of smug, self-righteous, fascists! It's people like YOU who give a bad name to ham radio, you hypocrite, not decent people like Kim.

Trust me, Larry, until you and Dick back off on your vendetta against her I, and I'm sure others in this group, will see to it that your viciousness and lack of morality are VERY clearly pointed out to everyone who joins the thread.

At one time I had some respect for you, Larry. But no one who would deliberately harass and badger someone to do something even YOU admit is both her decision and one most other hams support doesn't deserve respect, only contempt.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2497. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 20:43:59 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B2E42985DE9AE6F8.1805E004EC1A4BF8.ACF7CE7F0E7491C9@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25493

On 28 Nov 2001 10:23:21 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I see. So far, Kim has not chosen to do that, and I, for one, am >extremely grateful!

Why, are you afraid it would make you too aroused?

>I respect differences of opinion.

No you don't. If you did you wouldn't harass Kim over a topic that reflects such a difference.

> The problem with liberals such as >yourself is that you can "tolerate" anything except a difference of >opinion!

You're as bad as Dave, Larry. Can't you read at all? I'm NOT a liberal, I'm a libertarian.

>As an American, I'd defend to the death your right to express >your differences of opinion here or anywhere else -- but I'm not so >sure you would!

Would you Larry?

Is that why you promise to badger Kim about her choices until she capitulates to your demands?

Doesn't sound very "American" to me.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2498. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 20:50:03 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B97A0168FB090DB0.B7E1B34CFCD8AC8C.39ED4A3F158482DC@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25494

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 06:22:35 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>...and I just pointed out several opportunities for glaring errors in >your theory.

Opinions, Dave. Not statements of fact. You provide NO source to contradict me other than your own personal views.

>As I recall, I recently poked holes in some of the >information you provided.

No, actually, you didn't.

>Some was from suspect sources with an agenda
>(NORML).

Which I balanced with information from an opposing source with
the opposite agenda--the DEA.

NORML is a legitimate source of information, Dave. You may not agree with their conclusions, but their facts and figures are completely accurate, as even the DEA would agree.

> One was from a book which provided figures but not figures >stating what you claimed.

Bunk.

> Your latest stuff doesn't even sound like >evidence at all.

To you.

Again, when you start providing more solid grounds for your arguments than your personal opinion, you might have legitimacy in questioning the sources others use to debate you. As it is right now, it's you against the range of sources I cited--and that doesn't make your position look very defensible.

> Besides, most of this latest stuff is simply diversion >from the debate over whether Kim's choice of call was a poor one. At >least that had something to do with amateur radio.

Not really. Even Larry Roll admits that most hams support her decision. The "debate" over Kim's choice of a call isn't a debate at all, it's a way for a few people to attempt to force her to change it against her will. As such it isn't something to do with ham radio, but with dictating the behavior of others.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2499. Re: A question to all.....

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 21:23:13 UTC
From: "D. Stussy" <kd6lvw@bde-arc.ampr.org> Message-ID: <Pine.LNX.4.10.10111282122300.2003-100000@exp.bde-arc.ampr.org>
Source record: 25495

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001, KC8PMX wrote:
>Alrighty..... another one of those "what if" questions:
>
>Is it legal to rent or lease ham gear? I was wondering about this one, say >for instance, here in Michigan we have places called Rental King, >Rent-a-Center etc. Not that we would want to have ham gear rented at a >location like that, but if there were places that you could rent or lease >equipment, in the short term, that may seem like a more feasable option for >some who clearly cannot afford one of those way-overpriced, multi-band, >do-everything rigs. (Between those and the "kit" radios, there is not much >inbetween)
>
>Also, would it be legal to rent someone elses station? Since the FCC license >does not state what gear you are operating, only that YOU are licensed, is >this a loophole?
>
>Don't mean to start any arguments, just an honest question, looking for >intelligent answers.

There is nothing that forbids any of the above. The only thing that the FCC would care about is TRANSMITTING (without a license). As long as the renter/lessee is licensed, I don't see any issue here at all.

2500. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 21:26:09 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <F1DDFEA961A5B00E.CE693C4F7887B6BA.B4F72F00205D6918@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25496

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 01:17:22 -0500, Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote:

>Could you cite a referece for "1 out of 100 post" statement?

Statistical evaluation of arbitron usenet statistics from Jan
1, 1995 to July 1, 1995 posted in news.lists

Actually the evaluation was based on a selection of discussion groups in which the proportion of posters is VERY high. For example, from the July 1995 arbitron Usenet statistics we learn that in rec.radio.amateur.policy that month, the following figures were obtained:

Number of people who read the group: 28098
Number of messages per month: 510

Even if we assume that every message posted that month was from a different person (a completely absurd assumption, of course), that would mean that only one out of every 55 readers posted to the group--and even the most conservative estimate would agree that far fewer unique individuals posted to the group. Assuming that one of every 100 individuals posted, it would still mean posts by 281 different individuals that month--a number vastly larger than any current member of this news group has ever seen post, including during the heavy traffic months when restructuring was being discussed.

In this particular group, it's pretty doubtful that there are more than 50 different individuals who post in any given month (if that many). Using the July 1995 figures (far lower than current readership, of course, given that Usenet usage has increased by a factor of three in the last five years alone and it's reasonable to assume that this increase holds true for rrap as it does for nearly all other groups), that would mean that approximately one out of every 561 readers posted at least one message that month.

>Seems a little hard to believe, seeing that it is very easy >to post a followup or start a new thread.

Sure it is (at least with most news clients)--but not only do most people who read a newsgroup not feel comfortable posting (one of the major reasons many of us debate in the usenet is not to convince our opponent to change his/her mind--that seldom if ever happens--but to present the alternative side of the issue to the majority of readers who do NOT participate in the discussion), but the hostility present in MANY threads in this news group would easily discourage participation by all but the most determined members of the news group.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2501. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 21:45:18 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B66095CD4062C6C2.6A4B29300A43CA61.35CA1E01D7EC9CD1@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25497

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 06:24:44 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Be my guest, Rick. It wasn't 1979. I'll guess early '90s. I know I've >been here since the mid-'90s. Is there a prize for the correct answer?

It was created in response to a request for discussion generated on: Mon Mar 29 20:33:05 1993. Actual creation date would have been thirty days later, on April 30, 1993.

By July 1995 (only two years later) the newsgroup already had a readership of over 28,000. Although growth would certainly have slowed after that time, it's extremely reasonable to assume it has kept pace with other, special interest, newsgroups in the rec hierarchy, and thus current readership should be _at least_ 84,000.
Thus, unless a large majority of readers are non-amateurs with an interest in the hobby (which would certainly support the position that Cecil and I--among others--have taken that the communications in this newsgroup influence more potential hams than do on-the-air discussions), this group is read by at least one out of every seven licensed amateurs in the United States.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2502. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 21:47:31 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <22687F70492FBF5D.199963F29CBB8D23.31B4C2FD24DA0AFB@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25498

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 13:16:56 GMT, "KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote:

>Oooohhhh! Now that's a shopping list. Only one problem if we wanted to >pursue a vanity call......It is my understanding that the vanity call system >has been put on hold due to the anthrax/mail situation/paranoia. Could take >a while....

Electronic submissions are still being processed--only snail mail applications are not.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2503. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 21:54:02 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <1B4A8C91A488F7F1.1F0C209F7EF9A4BA.5C47E97EE14F5773@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25499

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 01:40:43 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

> Lets face it, people, this is one darn strange thread. :-)

Now THAT is something I can agree with completely! :-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2504. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 22:12:51 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <D8ABE3D033ACAAFF.47358407874D1CB5.2E90FBA1D31912D0@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25500

On 28 Nov 2001 06:21:40 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Prefessor Nutball, you had really better work on your interpretive >reading skills, you couldn't pass Freshman Ccomposition 100 at this >point. Nowhere did I ever remotely indicate any such thing.

My apologies, Dick, it was apparently another hypocrite who made that statement, not you. It obviously came from Larry Roll, given his comment in his recent post that:

>Obviously we, as her fellow hams, are in disagreement on this >issue. In fact, the majority would seem to support Kim. That, >however, will not make the debate come to an end. The only >thing that will stop it is for Kim to change her callsign to one >which no longer offends, or you can figure out some way to >silence your opposition.

Since the two of you tend to share all the same views, I mis-attributed the threat to you instead of to him.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2505. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 22:15:20 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <65825934752786A2.5F2C34EBE474D0B4.3C078469887A5178@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25501

On 28 Nov 2001 06:22:51 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Yes, very quickly, since they had achieved the control they wanted. It >was a sham on the desperate German populace from the start.

Don't criticize them too harshly--our populace elected George Wimpus, didn't we?

Oops. Come to think of it, we didn't--he's President because of election fraud in the State where his brother is Governor, isn't he?

Never mind.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2506. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 22:42:22 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <8819ADD5BDEE6E9B.6A56D9C7759D6AD5.467701F9A232B529@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25503

On 28 Nov 2001 06:31:34 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Question: Where in the COnstitution does it say that an alien has the >same rights as a citizen? It doesn't.

Neither does a fetus, but tell that to a pro-life proponent.

> Oh, I'm sure HE was personally responsible for all the death penalty >murderers who met their fate in Texas, Yeah, Right! THose poor 'victims' >had nothing to do with it. And of course THEIR vicims are so soon >forgotten....

According to a summary posted to the Citizens United for Alternatives to the Death Penalty web site:

"Bush has even opposed simple safeguards like holding open meetings. The Texas governor has vetoed legislation which would have provided funding for basic indigent defense. He called that bill, which had bipartisan support, "a threat to public safety." Bush also opposed legislation instituting life without parole and banning the execution of people with IQ's less than 65. In general, he has been a leading spokesperson in favor of the death penalty.

As of 7:30pm EDT, December 7, 2000, 152 people have been executed during Bush's tenure as governor. This makes Texas Governor George W.
Bush the most-killing Governor, in the history of the United States of America.

Under the leadership of George W. Bush, Texas continues to rank dead last in virtually every social service area, yet first in executions.
Texas has some of the poorest funded programs to help the mentally ill (who account for a good number of the prison population). Bush's response to this dead last ranking was to insist that the legislature pass a $5 billion tax cut.

Bush has been steadfast in his refusal to recognize the significance of international treaty law, specifically the right of foreign nationals facing the death penalty to receive notification of their right to consular assistance. Texas has the second-largest death row population of foreign citizens in the USA (after California). None of these individuals were informed upon arrest of their right to consular assistance, as guaranteed under the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations. Even a personal intervention by the US Secretary of State (in the Faulder case) was ignored by Bush, undermining the viability of international law, outraging nations allied to the USA and endangering the human rights of detained foreigners everywhere, including American citizens arrested abroad.

Texas' criminal justice system as a whole is undoubtedly one of the worst in the nation. This is pointed out so clearly in the September 1999 issue of Harper's, in the Index:

"Number of death sentences upheld by Texas courts since 1990 for men whose lawyers slept during their trials: 3"

In a 1998 report entitled "Lethal Injustice", Amnesty International stated that "at every step in the death penalty process in Texas, a litany of grossly inadequate legal procedures fail to meet recognized minimum international standards for the protection of human rights."

A more recent article entitled "Death In Texas", in the July, 1999 edition of The Champion, Stephen B. Bright, Director of the Southern Center for Human Rights, details how the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals runs the fastest assembly line to the death chamber in the country.

Even more recently, two Texas agencies released reports on the practice of the death penalty in Texas. The Texas Defender Service Report, "A State of Denial: Texas Justice and the Death Penalty," can be downloaded by going to their web page and clicking on "Links and Resources." Also, The Texas Civil Rights Project issued an 87-page report on the death penalty in Texas. Check out "The Death Penalty in Texas: Due Process and Equal Justice or Rush to Execution, Regardless of Innocence.""

> When it comes to terrorists who ARE out to get us -you, too- and none >of them are American citizens, I have no problem with it. Why should >they have the right to come here with our destruction as their sole >intent and then be able to take advantage of our system of personal >rights to get off free just because of evidentiary weaknesses?

And what about those who are accused but not guilty? Should THEY be deprived of a fair trial too?

For that matter, what about American citizens overseas? If you feel it's acceptable that America is no longer willing to extend the same legal protections to foreign nationals that are available to our citizens, do you likewise feel it reasonable not to grant OUR citizens the same legal protections available to their own people in other nations?

>The OJ
>trial proved what jurys can all too easily do.

Sure. Return a not guilty verdict if they don't believe the case was proven. Off hand, I think that's a pretty good thing TO do. If a prosecutor wants a conviction, then he or she should HAVE to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. Is that so hard to accept?

>And it cuts both >ways...how would you like to be an Arab accused of terrorism standing >trial in New York? Think you'd stand a chance even if you were totally >innocent?

Given the legal protections our system provides, you'd have a lot better chance there than if you were tried by one of Bush's Star Chambers.

> And the Military Tribulans apply only to non-citizens, you will note.

Of course. If they tried (yet!) to apply such a rule to citizens, the entire law would be struck down by the SC as completely unconstitutional and the idiots who passed it would be guaranteed they would NOT be re-elected.

The problem is, all it does is states that unless you are an American citizen, you shouldn't be treated fairly by the system. What a wonderful message to send to the world--America the king of jingoism and ethnocentricism.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2507. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 22:43:51 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0568A7.EC1E305@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25504

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Is that what Thomas Jefferson did?
>
> Don't you know? At what point in his life did Uncle Thomas begin > referring to himself as a libertarian?

I don't know if he did or didn't but historians have classified him as a "civil libertarian" for hundreds of years. He certainly believed in liberating Americans from British rule and giving us as much personal freedom and protection from government as is feasible in a civilized society.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2508. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 22:46:45 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <662D1F38FD8521B2.9C2BBEC35A4DE6FD.444F1121565268AC@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25505

On 28 Nov 2001 06:36:57 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> That's patently untrue. Not all recruit, but many do. And you really >should know (I'm sure you do) that at certain states of adolescense >children are indeed recuitable, which can also seriously damage their >mental development. Now I'd wager you will come back with some indignant
>"officlal" prounouncement that will be as wrong is it is indignant.

No, I'll come back with a professional view that is accurate even if your personal homophobia refuses to allow you to accept it.

Homosexuals aren't "recruited" Larry--nearly all homosexuals freely state that they knew their orientation long before they ever reached puberty--or had their first exposure to sex. Homosexuality is as natural (albeit less common, for obvious reasons) as heterosexuality.

You seem to feel that all it takes is exposure to a homosexual for someone to be "recruited." Are you really that insecure in your own sexual identity, or do you just believe that no one else is a "capable" as you of resisting "temptation?"

Adolescents are NOT "recruitable" Larry, as ANY developmental psychologist would be glad to confirm.

Stick with your field of expertise, Larry, it's patently apparent you don't know anything about mine.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2509. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 22:48:18 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <08CE5ECF79BC3D2F.0BCF20E5D8A70ED9.62E1206000F0F72F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25506

On 28 Nov 2001 06:40:49 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

>And neither do I,nor HAVE I posted such bigoted accusatory statements, >as I havd been repeatedly accused by Rick and Cecil. They are just >looking for reason and occasion to be blatently accusatory. Both are >clearly possesed by delusions of grandeur.

The loss of memory that accompanies dementia is a bitch, isn't it Dickie?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2510. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 22:48:18 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0569B2.74EFE7A5@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25507

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Remember Dave is the guy who jumped down my throat for confusing
> > "church" with "Church". Too bad he doesn't practice what he > > preaches.
>
> Did you find the relevant part in your heavy dictionary yet?

Nope.

> Now about Kim's call, the only portion of this endless rant which > related to amateur radio...

And the only relevant question is: Does Kim have a right to choose a flavor of ice cream that you dislike?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2511. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 22:51:09 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C056A5D.7753E38C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25508

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > You are too ignorant to realize that you've already told me.
> > So be it.
>
> ...and your obsessive/compulsive side can't admit that no such thing has > taken place in this dimension or reality. You just don't get any help > from me in your search. On with your quest!

The odds that you eat pork are essentially equal to the odds that you will be alive tomorrow. That's all I need to know.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2512. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 22:53:24 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3A9E9F89D6731966.C86B3D6FCC3DBEC6.468B50D3F5B0566A@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25509

On 28 Nov 2001 12:11:23 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>>Technically, the US Congress could do exactly the same >>thing to our system anytime they chose to do so, provided they could >>garner sufficient votes, as the Nazis did.
>
>Yup. My point is that the Constitution is not an absolute protection, as Cecil >seems to think.

On the contrary--the ability to amend the Constitution is itself GOVERNED by the Constitution.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2513. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 22:54:39 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C056B2F.A8DDEA22@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25511

Dave Heil wrote:
> In this peculiar day in which we live, it isn't necessary to mutilate > children. We just wait until they are in their teens and they will pay > to have all sorts of parts tattooed or pierced.

You forgot about consent, Dave. Big difference.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2514. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 22:55:24 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <422D37777F11E919.EBA738ADB107A7A2.CF15F646E8890B0F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25510

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 10:16:01 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>> But (the Nazis) did so within the framework of their Constitution, >> not by force. Technically, the US Congress could do exactly the same >> thing to our system anytime they chose to do so, provided they could >> garner sufficient votes, as the Nazis did.
>
>Apparently, the President could do it with Executive Orders. Do >you think the President could disolve Congress with an Executive >Order?

No--because it isn't permitted by our Constitution. Some method of dissolving the legislative body (congress, parliament, etc.)
IS permitted by most Constitutions of democratic nations (i.e., the UK, etc.).

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2515. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 23:12:21 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C056F55.85F31BB@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25512

```
Rick Adams wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> >Apparently, the President could do it with Executive Orders. Do > >you think the President could disolve Congress with an Executive > >Order?
>
> No--because it isn't permitted by our Constitution.

Are Executive Orders permitted by our Constitution?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2516. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 23:18:38 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <96794E22F3372B39.3330EBBE6151D5EA.4D539B083D62D5FB@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25513

On 28 Nov 2001 16:48:54 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> I believe that better describes the true quality of that (those) >civilizatioins, or the lack of it, than any words could ever do.

But, of course, the United States leads the world in male circumcision.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2517. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 23:40:06 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <7E0EC1C16A081C82.C9C8456C86324EBA.47D4DEAA6C1687C6@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25514

On 28 Nov 2001 12:11:23 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>I think there is a precedent for Dubya's action. I understand that in WW2, >spies and saboteurs were handled that way - including some executions. The USA >was infiltrated more than once by well-trained German agents posing as >Americans. The idea is that nonuniformed foreigners acting in certain ways are >committing acts of war against the USA.

Close, but not quite.

The idea is that nonuniformed foreigners acting in certain ways on behalf of their government are committing acts of war against the USA. The key point is that they are acting as agents of their nation, not as individuals, terrorists, or just common criminals.

The trial of a spy or saboteur who is a citizen of the nation
he or she is acting for is treated as a military issue because a spy is conducting military operations on behalf of a government, and thus is considered to be acting in a military capacity. The trial of a terrorist, on the other hand, is--and should be--a criminal matter not a military one. There is no difference in principle, only in quantity of dead, between a person who goes on a shooting binge in a MacDonalds restaurant to "protest his plight" as a displaced worker and someone like ben Laden who plans and executes a crime that results in the death of thousands of innocent people. BOTH are criminals and treating them in the same manner we would treat a spy only grants them a status (as a loyal subject of a hostile nation) they don't deserve.

ALL terrorists should receive a fair trial--to do less simply states that the US can't convict a guilty person without recourse to unethical methods. We don't need a Star Chamber, we need public trials.

Bear in mind that while TODAY military tribunals are "supposed" to be used only in the case of terrorism, when they were created the RICO statutes were only to be used in the case of organized crime as well. Today, the RICO statutes are used in MANY other types of cases; there's simply no reason to expect military tribunals to be any different in the future themselves.

>>The Military Tribunals can't be appealed... even to the Supremes... Bush has >>usurped the Legislature AND... the Judiciary...
>>
>>Nice huh????
>
>I did not know that the even the Supremes could not be involved. A bit scary...

It's VERY scary--and far too close to the way the KGB operated at the height of the USSR for me.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2518. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-28 23:54:19 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9139C21ACB3AE35E.BC8D863AF966821E.ACFEC585B7CB7491@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25515

On 28 Nov 2001 16:45:43 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Yep, it happens on occasion. I guess you believe that is actual >homosexuality in animals just the same as humnans. You -and they- are to >be pitied.

It isn't belief, Dick, it's a fact as well proven as ohm's law.

> Cecil, I'm quite positive that I have been around far more animals of >most types than you. The only time I ever have observed anything that >could have been in any viewed as abberant sexual activity, other than a >very rare curious exhibition such as your neice's confused female dog, >was some monkeys in a zoo. In fact, I'm beginning to believe that you >and Rick belong in the zoo with them.

Dick, you've been around far more human beings than most people here (you're older). How many acts of homosexual sex have you personally observed? None? Gee, I guess that means there aren't any homosexual humans and those who believe there are are deluded fools, right?

It's too bad you aren't willing to accept scientific evidence for homosexuality in animals as willingly as you will accept it for electronics. You seem to feel that your _personal_ observations are much more "evidential" than the detailed observations and research of top scientific professionals.

I feel sorry for you, Dick, you're nothing but a bitter, angry, and opinionated old man who can't accept a new idea no matter how well it is demonstrated to be true.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2519. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:09:05 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <8098BCD92BEB4CD7.116D0D15C9B06F07.D0960E5D60AB4B05@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25516

On 28 Nov 2001 10:23:23 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Hmmm -- well, you'll have to excuse me, but as a person who is both >intelligent and educated, I must respectfully disagree. Homosexuals >do, in fact, attempt to "recruit" others -- young children in particular, >into their lifestyle. Have you ever read the book "Heather Has Two >Mommies?" I have. I found it to be nothing but an attempt to convince >young children that a homosexual relationship is just as normal as >a heterosexual one.

Oh, now I understand.

To you, recruitment is synonymous with acceptance. If someone encourages children to view homosexuals as normal (which science makes it completely clear they are), that person is "recruiting" them.

Do you have any idea how homophobic and prejudiced that statement is, Larry? No, I don't think you do. You're not CAPABLE of viewing anything from any perspective other than your own unscientific, moralistic, and self-righteous one.

>Then why do they believe that there needs to be more?

They don't believe there "needs to be more" Larry, they believe (correctly) that they have the right to the same acceptance by society that heterosexuals enjoy--and that children should be educated to understand that they are as normal as anyone else. THAT, not recruiting, is what fine books like "Heather Has Two Mommies" try to demonstrate.

>> As far as viewing their sexual preference as a "valid option,"
>>don't you view YOURS that way?
>
>Of course not. There is nothing "optional" about being a normal >heterosexual. It is the way God and nature intended for us to be;
>homosexuality is a deviation from the norm.

Take your religious arguments and ram them, Larry. I'm not superstitious, nor is science.

If you are going to debate an issue in a news group at least THEORETICALLY dedicated to people with an interest in science and technology (or do you think hams are not supposed to be scientific) at least have the respect for others in the news group to limit your arguments to facts instead of homophobic, superstitious, prejudice.

Homosexuality IS normal, Larry. That's demonstrated (among other ways) by the homosexual behavior observed commonly in the animal kingdom. It's about time you got off your self-righteous soap box and started at least PRETENDING to accept science. You CLAIM a good education--PROVE IT!

>>Why shouldn't a homosexual (who is as >>normal, by any reasonable scientific standard you care to name, as you >>are) feel the same?
>
>I'm sure they do; that doesn't make them right.

What makes YOU right--divine guidance?

You know, Larry, recent studies (cites on request) demonstrate that the greater the degree of homophobia in a man the more likely he is to be suppressing his own homosexuality. You're definitely more homophobic than most, and you ARE single . . .

Maybe you should make it a point to stay away from children yourself. After all, if you believe they shouldn't be exposed to homosexuals . . .

>I am not raising any children whatsoever, Rick. If I were, I'd be teaching >them that homosexuals are fellow human beings, who, unfortunately, >are confused about their sexual identity. I would teach them that >homosexuals are to be treated with the same human dignity anyone >else deserves, are not to be discriminated against in matters of >professional employment. However, I would warn them not to be >seduced by them, or even place themselves in a situation where that >could happen.

Just like you would warn your "woman" that she shouldn't be placed in a situation where she might end up talking with a man when you weren't present, right?

I can understand WHY you aren't raising any children, Larry.
Who would put up with you long enough to become pregnant in the first place--or trust you near her children if she did.

>I have known and worked with many homosexuals. I knew two >gay men who were civilian employees working for me when I was >stationed in England. One of them is now dead from AIDS. I mourn >the loss of his life, because aside from his sexual deviancy, he was >a basically good person. I don't understand what makes people >become homosexuals, but I can see from first-hand experience that >it is not the right way to live one's life. I cannot change my views >on this issue. We will have to agree to disagree.

Fine. You are entitled to your views. But don't keep claiming them to be facts--they aren't.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2520. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:15:16 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c057d36_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25519

"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message news:3C044F1C.3050706@att.net...
> Dick Carroll wrote:
>
>
> > Of course, all > > ancient writings are subject to the interpretations of today, and of > > course that is the major problem.
>
> Did you know that in olden (more enlightened) days tit was NOT considered
a > vulgar word? It's true... ;-)
>

It isn't today either, except for less enlightened persons :^ !!!!!

Kim W5TIT

> I guess certain usages, even today, are subject to interpretation. :^
>
> Rich
>

2521. Re: MORE TWISTEDHED the NUTTY CBER

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:17:06 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <7DA18F9749B0FD30.ACC2E8591B765D9E.C41133D55EC5843D@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25517

On 28 Nov 2001 02:00:09 -0800, keyclownslappa@hotmail.com
(IllegalCBersMustGO) wrote:

>I need to be busted. I tried and tried for so long but no dice. I bootlegged >all over 10, 11 and 12 meters. I ran power. I even said bad words on the >radio. When are you going to bust me? I NEED TO BE ARRESTED because then >you will put me in a nice psycho hospital where I can be free of the saucermen >who chase me and pinch my bum.

Give it up--according to the resident "experts" here the FCC has far more serious problems to consider--like Kim's call sign.
You'll just have to wait your turn.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2522. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:18:18 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c057dec_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25521

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9u1jg8$n5j$0@208.207.71.131...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > What the hell do you think > > > I'm talking about? Wiping out all Muslim women and children, just > > > because they're Muslim? Kindly show where I said anything even close
to > > > that, otherwise you are a senile old fool who can't get anything > > > striaght.
> >
> > You have said that every Muslim is a potential terrorist, Dick. You > > have said that Muslims have no choice except to kill Christians.
> > Exactly why would you be fomenting so much hatred of Muslims if you > > don't want them exterminated? You can't back down now. You have been > > advocating genocide.
> >
> > I, OTOH, recognize that Muslim terrorists are a small fraction of > > one percent of Muslims. I say go after the terrorists, not the > > rest of the one billion Muslims who are peaceful and law-abiding.
>
>
> Ok, let's use your figures. If one tenth of one percent of the world/s
> 1.25 BILLION muslims are Islamic fundamentalist terrorists, that's > 1,250,000 terrorists, if my calculator functioned correctly. Still think > it's no problem?
>
> I DID say that based on the fundamental teachings of Islam, every > Muslim is a potential terrorist in that it is almost certaian that he > will be forced to make a choice-follow his religious teachings and > leaders, or reject them. In countries where fundamentalist Islam is not > only the religion but the law as well, asking a Muslim to reject his > religion can easily be fatal. At the least, it will cause him huge > amounts of personal problems and grief.

Dick, do you (or have you ever) gotten as upset over the tyranny, bigotry, and inhumanity of racists in this country (the United States). If it is sheer numbers that are your motivation for being upset, the total sum of people who have been killed by racists is not immediately realized, but is considerable, nevertheless.

You certainly have more power to affect change in this country.

Kim W5TIT

2523. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:19:18 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <8E652C914AC9DE8B.07736F7C12A4B9D5.C49E7F10B3D59475@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25518

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 19:32:06 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Don't you know? At what point in his life did Uncle Thomas begin >referring to himself as a libertarian? Remember in his quarrel with >Hamilton how he shouted, "Just shut the (expletive deleted) up, Al!"?

He STRONGLY supported the views of John Locke, Dave. And Locke, by _any_ definition, was a libertarian.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2524. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:19:46 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c057e44$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25522

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9u1jub$o49$0@208.207.71.131...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > You really don't get it, do you? I wouldn't say it's universal across > > > all species, but generally animals have no awareness of sex, ...
> >
> > Dick, consciousness makes animals aware of sex. You do believe that > > animals are conscious, don't you? You are the only exception I know > > to animals being conscious.
>
>
> Cecil, it's you that is unconscious. All the animals I have ever been > around > or read about had no interest in sex whatever until the female was in > estrus.
> I think there may be some other primates,some monkey species, for which > that may not be true, but even the large apes don't go ape over sex like > humans do.

Uh, like human males do.

Kim W5TIT

2525. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:21:51 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c057ec2_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25523

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9u1k19$o9f$0@208.207.71.131...
>
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> > news:20011125232030.25429.00003455@nso-fc.aol.com...
> > > In article <3c013ca4_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
> > writes:
> > >
> > > >> If the selection was limited to the likes of you I wouldn't be,
either.
> > > >
> > > >Oh, believe me, you have that right.
> > > >
> > > >Kim W5TIT
> > >
> > > Yes, Kim, Dick did, indeed, have that right!
> > >
> > > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> > >
> >
> > Is there an echo online? Of course he has that right. There is NO way in > > Hell I'd find him attractive to the likes of me! For once, you're both > > right.
> >
>
> Much more accurately, you'd never get the opportunity.

I don't know how to say it more clearly: again, you are right. I would not get the opportunity because men like you and Larry would barely, even if, get a notice from me. But, in this case, I wouldn't say it was a missed opportunity, either.

Kim W5TIT

2526. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:22:34 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9704B7BB3E91CC7A.50C49C93937E4CD5.392392A65D851490@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25520

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 19:29:11 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Now instead of voting for the "Libertarian Party" candidate, you'll have >to search for a "libertarian Party" candidate.

And since there's no such thing as a "libertarian Party" I guess that means that your views on libertarians are a bit "off," doesn't it?

>Now about Kim's call, the only portion of this endless rant which >related to amateur radio...

What about her call sign, Dave? Have anything new to add to the thread on the topic, or just a repeat of the same statements once again?

Rick
--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2527. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:23:00 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c057f06$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25525

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9u1khaplm0@208.207.71.131...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > >
> > > K0HB wrote:
> > > > Terroristic activity in the name of religion (Christianity) has been > > > > going on in Northern Ireland for decades too -- and BOTH sides claim
> > > > a different flavor of Christianity as their motivation.
> > >
> > > Ah, Yes, dear old Homeland. But only a blip on the radar beside Islamic
> > > fundamentalist terrorism, as demonstrated by longtime activities > > > culminating at the World Trade Center.
> >
> > So murders in Ireland are only a blip on the radar? You say some > > astounding things, Dick. Dead Irish people are just as dead as > > dead American people.
>
>
> So far I haven't been apprised of any atrocity connected with the Irish > Troubles of anywhere the magnitude of Sept 11. Have you? But then, > you're the igno that equates a 6000 year old passage in the Old > Testament with modern religous practice.

So, you measure in terms of numbers of people killed. Would that be in 10 minutes; 15 minutes; a month; year? What?

Kim W5TIT

2528. Re: Bigotry in the ARS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:25:32 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c057f9f_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25526

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9u1ks5$qt1$0@208.207.71.131...
>
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Jeff:
> >
> > I know you're smarter than that. The percentage of any measurement can only > > be made against the field sampled. Of the ham radio operators I listen
to > > in the Dallas area, I'd say at least 50% of them are prejudiced or bigots.
> >
>
> Great. So you listen to two, and one is such.
>
>
>
>
> > Your example would even be "OK" if we knew, of those 600,000, how many don't > > even operate.
> >
> > Experience is that a tremendous amount of bigotry, racism, and sexism "seem"
> > (note the operative word there) to be prevalent in ham radio.
>
>
> And your vast experience probably includes that two hams mentioned > above.
> If yoiu'd just avoid the lunatic fringe,
>

Dick. You are the lunatic fringe.

Kim W5TIT

>
> which is found most everywhere
> in this enlightened day where people liky you and Rick are so openminded > the wind blows through, you wouldn't have any worries. There are very > few bigots in ham radio.

Not in my experience. Are you speaking for me now, Dick? Good Lord, I hope not. I have feelings for fellow humans.

>
> On the other hand there is a growing number of airheads like you Rick > and Cecil.

Your so cliche.

Kim W5TIT

2529. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:26:52 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c057fee_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25527

"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message
news:3C045913.4090700@att.net...
> Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> >
> >>Dick Carroll wrote:
> >>
> >>>K0HB wrote:
> >>>
> >>>>Terroristic activity in the name of religion (Christianity) has been > >>>>going on in Northern Ireland for decades too -- and BOTH sides claim > >>>>a different flavor of Christianity as their motivation.
> >>>>
> >>> Ah, Yes, dear old Homeland. But only a blip on the radar beside Islamic
> >>>fundamentalist terrorism, as demonstrated by longtime activities > >>>culminating at the World Trade Center.
> >>>
> >>So murders in Ireland are only a blip on the radar? You say some > >>astounding things, Dick. Dead Irish people are just as dead as > >>dead American people.
> >>
> >
> >
> > So far I haven't been apprised of any atrocity connected with the Irish
> > Troubles of anywhere the magnitude of Sept 11. Have you? But then, > > you're the igno that equates a 6000 year old passage in the Old > > Testament with modern religous practice.
> >
>
> Ah... Carroll... from 1984 to 2000 around 10,000 people have died at the hands > of the PKK... about 5500 Guards and 4500 citizens.
>
> Do you consider that trivial? Or should we just ignore it?
>
> Rich
>
> Now this is where you do some more of your name-calling... you... you...
you...
> name-caller.... :P

>

BUT, those people didn't die in the timeframe that Dick has all premeasured out as the gauge for measurement of whether something is worth his time or not...you see.

Kim W5TIT

2530. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:27:08 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <8353F4BBF3D0E86D.0F7798354C26A824.189A6E1DE298A169@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25524

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 16:48:18 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>And the only relevant question is: Does Kim have a right to choose >a flavor of ice cream that you dislike?

Not according to some of the people here. She might choose chocolate, which is brown in color, which is the color of African-Americans, which means she would be choosing violence and crime. Or, she might choose rainbow, which is the symbol of diversity, which includes homosexuals, which means she would be choosing to recruit our teenagers to a deviant lifestyle. And she CERTAINLY doesn't have the right to choose ANY flavor if the counter clerk is male and her husband isn't present so she can speak to him to place her order.

You have to remember where you are posting, Cecil. Here
NOTHING is a right unless the God Squad says it is.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2531. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:28:43 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c05805d_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 25528

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:9u1ljjsmr0@208.207.71.131...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> > > > Well just for THE RECORD Mohammad considered and discounted Jesus long > > > > before his own death, and proclaimed himself to be the Final Prophet,
> > > > which remains Muslim doctrine to this day.
> > >
> > > Uh huh. Yeah. And, exactly, what book are you reading that from?
> >
> > Dick is reading stuff from radical Christian terrorist web pages.
>
>
> Must have missed those. Where did you find them on the web>
>
>
> > In reality, Mohammed considered Jesus to be a great prophet although > > somewhat misguided with the turn-the-other-cheek stuff.
>
> Nonsense. He rejected Chistianity as idolistic since Christians of the > time showed what he interpreted to be idolistic adoration of Mary,
> mother of Jesus.
> He thought that Christians were thus polytheistic, and he stated that > was against the true teachigns of the one Allah.

OK, forgive me, Dick. But "polytheistic" and "idolistic" are words way too big for you. You even spelled them correctly. What book are you getting your information from, because you couldn't think that up all by yourself.

Kim W5TIT

2532. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:40:52 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <C22D976A5D73DC4F.64383BF34BF54216.57B8A50025153BD9@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25529

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 19:15:01 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>Rick comes across like a '60s radical with a real job but unchanged >political views.

Thank you--that's the first half-way accurate portrayal of my values I've seen you make.

I _am_ a sixties radical--I was a freedom rider (and spent time in Southern jails for my civil rights activities), a staunch supporter of women's rights, gay rights, and human rights in general, an antiwar activist and member of Vietnam Veterans against the War, the Vietnam Day Committee, and other such organizations, and I'm a life long opponent of domestic violence, child abuse (I was a severely abused child personally, and left home on my 13th birthday to avoid further broken bones and burns--I've lived on my own ever since), and censorship.

If you find those offensive "credentials" I'm perfectly willing to accept that opinion. At least it will be based on an accurate picture of my values.

>I don't believe that there is anything which will >convince him that his skewed views run counter to the mainstream but it >is fun to watch him rail against the system, the country and mainstream >morality and religion. I haven't called for him to desist and I don't >remember that you have.

It's easy to convince me that my views run counter to the mainstream Dave, just provide solid evidence (backed by citations) that demonstrates how the mainstream feel on the same issues.

Convincing me that my views are counter to the mainstream morality and religion doesn't make them wrong, however, merely a minority view. Mainstream morality is, essentially, based on Christian morality and in order to convince me that it is a valid source for moral values you would first need to provide proof that Christianity is more than a system of belief shared by a number of people with no more basis in fact than the beliefs of Buddhists, Hindus, Wiccans, or Satanists for that matter. I have no obligation whatever to share the moral values of a religion to which I do not subscribe, any more than you have an obligation to subscribe to the moral values of the Native American Church or the Communist Party of the People's Republic of China.

I don't ask that you accept my values and views, Dave. Only that you give them the same respect with which you expect your own to be treated.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2533. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:44:33 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3F47D6AE886AD775.48819D7BDC99D628.902A9B03033BDA6E@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25530

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 17:12:21 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Are Executive Orders permitted by our Constitution?

It depends on their nature, Cecil. The Executive Branch of government has certain Constitutional responsibilities and privileges and the Executive Order can be--but is not necessarily--included in those privileges.

Of course, since we have a President who wasn't even elected according to the Constitution (after the Florida fraud was finally corrected and the votes counted recently it was announced that Gore carried the state--and therefore garnered the greater number of electoral votes), why should his orders be any different?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2534. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:48:41 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0585E9.75149B87@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25532

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote:
> > Did you know that in olden (more enlightened) days tit was NOT considered > > a vulgar word? It's true... ;-)
>
> It isn't today either, except for less enlightened persons :^ !!!!!

You've got to realize what the dictionary means when it says a word is vulgar. From Webster's: "vulgar - of or relating to the common people"
Seems to me it is the elite holier-than-thou class that has the problem.
I don't mind being in a group of common people, do you Kim? Common people have a lot more fun than the stuffed shirt elite extra class. :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2535. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:50:12 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <95E856B3D8BCC612.4B28D25D78F3F4C3.60A0347A0365868E@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25531

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 19:23:06 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>In this peculiar day in which we live, it isn't necessary to mutilate >children. We just wait until they are in their teens and they will pay >to have all sorts of parts tattooed or pierced.

Heck, Dave, that isn't a recent development. I have a pierced left ear (with a 3/4 carat diamond that is a mate to the one in my wife's engagement ring in it) and a tattoo (USN, if it matters)--both of which are VERY common in my generation--and I was born in 1945!

Of course, I don't have any piercings in my face (earlobe excepted), mouth, nipples, or genitals as so many younger people have--but that's purely a matter of fashion (and a dislike for discomfort--I can't imagine eating with a barbell through my tongue or lip, and as for a Prince Albert--OUCH!), not a fundamental difference.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2536. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:53:16 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C0586FC.7C9D5D25@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25533

Rick Adams wrote:
> It's VERY scary--and far too close to the way the KGB operated
> at the height of the USSR for me.

I once read a book titled, "It Could Happen Here". The "It" is fascism. Looks like we are on our way. Democrats take us toward socialism and Republicans take us toward fascism.
Either way we lose.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2537. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:55:18 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C058776.D25DDE29@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25534

Rick Adams wrote:
> I feel sorry for you, Dick, you're nothing but a bitter,
> angry, and opinionated old man who can't accept a new idea no matter > how well it is demonstrated to be true.

Reckon Dick doesn't believe in electromagnetic RF waves because he has never seen any?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2538. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 00:59:19 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <E4684FD6B380054B.A45B3E3B5DF4E9B0.F53F34FEBDB70EB6@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25535

On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 12:57:31 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Is a humnan anything like a hummer? Is that your species? Certainly >that is an example of homosexuality in dogs. And no, dogs are not >the same as humans. I'm surprised you would think such a thing.

True. Dogs are usually pretty loyal and accepting (and I'm a cat person!).

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2539. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 01:02:56 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011128200256.23334.00000986@nso-da.aol.com>
Source record: 25536

In article <3C04F475.4080603@att.net>, Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>
> > I would say that the routine nonreversible mutilation of any human without > > their consent is pretty barabic.
>
>I wouldn't say that... (pretty isn't an adverb)... ;-)

Let me rephrase:

The routine nonreversible mutilation of any human without their consent is a serious violation of that person's rights.
>
>I would leave out all those qualifiers and say...
>
>The mutilation of any human is unequivocably barabic.
>
>...and yet, strangely, these hings happen in many 'civilizations'...
>
That would include tattoos, Rich.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2540. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 01:29:21 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <RbgN7.240127$W8.8354826@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 25537

"Rick Adams" wrote in message

> Bear in mind that while TODAY military tribunals are
> "supposed" to be used only in the case of terrorism, when they were > created the RICO statutes were only to be used in the case of > organized crime as well. Today, the RICO statutes are used in MANY > other types of cases; there's simply no reason to expect military > tribunals to be any different in the future themselves.

Thanks you just solved my problem... Microsoft should be charged under RICO... that would get them more than a 'slap on the hand'.... ;-)

Rich

2541. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 01:39:59 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <PlgN7.240138$W8.8356018@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 25538

"N2EY" wrote

> Let me rephrase:
>
> The routine nonreversible mutilation of any human without their consent is a > serious violation of that person's rights.

That's fine... just didn't go quite far enough... but that'll do... ;-)

> That would include tattoos, Rich.

I don't have any tatoos or body piercing either...
Hell... I don't even like to wear a ring...

Rich

2542. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 01:41:01 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011128204101.08355.00003715@nso-mq.aol.com>
Source record: 25539

In article <3c0300ce_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>Larry:
>
>The word tit is not offensive to scores of women I know, and I probably have >known far more than you. I know of no woman who refers to her tops as >breasts or mammaries. We all call them tits. We call all you guys' thangs >dicks.

Tugboat Annie:

I'm sure that you and your fellow broads down at the trailer park use all the standard vulgarities. How charming!

>> This term is used when one >> intends to deliberately demean and depersonalize a woman through >> the reference to secondary sexual characteristics which the viewer >> finds attractive, in exception to or exclusion of all of the other >personal >> qualities she possesses as a woman, and as a human being.
>>
>
>Where do you come up with your Puritan crap? No wonder you think the word >tit (which, by the way is not my callsign, my callsign is W5TIT, >phonetically Whiskey Five Tango India Tango) is offensive!

Your callsign spells out the word "tit," which is a vulgar slang expression referring to a woman's breasts, specifically, your own. You chose this Vanity call sign with and for the specific purpose of calling attention to your own breasts, which you obviously consider to be particularly noteworthy for some reason. You did this in order to evoke purient interest in male hams, thus hopefully giving you some sort of power over them, and increasing the amount of attention you receive from them. You had no other purpose in mind when you choose this call sign.

>Could you please
>'splain to me what "secondary sexual characteristics" tits can have? Tits >serve two purposes. They can nurse babies or men, or woman if the owner of >the tits is prone to that persuasion. We have to cover our tits and you men >have to cover your dicks. Know why? They "mean" sex to many people. I >know of no primary purpose for tits other than nursing and sex. So, if >there's no primary, what is your definition of a "secondary sexual >characteristic"?

A secondary sexual characteristic is one which is not directly involved in the physical act of reproduction. They are physical characteristics related to the physical differences characteristic of the sex of the person who possesses them. In women, this would include wider hips, larger breasts, a softer, more fair complexion, and other secondary traits not directly related to the creation of a child. In men it involves attributes such as stronger muscle tone, facial hair, a deeper voice, etc. Our "secondary" sexual characteristics are those which reveal the more outward aspect of our sexual identity, and which are the basis of our attractiveness to the opposite sex.

>> Most
>> modern women are personally offended by those who judge and value
>> her primarily for the size, shape, and general attractiveness of her >> breasts.
>>
>
>Uh, Larry. What the Hell would you know about a modern woman? Puhleeze.

Apparently, a lot more than you do, "Annie."

>You're still looking for some virgin who believes that her man should tell >her how to live!

Not hardly.

>> Men who do this are quite rightly criticized for this, yet you
>> not only deliberately encourage such behavior, you actively solicit it >> through your selection of a callsign.
>>
>
>And I think whomever criticizes a man or woman for calling a spade a spade >or a tit a tit is looking for far more attention than I have time to give!
>I am not soliciting a damned thing from anyone, Larry. I call my tits >tits and always have. I call my, well....never mind. Just be glad I don't >have the callsign W5PSY.

Kim -- if your callsign were W5PSY, we wouldn't be having this discussion!

>> In so doing, you not only bring
>> the ARS ".one step closer to extinction," you also set back all the >> societal gains made by women in the last century, and bring about a >> return to their objectification as mere sexual playthings. Is that >> really how you see yourself?

>Nope. I don't see myself that way, Larry. Only people like you are capable >of such arrogance. I don't think I have the slightest bit of power you >relay to me. We women are mere playthings, always have been and always will >be. That's why we are so darned good at everything else we do. We do it >well and we can still come home and "take care" of our man. But, now >we're on a subject to which you cannot relate, and is so far beyond your >reach that you have to dream up ways to have power over women. Ha!

Kim -- having "power" over women is not, and never has been, a personal goal of mine. I prefer women I can relate to as equals, without having to engage in any tiresome "power struggle" with them. It is YOU who seek the "power" you can derive from the attention-getter call sign you have chosen -- and for you to claim anything else is an obvious lie. However, your lack of integrity is well known in this newsgroup, and probably everywhere else.

73 de Larry, K3LT

2543. Re: Dropping the code.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 02:38:49 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c059ec4.11907776@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 25540

On 28 Nov 2001 12:32:12 -0800, uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org (Sean G Gilley)
wrote:

>"Bob - KE4JCD" <ke4jcd@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:<8yUL7.113107$Yb.28227333@typhoon.tampabay.rr.com>...
>> As you said "I haven't seen such "droves" in my area." Well the CODE TEST >> hasn't been dropped yet. People I talk to all say much of the same thing,
>> The CODE is stopping them and when its gone so will HAM RADIO! CBers will >> come in droves and as I have on my website, BAD HABITS!
>
>So argue for harder tests. I guarentee that if code is stopping them, >they won't be upgrading to AE. Not with the current test, at least.
>It's too much work to learn that test. The key is to make the test difficult >enough that it takes effort to pass it. Doesn't matter whether it's >a code test or a written test. If it takes time and effort to pass it, >it's too much work.

Well said, and consider also...
The CBers, if they were to "come in droves" have nothing stopping them now because we have had a code free license for over 10 years. There's nothing a CBer can legally do on CB that they can't do with a tech license.
Now there are certainly some illegal CBers that operate high power, but that isn't worth much given the lousy nighttime propogation of 11 meters...so why would those illegals come anyway even after the end of all morse testing?

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

2544. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 03:42:02 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4aqapua0@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25541

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 28 Nov 2001 04:54:30 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > Dick has made it very clear that he > >> intends to keep this thread alive (with a subject line that is > >> DIRECTLY related to Kim) until she changes her call sign. THAT, Jim, > >> is an attempt to force her to act against her will, and it is wrong
> >> from ANY moral perspective.
> >
> > OK, so you now have earned the title of Professor Bullshit Squared.
>
> Do you deny stating that you intend to keep the thread going,
> Dick?

I certainly do deny saying that. Show the post-you can't because it doesn't exist. I made my comment, and that would have been the end of it if not for verbal assaaults by you and Cecil.

>
> >> If this discussion was, as you claim, directed to the generic > >> topic of whether certain call signs are good or bad for the image of > >> the ARS, Kim's sign would be mentioned no more than any other that was > >> found in the callbook and was considered inappropriate by anyone. That > >> is patently not the case.
> >
> > You are patently full of it up to your eyebrows.
>
> Why--because I disagree with you?

By no means. Simply becaus you ARE.

2545. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 03:44:36 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4av4pua1@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25542

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > You know about multiple personalities, all aright. It's reality you have > > problems with.
>
> Sometimes, Dick, but not this time. I advocated neutralizing the > terrorists. You advocated neutralizing the Islamics, presumably > all one billion of them. Exactly what actions do you propose to > take against one billion Muslims, Dick? Please be specific.

It is impossible to be specific on a subject that I did not and do not advocate at all. All that verbige is strictly YOURS. You explain it. What I intend to do is be careful, and as national authorities have continuously suggested, if I see something that appears amiss I'll call the cops.

2546. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 03:46:21 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4b2dpua2@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25543

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > Cecil has no clue.
>
> Are we talking about commercial radio licenses, Executive Orders, > or what?

We are talking about the only way that a General class ham radio license could ever legally obtain an Extra class license without any further examination.

2547. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 03:47:22 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4b4apua3@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25544

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 12:50:29 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
> wrote:
>
> >Are we talking about commercial radio licenses, Executive Orders, > >or what?
>
> Didn't they pass a rule that anyone that was licensed during > the first three years of the ARS received an automatic upgrade to > Extra on his 100th birthday?

See Dave? They don't know everything, after all.

2548. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 03:52:26 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4bdq$r3k$0@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25545

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > Ah...Plourde, do you see anywhere that I said it was trivial?
>
> You certainly implied it. Maybe you should be more careful > with your words, Dick. Everyone seems to be misunderstanding
> what you are trying to say.

And when I "interpret" something you say, you slam me for reading between the lines. Your usual double standard, we see.

2549. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 03:55:47 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4bk3$r3k$1@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25546

CAM wrote:
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > So far I haven't been apprised of any atrocity connected with the Irish > > Troubles of anywhere the magnitude of Sept 11. Have you?
>
> Exactly how many people have to be murdered for it to matter to > you, Dick?

There you go again, reading words I didn't even think, and certainly didn;t write.

A dead Irish victim is just as dead as a dead
> American victim.

No joke.

The Oklahoma City bombing victims are just > as dead as the WTC victims. Tim McVee was a Christian.

Why
> aren't you badmouthing all Christians?

I'm not even badmouthing Muslims, you imbecile, I'm showing that I have learned to be very wary of their enigmatic religion.

2550. Re: Whats the deal?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 03:58:55 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4bpv$r3k$2@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25547

Chuck wrote:
>
> I cme ot this new group in hopes of finding out intereting tid bits of Ham > Radio Policy. What goes here?, not one posting about policy. Either my > computer is goofed or you poeple are just enraged with one another.

Chuck there are a few simpleminded assholes named Cecil, Rick, Plourge or some such, and Kim whose entire life support system revolves around stirring the pot here on this group. They do it by constantly "inteerpreting" what other posters say and lying repeatedly in the process. Don't worry, they haven't a clue.

2551. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:01:25 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4bul$r3k$3@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25548

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 28 Nov 2001 05:11:56 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > He could to, and is.
>
> Too bad your memory is so weak, Dick. YOU were part of the > discussion here when I DID take the test--and you even made comments > (sarcastic ones, as I recall) when I mentioned here that I'd just > passed my 20WPM.
>
> As one of your idols (Dan Qayle) said: "What a terrible thing > it is to lose one's mind--or never to have had one before." I'm sure > you can relate to that.

After all the repartee here with you, Cecil, Kim and Poodle Plourge I surely can.

2552. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:08:35 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4cc3$16m$0@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25549

CAM wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > Well just for THE RECORD Mohammad considered and discounted Jesus long > > > before his own death, and proclaimed himself to be the Final Prophet, > > > which remains Muslim doctrine to this day.
> >
> > I first learned about Jesus' standing in the Muslim faith when I saw > > a picture of him on the wall of a mosque in Istanbul. If what you say > > is true, that seems to he a fairly prominent place to display a > > picture of someone who had been dismissed by Mohammed.
>
> Contrary to Dick's ignorant postings, here's what Muslims believe > about Jesus.
>
> "Many non-Muslims are surprised to find out that according to Muslim > belief, Jesus, the son of Mary, is one of the greatest messengers of > God.

Makes nice press and for nominally better relations with Christians, which they surely need. But skips the main point- Muslims believe that Mohammed was the last and true prophet. He trumps Jesus in every possible point. All that is eyewash.

Muslims are taught to love Jesus, and a person cannot be a Muslim > without believing in the virgin birth and miracles of Jesus Christ, > peace be upon him.

Nope. Mohammed himself believed that the adoration shown to Mary was indicative of worhip of her as a deity, thus showing a polytheism that he believed to be the equivalent of earlier multiple idolitry practiced by arabs before Mohammed's own vision, prior to his becoming the prophet. Thus he rejected Jesul on principle.
Now it is always possible that later Muslim scholars revised this concept in the Koran. I haven'e read it carefully line for line, so I cannot say that such does not appear, but if it is there, I missed it.

2553. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:09:22 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4cdi$16o$0@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25550

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> > news:9u1hi7$i5b$0@208.207.71.131...
> > >
> > >
> > > Krell wrote:
> > > >
> > > > "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> > > > news:20011125232032.25429.00003458@nso-fc.aol.com...
> > > > > What I do recall about the film is that the best set of breasts I saw > > > > > was on the girl I was with!
> > > > >
> > > > > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> > > >
> > > > Yet, you don't think it's right for a word meaning "breasts" to be > > viewed by
> > > > the rest of the world via an amateur callsign. What a hypocrite!
> > >
> > >
> > > "Tits" is and has long been considered a vulgar expression. Breasts is
> > > not.
> > > What an idiot!
> >
> > Oh really? "Tits" is vulgar, eh? Then, you'd better put some kind of > > protective suit on, because most women refer to their "breasts" as tits.
> > And, most women refer to a bra as a tit-sling. But, hopefully, you've never > > been in the restrooms or locker rooms I've been in. Come to think of it, if > > you believe that "tits" is vulgar, you'd probably faint dead away in a > > women's restroom or locker room.
>
> Just who is it you are hanging out with, Kim--a roller derby team?

More likely the Dallas Cowgirls locker room.
```

2554. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:10:30 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4cfm$16o$1@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25551

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> news:9u1hi7$i5b$0@208.207.71.131...
> > > Yet, you don't think it's right for a word meaning "breasts" to be > viewed by
> > > the rest of the world via an amateur callsign. What a hypocrite!
> >
> >
> > "Tits" is and has long been considered a vulgar expression. Breasts is
> > not.
> > What an idiot!
>
> It's only vulgar if you allow it to be so.

Kindly inform us as to how to prevent it, when ladies or children are present who instinctively view it as such.

2555. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:12:30 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4cje$16o$2@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25552

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 28 Nov 2001 01:59:29 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
> wrote:
>
> >Yup. I believe that instead of Kim being so preoccupied with what > >she has hanging off of her chest, she should be more worried about > >what she is missing between her ears!
>
> Larry, has it occurred to you that it isn't Kim who is > demonstrating here that she is preoccupied by her tits--it's you, > Dave, and Dickie?

I guers it flew right between your ears with the wind, but it was Kim who chose that callsign to go with the gabonzas.

2556. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:16:13 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4cqd$2i7$0@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25553

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 28 Nov 2001 02:21:10 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:
>
> > You once again come out with an oxymoron, you moron. The majority makes > >the rules/laws. Remember "Majority rule, minority rights"? From Polysci > >101
>
> I don't--and I _teach_ PLS101 classes!
>

Then you don't teach Political Science. You teach some radical BS just as I would expect from you.

2557. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:17:01 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4crt$2i7$1@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25554

Rick Adams wrote:
>
>
> Majority rule CAN mean Tyranny of the Majority, Dickie. Simply > because the "majority" want something does NOT make it either "right"
> or appropriate.

Sure as hell makes it legal and proper, though.

2558. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:20:22 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4d26$3dt$0@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25555

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 01:38:34 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Let's set the record straight. Most of us can see the difference > >between the Civil Rights movement and the libertarian line. That's why > >the U.S. has a Civil Rights Act and why the U.S. hasn't had a > >Libertarian President.
>
> Dave, you can't even see the difference between a Libertarian
> (a member of the Libertarian political party) and a libertarian (one > who adheres to a policy of liberty).

And the ONLY difference is in the small mind of one would attempt to draw a distinction.

2559. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:29:44 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011128232944.08355.00003721@nso-mq.aol.com>
Source record: 25557

In article <3C050645.1E92F970@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> In fact, the majority would seem to support Kim.
>
>That should tell you something, Larry.

Cecil:

Just something I already knew -- that low personal standards are the norm these days. Nothing new here. I just don't go along with the crowd -- I'm truly my own person.

73 de Larry, K3LT

2560. Re: Contest idea, work all your own suffix

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:29:44 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011128232944.08355.00003720@nso-mq.aol.com>
Source record: 25558

In article <20011127080747.09918.00002041@mb-da.aol.com>, k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ) writes:

>
> Hey Larry....WR2F has been reissued. Maybe you can STILL work them all!
>I
>hope to work KC8M someday!1
>

Steve:

I know about WR2F being re-issued -- I sent Jeff one each of my old WR2F QSL/eyeball cards, and gave him a bit of "history" on that call. I'm glad it went to another Pre-Restructuring CW operator! What I can't figure out is why my old General call -- N3CRA -- hasn't been snapped up! I've considered going back to it, but I like K3LT and it works great on CW.

73 de Larry, K3LT
Ex: KA3HXE, N3CRA, DA1RZ, DA1ZW, AFA7LR, WR2F, G0LYW

2561. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:29:45 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4djp$4uq$0@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25556

CAM wrote:

Does Kim have a right to choose > a flavor of ice cream that you dislike?

Sure. She can even rename it Tits if she wants. Doesn't mean it's appropriate.

2562. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:31:14 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011128233114.08355.00003722@nso-mq.aol.com>
Source record: 25559

In article <3C0537B6.E4480D24@earthlink.net>, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
writes:

>
>I don't recall demanding that Kim "shut the (expletive deleted) up" >though I have to admit that I might have wished she would on occasion.
>Rick comes across like a '60s radical with a real job but unchanged >political views. I don't believe that there is anything which will >convince him that his skewed views run counter to the mainstream but it >is fun to watch him rail against the system, the country and mainstream >morality and religion. I haven't called for him to desist and I don't >remember that you have.
>
>Dave K8MN

Dave:

Yup. You know you are dealing with a liberal because after about two minutes worth of debate, they tell you to shut up. Makes you wonder how they'd react if the got what they really wanted -- a society run under a socialist, totalitarian, dictatorial government?
Of course, they reckon they'd be a part of the elite ruling class, but in reality, would be mere voiceless supernumeraries required to tow a very narrowly defined line, or get the carpet pulled out from under them! But, I enjoy liberals -- they provide comic relief, and serve to reinforce my love for the true freedom upon which this nation is based. I'm willing to fight to defend that freedom, and have sacrificed the best years of my adult life working to make that defense a reality. I just wonder if Professor Adams would defend the motivation to sacrifice that my fellow Veterans and I understand and consider to be our obligation in return for the privilege of living in a free society? Anyway, he gets to be what and who he is, and whether he likes it or not, so do we. God Bless America!

73 de Larry, K3LT

2563. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:31:34 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C05BA26.55C0ED0B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25560

```
Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> I'm truly my own person.

Yeah, cuz nobody else wants you. :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2564. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:34:03 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C05BA9F.180617CE@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25561

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 06:12:35 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >I don't. You did. The kids didn't have an opportunity to consent.
>
> Did your kids have the opportunity to consent to religious > exposure before you stated teaching them about Christianity?

It is interesting to see you write a comparison between Christianity or another religion with your cursing. I'm sure that you are able to rationalize the comparison in some manner.

> Mine was only exposed to the real world (and I _don't_ use > that type of language frequently). Yours was/were exposed to > brainwashing and superstition. Neither consented. I wonder which of us > harmed our kids more?

I don't have a single doubt about it.

> >> Opinion. Some people express certain thoughts more accurately > >> using such terms, others don't.
> >
> >You don't.
>
> You're right--which is why I seldom use them instead of more > precise terms.
>
> >> My use of the English language?
> >
> >Is that the conclusion that you drew from my statement?
>
> It's the view you presented in your statement.

No, it is only the conclusion which you drew from my statement.

> >> Never claimed to be tranquil either. OR a "large "L"
> >> Libertarian--just a libertarian.
> >
> >And the libertarian's idea of freedom is to tell someone to shut the > >bleep up? Keep working on the Buddhist thing.
>
> Why?

If it is necessary to ask, you aren't there yet.

> You have the right to tell _me_ to shut up as well. The > libertarian idea of freedom includes free speech, including the right > to express your views--and if that view is that the person you are > communicating with should "shut up" then you have every right to > express it, just not to enforce it.

Oh, so you really didn't mean it? According to you, I have the right to tell you shut up (but I used restraint instead). I have the right to add the expletives (but I've used restraint). I used my free speech to write what I think about Kim's choice of calls. You've tried to tell me that I shouldn't do that. That cuts across the grain of your libertarian philosophy. It appears that it is your right to free speech...but not mine.

> I don't need to work on the "Buddhist thing" Dave, I never > claimed to be a practicing Buddhist--I accept Buddhist philosophy but > not Buddhist religious practices (which, btw, is a perfectly > acceptable perspective in Buddhism, even though it wouldn't be in > Christianity). On the other hand, several people here present > themselves as Christians (including you, Dick, Larry, and others). Try > working on your OWN religious behavior before you criticize that of > others (motes and beams, remember?). Your religion teaches tolerance, > non-judgementalism, compassion for others, and gentleness. Looks as > though the three of you have a LONG way to go before you can even > pretend to be "Christians" to me.

I do work on it, Rick. None of us ever reaches perfection and all of us fail some way in each day. Maybe we're make-believe Christians like you are a make-believe Buddhist.

I come here for amateur radio policy discussion. I don't come here for discussions on marijuana smoking, the swinging lifestyle or legalized prostitution. I don't really care that the laws against these things somehow make you feel less free. At least I haven't told you to "shut the (expletive deleted) up!". Maybe I'm a closet libertarian.

Dave K8MN

2565. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:35:36 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4duo$6hh$0@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25562

Rick Adams wrote:
>
>
> Either it is strictly her business (as your statement makes > it clear that it is) or it is not.

When her choice negatively imnpacts the ARS that makes it MY business,
too.
I'm nor surprised you fail to notice that.

If it is, then what possible > justification do you, Dick, and Dave have for taking her to task for > her choice? If, on the other hand, it is NOT her choice, then it is > the FCC, not you, Dick, and Dave, that is responsible for affecting > that decision. In no case, however, is it the business of others to > tell her (beyond a single statement of personal opinion) to change her > call or that she is "damaging the ARS" by maintaining it.

Make no mistake, I never expected to change her mind, if she has one.
If she had sense enough to change her mind, she would never have chosen it in the first place.

2566. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:41:48 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C05BC90.62899026@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25563

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 06:16:40 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Right. You little "L" types demonstrate your freedom by attempting to > >stifle the views of another. Keep telling folks to shut up. It does > >wonders for your image.
>
> Dave, not only would it be perfectly acceptable to a > libertarian to tell someone to shut up--just not to _require_ them to > do so--but I have yet to see you produce a direct quotation where I > TOLD you to shut up.

You told Dick Carroll to shut up. You couldn't have forgotten already.

> I HAVE told you that you don't have the vaguest idea what > you're talking about when it comes to libertarianism, and that you > should use the words correctly--but if you interpret that to be the > equivalent of telling you to shut up, it must be because you CAN'T use > the words correctly, and it mean shutting up if you tried.

You're babbling and I can't understand your last clause. What was that about me not being able to use words correctly?

> >> The libertarian philosophy is integral to the US Constitution > >> and the Declaration of Independence. I guess both of THOSE are > >> impractical as well from your perspective, right?
> >
> >Are you now stating what you'd like me to say? My sentence works just > >fine on its own without the translation.
>
> Precisely WHERE did I provide you a quote to recite, Dave? You > really ARE quite good at misquoting people, aren't you? Must help a > lot in winning arguments when you get to provide the dialog for both > sides.

Gee, that'd be easy if you didn't once again snip the relevant portion--the part to which I responded. Do people who take your classes ever ask for their money back?

Dave K8MN

2567. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:46:22 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4eiu$88d$0@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25564

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 19:15:01 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Rick comes across like a '60s radical with a real job but unchanged > >political views.
>
> Thank you--that's the first half-way accurate portrayal of my > values I've seen you make.
>
> I _am_ a sixties radical--I was a freedom rider (and spent > time in Southern jails for my civil rights activities), a staunch > supporter of women's rights, gay rights, and human rights in general, > an antiwar activist and member of Vietnam Veterans against the War,
> the Vietnam Day Committee, and other such organizations, and I'm a > life long opponent of domestic violence, child abuse (I was a severely > abused child personally, and left home on my 13th birthday to avoid > further broken bones and burns--I've lived on my own ever since), and > censorship.
>
> If you find those offensive "credentials"

What I find is that you are just as full of bullshit as Cecil, and that, Sir is a real load. Never thought it possible but you may be even more loaded than Cecil.
Maybe all your "credentials" are truth. maybe not. I find you to be the poster boy for all that is wrong with higher education, a phenomena that I found well begun when I was a college student in the late 60's and early 70's. You will have it your way, just as soon as you can figure out just what way that is, and for damn sure it will be contrary to convention and all that is good and tried and true, real, and valuable to society of free,preogerssive individuals. You freaks would instill and install every craven, aberrant, undesirable and destructive behavior and vice imaginable under the banner of "personal freedom" with total disregard for any hint of personal responsibility. In short, you suck and are sick.

2568. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:46:45 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C05BDB5.3FDB7EAC@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25565

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Makes nice press and for nominally better relations with Christians, > which they surely need. But skips the main point- Muslims believe that > Mohammed was the last and true prophet. He trumps Jesus in every > possible point.

Of course, if he didn't trump Jesus then there wouldn't be any need for a Muslim religion, now would there?

> Nope. Mohammed himself believed that the adoration shown to Mary was > indicative of worhip of her as a deity, thus showing a polytheism that > he believed to be the equivalent of earlier multiple idolitry practiced > by arabs before Mohammed's own vision, prior to his becoming the > prophet. Thus he rejected Jesus on principle.

He rejected Jesus as part of the Christian Trinity, a polytheist concept. He accepted Jesus as a great prophet of Allah/Yahweh/Jehovah, a monotheist concept. Muslims reject the concept of a Trinity, which is a 4th century Roman invention. Those who put Jesus before Yahweh may indeed be breaking the First Commandment.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2569. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:51:38 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C05BEDA.BCFAAD05@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25566

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> Krell wrote:
> > It's only vulgar if you allow it to be so.
>
> Kindly inform us as to how to prevent it, when ladies or children are > present who instinctively view it as such.

"Instinctively"? Shirley, you jest. A word represents a concept, about as far from an instinct as can be. There are no instinctive reactions to words or else they would react instinctively to the Russian word for "tits". Any reaction to a word is a conceptual reaction and fully under the control of the person hearing the word. Whether the person chooses to exercise the control or not is the problem area.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2570. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:53:52 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C05BF60.FCF246DE@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25567

Dick Carroll wrote:
> I made my comment, and that would have been the end of it
> if not for verbal assaaults by you and Cecil.

This from the person who invariably initiates the ad hominem attacks.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2571. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:55:36 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C05BFC8.8724F1B9@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25569

Dick Carroll wrote:
> What I intend to do is be careful, and as national authorities have > continuously suggested, if I see something that appears amiss I'll call > the cops.

How does that fit with your assertion that all Muslims are potential terrorists because they believe in the Koran?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2572. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:57:07 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4f73$a8q$0@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25568

CAM wrote:
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote:
> > > Did you know that in olden (more enlightened) days tit was NOT considered > > > a vulgar word? It's true... ;-)
> >
> > It isn't today either, except for less enlightened persons :^ !!!!!
>
> You've got to realize what the dictionary means when it says a word is > vulgar. From Webster's: "vulgar - of or relating to the common people"
> Seems to me it is the elite holier-than-thou class that has the problem.
> I don't mind being in a group of common people, do you Kim? Common > people have a lot more fun than the stuffed shirt elite extra class. :-)

There you go, screwing up again. I am one who said her callsign is vulgar, while you said it was not, so I get to choose the definition to my use of the word.

From Funk and Wagnall's Standard College Dictionary:

vulgar, (adj). 1. Lacking in refinement, good taste, sensitivity, etc;
Coarse; crude; boorish; also, obscene; indecent.

Now you have the proper definition of Kim's W5TIT callsign.

2573. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 04:59:04 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C05C098.A39A63B4@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25570

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
>
> > Does Kim have a right to choose a flavor of ice cream that you dislike?
>
> Sure. She can even rename it Tits if she wants. Doesn't mean it's > appropriate.

Kim, now you have to ask Dick's permission to eat ice cream or you risk being inappropriate. How's that for delusions of grandeur?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2574. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 05:00:57 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C05C0E9.C0876360@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25571

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On 28 Nov 2001 10:23:20 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
> wrote:
>
> >The FCC is not in the business of making value judgments on the > >callsigns people select for themselves. Being a government agency, > >they are legally constrained against doing so. An individual amateur's > >Vanity call sign is strictly their choice; and the negative effect it has
> >on their image, and the image of the ARS, is strictly their > >responsibility. Mr. Hollingsworth was very clear on that point.
>
> I have no problem with that at all.
>
> What I DO have a problem with is people who claim to believe > the above view, yet insist on making Kim's call sign THEIR business as > well as her's.

That's funny. I could swear that you were the guy who said that it is acceptable under the libertarian philosophy for you to tell me to "shut the (expletive deleted) up!). You said it is a right. You told me that you just couldn't force me to shut up. If I use your own philosophy to say that Kim's choice of calls is tacky--let's even say that I choose to reiterate that statement every day--you "DO find a problem" with that. That's a first class, championship double standard on your part.

> Either it is strictly her business (as your statement makes > it clear that it is) or it is not. If it is, then what possible > justification do you, Dick, and Dave have for taking her to task for > her choice? If, on the other hand, it is NOT her choice, then it is > the FCC, not you, Dick, and Dave, that is responsible for affecting > that decision. In no case, however, is it the business of others to > tell her (beyond a single statement of personal opinion) to change her > call or that she is "damaging the ARS" by maintaining it. In > particular, Dick's insistence that this thread will continue until she > changes her call is a direct contradiction of the spirit and the > content of your own statement above--it simply replaces FCC authority > with blackmail.

Are you really accusing Dick Carroll of blackmail?

> It's time for people to step back and drop the subject for > good. You, Dick, and Dave don't care for her call sign and feel it is > harmful to the image of the ARS. Fine. You have the right to feel that > way if you choose. Others of us, including myself, Cecil, and many > others feel the opposite, and we have just as much right to our view > as you have to yours. Neither you nor we, however, have the slightest > right to expect Kim to accept--or even care about--our personal views > on the subject. It's her call sign. She decided she wanted it and if > and when she no longer does want it, she will be the one to decide to > change it again. Slamming her or pressuring her here in this news > group accomplishes absolutely nothing for anyone, and creates an even > worse image of tolerance among hams than the discussions in rram!

It is simply impossible for this discussion to create a worse image than what goes on in r.r.a.m.

> >Obviously we, as her fellow hams, are in disagreement on this > >issue. In fact, the majority would seem to support Kim. That, > >however, will not make the debate come to an end. The only > >thing that will stop it is for Kim to change her callsign to one > >which no longer offends, or you can figure out some way to > >silence your opposition.
>
> In other words, you, Dick, Dave, and the very few others who > oppose her sign (you admit yourself that the majority of hams support > her), will simply hound and harass her until you force her to obey > your orders!

Don't jump to conclusions you silly boy. I have never stated that I intend to force Kim to do anything. Get your ducks in a row and don't start generalizing by lumping people together in clumps. I don't speak for Larry Roll or Dick Carroll. They do not speak for me. By the way, I don't recall issuing any orders to Kim. I certainly disagree with Larry on one point; I don't think the majority of hams support Kim's tacky choice at all.

> Talk about a group of smug, self-righteous, fascists! It's > people like YOU who give a bad name to ham radio, you hypocrite, not > decent people like Kim.

You'd have us change our views? Now THAT would be hypocritical!
I like the way in which you'd portray those who are offended by trashiness as "smug, self-righteous fascists". Remember Rick:
According to your philosophy, I have the right to state my views.

Dave K8MN

2575. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 05:03:17 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011129000317.22754.00000811@nso-cs.aol.com>
Source record: 25572

In article <3A9E9F89D6731966.C86B3D6FCC3DBEC6.468B50D3F5B0566A@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 28 Nov 2001 12:11:23 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
>>>Technically, the US Congress could do exactly the same >>>thing to our system anytime they chose to do so, provided they could >>>garner sufficient votes, as the Nazis did.
>>
>>Yup. My point is that the Constitution is not an absolute protection, as >Cecil
>>seems to think.
>
> On the contrary--the ability to amend the Constitution is >itself GOVERNED by the Constitution.
>
How is this "on the contrary"? The Consitution is designed to be changeable. Is there any limit on the possible changes if enough votes are gathered? I don't think so.

For example, if there were enough votes, the Second Amendment could be repealed, and the legal rights of Americans to keep and bear arms totally eliminated. Or a new amendment could specifically define when life begins and ends. All it takes is enough votes.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2576. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 05:03:17 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011129000317.22754.00000810@nso-cs.aol.com>
Source record: 25573

To keep post size manageable, and for time reasons, I'm responding to this part of KE8HH's post. A response to the rest will follow if time permits. This portion demonstrates a key point in the discussion.

In article <9ADEEC8131962182.DD0E0ACB6A2E015F.135A51351943F6B4@lp.airnews.net>, Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

(The discussion involved the effect the appearance of A's property could have on next-door neighbor B's property value). The hypothetical case:

Suppose A lets his property become a real mess. Grass isn't cut, paint is peeling, junk in the yard, etc. Nothing that is a clear health or safety hazard but the place looks awful. B, who lives right next door, wants to sell his house and move away because B doesn't like living next to such a dump. But B cannot find a buyer because of the condition of A's place. Has A harmed B? Who gets to decide? If the decision is yes, how much harm has occurred and what is the remedy?

>
>>> It is clear that A has harmed B.
>>
>>Agreed.
>>
>>>Through his direct and >>>deliberate violation of reasonably expected standards in a residential >>>community he has caused B to suffer an economic loss.
>>
>>"Reasonably expected standards" simply means society's values. In a >different >>residential community, A's actions might have no effect at all.
>
> Nope--it refers directly to the average behavior demonstrated >by a resident of that community.

That's what I'm saying. The values of the local society (the people who live in that neighborhood, and those who want to live there) as demonstrated by how they keep THEIR properties. These values/behaviors are totally subjective, yet they determine whether A has harmed B.

> More specifically, it refers to >behavior that does not affect the property values or enjoyment of >other residents.
>
As determined by the subjective values of those other than the owner of the property.

>>So what we have is SOCIETY deciding what the values are. Not the individuals >>involved!
>
> Not at all. The housing market decides in this case.

And who is "the housing market"? People other than the property owner! People whose personal, subjective values determine what someone else's property is worth.

In some neighborhoods, not cutting the grass and such will have a negative effect on nearby property values, because the local society expects that people will maintain their properties a certain way. In other neighborhoods, it will have no effect because in those communities the local society has different expectations.

>If the >actions of the neighbor do NOT reduce the value of the home or >directly reduce the enjoyment and use of the property owned by >neighbors (by directly, I mean that simply _knowing_ what a person >does inside his/her home--that s/he is a practicing homosexual for >example--and being personally offended by that kind of activity does >NOT mean an individual is harmed by it), he or she has NOT harmed
>anyone, regardless of the opinion of "society."

Which are all totally subjective judgements.

>>>B, in any such >>>circumstances, could sell his house--however he would be forced to >>>accept a price below that which he would have realized had the >>>neighboring home not reduced his property value.
>>
>>In some markets, a house next to such a property becomes unsellable. This is >>how blighted areas are created from nice neighborhoods.
>
> Which, of course, would make the damages in B's case equal to >the normal market value of his home if A's home was not a >consideration.

Yes.
>
>>>Thus, the amount of >>>the loss (the harm suffered by B) is the amount of reduction in price >>>between a fair market value, given expected neighborhood values, and >>>the actual realized offering price.
>>
>>Plus consideration for B's time and aggravation in having to deal with it, >>legal fees, excess RE taxes, etc.
>
> Within reason, yes.

"within reason" being a subjective quantity.

>>> The remedy, obviously, is a legal >>>action against A compelling him to either repair his property and thus >>>restore B's property values or to compensate B for the difference in >>>selling prices resulting from his actions. As far as who gets to >>>decide, in such a case, clearly the decision would be made by a judge.

>>
>>And all this is OK with you and your moral ideas?
>
> Absolutely.

Now let's see what we've got so far.

You agree that A can harm B by not maintaining A's property to the standards typically found in the community where A's and B's property are located. This harm is present even if A breaks no law and does not pose any sort of safety hazard to B. The mere fact that other people judge B's property to be worth less, or that B's enjoyment of his property is reduced by A's action, constitutes A harming B.

> My moral values do NOT support causing others harm w/o their >permission. They simply insist that if no one is harmed it isn't any >of society's business. In the case above, a clear victim (B) exists >and real, identifiable, harm has occurred.

Yup - even though NO law has been violated and the harm is totally derived from people's personal values, NOT the state's.
>
>>> BTW, consider this. Obviously, you view A as having harmed B
>>>(a view I agree with), and felt that way when you wrote this example.
>>
>>That was part of it, but there's a lot more. For example, did the harm occur >>when A let his property run down, or only when B tried to sell?
>
> That depends on whether it reduced B's enjoyment of his >property. If it did not, then the harm didn't occur until the sale was >attempted (for example, if A offered to purchase B's property for fair >market value as soon as it was made available, A would NEVER have >harmed B). If, however, B's enjoyment of his property was reduced >directly by A's actions, clearly the harm began at that moment, not >the moment of sale.
>
Agreed. One can also include such considerations as the amount of time and effort B needs to expend to sell, or that B may be dissuaded from even trying to sell because of A's property's condition.

So what we have is this: A can harm B by not maintaining A's property to the standards typically found in the community where A's and B's are located. This harm is present even if A breaks no law and does not pose any sort of safety hazard to B. The mere fact that other people judge B's property to be worth less, or that B's enjoyment of his property is reduced by A's action, constitutes A harming B.

And the standards by which A's property maintenance is judged are those of the neighborhood and local real estate market, which are totally subjective and personal. The fact that A's property maintenance would be considered customary and adequate in a different community has no bearing on the issue.

>>>Let's change it a bit. Suppose instead of failing to maintain his >>>property, A is a ham radio operator who chooses to put up an antenna >>>farm that, because it distracts from the visual appearance of the >>>neighborhood, results in the same difficulty in selling for B. Is the >>>situation the same or different? Why?
>>
>>It's the same. But studies have shown that putting up antennas does NOT >>negatively impact property values unless said antennas are poorly >maintained.
>
> How about enjoyment of the property?

Same thing. In addition, if A is prevented from enjoying HIS property because of antenna limitations, a counter-claim exists.
>
> Suppose I'm a non-ham living next door to you and I feel your >antenna farm is unsightly and detracts from my view of the >mountains/lake/ocean/cess pool beyond your property. I cannot escape >the view of your antennas because they dominate the only scenic side >of my yard.

Same rules apply as if I were to put up a fence or plant trees or bushes that blocked your view.

> Have you harmed me? From my perspective, that WOULD constitute >harm, as the property owner lost some measure of enjoyment in his >property as a direct result of your actions.

Only if it can be shown that YOUR view of things beyond MY property is somehow superior to my enjoyment of my property.

What if I out up a fence or plant a bush that blocks your view?

>Do you agree?

See above. It depends on the situation.
>
>>> The answer to the first part is above. With respect to the >>>second part, C has NO legitimate grounds to demand that A fix up the >>>property (although he is certainly free to ask him to do so and to try >>>to convince him that it would benefit him as well). C purchased the >>>property at a price consistent with being next door to a property in >>>the condition of A's--thus he is NOT harmed by A's actions in any way >>>(assuming A doesn't allow his property to deteriorate even further, >>>thus reducing C's property value further, and placing him in the same >>>position B was in originally).
>>
>>I disagree. Such action permits neighborhoods to decline.
>
> Only if others follow suit.

Which is made more likely by A's actions.

>The mere fact that a single >homeowner (who, remember, has already lost money in a court action >brought by "B" and who stands to lose an equivalent amount if any >other neighbor loses money on the sale of his or her property) has >allowed his personal property to deteriorate does not mean any other >property owner will do the same. One run-down property does NOT make >for a declining neighborhood.

Wrong on several counts.

For one thing, in many cases A does not have just one immediate neighbor. It is quite common to have 8 immediate neighbors, all of whom could be affected by one poorly maintained property. So we can easily have not 1 or 2 but 9 properties whose value is reduced, all by the actions of ONE property owner. In addition, B must take legal action against A, and win. Unless this happnes, A sets a precedent for the neighborhood.

Neighborhoods and property values rise and fall on their reputations. Properties that are not maintained to community standards harm the reputation of the neighborhood. ("That used to be a nice neighborhood, but did you see the rundown place in the middle of the block and all those for-sale signs? I checked realtor.com and they are asking less than those houses sold for 10 years ago!")

But the main point is simple: A can harm B (and others) by not doing things like yard maintenance according to prevailing local community standards, even though A breaks no law nor directly poses a safety or health hazard. All A has to do is reduce B's enjoyment.

Now let's apply this to ham radio callsigns.

Suppose Z, a radio amateur, chooses a callsign that reduces the enjoyment other hams (X, Y, et al) get from amateur radio, and damages the reputation of the ARS. Even though Z's choice of callsign is legal it's clear that X, Y and others have been harmed by Z's choice, which was not up to community standards.

Saying that Z's callsign choice cannot harm anyone is like saying that A's nonmaintenace of his property cannot harm anyone. The real-estate example shows that the situation is more complicated than that.

73 de Jim, N2EY

2577. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 05:06:07 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C05C23F.A958378@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25574

Rick Adams wrote:
> True. Dogs are usually pretty loyal and accepting (and I'm a > cat person!).

Did you hear the difference between dogs and cats? A dog looks at his master and thinks: "This man fulfills all my needs - he must be a god".
A cat looks at her master and thinks: "This man fulfills all my needs -
I must be a god."
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2578. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 05:06:55 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C05C26F.9EF3CC10@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25575

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > Ah...Plourde, do you see anywhere that I said it was trivial?
> >
> > You certainly implied it. Maybe you should be more careful > > with your words, Dick. Everyone seems to be misunderstanding > > what you are trying to say.
>
> And when I "interpret" something you say, you slam me for reading > between the lines. Your usual double standard, we see.

Trouble is, you read between the lines and then call me an asshole.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

2579. Re: "....one step closer to extinction"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 05:08:53 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C05C2E5.3F57A2C8@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25576

Dick Carroll wrote:
> I'm not even badmouthing Muslims, you imbecile, ...

Give us an ever-lovin' break, Dick. You have been bad mouthing Muslims for the better part of a week. If what you have been saying is not bad mouthing, I shudder to think what would be.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2580. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 05:12:54 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <38B58611A2D69B15.0982C9C6BC7FF3C5.AA540E797779DD68@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25577

On 29 Nov 2001 04:01:25 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> After all the repartee here with you, Cecil, Kim and Poodle Plourge I >surely can.

Now Dick,

You know you love this kind of feisty debate--if everyone agreed with you--you'd leave this newsgroup in disgust!

Hmmmm . . .

Come to think of it, if everyone agreed with you--I'd leave this newsgroup in disgust!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2581. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 05:17:11 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <9u4gcndod0@208.206.142.101>
Source record: 25578

Rick Adams wrote:
>

>Trimmed for brevity<

> If THIS is the worst "threat" you can find in the Koran, you > should be very glad the people you are terrified of don't use the > bible instead. It has FAR more violent threats (as in the complete > destruction of whole peoples for daring not to accept the god of the > Israelites as their own) than anything you've posted by an order of > magnitude!

Somehow you and Cecil profess to "not get it" but I'm sure you do. I've made the point repeatedly. All those biblical "threats" are very ancient and have nothing whatever to do with modern Christian theology, theory nor particularly practice. Nowhere do you see Christians determined to kill all non-Christians, whatever history says about the Crusades, and ancient Jewish teachings aside. Islam is definitely the religion of the Islamic Jihad Terrorists, the true numbers of which we can only guess, but we KNOW that there are many, and that a considerable number have infiltrated our societey within the USA. You may ignore all this as you wish, but don't decieve yourself - if you happen to be in circumstances where you are a part of a targeted entity, you die too, regardless of your support to their cause. They don't hesitate to kill their own kind in their zeal, it's considered a small necessary cost. You would give them no pause whateveer.

>
> > It is clear enough that the roots of violence come from the Koran > >itself, for those believers who would interpret it that way, and for all > >the masses they influence. If your mileage varies, that's your deficit.
> >For me, Sept 11 was proof enough.
>
> Dick, those quotes prove nothing other than that Islam > believes those who do not accept Allah as god and Mu hammed as his > Prophet will be punished in the afterlife--EXACTLY the same thing
> Christians believe about Jesus and THEIR god!

WRONG. Current and widesspread radical Islamic preachings of Holy War, Jihad against the Infidel West, widely reported in press of all political stripe, and harshly confirmed on September 11, give the lie to your totally erroneous conclusion. It is simply not so. The Jihad is on, and ongoing, without end, to a conclusion. Either they win or they fight till they die. Whatever damage and destruction they wreak in the process will be the maximum that they CAN wreak.

And NO, certainly not all Muslims are involved, just as not all Colonists were involved in the Revolutionary War. But perhaps just enough, as then.

>
> You need to stop seeing Islamic people with hate and prejudice
> and see them as they really are--an ancient people who have > contributed enormously to our civilization, science, and arts.
>
> Rick
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2582. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 05:18:04 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C05C50C.42496CB9@IEEE.org>
Source record: 25581

Dave Heil wrote:
> I come here for amateur radio policy discussion. I don't come here for > discussions on marijuana smoking, the swinging lifestyle or legalized > prostitution.

Then why do you spend so much of your time posting on those subjects?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

2583. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 05:18:21 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <0B6816C2D518DCC6.BA046ACE5B4756C0.A96E109ADAF34A37@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 25580

On 29 Nov 2001 04:10:30 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote:

> Kindly inform us as to how to prevent it, when ladies or children are >present who instinctively view it as such.

Response to language isn't instinctive, Dick. It's learned.
And whether a person learns that such terms are offensive or not depends on the environment in which the learning takes place. If they are exposed to an environment in which freedom of speech is considered an essential freedom, they will NEVER learn to treat ordinary words as offensive. But if the environment emphasizes protectionism and censorship, they definitely will.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

2584. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-11-29 05:18:49 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C05C52D.4F4BFBDF@earthlink.net>
Source record: 25579

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Wed, 28 Nov 2001 06:22:35 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> wrote:
>
> >...and I just pointed out several opportunities for glaring errors in > >your theory.
>
> Opinions, Dave. Not statements of fact. You provide NO source > to contradict me other than your own personal views.

T h e d a t a d o e s n o t s a y w h a t y o u s a y

i t s t a t e s. It doesn't even need an alternate source of data.
All it takes is for one to read your claims, read the data you yourself provided and compare the two.

> >As I recall, I recently poked holes in some of the > >information you provided.
>
> No, actually, you didn't.
>
> >Some was from suspect sources with an agenda
> >(NORML).
>
> Which I balanced with information from an opposing source with
> the opposite agenda--the DEA.

You balanced? The figures don't state what you say they state. That's a pretty easy refutation of your "evidence".

> NORML is a legitimate source of information, Dave. You may not > agree with their conclusions, but their facts and figures are > completely accurate, as even the DEA would agree.

Where does the DEA agree with NORML's facts and figures?

> > One was from a book which provided figures but not figures > >stating what you claimed.
>
> Bunk.

Not bunk at all, Rick. The text does not state how many people incarcerated are currently there on drug charges. It does not state how many are there for simple marijuana possession. It does not state how many are there for drug sales. It isn't very relative to your claims at all.

> > Your latest stuff doesn't even sound like > >evidence at all.
>
> To you.

...or to anyone who reads the material you provide as "evidence".

> Again, when you start providing more solid grounds for your > arguments than your personal opinion, you might have legitimacy in > questioning the sources others use to debate you. As it is right now, > it's you against the range of sources I cited--and that doesn't make > your position look very defensible.

Do me the kindness of reading the material you posted. Then ask yourself if you can honestly claim that it says what you have said that it says (not part of the material--ALL of the material).

> > Besides, most of this latest stuff is simply diversion > >from the debate over whether Kim's choice of call was a poor one. At > >least that had something to do with amateur radio.
>
